Q. Do you remember specifically what incident brings that meeting to mind?

A. It is hard for me to identify those meetings by the dates, because there were so many meetings along about that period of time.

Q. Did you at any of the meetings that you attended on the second floor of the plant take any notes?

A. I took the minutes of one meeting.

Q. How were you notified that that meeting at which you took the minutes was to be held?

A. I think Miss Marjorie Green came to my desk and asked me if I could help her take the minutes of the meeting.

Q. Did you know at that time whether or not Marjorie Green held any office in the Donnelly Garment of Workers' Union?

[fol. 1608] A. I believe she was secretary of the union.

Q. And pursuant to Miss Green's request or suggestion did you go to the second floor of the plant that afternoon?

A. I did.

Q. When you arrived at the second floor of the plant were there any persons in there?

A. Yes.

Q. About how many?

A. Well, the employees were gathering there for the meeting.

Q. The meeting had or had not started when you arrived there?

A. It had not.

Q. Did you take in shorthand the events that happened at that meeting?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you remain there during the entire course of the meeting? A. Yes.

Q. Where did you sit during the meeting?

A. I sat at a table just below the speakers' table, where there was a microphone.

[fol. 1609] Q. After that meeting had concluded did you transcribe the notes you had taken? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Where did you transcribe them?

A. I took them to my desk on the tenth floor.

Q. Do you remember whether you transcribed them on the same day or not?

A. Yes, I did it immediately afterwards.

Q. Then, when you had transcribed your notes, what did you do with the original copy?

A. I gave it to Miss Green.

Q. Where was she when you gave it to her?

A. On the same floor.

Q. Do you remember whether or not you gave it to her that same day or the next day?

A. It was either that day or early the next morning.

Q. Did you make any more than the original?

A. I made one copy.

Q. Did you make the original on the paper of the company? A. Yes.

Q. What color was that paper?

A. White, I think.

Q. And did you make the carbon on the paper of the company?

A. Yes.

Q. And what color was that?

[fol. 1610] A. Yellow.

Q. Were those the ordinary papers that you used in your stenographic work?

A. Yes.

Q. For the company?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. I show you what has been marked as Board's Exhibit 18, Mrs. Greenhaw, and ask you to state briefly what that is.

A. This is a copy of the minutes of the meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union on May 25, 1937.

Q. Now, is that the yellow copy that you referred to?

A. Yes.
Q. As having made, just a few moments ago?
A. It is.

Mr. Leary: Now, I ask, Mr. Examiner, in view of the fact that this consists of ten pages, that it be marked 18-1, 2, 3, and so forth.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I would prefer it if you will make it 18-A, B, C, and so forth.

Mr. Leary: That is satisfactory to me.

(Thereupon, the documents above referred to were marked as "Board's Exhibits Nos. 18-A to 18-J, inclusive," for identification.)

By Mr. Leary:
Q. When you stated to me, Mrs. Greenhaw, briefly [fol. 1611] what this document was, did you not read from the heading of the document on the first page?
A. Yes, but I was speaking of personal knowledge, also.
Q. Now, do you know whether this document contains anything other than the minutes of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union for that day?
A. Yes, it contains the minutes of the Loyalty League meeting.

* * * * * *

Mr. Leary: Do you know, Mrs. Greenhaw, whether or not the meetings of these two organizations, the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and the Loyalty League followed each other at that time without any interruption?

A. Yes, they did.

Mr. Leary: The Board offers its Exhibit 18-A to 18-J.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1613] Trial Examiner Batten: Are the attorneys yet in a position to offer their objections, if any, to Board's exhibit No. 18?

Mr Ingraham: I object to the introduction of Board's exhibit 18 for the reason that it purports to be a copy of some minutes, and the original would be the best evidence.

Mr. Langsdale: Of course, they have produced what they say is the original, and these minutes that we have had photostated I told the Examiner we proposed to show they "doctored" those minutes, and now we have what she says is a carbon copy of the minutes she turned over to Marjorie Green, and Marjorie Green produces what she says is the original.

Mr. Lane: Intervener objects to it on the ground that it is not identified.

Mr. Leary: In what particular?

Mr. Lane: It purports to be some copy of an original instrument which is supposed to be in existence.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will be received.

(Thereupon the document previously marked, as above set out, "Board's Exhibit No. 18," was received in evidence.)

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Mrs. Greenhaw, during the tenure of your employment with the Donnelly Garment Company did you have occasion to see incoming mail or documents?

A. I believe all of the incoming mail was—May I change that?

[fol. 1614] Q. Yes.

A. I saw mail that came in with reference to orders and various things.

Q. Do you know whether or not a time stamp was used upon the incoming mail?

A. I think every piece of incoming mail was marked with the time—had a time stamp on it.

Q. During the time you were employed there did you become familiar with that time stamp?

A. I believe so.

Q. I show you intervener's exhibit No. 11 and direct your attention to the bottom center of the document and ask whether or not you note anything on there with reference to a time stamp.

A. That is the time stamp.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1615] Q. During the tenure of your employment with the company did you come to know a person named Marvin Price? A. Yes, I knew him.

Q. On what floor was your office located, or your desk?

A. My desk was on the tenth floor.

Q. Was it on the tenth floor during all of the time you were employed by the company? A. Yes.

Q. Did Marvin Price have a desk on the tenth floor?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know what Mr. Marvin Price's work was?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you please state what it was?

A. I think he was called custodian, and I believe he [fol. 1616] was in charge of the ordering of materials of all sorts for that building.

Mr. Ingraham: I move that the answer be stricken out as a conclusion of the witness.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may stand.

Mr. Leary: And when you say "materials for the building" do you distinguish in your answer from other materials that are ordered in the operation of the business?

A. Yes. He had no connection with the ordering of piece goods and that sort of thing.

* * * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Do you know who it was that ordered the piece goods?

A. That was done by another department. I don't recall the name of the department, but Mrs. Reeves was the head of it.

Q. Do you know how many persons were in the department under Mr. Marvin Price?

A. I don't believe anyone was.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1624] Q. Did you have occasion to talk with Mr. Green some time in March or April, 1937?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember any particular conversation that you had with him?

A. We had a short discussion of the strike that was being held at Gordon's at that time.

. . . . . .

Mr. Leary: What, if anything, was said by Mr. Green at [fol. 1625] that time with regard to the strike at Gordon's?

A. Well, I merely said something about the strike. He said he would advise me not to go near there because it was dangerous, that the Union people had weapons of various kinds on them and were injuring anyone who came near, and the whole thing was being run by communists.

Trial Examiner Batten: Who is Mr. Green?

A. He was vice-president of the company.

Mr. Leary: Do you remember now what, if anything else, Mr. Green said on that occasion?

A. He said that some of the girls with the union had razor blades fastened in the soles of their shoes, and during the fight different people were badly cut on the legs and hurt in other ways.

[fol. 1626] Trial Examiner Batten: Isn't that a matter that I asked for an offer of proof on? This, it seems to me, is included in the matter I asked for the offer of proof on.

Mr. Leary: I don't believe this is in that matter.

Trial Examiner Batten: Where else would you put it? It is under (H), isn't it, in the allegations of your complaint?

Mr. Langsdale: (H) with reference to rumors? This is not a rumor. This is a direct statement.

Trial Examiner Batten: Where else would it come under this complaint, is what I want to know.

Mr. Leary: I might say, it seems to me it brings up the very same thing that I, I think, stopped Mr. Lane on the other day, or Mr. Tyler, or Mr. Patten, on this question of what occurred at these other places, and opening up that matter. I think that was the time I said I wanted an offer of proof on this entire thing.

Was that you, Mr. Lane?

Mr. Lane: Yes, sir.

Trial Examiner Batten: What is the distinction between this and the other matter?

Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, respondent is perfectly willing—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): Now, just a minute, until I get my question answered.

Mr. Leary, what is the difference between this and the [fol. 1627] matter I stopped Mr. Lane on the other day—I mean, rather, asked for an offer of proof on?

Mr. Leary: Just a minute. Let me consider it for a minute, will you?

Trial Examiner Batten: We will recess until 20 minutes of 12.

(Thereupon a short recess was taken.)

Trial Examiner Batten: We will proceed.

Mr. Leary: Mr. Examiner, with reference to the witness' answer as to what Mr. Alex Green said to her, I do believe that that portion of her answer with regard to what was happening at the Gernes or Gordon strikes in 1937 is without the issues. I do believe, however, that that portion of the answer regarding the use of the word "communist" by Mr. Green is not without the issue. I believes that it can be considered, under subsection (s) paragraph 11.

Trial Examiner Batten: I am going to strike it, and you may submit it in an offer of proof.

Mr. Leary: In the event the Examiner does not consider the portion of the answer regarding the use of the word "communist", referring to the union, I desire at this time to move to amend the complaint by inserting a subsection in paragraph 11 of the complaint to be known as subsection (g-1), to read as follows:

". . . statement of Alex Green in March, 1937, to Mrs. [fol. 1628] Elsa Graham Greenhaw regarding the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union."

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Leary, my objection to it is that the entire matter comes under the matter which I requested an offer of proof upon. It is not an objection that it may or may not be included in the complaint. I do not see how you can say that does not come within the purview of my request for an offer of proof.

Mr. Leary: I agree with you, Mr. Examiner, as far as the statement of Mr. Green to Mrs. Greenhaw with regard to what the union was doing at Gernes and Gordon plants is concerned, but I do think his statement that the union was run by communists certainly can be a part of the subsection (s) of paragraph 11.

Now, I understood you didn't consider it to be such, and therefore I moved to amend the complaint merely for the purpose of covering the statement that the union was being run by communists.

Trial Examiner Batten: What have you to say, Mr. Ingraham, about this amendment?

Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, if Mr. Leary amends in such manner, of course respondent intends to prove that the activities of the union at these other strikes would be proof of the communistic domination of the union.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, let me ask you [fol. 1629] this question: Does it make any difference whether the statement that they are communists is true or untrue? Just the fact that the statement is made— Supposing you were to show that it is true, would it make any difference at all, as far as the Wagner Act is concerned?

Mr. Ingraham: I don't think it would, but evidently Mr. Leary seems to think that that is a statement that could be construed as showing discrimination against the International.

Trial Examiner Batten: I mean, do you agree with me this far, Mr. Ingraham, that a statement which we will say a recognized official would make—it wouldn't make any difference whether the statement were true or untrue if the statement in itself were such that it would intimidate or coerce; then it isn't in issue, is it, as to whether it is true or untrue?

Mr. Ingraham: I think very much so. I think if the statement is made and there is any challenge to it respondent would have a right to show it is true.

Trial Examiner Batten: Supposing you prove it is true, would it make any difference as far as the statement is concerned?

Mr. Ingraham: I think, then, the Board could not take the position that we were making statements that were discriminatory and that, in fact, by making them we were trying to influence the employees by falsely accusing the International.

[fol. 1630] Trial Examiner Batten: There is no allegation in here, is there, that you falsely did it?

Mr. Ingraham: No, but if the Board includes that in their complaint and considers that a statement of that character amounts to an unfair labor practice on the part of the respondent, I certainly think the respondent has a right to show that the statement is true.

Trial Examiner Batten: On what basis, if it doesn't make any difference in the final analysis?

Mr. Ingraham: If it doesn't amount to anything, then I don't think it should be in the complaint.

Trial Examiner Batten: I mean, if it doesn't make any difference whether it is true or untrue. The only question is, did Mr. Green say a certain thing? Does that raise the issue as to whether or not the statement was correct? Supposing Mr. Green had said, "I don't want any of you people to join the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union." You wouldn't think that would open up the entire question, would you, as to the advisability of joining the union?

Mr. Ingraham: I think Your Honor's comparison is not a very good comparison, but—

Trial Examiner Batten: Perhaps not.

Mr. Ingraham (Continuing). I think if the Board includes any statement of this character as a showing of discrimination of unfair labor practice, that then we have [fol. 1631] the right to show that the statement is true.

Now, I think, certainly, if we would make a false statement and it wasn't true the Board could use that against us, that it was a statement that was without foundation, and then they could put it in their complaint that we were making the statement for the purpose of influencing the employees. But, if it is the position of the Board that this statement is material as to show an unfair labor practice, then I certainly think we have the right to offer evidence on it.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Patten, what is your view on this?

Mr. Patten: As I understand it, the purpose for which the Board now pleads it or desires to show it in evidence is to show the possible effect upon the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company, and in order to show what that effect is you have to show what the meaning of the word is.

The popular conception of the word is different from its technical conception, but there is a definite meaning. To get at that meaning, and what effect it would have upon the minds of the employees, we have to go into whether it is true or untrue, and what that meaning is. If we go into it at all we have to go all of the way, to determine the full meaning of the word.

Trial Examiner Batten: Let me ask you the same question I asked Mr. Ingraham. Supposing the Board were to [fol. 1632] admit that it is true, what difference does it make with respect to this proceeding?

Mr. Patten: From the standpoint of the intervening union, what was happening at those other plants—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): I am not talking about that. I am talking about the one word now, and the one amendment.

I say, supposing it were true that all of these people were communists and you had to be a communist before you could join the union, what difference would it make if an official of this company said to one of its employees, "Stay away from that outfit. They are a bunch of communists." What would be the result if you proved they are communists, as to the officer making the statement to an employee?

[fol. 1633] Mr. Patten: Well, if it were true that they were communists, then the statement to the employee would not be taking any unfair advantage of the employee or unduly coercing the employee; simply stating the truth.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, might not an employer even state the truth to an employee and yet interfere with their rights to self-determination in the union they selected. It isn't a question, is it, whether they tell the truth or untruth. It is what they say, and the circumstances under which they say it, isn't it?

Mr. Patten: What they say, what we are trying to get at, offering what they say is to get at what effect what they say would have upon the hearer, what probable effect. To get at the probable effect you have got to show what the probable meaning of that word is on the hearer's mind, and then we have got to show whether or not the hearer would believe that the statement was true or not true, in accordance with the meaning that the words could note on the hearer's mind.

Cross-Examination.

[fol. 1636] By Mr. Langsdale: Mrs. Greenhaw, how long did you live in Kansas City? A. About 8 years.

Q. And during about a year and a half of that time you were employed by the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you state this morning where you were employed before going to the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Will you now state?

A. I was employed by the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Company.

Q. And where was their office?

A. In Kansas City, Kansas.

Q. In what capacity?

A. As secretary to the president.

[fol. 1637] Q. How long were you employed by that company? A. About three years.

Q. Who was the president of the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Company? A. Mr. B. Frank Bushman.

Q. Was there anyone who was later connected with the Donnelly Garment Company who was connected with the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Company during the period that you worked there?

A. Yes. Shortly before I left the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Company, Mr. Bushman died, and Mr. Green became president.

Q. And what Mr. Green? A. Mr. Alex C. Green.

Q. Is that the same Mr. Green who was vice-president of the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes.

Q. While you were there? A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Green have anything to do with your employment by the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Yes. He brought me over.

Q. That is when he left the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Company and went to the Donnelly Garment Company, you went with him, did you?

[fol. 1638] A. Well, not immediately. He told me at the time he went to Donnelly's that he was going to get me a position with Donnelly's, but he didn't do it at once. I think it was—

Q. (Interrupting) How much time elapsed?

A. I imagine a year or more. I just don't recall exactly.

* * * * * * *

Q. And you were a widow up until the fall of 1937 when you married Mr. Greenhaw? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your first husband's name was Graham? A. Yes.

Q. Have you any children? A. I have two children.

Q. And are they both the children of Mr. Graham?

[fol. 1639] A. Yes, sir.

Q. How old are they?

A. The older one is nineteen and the younger one is seventeen.

Q. Had you had any previous—pardon me. While you were with the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Company did you do stenographic work? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was that the large part of your work with that company? A. Stenographic and secretarial work.

Q. Well, secretarial work includes stenographic work, does it not? A. Yes, it does.

Q. Now, prior to going there had you had any stenographic experience? A. Yes, I had a number of years.

Q. Where? A. In Wichita, Kansas, chiefly.

Q. With whom, in Wichita?

A. I was employed by the University of Wichita in a secretarial position, and then before that I worked in several law offices in Wichita.

Q. In Wichita? A. Yes.

Q. Were you secretary to an official of the University

[fol. 1640] of Wichita?

A. Yes, the bursar or business manager. They called him bursar.

Q. And prior to that you had worked for a number of attorneys in Wichita? A. Yes, sir.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1648] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mrs. Greenhaw, you were asked this morning about the Loyalty pledge which was presented to you in March by Miss Shartzer. I believe you identified the language that is in [ths] pledge as being the language of the one that was presented to you by Miss Shartzer.

A. Yes, I did.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is Union's Exhibit 10-A?

Mr. Langsdale: Union's Exhibit 10-A.

Trial Examiner Batten: To 10-N.

Mr. Langsdale: Inclusive.

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You didn't sign it? A. No.

Q. Did you give Miss Shartzer any reason for not signing it?

A. Yes, I explained to her that I couldn't sign it as to the one statement, that I would be happy to sign it as far as all the pledge was concerned, except the sentence that had to do with the union and its organization.

Q. That is, you objected to this language—

Mr. Ingraham (interrupting): Well, I object to Mr. Langsdale reading what she objects to.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes. Let her select the lan-

[fol. 1649] guage.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Will you select the language?

A. I told her I would be very happy to sign it all, and I agreed with it all except for the phrase: "And refuse to acknowledge any union labor organization."

Q. And because of that language in the pledge, you refused to sign it? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Now, was that the only time you were solicited to sign this pledge?

A. No, I think a second time later in the day another girl brought it to me and asked if I had signed it, and I told her I had not, and I didn't care to.

Q. Do you recall who the other girl was?

A. I can't be sure about that.

Q. Both of those solicitations were made while you were there working, during working hours? A. Yes.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1651] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mrs. Greenhaw, I show you a document which has been marked I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 11-A to No. 11-MM, inclusive, and call your attention to the first page and ask you if you ever saw that document before?

A. Yes, I have seen it.

Q. That is a document that purports to have been signed on the 8th day of July, 1937.

I call your attention to that page of the document which has been marked I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 11-H and [fol. 1652] ask you if you find a photostat of your signature on there. A. Yes, I do.

Q. Signed what? A. Elsa Lou Graham.

Q. That was your name on the 8th day of July, 1937?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. This document reads—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): Now, are you going to offer it?

Mr. Langsdale. Yes, I am. Is there any objection?

Mr. Ingraham. No.

Trial Examiner Batten. Just a minute. I may have.

Is that an affidavit signed by all of the Donnelly Garment Company employees that they want the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

Mr. Langsdale. You can read it better than I can tell you. (Handing I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 11-A to 11-MM, inclusive, to Trial Examiner Batten.)

Trial Examiner Batten. I certainly will not receive it.

Mr. Langsdale. On what ground do you object to it?

Trial Examiner Batten. I won't receive it, at least if it is offered for any purpose to show that these people have selected this union, that it is their free selection, or anything of that kind. I positively won't receive it for that purpose.

Mr. Langsdale. I am not offering it to show it is their [fol. 1653] free selection.

Trial Examiner Batten. I don't know what you are offering it for.

Mr. Langsdale. Shall I tell you, in the presence of this witness, why I am offering it?

Trial Examiner Batten. I am saying, I won't receive it as a general offer.

Mr. Langsdale. I am offering it for the purpose of showing under what circumstances this witness was induced to sign this document, which states that "Each of us formed our own union and selected our own representatives."

Trial Examiner Batten. I won't receive it for that purpose, because I am not going to have 1,200 employees come up here and tell me the circumstances under which they signed this petition; and it wouldn't mean anything if they did.

Mr. Langsdale. Then, are you going to permit them to cross-examine her with reference to her signature on there?

Trial Examiner Batten. I certainly am not.

Mr. Langsdale. I have no object in offering it except—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting). Well, Mr. Langsdale, my position on this situation is just this— and I have had it come up in about six cases where I have been presented either with a petition or with membership cards of a large number of employees in a plant, stating that they joined of their own free will, and so [fol. 1654] forth. Now, I don't consider that testimony, if it were given, of any value when they are put up here on the stand and testify under oath, with the respondent, and in some cases, the foreman and the superintendent present. It might result in coercion, and it might not.

There is only one way to determine this question of majority, and that is by an election, which is not involved in this hearing. I am not going to have a parade of witnesses here on this stand testifying, and for that reason I will not accept it.

Now, I am making that as a very definite statement now, so that all of you, if you have any offer to make on this particular matter, may prepare your offer and I will receive it at any time before the close of the hearing, but I want it thoroughly understood that I am not going into this matter.

[fol. 1655] Mr. Ingraham: Well, your Honor, do I understand that you are not going to allow witnesses to take the stand and testify that they were not dominated and that they did form this union of their own free will?

Trial Examiner Batten: That is exactly what I mean.

Mr. Ingraham: Of course, respondent excepts to the ruling.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I assume that the intervener will, too.

Mr. Langsdale: You have nothing to except to.

Mr. Lane: Yes, we do. We assume we have an exception.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I want to make it very clear at this time to everybody, while I am not attempting to rule on the matter the point, as I said once before, if you want to bring some witnesses up here and offer it, I want you to do it. In other words, I don't want the respondent's attorney, or the intervener's attorney, to fail to do something that you think you should do to protect your record, but I do think I ought to tell you just exactly what my position is.

I am not going to receive it, and—

Mr. Stottle (interrupting): Mr. Examiner, don't you think you should make a ruling now striking out the charge that it is a dominated union, if you are not going to permit us—

[fol. 1656] Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Do you want to make that motion?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Mr. Langsdale: It appears to me this is my offer; not yours.

Trial Examiner Batten: I say, does Mr. Stottle want to make that motion now? If so, he may do so.

Mr. Stottle: Well, in view of the Examiner's statement as to his position on the matter, the respondent does move that the charge in the complaint that the union is a dominated union should be dismissed.

Trial Examiner Batten: Motion denied.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1657] Q. When did you leave Kansas City?

A. I don't recall exactly, but probably 2 weeks after I resigned, I think I resigned on November 5.

Q. And you think you left about the 19th?

A. Possibly, or perhaps I stayed 3 weeks after that. I don't recall.

Q. Did you at any time prior to that time that you quit [fol. 1658] the employment of the Donnelly Garment Company contact anyone connected with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, either as attorney or in any other capacity?

A. Yes, I contacted their attorney, Mr. Frank Walsh.

Q. And do you remember when that was?

A. It was the latter part of September, I think.

Q. And where did you contact Mr. Walsh in the latter part of September, 1937?

A. At his office.

Q. In the Bryant Building?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you talk to him about the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or anything that had transpired at the Donnelly Garment Company's plant?

A. Yes. I talked to him about those things.

Q. Then did you after that first visit contact Mr. Frank Walsh again?

A. Yes.

Q. Where?

A. Well, I think he had set up temporary offices in the Muehlebach Hotel and I met him there and talked to him, with some other attorneys.

Q. At one time, or more than one time?
A. Just the one time there.
Q. And did you see Mr. Frank Walsh again after this time?
[fol. 1659] A. Yes, several times.
Q. Where?
A. At his office.
Q. In the Bryant Building?
A. Yes.
Q. And on each of these occasions did you discuss with him occurrences at the Donnelly Garment Company's plant?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And at that time you were in the employ of the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. Yes.
Q. How did you happen to first contact Mr. Frank Walsh?
A. Well, I knew of the case that was going on and—
Q. (Interrupting) You mean the injunction suit?
A. Yes, and I felt like there were so many things that—concerning employees—that perhaps he would be interested in knowing, and I felt like I would like to offer my services to him.
Q. Did any member of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or any representative of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union say anything to you at all about going to see Mr. Frank Walsh?
A. No, I never spoke to any of them nor they to me.
Q. Did anybody ask you to go to see Mr. Frank Walsh?
A. No.
[fol. 1660] Q. Before you went to him the first time?
A. No one.
Q. When you left Kansas City in November, 1937, where did you go?
A. To Chicago.
Q. And did you leave your address with Mr. Walsh or anyone connected with his office?
A. I believe I did.
Q. And you were in Chicago how long?
A. That winter; the rest of that winter.
Q. And then where did you go?
A. Then I was down South with my husband for a time.

Q. Your husband's business is what?
A. He travels as a representative for a circus.
Q. And was he doing that work when you married him?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you meet Mr. Jerome Walsh?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. And did you talk with him about occurrences at the Donnelly Garment Company plant?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you meet Mr. Roy Rucker?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you talk to him about occurrences at the Donnelly Garment Company plant?
[fol. 1661] A. Yes, I did.
Q. And was there any public stenographer ever present at any of these conversations?
A. Yes, at one or two of them there was.
Q. Do you know who it was?
A. I think it was Miss Anna Feltenstein.
Q. Now, Mr. Roy Rucker, when he talked with you was one of the attorneys for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in the injunction suit you talked about?
A. Yes.
Q. And Mr. Jerome Walsh was a son of Mr. Frank Walsh?
A. That is right.
Q. And he also was an attorney for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in that suit?
A. Yes, he was.
Q. You have talked with me during the recess?
A. Yes.
Q. That is, the late recess that started at 12:30?
A. That is right.
Q. And have you read the statements that were taken from you by Mr. Rucker or Mr. Walsh during that period?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Now, Mrs. Greenhaw, let me ask you with reference to the meeting of April 27, 1937, which was the meeting at which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed, [fol. 1662] if you heard Miss Todd say anything at that meeting about the—

Mr. Ingraham (interrupting): I object—

Mr. Langsdale, continuing: —officers of the Loyalty League meeting the night before and deciding the only thing to be done was to form this union?

Mr. Ingraham: I move the question be— I object to the question for the reason that it is leading and suggestive and an improper way to examine this witness. He can ask the witness what Miss Todd said, but I don't think it is proper for him to read from what purports to be some statement, and then ask if she heard that.

Mr. Langsdale: It seems to me it—

Mr. Patten (interrupting): The intervener makes the same objection.

Mr. Langsdale: The Examiner has many times said the attorney is responsible for the form in which he asks his questions.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I still say that is true, and, of course, if the attorney wants to ask a question such as this, why, of course, it will have to be weighed. If it has any value, it will receive it, and if it hasn't, of course, it won't.

Mr. Langsdale: I am willing to take that chance.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think under my ruling that is your privilege.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1664] A. She did make such a statement.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You stated this morning that when you reported the meeting of May 25, 1937, that is, the meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, you were requested to do so by Miss Green?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you then speak to any official of the company with reference to whether or not you could do so?

A. No. I merely mentioned it to the head of the department I was working in and told her about it so she would [fol. 1665] know I was to leave the department.

Q. Who was that?

A. I probably spoke to Miss Nobles about it.

Mr. Ingraham: I move that the answer be stricken out.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may be stricken.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. What is your best judgment as to the person to whom you spoke about it?

A. It would have been either Miss Nobles or Miss Alexander.

Q. You did speak to one or the other?

A. To one or the other.

Mr. Lane: I move to strike the answer on the ground that it is a mere guess.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I don't know whether we could start at this stage of the proceedings striking on that basis. It may stand.

Mr. Langsdale: Mrs. Greenhaw, referring to the meeting of March 18, you identified that meeting as the one at which the letter from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union was read, and at which meeting Mrs. Nelly Don Reed spoke. I will ask you if at that meeting Mrs. Reed stated that she would close her shop before she would permit it to be unionized.

Mr. Ingraham: I object to the question for the same reason that I have objected to the previous question that Mr. Langsdale asked when he was reading from this docu[fol. 1666] ment that he has in his hand.

Mr. Lane: Intervener makes the same objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: I will overrule the objection.

A. Mrs. Reed did state she would close her factory before she would permit to be unionized.

Mr. Langsdale: Did Mrs. Reed state at that meeting that she would make plans to protect the employees from the union?

Mr. Ingraham: Same objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: Objection overruled.

A. I don't remember the exact words, but it was definitely stated that the employees would be protected against the union, the union's activities.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. By Mrs. Reed?

A. I don't remember that she stated who would do it.

Q. But she is the one who stated that?

A. Yes.

Q. Mrs. Greenhaw, had you ever taken down the proceedings of any meetings prior to this meeting of May 25, 1937? A. Yes, many times.

Q. Where had you done that?

A. Well, I had taken depositions in the law offices where I worked, and I had reported a good many conferences at one of the places I formerly worked.

Q. Where?

[fol. 1667] A. Federal Reserve Life Insurance Company.

Q. Were those conferences where there were a number of people? A. Yes.

Q. You have examined Board's exhibit No. 18-A to 18-J, inclusive, have you? A. Yes, I have.

Q. Let me ask you if this is a true and correct record of what was said at the meeting of May 25, 1937.

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Both, of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and of the Loyalty League? A. Yes.

Q. Is it your judgment that you got everything that was said by these persons whom you quote? A. Yes.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1668] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Do you belong to a union?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Now, in answer to Mr. Langsdale's question about your reporting meetings you stated that you had previously reported meetings, previous to the date of May 25, 1937? A. Yes, I had.

Q. Had you ever reported any meetings at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. No, only that one.

Q. Did you ever write up any meetings that had been reported by anyone else?

A. No.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, someone else had taken the notes?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Where someone else had taken the notes and then dictated to you what had occurred?

[fol. 1669] A I never did.

Q. Have you ever seen any other minutes than the minutes of May 25, 1937?

A. I have seen the copies the attorneys have.

Q. When did you see those?

A. Within the last few days.

Q. Where did you see them?

A. In Mr. Leary's office.

Q. When were the minutes of May 25, 1937, written?

Mr. Leary: What minutes are you referring to?

Mr. Ingraham: The minutes of May 25, 1937.

Mr. Leary: Whose minutes?

Mr. Ingraham: Board's exhibit No. 18.

A. I wrote them immediately after the meeting. I think I finished them the next morning and then delivered them to Miss Green.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. And the meeting was on May 25, 1937? A. Yes.

Q. Now, can you tell me what, in substance, was said at that meeting?

A. Well, it was quite a long meeting; or, rather, two rather long meetings.

Q. Just stop there. How long did the meetings last?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. Do you remember when the meetings started?

[fol. 1670] A. I don't remember exactly, but it was late afternoon.

Q. Well, how long, in your best opinion?

A. About 4 o'clock I think the meeting was called.

Mr. Langsdale: Have I the right to give her this document, or are you trying to test her recollection?

Mr. Ingraham: I am trying to test her recollection.

Mr. Langsdale: What does the Examiner say?

Trial Examiner Batten: I see no objection to testing her recollection. If she doesn't recall she may take the document and testify from it, but if it is Mr. Ingraham's purpose now to test her recollection he may proceed.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. You say the meeting started around 4 o'clock?

A. I would think so.

Q. And how long did it last?

A. I imagine it lasted an hour all together.

Q. Now, Mrs. Greenhaw, were the members of the Loyalty League and the members of the union the same people?

A. I think so.

Q. Were you a member of both organizations?

A. I was a member of the union but not of the Loyalty League.

Q. Now, after you wrote up the minutes of May 25, 1937, Board's Exhibit No. 18, what did you do with the copy?

A. You mean the copy that I made for them?

[fol. 1671] Q. Yes.

A. I gave it to Miss Green.

Q. Well, you gave Miss Green the original, I understood. A. Yes.

Q. What did you do with the copy you made?

A. I kept it.

Q. Did you take it home?

A. No. I think I had it in my desk.

Q. When did you take it out?

A. I don't recall.

Q. What is your best recollection of when you took it away from your desk?

A. I don't recall at all.

Q. Did you wait until you left the employ of the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. I don't recall when I took it. I don't have any recollection of when I took it away.

Q. When you left the Donnelly Garment Company did you take what papers you considered personal with you?

A. Yes, I took a few things.

Q. Did you take any papers that were copies of letters that the company had sent out?

A. No.

Q. Did you take any property of the company?

A. No.

[fol. 1672] Q. Did you take your shorthand notes?

A. No.

Q. What did you do with the shorthand notes of this meeting of May 25, 1937?

A. I suppose I disposed of them. We always did. We threw away our notebooks. When we had finished with one we usually put it in the wastebasket.

[fol. 1673] Q. Now, Mrs. Greenhaw, you state you were present at the March 18th meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that Mrs. Reed stated at that meeting that she was not going to be intimidated by the International into forcing her employees to join the International against their will?

A. I believe she did make some such statement.

Q. And didn't she say that Mr. Dubinsky or no other "butinsky" was going to force her to do that?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall approximately how long Mrs. Reed spoke at that meeting?

A. No, I don't.

Q. It wasn't very long, was it?

A. No, I don't believe so.

Q. Do you recall at that time the International was conducting a strike at the Gernes, Gordon, and Missouri Garment Companies?

Trial Examiner Batten: Now, is this just for the purpose of establishing a time?

Mr. Ingraham: I think, in view of this witness' testimony as to what was said by Mrs. Reed at this March 18th meeting, that we have the right to show what was going on.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I don't propose to go [fol. 1674] into it, Mr. Ingraham. I have said before that on that matter, in the first place, supposing that Mrs. Reed did say that, supposing that Mrs. Reed got up and said other things about it, I still can't see, as I asked you this morning, why you should be permitted to show it, whether it is true or untrue. The thing is, did Mrs. Reed get up in this meeting and make certain statements. Are the statements she made — are they of such a nature that they intimidate, coerce or restrain the employee. It isn't a question of whether they are true or not. They may be true and they may still have the same effect. I still can't see by your explanation this morning how it can be material. The only thing is, what did Mrs. Reed say at this meeting.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, your Honor, it is our theory that we are entitled to show what the situation was, and the purpose, or one of the purposes of the March 18th meeting; and that Mrs. Reed did make a speech, and the reason she had for making the speech.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, in the second place, doesn't that come within the matter, that I have asked to have an offer or proof on?

Mr. Ingraham: I think it does, your Honor. I will, of course, make an offer of proof.

• • • • • •

[fol. 1676] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Greenhaw, when did you go to see Mr. Walsh, Mr. Frank Walsh?

A. It was the latter part of September, 1937.

Q. And where did you go to see him?

A. I first contacted him at — perhaps I should say this: I had a friend contact him first for me at his office, and [fol. 1677] then an appointment was made for me to meet him at offices he had in the Muehlebach Hotel.

Q. Who was the friend?

A. Well, it is a lady who isn't here any longer.

Q. What was her name?

A. Mrs. Ella Stokes.

A. Do you know where she is now?

A. She is some place in California.

Q. Do you recall whether it was the first part of September or the last part of September that you saw Mr. Walsh?

A. It was the last part, perhaps the third week.

Q. Was the trial going on in the case of the Donnelly Garment Company against the International?

A. I couldn't say as to that.

Q. Now, when you saw Mr. Walsh at the Muehlebach Hotel, did you deliver any papers to Mr. Walsh?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have any papers with you?

Trial Examiner Batten: You will have to speak out or the reporter won't get your answer. What was your last answer?

The Witness: No.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you have the minutes of May 25, 1937?

A. I had them, but I didn't have them with me.

[fol. 1678] Q. Did you later bring those minutes down to Mr. Walsh?

A. Yes.

Q. And did you leave them with Mr. Walsh?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have they ever been in your possession since that time?

A. No, they have not.

Q. Now, did you leave any other papers with Mr. Walsh?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may answer.

A. I don't recall the one little exhibit, I think, and I don't know, perhaps one or two others.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Well, will you just tell me what the others were, please?

A. Well, it is the exhibit that was introduced this morning.

Q. You mean that exhibit (indicating)?

A. Yes.

Q. Exhibit 17. Now, what other papers —

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Board's Exhibit 17.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Board's Exhibit 17?

A. I think that is all.

Q. I wish you would be sure about that, Mrs. Greenhaw.

A. I don't recall anything else.

Q. And at the time you saw Mr. Walsh you were work-
[fol. 1679] ing at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell anybody at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. About this matter of seeing Mr. Walsh?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Why didn't you?

A. Well, I think the company knew how I felt toward things that were going on.

Q. Now, what things were going on?

A. And when I had refused to sign petitions, and a number of things that I felt was within my rights in refusing? I think they knew how my attitude was.

Q. Now, what things were going on that you didn't like?

A. Well, I felt that there was a definite coercion of the employees there.

Q. By whom?

A. By the company officials.

Q. By — name the officials.

A. All of the officials?

Q. Well, just name the officials, please.

A. Mr. and Mrs. Keyes and all of the department heads.

Q. Who are the department heads? Just name them.

A. Mrs. Reeves, Miss Alexander, and Mrs. Keyes was the head of a department, and, of course, that was my personal knowledge, and I had good reason to believe [fol. 1680] that it was going on throughout the factory.

Q. Well, now, just say, or just state what Mrs. Reeves said to you.

A. Well, I didn't have so much to do with Mrs. Reeves.

Q. Well, you have named Mrs. Reeves. Now, just state one thing that Mrs. Reeves said to you that was coercion, in your opinion.

A. Many of these things I judged just by watching others, Mr. Ingraham.

Q. So it wasn't — there wasn't anything said to you at all by Mrs. Reeves?

A. I don't recall, because I didn't work under her.

Q. But you have named Mrs. Reeves as one of the executives that you had personal knowledge was engaging in coercion.

A. Yes. I was judging by her — the way the employees generally were treated.

Q. But she said nothing to you?

A. No, she would have no reason to.

Q. Well, now, did you personally see her engage in any coercion with other employees?

A. No.

Q. And if so, name the employees and the time and the place.

A. No, I didn't personally see it.

[fol. 1681] Q. Now, who are some of the other department heads that were engaging in coercion?

A. Of course, that is a hard thing to answer.

Q. Well, you are testifying now. Just give the names, please, Mrs. Greenhaw, of these people that were engaging in coercion.

A. Because it was a general feeling —

Q. (Interrupting) I am not — just answer —

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Just a minute. Let her finish.

Mr. Ingraham: I object to it as not responsive.

Trial Examiner Batten: Don't stop her. Let her say what she wanted to. We have had witnesses here before and, certainly, no one stopped them yet when they wanted to explain an answer, or talk.

Mr. Ingraham: If your Honor please, I don't object if she will answer and then explain.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, let her answer. We can't tell, Mr. Ingraham, until she gets through.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. What were you saying?

A. Well, I have worked in a number of other places, you know, and then when I went to work there there was a very different atmosphere and a different attitude among the employees and toward them, and there was a feeling that they were held very closely in line at all times by the [fol. 1682] officials of the company, and I am sure that for years the company had been building up that sort of a thing.

Mr. Ingraham: Now, I move the answer be stricken out. It is not responsive.

Mr. Lane: The intervener moves it be stricken out as stating a conclusion, not founded upon any fact testified to by the witness.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may stand.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. I again ask my question: Will you name the department heads that were engaging in coercion?

A. I am sure that you couldn't have worked there and be a department head if you hadn't.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Well, Mrs. Greenhaw, can you name any specific one?

A. Yes, I can name myself, and the treatment I had.

Trial Examiner Batten: Is that what you mean?

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Were you a department head?

A. I worked for a department head.

Q. Well, the only one that you know of that was engaging in coercion was yourself?

Mr. Leary: I object to that. There hasn't been any testimony to —

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Just a moment.

A. I refused to sign everything that was handed to me, if you call that coercion.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1686] If you have offered exhibit No. 10, it will be received.

(Thereupon the document above referred to, previously marked "I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 10," was received in evidence.)

* * * * * *

Q. Now, Mrs. Greenhaw, can you give the name of any department head that was engaged in coercion?

A. Of course, you know that was a thing that had been built up for sometime—

Mr. Ingraham (Interrupting): Now, just a minute, Your Honor.

Trial Examiner Batten: The question is, can you name any one particular person who was engaged in coercion?

[fol. 1687] A. Well, if it was the policy of the company—

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. (Interrupting) Can you name one person so engaged in coercion?

Mr. Leary: I submit, Mr. Examiner, we should have a definition of the type of coercion you are referring to here. There are hundreds of different types of coercion.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't think there is much question about the type of coercion we are talking about. From the testimony of the witness thus far she seems to have a good idea of what it is.

A. It was rather a settled thing.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. The question Mr. Ingraham asked you was, can you name a single, definite person who was engaged in this coercion?

A. Yes. Mrs. Keyes I remember making a statement.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Was Mrs. Keyes working at the Donnelly Garment Company in the spring of 1937?

A. Yes.

Q. You are sure of that?

A. Yes. She was there until the time I left.

Q. What statements did Mrs. Keyes make?

A. Well, there were a number of statements. One I remember particularly about the employees being careful how they voted.

Q. Voted for what?

[fol. 1688] A. During the general election in 1936.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. You mean the National election?

A. Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Now, I am not going to take in any more territory than we have. I mean, if the reference there is to the National campaign or election, it may be stricken. I certainly am not going into that.

Mr. Langsdale: Mr. Leary asked that it be defined as to what kind of coercion she meant. I don't think it is the witness' fault—

Trial Examiner Batten: I am not criticizing the witness. I am saying we are not going into the matter of the National election.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. That is the coercion you have reference to?

A. That was only one small incident. Of course, he is trying to pin me down, and it was a thing that was so general—

Trial Examiner Batten: Mrs. Greenhaw, if you cannot name any particular person, or if you do not recall any particular person, then the thing to do in answering the question is to say so.

The Witness: Well, may I say this, that the coercion was conducted more by acts than by words.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Then, can you tell whether any supervisors by their acts engaged in coercion?

[fol. 1689] A. Well, I was demoted a number of times because I didn't fall in accord with the company's suggestions.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. How do you know that, Mrs. Greenhaw?

A. Well, I was moved about from one place to another.

Q. Do you know, as a matter of fact, that Mr. Green was practically creating a job for you at the Donnelly Garment Company when you obtained employment there?

A. Yes. I appreciate that. He told me that. But the things that went on, had I taken a different attitude I wouldn't have had the position.

Q. You wouldn't have what?

A. I wouldn't have had the position, I feel sure.

Q. That is just your conclusion, isn't it, Mrs. Greenhaw?

A. The attitude of those employees who did conform—or perhaps I should say the treatment of the employees who did conform was quite different than that which I got.

Q. Was any employee that went to work at the Donnelly Garment Company after the time of your employment moved up ahead of you?

A. Well, I was in a position where it couldn't have been done, because I was working in a small department originally.

Q. So, it wasn't done?

A. No, I don't mean that.

Q. As a matter of fact, didn't you request to be made the private secretary of one of the officers of the company?

[fol. 1690] A. No, I did not.

Q. Well, wasn't that the job that you wanted?

A. When Mr. Green brought me over he told me that for the time being there would be no such position for me, but he knew my experience and he said probably eventually there would be an opening and he would try to see if he couldn't work me into it.

Q. And didn't Mr. Green try to do that?

A. I am sure he did do everything he could.

Q. Did you know of any vacancies in the positions of secretaries of any executives?

A. No, there were none.

Q. So, you do not contend that you were not given a place of that kind because of your views on unionism?

A. I feel quite sure that if my attitude had been more harmonious with the general feeling of the employers that I would have been compensated by a good position.

Q. Well, you have just stated there wasn't any vacancy in those positions. Did you expect the company to create a position?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as argumentative.

A. Such positions are often made. I have seen it done.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. So, you expected the position to be made for you?

A. It was done up there at times, I think.

[fol. 1691] Q. Who had a place made for them at the Donnelly Garment Company, outside of yourself?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Isn't it a fact that Mr. Keyes is in charge of the order department?

A. I believe he was known as general manager when I was there.

Q. Just answer the question, please. Wasn't he in charge of the order department?

A. I understood Miss Ruth Alexander was.

Q. Didn't Mr. Keyes have charge of the order department?

A. I think she probably took instructions from him.

Q. And he was in charge of the order department?

A. He was her superior, I understand.

Q. And wasn't that true, also, of the returns department?

A. Yes.

Q. And, in connection with the order department, Miss Alexander and Miss Nobles were instructed as to what they would do by Mr. Keyes?

A. That is right.

Q. And in regard to the returns department, wasn't Miss Sandy instructed as to what she would do by Mr. Keyes?

A. I believe she was.

[fol. 1695] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Greenhaw, you stated that you had been demoted at the Donnelly Garment plant several times. Had your wages been reduced?

A. No, they hadn't.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1696] Q. Now, you stated that you talked to Mr. Jerome Walsh and Mr. Roy Rucker?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. When did you talk to them?

A. In September, 1937.

Q. When was the last time you talked to either one of those gentlemen?

A. I couldn't say exactly, but it was some weeks or per[fol. 1697] haps a week or two before I left town.

Q. Did you go up to see them of your own accord?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you give them any papers at that time?

A. None other than the papers that we have referred to.

Q. Now, did you ask anybody — strike that. Did you ask the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union for permission to turn over copies of the minutes to these attorneys?

A. No, I didn't, because I knew they would be in favor of the idea.

Q. You didn't ask authority?

A. No.

[fol. 1698] Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Lane.

By Mr. Lane:

Q. Mrs. Greenhaw, what is your husband's full name?

A. L. B.

Q. What do the initials stand for?

A. Leon Bland.

Q. When did Mr. Graham die?

A. He isn't dead. I am divorced from him.

Q. You are divorced from him; and when were you divorced from him?

A. About 10 years ago.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1699] By Mr. Lane:

Q. What was Mr. Graham's occupation?

A. He was in the investment business, and was a salesman of life insurance and investments.

[fol. 1700] Q. You are not a member of any union?

A. No, I am not.

Q. And have never been? A. No.

Q. Now, on March 2, 1937, when this so-called Loyalty petition was sent around, you declined to sign it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you declined on the ground that it contained in it the statement "and refuse to acknowledge any labor organization"?

A. That is right.

Q. In other words, you had in your mind at that time that you would like to acknowledge a labor organization in connection with the employment at the Donnelly plant, didn't you?

Mr. Leary: I object to that—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): She may answer.

A. I felt, as an employee of the Donnelly Garment Company, I had a right to believe in a union, or not, as I pleased.

[fol. 1701] By Mr. Lane:

Q. Well, you had that idea in your mind at that time?

A. I objected to signing something saying that I didn't believe in it when I might have the right to, did have the right to, and might believe in it.

Q. And that was the idea that was in your mind and that is what motivated you in refusing to sign this petition? A. No.

Q. On the second of March?

A. No. The thing—the reason I objected was because it was too obviously intimidation.

Mr. Lane: I move to strike that out as not responsive, and being merely a conclusion on the part of the witness.

Mr. Langsdale: I submit he asked for it.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may stand.

By Mr. Lane:

Q. This was shown to you by Pauline Shartzer, wasn't it? A. I believe so.

Q. She gave it to you and asked you to read it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you read it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you refused to sign it?

A. I explained to her —

Q. (Interrupting) Just answer my question. You re-[fol. 1702] fused to sign it?

A. Yes, I did —

Mr. Leary (interrupting): I submit, she started to explain —

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Just a minute —

Mr. Leary (interrupting): And by our agreement here she has a right to explain.

Trial Examiner Batten: The question was, did she refuse to sign it, and the witness said she did.

By Mr. Lane:

Q. During the day, a second time, it was shown to you by somebody else?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was the second person?

A. I don't recall.

Q. That person was just an employee, wasn't she?

A. Yes, another employee.

Q. And you again refused to sign it? A. Yes.

Q. When was the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union formed?

A. Well, I don't recall the exact date, but it was some time after this first petition.

Q. Was it a week after this first petition or two weeks, or what is your recollection of it?

A. I don't recall right now. I can't tell you the date.

Q. But you don't have —

[fol. 1703] Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Now, just a moment. Mr. Lane, let her finish.

By Mr. Lane:

Q. Had you finished your answer?

A. We had a number of meetings. I don't recall the exact date of the meeting it happened. I think it was either the second or third meeting of the employees.

Q. Well, you don't have any independent recollection now of the date on which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed; is that correct? A. No.

Q. Is my statement correct? A. Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, she said no. Will you speak a little louder, please, so that the reporter also can get your answer?

By Mr. Lane:

Q. Now, at this meeting that was held on the 25th of May, 1937, you say you were asked by Marjorie Green to take minutes? A. Yes.

Q. Was Marjorie Green at that meeting? A. Yes.

Q. She was there in person? A. Yes.

Q. What was she doing at that meeting?

A. She also was taking minutes.

[fol. 1704] Q. She was taking minutes, but she asked you to take minutes, as well?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did she speak to you about the matter?

A. On the tenth floor, I think, at my desk.

Q. Did she ask you to keep a carbon copy of the minutes?

A. No, she didn't say anything about that.

Q. Did she ask you also to take minutes of the Loyalty League meeting you say was held?

A. Well, she didn't tell me not to. She, I think, took some, and we stayed at the meeting until it was concluded, and the people were dismissed.

Q. Did anybody ask you to keep minutes of the Loyalty League meeting you say was held that day?

A. I didn't know there was going to be such a meeting. She asked me to take the minutes of the meeting that day.

Q. Did anyone ask you to keep the minutes of the Loyalty League meeting that was held that day?

Mr. Leary: I submit the witness has answered.

Mr. Lane: I have asked her three times, and haven't an answer to it yet.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, of course, she said she was asked to take the minutes of the meeting.

Mr. Lane: I am asking her with respect to the Loyalty League meeting, whether anybody asked her to keep min[fol. 1705] utes of the meeting.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. When you went down there, did you know there was two meetings?

A. No, and I didn't know there was to be two meetings or there was to be a meeting between the Loyalty League, or the meeting was to be split up into two meetings. Nothing to that effect was said to me. I stayed until the meeting was dismissed and took the notes on everything that happened.

Mr. Lane: Well, now, I submit I am entitled to an answer to my question.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think it has been answered as far as the witness can answer it.

Mr. Lane: I think she can answer "yes" or "no", whether anybody did or did not.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, no witness in this proceeding has to answer "yes" or "no" to any question. I think I said that about the first day.

By Mr. Lane:

Q. Well, then, I will ask the witness whether anybody did ask her, and if so, who did ask her to keep the minutes of the Loyalty League meeting?

A. Well, I wasn't informed that there was to be a meeting of the Loyalty League after this other, and I don't think anyone else knew there was to be, because it wasn't mentioned.

[fol. 1706] By Mr. Lane:

Q. Is it your answer, then, that nobody asked you to keep minutes of that meeting?

A. Yes, that is right.

Q. You have testified, I believe, that the meeting of the union lasted for an hour?

A. As near as I can recall.

Q. How long did the meeting of the Loyalty League last?

A. Pardon me. I meant we stayed down there, I think, for about an hour. I don't know how long each meeting took.

Q. Both meetings, then, you think occupied about an hour's time?

A. I believe so.

Q. How long would be required for you to type nine and a portion of a tenth page the size of the pages of Board's exhibit No. 18? A. Perhaps an hour.

Mr. Langsdale: To type them?

Mr. Lane: That is right.

By Mr. Lane:

Q. And is it your testimony that after the adjournment of that meeting or meetings that you went back up to your machine on the tenth floor and typed these minutes?

A. Yes.

Q. So, you spent approximately from 5 o'clock to 6 o'clock that evening getting these minutes typed up?

A. I expect so.

[fol. 1707] Q. What kind of machine did you use there?

A. I think all of the machines were Royals, if I remember right.

Q. It was a Royal machine that you used?

A. I believe it was.

Q. Was it a new machine? A. No.

Q. How old a machine was it? A. I can't say.

Q. Did you finish the minutes up that evening?

A. I don't recall, but I probably did, or very nearly finished.

Q. It is your recollection that you stayed there until you finished that evening?

A. I might have completed them the next morning, but I remember giving them to her quite early the next morning.

Q. Now, I will ask you to state what was done with this carbon which I hold in my hand after you had delivered the original to Miss Green.

A. I kept it in my book for quite awhile.

Q. What was your purpose or reason for keeping a carbon of those minutes?

A. I thought they would be useful at some later time.

Q. In what respect did you think they might be useful?

A. I felt with things going on as they were there that [fol. 1708] the time might come when I might want to speak out on behalf of the employees.

Q. You had in mind when you went down there and took these minutes, as a member of the union, and as acting secretary—you had a personal purpose in mind, did you? A. Yes.

Q. And your purpose was to make a carbon which you might want to use at some later date?

A. I thought it might be useful. I didn't have any definite purpose, you understand, but I thought there might be points brought out in it that would be useful to remember or to refer to later.

Q. Didn't you think the original would serve that purpose? A. Not my purpose.

Q. Then, you were not keeping these minutes primarily as acting secretary of the union; you were keeping them for a personal purpose of your own?

A. Well, not really personal, probably, in the true sense of the word.

Q. There was no lawsuit pending at that time, was there, on the 25th of May?

A. I don't recall when the lawsuit was started.

Q. Do I understand your testimony to be that the first time you ever had any contact at all with Mr. Frank Walsh was in September of that year?

[fol. 1709] A. Yes, sir.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1710] Q. At these numerous conferences you had with Mr. Frank Walsh and Mr. Jerome Walsh and the others you have mentioned did you go in the daytime?

A. No, in the evenings.

Q. You have never been in their offices during the daytime?

A. I was, when I was no longer employed.

Q. During the time you were employed by Donnelly you went there during the evenings?

A. Yes, sir.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1714] Trial Examiner Batten: I think you had better have it marked as Trial Examiner's exhibit No. 1, and it will be received only in so far as you have asked these questions from it. In other words, I am not receiving the entire thing.

[fol. 1715] (Thereupon the document above referred to, having been marked "Trial Examiner's Exhibit No. 1," was received in evidence.)

Mr. Lane: Intervener objects to the document for the reason that it is not identified, and for the reason that it has been stated by counsel to be a mere copy, when there is apparently an original in existence; and for the further reason it is inadmissible for any purpose, the intervener not having been present when any statements contained therein were made; and for the further reason that they are self-serving and hearsay. Intervener objects to its being received for any purpose.

Trial Examiner Batten: It is received for whatever it purports to be.

Mr. Lane: Intervener further objects on the ground that it is highly prejudicial and improper to permit a memorandum of that kind to be used to refresh the recollection of a witness who has testified she has no independent recollection of the matter. I say it is prejudicially erroneous to permit it to be used for that purpose.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1717] Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, the respondent objects to the Examiner's Exhibit No. 1 for the reason that it is not taken under oath, not testified to under oath, that the witness who is purported to have signed it is here on the stand now, and her own testimony should be the testi[fol. 1718] mony of this witness, and not any statement that she may have prepared at some prior time. It is not even signed by the witness, and is — purports to be a carbon copy of some statement which she may have signed.

Trial Examiner Batten: May I see it a moment?

Mr. Stottle: We also object that it is just immaterial and improper for any purpose whatsoever.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1731] Trial Examiner Batten: Read the next to the last question.

(Thereupon the following question was read by the reporter:)

"Q. Did any incident occur while you were there in [fol. 1732] which Mr. or Mrs. Keyes was engaged that in your opinion was coercion?"

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you understand the question, Mrs. Greenhaw?

A. I don't know how to answer it, because I don't understand just what the attorney means.

Mr. Langsdale: May I withdraw the question and ask another one?

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Did Mr. Keyes ever call any of the employees into his office? A. He often did.

Q. And were you ever present when any of the employees were in Mr. Keyes' office? A. Yes.

Q. And what was the subject of Mr. Keyes' conversation on occasions when you were present?

Mr. Lane: Intervener objects for the reason that no date has been fixed.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Can you place the time?

A. The incidents I recall particularly happened during the summer of 1936, when Mr. Keyes called several employees in to reprimand them for their work, and they had been working at such a high rate of speed, top speed, that they were so nervous they didn't know what they were doing, and they burst out crying—

[fol. 1733] Mr. Lane (Interrupting): Intervener moves—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): Just a moment. Wait until she has finished.

A. (Continuing) —they were so nervous and wrought up, they broke out crying there in the office.

Mr. Lane: Intervener moves to strike out the portion as to the employees being nervous and wrought up, for the reason that it is not responsive to the question.

Trial Examiner Batten: What is the intervener's interest in this question?

Mr. Lane: My interest is the same as it has been in other matters. I will put it this way: If the Board states this is not offered as showing domination of the union, then I will withdraw my objection.

Mr. Langsdale: The Board isn't asking this question.

Mr. Lane: Well—

Trial Examiner Batten: It may be stricken. I don't think it has anything to do with these issues, anyway.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1760] PAULINE HARTMAN, a witness called by and on behalf of the National Labor Relations Board, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. State your name, please.

A. Pauline Hartman.

Q. What is your address? A. 5327 Lydia.
Q. By whom are you employed?
A. The Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. How long have you been employed there?
A. Thirteen years.
Q. In what capacity?
A. In the accounting department.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:
Q. What work, in particular, do you do in the accounting department?
A. Well, I work on the books and work on various accounting records, on the payrolls.
Q. Who is in charge of the payrolls?
A. Mr. Bachofer.
Q. What is Mr. Bachofer's title?
[fol. 1761] A. Office manager.
Q. Who is superior to Mr. Bachofer?
A. Mrs. Reed, I guess. Mrs. Reed.
Q. How many persons are in the accounting department?
A. I would say about twelve or fifteen, offhand. I don't know exactly.
Q. You work exclusively on the payroll?
A. Not exclusively.
Q. What portion of your time do you spend on the payroll?
A. I would say probably a third of my time.
Q. Does anyone else work on the payroll other than yourself? A. Oh, yes.
Q. How many persons?
A. You mean on the entire routine of the payroll?
Q. Yes. A. There are about six.
Q. Well, is your work in connection with the payroll of a confidential nature?
A. The time workers' payroll. It is not confidential, however.
Q. What do you mean by "time workers' payroll"?
A. A person on a weekly salary.
Q. Is that the only payroll that you handle?
A. That is the only payroll I work on.

Q. Well, on that time workers' payroll, are the in[fol. 1762] structors listed?

A. The instructors, yes, they are.

Q. How large a payroll is that each week?

A. That is a semi-monthly payroll that the instructors are on.

Q. About how many names are on that time workers' payroll?

A. Let me see. Just the time workers, that the instructors are listed on, that must be about 150 names of various time workers. That includes the instructors.

Q. In that group, also, does it include the office workers? A. Yes.

Q. Clerical? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Stenographic, and so forth? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you a member of the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. When did you first become a member?

A. Well, since its organization.

Q. Would you say that was in—

A. (Interrupting) In the spring of '35.

Q. Did you join when it was first organized?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Have you held any office at any time in the Loyalty League? A. Yes, I have.

[fol. 1763] Q. When was that first occasion when you were elected to any office?

A. I have been the treasurer since its organization.

Q. Have you been re-elected annually during the period since 1935? A. Yes.

Q. What method is used to elect the officers of that organization?

A. They have a representative that is selected from each department and the representatives select the officers.

Q. How are the representatives determined?

A. Well, each department selects their own. They vote on their own.

Q. When did the last election of departmental representatives in the Loyalty League take place?

A. Well, I am sorry, I can't tell you that. It seems to me it was—I don't know. I haven't any idea.

Q. Was it during this past year?

A. Oh, yes, it has been during the past year, but I do not know what month.

Q. Where did that election take place?

A. Well, that election took place in the department. You mean, for the representative?

Q. Yes. A. Yes.

[fol. 1764] Q. Who conducts that election?

A. Always the representatives, the past representative handles the election in the department.

Q. Now, are there nominees for departmental representatives?

A. No, they just take the highest vote.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. They just what?

A. They take the person who has the most votes and that person is selected.

Q. Any department? A. That is right.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Do the same representatives usually carry over?

A. No. They are nearly always changed.

[fol. 1765] Q. Did they elect such representatives once a year? A. Yes, I believe it is once a year.

Q. And then, after the departmental representatives have been elected, what procedure is followed to elect the officers?

A. They always call the representatives together, and the election is handled at this meeting, and the representatives—a nominating committee is appointed from this group of representatives.

Q. Incidentally, how many persons are in that group of departmental representatives?

A. I would say between 30 and 40. I am not sure of that figure. It seems to me there must be that many.

Q. Continue with your recitation of the method in which the officers are elected after the departmental representatives have been selected.

A. Well, the nominating committee makes its report, and then the representatives vote on the nominees. It is handled just as any other election.

Q. Did you attend the meeting in your department where the departmental representative was selected last February or March? A. Yes.

Q. Where was that meeting held in your department?
A. It was just after office hours, up on the tenth floor.

[fol. 1766] Q. Were you elected representative from your department?
A. No. No, I am not the representative.
Q. Who is the representative from your department?
A. I think, a Mr. Bud Grogan. I am not sure.
Q. Is that William Grogan?
A. I don't know what the "Bud" is for, I am sorry.
Q. Are the officers usually elected from the departmental representatives, or can the departmental representatives elect anyone they want?
A. Oh, no. They can elect anyone they want. They do not have to elect an officer from the representatives, not at all. They can elect anyone who is an employee and a member of the Loyalty League.
Q. Were you ever a departmental representative?
A. No.
Q. Has your organization a constitution or a set of by-laws?
A. I don't believe so. I have never seen them.
Q. Have you attended all meetings of the Loyalty League since it was formed in 1935?
A. No, I haven't, not all of them.
Q. What ones have you missed?
A. I can't tell you exactly. I have missed quite a few of them. At some of them I got in on the last of the meet[fol. 1767] ing, not on the entire meeting.

Q. Did your organization collect any dues during the year 1935? A. Any dues?
Q. Yes. A. No, not under "dues."
Q. Did they collect any in 1936? A. Dues?
Q. Yes. A. No.
[fol. 1768] Q. 1937? A. No.
Q. Or 1938 or 1939? A. No.
Q. What receipts, if any, did your organization have during the year 1935?

A. 1935? I believe we had one activity in the fall of 1935, a dance.

Q. During the year 1936?

A. In 1936 we had several more dances; I can't tell you offhand how many.

Q. Did your organization have any bank account in 1935? A. No.

Q. Did your organization have any bank account in 1936? A. No.

Q. Did your organization have any bank account in 1937? A. Yes, we did.

Q. In order that the record may be clear, did you testify you had been treasurer ever since 1935?

A. That is right.

Q. In 1937 at what bank did you have a bank account?

A. The First National Bank.

Q. Of Kansas City, Mo.? A. That is right.

Q. Have you had an account with that bank at all times [fol. 1769] since the occasion in 1937 when you opened the account there?

A. We have had a balance on hand at the First National since then.

Q. Do you have in your possession, Miss Hartman, the records relating to the bank account which you opened with the First National Bank in 1937?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. May I see those records, please?

(Thereupon the records referred to were produced by the witness and shown to Mr. Leary.)

Q. Showing you your bank statement for the month of March, 1937, is it not a fact that a deposit of $1,000 was made on March 30, 1937? A. That is right.

Mr. Stottle: Just a moment. Mr. Examiner, respondent objects to this question, and all questions relating to the Loyalty League, on the ground that it is immaterial. We understand the allegation in the complaint that there is a connection, but there has been no testimony indicating that the Loyalty League has anything to do with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. It is merely a social organization, and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union is a separate organization.

We think it is encumbering the record to go into these activities of the Loyalty League.

[fol. 1770] We haven't objected a great deal to this, but we think the matter should be presented to the Examiner, and that we should have a continuing objection to any testimony regarding the Loyalty League.

[fol. 1771] Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you may have a continuing objection. As I recall it, you have, on about three occasions objected to it at the beginning of the hearing, and I at this time will make the same ruling I have in the past. I will overrule the objection, but you may have a continuing objection.

Mr. Stottle: And also on the ground it is not binding on the respondent, anything this witness may say, as well as being immaterial to the issues.

Trial Examiner Batten: That may be incorporated.

Mr. Patten: Intervener makes the same objection, and adds to it the testimony as to what may have happened in the Loyalty League prior to the organization of the union is immaterial and irrelevant.

Trial Examiner Batten: Overruled. You desire a continuing objection, Mr. Patten?

Mr. Patten: I do.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Your testimony is, is it not, Miss Hartman, that in March, March 30th, you deposited $1,000? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the name of the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, where did that $1,000 come from?

A. Miss Rose Todd handled that entirely. She came to me and told me that a few employees had been talking to her—

Q. (Interrupting) No, I don't mean that. Where did [fol. 1772] the $1,000 come from, do you know?

A. I don't understand your question.

Q. Where did the Nelly Don Loyalty League obtain the $1,000 in order to deposit it in a checking account?

A. I am telling you that now. May I explain?

Q. Well, do you know where they got it?

A. Well, it was borrowed under the Loyalty League name.

Q. It was borrowed from the First National Bank?

A. That is right.

Q. Was an application for a loan of $1,000 to the First National Bank made?

A. That is right.

Q. And was a note given to the union in the amount of $1,000? A. To the union?

Q. I beg your pardon. Was a note given to the bank by the union in the amount of $1,000?

A. No, not by the union.

Q. I beg your pardon. By the Loyalty League?

A. Yes.

Q. And do you have that note? A. Yes, I do.

Q. May I see it, please?

Q. (Continuing) Do you have any objection, Miss [fol. 1773] Hartman, to our offering this note at this time for the record, and then having it photostated and withdrawn so that the original may be returned to you for your records? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I show you, Miss Hartman, what has been marked for identification as Board's Exhibit 19, and ask you to state whether or not that is the note taken from the official records of the Nelly Don Loyalty League that you just referred to in your testimony? A. That is right.

(Thereupon, the document above referred to was marked as "Board's Exhibit No. 19" for identification.)

Mr. Leary: Board offers its Exhibit 19.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent objects to the exhibit for the grounds already stated, that it is immaterial to the issues here, and also that it is not binding on the respondent in any way.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I assume that your continuing objection applies to the note as well.

Mr. Stottle: Well, I thought it might, but I wasn't sure that it would.

Mr. Batten: The intervener desires its continuing objection to apply to the note.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will be received, subject to [fol. 1774] those objections.

(The document heretofore marked as "Board's Exhibit No. 19 was received in evidence.)

* * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Do you know, Miss Hartman, whether or not your records contain any information as to what security was required to obtain that loan?

A. The only security was the fact that it was the Loyalty League name. That is the only reason we used the Loyalty League, it was the only organization of all the employees that we had at that time.

Q. Did the bank—were you present when any of the conversations relating to the loan were had between Rose Todd and any officers of the bank? A. No, I was not.

Q. And immediately upon receipt of that $1,000 loan, was that same $1,000 used to deposit in the account of March 30th? A. That is right.

Q. On March 30, 1937? A. That is right.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1775] Q. I show you what has been identified as Board's Exhibit 13, and ask you to state whether or not your signature is contained on the lower right-hand corner? A. It is.

Q. Do you know whether or not that is the signature of Rose Todd, adjacent to your name (indicating)?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. You are, and have been, familiar with her signature, have you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was it wrote the "Nelly Don Loyalty League"?

A. I believe Miss Todd.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1778] By Mr. Leary:

Q. In order, Miss Hartman, that it not be necessary to call you back here later, I wonder if you at this time will state for me whether the names Rose K. Todd and Pauline Hartman on all of the checks you have handed me are the signatures of those two persons? Will you look at that entire group and state whether that is a fact?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. Now, Miss Hartman, I note that the last monthly statement you have handed me is for the month of July, 1937. A. Yes.

Q. Do you have any monthly statements for any period later than July, 1937? A. No, I haven't.

Q. Have you any explanation as to why you do not have them?

A. I simply haven't picked them up. We have this same balance.

Q. When you say you haven't picked them up, you mean you have not gone to the bank to obtain them?

[fol. 1779] A. That is right.

Mr. Langsdale: Is that July, 1937?

Mr. Leary: Yes.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. And as far as you know, there have been no checks written upon your account since the withdrawal of the $750 on July 22, 1937, leaving a bank balance at that time, and as of the present date, of $88.71?

A. That is right.

Q. Do you have any other financial records in your possession, Miss Hartman?

A. Yes, I do have.

Q. Will you state, please, what they are?

A. This (indicating) is merely an account showing the deposits on the proper dates, and the total checks issued, showing a daily balance from the bank.

This (indicating) is a record of the checks issued, merely a record of what you have there, the cancelled checks. And this (indicating) is the balance of the account. It is up to date, through March 6, 1939.

Q. The document you show me is a stenographic notebook, is it not?

A. It is just a notebook where I keep the record of all of the expenses and receipts.

Q. Miss Hartman, I notice you have in this book here certain entries for the year 1938 and for the year 1939. [fol. 1780] Now, are those expenses reflected in any way in your checking account, or did you handle them entirely by cash?

A. By check and by cash. I started that bank account in March, 1937.

These (indicating) are all checks through July 13, 1937. The balance is cash.

Q. Is it a fact, then, Miss Hartman, that you now have a balance of $435.49?

A. This isn't brought up to date, because I have some bills I haven't paid out of there. It isn't complete. Our last activity has not been completed.

Q. Your record shows that on March 6, 1939, you had a balance of $435.49?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, have you the records of your disbursements since that time?

A. It isn't complete. I have this here (indicating), but I don't have all of the bills.

Q. Are there any expenses of a major nature?

A. Only this one activity that we had, our picnic, in June.

Q. Did not your organization repay $750 on the loan sometime in 1937? A. That is right.

Q. Would you be able to select that date from the [fol. 1781] records which you have? A. July 19.

Q. Has the remaining $250 been repaid?

A. Yes, it has.

Q. On what date was that repaid?

A. On March 20, I believe.

Q. Do you have a record of that with you?

A. Yes. March 20.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. What year? A. 1939.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Are those two sections of the notebook which you have shown me the only sections that contain any writing or information pertaining to the Loyalty League?

A. That is right.

Q. They consist, do they not, of four pages all together? A. Yes.

Q. One, a group of three, and the last one a page entitled "Special Account"? A. That is right.

Q. Do you have any other financial records in your possession?

A. I have the itemized account of each activity — of the net profit of each activity.

Q. Will you let me see that, please?

A. (Handing the document to Mr. Leary.) This is October, 1938.

Q. That was a carnival and dance that you held?

A. That is right.

[fol. 1782] Q. Do you have any other records, or are all of your other records itemized accounts of your individual activities? A. That is right.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1783] Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Miss Hartman, I assume that you didn't go to the bank with Miss Todd to negotiate the loan?

A. No.

Q. You don't know anything about the circumstances surrounding a negotiation of the note?

A. Only what she told me.

Q. Now, I see that you paid $750 on it July 22, 1937?

A. That is right.

Q. Where did you get the money?

A. Well, part of that was made up from contributions from the employees.

Q. Well, have you any record of those contributions?

A. That is in my records you have there.

Q. You mean in this record (indicating)?

A. That is right.

(Whereupon, the record above referred to was handed by Mr. Langsdale to the witness.)

Q. Now, you show that $501.10 as of the date of the 13th of May? A. Right.

Q. How did you get $501.10 from the employees on the 13th of May?

A. Well, each employee, I believe it was 50 cents was taken up during that week. I just accumulated it at that time. It was given to me and I totaled it at that time.

Q. Well, how did they give it? Did you go around from machine to machine and collect the 50 cents?

A. I do not know about that.

Q. Have you any idea at all when and where the employees contributed 50 cents apiece?

A. No, I do not know.

Q. Well, from whom did you get the money?

A. From the representatives of each department.

Q. That is, those representatives who were representatives in the Loyalty League? A. That is right.

Q. And how they got the money, or when or where, you haven't any idea? A. That is right.

Q. Now, you have as of the 21st of May, $71.50?

A. Yes. That is a balance of cash.

[fol. 1785] Q. Where did you get that?

A. That is the balance of that figure (indicating).

Q. Well, that is some money you also got from the representatives of the different departments, that is, the Loyalty League representatives?

A. No. Let me see. I don't have any notation on that. Well, that was cash that was deposited at that time.

Q. I know, but where did you get the cash?

A. That was from that same source. It was all that employees' contribution.

Q. That was from the Loyalty League representatives then? A. They turned in the money.

Q. Did you keep any record of the amount that was turned over to you by each representative of each department? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Is this the only record you have of $501.10 and $71.50? A. That is right.

. . . . . .

[fol. 1786] Q. Now, this one page, entitled "Special Account," is the only record you ever kept of the receipts and the disbursements of the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

[fol. 1787] A. That is right.

* * * * * *

Q. Miss Hartman, I show you this loose-leaf page in the notebook which has been marked I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 12. That is a page from which you have been testifying about the cash of $501.10 and $71.50; that is correct, is it? A. That is right.

(The notebook page above referred to was marked for identification "I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 12.").

Q. And that, with the $1,000 that you got from the First National Bank, are all of the receipts that you have noted for the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. In addition to this, what I showed you up here (indicating).

Q. Exhibit No. 12 is in pencil, the notations, that is correct, is it? A. Yes.

Q. Where is the other page you showed me?

* * * * * *

[fol. 1788] Trial Examiner Batten: There are four pages there, so that will be No. 13-A, 13-B, and whatever it is.

Mr. Langsdale: There are only three.

The Witness: Yes. I thought there were four.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. In addition to I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 12, you have in this lose leaf notebook, in pencil, some other records on the pages that have been marked I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 13-A, 13-B, and 13-C, have you?

A. That is right.

(The notebook pages above referred to were thereupon marked for identification "I. L. G. W. U. Exhibits Nos. 13-A, 13-B, 13-C.")

Q. Those are all of the records that you have ever kept of the receipts and disbursements of the Nelly Don Loyalty League since its creation in the early part of 1935?

A. In addition to what you have on your desk.
Q. Have you any other records of disbursements?
A. No.
Q. Of receipts? A. No.

Q. What I have on my desk are checks and bank statements? A. That is right.

[fol. 1789] Mr. Ingraham: Just a minute, Mr. Langsdale I understood the witness to testify this morning about some other papers that were records of entertainments that she had.

Mr. Langsdale: Here they are.

The Witness: That is what I am referring to.

Mr. Ingraham: I thought she handed some loose papers to somebody. Have you got those?

Mr. Langsdale: Will you pick out of these any other records of receipts or disbursements that you have kept of the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

(Whereupon, the above requested documents were handed to Mr. Langsdale by the witness.)

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Now, you have handed me a sheet of paper typewritten which is headed "Loyalty League Dance, 11-22-35", have you?
A. That is right.
Q. That is typewritten?
A. That is right.
Q. And you have handed me a sheet of paper which is marked "L.L. Dance, Stueben Club, 11-20-36"?
A. That is right.
Q. That is the record of the receipts and disbursements for some entertainment given on the 20th of November, 1936, at the Steuyben Club?
A. That is right.
[fol. 1790] You have handed me a sheet of paper which is headed "Loyalty League Dance, Plaza Hall, 2-5-37"?
A. That is right.
Q. Is that a record of the receipts and disbursements of that dance?
A. That is right.
Q. And that is typewritten?

A. That is right.

Q. You have handed me a sheet of paper which is dated "April 17, 1936" and headed "Dance, Stueben Club". Is that a record of the receipts and disbursements of that dance?

A. That is right.

Q That is in typewriting?

A. That is right.

Q. And you have handed me a sheet of paper which is dated 4-29-38, and it is headed "Loyalty League May Dance, Scottish Rite Temple."

A. That is right.

Q. Is that a record of the receipts and disbursements of that dance?

A. That is right.

Q. That is in typewriting?

A. That is right.

Q. You have some notations at the bottom. Are they in ink or pencil?

[fol. 1791] A. Pencil.

Q. This pink sheet of paper, entitled "L. L. Dance, 11-20-36, Stueben Club", is that in pencil?

A. Pencil.

Q. You have handed me a sheet of paper dated 10-29-38, entitled "Loyalty League [Carnial] and Dance, Ararat Temple".

A. That is right.

Q. It that a record of the receipts and disbursements of the dance given on that date?

A. That is right.

Q. At that place?

A. That is right.

Q. And that is in ink?

A. Right.

Q. And you have handed me a sheet of paper dated 2-12-36, entitled "N. D. L. L. Valentine Dance, Pla-Mor"?

A. That is right.

Q. It that a record of the receipts and disbursements of that party?

A. That is right.

Q. And that is in ink?

A. That is in pencil.

Q. Is that pencil? That is in pencil?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, those are all the records that you ever kept of [fol. 1792] any of the receipts and disbursements of the Loyalty League?

A. That is right.

Q. These records kept on I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit 13, A, B, C, purport to be records of receipts and disbursements from January 1, 1936, to March 6, 1939?

A. That is right.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1793] Mr. Langsdale: We offer these checks which have been identified as Board's exhibits Nos. 21-A to 21-O, inclusive.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent makes its continuing objection to these exhibits.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may have a continuing objection.

Mr. Lane: We make our general objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is, the same continuing objection you have made?

Mr. Lane: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: I will reserve decision on the offer.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Miss Hartman, I hand you this sheet of paper which has been marked Board's Exhibit No. 22, which purports to be a record of an account kept in the First National Bank. A. That is right.

(Thereupon the statement above referred to was marked for identification "Board's Exhibit No. 22.")

Q. Is that record in your handwriting or in the handwriting of someone connected with the bank?

A. It is mine.

Q. That is a record you made?

A. That is my own record.

Q. I note that you have as of May 24, 1937, a deposit [fol. 1794] of $229.89 in the First National Bank. Where did you get that money?

A. That is probably made up of some money I had on hand.

Q. Do you know where you got it?

A. I can't tell you without going over all of those records again.

Q. Have you any records to show you where you got the money on deposit that day?

A. No, only the records you have.

Q. Will you look at them and tell me where you got it?

Trial Examiner Batten: Miss Reporter, a while ago you marked the pages showing the receipts Union's Exhibit No. 12 and the disbursements Union's exhibit No. 13-A, B and C. I want those numbers withdrawn and changed, Union's exhibit No. 12 to Board's exhibit No. 23, and Union's exhibit No. 13-A, B, and C withdrawn and changed to Board's exhibit No. 24-A, B, and C.

(Thereupon the exhibits above referred to were withdrawn as I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 12 and I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 13-A, 13-B, and 13-C, and marked for identification "Board's Exhibits Nos. 23 and 24-A, 24-B, and 24-C.")

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Have you figured out where you got the money?

A. I am not able to tell you the exact amount. It no doubt is made up of this one item of $127.63, on February [fol. 1795] 22, plus $68.50, an item on May 4. That totals $196.13, leaving a difference of $33, which I no doubt used as the money I had on hand.

Q. Where were you keeping that money in February, 1937?

A. I always kept cash on hand. I made no attempt to deposit all of the money in the bank.

Q. Where did you keep that? A. Down in the safe.

Q. In the office?

A. In the office. I had no other place to keep it.

Q. In your opinion those two items you have mentioned are part of the $229.89? A. That is right.

Q. You don't know where you got the balance of it?

A. It was just the cash I had on hand at that time, but I don't have an analysis of this item.

Q. What are those dates?

A. The dates I called to you?

Q. Yes. A. February 22.

Q. And that was how much? A. $127.63.

Q. You had that money, and borrowed $1,000 from the bank?

A. Yes. This was the proceeds of the dance at the Plaza Hall.

[fol. 1796] Q. But you still had the money, and you borrowed the money from the bank? A. Yes.

Q. What is the other item? A. $68.50.

Q. What is the date of that?

A. May 4. That was the date of the deposit.

Q. That was obtained where?

A. That was the proceeds of a dance at the Pla-Mor.

Q. These checks that are marked Board's exhibit 21-A to O, inclusive, all of the checks were drawn on the account in the First National Bank of the Nelly Don Loyalty League? A. That is right.

Q. Do you say to the Examiner that you never saw a constitution of the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

Mr. Patten: We object to that. It is repetitious — going over the same ground the Board has gone over.

Mr. Langsdale. It is preliminary.

Trial Examiner Batten: If it is a preliminary question you may ask it. She has already testified to that, that she has never seen one or heard of one.

The Witness: The question was asked, had I seen one? I said no.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Had you ever heard of one? A. No.

[fol. 1797] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. I notice these checks are signed "Rose K. Todd and Pauline Hartman."

A. That is right.

Q. How did it happen that you signed those checks with those two names?

A. I think perhaps the bank requested two signatures.

Q. Well, do you know anything about that?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Where did you get the information that the bank requested two signatures?

A. Miss Todd told me to go down and put my name on a signature card at the First National Bank.

Q. Which you did? A. Which I did.

Q. And did you observe that her name was there?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you any idea when she went out of the office as president of the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. It was early in 1937. I can't tell you exactly when.

Q. Have you any idea at all?

A. It seems to me it should be May of 1937. I am not positive.

Q. Well, I note here that Board's exhibit No. 21-J, dated July, 1937, signed "Nelly Don Loyalty League, by Rose K. Todd,"—Was she president at that time?

[fol. 1798] A. She was president at that time, yes.

Q. When she signed this check dated July 19, 1937?

A. I believe she was.

[fol. 1799] Q. You think she was president then when she signed all of these checks?

A. I don't know the date. Let me think.

Q. Well, they all are dated April 1 to July 19, 1937. All of them signed "Donnelly Loyalty League by Rose K. Todd and Pauline Hartman." Was she president during all of that time?

A. I know she was president up to about, I think it is May. I am not positive. Now, whether or not we did not have her name taken off of the signature card on that, I do not know.

Q. I note that the balance of this note which has been marked Board's Exhibit 19 was paid on March 20, 1939. I don't see any check. Do you know how that payment was made?

A. That was made in cash.

Q. Well, how do you know that?

A. Because I had the money.

Q You took the cash over there?

A. That is right.

Q. And you paid the cash?

A. For the balance of the note, that is right.

Q. Can you show me anything on your records about having that cash on hand at that time?

A. July, 1937, the balance was $309.82.

Q. That was your bank balance?

A. This is made up of the bank balance and cash on hand. I have another sheet showing the bank account at all times.

[fol. 1800] Q. Well, will you show me the other sheet so I can see what was the bank account and what was the cash?

A. Well, we actually had $88.71 in the bank. The balance was cash on hand.

Q. And you, on March 20, 1939, then paid the balance of this note of $250 partly in cash and partly in check?

A. No, I paid it in cash.

Q. Do you remember how much interest you paid at that time? A. $23.92.

Q. When?

A. Wasn't that the difference? That is what it is, $273.92. I have a sheet here.

Q. Now, I hand you this, what has been marked as Board's Exhibit 25, and ask you to state what it is, if you know.

A. That is a statement from the First National Bank, the balance of our loan plus the interest.

(Thereupon, the document above referred to was marked as "Board's Exhibit No. 25" for identification.)

Q. The total is $273.92? A. That is right.

Q. You say you paid that all in cash?

A. That is right.

Mr. Langsdale: The Board offers its Exhibit 25.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent makes the same continuing [fol. 1801] objection to this exhibit.

Mr. Langsdale: I think that is all.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Miss Hartman, did the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company ever pay or contribute any money to the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. They did not.

Mr. Leary: I object to that.

By Mr. Stottle: Miss Hartman—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): What is the basis of your objection?

Mr. Leary: It calls for a conclusion. I think she might say what was said or done, but as to whether or not they made a payment, I don't think she is in a position to testify.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may stand.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Well, did you receive, as Treasurer of the Nelly Don Loyalty League, any money from the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company?

A. I did not.

Q. Miss Hartman, I believe you testified that in answer to one of Mr. Langsdale's questions, that Miss Todd may have continued to sign checks after she resigned as President of the Loyalty League, on account of her name not having been changed at the bank? A. That is right.

[fol. 1802] JACK McCONAUGHEY,

a witness called by and on behalf of the National Labor Relations Board, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. State your name and address, please.

A. Jack McConaughey, 3104 Paseo.

Q. By whom are you employed?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed there?

A. Nine years.

Q. Are you a member of the Donnelly Garment Work-
[fol. 1803] ers' Union? A. I am.

Q. How long have you been a member?

A. A little over 2 years.

Q. Are you the treasurer of the organization at this time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you always been the treasurer of the organization? A. No.

Q. Who was the first treasurer? A. Mr. Fred Brown.

Q. Who was he? A. Beg pardon?
Q. Who was he?
A. He is in the cutting department.
Q. When did you become treasurer?
A. In April of 1938.
Q. Do you have in your possession now the official treasury records of the organization? A. Yes, sir.
Q. And do those records indicate the receipts and disbursements from the time the organization began?
A. They do.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1804] Q. Do you have those 1337 records of Mr. Brown now? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Will you look at those records and tell me the first date on which any rent was paid to the Donnelly Garment Company for the use of space in the biulding known as the Thomas Corrigan Building, at 1828-30 Walnut Street, Kansas City, Missouri? A. In April of 1938.
Q. On what date? A. The 22d.

By Mr. Langsdale: April, 1938?
A. The 22d of April, 1938.

By Mr. Leary: To what book are you referring now, Mr. McConaughey?
A. I am looking at the cash disbursements and cash receipt books.
Q. And that, is that the ledger page for the month of April, 1938? A. It is.
[fol. 1805] Q. Will you point out that entry to me, please?
A. There, the third entry from the bottom (indicating).
Q. That shows that you paid on April 22, 1938, $33.00; is that correct? A. Yes, sir.
Q. And for what rentals and on what dates of rent does that entry cover?
A. I don't know what dates. It covers a year's rental.
Q. Is that a year in advance?
A. It is a year past. We don't know how many meetings we are going to have. We couldn't very well pay them in advance.
Q. You knew, then, in April, 1938, how many meetings you had had in the past. Is that right?
A. That is right.

Q. So you decided to pay the company for all the meetings you had in the last—

A. (Interrupting) Yes, sir.

[fol. 1806] Q. How many meetings had you had from the time your organization started until April 22, 1938?

A. That was paid on the basis of $3 a meeting, which would be eleven meetings.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1807] Q. I show you what has been marked for identification Board's Exhibit No. 26 and ask you to state briefly what that is.

A. A list of the dates of meetings, the first one beginning May 11, 1937, and ending with April 5, 1938.

(Thereupon, the list above referred to was marked for identification "Board's Exhibit No. 26.")

Q. That is the document to which reference has been made in my questions just previous regarding the name of "Marvin," and in whose writing it is, and so forth?

A. Yes.

Q. It is in Miss Todd's handwriting, and "Marvin" at the top refers to Marvin Price; is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 1808] Mr. Leary: The Board offers its exhibit No. 26.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent objects that it is immaterial and does not seem to throw any light upon the issues in this case.

Mr. Patten: Intervener has no objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will be received.

(Thereupon, the list previously marked, as above set out, "Board's Exhibit No. 26, was received in evidence.)

By Mr. Leary:

Q. What was your position at the company on April 27, 1937?

A. I was working in the service department, taking calls on complaints where the machines broke down.

Q. Were you a mechanic? A. No, sir.

Q. Is the service department sometimes referred to as the mechanical department? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who notified you that the April 27 meeting would be held?

A. I believe I heard it over the telephone. The telephone operator called on one of our house phones.

Q. What did the telephone operator tell you?

A. That Rose Todd had asked the employees to gather on the second floor for a meeting.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1809] Q. What do your records show, Mr. McConaughey, as to the money paid Mr. Frank Tyler?

A. Well, there are different entries throughout the book, Mr. Leary. I couldn't tell you in a round sum what has been paid Mr. Tyler.

Q. You start at the beginning of your book and tell me what has been paid to him.

A. All right. (Referring to book.)

The first entry is on the 23rd of November, 1937. Check to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler, $1,000.

The next entry is on the 10th of January. Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler—Pardon me. Do you want all checks [fol. 1810] to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler, or only those for legal services?

Q. Only for legal services. Do you have others for printing your briefs, and so forth? A. Yes.

Q. I am not concerned with those at the present.

A. The next entry for legal service is, January 28, 1938, a check for $250. On March 22, 1938, an entry of a check to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler for $600.

In April of 1938, the 13th, there is an entry for $650.

On July 19, a check to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler for $500.

On August 29, 1938, Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler, $250. On September 8, 1938, Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler, $250.

On May 16, 1939, Gossett, Ellis, Dietrict and Tyler, $2,000. That is the last entry.

Q. Are there any amounts due and owing Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler which are unpaid now?

A. Yes; there is a balance of $4,000 owed to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler at the present time.

Q. Have you been rendered a bill for that amount?
A. We have.
Q. Where is that bill?

* * * * * *

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. I refer you to Board's Exhibit 26, which purports to be a pencil memoranda of meetings held by the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union for which rent was paid, a total amount of $33.00. I note that on this exhibit is check No. 81.

A. That is right.

[fol. 1814] Q. Have you that check?

A. We have the cancelled checks, I believe. It would be April or May of '38. There is check No. 81.

(Thereupon, the check above referred to was handed by the witness to Mr. Langsdale.)

Q. Now, check No. 81 is drawn on the First National Bank, dated "Kansas City, Missouri, April 22, 1938," made payable to the Donnelly Garment Sales Company and the Donnelly Garment Company, $33.00, signed "Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Rose K. Todd, J. V. Brown"; is that correct? A. F. V. Brown.

Q. Who was F. V. Brown?

A. It was Fred Brown, the treasurer at that time.

Q. You became treasurer when?

A. I was elected in April, took the books over in May of 1938.

Q. The First National Bank is where you kept the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union account?

A. Yes, sir.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1816] Q. When the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed, you were, you stated, in the mechanical department.

A. That is right.

Q. You are not a machinist? A. No, sir.

Q. You just took the calls? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Some one else did the repair work? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you the head of that department?

A. No, sir.

Q. What would you call yourself?

A. Well, I was called everything. I never knew what to call myself.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Did you receive all the calls from all over the plant?

A. When I was there, yes. There was three phones there. If a machine would break down, or anything, they would call there, and I merely relayed it to the mechanics.

Q. How would you relay it to the mechanics?

A. I have a call board that I would reach out, and we had a coding for that, where the machine was.

Q. Just what would the call board show? Suppose I [fol. 1817] was a mechanic and I come in and I looked at the call board. What would it indicate?

A. Well, it would indicate the location of the machine and what was the matter with the machine, the time the call came in, the time it was answered, and the time it was finished being repaired.

Q. How would I know, supposing there was half a dozen, would I take the one that came in the soonest? Is that right? A. That is right.

[fol. 1825] WAVE TOBIN,

a witness called by and on behalf of the National Labor Relations Board, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. State your name and address, please.

A. Wave Tobin, the Aladdin Hotel, 1215 Wyandotte.

Q. By whom are you employed?

A. By the Kansas City Joint Board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Q. Of what is the Kansas City Joint Board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union composed?

[fol. 1826] A. The Kansas City Joint Board is made up of representatives of each local that we have in Kansas City.

Q. How many locals do you have in Kansas City?

A. Seven.

Q. And is there one local for each company with which you have contracts or agreements? A. No.

Q. Or do some of your locals encompass more than one shop? A. Yes, they do.

Q. How many shops in Kansas City are there with whom your organization has agreements?

A. There are about, I think, fifteen shops.

Q. Where are the International Offices of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. The International office, at 3 West 16th Street, New York.

* * * * * * *

Q. Do you know who the officers of the organization are at this time?

A. The president is David Dubinsky. He is the president and secretary-treasurer, and the general executive board is made up of twenty-one vice presidents.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Tobin, you are familiar with the contracts the International has made with garment companies located in Kansas City? A. I am.

Q. I will hand you Respondent's exhibit No. 2 and ask you if these are photostatic copies of contracts which the International has with other garment manufacturers in Kansas City.

A. There are two contracts here, one for the Liberty, and one for the Mayfair, which were the contracts negotiated in 1937, but have since been renewed with changes. The others are the contracts that are in force now.

Q. What are the names of the other companies?

A. Missouri, Gernes, and Gordon.

Mr. Ingraham: Respondent offers in evidence exhibit No. 2.

[fol. 1829] Mr. Leary: Now, I object to that, Mr. Examiner, as being entirely incompetent, immaterial, and irrelevant. It has no bearing on the issues in this matter that we are trying now.

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Examiner, counsel for the Board and counsel for the International have called the Examiner's attention to various provisions in the Donnelly Garment contract with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. I want to show that similar provisions are in the contracts that the International makes with other garment manufacturers.

Mr. Langsdale: The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union objects to the exhibit for the reason that the only purpose of offering the contract with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and the Donnelly Garment Company and the only purpose of calling attention to any provisions thereof was upon the question of whether or not there was bargaining as provided by the Wagner Act. The provisions of these contracts are in no way material. The comparison between these and the contracts between the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and the Donnelly Garment Company are in no way material. The only question is, were the contracts made with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and the Donnelly Garment Company the result of collective bargaining by a free and independent union, as provided by the Wagner Act and the National Labor Relations Act?

[fol. 1830] Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Leary, do you agree with Mr. Langsdale that the only purpose of the Donnelly contracts and the questions with respect to them was for the purpose of showing what negotiations were conducted, and that is all?

Mr. Leary: That is it, yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Of course, if that testimony is limited, as you say it is, I will reject the offer of these contracts, because any comparison of the contracts would be unnecessary.

By Mr. Ingraham: Mrs. Tobin, you are familiar with the Gernes Garment Company contract with the International, are you not? A. Yes.

[fol. 1831] By Mr. Ingraham: I will ask you if that contract did not contain the provision that "Present prices for piece workers shall remain intact and shall be based on a basis that not less than 75 per cent of the workers in the different departments of the shop shall be able to earn not less than $15 per week per capita."?

Mr. Langsdale: The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union objects to the question for all of the reasons heretofore stated as objections to the offer of the contract itself.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

[fol. 1834] THOMAS C. BOURKE, a witness called by and on behalf of the National Labor Relations Board was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Foster:

Q. State your name and address, please.

A. Thomas C. Bourke, 644 West Sixtieth Street Terrace.

Q. Mr. Bourke, what is your position or occupation?

A. President of Corrigan Properties, Inc.

Q. Does Corrigan Properties, Inc., have a lease with reference to the Corrigan Building at 1828 Walnut Street, which is leased to the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Yes.

* * * * * * *

Mr. Leary: It is hereby stipulated by and between the parties to this proceeding that the Donnelly Garment Company has since June 25, 1935, leased space in the building located at 1828-30 Walnut Street, Kansas City, Mo., otherwise known as the Thomas Corrigan Building, from the [fol. 1835] Corrigan Properties, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.

On June 25, 1935, a rental agreement was consummated covering the top seven floors of the 10-story building, plus 1,500 square feet in the basement of said building at the rent of $2,441 per month.

On July 24, 1936, the Corrigan Properties, Inc., consummated a rental agreement with the Donnelly Garment Company for the top eight floors of said building plus 1500 sq. ft. in the basement of said building at the rent of $3,000 per month.

On May 10, 1937, the Corrigan Properties, Inc., consummated an agreement with the Donnelly Garment Company for all ten floors of the building, plus all of the basement, excepting the portions used for utilities, at a rental of $3,500 per month. The total square feet of space in the basement of said building, [exlusive] of space used for utilities, is approximately 7,000 square feet.

On March 17, 1939, the Corrigan Properties, Inc., executed a rental agreement with the Donnelly Garment Company for all ten floors of the building, plus 7,000 square feet of basement space, at a monthly rental of $3,565, which lease has until August 31, 1939, to run.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, is that stipulation satisfactory?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Tyler?

[fol. 1836] Mr. Tyler: It is agreeable to me, of course, subject to the objection that it is incompetent, immaterial and irrelevant.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, respondent also objects that it is immaterial. We are stipulating as to the facts.

Trial Examiner Batten: When asking you about the stipulation I am not asking you to forego any objection. All you are agreeing to is the facts; whether or not they are relevant is an entirely different matter.

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mr. Bourke, you have been handling that building, the entire building, the Corrigan Properties, Inc., for how long? A. Practically since it was built in 1921.

Q. Have you since the Donnelly Garment Company has occupied any part of it had any representative at the building?

A. About five years ago we turned over the management of the building to E. B. Murray and Company. Is that the management you have reference to?

Q. That is a realty company?
A. He is a real estate operator, yes. He is a building operator.

• • • • • •

[fol. 1837] Q. Has there been anyone there representing either E. B. Murray or the Corrigan Properties, Inc., during the last five years?
A. Oh, yes, there has been somebody representing one or the other, I think.
Q. I mean, at the building. A. Yes, the employees.
Q. The employees of whom?
A. They are E. B. Murray's employees, as I understand it.
Q. Was there anyone there as manager of the building, of E. B. Murray?
A. Oh, I see what you mean. At the present time there is a man named Brady who is the manager of the building.
Q. Does he maintain an office in the building?
A. He has a desk there, yes. He doesn't spend his entire time there. I understand he spends some of it at another building.
Q. The boys who operate the elevator are whose employees? A. My understanding is they are Murray's.
Q. Do you know how long the first and second floors were vacant?
A. No, but I would say it was probably about three years, maybe four.
[fol. 1838] This is, immediately prior to May 10, 1937?
A. Yes.

• • • • • •

Q. Prior to May 10, 1937, were those two floors used for any purpose at all? A. Not to my recollection.
Q. Let's be more specific. From January 1, 1937, to May 10, 1937, was either the first or second floor used by anybody? A. Not to my recollection.
Q. Was any rent ever collected by the Corrigan Properties, Inc., for any use that either of those floors was put to between January 1, 1937 and May 10, 1937?
A. Well, I would have to consult some sort of record to give you a definite answer on that, for this reason, it is very possible that sometime during the period the second floor might have been used for a day or two or three days at a rental of a nominal sum. It seems to me at one time the Donnelly Garment Company did use the floor, or one of the floors down there for some temporary purpose, [fol. 1839] for just a matter of a few days. It was an inconsequential amount of money, so I don't recall the details, and I don't recall whether it was between the period January 1 and May 10, 1937. It might have been earlier than that, but it was somewhere in there.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1840] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Bourke, in 1937, prior to the execution of the extension agreement that you have referred to, did you advise the Donnelly Garment Company that if they extended the lease they would have to lease the entire building? A. When did you say I asked them that?

Q. In 1937.

A. Yes. That is when the extension agreement was made covering the entire building, yes.

Q. And that was your proposition, that the company take the entire building? A. It was my suggestion.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1841] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Bourke, did either the Corrigan Estate or Murray have a man named Joe Appleby down there in charge of the building for a time?

A. Yes. He was an employee, as I recall it, of Mr. Murray.

Q. Of Murray? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he had charge of the building during the time he was down there? A. That is right.

Q. Can you tell the dates he was down there now?

A. No, I can't [rell] you.

Q. Was he there in 1937? A. I think he was.

Mr. Leary: Mr. Examiner, we have had prepared from the bank statements which were used during the testimony of Miss Hartman in regard to the Nelly Don Loyalty League this morning, the exhibit for which Board's Exhibit No. 20 was reserved. I now offer that exhibit.

[fol. 1842] (Thereupon, the document above referred to was marked as "Board's Exhibit No. 20" for identification.)

Trial Examiner Batten: Have the other attorneys been furnished with a copy of it?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Mr. Leary: They all have, Mr. Examiner. I believe they all stated to me that they agree that the facts on Board's Exhibit 20 are the same as the facts and information contained on the bank statements that Miss Hartman was referring to; is that correct?

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Mr. Tyler: That is correct.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, that is subject to our continuing objection as to materiality as to the Loyalty League matter.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will be received subject to the objections of the respondent and the intervener, both that is, your continuing objections.

(The document heretofore marked as "Board's Exhibit No. 20" was received in evidence.)

Trial Examiner Batten: Board's Exhibit 21, in which I reserved a decision, will be received on the same basis, and Board's Exhibit 25, in which I reserved a decision, will be received on the same basis, subject to the same objections.

[fol. 1847] Mr. Foster: Mr. Examiner, I wish to state that the respective parties to this proceeding have signed a stipulation with reference to the nature and character of respondent's business, which I suggest be incorporated as part of the formal file of Board's exhibit No. 1, unless someone suggests to the contrary.

Trial Examiner Batten: That will be Board's exhibit No. 1-EEEE.

Mr. Foster: Will you mark this for identification?

(The stipulation above referred to was marked "Board's Exhibit No. 1-EEEE.")

* * * * * *

[fol. 1848] (Thereupon the stipulation ordered copied into the record will be found in words and figures, to-wit:)

"It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between Donnelly Garment Company, International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and Daniel J. Leary, attorney, Seventeenth Region, National Labor Relations Board, as follows:

I.

"1. Donnelly Garment Company, hereinafter referred to as respondent, is and has been since 1919 a corporation organized under and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Missouri, having its factory and principal place of business at 1828 Walnut Street, Kansas City, Missouri, and is now and has continuously been engaged in the business of designing, manufacturing, selling, and distributing low and medium priced ladies' garments chiefly of cotton, wool, acetate, rayon and linen content, under the trade name of "Nelly Don" and with the trade mark of a Nelly Don triangle. Respondent's garment business for the years 1937 and 1938 grossed over four million dollars ($4,000,000) per year.

"2: Respondent, in the course and conduct of its business, causes and has continually caused over ninety-nine (99) percent of the materials used in the manufacture of its garments, including cotton, wool, acetate, rayon, and linen, to be purchased and transported via rail from and [fol. 1849] through States of the United States, other than the State of Missouri, to the Kansas City, Missouri, factory of respondent, and causes and has continuously caused approximately ninety-six (96) percent of the garments designed, manufactured and sold to be transported and distributed via rail from the Kansas City, Missouri, factory into and through States of the United States other than the State of Missouri, to customers and to approximately 2,000 stores located in all of the States of the United States.

"3. The Donnelly Garment Sales Company has been since 1935 a corporation organized under and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of Missouri with its office and principal place of business at 1828 Walnut Street, Kansas City, Missouri, and is now and has been continuously exclusively engaged in the business of selling and distributing ladies' garments so manufactured by respondent. The officers of Donnelly Garment Company are:

President and Treasurer	Mrs. James A. Reed
Vice-President	Alex C. Green
Secretary	R. J. Ingraham

"The officers of Donnelly Garment Sales Company are:

President	Alex C. Green
Vice-President & Treasurer	Lee Baty
Secretary	R. J. Ingraham

[fol. 1850] II.

"It is stipulated and agreed that the operations of respondent have a close, intimate, and substantial relation to trade, traffic, and commerce among the several States and respondent is engaged in commerce within the meaning of Section 2 (6) and (7) of the National Labor Relations Act.

III.

"It is stipulated and agreed that this stipulation and the facts herein contained may be introduced and received into evidence in the hearing in the above entitled matter and have the same force and effect as if testified to by competent witness at said hearing.

"Dated at Kansas City, Missouri, this 30th day of June, nineteen hundred thirty nine (1939).

[fol. 1856] Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Leary, Board's Exhibits 22, 23 and 24 have not been offered, and Mr. Ingraham I think your record is clear. Mr. Langsdale your Exhibits Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 9 have not been offered. Your Exhibits 12 and 13, of course, we changed the number on those, made those Board's Exhibit 23 and 24 and they have not been offered by the Board.

Mr. Tyler, all of your exhibits thus far have been offered and received.

Mr. Leary: Board offers Exhibits 23 and 24-A, 24-B, 24-D.

Trial Examiner Batten: Board's Exhibits 23 and 24 were those accounts; 23 was the special fund account of the Donnelly Loyalty League and 24 was the general fund account.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent makes its continuing objection to any of these exhibits that refer to the Loyalty League matters, and also, we haven't as yet had an opportunity to check the correctness of the figures.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, of course, I might say this: that any exhibits which are received, of course, are received subject to correction if there are figures or dates [fol. 1857] that are found to be incorrect.

Mr. Stottle: Then, our continuing objection was as to the materiality of that Loyalty League evidence.

Mr. Tyler: Intervener renews its objection to any evidence in connection with the Loyalty League on the ground that it is purely a social organization, having no connection with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and that any of its actions would not in any way be binding on the intervener, and that it is immaterial and irrelevant to any issue in this case.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, they will be received.

(The documents heretofore marked as "Board's Exhibits Nos. 23 and 24-A, 24-B and 24-C" were received in evidence.)

* * * * * *

[fol. 1858] Mr. Leary: Board offers what purports to be Miss Hartman's memoranda of the Loyalty League and special account maintained at the First National Bank, identified as Board's Exhibit 22. I will have this photostated, and ask permission to insert the photostat.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will be received subject to the same objections by respondent and intervener as to Board's Exhibits 23 and 24.

(The document heretofore marked as "Board's Exhibit No. 22" was received in evidence.)

* * * * * *

Mr. Leary: Yes, I have several matters. I have the offer of proof that I desire to make at this time, in connection with certain sub-sections of paragraph 11.

Trial Examiner Batten: That will be marked Board's Exhibit 30.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1859] Mr. Ingraham (interrupting): Just a minute, Mr. Leary. What was the number of that last exhibit, the offer of proof?

Trial Examiner Batten: Board's Exhibit 30.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, the respondent objects to the exhibit 30 for the reason it is immaterial and irrelevant to any issue in this case, and refers to matters that occurred prior to the passage of the Wagner Act.

Mr. Tyler: Intervener makes the same objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: I will reserve the decision on it.

Mr. Leary: The Board at this time moves to strike from the complaint, in paragraph 11, subsection (h) and (j), and from subsection (o) the words " . . . Virginia Stroup, in October, 1935..." and the words "... and Lillian Wales . . ." And to strike from subsection (p) of the same paragraph the names of all persons listed, with the exception of Ellen Fry, Glynn Brooks, and Mamie Tubbesing.

Trial Examiner Batten: The motion will be allowed.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1861] Trial Examiner Batten: In accordance with the stipulation, which is marked Board's exhibit No. 1-DDDD, the Board has served upon all of the parties certain testimony taken from the N. R. A. proceeding and the so-called Judge Miller case.

I think I explained to the attorneys that for the purpose of putting all of this testimony in one place so that it may be bound separately and not mixed up with all of the exhibits, I have designated all of these matters "N. R. A.-Judge Miller case" exhibits, beginning with No. 1, so that they will all be found in one place in the record with the testimony, the objections, and the rulings thereon.

The first exhibit, N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibit No. 1-A to BBBB is certain testimony which is offered by the Board from the N. R. A. proceedings and it consists of 80 pages.

N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibit No. 2-A, B, and C are the objections and motions of the respondent and intervener to strike the N. R. A. testimony offered by the Board. That is exhibit No. 1-A to BBBB, containing 80 pages, and the following ruling is made, endorsed on exhibit 2-A, B, and C, on sheet 2-C;—

Mr. Langsdale: How have you designated the objections?

Trial Examiner Batten: N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibit No. 2-A, B, and C.

The objection is overruled and the motion to strike is [fol. 1862] denied, and the acceptance of the testimony is not intended to enlarge the issues as defined by the pleadings, or to reverse the rulings heretofore made with reference to the introduction of evidence upon certain objections.

I want to say that proviso is attached to all of the rulings and will be hereafter attached to all of the testimony by the intervener, for the reason that in reading over the testimony I notice there have been some questions included that refer to the so-called loyalty pledge which was signed by all of the employees, or refers to some other matters which during the course of the proceedings I have stated I would not entertain evidence on.

I didn't want any of the attorneys to think that because there were a few questions in there involving some of those matters that I was in any way reversing my rulings on those subjects.

Mr. Ingraham: Are you receiving in evidence the testimony of the different named individuals that testified in the N. R. A. case with regard to their discharge and those matters they testified to in the N. R. A. proceedings?

Trial Examiner Batten: I am receiving it in accordance with this ruling, the testimony in exhibit No. 1, subject to that proviso which I stated.

Mr. Ingraham: I don't understand what you are ruling out and what you are leaving in.

[fol. 1863] Trial Examiner Batten: I think if you take this and read it, Mr. Ingraham, you will understand just what I am receiving.

I have gone through the evidence and read it carefully and I find in some instances indirect reference to some of the matters which I have said I would not receive evidence upon, and I just want to make it clear that I am not reversing my rulings in opening up those two or three subjects for receipt of further testimony.

If there is any question about it after you go over it I will be very glad to clarify it.

Mr. Ingraham: Of course it will be necessary to go over that before we proceed with our evidence.

Trial Examiner Batten: If it meets with the satisfaction of the other attorneys, I have set aside N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibit No. 3 for the N. R. A. testimony which will be offered or may be offered by the respondent so that it follows right after this testimony.

Mr. Ingraham: Then, you mean the respondent, in view of your ruling allowing in the N. R. A. testimony, may itself offer N. R. A. testimony without waiving its objections to the materiality and relevancy?

Trial Examiner Batten: Surely. That is why I set aside exhibit No. 3. In case you do want to offer some of it, it will be marked exhibit 3.

[fol. 1864] And I have set aside exhibit No. 4 for any N. R. A. testimony the intervener may want to offer under the same circumstances.

N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibit No. 5-A to 5-GG is certain testimony offered by the Board from the Judge Miller case, consisting of 33 pages.

Exhibit No. 6-A, B, and C, the objections and motions to strike, of the respondent and intervener.

Exhibit No. 5-A to 5-GG, the objection to such testimony is overruled, and the motion to strike is denied; and the acceptance of the testimony is not intended to enlarge the issues as defined by the pleadings or to reverse the rulings heretofore made with reference to the introduction of evidence upon certain subjects.

[fol. 1865] 7 is reserved for the respondent, for such testimony as it may offer with respect to 5-A to 5-GG, and 8 is reserved for the intervener for such testimony as it cares to offer with respect to 5-A to 5-GG.

9-A to 9-CC is certain testimoony from the Judge Miller case, offered by the Board, being the testimony of Sylvia Hull.

In the case of Exhibit 9-A to 9-CC, the respondent has indicated on the exhibit objections to certain questions through the entire testimony of 29 pages. The intervener objects to all of the testimony.

The rulings of the Trial Examiner are indicated on the various pages where the individual objections of the respondent appear, and as to the intervener's objection, the objection is overruled and the motion to strike is denied and acceptance of the testimony is not intended to enlarge the issues as defined by the pleadings or to reverse rulings heretofore made with respect to the introduction of evidence upon certain subjects. The objections being marked 10-A, consisting of one sheet, and the rulings entered thereon.

11 is reserved for such testimony as respondent offers in connection with 9, and 11 is reserved for there intervener for the same reason—

Mr. Tyler (interrupting): You mean 12?

Trial Examiner Batten: or 12, pardon me, for the inter[fol. 1866] vener.

NRA-Judge Miller Case Exhibits 13-A to 13-R, consisting of 18 pages, is certain testimony from the Judge Miller case offered by the Board.

Exhibit 14 is the objections by the respondent to 13-A to 13-R, and the following ruling:

Objection is overruled and acceptance of the testimony is not intended to enlarge the issues as defined by the pleadings, and, further, it is not the purpose in accepting the testimony to reverse any rulings heretofore made with respect to the introduction of evidence upon certain subjects.

In the case of Exhibits 13-A to 13-R, the intervener made no objection, and Mr. Tyler advises me that he would have no objection to that testimony. Is that correct, Mr. Tyler?

Mr. Tyler: That is correct

Trial Examiner Batten: Exhibit 14 has been reserved for such testimony as the respondent may offer with respect to 13-A to 13-R, and 15 reserved for the intervener for the same purpose.

Mr. Stottle: Pardon me, Mr. Examiner. You have said Exhibit 14 was our objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: Pardon me. The reservation for the respondent is 15 and for the intervener is 16.

Now, I think that covers all of the testimony that has been offered by the Board or the International Ladies' [fol. 1867] Garment Workers' Union; is that correct, Mr. Leary?

Mr. Leary: So far as I know, it does, Mr. Examiner.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you are not contemplating any more, are you?

Mr. Leary: No, I am not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1868] Mr. Leary: Mr. Examiner, during the recess I was informed by the witness for the Board, Thomas Bourke, by telephone, that there were no rentals collected for the first and second floors of the building at 1828-30 Walnut for the period January 1, 1937, to May 10, 1937, and I believe Mr. Ingraham and Mr. Tyler are willing to agree that if Mr. Bourke were here, he would so testify.

Trial Examiner Batten: Is that correct?

Mr. Ingraham: Correct.

Mr. Tyler: That is satisfactory with me.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1870] (Whereupon the hearing was resumed, pursuant to recess, at 2 p. m.)

Trial Examiner Batten: We are ready to proceed.

I think I should say, in connection with Mr. Leary's motion this morning to strike paragraphs (h) and (j) of the amended complaint, all testimony with respect to the two matters in those subparagraphs may be stricken from the record.

I want to further say, with respect to Mr. Leary's motion of June 21 to amend the complaint, the motion is allowed.

With respect to Board's exhibit No. 30, which was an offer of proof by the Board, the testimony which is attached thereto, Mr. Ingraham, and Mr. Tyler, I wish you would review that with a view of making such objections as you have to that testimony. And, Mr. Leary, you may present the witness referred to in your offer of proof subject to any objections the intervener or respondent has at that time.

And, Mr. Leary, will you have an original made of the testimony attached to Board's exhibit No. 30 so that Mr. Ingraham and Mr. Tyler may attach their objections to that to the original?

Mr. Leary: The original has been admitted as Board's exhibit No. 30.

Trial Examiner Batten: I want you to make another original so that it may be made a part of the N. R. A.-Judge [fol. 1871] Miller exhibits the same as we did this morning.

Mr. Leary: The format of Board's exhibit No. 30 is entirely different than that of the N. R. A.-Judge Miller testimony.

Trial Examiner Batten: I am simply saying I want to make it a part of the N. R. A.-Judge Miller exhibits. If you want to use a copy and that is agreeable to the respondent and intervener, you may do so.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1872] Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, respondent desires to file its motion to dismiss the complaint in its entirety.

Trial Examiner Batten: That will be marked Board's exhibit No. 1-FFFF.

[fol. 1873] (Thereupon the motion above referred to was marked for identification "Board's Exhibit No. 1-FFFFF.")

Mr. Stottle: The grounds of the motion, Mr. Examiner, are that there has been no substantial evidence in the record to support any of the charges. In some instances there has been some evidence but it has been of a conjectural and speculative nature that would not be sufficient to constitute a case against the respondent.

Mr. Tyler: If the court please, the intervener wishes at this point to demur to the evidence of the Board and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and move to dismiss the complaint on the grounds that the evidence introduced, if taken as true, would not be sufficient upon which to base any finding which would affect the rights of the intervener; it would be insufficient to base an order on just establishing the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union as bargaining representatives; it would be insufficient to base an order upon which would in any way cancel or affect the contract which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union have with their employers, or their contract rights; it would be insufficient in any way to use as a basis for any decree, order, or judgment affecting the rights and interests of the intervener.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, do you have any further motions?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

. . . . . .

[fol. 1874] Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, we have another motion to dismiss that goes to each of the paragraphs separately.

Trial Examiner Batten: The first is a general motion, and this is a specific motion.

Mr. Stottle: To practically all of the paragraphs, yes, but not every one of them. We will submit it at this time if you will give me a number.

Trial Examiner Batten: That will be Board's exhibit No. 1-GGGG.

(Thereupon the motion above referred to was marked for identification "Board's Exhibit No. 1-GGGG.")

* * * * * *

[fol. 1890] Mr. Tyler: Yes. If the Court please, I wish to amplify the motion of the intervener heretofore made to dismiss by adding as a basis for that motion that no evidentiary basis for any finding that the union was organized by the company or is company dominated has been laid, and that therefore no finding could be made, because no evidence has been submitted as a basis;

That no basis has been laid for any finding that the company coerced or intimidated or influenced any employee in joining the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union;

And that no basis has been laid for any possible finding that the company contributed, directly or indirectly, financial aid or other aid to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union;

No basis has been laid that the union is not a bona fide labor union, with all of the rights guaranteed such union under the Wagner Act;

[fol. 1891] And that no basis has been laid for any finding that the union is not a free will choice of the majority of the employees and is not entitled to representation of all of the employees in collective bargaining.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1892] Mrs. Elizabeth Gates Reeves, a witness called by and on behalf of respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. State your name, please.

A. Mrs. Elizabeth Gates Reeves.

Q. Mrs. Reeves, are you employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?

[fol. 1893] A. I am.

Q. How long have you been employeed at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Eighteen years.

Q. Will you just state the different positions you have held with the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. I started out as a payroll clerk. Then I helped Mrs. Reed around the factory for a number of years. And then I became production manager, and now merchandise manager.

Q. When were you production manager?

A. I was production manager, I would say, from about 1924 to approximately June, 1935.

Q. Will you just state what the duties of a production manager are?

A. Well, the duties of a production manager are to oversee the workings of a factory or the productive parts of a factory. It starts with the cutting of the dresses, until they are completely folded and ready to go into the shipping department. They supervise the personnel in the factory.

Q. Now, Mrs. Reeves, will you describe for the Examiner the plan of manufacture at the Donnelly plant?

A. Well, in manufacturing our dresses the first step is the buying of the piece goods.

After the piece goods is purchased the garments are designed.

[fol. 1894] We create our own original models. After the model is designed, one operator, who is in the booth with the designer, makes the first model. After that has been submitted and approved and accepted for the line the work begins, as far as matching up the trimmings and checking into the operations of just how this particular garment should be made.

To continue with the designing—

Q. (Interrupting) Just a minute. You mentioned its being accepted in the line. What do you mean by "line"?

A. Well, after a model has been designed and the Donnelly Garment Company decides that this particular style of garment should be put in its line of salesmen's samples, work starts as far as the actual planning of that garment is concerned.

Q. Is there a line gotten out by the company for each season in the year?

A. Yes. We have six different lines during the year.

Q. What are those seasons?

A. The first fall line, the second fall line, or holiday line, the first spring line, the second spring line, the first summer line, and the mid-summer line.

Q. Now, will you go ahead, please, with what happens next?

A. After the model is definitely decided upon to be put into the line for selling, a pattern is made, very carefully. We use perforated patterns. The pattern makers mark those into one long—It is rather hard to [fol. 1895] describe. They mark it in the different sizes. We call them block patterns. They mark in the sizes. The sleeves, skirts and everything in that particular garment is marked out, and then it is perforated.

We use those same patterns throughout the season.

The value of the use of that perforated pattern is that we are sure of perfect cutting and our operators have a perfect garment to work with and they don't have to worry if some operator comes along and cuts off a sleeve, they don't have to worry about what to do with that piece that is missing, and so forth.

While that part of the factory is planning and making our patterns another part of the factory is planning just how this particular garment should be made.

They write it out in detail, and describe in very great detail the instructions, as to whether an operation should put—For instance, on this dress (indicating), whether they should tuck these pockets or not. The next operation might be setting on the pockets after they are tucked.

As the next operation, a girl may be taking the skirt of this dress (indicating) and tucking that.

I am just using that as an illustration.

After that is all planned out in detail those instructions are sent down to the instructors, ready to be given out to the operators.

[fol. 1896] In the meantime the perforated [patters] I talked about a moment ago are sent down to the cutting department and the piece goods is spread up and we cut 142 layers deep, or maybe 100 or 125 dozen garments at a time.

After the garments are cut out, then the blocks, size 16, and so forth, are put over into the dividing department. We generally send down about 24 garments in a bundle. The front, back, sleeves, and so forth, size 16, are put in one bundle and sent to the operator, ready to sew.

In our planning department upstairs, which is in connection with my department, we plan in detail just what we are to cut, what styles are to be cut. Then, we take and figure out just how many—I say "we;" there is a young man there who is responsible for it, really. He figures out how many straight sewers will be needed on this, how many underarm seam binders, how many pocket girls, how many joiners, how many tuckers, how many zig-zag people, and so forth.

All of that detail work of planning is done upstairs on the tenth floor before it is sent down to the section. When it gets down to the section the instructor and the floor girl who help the operators in order to carry on their work a little more efficiently and better, they give out these bundles of work to the different operators as they are classified, whether they be underarm seam binders, straight sewers, or what-not.

[fol. 1897] After the garment is manufactured it is thoroughly examined to see if there are any flaws in the construction of the dress. If the dress is perfect, it is then sent to the button and buttonhole department, hooks and eyes, and snaps, and it is then pressed and folded and sent in to the shipping department ready to be sent out to our customers.

Q. Mrs. Reeves, will you describe what assistance time workers give to the operators of the machines?

A. We have two time operators to every section of approximately 40 machines who—one helps out, if an operator doesn't know just how to handle an operation she shows her how to handle it. The other girl gives out thread, binding, lace, and bundles of work.

Q. The first girl you mentioned, is she what is called an instructor? A. Yes.

Q. And the second girl is—

A. —a floor girl.

Trial Examiner Batten: Is that the one that is sometimes called a thread girl?

Mr. Ingraham: I was going to ask her that.

A. Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Reeves, will you name the executive heads of the various department?

A. Mr. George Keyes, Mr. Lee Baty—

[fol. 1898] Q. (Interrupting) Will you state the department that each is the head of?

A. Mr. George Keyes is in charge of sales, the order department, returned merchandise, and shipping.

Q. And Mr. Baty?

A. Mr. Baty is in charge of the production. He is production manager.

Q. Will you state how long he has been production manager? A. Since June, 1938.

Q. Now, what other heads are there?

A. Mrs. Stephenson is our credit manager. Mr. Bachofer is in charge of accounting, and office manager. I am in charge of merchandising. And I believe recently Mr. George Fitzgerald has been made advertising manager. Dewey Atchison is in charge of the cutting and the helping of the planning of the work. That is a recent duty, the planning of the work.

Q. Will you just state what departments come under the merchandising department?

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, I don't think the witness mentioned—On this chart I asked you for there is the designing, the pattern, and the employment.

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Who is in charge of the pattern and designing?

A. Mrs. Beulah Spilsbury.

[fol. 1899] Q. In charge of the personnel?

A. Mrs. Ella Mae Hyde.

Q. Does Mr. Baty have anything to do with that?

A. Yes. Mrs. Hyde is under Mr. Baty.

Q. Now, will you state what your work is as merchandise manager?

A. I am in charge of all of the purchasing, as to quantities, and so forth. I don't do the entire selecting. And then, I do the planning of what shall be cut and how much shall be cut.

Q. You mean, in charge of purchasing materials that are used in the manufacture of the garments?

A. Of purchasing everything.

Q. I will ask you, Mrs. Reeves, if the retail store is in your department?

A. Yes, directly—under me.

Q. Mrs. Reeves, what is sold in the retail store?

A. Remnants, notions—overstocks really.

Q. Mr. Reeves, I would like for you to describe the factory itself, the physical property, very briefly.

A. We have a 10-floor fireproof building, with windows on three sides.

I would say it is the most modern factory of its kind in the United States.

We have mostly daylight, and when it is necessary to use [fol. 1900] artificial lights we have plenty of them.

We have one entrance for all of the employees, both factory and office help and executives.

We have plenty of ice water, Coolerators, janitor service, maid service, and adequate washroom facilities.

Mr. Leary: I move to strike all of this witness' answers except the portion pertaining to the fact that it is a 10-story building as not being responsive.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may stand. I don't know that we need to know it in such detail. It is a good sales talk.

You may go ahead.

Q. (Continuing) We have hospital facilities, two trained nurses, a cafeteria, a recreation room for the boys, and a ladies' lounge where they can play cards and rest, and we have—Well, I think we have everything.

Trial Examiner Batten: Don't you have a little meeting room with a stage in it?

A. Yes. Downstairs we have an auditorium where the employees can give their own shows, or where we put on our style shows now.

I believe that describes it.

* * * * * *

Mr. Ingraham: Mrs. Reeves, I wish you would state [fol. 1901] whether or not in 1931 there was a change in the policy of the company in regard to increasing production and giving employment.

A. Yes. Up to 1931 it had been Mrs. Reed's policy to—

Mr. Leary (interrupting): Mr. Examiner, I believe this comes within the category of the testimony we are supposed to cover by the N. R. A. excerpts.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I think I spoke to Mr. Ingraham about that this morning. And of course the stipulation which you men drew provided that you might call witnesses. However, I asked Mr. Ingraham if he would not present it in written form wherever he could. If it is necessary to ask a question or two, where you want to enlarge upon it, you may do so.

Now, of course, under the circumstances, if you prefer to call all of these witnesses and examine them, you have that right, but if you exercise that right I certainly think it is beyond the understanding which we had.

Mr. Ingraham: This is leading up to the evidence which the Board has submitted dealing with these matters that we are taking up in this N. R. A. case.

Trial Examiner Batten: I say, Mr. Ingraham, you may proceed.

Mr. Ingraham: I will not go into it in any detail like it was gone into in the N. R. A. proceedings.

[fol. 1902] Trial Examiner Batten: As I said this morning, and just now, if there is a question or two to get the proper connection between the testimony you want and that which has been given before, you may go ahead, but I certainly want you to stay within reasonable bounds.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Go ahead, Mrs. Reeves.

A. Pardon me. Will you repeat the question, Mr. Ingraham?

Mr. Ingraham: Read the question, please.

(Thereupon the last question was read by the reporter.)

A. It was the policy not to put on people during the fall of the year, which in every wash dress industry is a slack season of the year, and the volume in summer would mostly more than take care of it.

In 1931, due to the fact that so many people were out of work, she changed her policy. As long as she had an excess of orders, she bought additional machines and put on a group of temporary workers. She put on approximately 100 in 1931, 100 more in 1932, as our spring and summer business warranted it, and another 100 in 1933, which we considered about 300 temporary or extra workers to take care of our summer rush.

Q. What occurred in 1934?

A. In 1934, due to a business slump generally, it was impossible for us to keep all of these extra employees busy, so we had to lay off, from July until October, approximately [fol. 1903] 300 people due to lack of work.

Q. I will ask you, Mrs. Reeves, if among the 300 employees that were laid off there was Ellen Fry, Tillie Shirlie, Pauline Lutz, Mamie Tubbesing, Thelma Owen, Glynn Brooks, Nora McKee, Olive Thompson—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): Now, are we interested in that entire list?

Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, the next question I intend to ask Mrs. Reeves is whether or not over half of these people were called back to work.

Trial Examiner Batten: Oh, well, then. I thought perhaps you—

Mr. Langsdale: If he is permitted to ask that we certainly want to disprove it on rebuttal.

Trial Examiner Batten: You go ahead and make your objections and I will pass upon the objections when they are made.

Mr. Ingraham: That is just what I don't understand. I understood Mr. Langsdale and the Board have offered evidence regarding these people, and their offers have been received.

Mr. Leary: Not regarding all of the persons you have named I suggest you read Board's exhibit No. 30 and note that it includes only three names.

Mr. Ingraham: But you submitted evidence on more than those three people, and the evidence has been received, [fol. 1904] as I understand it. You submitted evidence on about ten of them.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean in some of those other exhibits this morning?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Of course if there is other evidence there with respect to their discharge it should be stricken out, shouldn't it, Mr. Leary?

Mr. Leary: If it is limited strictly to their discharge, yes, but as to discriminatory remarks, and so forth, made to these persons, I don't think it should be stricken.

Trial Examiner Batten: I will say now, if there is any such testimony, Mr. Ingraham, in the exhibit, it certainly wasn't my intention that any of that testimony should remain in there with respect to the discharge of these people except those three, and in the N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibits Nos. 1 to 16 if there is any testimony of that nature it may be stricken, with respect to the discharge of all of the persons except—what were those three, Mr. Leary?

Mr. Leary: Tubbesing, Fry, and Brooks.

[fol. 1905] Mr. Ingraham: I will ask you whether or not—

Mr. Langsdale (Interrupting): Let me understand the Examiner. I offered the Judge Miller exhibit, the Judge Miller record of the testimony, with reference to some of these people who are not named in the three, by the Board, not for the purpose of proving an 8 (3), but for the purpose of showing other things that are pertinent and material to this hearing, and I don't know just what the Examiner means by saying that it is stricken. Do you mean for any purpose?

Trial Examiner Batten: I mean, Mr. Langsdale, exactly what I said.

Mr. Langsdale: I don't understand exactly what you said.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I think it is clear in the record. Mr. Reporter, will you read it, please?

(Whereupon the ruling of Trial Examiner Batten was read by the reporter.)

Mr. Langsdale: Now, I don't understand [that] you mean by "any testimony of that nature." There is certain evidence offered in these exhibits taken from the Judge Miller hearing with reference to other people than the three named by Mr. Leary, not offered for any purpose except to show other conclusions as to conduct of instructors, and surveillance, and matters of that sort, which I think is material and pertinent to this hearing. Do you mean by "testimony of that nature" an 8(3)? Of course, I submit that [fol. 1906] we didn't offer it for that purpose.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, if you didn't offer it for that purpose, then certainly my ruling can't in any way interfere with the purpose for which you offered it, Mr. Langsdale; I can't see that it does.

Mr. Langsdale: I didn't understand whether you were striking it out for all purposes.

Trial Examiner Batten: I stated very definitely just what it was being stricken out for.

Mr. Langsdale: Maybe I am dumb, but I didn't get it very definitely.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I am afraid the record will have to speak for itself.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Reeves, do you recall whether or not Ellen Fry, Glynn Brooks and Mamie Tubbesing were among the 300 persons that were let out in 1934?

A. They were.

Q. I will ask you to state whether or not there were any employees that were let out during 1934 for the reason of any union affiliations or activities, or any sympathy for any unions?

Mr. Leary: I object to that, Mr. Examiner, because it hasn't been shown that this witness knows why all the people down there were let out.

[fol. 1907] Mr. Ingraham: She was in charge of the factory.

Trial Examiner Batten: She may answer.

* * * * * *

A. They were not.

* * * * * * *

Mr. Ingraham: Mrs. Reeves, I hand you Respondent's Exhibit 6, which is a newspaper article appearing in the Kansas City Star, February 26, 1937, setting out statements by Meyer Purlstein and Wave Tobin, and ask you if if you have read that article.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1908] A. I did.

Mr. Ingraham: The respondent offers in evidence Exhibit 6.

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you have a copy of it?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, I have.

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you mean, you offer this whole article?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: For what purpose?

Mr. Ingraham: For the purpose of showing the situation at this time, and I will offer other articles up until April 23d, when Sylvia Hull and May Fike had their difficulty at the plant.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, are you offering this, all the statements in here as being true?

Mr. Ingraham: If your Honor please,—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Or not being true?

Mr. Ingraham: No, they are true. These statements were testified to in the Judge Miller case by Mr. Purlstein and Wave Tobin—by Mr. Purlstein.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, Mr.—

Mr. Leary (interrupting): Well, I submit if they are true that you better bring in that testimony.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I might say that I don't like trying these Labor Board cases in the newspapers.

[fol. 1909] Mr. Ingraham: Well, Mr. Leary offered a long article of Senator Reed's, and it set out the background and the history, and I am showing our side of this background. Now, I am asking this witness—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Well, of course, you stipulated on that yourself, that if the reporter were called, he would testify that the statements contained therein were true as related to him.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, they have stipulated that the Judge Miller evidence can be accepted.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, is this all contained in the Judge Miller testimony?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, then I will say you had better submit it as a transcript from that.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, I will prove as to the truth of this statement from the Judge Miller testimony, but I would like to examine this witness in regard to whether or not she read this and what occurred. As far as the facts being true, I will prove that by the Judge Miller evidence.

Mr. Leary: Well, I don't see in what direction Mr. Ingraham is pointing, Mr. Examiner, when he is going into this line of examination of this witness. I wonder if it is setting up an excuse for perhaps the discharges of Hull and Fike, or the formation of a Donnelly Garment [fol. 1910] Workers' Union, or is it a defense to some allegation in the complaint?

Mr. Ingraham: I am setting it up for the purpose of showing the situation.

Trial Examiner Batten: The general situation?

Mr. Ingraham: At that time.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, background?

Mr. Ingraham: That is right.

Mr. Tyler: If the court please, the intervener will also wish to use it on the ground that we are trying motives here, and inner intent, and you can't adequately try a question of that kind without showing the situation, to show what things would affect their intent, or their actual motive. There is no other way to get at motive and intent without showing the surrounding circumstances and things that would influence it.

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you expect me to be able to determine people's inner feelings?

Mr. Tyler: I think Your Honor is going to have to determine what the motive was, and you have got to base it on surrounding influences that would —

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): I am perfectly willing that you should have a reasonable amount of background, as the Board had in the NRA proceeding. They showed it almost entirely by transcript of that testimony. Now, if this means calling large number of witnesses for that purpose, I don't want to have the background, as I [fol. 1911] have said so many times in this case, become the picture.

Mr. Ingraham: I don't think it will result in that.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, if you want to offer it on that basis, I will receive it on that basis, that you offer it for, Mr. Ingraham, but not for the purpose which Mr. Tyler stated that he expected to use it for.

(The document heretofore marked as "Respondent's Exhibit No. 6" was received in evidence.)

Mr. Langsdale: There is a lot of this stuff that can't be proved by the witness here. They quote Senator Hugh Johnson about the NRA code. Now, I would like to put all that in.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Langsdale, I am not going to accept any newspaper article under any conditions to prove the truth or untruth of anything that is contained in it. If Mr. Ingraham wants to offer it as a newspaper article, for whatever it is worth, I will receive it. I am not going to accept newspaper articles as to the truth or untruth of anything that is contained in them.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1912] Mr. Ingraham: Mrs. Reeves, do I understand you to say that you read that article? A. Yes.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1913] Mr. Ingraham: What, if anything, happened at the Donnelly plant after that article appeared in the paper?

A. The employees were thoroughly indignant—

* * * * * *

Q. (Continuing) And as a result of their indignation, why, they got up a petition to present to Mrs. Reed, stating just what their feelings were toward the Donnelly Garment Company and their working conditions.

Trial Examiner Batten: Now, is this the petition that we have all been trying to get in here for three weeks?

Mr. Ingraham: No. This is the petition that was received in evidence.

Trial Examiner Batten: I see.

[fol. 1914] Mr. Ingraham: What is the number of that petition?

Mr. Leary: I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 10.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Reeves, in the case before Judge Miller in the Federal Court, did you have occasion to see the original of this document which is I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit 10?

A. I did.

Q. And was that the petition that you referred to when you said the employees circulated a petition? A. It was.

* * * * * * *

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Do you know whether or not there was a newspaper article in the Kansas City press on or about March 6th, purporting to set forth the speech of David Dubinsky made in Kansas City?

A. I believe so. I think I have seen that article.

Q. I will ask you, Mrs. Reeves, if on or about March 9, the Donnelly Garment Company received a letter from the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, on or about March 9, 1937? A. Yes.

[fol. 1915] Q. I will hand you Respondent's Exhibit 7, and ask you if you read that article that appeared in the Kansas City Journal Post on March 6, 1937.

* * * * * * *

A. Yes.

Mr. Ingraham: Respondent offers Exhibit 7.

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you have a copy of that?

Mr. Ingraham: I haven't, your Honor.

Trial Examiner Batten: Let me see that, please.

(Whereupon, the document above referred to was handed to the Examiner by Mr. Ingraham.)

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, now, it seems to me that we are getting into this political argument, apparently, between Dubinsky and Mr. Reed, which we certainly aren't interested in here. If those two men happen to have a feud, I don't know why everybody else has to suffer for their feud.

Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, I submit it will show the situation that existed and what now will follow—

Mr. Langsdale (interrupting): Is this the March 6 item in the paper?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Now, here is the thing: are you going to introduce the newspaper articles of the whole [fol. 1916] story, from start to finish, in connection with all the other plants and the violence, if there was any, and all that?

Mr. Ingraham: Not from the newspapers, no.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I am certainly not going to try this case with the newspapers.

Mr. Ingraham: No. The only matters that I am offering that appear in the newspapers are statements of Mr. Purlstein or Dubinsky, concerning the Donnelly Garment Company.

Trial Examiner Batten: And as I said, they are for the purpose that you offered the other exhibit 6?

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: Are there any objections?

Mr. Leary: Well, I object on the same ground as heretofore made, it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will be received.

(The document heretofore marked as "Respondent's Exhibit No. 7" was received in evidence.)

• • • • • •

[fol. 1917] Trial Examiner Batten: On the basis I received the other one, and this one, it doesn't open up anything, because I am not receiving it to show the truth or the untruth of any statements in the article, merely as an article from the newspaper for whatever it is worth.

Mr. Langsdale: If it is worth anything, it is worth rebutting.

Trial Examiner Batten: I say, there is nothing to rebut if it doesn't prove anything. If it doesn't prove the truth or the untruth of any statement contained in it, I don't think it opens up anything.

Mr. Leary: For all of your reasons, I don't think it should be admitted, Mr. Examiner.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I am admitting it, Mr. Leary, as I told Mr. Ingraham, and he is offering it for the purpose of showing the background of what was occurring about that time, and on that basis I will receive it.

• • • • • •

Mr. Ingraham: I will hand you Respondent's Exhibit 8-A and 8-B, and ask you if you saw the original of [fol. 1918] that letter? A. Yes, sir.

• • • • • •

Mr. Ingraham: Well, then, respondent offers Exhibits 8-A and 8-B.

• • • • • •

[fol. 1920] (The document heretofore marked as "Respondent's Exhibit No. 8" was received in evidence.)

• • • • • •

[fol. 1921] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Reeves, were you at a meeting at the Donnelly Garment Company on March 18, 1937? A. I was not.

Q. Where were you at that time, Mrs. Reeves?

A. I was in New York City.

Q. And how long were you away from Kansas City at that time?

[fol. 1922] A. Oh, I would say approximately 6 weeks.

Q. Mrs. Reeves, did you talk to Sylvia Hull on or about April 23, 1937? A. No.

Q. Did you know anything about the difficulties that Sylvia Hull had April 22, 1937,—April 23, 1937?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Were you in town at that time?

A. I don't believe I was.

Q. Did you have any conversation with Fern Sigler on or about April 23, 1937? A. I did not.

Q. Mrs. Reeves, did you ever have any conversation with Elsa Graham Greenhaw, with reference to union affiliations? A. I did not.

Q. Did she work in your department?

A. She did not.

Q. Did you, at any time prior to April 27, 1937, call in a group of operators to your office and discuss the formation of a union? A. I did not.

Q. Have you ever, at any time, discussed with any employees of the Donnelly Garment Company the advisability of organizing a plant union? A. I have not.

[fol. 1923] Q. Did you ever instruct, advise or suggest in any manner, directly or indirectly, to any employees of the Donnelly Garment Company, or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, that they should join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and should not join the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Batty, or any other executive or person with authority to hire or fire, suggest or advise, directly or indirectly, the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, to form a union or to join in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever hear any of those persons ever advise or suggest or instruct the employees not to join the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. No.

Q. Did you ever say anything in order to intimidate any employees by threatening the loss of their jobs if they joined the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever intimidate any employees in any way in order to force them to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

[fol. 1924] Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Green or Mr. Baty ever make any statement or suggestion in order to intimidate any employee not to join the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you hear any of those persons ever make any statement in order to intimidate employees to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Have you ever contributed any financial support to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I have not.

Q. To your knowledge, has Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes or Mr. Batty ever contributed financially, directly or indirectly, to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. They have not.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, as far as you know?

A. As far as I know.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Has the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company contributed financially to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, as far as you know? A. As far as I know, they have not.

[fol. 1925] Q. Do you know of any assistance that you have given the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I haven't given them any assistance.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of typewriters by members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union for the purpose of writing union minutes or any other union business? A. I have not.

[fol. 1926] Q. Did you ever authorize Marjorie Green to use the company's typewriters for the purpose of writing the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union minutes?

A. I did not.

Q. Does Marjorie Green work in your department?

A. She does.

Q. Did you ever discharge or recommend that any employee be discharged on account of their union affiliations or sympathies? A. I have not.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes, or Mr. Baty, or any other person with authority to hire or fire ever recommend that an employee be discharged on account of their union affiliations? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever authorized the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or any member thereof to use the bulletin boards in the plant for the purpose of union business?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever seen any union notices on the bulletin board? A. No.

Q. Have you ever interfered in any way, directly or indirectly, with any employee's right to join any labor organization?

[fol. 1927] A. I have not.

Q. I will ask you, Mrs. Reeves, were you present when the contract between the Donnelly Garment Company, the Donnelly Garment Sales Company and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was entered into?

A. I was not.

Q. You did not take part in any of the negotiations?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you in any way assist in the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you at any time assist in the formation of the Donnelly Loyalty League? A. I did not.

Q. Were you a member of that organization?

A. I was a member. I still am a member.

Q. Did you join after it was organized? A. Yes.

Q. Will you state whether or not that organization at any time dealt with the company respecting hours and wages and conditions of employment of the employees?

A. They did not. It was purely a social organization, and—

Mr. Langsdale (Interrupting). Just a moment. I ask that the latter part of the answer be stricken out as not responsive, "It is purely a social organization."

[fol. 1928] Mr. Ingraham: State whether or not—

Mr. Langsdale (Interrupting): Just a minute. I want a ruling on that.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, it may be stricken.

Mr. Ingraham: State whether or not the Donnelly Loyalty League is a social organization.

Mr. Langsdale: I object to that as calling for a conclusion of the witness, not asking her to state the entire activities of the organization so that the Examiner may pass upon it himself.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may answer.

A. It is a social organization. It was originally organized to refute untrue statements—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): Just a moment. The question is, is it a social organization? I think I should probably say the same to you as I have some prior witnesses: If you answer the question and stop you will get yourself into less difficulty.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Will you state what the activities of that organization are?

A. Now they are just purely social.

Q. Has it always been just a social organization?

A. No. It was originally organized for social reasons and also to refute untrue and false statements that were made by outside interests.

[fol. 1929] Q. Did the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company organize the Loyalty League? A. Yes.

Q. Did any officer or official of the Donnelly Garment Company, to your knowledge, instruct or advise the formation of that organization? A. They did not.

Q. To your knowledge has the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company ever contributed financially to that organization?

A. They have not.

Q. Do you pay dues in that organization?

A. We do not.

Q. How does that organization pay any expenses that it may have, that you know of?

A. Well, they give carnivals, and they give shows, and they give dances and picnics, mostly by donations of the Donnelly Garment Company as far as the picnics are concerned. By "donations" I mean donations of cake, potato salad, and stuff like that. And at the carnivals you go and spend as much as you want to.

Q. State whether or not the officers or the officials of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company have ever assisted, to your knowledge, in any way, directly or indirectly, the Nelly Don Loyalty League.

[fol. 1930] A. Well, indirectly. I certainly attended some carnivals and I bought plenty of soda pop, and I bought plenty of tickets for their plays.

Q. By tickets, you mean—

A. Admission to the plays.

Q. You say "plenty of tickets."

A. Well, two tickets. Every time there has been a show I bought a ticket for myself and escort.

* * * * * * *

Mr. Ingraham: Are there any other organizations of [fol. 1931] the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes.

Q. Will you state the names of those organizations?

A. Well, there is The Pioneers, the Nelly Don Athletic Association, and I think practically every section has some kind of a club. They have what they call the Krazy Kats.

Trial Examiner Batten: And the Betty Boop?

A. Yes. I believe there must be 20 or 30 of them. I really couldn't remember them all.

Trial Examiner Batten: We are only interested in the ones that are named in the complaint.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you ever authorize any employee of the Donnelly Garment Company to solicit membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union during working hours or at any other time? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever have anything to do with the solicitation of membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of any of the company's property for purposes of the union? A. No.

Q. Have you ever dominated in any way any employees of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company in order to force them to join any particular union?

[fol. 1932] Mr. Leary: Now, I object to that as calling for a conclusion.

Trial Examiner Batten: Of course we might do what we did with one other witness, have her tell us what domination means, and then have her answer the question.

Mr. Ingraham: Do you know what the word domination means?

I will use the other witness' word, instead of domination.

Did you ever coerce any employees?

Mr. Leary: I make the same objection, that it calls for a conclusion.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Do you know what coerce means?

A. I don't know what Webster says, but I think coerce means—Yes, I know what it means.

Q. What?

A. I think it means to force somebody, either mentally or physically, to do something against their will.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, we might compare that with the other definition that one of the attorneys gave. I think you may answer.

Mr. Langsdale: She has looked it up since I gave that definition.

The Witness: I beg your pardon. I never heard you.

Trial Examiner Batten: Did you ever coerce anyone [fol. 1933] into joining any organization?

A. I did not.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you at any time ever suggest to Rose Todd or any other employee that he or she organize or promote the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Will you state, if you know, what position Rose Todd holds with the Donnelly Garment Company, or what her duties are?

A. Well, Rose Todd works in the factory, and she is a —I would say a sort of a go-between between the sections that are actually working on the garments, helping them check up. In an organization of that kind there are lots of things that get misplaced, like lace, buttons, and things like that, and she assists in getting things to the section that they need to work with, and notifying anyone if the operators do not have what they need to work with, such as if we had a cut of work downstairs and we didn't have the proper kind of thread she would check up on it and notify me. And the same, whether it be lace, buttons, rick rack or whatever it is.

Q. Is Rose Todd in a supervisory position?

A. She is not.

Q. I will ask you, Mrs. Reeves, if you ever authorized any employees to use the telephone for union business.

[fol. 1934] A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever authorize the bundle boys or the boys that pick up packages to carry messages for union purposes?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever know of that being done?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever know of any employee, and particularly Marjorie Green, using the company typewriter for union business? A. I did not.

Q. Has Rose Todd ever been in a supervisory capacity?

A. She has not.

Mr. Ingraham: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mrs. Reeves, has an instructor in the Donnelly Garment Company factory the authority to hire any employee?

A. They do not.

Q. Or to fire any employee? A. They do not.

[fol. 1935] Q. Or to transfer them from one department to another? A. They do not.

Q. Or to reprimand them for the way in which they do their work? A. No.

Q. Just tell us what the authority that an instructor has from the company is.

A. The authority that an instructor has from the company is to keep the operators in plenty of work and to follow the outline that is sent down to her from the office, as far as planning, and if it is impossible for her to do that, for some reason, she consults with Mr. Baty, and he attends to all of the affairs as to personnel, transferring operators, and hiring and firing; and Mrs. Hyde assists him, under his instructions.

Q. Might she on some occasions pass along orders she would receive from somebody else?

A. I don't believe so, no.

Q. She shows the operators how to do work in cases where they are not clear about it themselves?

A. Yes, as far as setting a pocket on, or some such operation is concerned.

Q. That would apply especially to beginners?

A. No. Every time you have new merchandise in the factory, it applies to that. There are little things that [fol. 1936] come up sometimes.

Q. Do some of the operators make more money than the instructors?

A. I believe so. Quite a lot.

Q. Do you know anything about the building of a stage in the auditorium on the second floor; that is, do you know why it was built?

A. No, I don't believe I do.

Q. Did it have anything to do with the company's giving style shows?

A. Yes. We do use it constantly for style shows. That is where we give all of our style shows.

Mr. Ingraham: I don't understand this. Did you say the second floor?

Mr. Tyler: I meant to say the first floor.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Is that the auditorium?

A. Yes, that is where the auditorium is.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. That is the place used by the company to give style shows? A. Yes.

Q. And you say they give them frequently?

A. About every two weeks.

Q. What is the purpose of those style shows?

A. To sell merchandise.

Q. Is that style show given in connection with selling [fol. 1937] merchandise?

A. Yes. We invite buyers in and give a regular style show and model all of our garments—purely for selling.

Q. Do the instructors punch the time clock in the factory? A. They do.

Mr. Tyler: That is all.

[fol. 1939] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Before Dewey Atchison was in the position he has now what was his work?

A. He was in the cutting department.

Q. I believe you testified he is in the cutting and planning now. A. Yes.

Q. What was he doing before that?

A. Well, in 1935 he was my assistant.

Q. He was assistant production manager?

A. In 1935.

Q. How long had he been assistant production manager?

A. Oh, about three or four years, I guess. Previous [fol. 1940] to that time he was a cutter.

Q. When did he cease to be assistant production manager?

A. Well, he started in, I believe—I am a little hazy on it, but I believe he did some efficiency work, individual work in planning and setting up some work throughout the factory for a period of time. I don't know just exactly what period of time that was.

[fol. 1941] Q. Was that after he had been your assistant?

A. Yes. He did some individual engineering work.

Q. Was that the same type of work that he does now?

A. No. He went into something on—I don't know. Well, I really can't answer you.

Q. You tell us what he does now.

A. Well, what he does now. Well, after he assists me, after I plan how many garments are going to be sold, or I think are going to be sold, and taking the figures, and orders, and so forth, Mr. Atchinson analyzes that particular garment and sends it down to each section where it is to be made. We have certain sections that make certain types of work, and other sections that make other kinds of work. By that, I mean that if a section has been used to doing a lot of zigzagging and underarm seam binding, and things like that, why, he analyzes the garment and tells where that cut should go. Then he follows in detail and breaks that down a little bit further and analyzes how many operators shall be put on this particular garment of each type, in order to get it out.

Q. How long [have you] been doing that?

A. Well, I think that last job he has been doing for about the last 6 months, and as far as routing the cuttings, he has been doing that, I would say, for about the last year.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1942] Q. Are you familiar, personally, with all the circumstances surrounding the layoffs or discharges of what you testified to be about 300 employees in 1934?

A. Well, I went over everybody's record at that time.

Q. Well, who was it who selected the persons you laid off?

A. Well, at that particular time, we had a committee of three people that did it.

Q. Who was on that committee?

A. Why, we would discuss it first with the instructor, and then check it up with Mrs. Wherry, who had charge of the factory, and then Mr. Atchinson, and myself.

Q. Is Mrs. Wherry still there?

A. No, she isn't. She resigned.

Q. Who has Mrs. Wherry's job now?

A. Beg pardon?

A. Who has Mrs. Wherry's job now?

A. She hasn't a job. I mean, there is no job there.

Q. And for what purpose did you discuss these 300 [fol. 1943] layoffs with the instructors in 1934?

A. Because I wanted to discuss with them and find out what they thought personally of each operator, as far as their ability was concerned.

Q. What their attitude was?

A. And so forth.

Q. What else?

A. Well, that is all.

Q. Their ability, their attitude, whether they came to work on time, and so forth?

A. Well, anything that you would discuss in laying off people when you had to lay off anyone.

Q. As a matter of fact, no one on the committee other than the instructors knew anything about the individual operators, did they?

A. What is it—yes, Mrs. Wherry was in close contact, and myself, I was in very close contact with the factory. I was down on all the floors at least two and three times a day, and Mr. Atchinson was familiar with them. We really did know the people.

Q. Well, all of your contacts were the same with the 1,300 as they were with any one employee?

A. We didn't have 1,300 at that time.

Q. How many did you have?

A. I don't know, but I believe we had about 750.

[fol. 1944] Q. Did the instructor at that time make written recommendations to you? A. No.

Q. Don't you remember the instructors filling out a card?

A. Yes, that was cards, and they checked what they thought of their employees and sent it down to the office at that time.

Q. Do you have any of those cards?

A. I don't think so. I believe Mr. Baty went in and put in a new system when he took charge of the factory.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. I show you what has been marked as Board's Exhibit — I beg your pardon, — Respondent's Exhibit 1, and ask you to state whether or not you remember reading that in the newspaper?

[fol. 1945] A. May I see it? I have read it.

* * * * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:

Q. When you refer to the "outside interests" in your answer with regard to the formation of the Loyalty League, you referred to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, did you not? A. Yes, I did.

Q. And why did you want to keep out of I.L.G.W.U. from your plant?

[fol. 1946] Mr. Stottle: Respondent objects to that as assuming that she has testified that they wanted to keep the I.L.G.W.U. out.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, she just said, Mr. Stottle, that when she said "outsiders" she referred to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union; didn't you?

Mr. Stottle: Yes, but, Mr. Examiner, she said it was to refute untrue statements, not that she was trying to keep them out.

The Witness: That is what I said.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1947] By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. You previously stated that when you said it was to refute certain untrue statements, and so forth, from outsiders, that you did refer to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in that statement; wasn't that correct? A. Yes.

Q. Now, tell us why.

A. Well, I want to explain—I think I can explain this. During this time there were some very uncomplimentary pamphlets that were passed in front of the building, and also some speeches that were very uncomplimentary that were made about and against the Donnelly Garment Company, and the employees, when they organized this Loyalty League, they were indignant that these untruths should be spread, and that was one of the reasons I stated that they joined—they formed the Loyalty League.

Q. Now, don't speak for the employees. Speak for yourself. A. All right. Well, the—

Q. (Interrupting) The reason why you—

A. (Interrupting) The reason I signed the card, when [fol. 1948] they came to me and handed it to me, was because I read it over and I thought the sentiments were good on it—I couldn't even tell you what they were now, and I signed it and said "Yes, I would like to be a member of the Loyalty League", and it had nothing to do or said anything about keeping out any union, at that time.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Well, why were you personally interested in refuting the alleged untrue statements?

A. Well, after all, when you have worked for a place 15 years and somebody says something that is absolutely untrue, if you have got any sort of something in you at all, why, naturally, you call them on it, don't you? I mean, you want to protest.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1950] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Did you say, Mrs. Reeves, who was the head of the planning department?

A. Planning department?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, which phase of it, Mr. Langsdale?

Q. Well, you referred to the planning department. Have you more than one phase of it?

A. Yes.

Q. How many?

A. Well, the garments are planned out, and then they are sent upstairs and they are checked and Mr. Atchinson assists, and then I plan the actual cuttings.

Q. Well, now, how many different phases have you named?

A. I think there would be about four.

[fol. 1951] Q. And who is at the head of the first one you mentioned?

A. Well, I think that Mrs. Nichols and a young lady who helps her is the first one. They take the garment and analyze how it should be made.

Q. Now, what is Mrs. Nichols' name, given name?

A. Lulu.

Q. And plans how the garment is to be made?

A. Yes.

Q. And who is her assistant?

A. Josephine Spalito.

Q. And is there anyone else who assists her?

A. Well, I think Katy Schleischer assists her sometimes, and I don't know, during the rush season, they might get in some other people.

Q. Where is her office, Mrs. Nichols?

A. She is on the ninth floor.

Q. Now, she does the first planning of the garment, does she?

A. Yes.

Q. Just what does that include?

A. How the garment should be made and put together.

Q. For many, many years Mrs. Nichols has been also on the price fixing committee of the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. That is right.

Q. And still is?

[fol. 1952] A. That is right.

Q. And has Josephine Spalito assisted her at that work, too?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At fixing prices?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And how long has she assisted her at fixing prices?

A. Approximately 2 years.

Q. How long?

A. About 2 years.

Q. Now, this other young lady, Katy Schleischer, is that her name?

A. Katy Schleischer.

Q. What are her duties in that phase of the planning department?

A. Well, she used to plan the—how the operation was to be made. Now she plans on how it should be cut and then she checks up on what should go on the garment, and does that detail work.

Q. Well, purely as an assistant to Mrs. Nichols?

A. No, she has a job of her own.

Q. She has a job of her own?

A. Yes.

Q. I asked you who were the assistants to Mrs. Nichols, and you said Josephine Spalito and Katy Schleischer.

[fol. 1953] A. Well, then, they discuss with other people who have had experience. I am not sure; I wouldn't answer who is helping now.

Q. But the head of that particular phase is Lulu Nichols?

A. That is right. I wouldn't say she is the head, Mr. Langsdale, because after she plans that all, why, she is head of the pricing, with the assistance of Josephine Spalito and the individual operators, and also Miss Todd checks the prices.

Q. I am not talking about prices now. I am talking about the planning phase.

A. Of how the garment should go together?

Q. Yes. She is head of that particular phase?

A. No, I wouldn't say that.

Q. Who is?

A. Mr. Atchinson. They are sent upstairs to Mr. Atchinson, and when he analyzes how these garments should be sent downstairs and how they should be made, he checks those over and discusses it with Mr. Batty.

Q. But Mr. Atchinson takes it up where Mrs. Nichols leaves off?

A. Yes, that is right.

Q. So up to that time Mrs. Nichols is the head of her work; is that correct?

A. Until she turns it over, yes.

. . . . . .

[fol. 1955] Q. No, no. Mr. Atchinson gets through with his phase of the planning, and he sends then his completed job down to the various instructors, to have the garment made up. Is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. Then the third phase is headed by the numerous instructors that are there?

A. They give—they follow their instructions.

Q. Yes, that they get from Mr. Atchinson?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And they give those instructions to the various girls? A. That is right.

. . . . . .

Q. What do the instructors do? Just stand around and twirl their thumbs, or what?

A. She helps give out work, and if a girl is having difficulty in doing a certain operation she explains to her how to do it. She is more of a teacher than anything else.

Q. And, of course, she just stands there and lets the [fol. 1956] forty girls run the machines all by themselves without any reprimand of any kind or character?

A. Well, I don't know if you would call it reprimand, but I am sure, if one of them was doing an operation entirely wrong she would show her how to do it.

Q. If one of them was laying down on the job, what would the instructor do?

A. I am sure I don't know. I know it would be checked up on.

Q. Do you know what the instructor would do?

A. I am sure she would report it to Mr. Batty.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1957] Q. Now, I believe you testified that when Mr. Atchinson finishes his phase, why, he typewrites elaborate instructions.

A. I am sorry, Mr. Langsdale. You misunderstood me, if that is what you thought I said.

Q. Well, what does he do? How does he communicate what he wants done to the garments to the instructors?

A. They are typewritten sheets. He doesn't typewrite them, though. Mrs. Nichols sends up her written instructions, and he takes the garment and analyzes it, too, and he analyzes how many dozen you to plan to have cut, or have cut, I should say, of that particular garment, so he can analyze how much work there is of each particular type of operation, and then he looks over how these garments are put together, and if he has any suggestions or advice, why, he makes it, and then it is discussed, as I said, with Mr. Batty, and perhaps one or two others. It might be a question of material coming in narrow or something like that, and a hazard we can't understand, and that is given to a young lady in my department, who typewrites [fol. 1958] the instructions, and they are sent down automatically by the pick-up boys to the instructor.

Q. But it is a composite of what Mr. Atchinson's duty is to get ready for the instructor after talking to Mr. Batty, and maybe you and someone else?

A. That is right.

Q. And that goes to the instructor, doesn't it?

A. That is right.

Q. That doesn't go to each one of the sewing machine girls, does it?

A. I really don't know whether they have any individual typewritten instructions now or not. I don't believe they do.

Q. So the instructor has to instruct the sewing machine girls what she finds on this typewritten list?

A. Well, then, she has her sample garment, and the girls know. All of her operations are pretty standard, you know.

[fol. 1959] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You say you have the buttonhole department?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is the head of the buttonhole department?

A. Mr. Baty. Do you want to know who the instructor is?

Q. You said the buttonhole department. Does Mr. Baty go down there himself and superintend making the buttonholes? A. No.

Q. Who does?

A. Miss Willis is our instructor in the buttonhole department.

Q. Is she the only instructor in the buttonhole department?

A. No. I think there are two more. There are three more.

Q. Who is immediately under Mr. Baty?

A. Downstairs?

Q. In the buttonhole department.

A. Well, I don't know. Do you mean, who is the supervisor down there?

Q. Yes.

A. Miss Willis is the supervisor. I think Ada Woolf has a certain number of machines, and I think Frances Morrison has a number, and someone else. And I don't know which ones are floor girls and give out work or which ones are the instructors.

Q. If any one of those has any superior that they wish to talk with about their work Mr. Baty is that superior, is [fol. 1960] he, or is there any intermediary between Miss Willis and Mr. Baty? A. There is not.

Trial Examiner Batten: We will adjourn until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. Ingraham: If Your Honor please, may I ask the witness one further question first? I believe she misunderstood something.

Mr. Ingraham: Did you intend to say Miss Willis and these other people you named were supervisors or did you mean they were instructors?

Mr. Leary: I object to that, Mr. Examiner. That is the very crux of the case here.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is all right, let him ask the witness. It all appears in the record together, and I think I can take the record and draw my own conclusions irrespective of what the attorneys say, or ask.

A. The words we use are instructors and floor girls.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. When did you quit using the word supervisor?

A. Well, I used it just a few minutes ago.

Q. You have always used it?

A. It means one and the same to me.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think the important thing is not what you call them on the payroll or what you designate them, but the important thing is what they do? [fol. 1961] You can call them any thing you want.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 1973] Q. Now, you made an affidavit in the three-judge hearing, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. And that affidavit, according to the record, was made and sworn to on the 30th day of October, 1937. If that is the record, that is correct, I assume. You remember that that three-judge hearing was going on in October, 1937? A. Well, if that is the date there.

Q. In that affidavit you stated, (reading):

"Competent instructors teach the operators the particular operations to be performed by them, and constantly supervise the same."

[fol. 1974] A. All right.

Q. Well, you said that, didn't you, swore to it?

A. If it is said there, yes, and it is true.

Q. They constantly supervised them, at least, by October 31, 1937? A. That is right.

Trial Examiner Batten: What page is that? An exhibit number, or what is it?

Mr. Langsdale: This affidavit has not been offered in evidence. I am merely reading from the three-judge transcript.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, but I say, what page?

Mr. Langsdale: Page 284 of the record that is filed in the Supreme Court of the United States, in Volume 1, entitled, "International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union", and so forth, "et al., appellant, versus Donnelly Garment Company, Donnelly Garment Sales Company and Donnelly Garment Workers' Union", and so forth, "et al."

. . . . . .

[fol. 1978] Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, respondent, of course, objected to this N. R. A. testimony as being immaterial because it related to matters long before the or-[fol. 1979] organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and before the passage of the National Labor Relations Act, and we would object to these questions on the same basis that we have to the N. R. A. testimony.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle, I don't know whether the record is clear or that it is understood, but, as I recall, you made a continuing objection to all testimony that refers to a time prior to the passage of the Wagner Act. And, if I am not mistaken, Mr. Tyler, you joined in that objection.

Mr. Tyler: I intended to.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think the record is quite clear.

Mr. Stottle: May it be understood, if it isn't clear our objection is made?

Trial Examiner Batten: If it isn't clear, it is understood that you have an objection; and Mr. Tyler, also.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1980] Did you tell me who was the head of the cutting department?

A. Mr. Baty is the head of the cutting department.

Q. Directly?

A. I think Dewey Atchison works with him now.

Q. Dewey Atchison is your assistant?

A. I would say so.

Q. Isn't there someone who spends his time in the quarters where the cutting is done who is the responsible head of that department?

A. Who instructs the men and gives out the work, and so forth? Yes.

Q. Who is that? A. Ted Scoles.

Q. Is he the only one in there who instructs and gives out the work?

A. Well, I think they have one of the other boys getting the lays ready, and so forth. I am not down in the factory very much any more, Mr. Langsdale.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1981] Q. In the dividing department, could you tell me who was the head of that department?

A. There is a woman there who delegates the work, and that is Mrs. Bogart.

Trial Examiner Batten: What did you call that department?

Mr. Langsdale: Dividing department.

The Witness: Or bundling.

Trial Examiner Batten: Which one of these main departments you spoke about does that come under?

A. Production department—Mr. Baty.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Of course everything comes under Mr. Baty except sales and purchasing?

A. Merchandising, sales, designing, and pattern making.

Q. But Mrs. Bogart is the one who is in the quarters where the dividing is done and instructs people there how to do it, when to do it, and so forth.

A. And authorizes the cuts to be divided, yes.

Q. Is the bundling department the same as the dividing department? A. Yes.

Q. And the sewing department, of course that is where all of the machines are. A. That is right.

Q. Now, the examiners and inspectors, is that a separate department?

[fol. 1982] A. Yes, I would say it is a separate unit.

Q. Who is the head of the examining and inspecting department? A. Mr. Baty.

Q. Under Mr. Baty who is the person?

A. Mrs. Tyhurst.

Q. And the pressing department, who is the head of that department, besides Mr. Baty?

A. The instructor in the pressing department is Lulu Waddell.

Q. Just the one?

A. I think they have a floor girl, also, or several floor girls.

Q. Lulu Waddell is the instructor? A. Yes.

Q. And you have a folding department?

A. That is in with the pressing department.

Q. That is the same?

A. That is the same thing, pressing and folding.

Q. And Lulu Waddell is the instructor of both pressing and folding? A. That is right.

Q. You named in this testimony a notions department. What is the notions department?

A. Well, that is part of my department. We receive the buttons, lace, and thread, and get it ready to send down [fol. 1983] to the factory, authorizing certain cuts, take so many dozen buttons, and so forth. It is a preparation.

Q. Of course you do not supervise the people doing that work?

A. You want to know the instructor in that department?

Q. Yes. A. Helen Little.

Q. Is that department one where they fit on belts?

A. What?

Q. Fit on belts, on dresses that have belts on them. Is that in the notions department? It seems to me I read something like that in this—

A. I don't believe so.

Q. Are the belts sewed on or fitted on by the sewing machine girls?

A. There are no sewing machine girls in that department.

Q. Take your dress, for instance. You have a belt on it, haven't you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Would that belt be put on there by a sewing machine girl?

A. No—by a floor girl. This particular belt would be put on in the pressing department by a floor girl.

Q. The receiving department. I suppose you are the head of that department, are you?

[fol. 1984] A. I really don't know whether I am or whether Mr. Baty is.

Q. But next to you or Mr. Baty, who is it down there telling the employees what to do?

A. Heath Cowan receives the merchandise.

Q. Where is that department?

A. That department is on the third floor.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1987] Q. (By Mr. Langsdale) Did you know who circulated the petiton of March 2, 1937?

A. Not at the time. I did afterwards, after it was circulated and presented to Mrs. Reed I heard who did it.

Q. You knew nothing about it until after it had been all signed up?

A. That is right.

* * * * * *

Q. Did you have any knowledge of how the photographer happened to be on the job at that moment?

A. No, I really didn't, Mr. Langsdale.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well now, Mr. Langsdale, I don't know as I want to go any further into that matter that you are just questioning about, because you say, do you know how the photographer happened to be there. Well, I don't want an inference in the record that makes it necessary for the respondent to go out and produce the [fol. 1989] photographer here to show how he happened to be there, or otherwise somebody might draw an improper inference from it.

* * * * * *

[fol. 1990] Q. Did you attend any meetings of the Loyalty League? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you know of any meetings of the Loyalty League?

A. I think that I have heard, yes, I have heard. I have heard that they were having meetings, and so forth.

Q. Where? A. What is it?

Q. Where?

A. Well, I really don't know, Mr. Langsdale. I never attended, and I never went into it.

[fol. 1991] Q. You never went into one of them?

A. I never went into a Loyalty League meeting.

Q. Did you ever see the constitution of the Loyalty League? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you know that it had one?

A. I don't believe I did.

Q. Now, you have what you call an outlet store, do you not? A. That is right.

Q. And who is in charge of that besides you?

A. Well, Mrs. Gray. I think you would call her a clerk. She is a clerk down there.

Q. Well, but she is in charge of it, isn't she?

A. I wouldn't say. There are just about three or four clerks down there, and they all have about the same rating. Maybe she has been there a little longer than the rest of them. You might call her a senior clerk.

Q. Well, to whom is she responsible?

A. Well, she generally reports to me.

Q. Didn't you say that she was very indirectly—

A. (Interrupting) Yes, I did.

Q. (Continuing) —associated with you? A. Yes.

Q. So, then, she has pretty nearly full charge of the outlet store?

A. There really isn't much to have charge of, Mr. Langsdale.

[fol. 1992] Q. You have three or four clerks there?

A. Yes.

Q. And you sell—

A. (Interrupting) Remnants and close-outs, and odds and ends, and stuff that we want to turn over and get rid of, just to get it out of the way.

[fol. 1993] Redirect Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Reeves, isn't it a fact that every employee at the Donnelly Garment Company has charge of their particular work? A. That is right.

Q. You testified yesterday that Mr. Baty has been in charge of the plant since July, 1935.

A. That is right; the latter part of June or the first of July. I don't remember which.

Q. Do you know whether or not Mr. Baty made various changes in the operation of the plant after he became in control? A. I do.

Q. Is it not a fact, now, that Mr. Baty and Mrs. Hyde [fol. 1994] are the only persons that have anything to do with hiring and discharging employees?

* * * * * * * *

A. Yes.

Mr. Ingraham: Mrs. Reeves, state whether or not you know that after the time that Mr. Baty took charge of the factory, that instructors were not given authority to hire or fire or discipline operators that worked in their section?

* * * * * *

[fol. 1995] A. That is true.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. In what department does Mrs. Bogart work?

A. She is in the bundling department, or dividing department.

Q. Now, is that department in the production department? A. Yes.

Q. Now, does Mrs. Bogart carry out Mr. Baty's orders?

A. She does.

Q. Has she any authority to make orders of her own?

[fol. 1996] A. She has not.

Q. Has she any authority over anybody that works in the department in respect to disciplining or discharging or transferring employees?

A. She has not.

Q. And whatever orders she gives, they are the orders that come to her from Mr. Baty?

A. That is right.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. State whether or not Mrs. Nichols can give any orders in respect to the setting of prices to the other people that work in that department?

A. That is individual work, Mr. Ingraham.

Q. And Mrs. Nichols has no authority over anybody [fol. 1997] else that assists her?

A. She has not.

Q. I believe you have mentioned that Mrs. Dallas was an instructor, or Willis, I guess it is:

A. Yes, Mrs. Willis is an instructor.

Q. And Mrs. Waddell was an instructor?

A. Miss Waddell.

Q. Now, have either of those two persons or any other instructor any authority to order or discipline or fire people that work in their sections?

A. They have not.

Q. Now, what department did you say that Mrs. Tyhurst worked in?

A. Mrs. Tyhurst is in charge of the quality of the work. She works with the garment itself, to see that the stitches are all right, and that the garment goes together all right. She works with the examiners.

Q. Now, has she any authority over the examiners in respect to giving orders with reference to hiring or firing or disciplining?

A. She has not.

Q. I believe you said that Mr. Cowan was in the receiving department?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, has he any authority over the people in the [fol. 1998] receiving department with respect to hiring, firing or disciplining the people in that department?

A. He has not.

Q. Do these people I have mentioned get their instructions—state who these people that I have named get their instructions from.

A. Well, Miss Willis and Miss Waddell and Mrs. Tyhurst and Mrs. Bogart get their instructions from Mr. Baty, and the work is all planned out. It comes down in a routine way, and Mr. Cown, if there were any special instructions, would get them from me, but his work is generally depending on the amount of merchandise that is received, also, so there aren't a lot of instructions as far as he is concerned.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Well, pardon me. Does Mr. Cowan then pass on your instructions to the other people in that section? Is that it?

A. Yes, that is right, if—well, all my instructions would be is that "we are getting in some freight; just check it in."

Q. My question is this: that if you issue instructions to a certain person, that person passes along your instructions; is that it, if there are several people to do a particular thing? You don't go down and tell each person?

A. No. It is planned out.

Q. So, it is planned, and you issue your instructions to [fol. 1999] a certain individual like an instructor, for instance, and the instructor passes along those instructions; is that it?

A. Yes. It is a planned work, though.

Q. I understand it is planned, but I am just trying to get how it gets down to the people who do the work. Somebody has to pass it along to them.

A. Well, with the instructors, it is written instructions and there really aren't very many—and as far as Mr. Cowan is concerned, there are planned cutting cards and he gets out the material to go to the cutting table, and he checks in the freight. I mean, there are no instructions, really, and as far as the personnel in that department, Mr. Baty tends to that.

Q. But take your girls that work on the machines, do you send a copy of these instructions for every one of the forty persons?

A. I don't think so, no.

Q. In other words, the instructions, the planning which is done, goes to the instructor?

A. That is right.

Q. And she in some manner passes it along to the people who actually perform the work; is that right?

A. That is right.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Isn't it a fact that the instructor is directed to pass the instructions to the operators?

A. That is right.

[fol. 2000] Q. With reference to Mr. Cowan, do you direct Mr. Cowan, in case there is new merchandise, to handle the merchandise in a certain way, and to have certain people assist him?

A. That is right.

Q. And he has no authority on his own initiative to go out and order people to assist him?

A. No.

Q. Now, you mentioned that Mrs. Gray worked in the store? A. That is right.

Q. Has Mrs. Gray any authority over the other people who work in the store, with reference to ordering them about their work, and with reference to hiring and firing and disciplining these other people?

A. No.

* * * * * *

Recross-Examination.

* * * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:

[fol. 2004] Q. Who other than Mr. Baty, if anyone, has charge of the examiners?

A. You mean, who directs their work after they get their instructions from Mr. Baty?

Mr. Leary: Read the question, please.

(Thereupon the last question was read by the reporter.)

A. Well, Mrs. Tyhurst is their instructor, or directs their work.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:

[fol. 2005] Q. In the event Mrs. Tyhurst finds something wrong with the work she is examining, do you know what she does with it?

A. She sends it back to the operator to have it repaired.

Q. She does not go and ask Mr. Baty if it is O. K. to send it back to the opefator, does she?

A. No, because those were the instructions he gave her previously.

Q. Do any of the examiners who work, as you say, with Mrs. Tyhurst, or under her direction, have to ask Mrs. Tyhurst or Mr. Baty before they send any work back to the operators?

A. No. That is part of the policy Mr. Baty set up. If the repair work is bad or something is wrong they just [fol. 2006] send it back to the operator.

Q. The judgment is solely with the examiner himself or herself?

A. Well, I don't think you would call it judgment, but if something is wrong they are capable of knowing whether it is right or wrong.

[fol. 2022] Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Keyes.

George Keyes, [a witness,] a witness called by and on behalf of respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. State your name, please.

A. George Keyes.

Q. Mr. Keyes, are you employed by the Donnelly Garment Sales Company?

A. I am.

Q. In what capacity?

A. I am generally in charge of sales, one of the managers, in charge of the order handling, and I handle the sales force, deal with the customers, and see that the goods are sold and shipped.

Q. Mr. Keyes, how long have you been—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting). Pardon me.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. This chart I have indicates you have something to do with returns.

A. Returns of goods. The merchandise is shipped out, and then the incidental part of merchandise that comes back is handled by me.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. How long have you been connected with the Donnelly Garment Sales Company?

[fol. 2023] A. I have been here in Kansas City for six and a half years.

Q. I would like to ask, Mr. Keyes, if you ever instructed, advised, or suggested, in any manner, to any employee of the companies, that is, the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, that they join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you ever instructed, or advised, or suggested, in any manner, directly or indirectly, to any employee of those mentioned companies that they should not join the International Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Baty, Mrs. Reeves, or any other official or any person with authority to hire and fire or discipline, advise or suggest to any employee that they should join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Or that they should not join the International Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever at any time intimidate or coerce any employee into joining the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Baty, Mrs. Reeves, or any other official of the companies, or any person with authority to hire and fire, intimidate any employee in or[fol. 2024] der to force them to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you ever at any time bring any pressure on any employee in order to force them to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever contribute financially or in any other way to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear that Mr. Baty or Mrs. Reeves or Mrs. Reed ever contributed financially or any other way to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever cause any employee to be discharged because of any union affiliation?

[fol. 2025] A. No, sir.

Q. Or any union sympathy? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know of any employee that has ever been discharged by the companies on account of their union affiliation? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you assist in the organization of the Nelly Don Loyalty League? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you become a member of that organization?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you ever been to a meeting of that organization? A. No, sir.

Q. Are you a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, Mr. Ingraham.

Q. Did you assist in any manner in the organizing of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, Mr. Ingraham.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of bulletin boards at the plant by union members for union purposes?

A. No, Mr. Ingraham.

Q. Did you ever see on the bulletin boards any union matters? A. No, I never have.

Q. Have you ever authorized any union member to use any property of the companies' for union purposes?

[fol. 2026] A. No, Mr. Ingraham.

Q. Have you ever authorized them to use any stationery for union purposes? A. No, Mr. Ingraham.

Q. Have you ever authorized them to use the telephone for union purposes? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you ever kept any members or any meetings of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union under surveillance? A. No, Mr. Ingraham.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, I presume the answers that Mr. Keyes gives are—Is Mr. Keyes employed entirely by the Sales Company?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, sir. Of course, as a matter of fact, Mr. Examiner, the Sales Company and the Donnelly Garment Company are in the same building, the offices are together, and the members of both of these companies are the same.

Trial Examiner Batten: Your question, then, is intended to cover both; is that it?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, anything he may know.

[fol. 2027] (By Mr. Ingraham) I will ask you, Mr. Keyes, if at one time there was a young lady by the name of Elsa Graham employed in the sales department?

A. Yes, there was.

Q. Do you recall how long she worked there?

A. It would be my impression, Mr. Ingraham, it was somewhere between a year and a half and a year and three-quarters.

Q. And did she leave the employment voluntarily?

A. She did.

Q. Would you state, please, what her salary was?

A. She received a weekly compensation of $35.

Q. Was that the salary that she received during the whole time of her employment?

A. Yes.

Q. Was she, at any time, ever demoted?

A. No, sir,

Q. Was her salary ever reduced?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever discuss with Mrs. Greenhaw any matters relating to the I.L.G.W.U.?

A. No, Mr. Ingraham.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I don't recall. Did she work in Mr. Keyes' department?

The Witness: Yes, immediately with me.

[fol. 2028] Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Did you, at any time, exert any coercion on Mrs. Greenhaw in order to force her to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, Mr. Ingraham. I knew her as Graham. I never knew her as Greenhaw.

Q. Mr. Keyes, did you take part in the negotiations of the contract between the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did.

Q. Now, I believe that contract was with the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union; is that a fact? A. That is my understanding.

Q. Will you just state what occurred with reference to the negotiations of that contract?

A. There had been one or two conversations with Mrs. Reed after—

Q. (Interrupting) Well, just state what you know of your own knowledge.

A. Of my own knowledge. I had a conversation with Mrs. Reed, that there was a negotiation about to take place with the union, and there were various points mentioned, that would come up for discussion, namely, a minimum salary. I was told that Mrs. Reed would meet with her associates and with representatives of the union, I [fol. 2029] believe it was in May, 1937. It was somewhere between May 20 and May 28, as I recall. We went in to Mrs. Reed's office, and I met for the first time Mr. Tyler. There were present, the attorney for the company, you were there, Mr. Ingraham,—Mr. Brown, Mr. Hobart Atherton, Miss Marjorie Green, Miss Rose Todd, of course, Mr. Baty was there, as was Mr. Green. There were one or two others whose names do not come to me at this particular time.

There was a general discussion of the contract. The representatives of the union were very much concerned about a $15 minimum for a period of 2 years—

* * * * * *

A proposal was made for a 2-year contract with a minimum wage of—a minimum of 40 hours. I protested against that very vigorously, and Mr. Tyler referred to my remarks as typical of management, and was very critical of the position that I took. I pointed out—

• • • • • •

[fol. 2030] Q. Mr. Ingraham: (Interrupting) Well, Mr. Keyes, not to interrupt you, but just tell what took place at this meeting. What was said—not attempting to quote what somebody said, but in substance what was said?

A. I objected to a 2-year contract because of the seasonal character of the business. The depression was not over. $15 was a rate—I believed, a higher rate than any other rate in the United States for a 52-week year. Mr. Tyler, as I recall, felt that because there had been a minimum of $15, that was the least that should prevail.

I pointed out that Mrs. Reed was binding herself to a period of two years, when we didn't know what was going to [fol. 2031] happen to the country.

I also objected to having the salesmen become members of the union; 28 men seemed to me that they didn't belong in the union at all, and Mr. Tyler took the position that they all should be there.

There was also a proposal regarding arbitration. Mr. Ingraham, as I recall very clearly, took the position that there should be arbitration, but that, nevertheless, any person in the organization should have the right of a direct access to the management and ownership of the business, and while he discussed arbitration in a favorable way, he held out very definitely for that right of appeal independently, without interference, to the proper person in the business.

There were—

Q. (Interrupting) Just let me interrupt a minute at that stage. Was it a fact that Mr. Tyler desired or made a proposal that would require any employee with a grievance to first take the grievance up with the union and then the union would take the matter up with the company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And was there any objection on the part of the representatives of the company to that?

A. The company had no serious objection, as I recall, to that, but they wanted the individual to feel free and able to come to the management with his or her par[fol. 2032] ticular situation.

Q. Well, isn't it a fact that Mr. Tyler objected to any provision that would allow the employees to come direct to the company? A. I do so recall.

Q. Well, just proceed, then.

A. During the conference there was a discussion of whether the arrangement should be one of understanding between persons who trusted each other, or whether there should be a written contract.

As I recall, you definitely had some reservations about the necessity or the propriety of a written contract. That point was discussed.

Mrs. Reed said that she didn't want to hold people at arm's length, that she had never worked with people at arm's length, and she wondered whether it was necessary to have a formal contract with those persons whom she referred to as her people.

Trial Examiner Batten: Isn't the date definitely agreed on here as to when this meeting took place?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, it was May 27, 1937.

Mr. Ingraham: I hand you a copy of the contract, Mr. Keyes, and ask you to look at it and state any other matters—

* * * * * *

[fol. 2033] (Whereupon, the Board's Exhibit No. 6 was handed to the witness.)

A. Mr. Ingraham, there was a discussion of arbitration, to which I have referred, and then there was a reference to the fact that the contract provided for no strikes during the period of the contract, no stoppages. That was mentioned by Mr. Tyler as an argument in favor of the closed shop arrangement, and also for the long period of the contract, to which we had taken exception.

Then the vacation schedule came up, and while I, individually, of course, learning this from Mrs. Reed when I came out here nearly 7 years ago, believed in vacations, inasmuch as this clause is the only kind that I know of in the needle work industry contract, I wasn't sure that the company would bind itself to give vacations with pay, which prior to that time had been optional and in the discretion of the management.

Trial Examiner Batten: Now, just a moment, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Keyes, volunteering that statement there, I [fol. 2034] thought that we had the understanding that—I mean, I advised you, rather—I don't know as you all agree with me—that I didn't want to get into a comparison of this contract with other contracts, and I limited the Board's testimony the other day, when I asked them the direct question, if all the questions which they asked applied only to how the contract was negotiated.

Now this, of course, brings up—Mr. Keyes volunteering this statement that no needle contract has such a phrase any place, you are beginning to compare the contracts.

The important thing with this contract, and with this union, is not what is in this contract. The important thing is, did the union, in good faith, and the respondent, sit down and negotiate a contract?

Now, a union can negotiate any terms they see fit in a contract. So, the only question here is, did Mr. Tyler and the committee representing the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union negotiate in good faith, did the respondent negotiate in good faith? And, having arrived at an agreement, they put it in writing and signed it. Therefore, Mr. Keyes' statement about this particular paragraph in comparing it with some other contract, I don't consider that it should be accepted, in accordance with my prior ruling. Therefore, I won't receive it.

Mr. Tyler: Your Honor has in mind that the intervener asserts that comparison with other contracts is valid and [fol. 2035] admissible evidence to show the genuine negotiation of this contract and the genuineness of the desires of the employees to negotiate in this matter, and have their own union, and we except to your ruling that comparisons are not proper.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, I understand your position, Mr. Tyler, and I only say in answer to that, this: that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or any other union can negotiate any contract they want. I mean, they could go out here and negotiate a contract for less wages, less salaries, no vacations, and abominable conditions, if the union wanted to do it. So I say that I am not concerned about comparison of these contracts. I am concerned about, did they actually negotiate, and agree on these things, and when they agreed, sign the contracts; and, of course, as I understand it, that is the matter, Mr. Tyler, which you except to?

Mr. Tyler: Yes.

Mr. Ingraham: Respondent excepts.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Keyes, will you state what other provisions were discussed?

A. Paragraph 2 refers to rate of pay and minimum of $15, especially applicable to less experienced and under-average piece work operators, messengers, bundle boys, and other unskilled workers. There was a reference to that clause in the discussion, as being excessive in the [fol. 2036] opinion of the management, for ordinary labor in Kansas City, working 40 hours. Bundle boys, right out of school.

Of course, there were several—this you hand me, Mr. Ingraham, is the final draft. There were several drafts, as I recall, of this agreement, and I also remember that you went to the telephone and discussed this with Senator Reed, various phases of it. So that this draft that you are handing me is the final contract, which followed a number of other drafts which had been discussed with the union.

Q. Did Mr. Tyler have a draft prepared when the meeting began?

A. I think not. I think he came in with a memoranda of notes.

Q. Well, he read something, though?

A. He read something to us.

Q. And then he left for our—strike that. Did the meeting adjourn?

A. Yes, for further consideration. Mrs. Reed said she wanted to take up certain points with you and with her various managers, and, of course, with Mr. Baty.

Q. And did Mr. Tyler leave his memoranda with us?

A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did that occur in the morning? A. Yes.

Q. Then did we have a later meeting that day?

[fol. 2037] A. There was a later meeting in the afternoon.

Q. And in the meantime did we prepare a form of contract? A. We did.

Q. And the final contract is the one that you have?

A. It is, Mr. Ingraham. That is the one of the 27th of May.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Mr. Keyes, about how long did this morning meeting last, if you recall?

A. Well, I should think that it started about 10 or 10:30 in the morning; an hour or an hour and a half, at least, possibly 2 hours.

Q. How long was the afternoon meeting, if you recall?

A. I should think about 2 hours. I think some of us had lunch in the factory, so that we could—so that it might be very accurately said that we considered it longer than the period given you, sir, and, of course, there had been other conversations of an informal nature by Mrs. Reed with me.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Now, Mr. Keyes, is there a Miss Alexander in your department? A. Yes.

Q. What character of work does she perform?

A. She assists me in the correspondence with the stores, on matters having to do with the filling of orders.

Q. Has she any supervisory powers? A. No, sir.

Q. Is she in charge of the work that Elsa Graham per[fol. 2038] formed?

A. No. I was in charge of that work.

Q. Is there a girl in your department by the name of Sandy? A. Martha Sandy, yes.

Q. What work does she do?

A. She assists me in the return department.

Q. Does she have any supervisory powers?

A. No.

Q. Was she a superior of Elsa Graham.

A. No, sir.

Q. As a matter of fact, did Miss Sandy receive a higher salary than Elsa Graham?

A. No, she received less.

Q. Was there a girl by the name of Elizabeth Nobles in your department? A. Yes.

Q. What character of work did she do?

A. She assisted me also in the correspondence.

Q. Does she have any supervisory powers?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was she a superior of Elsa Graham? A. No, sir.

Q. Did she receive a higher salary than Elsa Graham?

A. No; a lower salary.

[fol. 2039] Q. Did you, in any way, assist in the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know of any official of the company, or any person with authority to hire or discipline or discharge that assisted in the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I do not.

Q. Do you know of any financial contributions the Donnelly Garment Company has ever made to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I do not.

Q. Do you know of any kind of support that the Donnelly Companies have given the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you, yourself, given any support to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever instructed anybody or any employee at the Donnelly Garment Company to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever advised or instructed any employee not to join the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. I have not, Mr. Ingraham.

[fol. 2040] Cross-Examination.

Mr. Tyler: Mr. Keyes, isn't it a fact that in the discussions which were had pending the execution of the contract on May 27, that Mrs. Reed said that she wanted her people to be free to come directly to her with complaints, and that I said, "Certainly, they are guaranteed that right under the Wagner Act. All I want is that they shall also have the right to handle complaints through the union and union representatives, if they so choose."?

Mr. Langsdale: Just a moment. I object to the question for the reason that the witness has already testified Mr. Tyler was in there insisting that they have to go through the union first, whereas, Mr. Ingraham was insisting that they had the right to go to the management. It is an effort to get this witness to change his testimony, because Mr. Tyler probably knows that we have dug his speech out of one of these minutes, telling them that.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I don't see any objection if Mr. Tyler wants to examine this witness with respect to matters in a meeting which he took part in.

Mr. Tyler: Frankly, I wish—

Mr. Langsdale (interrupting): He is—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Just a moment.

[fol. 2041] Mr. Tyler (continuing): To force him to change his statement I think he is wrong. I have a right to do it on cross-examination.

Trial Examiner Batten: Let's proceed. Read the question.

(Whereupon, the question was read by the reporter.)

Trial Examiner Batten: There is no objection to that question, is there?

Mr. Langsdale: Yes, sir.

Trial Examiner Batten: I thought you were just making that remark to Mr. Tyler.

Mr. Langsdale: There is an objection. The witness has already testified to the contrary.

Trial Examiner Batten: If it was in the form of an objection, it is overruled.

A. Mr. Examiner, in answering the question, this is my first experience of this nature. Am I privileged to state that I don't understand that I am changing my testimony?

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, of course, any witness has a perfect right to answer a question, and then, when you have answered the question, if you have any statement that you want to make, you may make it.

[fol. 2042] The Witness: Your statement of what happened there agrees with my recollection, Mr. Tyler.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Keyes, do you recall or do you not recall that on the occasion when the union asked that the minimum be raised from $15 to $16.50 a week that you or someone else left the room and went to the books and counted up how many people would actually have their salaries raised if the minimum was raised to $16.50 a week?

A. Mr. Tyler, I had nothing to do with that other negotiation.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, that is Board's exhibit No. 7?

Mr. Tyler: That is the wage agreement of June 22.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. You had nothing to do with that?

A. Nothing whatsoever.

Q. Who brought up the matter of arbitration as a part of the contract of May 27, 1937?

A. My recollection is that the union brought the matter of arbitration up. There was a discussion as to what kind of agency should be established if the necessity should arise, and my recollection is—I believe I am right—either Mr. Ingraham or Mrs. Reed thought that if there was to be a group of people the third person should be someone such as a Federal judge, and I believe a board of three was [fol. 2043] established, one designated by the union, another by the firm, and then a Federal Judge. That was the trend of the discussion, as I recall it.

Q. But, the best of your recollection is that the union was the first one to mention the matter of putting arbitration in the agreement, is that right?

A. That is right, that is my recollection.

Q. How much time intervened between the morning session and the afternoon session, according to the best of your memory?

A. An hour or an hour and a half or two hours, sir.

Q. During that time did you or did you not spend time in considering the propositions made by the union?

A. We did.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Who do you mean, "we"?

A. Well, we talked it over with Mrs. Reed, Mr. Ingraham, Mr. Baty, Mr. Green, and we discussed it with some of our assistants.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Do you have any knowledge of either the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company ever paying any bills of indebtedness of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

Q. Has there ever been any instructions or permission gone out for either company to pay any bills of the union?

A. No, sir.

[fol. 2044] Q. Do you have any knowledge or did you ever hear of either the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company ever paying or instructing or permitting the payment of any sums to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich, and Tyler in connection with either the Loyalty League or the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No. Sir.

LEE BATY, a witness called by and on behalf of respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. State your name, please.

A. Lee Baty.

Q. Where are you employed, Mr. Baty?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. In what capacity?

A. Production manager.

Q. How long have you been production manager?

[fol. 2045] A. Since about the 25th of June, 1935.

Q. Will you just state what is included in the production department?

A. Well, that is a pretty large field. Everything pertaining to the production of the garments. It starts in with the cutting, and then the bundling by the dividers. From there it is distributed to the sections, with different parts of the garments made in various sections. The skirts are made in one section, waists in another, belts in another, and then the examining of the dresses after they are completed, and the ironing of the dresses, and the folding, and the passing of them into the shipping room ready for shipment.

Q. Mr. Baty, I will hand you I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 10 and ask you if you had anything to do with the circulation of that petition.

A. I did not.

Q. When did you first learn that there was such a petition as that?

A. When it was delivered to Mrs. Reed at her residence.

Q. To your knowledge, did any official of the company, or any person with authority to hire and fire or discipline, cause that petition to be circulated?

A. They did not.

Q. Were you present at a meeting of March 18 of the Donnelly Garment Company?

[fol. 2046] A. A meeting of employees, you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Did you have anything to do with the arrangement of that meeting?

A. I did not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2047] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Was there a girl employed at the Donnelly Garment Company by the name of May Fike?

A. There was.

Q. What particular work did she do?

A. Well, shortly before she left she was doing underarm seams.

Q. State whether or not that character of work had been [fol. 2048] handled by each section prior to 1937.

A. Sometime before that, I think it was in 1936, according to my recollection, I changed the underarm seams for the cotton garments from the individual sections to a special section, which was designated by number, section 523.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. You mean by that, Mr. Baty, that all of this underarm seam work then went to one unit?

A. To one unit, section 523.

Q. In other words, the other units did all of the work up to that point, and then the bundles were taken over to this one unit that did this particular work, is that correct?

A. That is correct to a certain extent. On these dresses work is performed all over the factory. The department did perform the work on the underarm seams.

Q. That is the only place where they did that work?

A. That is the only place where they did the underarm seams for the cotton garments.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Prior to the time that you made that change state whether or not the operators that performed underarm hemming would do, also, other operations?

A. Yes, they would. During the previous period, before I made this change, there would be from two to four operators in a section that would perform the underarm seams, when available, but there was a great deal of the time we didn't have enough underarm seam work to keep these two [fol. 2049] to four busy and as a result they would be required to do some other kind of work.

In order to provide more continuous work on the same operation for these particular people I assembled them in one section and brought the work to them from all sections.

Q. After that change was made the operators that performed underarm hemming did not perform any other operations; is that a fact?

A. That is right.

Q. What kind of work did May Fike do?

A. May Fike was doing underarm seams just prior to the time she left.

Q. Was she capable of doing any other kind of work?

A. She had worked on other work prior to the time she was transferred into this special section. She had done some binding of different kinds, but her best—

. . . . . .

[fol. 2060] (Whereupon, the partial answer was read by the reporter as follows:

"A. She had worked on other work prior to the time she was transferred into this special section. She had done some binding of different kinds but her best —").

Trial Examiner Batten: Let the record show Mr. Langsdale withdraws his objection.

A. Her best work was on the underseam binding. Her earnings for a piece work rate basis was far better on the underseam binding, and that is the reason I had transferred her to that section. Her work in the other sections was not satisfactory as compared to other operators' work.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. How many underarm binders were in this section that you refer to?

A. There was — it run from twelve to fourteen. Occasionally, there might be fifteen.

Q. In comparison with the other underarm binders, was May Fike of equal ability?

A. I would say that we had more work returned to May [fol. 2061] Fike to be corrected than any other underseam binder we had.

Mr. Tyler: Mr. Baty, can you speak a little louder, please? I can't catch all of it.

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Now, Mr. Baty, will you state the months that are the peak seasons in the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Well, the peak seasons are March, April and May.

Q. I will ask you if that was true in 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will ask you, Mr. Baty, around the first of May, the first several weeks in May, if the plant was operating at full capacity?

A. Yes.

Q. And was that true with respect to work for underarm binders?

A. Yes, it was true to this extent: possibly one day a week you would be low on that particular operation and it might be necessary for any number of the underseam binders to go home for one or two hours, or maybe half a day.

[fol. 2062] Q. I will ask you if the operators in section 523 took their vacations during the month of May?

A. Do you mean, with reference to 1937?

Q. Yes.

A. They did not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2063] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, did you have any conversation with Mrs. Hyde regarding May Fike's vacation?

A. I did.

Q. Will you just state what occurred?

Mr. Leary: I object to this, Mr. Examiner, as being a self-serving statement.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may answer.

A. Along about the first of May, 1937, May Fike came to Mrs. Hyde's desk, which was located on the seventh floor. I had a desk located about 15 feet away, within the [fol. 2064] same enclosure, such a thing as this rail in front of me (indicating).

May Fike told Mrs. Hyde she wanted to go on her vacation because her husband was getting his vacation at that particular time.

Mrs. Hyde came over to my desk and asked if May Fike could have her vacation. I told Mrs. Hyde we could not permit anybody to go on their vacation at that time, that we had too much work in the factory to permit anybody to leave, but that if she insisted on going we couldn't prevent her, we couldn't keep anybody from quitting, but if she went, to make it clear to her that she was leaving our employment.

Mrs. Hyde went back and told May Fike she could not take her vacation at that time—

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. (Interrupting) Just a minute. Were you there?

A. I was as close as I am to you.

Q. Did you hear this?

A. I heard every word.

Mrs. Hyde told May Fike if she went she would be leaving our employ. May Fike said, "Regardless of that, I am going." Mrs. Hyde said, "Well, now, you want to understand that you are quitting the employment of the company." And May Fike left.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you ever hear that May Fike called Mrs. Hyde after her return from her vacation?

[fol. 2065] A. Mrs. Hyde told me about the first of June, or shortly afterwards, that May Fike had called in, asking to come back to work, and I told Mrs. Hyde we didn't have any work for her. That was in June, 1937.

Q. Now, in June, 1937, was there a lack of work at the plant?

A. In June, 1937— We run out of work, usually, about the middle of the month. That is, in all of the departments the work commences to dwindle down, starting in in the first part of June, and each department gradually runs out of work. We finish up the work approximately the middle of the month, approximately the 23d or 25th.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2066] Q. Did you know that May Fike was a member of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union prior to the time she testified in court?

A. No.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2067] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. At the time May Fike left, did you know she was a member of the International?

A. No.

Q. Now, Mr. Baty, how far was May Fike's machine from Fern Sigler's?

A. The exact distance, by measurement, is 31 feet and 5 inches from needle to needle.

Q. And you have measured that?

A. I measured it.

Q. I will hand you Respondent's Exhibit 4, and ask if that is a picture of the sections in which May Fike worked and Fern Sigler worked?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. I will ask you if you can point to the machine at which May Fike worked.

Mr. Leary: I object to his testifying on that after it is already pointed out here.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. I will ask you if the mark on this exhibit at the left-hand side is over the machine at which May Fike worked.

A. It is.

Q. And is the mark on the other side of the picture over the machine at which Fern Sigler worked?

A. It is.

Q. Now, Mr. Baty, if May Fike was sitting at her ma-[fol. 2068] chine, state whether or not she would be facing Fern Sigler.

A. If she was sitting at her machine, facing her machine?

Q. Yes.

A. She would be facing north, and could not see Fern Sigler's machine.

Q. Was Fern Sigler's machine behind her?

A. It was behind her and quite a bit to the left.

Q. Is it possible, or would it have been possible, for May Fike, sitting at her machine, to have turned and seen Fern Sigler at her machine?

A. As long as she remained seated, no.

Q. She would have had to have stood up?

A. She would have to stand up in order to see Fern Sigler's machine.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. You mean by that the obstructions on the top of the table are such—

A. (Interrupting) Are such that she wouldn't be able to see over.

Q. Could she see a crowd of people if they were standing up over there?

A. She could see people standing, but she couldn't see anybody that was seated.

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Baty, if the power is on, would it have been possible to hear people talking at a distance of 31 feet away from May Fike's machine?

[fol. 2069] Mr. Langsdale: Now, I object to that as calling for speculative conclusions. That would depend entirely upon how [long] the other people were talking, and, certainly, this witness can't say that any tone of voice, you couldn't hear some one 31 feet away. That is about the distance across the room. It is purely speculative; guess work.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, with all the machines running on the floor? Is that what you mean?

Mr. Ingraham: That is what I mean.

Mr. Langsdale: I still say it is purely speculative, depending upon how loud the voices were.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may answer, in an ordinary tone of voice would you hear?

Mr. Langsdale: Well, that wasn't incorporated in the question.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I am incorporating it.

A. In an ordinary tone of voice, you couldn't hear it at all. The only way you could possibly hear would be if it was shouted rather loud, and it would have to be mighty loud, at that.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, did you have occasion to go to this Section 523 on the morning of April 23, 1937?

A. I had occasion to go near it, and past it. I didn't stop at that section.

Q. What was the occasion that brought you up to that [fol. 2070] floor?

A. I received a telephone call that there was considerable commotion down on that floor, and I went down to investigate to see what the occasion was.

Q. And will you just state what occurred?

A. I went in on the floor and I saw a crowd of operators gathered up around the machine of Fern Sigler, located in Section 521, and I went down to the machine and asked Fern Sigler to come go to the office, and she refused to go, said she wasn't going to the office, that she wasn't going any place, and I said "Well, I am telling you to go now. I am not asking you any longer. You go to the office. I want to talk to you." And after quite a few words that she wouldn't go, that she didn't have to go, why, she finally got up and went to the office with me.

Q. Then you had a conversation with her at the office?

A. In the office, she went in the office and I called Mrs. Hyde. I called a stenographer and told the stenographer to prepare to take a statement, and I stepped out of the room to gather some chairs, and I came back in, and Rose Todd was talking to Fern Sigler, and there was quite an exchange of words there between the different ones present.

Q. I will hand you Board's Exhibit No. 5, and ask you, Mr. Baty, if that was the statement that was taken down at that meeting with Fern Sigler in your office? (Indicating).

[fol. 2071] A. Yes.

Q. I notice, Mr. Baty, in this statement, you made this statement: "It is just the publicity in the paper, and the people are pretty well riled up. It is impossible to control them as long as you remain."

What publicity were you referring to?

A. That was an article that came out in the paper the night before stating that Sylvia Hull had been chosen as a representative of the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company to go to the convention at Atlantic City, to represent them in the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

Q. I hand you Respondent's Exhibit 1, and ask you if that is the article you refer to.

A. It is.

Q. Did Fern Sigler leave after that conversation?

A. She left. I think it was some 30 minutes, or something like that, after she got to the office.

Q. State whether or not she then performed services for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

Mr. Langsdale: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Do you know whether or not she called on the customers of the Donnelly Garment Company in Kansas City?

Mr. Langsdale: I object to that as immaterial. This [fol. 2072] is not an 8(3) case.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. I will ask you, Mr. Baty, if you had any conversation that same day with Sylvia Hull.

A. I did not.

Q. Did Sylvia Hull go home that morning?

A. She did.

[fol. 2073] Q. Did you give any instructions later in regard to calling Sylvia Hull?

A. I instructed Mrs. Hyde to call Sylvia Hull, and a day or two following that morning Mrs. Hyde reported back to me that she had called Sylvia Hull and got no reply, was unable to reach her.

Q. Did she call more than once? A. She did.

Q. Over what period of time?

A. She called—I think it was the second day after she left she called intermittently all morning the phone number Sylvia Hull had left with her.

Q. Did you later learn that Sylvia Hull was in Atlantic City attending the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union convention?

A. I did.

Q. Was there a newspaper article in the papers regarding that?

A. There was.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, she was there at the time these calls were made?

A. No. She was there after the calls were made trying to locate her.

Trial Examiner Batten: Then, I don't see what that has to do with it. I don't think it has anything to do with [fol. 2074] it if it was after these calls were made.

Mr. Ingraham: If Your Honor please, I want to show that we not only called but later learned she was in Atlantic City, and therefore there wouldn't have been any use to call, if she was there.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't think that is material at all. The testimony about her being in Atlantic City, if it was after your attempts to call, may be stricken out.

Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, I want to show she made a speech in Atlantic City.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may make an offer of proof on it.

Mr. Ingraham. They are asking for reinstatement of Sylvia Hull.

Trial Examiner Batten. You mean, this was a speech to the I. L. G. W. U.?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: And that she said some things there that were not true?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Suppose she did?

Mr. Ingraham: I think it would show we would be justified in not reinstating her, in view of her statements. She states she was going to call a strike at the Donnelly Garment Company.

[fol. 2075] Trial Examiner Batten: You may make an offer of proof on it. I don't think it is material to the issues.

Mr. Stottle: Further, if Your Honor please, if she was employed by this other concern, it would go to the reinstatement.

Trial Examiner Batten: If you want to show she had substantially equivalent employment, that would be a different thing. But, as I said before, there is no use showing what her earnings were, because if the Board should find she is entitled to reinstatement you can then determine what her earnings were.

Your purpose is not the question of substantially equivalent employment, is it, Mr. Ingraham?

Mr. Ingraham: That is going to be part of it.

Trial Examiner Batten: That she had substantially equivalent employment?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, that she went to work for the International.

Trial Examiner Batten: If you want to show that she had substantially equivalent employment, you may show that.

Mr. Langsdale: When should they show that, now?

Trial Examiner Batten: I say, Mr. Ingraham may show that if she got a job, who it was with, and how much she made.

Mr. Langsdale: You mean, at this time, before the Board passes upon the question of reinstatement.

[fol. 2076] Trial Examiner Batten: There is a difference between substantially equivalent employment and showing what her earnings were. This is not for the purpose of showing her earnings.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, has Sylvia Hull ever requested reemployment at the Donnelly Garment Company, to your knowledge?

A. She has not.

Q. I hand you respondent's exhibit No. 10 and ask you to state what publication that is.

A. It is "Justice," published by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

(Thereupon the publication above referred to was marked for identification "Respondent's Exhibit No. 10.")

Mr. Ingraham: I offer in evidence respondent's exhibit No. 10, the report of Sylvia Hull's speech.

Trial Examiner Batten: What date is that?

Mr. Langsdale: June 1, 1937.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, what is the purpose of this, if you care to disclose it? Is it to show the situation as it existed? It is not to prove the truth or untruth of anything in there, is it?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, indeed. This is the official paper of the International.

[fol. 2077] Trial Examiner Batten: I certainly won't receive it to prove anything, an article in a newspaper.

Mr. Ingraham: Even though it is published by the International?

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't care whom it is published by.

Mr. Ingraham: Wouldn't that be considered as an admission?

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't believe in trying any of these hearings on newspapers, trade papers, or anything of that kind. If you want to offer it on the same basis you offered the other newspaper articles, I will receive it on that basis.

Mr. Ingraham: I offer it, of course, for all purposes.

Trial Examiner Batten: I am saying I will not receive it for all purposes. But if you want to offer it on the same basis as exhibits Nos. 6 and 7, although it restricts your general offer, I will receive it on that basis, on the basis of respondent's exhibits Nos. 6 and 7, and then you may have your exception.

Mr. Ingraham: I am still offering it for all purposes, and you are not allowing it to be received for all purposes?

Trial Examiner Batten: That is correct. But my question still is, do you want me to receive it on the same basis I did receive exhibits Nos. 6 and 7, having refused to re-[fol. 2078] ceive it for general purposes?

Mr. Ingraham: Oh, yes.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, may it not also be received to show that she said these things, even though the things she did say were not true?

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle, I assume this article is in the same class as the other two, it speaks for itself.

Mr. Stottle: You let Senator Reed's statement in to show that he said certain things, didn't you?

Trial Examiner Batten: It was stated, in connection with that, that if the reporter were here he would testify Senator Reed said those things. I will receive it on that basis, although that is not Mr. Ingraham's offer. I am not going to receive these newspaper articles as proving or disproving anything that is said in them. I will receive them for just what they are worth as newspaper articles, and that is all.

(Thereupon the publication previously marked, as above set out, "Respondent's Exhibit No. 10," was received in evidence.)

* * * * * *

[fol. 2079] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, did you ever give any instructions that Sylvia Hull and May Fike should not be recalled or reinstated on account of their union membership in the International? A. I did not.

Q. I will ask you, Mr. Baty, what action you took on the morning of April 23, 1937, in regard to getting the operators back to work.

A. I don't understand what occasion you mean.

Q. April 23, 1937.

A. I went down to the sixth floor, the machine where Fern Sigler was working, and got Fern Sigler to go to the office, and at the same time, I turned and in[fol. 2080] structed the girls to all get back to their machines and get to work.

Q. Was there any violence, to your knowledge?

A. There was none.

Q. What, if anything, did the operators say in regard to returning to work as long as Fern Sigler was there?

A. I heard shouts from amongst the crowd that they wasn't going to work until Fern Sigler left.

Trial Examiner Batten: You wouldn't call that a sit-down strike, would you?

A. I would say it was a stand-up.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Mr. Baty, after you took charge of the production of the factory, did you make any changes in reference to the method of production, or the plan of work? A. I did.

Q. I direct your attention to the work of the instructors. What, if anything, did you change in regard to their duties?

A. I changed the work of the instructors, I would say, to a very great extent. Prior to the time I took them, they were considered more or less supervisors, and entered into the discussions and recommendations as to the ability of different operators and made different recommendations as to which operators would be recalled after they were laid off, and after I took over the plant, I put instructors strictly on a basis of an instructor, and they were there to assist the operator in the performance of [fol. 2081] their work, and nothing else. They had no supervision over the girls, and it was none of their concern as to how the girls performed. They were to give them the work, take it away from them when it was finished, show them how to do it, if they didn't know how, and that was the extent that they were held liable for the girls in the section.

[fol. 2082] Q. Now, Mr. Baty, when did you put that plan into operation?

A. That plan was put into operation, as near as I can remember, about the month of July, 1935.

Q. Have instructors any authority to take work away from operators and give it to someone else?

A. They only have that authority when I give it to them. I will instruct them to do that on some occasions.

Q. Will you please explain how the work is distributed?

A. The work is sent from the cutting room—first, the plans are made as to where the work will be performed, and then the work is bundled in the cutting room, and the bundle ticket shows to what section the work is to go, and the bundles go to that section. And the instructors then have the operators, or if they do not have them we immediately transfer operators into that section to do that work. Sometimes the work gets there ahead of the operators. Then I have to transfer operators to that particular location to take care of the work.

The instructor merely takes the work out to the machine and gives it to the girl, and if the girl doesn't know how to do it the instructor sits down and does one or two operations to show her how.

When the work is done the instructor ties it up, and the thread girl or floor girl, whichever you want to call her, [fol. 2083] picks the work up and puts it in the basket to transfer it to the next section.

Q. Have the instructors any authority to withhold work from operators? A. They have not.

Q. As operators finish with bundles do the instructors see that they get additional work?

A. As soon as an operator finishes with one bundle she stands up at her machine, which is a signal to the instructor or floor girl that she needs work, and immediately, if there is any work, they take the bundle to her.

Q. Have instructors any authority to hire to discharge employees? A. They do not have.

Q. Have they any authority to discipline workers?

A. They do not have any authority to discipline operators.

Q. Do they have any supervisory authority?

A. They do not.

Q. Do the floor girls have any supervisory authority?

A. No.

Q. What are the duties of the floor girls?

A. The duties of the floor girls are to provide thread and trims in the way of binding, lace, and any other articles that go with the work.

The instructor, as a rule, starts the girl out on the [fol. 2084] bundle of work she is to do. Immediately, then, the thread girl follows up and sees that she has the proper thread and notions to go with it.

Q. How many operators are in a section?

A. Well, it depends upon our sections. In some sections we have 40 and some 44, and different amounts. The regular section, I would say, would be considered as 40.

Q. What position does Dewey Atchison hold?

A. At this time he is assisting me in planning the work for the factory and is paying particular attention to the cutting department. He prepares the statement of work that is going to be available. He then brings it to me and we go over it and prepare our plans a week or, sometimes, two weeks in advance.

Mr. Atchison's duty is to figure the various kinds of work that is in the group of style numbers, prepare it so that we will have the patterns on it available at a particular time, so that we can set up our factory for the work. And then I designate to him which ones he shall prepare an order on to be cut first in the cutting department.

Q. How long has Mr. Atchison been performing that character of work?

A. That has been since, I believe, around in December, 1938, he has been on this particular work and putting in the greater portion of his time on it.

[fol. 2085] Q. What character of work did he do in 1937?

A. In 1937 Mr. Atchison was doing considerable checking of the plannings as to what work could be done in the factory with the equipment we had. He worked with the pricing department, and after they had priced the garment he took the garment and checked it to see what machinery it was going to require in the factory to perform the work, and made many checks of various kinds of operations which would improve the handling through the factory, but he had no connection whatever with the factory itself.

Q. Did he have any supervisory authority?

A. He did not. He worked alone as an individual employee.

Q. Did he have any authority to fire or hire or discipline? A. He did not.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. I believe you stated you did not attend a meeting of employees on March 18, 1937; is that correct?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you attend a meeting of employees on April 27, 1937? A. I did not.

Mr. Langsdale: What date is that?

Mr. Ingraham: April 27, 1937.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Will you state whether or not there was a meeting of employees on that date, during working hours?

A. There was not.

Q. At that time did the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company have any control over the first or second floor of the Corrigan building?

[fol. 2087] A. They did not.

Q. Neither of those companies rented that space?

A. No.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. What hours did you work then?

A. Do you mean me or the factory?

Q. The factory. What time did they work? I presume you mean the superintendent. You work when you feel like it, don't you? What time does the factory close?

A. The factory closes at various hours. They go to work in the morning at, sometimes as early as 7:10, 7:20, 7:30.

Q. What I am interested in is, on April 27, 1937, what were the hours that day?

A. The hours that day would be from 7:30 until approximately 4:30. They start quitting at 3:50, 4 o'clock, 4:10, 4:20, 4:30.

Q. You mean they quit in shifts and start in shifts?

A. They quit in groups.

Q. Groups?

A. The starting time is staggered in order to handle the people in and out of the building. There are too many people to be handled on two small elevators all at one time. In order to help the people getting in and out, we stagger the starting time and quitting time.

By Mr. Ingraham:

[fol. 2088] Q. Did you, in any way, assist in the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you contribute financially at any time to that union? A. I have not.

Q. Mr. Baty, is there a cafeteria in the building?

A. Yes.

Q. On what floor is that cafeteria at the present time?

A. Third floor.

Q. Is that cafeteria operated by the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company?

A. It is not.

Q. Would you state the arrangement under which that cafeteria is operated?

A. The cafeteria is operated by a party by the name of Kranz. He has a lease on the space. The Donnelly Garment Company furnishes him with lights, water and the heat, chairs, and tables and a few of the counter fixtures. Mr. Kranz furnishes all other equipment.

Q. What arrangement does he have with respect to rent? Does he pay rent? A. He pays rent, yes.

Q. What is the rent?

A. The rent he pays is $1 a year.

Q. And what is the arrangement under which he oper-

[fol. 2089] ates that cafeteria in respect to price of food, and so forth?

A. It is understood in the arrangement with Mr. Kranz that he was to furnish good food and make it possible to furnish a meat and a vegetable and a drink for approximately 20 cents, and in order to enable him to do that, the company furnished the chairs, tables and such equipment as they did furnish to help eliminate his overhead and make it possible for him to furnish these reasonable lunches to the employees.

Q. Now, does the company share in any way in the profit he makes in the operation of the cafeteria?

A. They do not.

Q. And is he in sole control of the cafeteria?

A. He is.

Q. Does the Donnelly Garment Company pay any of the wages of the employees? A. They do not.

Q. Do they pay for any of the food that Mr. Kranz sells? A. They do not.

Q. Mr. Baty, were you present when the contract between the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union negotiated? A. I was.

Q. Will you just state what occurred?

Mr. Langsdale: I didn't hear that question.

[fol. 2090] Trial Examiner Batten: You mean the first contract?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, the first contract.

Trial Examiner Batten: Board's Exhibit 6.

A. I was called to Mrs. Reed's office, which is located on the tenth floor, and was informed by Mrs. Reed, along with three or four other people—Mr. Ingraham was there, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Green—that the committee for the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was going to call upon Mrs. Reed to negotiate a contract, and in a few minutes, the members of the committee were received at the office. I think, as I recall it now, Mr. Tyler said that he had a proposed contract or memorandum of some sort that he wanted to read, and asked the company to consider it.

Mr. Tyler read that contract, and I think he read it approximately half way through, and as I recall at this time, Mrs. Reed stopped him and told him that she thought that they had gone into that far enough at the time, but she believed she would like for him to leave the contract and give her an opportunity to go over it with her associates; that she didn't believe that they could save any time or do any good until she had a chance to go over it with her associates.

I think this meeting was in the neighborhood of 10 o'clock or 10:30 in the morning and at that time we discussed a few points in this proposed contract that Mr. [fol. 2091] Tyler had presented, read part of it, and Mrs Reed asked the committee for the union to retire and give her a chance to go into it with her people; that some time in the neighborhood of noon, close to 12 o'clock, when they left, and as I recall it now, they returned about 2 o'clock.

At about 2 o'clock the contract was read paragraph for paragraph and many comments were made by the executives of the company, as well as the members of the committee, and Mr. Tyler, and changes were made, and it was some time in the neighborhood of 5 o'clock when the contract was finally signed. Different paragraphs had been retyped any place from three to ten times.

[fol. 2092] Q. Do you recall the discussion of any of the provisions of the contract? I will hand you Board's exhibit No. 6 and ask you if you want to refer to the contract.

A. One of the first discussions that came up was the employees that the contract was supposed to cover. I know at the time I objected to the contract covering all of the employees. I was of the opinion that the contract should be made to cover only the factory workers and could see no reason why they should incorporate all of the employees of the company in the contract.

After considerable argument we decided that if the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union insisted, their committee insisted that they all be members the company would take no further action on it, they would agree to it.

Q. State whether or not Mr. Tyler and Miss Todd and the other members of the committee informed the company that all of the employees had joined the union and wanted to be represented by the union.

A. Mr. Tyler and Miss Todd informed the officials of the company that they had cards signed by every employee of the company, authorizing them to represent them in the preparation of a contract, or to represent them as their committee to carry on these negotiations.

Q. State whether or not Miss Todd had submitted cards of these members of the union, of the Donnelly Garment [fol. 2093] Workers' Union, to the company.

A. It was quite some time before this meeting to enter into this agreement—I think it was some time in the neighborhood of the first of May, I was called to Mrs. Reed's office and given a box of cards by Mrs. Reed. She asked me to go over those cards and determine if the names that were on those cards were the names of our company. I think there was something like 1,100 cards at the time. I took those cards and went through them to determine if they were the employees of our company, and returned them to Mrs. Reed with the information that they were.

Q. Were there cards for all of the employees of the company?

A. I think not, not at that time. There were some that were not there—there were a few.

Q. Did Mrs. Reed state whom she had obtained the cards from?

A. Mrs. Reed told me she had received the cards from Miss Todd the day before.

Q. Mr. Baty, will you continue on with the examination of the contract?

A. Well, the paragraph pertaining to the specification of hours, 40 hours per week, I objected to that paragraph, but in the discussions and arguments that followed I was overruled on it. I didn't like the idea of being held to any specific hours. As production manager I wanted all of the hours I could get.

[fol. 2094] Q. Is it not a fact that it is a practice in the garment industry that during peak seasons the garment plants must work over 40 hours in order to get out the production?

A. There is, during the peak seasons. As far as our company is concerned, it is impossible to fill our orders, or to begin to fill them, without working our machines more than 40 hours a week.

There are several weeks where our orders will be so far in excess of the capacity of the plant that the only possible way to make any showing toward filling them is to work additional hours, in excess of 40 hours.

Trial Examiner Batten: Under this contract you can work more than 40 hours?

A. Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Does the contract provide that anything in excess of 40 hours is overtime?

A. The contract does provide that any time in excess of 40 hours shall be overtime.

Q. Have you stated the reasons why you objected to that provision in the contract?

A. For the reason that I wanted to be able to change the hours any time I saw fit. I didn't want to be restricted.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, change them without paying overtime?

A. Yes.

[fol. 2095] Mr. Ingraham: Will you continue on?

A. During this conference—I might say here that Fred Brown was the member of the committee who objected so strenuously to the idea of leaving the hours per week open.

Prior to the time I had taken the factory they had worked considerable time in excess of 40 hours; they had worked 45 hours on occasions, and 50 hours, and such employees as were on a weekly rate, a good many of them received no compensation for the additional hours of work occasioned when they would change their hours, and Mr. Brown was very much excited with regard to this and wanted to be sure this contract covered that phase of it.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. You mean, time workers?

A. Time workers, yes, sir. When this contract was executed it was established that the hours per week for all employees would be 40, regardless of their position or how they were paid, whether by the hour, week or piecework, and anything in excess of that was to be overtime.

There was considerable discussion about the promotions and seniority rights. The members of the committee insisted that any positions that were open throughout the plant, that somebody in the plant be given the first opportunity to fill them.

Q. What positions do you mean?

A. All kinds of time positions—instructors, floor girls. [fol. 2096] And there was considerable discussion on that point. I didn't like the idea of giving up the right to place anybody you chose in any position. And many took the position that the employees that were already in the service should have first opportunity to any position that was open, provided they could fill it. And after considerable discussion that was arrived at. The conclusion was as in the contract.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. You mean at times of layoffs, for instance, the oldest people would be retained?

A. At the time of layoffs and at the time of additional help coming in, or vacancies occurring by people leaving or resigning, and some of the positions that were weekly, continuous work, the piece workers wanted the privilege of having an opportunity to go on those positions.

We had quite a discussion about the meal period.

Before this contract was entered into with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union it had been the practice of the company to extend the meal period, the lunch period. When it would come time to have the noonday lunch period the management of the plant, instead of taking a specified noon period of 30 minutes or 40 minutes, would notify the employees to take an hour and a half or two hours off for lunch and then return to work, because of the fact that they didn't have sufficient work for them at the time but they would expect to have it in a couple of hours. As a result of that practice, the committee for the employees insisted [fol. 2097] upon this regular meal period and got it.

Paragraph 14. The management insisted upon this paragraph about the reduction of the number of employees in accordance with the work they had to perform, and upon the right to discharge any employees whose services were unsatisfactory.

Paragraph 15. Vacations. Up to this time the pieceworkers in the plant had been receiving one week's vacation with pay, and the members of the committee insisted upon the pieceworkers being on the same basis as weekly-rated employees and that they should have the same vacation with pay as other employees. After considerable discussion it was agreed upon.

Paragraph 16. Members of the union committee insisted upon this paragraph. The company previous to the execution of this contract, had paid insurance and had given the employees such privileges as these, and the committee insisted that this be continued.

Then, there was considerable discussion as to the duration of the contract, and Mrs. Reed objected very strenuously, as well as the other executives, to entering into a contract for a period of two years. There was a great liability on the company's part in entering into a contract of this kind when nobody could foretell what the future was to bring; it was a great hazard that the company was taking to enter into such an arrangement as this [fol. 2098]. That is about all I can recall at this particular time.

[fol. 2099] Mr. Ingraham: Was there a discussion among the executives of the company?

A. Between the time that Mr. Tyler and the committee for the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union called upon Mrs. Reed in the morning and left about noon, and up until something like 2 o'clock, when they returned, amongst the officials of the company, we were in constant attendance, and every few minutes that phase of making a written contract was brought up and discussed, and it was only after the advice of Mr. Ingraham to the effect that he understood under the law that we would probably be compelled to do so, probably be better for us to enter into a contract, than not to.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, was that your interpretation of the Wagner Act?

Mr. Ingraham: I reserve my views on that, your Honor.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I mean, is the witness' statement correct as to your advice?

Mr. Ingraham: At the time?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2100] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, did the contract, Board's Exhibit 6, provide for the making of an additional wage agreement?

A. I don't see it in here, but it is my recollection that it did.

Q. Well, was there a wage agreement that was entered into after the time that this contract was executed?

A. There was an additional agreement entered into, approximately one month later, which was about the 22d of June, 1937, to cover the rates of pay for the various employees, various departments.

Q. I will hand you Board's Exhibit 7, and ask you if that is the agreement.

A. Yes, this is a supplemental agreement.

Q. Were there any negotiations respecting this contract? A. There was.

Q. Prior to the time that this contract was entered into, did Rose Todd request any information from you?

A. Rose Todd? Yes.

Q. What was the information she wanted?

A. After the signing of the first agreement, some few days after, possibly a week or 10 days, Miss Todd asked me to prepare for her a statement showing the rates of pay that the various employees throughout the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Com-[fol. 2101] pany received, the workers in the different departments, such as checkers, mechanics, spreaders and the helpers in the cutting department, dividers, the examiners, the floor girls, instructors and the—some figures on the average earnings of the operators on the different floors of the plant.

Q. Prior to the time this contract was entered into, did the company guarantee operators any amount in excess of $15 minimum, which the company had been paying for a number of years?

A. They did not.

Q. Well, will you just state what occurred with reference to the negotiations of this contract, Board's Exhibit 7?

A. About the time this contract was signed, this supplemental agreement, I believe it was the afternoon before, Mrs. Reed and Mr. Ingraham and I went to Mr. Tyler's office and met there with Mr. Tyler and the committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and we discussed throughout the afternoon the question of wage agreement for the various employees.

Mr. Tyler had a draft set up, various proposals, and I think we were there until some 6 o'clock or 6:30 that evening. We agreed tentatively on certain phases of it, and then I think we came back the next day, some time close to noon. I don't know whether it was before or after noon. It was about noon, and we had discussed very [fol. 2102] thoroughly, I remember on the first day, the idea of possibly agreeing to a $16 minimum as the low minimum for everybody.

The next day, on our arrival, and shortly after the negotiations started again, why, we were confronted with a demand for $16.50 for an absolute minimum instead of $16. Well, after considerable discussion, Mrs. Reed and Mr. Ingraham and myself left the room where Mr. Tyler and the committee were, went into another office and called up the plant, got some information concerning the number of employees that would be involved in this $16.50 minimum, and after a delay of some hour or hour and a half, we concluded that we could meet their demand and give them—

Q. (Interrupting) Did Mrs. Reed refuse, at first, to agree to $16.50?

A. Mrs. Reed did refuse to even consider it at first, and after we left the meeting, Mrs. Reed, Mr. Ingraham and myself went into another room and discussed it further. Mr. Ingraham suggested that we call the plant and see how many people would be involved, and what the possible expense would be to the company.

Q. When you say "how many people would be in- [fol. 2103] volved", you mean how many people were receiving less than $16.50? A. Less than $16.50.

Q. And what information did we find from the plant in regard to that?

A. We found that there would only be in the neighborhood of 100 or possibly 150 that would be involved, so we concluded that we could meet it.

Q. Do you mean 150 employees? A. Employees.

Q. Will you look through the contract and state what other discussions took place.

A. Well, we have here the recognition of five holidays, consisting of Decoration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day. Mr. Tyler, with the committee, demanded that the company pay piece workers on the same basis as they did weekly rated employees.

Before the contract was executed, a weekly rated employee was paid for holidays, although they did not work. So Mr. Tyler, with his committee, demanded that the piece workers be placed upon the same basis and after considerable argument one way and another, that was granted.

The only concession that the company got in that privilege was to tack on a sentence giving the employer the privilege to make up for time lost on account of holidays. That means that the employer can work the operators [fol. 2104] and other employees on a Saturday following, to make up this holiday, without having to pay them time and a half for such time. They only have to pay them straight time, since they did not work the holiday, and that is the only concession that the company got from that.

The method of determining piece work rates was discussed at this conference, and it was agreed that they were —that the basis at the time being used by the company was very satisfactory, and that they could be continued.

It was further discussed about dividing the work performed by the machine operators according to the class of work that they performed. That is, in regard to the different materials and the selling price.

The operators were divided into three groups. The first group was to cover the operators who worked a portion of their time on garments selling above $45 per dozen, and the remainder at a lower price.

There was a second group that was established to cover operators who worked on garments that sold, wholesale, at $45 and under, which we more or less termed at that time as the lower priced cottons.

There was a third group of operators established to cover operators who worked exclusively on what we termed the lower priced cottons, or cottons which sold wholesale at $22.50 and under, and a separate and distinct minimum [fol. 2105] was established for each of these three groups of operators, and they had a fourth group of operators which was placed in this agreement to cover beginners.

Q. I will ask you, Mr. Baty, if the representatives of the union made the proposal to classify the operators as provided in the contract? A. They did.

Q. Did the representatives of the union take the position that the company should guarantee operators who worked on the higher priced garments a higher guarantee than $16.50? A. They did.

Q. Did the company take the position that the company segregate a certain number of employees and have them work the year around on higher priced garments and nothing else and would guarantee those employees the higher guarantee?

A. The company took the position that they would be unable to segregate the work so that any specified group would be able to handle the work of the higher priced garment, and keep the people employed at such work, employed throughout the year, but they did say that by being able to give these people that were the ones which the committee for the union was requesting the higher guarantee, if they could give them some of the cotton work which wholesaled at $45 and under, that they would be able to meet such a condition, and after considerable discussion this arrangement was agreed upon [fol. 2106] whereby they would, as I recall now, the committee for the union requested a $22.50 guarantee for all employees who worked on any of the garments that wholesaled above $45.

[fol. 2107] Q. Is it a fact that the employees that would come under the first classification could product all of the garments the company makes that sell at above $45.

A. They could.

Q. Will you continue on and state what else took place?

A. Well, in addition to the operators, a very similar arrangement was made to cover the ironers. The ironers who performed the work on the garments that sold above $45 were placed in a group, and a second group was provided for the ironers who performed the work on the middle classed cottons, or lower classed, as we commonly term it, and a third group was provided for ironers who work only on the lower classed cottons or the ones that wholesale at $22.50 and under.

* * * * * * *

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Will you state what took place?

[fol. 2108] A. The committee for the union, after getting the setup for the three groups of operators, insisted upon the similar setup for ironers, and followed with a similar setup for folders.

Each and every class of employee was covered in this wage agreement.

The cutters at the time of this agreement were receiving $40 a week, and this agreement provided for a regular $42.50.

Q. Did the union representatives demand that the cutters' wages be increased?

A. They did. Prior to this arrangement there was no specification as to what a cutter would be paid, or a stretcher, or anybody else, except the one minimum of $15 per week, and all of these items appearing in this agreement were at the request and the insistence of the representatives of the union, along with Mr. Tyler.

Q. After the union advised you and Mrs. Reed and myself as to the minimums that they were demanding did we check up on the payrolls to find out whether or not that would cost the company any considerable amount of money? A. We did.

Q. And was that the reason that the meeting was adjourned until the next day?

A. At the time we adjourned the meeting we had no information whatever as to what it would cost us, and we held a conference and decided it would be impossible for [fol. 2109] us to meet any of their demands or enter into any agreement with them covering any of those increases that were demanded without first checking our expenses to see if we could meet them, and that was the occasion for adjourning to meet the second time.

The second day we had satisfied ourselves as to the conditions and the possibility of meeting such additional expense, until we went into the meeting on the second day and then were struck with the proposal for a minimum for all employees of $16.50, which we have not had presented to us the day before and had had no opportunity to check it up or have any information on it, and we had again to seek additional information before we could go any farther.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2110] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you check the figures for the purpose of determining whether or not the proposals of the union would cost the Donnelly Company any considerable amount of money in excess of what it was paying?

A. I did.

Q. What did you find out about that?

A. I found out that unless we could make considerable improvement in our production methods that it would cost us a lot of money, and Mrs. Reed and I determined in discussing it that by changing our process of manufacture we would be able to meet this additional expense and make it possible for the piecework earners to earn their money.

Q. What change in methods of production?

* * * * * *

[fol. 2111] A. We discussed the way that we could overcome this additional expense that would be placed upon the company if we signed that agreement and we arrived at the conclusion that if we would make certain changes in our production methods that we would be able to overcome this additional expense.

Q. Then, the contract was finally entered into?

A. Then the contract was signed.

Q. Were there many changes in the wording of the contract from the language that was first proposed by the representatives of the union?

A. There was considerable changing of the wording. There wasn't a whole lot of changing of the establishment of the rates. There was a great number of changes in the [fol. 2112] paragraphs and the wording of them—additions put in and some things taken out which would clarify the meaning. And in the discussions they were discussed very thoroughly so that we would all have the same thoughts concerning them.

I don't think there was any paragraph in the contract that is in it now that was in the proposed draft. I don't think any one of them ever remained the same.

Q. Is that wage agreement still in effect?

A. It is.

Q. It has been extended by the companies and the union?

A. It has.

Trial Examiner Batten: And that extension agreement is Board's Exhibit No. 10, I believe.

Mr. Ingraham: I think it is, yes.

Trial Examiner Batten. That is according to my record.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, does Rose Todd hold any supervisory position at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. She does not.

Q. What work does she perform?

A. Rose Todd checks with the— Do you want it at this particular time?

Q. Yes.

A. She checks with the sections all over the plant, looking for merchandise that is delayed, dresses and bundles —checks to see what they need in the way of thread, lace, buttons, or any other notions.

[fol. 2113] Mr. Langsdale: What time are you talking about, today or—

Trial Examiner Batten: Now.

A. Now. And I might add, she has been doing that, I think, right close to two years or more. It has been the greatest part of her work. For a period in 1938 she worked on some special work with Mr. Atchison.

Trial Examiner Batten: You say that was 1938?

A. 1938.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. In 1937 what did she do?

A. She was working on the same work that she is now, checking delivery of notions and supplies to the sections.

Q. Are you a member of the Loyalty League?

A. No.

Q. Did you have anything to do with the organization of the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever contributed financially to the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. No.

Q. Will you say whether or not the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company has ever contributed financially to the Loyalty League, to your knowledge?

A. They have not.

[fol. 2114] Q. Have you ever authorized any member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union to use any of the bulletin boards at the plant for union purposes?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever authorized any members of the union to use the telephones at the plant for union purposes?

A. No.

Q. Have you ever authorized bundle boys or pick-up boys, or any employees during working hours to carry messages of union members for union purposes?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of any company property for union purposes?

A. I authorized the renting of the first floor for meetings.

Q. Well, just explain that, since you have mentioned it.

A. The Donnelly Garment Workers' Union rents the first floor to hold meetings, I would say approximately once a month, for which they pay a rental of $3 per meeting.

Q. Have you, or the Donnelly Garment Company, allowed outside parties to use the first floor at any time?

A. I have, yes.

Q. What were the occasions?

A. I permitted the Missouri State Table Tennis Association to use that floor for a period of about 2 months, [fol. 2115] nights, to carry out their state tournament. I have permitted basketball teams from other firms to use that floor.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, for games or for practice?

A. For practice and for games.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Have you ever rented or allowed the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union to use the first floor during working hours?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of typewriters or any other property of the company of that character for the use of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I have not.

Q. Do you know whether or not the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union have used the telephones of the company for union business?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Did you have anything to do with a meeting of the employees on April 27, 1937?

A. I did not.

Q. Were you in any way consulted about that meeting?

A. I was not.

Q. Was the plant closed down prior to the usual hour of quitting on April 27, 1937?

A. It was not.

[fol. 2116] Q. Did you instruct any employees to go to that meeting?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you know, in advance, that there was to be a meeting?

A. I did not.

Q. At that time did the Donnelly Garment Company rent the first or second floors of the building. April 27, 1937?

A. No, they did not.

Q. Prior to the time that the Donnelly Garment Company remodeled the first floor and made an auditorium, did the company hold style shows?

A. They held style shows at the auditorium, the City auditorium, in the Municipal Building, or in the plant, you mean; in the plant?

Q. No; any place.

A. They had style shows down in the Municipal Building. They held style shows on the tenth floor, on the west side of the building. They have three offices that will open up into one big room, and they have style shows there for the salesmen that come in.

Q. Sometimes, you say the company held style shows at the Municipal Auditorium?

A. Yes.

Q. Since the auditorium has been built in the first floor of the Corrigan Building, does the company hold its style [fol. 2117] shows there?

A. Yes.

Q. How frequently are style shows held?

A. Well, they are held in the neighborhood of every 6 to 8 weeks. There is a new line designed approximately every 6 to 8 weeks. The last 3 or 4 years we have had about six lines a year. So it is necessary to have a style show to present these new numbers to the men, six times a year, or seven, if we have seven lines.

Q. Does the company rent chairs when they hold style shows?

A. They do.

Q. How many dresses are in a line, generally speaking, Mr. Baty?

A. Well, the last 2 years there has been approximately seventy to ninety new models go into each line, with the exception of the midsummer line, which usually runs in the neighborhood of forty new styles.

Q. And during the entire year, there is approximately 500 different models of dresses manufactured by the company; is that a fact?

A. Yes, about that.

Q. In 1937, when the Donnelly Garment Company negotiated with Mr. Bourke in regard to making the new lease on the Corrigan Building, did Mr. Bourke propose that the Donnelly Garment Company rent the entire building?

[fol. 2118] A. Mr. Bourke didn't only propose it. He stated as one of the requirements of the extension, if they didn't rent the entire building, they would be required to move.

[fol. 2123] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. To your knowledge, did Sylvia Hull ever make any [fol. 2124] request to be returned to work after the time she left on April 23, 1937?

A. She did not.

Q. And was it a fact that she had obtained employment with the International and was working for them?

A. She had.

Q. Mr. Baty, reference has been made to raises that were given to certain employees who were on the union committee. I will ask you to state whether or not raises were given also to many other employees.

A. They were.

Q. Were the raises given to the members of the union committee on account of the fact that they were members of the committee? A. They were not.

Q. Can you state the names of the other employees who were given raises?

A. I could not do it from memory, because it will run any place from 150 to 200, possibly 300. I have no way to remember the volume of people that were given increases.

Q. Well, have you a memorandum of the people and the names of the people that were given raises?

A. I have. I brought down this morning the sheet authorizing the increases.

Q. Well, will you look at that memorandum and state [fol. 2125] the names of the people that were given increases.

* * * * * *

Mr. Ingraham: Have you a complete memorandum on several pages of paper that gives the names of the persons that were given increases?

A. These memorandums are the authorization of the increases which I give to the payroll department, showing the date effective, the amount of the increase, the various dates during the year 1937, and 1938.

[fol. 2127] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, I will hand you the Board's exhibit No. 29-A and B, which is a tabulation of the wages paid during the year 1937-1938 to Rose Todd, Hobart Atherton, Fred Brown, Marjorie Green, Jack McConaughey, and Charlotte Casey; that is for the year 1937. And the tabulation for the year 1938, showing the monthly pay of Rose Todd, Hobart Atherton, Fred Brown, Marjorie Green, Jack McConaughey, Alvin Riefel, Mable Riggs, and Walter Higgins. I will ask you to examine that tabulation and state whether or not any increases that are shown there were given on account of the fact that the people named were officers of the union. A. They were not.

Q. Or members of the union committee?

A. They were not.

Q. Was Rose Todd given an increase? A. Yes.

Q. When did she receive an increase?

A. March 1, 1937.

Q. Did she receive any increase in 1938?

A. She has received no increase since the first day of March, 1937.

Q. Now, will you state, if you know, how it happened that Rose Todd was given an increase?

A. Rose Todd was given an increase the first of March, 1937, along with possibly 50 to 100 other people through-[fol. 2128] out the plant, due to the fact that for the past two years there had been very few increases to anybody, and the first of March, 1937, Mrs. Reed decided to check the payroll and give all of the people possible, and all of those who had not had an increase for quite some time, an increase, as our business for the last half of 1936 had been much better than it had been for several years.

Q. Will you state what happened in regard to the next person?

• • • • • •

A. I see Hobart Atherton has received two increases.

It is my recollection at this time, without referring to my memorandum, where the increase was granted, the first increase Hobart Atherton received was approximately May 16, 1937. This increase was given to Mr. Atherton along with several other people at that time who had not received an increase on March 1.

Later, approximately September 1, 1937, Mr. Atherton [fol. 2129] received an additional increase. This increase was due to a change in his duties. He was performing labor in the mechanical department and was changed to clerical duties in connection with that work. Due to the change in his duties he was granted the increase.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. That is September?

A. Yes. The next party here is Fred Brown. Fred Brown was increased about the 16th of May, 1937, and it is my recollection that this increase was from $40 to $42.50. This was at a time where the employees throughout the plant, a large number of them, were given increases.

I might add at this time, in partial explanation as to these increases back in 1932 and the latter part of 1931, a great many of these people received reductions in their rate of pay, and these decreases were due to the falling off of business the country over, which affected the Donnelly Garment Company, and they were unable to meet their payroll and had been compelled to make reductions in various salaries. At this time, when their business was built back up again, they began to restore these reductions the people had received several years before.

Fred Brown received an additional increase January 1, 1938. As I recall it, his salary was placed at $50 a week at that time.

This amount of $108.34 is arrived at by computing $50 [fol. 2130] per week for the 52 weeks and dividing it by 26, which gives the amount to be paid every two weeks.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. You meant, dividing by 24, didn't you?

A. 26. I may be wrong on that. I haven't checked it for quite some time, but I think it was 26. It is 52 weeks.

His salary is for the year, 52 weeks; and you divide by 26 to get his semimonthly rate. I think that is the way it is done; I am not positive without checking it.

[fol. 2131] A. (Continuing) Mr. Brown was given this particular increase due to the fact that he was changed from all time cutting in the cutting department to part floor work. He distributed the work to other cutters and was, therefore, given an increase in pay.

The next one on this list is Marjorie Green. For the year 1937, she shows no increase in salary. The sheet for 1938 shows an increase for Marjorie Green the first of March, and I am unable to tell you why this increase was granted, as I am quite sure I am not responsible for it. She worked for Mrs. Reeves, and evidently the authorization for this increase was secured from Mrs. Reed.

Jack McConaughey is the next party on this list. This party shows an increase effective March 1, 1937, and an additional increase effective either June 1 or June 15. That is, 1937. The 1st of March, 1938, this party received an additional increase.

The first increase of March 1, 1937, was granted along with a great number of others, and was due to the better business condition which existed at that time. The increase granted this party about June 1, 1937, was due to the fact that he was removed from the clerical position in the cage on the eighth floor to the mechanical department, and placed in the mechanical department as a repair man, learning this work. McConaughey spent many nights [fol. 2132] on his own time with other mechanics learning this work, and after several months we were able to place him in that department.

The next increase of March 1, 1938, was given Mr. McConaughey, due to the fact that he advanced to a great extent, and he was able to perform much of the simpler work in repairing the machines.

The next party—

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. (interrupting) Just a second, Mr. Baty. Has Mr. McConaughey, to your knowledge, been given an increase since 1938, if you know?

A. It is my recollection that he has. I am quite positive he did get an increase since the 1st of March, 1938.

Q. Has he been changed from the mechanical department to another department?

A. It is my recollection about this last increase of his, it shows here he was receiving $30 per week, and I think I raised him to $32.50 some time around the 1st of 1939, which was due entirely to the advancement in his ability to perform the work in the mechanical department.

Q. Well, is he in the mechanical department at the present time?

A. He is not. He is now working in the accounting department, in the office.

Q. Do you know the circumstances that caused him to be placed in the accounting department?

[fol. 2133] A. I do.

Q. State what you know about that.

A. Mr. McConaughey was attending Rockhurst College at night, in the accounting classes, under our office manager, Mr. Bachofer. Mr. Bachofer asked me if I could release McConaughey, informing me that he was taking this accounting course, and that he was very well pleased with his work, and that he would like to have him in his department, and arrangements were made, I think within a week or 10 days, and we permitted McConaughey to go to the office.

Q. Will you take the next person, please.

A. Charlotte Casey is the next party on this list for 1937. This party received an increase June 1, 1937, along with several other people working in the same department with her. There was a general increase in all salaries for the department, which is the dividing department.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Did you say June 1?

A. June 1, yes. This record shows June 15, but I am quite positive it was June 1. It could be June 15, however, but I think my slips that I brought in this morning will show that this was effective June 1, and was paid to them, their first day would be June 15, when they would receive it.

Q. Well, it seems to me this shows May 15.

A. May—it does, yes. I missed that one-half a month, but I still say it will show along with a great many others [fol. 2134] in that department, by referring to the authorization for the increase.

This party's name does not appear on the sheet for 1938.

The next party listed on these sheets is Alvin Riefel. There is an increase shown here for this party May 1, 1937,—

Q. (Interrupting) 1938?

A. '38, right; and this increase was given to this party at this time because he was spending part of his time learning to cut. Prior to that time he had been a helper in the cutting department.

The next party listed on this sheet for 1938 is Mable Riggs. This party received an increase the 1st of October, 1938, and this increase was granted to her along with other people in the department in which she was working, a general adjustment of rates in that particular department, and referring to the sheet where this was authorized, you will find a great many other names.

Q. What was that department, Mr. Baty, do you recall?

A. That was the pattern department.

Q. Pattern?

A. Yes. The next party listed on this sheet for 1938 is Walter Higgins. This party received an increase April 1, 1938. I think Mr. Higgins was receiving $42.50 per week prior to this increase. Mr. Higgins is about the second best mechanic the Donnelly Garment Company has [fol. 2135] in their employment. This particular increase was granted Mr. Higgins because of his efforts in making a steam attachment to a pleating machine which permitted us to pleat material and stick it with gum paper at the same time, and eliminate the necessity of sewing the pleating before it was sewed into a dress.

It has always been the custom of the Donnelly Garment Company, when an employee accomplishes a saving for the company, he is rewarded with an increase in salary.

That is all the names I find on the list.

Trial Examiner Batten: We will recess until 10:25.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2136] (By Mr. Ingraham): Mr. Baty, I will hand you respondent's exhibit No. 11-A to 11-EE and ask you to state what that is.

A. This is a typewritten copy of memoranda made by me to the payroll department, authorizing increases to various time workers of the Donnelly Garment Company during the year 1937 and the year 1938.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2137] Mr. Ingraham: Respondent offers respondent's exhibit No. 11-A to 11-EE, inclusive.

Trial Examiner Batten: They will be received.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2138] Q. Did Mr. Atchison have any supervisory authority? A. He did not.

Mr. Langsdale. You are talking about July, 1937?

Mr. Ingraham. Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did he have any authority to hire, discipline, or discharge employees? A. He did not.

Q. Will you state in what department Mrs. Bogart works? A. Dividing department.

Q. What character of work does she perform?

A. She distributes work to the dividers. The work is brought over to the dividing department by what is known as a bundle boy, and Mrs. Bogart is furnished with a list of the style numbers which I desire to go to the factory first, and she distributes these bundles of style numbers [fol. 2139] to the various dividers.

Q. Has she any supervisory authority?

A. She has none.

Q. Has she any authority to hire, discharge, or discipline employees? A. She has not.

Q. Will you state what work Mrs. Tyhurst performs?

A. Mrs. Tyhurst is engaged as an individual in checking the quality of the work produced by the operators. She works with the examiners. Any fault that the examiners find with the garments, they show it to Mrs. Tyhurst, and Mrs. Tyhurst takes it back to the operator to find out the occasion for the error and has the operator correct any faults that are in the garment.

Q. Does Mrs. Tyhurst [—] any supervisory authority?

A. She has none.

Q. Has she any authority to hire, discipline, or discharge employees? A. She does not.

Q. Will you state the work that Mrs. Waddell performs?

A. Mrs. Waddell distributes the work in the pressing department. The work comes in in baskets and is piled on a rack, and Mrs. Waddell sorts it out in various piles and distributes it according to the group that it belongs to.

Q. Has she any supervisory authority?

[fol. 2140] A. She has none.

Q. Has she any authority to hire, discipline or discharge employees? A. She does not.

Q. What kind of work does Miss Little perform?

A. Miss Little is in the notions department. She fills orders for requisitions sent to her from the office, sending thread, lace, buttons, and such other items to the section as shown on that requisition that they should go to.

Q. Has she any supervisory authority?

A. She has none.

Q. Has she any authority to hire, discipline, or discharge employees? A. She has not.

Q. What department is Mr. Cowan in?

A. Mr. Cowan is in the receiving department.

Q. Has he any supervisory authority?

A. He has none.

Q. Has he any authority to hire, discipline, or discharge employees? A. He has not.

Q. What is the character of work of Stella Willis?

A. Stella Willis is an instructor in the button and buttonhole department.

Q. Has she any supervisory authority?

[fol. 2141] A. She has not.

Q. Has she any authority to hire, discipline, or discharge employees? A. She has not.

Q. Will you state, Mr. Baty, who has the authority in the production department to hire, discipline, or discharge employees? A. I do.

[fol. 2142] Q. Has anybody else? A. Nobody else.

Q. What are the duties of Ella Mae Hyde?

A. Ella Mae Hyde is in charge of the employment office. Her duties are to interview people that come in looking for positions, talk to them about their qualifications, and what work they prefer, and what work they think they can do, and later, as the demand comes up for filing positions, she calls in such people as she thinks will fill the requirements that have been designated to her by the heads of the department, meaning the sales department, Mr. Keyes, merchandising department, Mrs. Reeves, designing-pattern department, Miss Beulah Spillsbury, production department, Mr. Baty, and the office and accounting department, Mr. Bachofer. Mrs. Hyde hires and fires nobody on her own accord.

Q. Mr. Baty, to your knowledge, has the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company ever paid for the rental of chairs that were used by the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. They have not.

Q. Does the Donnelly Garment Company, at times, rent chairs? A. They do.

Q. On what occasions?

* * * * * *

[fol. 2143] A. They rent chairs on a great many occasions for style shows and merchandise meetings and occasionally, parties which they might give for buyers that come in from over the country.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Have you, to your knowledge, or any official of the Donnelly Garment Company, ever authorized the use of any loud speaker on company premises during working hours? A. They have not.

Q. Mr. Baty, have you ever authorized the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or any members thereof, to use bundle boys for the purposes of carrying union messages? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of any company filing cabinets for union purposes? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of any typewriters for union purposes? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of any property [fol. 2144] of the company, save the renting of the auditorium, for union purposes? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever authorized the use of the telephones for union purposes? A. I have not.

Q. Are telephones available for the use of employees?

A. They are.

Q. Did you ever know that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was, at any time, using the company telephones for union purposes or using the bundle boys, the pick-up boys, to carry union messages? A. I did not.

Q. Did you know, at any time, that Rose Todd was using a filing cabinet for any union purpose?

A. I did not.

Q. Was it a fact that Rose Todd, in connection with her work for the company, was allowed to use a filing cabinet? A. She was.

Q. Did you ever know of the use of any typewriters of the company for union purposes? A. I did not.

Q. Did the company, to your knowledge, ever give any stationery or any other kind of paper, to the union for its use?

[fol. 2145] A. They did not.

Q. Did you ever authorize the use of any ditto machines or mimeograph machines for union purposes?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever, at any time, instruct, advise or suggest in any manner, directly or indirectly, to any employee of the Donnelly Garment Company, or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, that he or she should join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever instruct, advise or suggest in any manner, that any employee should not join the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green or Mr. Keyes, Mrs. Reeves or any other official, or person with authority to hire or discipline or discharge, instruct, advise or suggest in any manner that the employees join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Or that they not join the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever, at any time, say or suggest to any employee that he or she might lose their jobs if they [fol. 2146] joined the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Or that they would lose their jobs if they did not join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes or Mrs. Reeves, or any official or any person with authority to hire, discipline or discharge, make any statement of that character? A. I did not.

Q. Did you in any way bring any pressure or encourage any of the employees to organize or form the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Did you assist in any way, financially or otherwise, in the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Do you know of any official of the company, or any person with authority to hire, discipline or discharge, that in any manner assisted in the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I do not.

Q. Or any of the persons named that contributed financially to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I do not.

[fol. 2147] Q. Did you ever discharge or recommend that any person be discharged or refused employment or refused promotion, or demoted on account of any union affiliations? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes, Mrs. Reeves, or any other official or any person with any supervisory authority, make any such recommendation?

A. I did not.

Q. Did the Donnelly Loyalty League or any official or members thereof ever propose to the company, or to you, that the Donnelly Loyalty League represent the employees for collective bargaining? A. They did not.

Q. I believe you stated you never had been a member of the Donnelly Loyalty League? A. I was not.

Q. Did you ever authorize or suggest or encourage membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union by offering to promote or advance employees if they would join? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever refuse to—refuse promotion to employees or in any manner discriminate against them on account of their failure to sign the March 2, 1937, document? A. I did not.

[fol. 2148] Q. Did you ever hear of any employee being discriminated against on account of their failure to sign that document? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever give permission or hear any other official of the company give permission to employees to solicit membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union during working hours and on the company's premises?

A. I did not.

Q. Mr. Baty, have you ever made any statements to any employees in regard to whether or not they should join or not join a labor union? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever belonged to a labor union?

A. I have.

Q. What union was that?

A. The International Brotherhood of Railway and Steam Ship Clerks.

Trial Examiner Batten: Is that affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Baty?

A. It was when I was a member.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, have you at any time kept members and meetings of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in Kansas City, Mo., since July 5, 1935, under surveillance? A. I have not.

[fol. 2149] Q. Have you ever authorized any person to keep members and meetings of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union under surveillance?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever heard that the company ever caused members or meetings of the I. L. G. W. U. to be kept under surveillance? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever induced or attempted to induce any employee of the Donnelly Garment Company to become a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I have not.

Q. Or to be active in the affairs and administration of said union? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever directed that members of the I. L. G. W. U. be discriminated against in the allotment of work?

A. I have not.

Q. Did you ever direct anybody to discriminate, in the allotment of work or in any other manner, against Sylvia Hull or May Fike in April, 1937?

A. I did not.

Q. I believe yesterday I asked you when you learned that May Fike was a member of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

[fol. 2150] A. The only information I ever had on it was when she appeared to testify for them before Judge Miller.

Q. I will ask you, Mr. Baty, if Ellen Fry, Glynn Brooks or Mamie Tubbesing ever applied for work at the Donnelly Garment Company since you have been in charge of the factory, to your knowledge?

A. They have not.

Q. When did you take over the factory?

A. June 25, 1935.

Q. I will ask you to state whether of not Ellen Fry and Mamie Tubbesing are organizers for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

A. They are.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2151] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, do you know of any financial contribution that the company has ever made to the Donnelly Loyalty League? A. I do not.

Q. Did the Donnelly Garment Company or you, yourself, instigate a violent demonstration at the Donnelly plant on or about April 23, 1937, against Fern Sigler, Sylvia Hull, and May Fike? A. I did not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2152] Trial Examiner Batten: I suppose the witness' answer is in so far as he knows.

Mr. Langsdale: The question was not predicated on that kind of a supposition.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, as far as you know, Mr. Baty?

A. I was the only official of the Donnelly Garment Company there.

Mr. Langsdale: I object to that as not responsive.

Trial Examiner Batten: The question is, in so far as you know?

A. They didn't do it. I say, I was the only one there, and they couldn't have done it.

[fol. 2153] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Was any other official of the company there at the time?

A. There was not.

Q. Did you do all you could to stop the demonstration?

* * * * * *

Trial Examiner Batten: That certainly is repetition. You went into quite some detail yesterday about what he did when he went up on the floor with these different girls, and sent the others back, and so forth. Of course, if you want him to just categorically deny everything that is in the complaint, just read it to him and then I have no objection to him denying it, Mr. Ingraham.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2154] Mr. Ingraham: All right. Mr. Baty, did you or any official of the company, cause or allow or permit any of the Donnelly employees to engage in a violent demonstration—

* * * * * *

By Mr. Ingraham, continuing:

Q. A violent demonstration on its time or property on or about April 23, 1937, against Fern Sigler, Sylvia Hull and May Fike, members of the I.L.G.W.U.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2155] A. I did not.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did any official of the company, to your knowledge?

A. They did not.

* * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2156] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Baty, you have been asked about several employees who were members of the committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and who received raises. In advance of granting them raises did you investigate to see whether they were members of the committee or not?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you know at the time raises were granted whether these people were members of the committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or not?

A. I did in some cases.

Q. Did that fact have anything whatever to do with the question of whether they were granted a raise or not?

A. It did not.

Q. Did you get any recommendations from anyone about any of the raises you have granted since 1937? I mean, does anyone in the plant recommend to you that so-and-so be raised as a part of routine?

A. They do not.

Q. Can you give me approximately the number of employees of the companies who have received raises in pay or compensation since April, 1937?

• • • • • •

[fol. 2158] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Baty, one of the terms of the wage agreement provides that 40 per cent of the employees of a certain class shall receive not less than $26.50 a week. When some employee is raised so as to become one of that 40 per cent, is it the practice that some other employee in the 40 per cent class is reduced or excluded from that class?

A. It is not.

Q. Is that 40 per cent treated as a minimum or a maximum?

A. That is a minimum.

• • • • • •

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Have you ever directed or had any knowledge of any surveillance of the employees in their meetings or in at-[fol. 2159] tending meetings of any labor union?

A. I have not.

Q. Mr. Baty, it has been testified that Rose Todd had about 3 weeks' vacation, I think, about last Christmas time. What was the reason for her being given more than 2 weeks' vacation?

A. Last July I lined up with Rose Todd for her to take her vacation about the first of August, and as the date approached it became necessary for me to make different arrangements with her. I requested her to change her date and take her vacation the 16th of August, and as that date approached it became necessary for me again to request her to change her date, so it was postponed indefinitely. At the time I told her that I would give her 3 weeks' vacation later on in the year, when I could spare her.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2160] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Baty, do you direct or operate any spy system in your management of the Donnelly plant?

A. I do not.

Q. Did you ever know of any spy system being operated [fol. 2161] in that plant to give the employer information about the predilections of the employees as to labor unions or labor organizations?

A. I have not.

Q. Were there other employees besides Rose Todd who have received as much as three weeks' vacation in the last year?

A. To the best of my judgment, I would say there was any place from 85 to 100 who received three weeks' vacation.

Q. Was there any other reason for Rose Todd getting three weeks' vacation except that her vacation was delayed about six months?

A. The fact that I gave all of the floor girls and instructors three weeks' vacation. We had a very good season last year. The production department got along very well. And as a reward for the people who did not have the opportunity to earn more money on piecework I gave them an additional week's vacation.

Q. Do you recall whether or not the period of Rose Todd's vacation included Christmas and New Year's days?

A. It is my recollection that it did.

Q. Did the fact that she was chairman of the Donnelly Garment Workers' committee have anything whatever to do with the fact that she was given three weeks' vacation?

A. It did not.

Q. Mr. Baty, what were the reasons for the company's leasing the first and second floors of the Corrigan Building?

* * * * * *

[fol. 2162] A. There was one reason. We were compelled to take the entire building at the time the lease was up for renewal, and we took advantage of the occasion to build a stage on the first floor, and build an auditorium, in order to save the rental that we had been paying for the use of the room at the Municipal Building for our style shows, which cost us 5 or 6 hundred dollars about three times a year.

Q. Is it any more convenient to hold your style shows on the first floor of your own building than to hold them downtown in the auditorium?

A. It is much more convenient.

Q. Was there any purpose in connection with leasing this floor of doing something to favor the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. There was not.

[fol. 2163] Q. I believe it is in evidence that there was a rental of $3 a meeting agreed upon with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union for their use of this room after you leased it to hold meetings in. How was that figure arrived at?

A. Well, for the additional space that we were required to take, it is my recollection now, the way I arrived at that figure, we paid $500 a month additional, and these two floors I considered as being on a basis of $200 a month, the basement on the basis of $100 a month, and figuring the floor at 30 days a month in the rental we were paying for the use of the floor, it would be approximately $6 a day, a little over that, and for the use of the floor for a few hours we would be amply paid at $3 a meeting.

Q. I will ask you whether there was an agreement and understanding that the union would pay what it was reasonably worth before the amount was actually agreed upon.

A. I don't understand the question.

Mr. Tyler: I will withdraw the question.

Q. Were there negotiations about payment for the room, and an understanding that it would be paid for, before the actual amount that they would pay was agreed upon?

A. There were.

Q. Do you know about how long those negotiations continued?

A. I think it was some week or ten days in between the time that the first request was made for the use of the [fol. 2164] building before it was determined as to the amount they should pay.

Q. You spoke of the Missouri Table Tennis Association holding a meeting in that room. What rent did you charge them?

A. They were given the use of the room without charge.

Q. Has any other organization been allowed to use that room besides the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and the Missouri Table Tennis Association?

A. All I can recall at this time is basketball teams from several other industrial plants that secured permission to practice and play games there.

Q. What rent was charged them?

A. No rent.

Trial Examiner Batten: Did the Donnelly Loyalty League use that room for their meetings?

A. Not to my knowledge.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Have any of the other organizations, such as the Missouri Table Tennis Association, that have used this room any connection with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. Not to my knowledge.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2165] Q. Did you have any advance information that at the meeting of April 27, 1937, the employees were considing the organization of a labor union?

[fol. 2166] A. I did not.

Q. Did you have any advance notice of that meeting itself?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you know anything about there being a meeting before the meeting was actually held?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you attend it?

A. I did not.

Q. Was there any closing down of the factory on that date before regular closing hours?

A. There was not.

Q. Do you know whether there was any closing down of the factory during regular working hours on March 18, 1937?

A. There was not.

Q. Do you know of any time when the factory has closed down during working hours or ceased operating before the end of operating hours for the purpose of accommodating a meeting of the employees in connection with either the Loyalty League or the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. There has been none since I have been in charge of the plant.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2167] Trial Examiner Batten: We will proceed. Mr. Tyler.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Baty, when you first heard of a demonstration of April 23, 1937, involving Sylvia Hull, did you take immediate action, or did you delay taking action?

A. When I first heard about it I went up to the eighth floor. At the time, my office was on the seventh floor, and I went up to the eighth floor, and everything was quiet. Everybody was working.

Q. Well, did you go to the eighth floor immediately after hearing of it, or did you wait a while?

A. I went immediately.

Q. Well, did you do all you could to stop that demonstration?

* * * * * *

A. There was no demonstration or anything unusual going on on the floor when I arrived there.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. When did you hear about the Fern Sigler incident; at the same time you heard about the Sylvia Hull incident, or a different time?

A. I heard it at the same time, that there had been some kind of a demonstration or disturbance of some sort on the sixth floor. I went up to the eighth floor and looked that over, and everybody was quiet, and I went down on [fol. 2168] the sixth floor and everything was quiet there.

Q. You went to the eighth floor first?

A. I did.

Q. Immediately after you had had word of the disturbance?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And from the eighth floor, did you go immediately to the sixth floor?

A. I did.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Tyler, I have no objections to your questioning about this, but didn't this incident occur before the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was organized?

Mr. Tyler: Yes, it did. It occurred four days before the union was organized. I think it may be argued by the Board that this was staged for the purpose of dominating the employees or persuading them in some [say] about union activities, and I think I have a right to show that there is no basis for such argument.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I say, I have no objection to your question. I just wondered on what basis that it was.

Mr. Tyler: That is my theory.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Baty, did you ever authorize payment, by either the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company of any bill or account or indebtedness of [fol. 2169] the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever permit such payment by either company of any bill or account or debt of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever know of any such payment being made at any time?

A. I did not.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:

Q. As of June 2, 1939, Mr. Baty, did you have charge of the 642 operators in the company?

A. I did.

Q. Did you have charge of the 82 miscellaneous piece workers?

[fol. 2170] A. Not quite all of them.

Q. How many of the 82 did you have charge of?

A. I had charge of all of them with the exception of possibly eight or ten.

Q. In what group were those persons?

A. They are in the notions department.

Q. And you do not have charge of that department?

A. I do not.

Q. Did you have charge of the 77 hand ironers?

A. I did.

Q. Did you have charge of the 11 folders?

A. I did.

Q. Did you have charge of the 41 examiners?

A. I did.

Q. Did you have charge of the 44 in the cutting department? A. I did.

Q. And the 15 dividers? A. I did.

Q. And the 44 instructors and work distributors?

A. I did.

Q. And the 14 mechanics and helpers? A. I did.

Q. And the 40 persons in the designing and pattern group? A. I did not.

Q. Who had charge of those?

[fol. 2171] A. Miss Beulah Spillsbury.

Q. And the 11 bundle boys? A. I did.

Q. And of the 62 clerical workers? A. I did not.

Q. Who had charge of those persons?

A. Mrs. Reeves has charge of some of them.

Q. How many does she have charge of?

A. Some eight or ten.

Q. Who has charge of the others? A. I do.

Q. And of the 60 miscellaneous time workers?
A. I have charge of them.
Q. And of the 20 porters and maids?
A. I have charge of them.
Q. And of the three watchmen?
A. I have charge of them.
Q. Were you at Mrs. Reed's home when this March 2d petition was given to Mrs. Reed? A. I was.
Q. How did you happen to be there?
A. I was out talking to her over some business matters.
Q. You were merely incidentally there?
A. Incidentally there.
Q. Who else was there with you and Mrs. Reed?
[fol. 2172] A. Mrs. Reed and I alone.
Q. Did you excuse any employees from work on that day to bring the petition to Mrs. Reed?
A. They didn't bring it to Mrs. Reed during the working hours.
Q. I didn't ask you that.

* * * * * *

A. I did not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2174] Q. When did you first become employed by the company? A. January 1, 1933.
Q. And in what capacity?
[fol. 2175] A. As a clerical worker.
Q. What was your wage then?
A. I think $40 a week.
Q. When you say "clerical worker" are you able to define with any degree of definiteness what you mean by the words?

* * * * * *

A. Well, I made up several reports covering the receipts of material shipped to us from the mills in the East; transportation costs; checked the possibility of eliminating excessive cost by having them shipped in by freight instead of by express or by truck, and the possibility of getting them here in a normal length of time, which would not delay putting the materials into production in the factory.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Well, would you say that you made statistical and economical studies of the business?

A. Well, to a certain extent, yes.

Q. And all of those were with regard to the transportation factor? A. Not all of them.

Q. What other factors, then, did you consider in your study?

[fol. 2176] A. Well, I studied the accounting methods used, the clerical work in connection with the factory, planning the work, looking for any possibilities of short cuts, and the same through the accounting department. I went through part of their records to determine, if possible, if we could eliminate certain phases of it, and see what was necessary for the economical continuance of the business and what could be eliminated, and still furnish information which you might want for future reference.

Q. How long did you continue in that work?

A. Well, I think I continued in that work for a couple of years, close to it.

Q. Then, what duties did you assume?

A. I went into the production department, worked with Mrs. Reeves in connection with the work for the cutting room, and planning the amount of work required to keep the different sections operating to capacity.

[fol. 2177] Q. Was Dewey Atchison working with you during that period? A. Very little.

Q. What else was he doing during that period?

A. He was assisting Mrs. Reeves at that time.

Q. Was he considered as assistant production manager, or were you considered as such?

A. He was.

Q. How long did that arrangement continue?

A. Oh, approximately six months.

Q. That brings you to what time?

A. To June 25, when I took over the production department.

Q. You then had had nothing to do with the production until you became the production manager yourself; is that it?

A. No. I worked in the production part of it for the last six months without any interruption before I took over the plant.

Q. What work did you do in the production department during that six months' period?

A. Planning the cuttings and the work for the sections.

Q. Had you had any experience in the garment industry prior to your connection with the Donnelly Garment Company? A. I had not.

Q. Where had you been employed prior to the time you came there?

A. By the railroad company.

[fol. 2178] Q. Was that in a clerical capacity?

A. Yes.

Q. Exactly what were you doing for the railroad company? A. At what time?

Q. Prior to the time you went to work for the Donnelly Company.

A. I worked for them for 20 years.

Q. Immediately prior to the time you went to work for the Donnelly Company.

A. I had some 20 or 40 different jobs.

Q. Immediately prior to the time you went to work for the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. I was what is known as a joint facility clerk.

Q. For what company was that?

A. M-K-T.

Q. In what city were you located?

A. Parsons, Kans.

Q. Were you located there for all of the duration of your employment with the railroad? A. I was.

Q. In April, 1937, had you any record of the amount of production work May Fike had done in the various sections where she had worked?

A. I had no record of what May Fike did.

Q. Isn't it a fact, Mr. Baty, that during this three[fol. 2179] year period you have referred to during which you testified she had excessive returns, she did the repair work on her own time?

A. She did it on the company's time. I don't know what you mean by "her own time."

Q. Let us say she worked on dress A and performed a certain hemming operation; isn't it a fact that perhaps she was paid 10 cents for doing that operation on a dozen dresses?

A. No, she would be paid more than that.

Q. I am just using that as an illustration.

Trial Examiner Batten: Irrespective of the amount, it was a piece-rate job; is that it, Mr. Baty?

A. Yes, that would be the basis.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. And in the event the work was completed on that particular dozen dresses it would be examined, then, by an examiner, would it not?

A. Sometimes then, and sometimes later. It would be possibly sometime later, after she worked on it, before it would be examined.

Q. In the event the examiner determined that the operation May Fike had performed on these dozen dresses was wrong would it not then be returned to May Fike by the examiner? A. It would.

Q. And then, would not May Fike be required to make the corrections and repairs on that particular dozen? [fol. 2180] A. She would.

Q. And would the company pay her extra for the repair work she was doing then?

A. They would.

Q. In what way?

A. On some occasions, not on all. On the piecework basis, if she earned sufficient during the term of the week of 40 hours, or whatever her wage covered at that particular time—at that time it would be 40 hours, April, 1937—if she performed enough piecework that her earnings were above her guarantee, then I would consider she had performed the work on her own time while she was on duty at the company. However, if she had earned less than her guarantee, then she would be repairing that dress on the company's time and the company would have to make up the difference between whatever her piecework earnings were and what her guarantee was.

Q. Do you know what her guarantee was at the time?

A. I do not.

Q. What would happen if in the week following a week when she was given money by the company to reach her minimum, if she in the week following made more than the minimum?

A. She would get whatever her piecework earnings were, if they exceeded the minimum.

Q. Then, there would be no equalization at all?

A. There would be none.

[fol. 2181] Q. Was that system in force and effect at all times during that three-year period prior to April, 1937?

A. It has been in effect ever since I have had the plant.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2190] Trial Examiner Batten: Just a moment, please. Just start in and tell us how you first heard about it, and tell us in your own words, will you, to the time that—what was this young lady's name that left the plant?

Mr. Ingraham: Fern Sigler.

The Witness: Sylvia Hull.

[fol. 2191] Trial Examiner Batten: Tell us the steps right along.

A. All right. That will be very short. Sylvia Hull was gone when I reached the plant and—

Mr. Langsdale (interrupting): I didn't hear that.

A. (Continuing) —Sylvia Hull was gone, had already left the plant when I arrived. I arrived a few minutes after she had gone, and there had been some demonstration on the sixth floor about the same time that the one took place, or shortly after the one that took place on the eighth floor, and I was informed of the two incidents by Mrs. Hyde when I arrived at work, and that was some time between 8 and 8:30, and approximately 9 o'clock, I received the telephone call that there was a disturbance on the sixth floor. That was the Fern Sigler incident.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Now, what did Mrs. Hyde say to you between 8 and 8:30 regarding the demonstrations on the sixth and eighth floors?

A. She told me that there had been a crowd gathered around the Fern Sigler machine, and that after some few minutes that they had left and gone back to work. There had been a crowd around on the eighth floor, and that Sylvia Hull had decided to go home. At first she went down to the office and she talked to her, and that Sylvia decided to go home.

Q. That is what Mrs. Hyde told you?

A. That is about the extent of it.

[fol. 2192] Q. Did she tell you anything else that you remember now? A. That is all that I recall.

Q. Now, upon receiving that information did you go to the eighth floor? A. I did.

Q. And you reached there and found nothing out of order? A. There was nothing out of order in any way.

Q. Did you go to the sixth floor then? A. I did.

Q. And when you arrived on the sixth floor, what did you find? A. There was nothing out of order there.

Q. Then, you went back to your office?

A. Then, I went back to my office.

Q. Did you talk to Fern Sigler on that first occasion when you went to the sixth floor? A. I did not.

Q. Why did you not?

A. There was no occasion to talk to her. She was working. Everybody else was working. Why should I talk to her?

Q. Did you investigate the cause of that disturbance that Mrs. Hyde had advised you of, referring to the Sigler Demonstration now?

A. The investigation was complete, so far as I was concerned. She told me that there had been a disturbance, [fol. 2193] and that the girls had returned to work, and there was no occasion to make any further comments about it.

Q. You weren't concerned with who started the demonstration, or anything? A. Not at that time.

Q. Well, then, you went back to your office and received a telephone call at 9 o'clock, did you not?

A. Approximately 9 o'clock.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2194] By Mr. Leary:

Q. With reference to this telephone conversation you received at about 9 o'clock, what was said in that conversation?

A. Something was said to the effect that, "There is some disturbance or disorder of some sort down on the sixth floor."

Q. Were you in your office when you received that call?

A. I was.

Q. And you have no recollection now who called you?

A. I do not. I didn't know at the time.

Q. Did you go immediately to the sixth floor?

A. I did.

Q. And when you went there did you find practically all of the girls in the building there? A. I did not.

Q. About how many girls did you find there then?

A. Any place from 25 to 40.

[fol. 2195] Q. Were they all working? A. No.

Q. Will you describe what was happening there when you arrived?

A. There was a number of girls, any place from 25 to 40, standing around in the vicinity of the machine where Fern Sigler was working. A good many of them were across the machine table facing her, and when I went in there was no hollering or shouting of any kind—just standing in that vicinity.

Q. Did you recognize any of the girls who were at her machine? A. I did.

Q. Were they girls who were supposed to be around her machine? A. Some of them.

Q. And some of them were from other sections, were they not?

A. Some of them were from other sections.

Q. Were they from other floors, also?

A. Some of them.

Q. Fern Sigler was sitting perfectly still at her machine, was she not? A. No, she was not.

Q. What was she doing?

A. She was attempting to work.

Q. And she wasn't successful in her attempt, was she?

[fol. 2196] A. Well, she was going through the motions.

I wouldn't say she was successful or wasn't successful. She was going through the motions of working.

Q. That is all that you saw, you, yourself, of that situation, is that correct? A. That is all I saw.

Q. And, based upon that, you determined to send Fern Sigler home, is that right? A. I did.

Q. Did you reprimand any of the other girls who were on the floor at that time around her section?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you make any investigation yourself to determine what the cause of the disturbance was? A. I did.

Q. What investigation did you make?

A. I asked the operators that were sitting around Fern Sigler.

Q. And they told you that she had worn a union button, is that correct? A. They did.

Q. And, with that information, you called Fern Sigler to your office?

A. No. The information that there were people standing around there, gathered around her machine, was the [fol. 2197] reason I took her to the office.

Q. And before you took her to the office the information given you by the operators around her machine was that she had worn a union button; is that it?

A. That is the reason they gave me for gathering around her machine.

Q. And you accepted that as the truth? A. I did.

Q. And, based upon that information, you called her to the office, and subsequently sent her home; is that correct?

A. I called her to the office with the idea that when I took her away from the floor the disturbance would stop and the girls would go back to work.

Q. What information did you have at the time you decided to take her from the floor?

A. The information I had was that the girls were gathering around there, and I saw them.

Q. And that she was wearing a union button?

A. I was told by Mrs. Hyde that they had been there earlier in the morning.

Q. You also knew, when you took her off of the floor, that she had on a union button? A. I didn't know it.

Q. Didn't you just testify someone told you that?

A. The girls said she had one on. I didn't see it.

[fol. 2198] Q. Did you accept that as the truth?

A. I accepted it, that she had a button on evidently.

Q. You knew at that time that the article identified as Board's exhibit No. 15 had appeared in the paper the night before, did you not? A. I did.

Q. When did you first become cognizant of that article?

A. The night before. The night that appeared in the paper—the day that appeared, I read the article that night.

Q. Did you make any effort to control the girls who had gone to the sixth floor?

A. I told the girls to return to their machines, that I was taking Mrs. Sigler to the office.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2199] Q. Did you know that it would be impossible to control the girls as long as Fern Sigler remained there at work?

A. I considered it so, yes.

Q. Where did you get that information?

A. As I left the floor with Fern Sigler they shouted, "We are not going to work as long as she remains here."

* * * * * *

[fol. 2203] Q. Did you ever, yourself, or direct anyone to call Fern Sigler back to work? A. I did.

Q. What did you do about it?

A. I instructed Mrs. Hyde to call Fern Sigler back to work.

Q. Do you know whether or not she did it?

A. She called.

Q. Did she get in touch with her, do you know?

A. She did not.

Q. Well, after the second incident involving Fern Sigler did you feel it was necessary to talk to the girls to keep them quiet? A. I did not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2206] Mr. Leary: Will you explain what system the company was using as of June 25, 1935, when you became production manager—

* * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:

Q. (Continuing) —with reference to the handling of orders and the line of responsibility for carrying out orders?

• • • • • •

A. After I took it, or just before I took it?

[fol. 2207] Q. Just before you took it.

A. Mrs. Reeves was head of the production department.

Q. You didn't make this change you mentioned the first day you went in there, did you? A. I did not.

Q. Let's consider it now the first day you went in there, where did the orders emanate? A. The first day?

Q. Yes. A. With me.

Q. Then, to whom did they go.

A. To the various people who were in charge of the different departments.

Q. Do you include in that category instructors?

A. I do.

Q. What kind of orders were given those persons?

A. That effective immediately they would no [long] have any supervision.

Q. That is with reference to your change of policy, is it not, Mr. Baty?

A. That is with reference to my changing the entire setup.

Q. Didn't you just testify you did not make any changes the first day?

A. I didn't change it until I took charge. The first thing I did was to call on them and tell them their [fol. 2208] supervision was taken away from them.

• • • • • •

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Is it not your testimony that written and verbal orders are given to instructors? A. They are.

Q. What percentage of them are verbal?

A. It depends entirely upon what kind of orders you [fol. 2209] are referring to.

Q. What kind are you referring to when you use the word "orders," as being given to instructors?

A. I presume you would mean instructions for work to be performed—if that is what you want.

• • • • • •

Q. All right. Let's go on with the word "instructions." Are written and oral instructions given to instructors?

A. Yes.

Q. What percentage of those given are verbal?

A. It depends entirely upon what subjects the instructions are covering.

Q. You list all of the subjects that are covered by "instructions?".

A. Written instructions are given them covering their work, the procedure of their work. Any deviation is given to them orally.

Q. What do you mean by "any deviation?" Deviation from what?

[fol. 2210] A. Any change from their written instructions.

Q. Who is it that makes out the written instructions?

* * * * * *

A. Mrs. Nichols.

Q. Does she prepare all of the instructions that go to all of the instructors?

A. She does. She prepares the instructions, her and Josephine Spalito.

Q. Do you prepare any of the instructions yourself?

A. Not pertaining to the process that the garment is to go through that is being manufactured. No, I don't.

Q. Outside of the persons who handle the physical preparation of the instructions, that is, the typing, mimeographing, or whatever method you use, do any persons handle the instructions from the time they leave Mrs. Nichols' or Miss Spalito's desk until they reach the instructors? A. Yes.

Q. Who? A. Pick up boys.

Q. Excluding the physical handling of the instructions, [fol. 2211] Mr. Witness.

A. Well, what other kind of handling do you refer to, other than physical?

Q. I refer to the mental handling. Are they reviewed by anyone after Mrs. Nichols and Miss Spalito complete their work on them? A. They are.

Q. By whom?

A. By Mr. Atchison and Miss Todd, and by myself.

[fol. 2212] Q. Does Mr. Atchison see everything that passes over Mrs. Nichols' or Miss Spalito's desk in the way of instructions? A. I would say he did not.

Q. Well, of the things that Mrs. Nichols'—and when I use her name, I intend to include Miss Spalito, also—of the things that pass over Mrs. Nichols' desk, what type of instructions go to Dewey Atchison?

A. All instructions pertaining to the manufacture of garments.

Q. And what instructions do not go to Dewey Atchison?

A. Well, any other matters that she might handle.

Q. What are the other matters that she might handle?

A. Well, I don't know. She could have many other matters. She handles a great many matters with the pattern department, the designing department, before ever her written instructions are prepared.

Q. Mr. Witness, I want to limit ourselves, for the time being, to the written instructions that leave Mrs. Nichols' desk. Now, is it your testimony that all of those instructions do or do not go to Dewey Atchison? A. They do.

Q. All of them do? A. Yes.

Q. Do all of them go to Rose Todd?

A. They don't any of them go to Rose Todd.

[fol. 2213] Q. Did you not so testify? A. I did not.

Q. What did you mean to testify when you referred to Rose Todd a few pages back?

A. I said that she went over them, the written instructions.

Q. Does she go over all of the written instructions?

A. She does.

Q. Now, does Rose Todd go over them after Dewey Atchison sees them, or before?

A. Either before or after. It is not specified when she will go over them. She goes over them when she can.

Q. After Dewey Atchison has completed with the instructions what does he do with them?

A. The instructions are typed. Sometimes they are questioned and sent back to Mrs. Nichols. Sometimes he takes them back himself and discusses them with her, and if there is any changes made, they change them and make a corrected copy, put them in the box and they go out to the sections where the work is to be performed covered by such instructions.

Q. I want to understand you correctly, Mr. Witness. Did you just testify that Rose Todd sees all the instructions? A. She does.

Q. And your testimony is that it doesn't make any difference whether she sees them before or after Mr. Atchison? A. That is right.

[fol. 2214] Q. Now, in the event that Mrs. Nichols issued an instruction that goes to Dewey Atchison and then into the various sections to the instructors, when does Rose Todd see it?

A. She sees them when she has the opportunity to do so, either before or after they go out.

Q. Does she come to Miss Spalito, or rather, Mrs. Nichols' desk to see the instructions? A. Sometimes.

Q. How does she handle the situation otherwise?

A. She goes to Mr. Atchison's desk.

Q. In the course of a day, how many instructions are issued by Mrs. Nichols?

A. That would depend entirely upon the time before a line, or whether it was after a line had been put in the plant.

Q. Would you say that after a line had been put in the plant, that the instructions are normal?

A. After a line has been put in the plant, there will be approximately two or three weeks that she wouldn't issue more than one or two sets of instructions, and then there will be merely a correction or a slight change from some other instruction that has been previously issued.

Q. And then while a line is being installed, how often does she issue instructions?

A. Well, prior to a line going in the plant, say for [fol. 2215] approximately 3 weeks or a month, approximately 20 working days, something of that matter, she will issue any place from 3 to 10 or even as high as 12 or 14, her with Miss Spalito, instructions covering, sets of instructions to cover each style or each garment that is to go into the line.

Q. Over the course of a year, then, she will prepare about five or six hundred instructions, would you say?

A. She will.

Q. That is, she prepares one instruction for each new style dress that you start making at the plant? A. Yes.

Q. Now, are those the only instructions that are given to the instructors during the course of the year?

A. They are the only instructions covering the construction of garments.

Q. Well, what other instructions are given to the instructors?

A. To change from the constructions that they have and perform their work in some other manner.

Q. And Mrs. Nichols gives all of those out?

A. She does not.

Q. Who gives those out? A. I do.

Q. You give all of them out? A. I do.

Q. Mrs. Nichols then handles the primary instructions, [fol. 2216] is that it, and you handle all the supplements or changes?

A. I handle all of them. She performs that work as an individual for me.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2218] Q. Now, as of the time the instructor receives the original set of instructions, she has not material upon which to work, does she, to carry out those instructions?

A. You mean material in the way of instructions?

Q. No.

A. Or do you mean—

Q. (Interrupting) I mean the thread and the cloth, and so forth.

A. She frequently does. She is waiting on the instructions many times. She has the piece goods cut and in bundles, and is waiting on the instructions many times.

Q. Well, she has already ordered that and it has come into the section; is that it?

A. She does not order them.

Q. How does she get them?

A. They are delivered to her without an order from her.

[fol. 2219] Q. Is it your testimony, then, that your supply rooms furnish the various sections with the cloth materials to make the dresses before the instructions are prepared?

A. Sometimes.

Q. How is it possible for the supply rooms to know what will be necessary in each section before the instructions are sent out?

A. The planning is done in the office. The cut is made, and at the same time the people preparing the instructions are working on them and they do not have to wait to get the instructions before they can cut the garment.

Q. After the instructor has the original written instructions and has the materials available what does she do?

A. She goes over the instructions, reads them, and starts in to distribute the work, according to the class of operation, to the operators that perform that kind of work, and if they don't know how to do the work, she shows them.

Q. The instructor ordinarily knows what each girl in her section is capable of doing, doesn't she?

A. She knows what they do, what they are in there for.

Q. These written instructions by no means set out what particular operator is supposed to carry out a certain feature of the instructions, do they?

A. They do not.

Q. There are no individuals named on the instructions [fol. 2220] at all, are there?

A. There are not.

Q. So, the selection is left entirely to the instructor as to who does what work, is it not?

A. It is not.

Q. Who makes the selection?

A. I do.

Q. Do you pick out the individual operator who will do every individual operation?

A. I do not.

Q. Who does it?

A. I place the operators in the section to perform that particular work, and the instructor gives the work to them then.

Q. For instance, if today in section 999 original instructions came to the instructor, and she had 40 girls there, is it not a fact that if she had to have operation C done she would pick operator No. 13, for instance, of the group of 40?

A. She would not.

Q. Who would say that operator 13 would do operation C?

A. It would depend entirely upon what operation C was, and it would be very possible she wouldn't have any girls in her section that had ever performed that kind of work.

Q. I presumed in my illustration, Mr. Witness, that the instructions were sent to that section properly, and that she [fol. 2221] does have the girls there who can do that kind of work. Who would pick out operator 13, to do, say, any operation in that set of instructions?

A. I don't understand what you are talking about.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Mr. Baty, don't you have sections where all 40 girls operate the same type of machine, do the same operation?

A. I don't think so; none that I can remember.

Q. You certainly have sections where you have at least 10 or 12 or 13 girls that do the same identical operation, don't you?

A. Yes.

Q. The question is, if you have 10 or 15, is it the instructor who selects the ones that will do that particular work, or does she just go along and dump a bundle on each one's table?

A. She selects them after they have been selected by me and placed in that section.

Q. But if there is more than one in that section of that particular kind, then it is the instructor who selects the particular one, if any selection is necessary?

A. Oh, yes; she is the one who gives them the bundle of work. Whatever it is they are especially placed there for, she gives that to any one of 8 or 12.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. The individual selection is left to the instructor, is it not?

[fol. 2222] A. Yes, amongst the ones that are there in that group.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2225] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Isn't it true, Mr. Baty, that none of the operators themselves have permission to get a new bundle when they are out of work?

A. It is not.

Q. Isn't it your testimony that when they are out of work they merely stand up at their machine?

A. They do.

Q. Why do they stand up?

A. In order that the instructor and floor girl will see them.

Q. And they want to see them for what purpose?

A. That is to indicate that they either want work or thread or some other notion, that they need in the performance of their work.

Q. The girls can't go and get that themselves, can they?

A. They can, if the instructor and floor girl are not there.

Q. Well, as a general rule the instructor and floor girl are there, are they not?

A. We make every effort to have one of them present at all times.

Q. When they are present, either the thread girl or the instructor, the operators who do not have permission to go after supplies or material, or more work, do they?

[fol. 2226] A. They do not.

Q. And it is incumbent upon the instructor to see to it that when the operator runs out of work they are given more work. Is that not it?

A. Either her or the thread girl.

Trial Examiner Batten: It that the same as the floor girl?

A. Or floor girl. The thread girl or floor girl are one and the same term.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. How is it called to your attention when there are not enough girls in a section to do the work?

A. It is not called to my attention. I know it before it happens. The work available for a certain section is figured, computed as to the approximate number of operators that it will require to do that given amount of work, and I know it before it goes to the section.

Q. Well, in an emergency situation, how are you advised? A. I will see it.

(By Trial Examiner Batten): Mr. Baty, supposing when you start up tomorrow morning, if you were there, that say there are ten of these sections and a couple of girls didn't show up, how do you find that out?

A. We have—

Q. (Interrupting) Or do you find it out?

A. We have a hospital department and the nurse main-

[fol. 2227] tains an attendance record. She calls each section in the morning and asks the floor girl or the instructor, whoever answers the phone, for her attendance, who is absent, and any cards that are not stamped in at the time clock, at the time for that group of people to report to work, are picked up and taken to the nurse's office. In a very few minutes after time to start to work, within 15 minutes, it is known how many is absent.

Q. Who notifies you? A. They don't notify me.

Q. How do you know? A. I go around and look.

Q. You mean, you check every section the first thing in the morning?

A. I go over the plant the first thing in the morning.

Q. How many sections do you have?

A. Well, there is sixteen, eighteen.

Q. Who do you inquire of in each section? How do you find out there is somebody missing?

A. All you do is look at the vacant chairs. You don't inquire of anybody.

Q. Do you know, then, who is gone?

A. I don't know the exact persons in all cases. I know that there are so many operators out of this section and so many out of the other one, and so on.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2232] Q. When did Mrs. Wherry leave the employ of the company?

A. Sometime in the middle of 1937, I believe.

Q. What was her position when she left?

A. She had been the general instructor.

Q. What were her duties in that capacity?

A. To check up with the different sections and see that the proper work was in the bins for those people, and to see that it was rushed through as fast as possible.

[fol. 2233] Q. Was she a supervisor? A. She was not.

Q. Had you changed her work at all in your new setup?

A. I did.

[fol. 2234] Q. Was the work she was doing somewhat similar to that done by Rose Todd, now?

A. It was not.

Q. Well, what is the difference?

A. Rose Todd has nothing whatever to do with the work being transferred from one place to the other, and has nothing whatever to do with the garments except location of notions and hunting lost bundles, and getting thread and parts that are misplaced.

Q. Is Mrs. Wherry's name "Anna"?

A. I couldn't tell you that.

Q. Well, is there any other "Wherry" down at the plant? A. None that I know of.

Q. What was the title you said that you gave to Mrs. Wherry? A. General Instructor.

Q. Was that as of June 1, 1937?

A. That was the only title that I could give her. In fact, people at that place don't have titles.

Q. You wouldn't say she was factory manager, would you?

A. I would not.

Q. Not under any circumstances at all?

A. Not under any circumstances.

Q. Well, Mr. Baty, I show you what has been marked as Respondent's Exhibit 11-A to 11-EE, and ask you to state [fol. 2235] whether or not—I am not asking you to check the accuracy now—but ask you to state whether or not those are the documents that are taken from,—those are the typewritten copies, rather, that are taken from the group of inter-office memoranda, penciled notations, that are in the court room?

A. These are taken from the memorandums which I sent to Miss Hartman, covering increases and wages of the various employees.

Q. And those memoranda are the ones that I hold in my hand, are they not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whose handwriting are these memoranda in?

A. They are in mine.

Q. All of them?

A. No; the signature, I think, is all mine. I have not checked them. I picked these up from Miss Hartman, and I have not gone through them.

Q. Well, you did go through them when you signed your name to them, did you not?

A. I signed my name to them when I sent them to Miss Hartman on the dates that are shown at the top.

Q. You knew what was on the documents, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. The ones that you didn't make in your own handwriting?

A. I read them, yes.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2236] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Now, is Board's Exhibit 31-A and 31-B in your handwriting? A. Yes.

Mr. Leary: Board offers its exhibits 31-A, 31-B and suggests that photostats will be made and inserted in the record.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't suppose there is any objection? We have the original of what we now have [fol. 2237] a copy of.

Mr. Ingraham: I have no objection to the copy being made and substituted, but I may object to this exhibit.

Trial Examiner Batten: Any objections?

Mr. Ingraham: No objections.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Tyler?

Mr. Tyler: No objection. He said that was in his handwriting, did he?

Mr. Tyler: Mr. Baty, did you say that was in your handwriting?

A. Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: They will be received.

(The documents heretofore marked as "Board's Exhibits Nos. 31-A and 31-B" were received in evidence.)

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2239] Q. What is Mr. Price's job?

A. Mr. Price's job is the maintenance of the building, to look after the equipment, check the equipment, and check on any new equipment that I might want to go into to put in the factory. He checks up and gets prices on it, sees how it operates, and reports to me what he [fol. 2240] thinks about it, if it will be of benefit to us.

Q. Is he somewhat of an adviser to you in mechanical matters?

A. He does advise me considerably as to mechanical matters.

Q. When was that that you made these arrangements for the rental of the first floor to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I think the arrangements were made some time in the early part of 1937. It was shortly after we acquired the first and second floors.

. . . . . .

Q. When was it that you discussed with the officials of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union about having [fol. 2241] their rent for the first floor.

A. I think it was sometime in the month of May, 1937.

[fol. 2242] Q. And did you agree then it would be $3 a month rent? A. We did.

Q. Who did you make the agreement with?

A. Rose Todd.

Q. Did you sign any written agreement with Miss Todd or the officers of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union concerning the rental of the space? A. I did not.

Q. Do you know whether any other officer of the company did? A. I think not.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2243] Q. Now, did you give all these increases that your records reflect without conferring with anybody? Is that your sole responsibility?

A. I did not.

Q. Who did you confer with? A. Mrs. Reed.

Q. Well, other than that, did you and Mrs. Reed give them all yourselves?

A. We did, between us.

Q. You had no conferences with any other persons on the increases? A. We did not.

Q. I believe you testified that Mrs. Tyhurst checked the quality of the girls' work. Is that correct?

A. That is right.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2252] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mr. Baty, are you related to Mrs. Reed, by blood or marriage? A. By marriage.

Q. What relative of Mrs. Reed's did you marry?

A. A niece.

Q. When did you leave Parsons?

A. On what particular occasion?

Q. To come here to go to work for the Donnelly Garment Company.

A. December 31, 1932.

Q. Did you work for the M.-K.-T. Railroad up to December 31, 1932? A. I did.

[fol. 2253] Q. And you went to work for the Donnelly Garment Company on the 1st of January, 1933?

A. I did.

Q. You had never had any experience of any kind or character in any garment factory prior to this time?

A. No.

Q. I believe you stated that you were in some clerical department of the M. K. & T., joint utilities clerk, did you say? A. Joint facility.

Q. Facility? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long had you been in that position?

A. Well, I would say approximately 3 or 4 years.

Q. And prior to that what did you do?

A. I was chief clerk to the district engineer.

Q. Located at Parsons? A. Yes.

Q. How long were you there?

A. Oh, approximately 2 years.

Q. And before that?

A. The division accountant.

Q. At Parsons? A. Yes.

Q. How long?

[fol. 2254] A. A couple of years.

Q. Before that?

A. Statistician in the general manager's office.

* * * * * * *

Q. What union did you say you at one time joined?

A. The National Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Railway & Steamship Clerks.

Q. When did you join that?

A. Some time in 1918 or 1919.

Q. And how long did you belong?

A. I belonged until approximately a year after I come to work for the Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. Was that union functioning down on the M. K. & T. at the time you left there? A. It was.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2255] Q. Was that organization affiliated with the A. F. of L. as long as you were a member of it, or didn't it become a company union?

A. They were affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Q. What did you say?

A. They were affiliated with the A. F. of L.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Did you sign the petition of March 2d?

A. I did not.

Q. And you were out at Mrs. Reed's, I believe you said, when it was delivered there. Can you tell us who delivered it?

A. Inez Warren; Mary Sprofera.

Q. Now, you didn't have the slightest idea that it was being circulated until you got there and they came to Mrs. Reed's home? A. I did not.

Q. And it had some 1,100 names on it?

A. My recollection is there was 900 and some.

Q. And in your many rounds about the factory, you never saw anybody signing that petition, and didn't know [fol. 2256] it was even in circulation?

A. I did not.

Q. When the girls arrived, where were you at Mrs. Reed's home?

A. Sitting in a chair in the living room.

Q. Talking business, were you? A. Yes.

Q. And the girls came to the front door and Mrs. Reed let them enter; is that correct?

A. No, I opened the door and let them in.

Q. And they both came in, or were there three of them? A. There was three.

Q. Now, was the photographer there at the time?

A. I saw no photographer.

Q. Didn't you know there was a picture taken and printed in the paper?

A. I have never seen it.

Q. You never saw it? A. No.

* * * * * *

Q. Now, you have named two. Who was the third one?

[fol. 2257] A. Pauline Shartzer.

Q. And do you know how long the girls stayed there?

A. I do not.

Q. Did you leave before they did? A. I did.

Q. So, let me show you I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 14.

Mr Ingraham: Are you offering that?

Mr. Langsdale: I will show it to him first.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Now, I show you this Exhibit 14, which purports to be an issue of the Kansas City Star for the 4th of March, 1937, which is a group picture of Mrs. Reed and these three girls whom you have mentioned. It says that it was taken when they delivered this March 2d document to her. You left before the photographer took that, did you?

A. I didn't see any photographer.

(Thereupon, the document above referred to was marked as "I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 14" for identification.)

Q. Well, now, despite your intimate connections with the Donnelly Garment Company, you never did see this picture? A. I did not.

Q. On the front page of the Kansas City Star?

A. I did not.

Q. Never have seen it until now? A. No.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2259] Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I will receive it on the same basis, for a limited purpose that I have received Respondent's Exhibits 6 and 7, which are newspaper articles, not to prove anything that is true or untrue that is stated therein.

(The document heretofore marked as "I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 14" was received in evidence.)

* * * * * *

[fol. 2261] Q. Florence Strickland. Is she the head of the pattern department? A. No.

Q. You have her marked here "Patterns." And I see her salary is $80 a week. Was anyone else in the pattern department getting as much as $80 a week? A. No.

Q. This was the salary you raised her to on the first of June, 1937. Is that still her salary, or is she getting more than that now?

A. It is my recollection her salary is still the same.

[fol. 2262] Q. Mrs. Anna Wherry, $80 a week. And I believe you said, in answer to Mr. Leary's question, that she was not known as the factory manager; is that correct? A. That is right.

Q. Will you tell me why you, in your own handwriting, designated her as factory manager? A. Did I?

Q. Well, you look and see. (Handing Board's Exhibit No. 31-A to the witness.) Did you?

A. That is the title Mrs. Reeves bestowed upon Mrs. Wherry. After I took over the factory Mrs. Wherry was very much upset over the methods that I put in, and was very much concerned, and she did go, to some extent, carrying that title, but all supervisory matters were taken from her hands.

Q. So, you, when you sent the note to Miss Pauline Shartzer, you just wanted to cajole her a little bit in describing her as factory manager, is that it?

A. I placed on that piece of paper what appeared on the card, and it has nothing to do with verifying what position she holds.

Q. Now, Lena Tyhurst, you said she was not known as assistant factory manager, didn't you? A. I did.

Q. Will you tell me why you in your own handwriting, [fol. 2263] designated her, when you raised her salary, as assistant factory manager?

A. That was the title that had been on her card during the time she was under Mrs. Reeves, and I presume she had been designated as that by Mrs. Reeves.

Q. C. Marvin Price. I see you raised him to $70 a week. What did you say his job was down there?

A. He works in the maintenance department.

Q. Why did you call him head mechanic when you raised him to $70 a week?

A. Because he provided me with the necessary information.

Q. Oh, yes. So, you just called him head mechanic without his really being head mechanic; is that it?

A. He is not head mechanic.

Q. Hortense Root. What does she do?

A. She works for Mr. Keyes.

Q. Doing what?

A. I don't know a whole lot about what she does do.

Q. What was she doing when you raised her, on June 1, 1937, to $42.50 a week?

A. She was assembling samples and shipping them to the salesmen out on the road.

Q. You called her sample department head, in your own handwriting, didn't you?

A. I called her what appeared on the card from which [fol. 2264] that name was taken.

Q. And you wrote that to Miss Hartman when you raised her salary. Who was Anna Price?

A. Anna Price is a shipping clerk.

Q. Head of the department?

A. Mr. Keyes is head of the department.

Q. Why did you call her shipping clerk head when you raised her salary to $52.50 a week?

A. That was taken off of the card from which the information was secured.

Q. So, you just left it there and raised her salary?

(No answer.)

Trial Examiner Batten. Do you want the question answered?

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You did leave it there, didn't you?

A. Leave what?

Q. You left the designation "shipping clerk head" after Anna Price's name when you raised her salary?

A. I did.

Q. I will hand you this bunch of memoranda and ask if they are all in your handwriting.

(A group of papers thereupon were handed to the witness by Mr. Langsdale, which papers were examined by the witness.)

A. They are not all in my handwriting, but I have [fol. 2265] signed all of these.

Q. They are not all in your handwriting? A. No.

Q. I believe you stated that you had read the article in the Kansas City Times that has been marked respondent's exhibit No. 6, published as of the 26th of February, 1937?

A. I don't think I said I read that.

Q. Well, didn't you? A. I don't believe I have.

Q. You never saw that article before?

A. I saw the article, but I don't believe I have ever read it.

Q. Well, it is headed "Reopen a Garment Feud. Union Plans to Seek Donnelly Company Recognition."

That is dated February 26 Kansas City Times.

Did you testify in answer to Mr. Ingraham's question that you had read the article?

A. It is not my recollection [ow] that I read the article.

Q. Well, the article is about the I. L. G. W. U. about ready to start a campaign to try to organize the workers in the Donnelly Garment Company.

I note that on the same day, February 26, 1937, you have three sheets of raises here.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2274] Q. Now, can you give me any good reason why you wouldn't permit an operator—I mean an instructor—to discipline an operator?

A. I can give you a very fine reason, and the reason.

Q. All right. Let's hear it.

A. Because the instructors are not capable of disciplining operators.

Q. I see. You have instructors that have been there for 15, 16 years, haven't you? A. We have.

Q. And you never ran a machine in your life, did you?

A. I did.

Q. Where? A. A few minutes down at the plant.

Q. Oh, I see. But you think you are more capable of knowing whether an operator is good than these old instructors that have been there 15 or 16 years?

A. It is not my judgment, so that the party that put me on the job must know.

[fol. 2275] Q. Who is that? A. Mrs. Reed.

Q. She thinks you know more than these [told] time instructors that have been there 15 or 16 years, is that it?

A. I don't know what she thinks. She is evidently satisfied or she would move me.

Q. Now, let's say that some operator is staying away from her machine, staying in the toilet a little too often, too much. How do you find that out? Do you get that on these inspection tours you make of the factory, or does some one tell you about it?

A. The operator would tell me herself.

Q. Oh, I see. A. Yes.

Q. So is some operator is sneaking off to the toilet and taking the time of the company, why, she will come and tell you about it; is that it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You wouldn't think of asking the instructor?

A. It wouldn't be necessary.

Q. The 600 or more operators, you wouldn't ask the instructor whether this little girl is behaving or not?

A. I would not.

Q. Now, of course, you say that you have no record whatever of the disposition of the various operators, their [fol. 2276] cooperativeness, their skill, their ability to work, fast or slow, except that which you carry in your head. Do I understand you to mean that?

A. I didn't say that.

Q. Well, have you any written record at all down there about these various qualities of your operators?

A. We have a payroll record which speaks for the operators, as to their efficiency.

Q. The payroll record doesn't tell you whether the girl is cooperative or not, does it? A. It does not.

Q. It doesn't tell you whether the girl is quarrelsome or not, does it? A. It does not.

Q. It doesn't tell you whether the girl is spending time away from her machine, does it?

A. Well, if she is spending too much time away from there.

Q. Well, what do you call too much? Say she is a girl that can run a machine fast, and she spends an hour a day in the toilet, would you call that too much if she still gets out considerable work?

A. If she would spend too much time away and would fall down on her guarantee, I would call the girl to the office and inquire into the occasion for it.

Q. Well, let's say she wouldn't fall down on her guar-
[fol. 2277] antee. She was a fast operator and a good operator and still, she had an hour to throw away, and make her guarantee. How would you find this out?

A. I would probably catch her going to and from there.

Q. But you wouldn't think of asking the instructor; you wouldn't do that? A. I would not.

Q. Now, how often do you make the rounds of these various sections?

A. Well, when I am at the plant I spend approximately 6 hours a day in the actual factory part.

Q. Walking around?

A. From one section to another.

Q. Just looking these girls over and seeing what they are doing?

A. Not just looking at them. I talk to them occasionally.

Q. Do you spend any time in your office? A. I do.

Q. Well, what have you got to do down there besides watch these operators?

A. I have to O. K. the payroll.

Q. Anything else?

A. A good deal of planning work to do, which takes me an hour and a half or 2 hours a day.

Q. And you have a lot of other people under your [fol. 2278] jurisdiction, you testified, besides operators?

A. I do.

Q. And you have to step around and see whether they are doing the job or not? A. I do.

Q. You wouldn't leave that to anybody else?

A. I do not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2281] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You have been here in the court room, Mr. Baty, during practically all of the time that testimony has been taken? A. Yes.

Q. You were here when Rose Todd testified?

A. Most of the time, I think.

Q. You heard her testimony that she called you and had you go with her down to May Fike's — or not May Fike's, but Fern Sigler's machine? A. I did not.

Q. You didn't hear her say that? A. I did not.

Q. Well, did Rose Todd go with you down to Fern Sigler's machine on the morning of the 23d of April, 1937?

A. She did not go with me. She might have followed me.

Q. Well, was she there at the same time you were?

A. I did not see her.

Q. You don't know whether she was there or not?

[fol. 2282] A. I did not see her.

Q. Did she talk to you about going to Fern Sigler's machine before you went down, or up, or whichever direction you went to Fern Sigler's machine?

A. Not that I recall.

Q. I wasn't quite sure whether you told Mr. Leary that you didn't know who it was who called you to go to Fern Sigler's machine or not.

A. I said I did not know who it was.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2291] Q. I believe you stated that you didn't join the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. I did not.

Q. Was here any reason for not joining it?

A. None whatever. I just didn't join it.

Q. Were you asked to join? A. I was.

Q. Who asked you? A. I don't recall now.

Q. But you refused?

A. I didn't refuse, and I didn't say I would or wouldn't. I just didn't do it.

Q. You said that you didn't go to the March 18th meeting. That is the meeting at which the letter from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union was read. Where were you when that meeting was going on?

A. I was probably on my way home.

Q. You said you didn't even know there was going to be a meeting. A. Well, I still didn't know it.

Q. You were at that time in charge of the entire plant? A. I was.

Q. You have just learned that practically all of the employees were at the meeting? A. I have.

[fol. 2292] Q. Did you observe that chairs were being brought in and placed on the second floor for the convenience of those going to the meeting?

Mr. Ingraham: I object to that. There has been no evidence that chairs were brought in and placed on the second floor.

Mr. Langsdale: Yes, there has.

Trial Examiner Batten: This is the meeting of March 18th?

Mr. Langsdale: March 18th. We have a receipt for chairs that day, haven't we, to the Loyalty League?

Mr. Leary. Oh, yes.

Mr. Ingraham: March 18th?

Mr. Leary: The company's records show they delivered them there early that afternoon.

Mr. Ingraham: I don't recall it.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Well, did you observe the chairs were being brought in for the convenience of those attending the meeting on March 18th?

A. I did not. I would have had no occasion to go to the second floor. The company didn't use the second floor.

Q. But you had a lot of people who were moving chairs in there that you had supervision over, didn't you?

A. I did not.

Q. Who had supervision over the janitors?

[fol. 2293] A. What janitors?

Q. Did you have any janitors?

A. We have janitors, yes.

Q. So you hadn't the slightest information that there was going to be a meeting on that occasion, the 18th of March, 1937? A. I did not.

Q. Did you think there was any reason why everyone else in the plant should hide that from you?

A. I know of no reason.

Q. Mrs. Reed went to the meeting, didn't she?

A. Yes, and I understand, and heard in the court room that Rose Todd sent for her up in her office. She just came in a few minutes before.

Q. But she was there; and do you know whether Mrs. Reeves was there or not?

A. I do not.

Q. Do you know whether anyone in the whole plant failed to go except yourself?

A. I don't.

Q. Now, the meeting of April 27th, that was the meeting at which they formed this Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. I believe you have testified that you didn't have the slightest intimation there was going to be a meeting of the employees on April 27th; is that correct?

[fol. 2294] A. I think so.

Q. You didn't know they were putting chairs in for the convenience of those who were going to attend that meeting?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you know that they were sending messages around over the company telephones to the various sections and departments, informing them of that meeting?

A. I did not.

Q. Now, of all of the supervision that you have been exercising out there for 3 or 4 or 5 years, everything that you have learned and carry in your mind, it escaped you entirely that there were 1,300 people in this plant going to a meeting on April 27th?

A. There was no occasion for me to know it.

Q. Well, you didn't know it, did you?

A. No, I didn't know it.

Q. Was there any reason that you knew of why the employees or anyone else should hide it from you that they were going to form a union that night?

A. There was no reason why they would hide it.

Q. But either they did hide it or you just never found it out?

A. I wasn't interested in it in any way.

Mr. Lane: Now, the intervener objects to that for the reason it is argumentative. There is no testimony here [fol. 2295] that anything was hid from him. He testified that he didn't know it, and the question that it was hid from him is argumentative and not proper cross-examination.

Trial Examiner Batten: Read the question.

(Whereupon, the last question was read by the reporter.)

Trial Examiner Batten: Is that the question?

Mr. Lane: Yes, and the previous question contains an expression that they hid it from him.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may stand.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Now, I believe you stated that the leaving time of the employees was staggered in order that the elevator service out there might accommodate them. You just had two passenger elevators; is that true?

A. That is right.

Q. And do you know the capacity of those two elevators?

A. I do not.

Q. Well, do you know how many people can conveniently ride in one of the elevators?

A. I do not.

Q. Are the elevators the same size?

A. Approximately, yes.

Q. Now, you have been the manager out there since 1935 and you mean to tell the Examiner you haven't the slightest idea whether these elevators will hold six or fifteen?

A. I didn't say I didn't have the slightest idea. I said [fol. 2296] I didn't know.

Q. Give us your best judgment as to how many can conveniently ride on these elevators.

A. I imagine ten to twelve people on each elevator at one time.

Q. So, having some 1,300 people leaving the plant, you stagger the leaving time so that the two elevators can take them down; is that correct?

A. I didn't say that the two elevators took them all down.

Q. Well, how do they get down? Walk?

A. No.
Q. How else do they get down?
A. We have two freight elevators.
Q. Well, did your employees use the freight elevators?
A. One of the freight elevators has been changed into use for a passenger elevator.
Q. Well, now, how many passenger elevators did you have in April, 1937?
A. Two.
Q. All right. Then at that time your employees were not using the freight elevator?
A. They were.
Q. What?
A. They were. It is still a freight elevator, even though they were using it.

[fol. 2311] By Mr. Langsdale:
Q. You stated that shortly after this meeting of April 27 you got from Mrs. Reed the cards that had been signed by those who desired to become members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and took them and kept them and checked them over. How long did you keep them?
A. Just a few hours.
Q. Well, during one day?
A. I think so.
Q. You were talking about the various provisions in the working agreement yesterday, and about discussions of the various sections of that agreement. Was there any discussion at all about paragraph 9, known as the closed shop provision?
A. When do you mean?
Q. Well, that was agreeable to everybody, wasn't it?
A. At what time?
Q. At the time you were discussing whether or not you would sign the articles of agreement that were presented to you.
A. Do you refer to the time that Mr. Tyler and the committee came to Mrs. Reed's office?
Q. Yes. On May 27, 1937.
A. The article was discussed.
Q. By whom?
A. By Mr. Tyler and by Mrs. Reed.

Q. Were there any objections to it by Mrs. Reed; of any [fol. 2312] kind?

A. There was.

Q. What did she say about it?

A. She couldn't understand why it should be in there.

Q. She didn't believe in it?

A. She did not.

Q. Did she say any more about it than that?

A. She said considerable about it.

Q. Tell me something that you recall that she said about it.

A. She said she could understand no reason why there should be a provision of that kind.

Q. Did she state any of her personal objections to it?

A. The only reason was, she couldn't see why anybody couldn't work there regardless of their union affiliation, with that union or any other union. She didn't think it was necessary to have any such clause in the contract.

Q. Let me ask you if this isn't what Mrs. Reed said, after reading over the contract that had been presented to her by Mr. Tyler and Miss Todd and whoever else was there from the committee:

"I think the only change it will be necessary to make will be some legal phraseology. The spirit of this agreement is satisfactory."

Did Mrs. Reed say that?

A. She did not.

[fol. 2313] Trial Examiner Batten: What page, Mr. Langsdale?

Mr. Langsdale: Sir?

Trial Examiner Batten: What reference is that you are reading?

Mr. Langsdale: This is the reference to the minutes in Mrs. Reed's office, of May 27, 1937, of the board of chairmen of the union. It is Exhibit 9-14.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. And didn't Mrs. Reed say at that meeting, "I would like to have a little time to look over this agreement. However, I think it is very much in line. There will possibly be one or two little changes."

A. She said that, some of that.
Q. Well, did you say all of it?
A. And quite a bit more.
Q. Did she say that?
A. I wouldn't say she said exactly that, no.
Q. Did you say that, in substance?
A. Part of it—
Q. (Interrupting) That "It was very much in line and it might be necessary to make one or two little changes."?
A. I did not hear her say that.
Q. That is from 9-13. Didn't Mrs. Reed agree with the closed shop proposal and state that she thought it was necessary for industrial peace?
A. She did not.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2343] By Mr. Langsdale:
Q. You stated when you first went over to Mr. Tyler's office to consider this supplemental agreement that was the day before you actually executed the agreement?
A. That is right.
Q. And at the time this contract was presented to you with all of these wage arrangements, minimums, precentages, and so forth, and that you hadn't the slightest knowledge at that time what effect that would have upon the overheads of the Donnelly Garment Company, is that correct? A. It is not.
Q. Did you have any prior knowledge of what these [fol. 2344] demands would be at the time you went there on the 21st of June?
A. After looking at the proposals, the rates they propose, I did have some knowledge; I wouldn't say I didn't have the slightest.
Q. Did you have any knowledge of what those demands would be before the 21st of June?
A. Not what the demands would be, no.
Q. So, that was presented to you without any prior negotiations at all, prior to June 21?
A. It depends on what you call negotiations.
Q. Had they been talking to you about what their demands were going to be on the 21st of June?

A. They had not, but they had requested me to furnish the statement of what all of the various employees' salaries were. If you want to call that negotiations—

Q. They had obtained some information from you?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they at any time before the 21st of June tell you what minimums they were going to demand for the various classes of workers?

A. They did not.

Q. Or what percentage of those workers they wanted to differentiate between, 30 percent, 40 percent, and so forth? A. They did not.

Q. And you had to make your investigation of that [fol. 2345] between the time they presented it to you on the 21st of June and the time you signed the contract on the 22d? A. Yes.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2351] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Now, Mr. Baty, you testified yesterday that quite a large number of employees of the Donnelly Garment Company had received vacations of 3 weeks, besides Rose Todd. Give me the name of one who had a vacation of 3 weeks on pay, except executives?

A. Except—

Q. (Interrupting) Executives?

A. Executives. Florence Strickland.

Q. Florence Strickland is the one who gets $80 a week in the pattern department? A. She does.

Q. She is the highest paid person in the pattern department?

[fol. 2352] A. Miss Spillsbury is the highest paid person in connection with the pattern department.

Q. Well, is Miss Spillsbury and Miss Strickland both in the pattern department? A. Yes.

Q. Or is one of them in the designing department, or is that the same department?

A. It is the same department.

Q. What is Miss Spillsbury's salary?

A. What is what?

Q. What is her salary? A. I don't know.

Q. Well do you say she gets more than $80 a week?

A. Because I have heard it is well over that amount.
Q. Well, do you know what it is?
A. I know it is well over that amount.
Q. Don't you fix it? A. I do not.
Q. Well, who fixes her salary? A. Mrs. Reed.
Q. You don't know what it is except what you have heard?
A. I do not know definitely what it is.
Q. Now, tell me some one else besides Miss Strickland who had had 3 weeks vacation. A. Anna Pric [fol. 2353] Q. Anna Price. She is the one that was listed here as the head of—well, who besides Anna Price? I will find this in a minute. A. Fred Brown.
Q. Fred Brown. Is he the same Fred Brown that is one of the chairmen of the union committee?
A. He is.
Q. Who else? A. Mrs. Fred Brown.
Q. Mrs. Fred Brown is Fred's wife? A. Yes.
Q. And who else? A. Margaret Broker.
Q. Margaret who? A. Broker.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, Mr. Baty, wouldn't your social security cards show all those who had a vacation, and the length of it? A. It would.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, if you want a list of all those, why can't it be prepared and put in here?

Mr. Langsdale: I would like to get at it that way, if I can. Will you do that?

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, is there any objection?

[fol. 2354] Mr. Ingraham: No objection.

Mr. Langsdale: All I care for is those that had a vacation of three weeks or more, during the year 1937 or '38; '37 or '38.

Mr. Langsdale: Will you prepare that list so we can have it Monday.
A. Yes.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2356] Redirect Examination.

[fol. 2357] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Baty, you stated that Mrs. Elizabeth Reeves was production manager prior to the time that you took over the plant. Is that true? A. That is right.

Q. Now, what other duties did Mrs. Reeves perform in addition to being production manager?

A. She had charge of the merchandising, which included the purchasing of all materials, piece goods, and notions.

Q. Did that require her to make frequent trips to the East in order to buy? A. It did.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2359] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Now, Mrs. Reeves would be away for long periods of time, would she not? A. She would.

Q. And was it finally determined by Mrs. Reed that there should be a separation between the person handling the production and the person handling the merchandise?

A. She did.

Q. And Mrs. Reeves had had long experience buying the merchandise and she was designated to handle that department; is that a fact? A. She was.

Q. And you were then put in charge of the production department? A. Yes.

[fol. 2360] Q. And were you to give all your time to handling the production department? A. I was.

Q. And had Mrs. Reeves been able to give more than 50 percent of her time in handling that department?

A. She had not.

Q. Now, you didn't take over the merchandising department that Mrs. Reeves had been handling?

A. I did not.

Q. After you had been designated to take over the production department, did Mrs. Reed ask you to make an analysis of the department, and recommend any changes that you thought should be made? A. Yes.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2361] Q. Now, after you became production manager at the Donnelly Garment Company, you did make some changes, did you? A. I did.

Q. Why did you make those changes?

A. Because it was agreed upon between Mrs. Reed and I.

Q. Had you made an analysis and reached the conclusion that certain changes should be made?

A. I had.

Q. What changes did you make, and can you state very briefly your reasons for determining that those changes should be made?

* * * * * *

[fol. 2362] A. Prior to the time I took the factory, there were numerous people designated throughout the production department with more or less authority. In order to eliminate the conflicting orders that were issued to the various departments, Mrs. Reed agreed that I should relieve everybody of their authority and have one control power to cover the whole thing. Any changes in the regular routine of the work should come to me before anything could be changed, eliminating everybody else in the departments of any authority to hire, fire or discipline any employee.

I think that covers it, briefly.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Well, was it on account of the fact that Mrs. Reeves had other work to perform and was not available to be in complete control that different other people had been designated to exercise a certain amount of authority?

A. It was.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Well, now, how did you know that before you ever became production manager?

A. I worked with Mrs. Reeves.

Q. Well, she told you that was the reason?

A. I worked with her.

Q. I say, did she tell you that was the reason?

A. Who?

Q. Mrs. Reeves?

[fol. 2363] A. Mrs. Reeves didn't do it. It was Mrs. Reed made the change.

Q. Did she tell you that was the reason?

A. She made the change and that was the reason she wanted it made.

Q. Because she didn't think it was working, was that it?

A. She thought it would be a better management to have one head central power than to have all these conflicting ideas that the various people were exercising.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Had the company increased its number of employees and increased its production for the three or four years prior to the time that you became production manager?

A. It had.

Q. Can you estimate, approximately, the number of additional employees that had been put on the payroll since 1932?

A. I would estimate approximately 400 additional employees; at the time I came to work, which was the 1st of January, 1933, there was close to 800, between 800 and 900 employees.

Q. At what time?

A. In January, at the time I came to work there in 1933.

Q. And how many when you took charge of the factory?

A. When I took charge of the factory there was approximately 1,000.

Q. Now, in the changes that you made, did you relieve [fol. 2364] Mrs. Wherry of any supervisory control over any other employees?

A. I did.

Q. Is that true of Mrs. Tyhurst, too?

A. It is.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2372] Recross-Examination.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Mr. Baty, when you made the change and took charge of the production in 1935, what was the purpose of that change?

A. The change in supervision, you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. We had had a great deal of trouble with our conflicting orders that had been issued throughout the plant, and when we would try to determine the party who had issued those orders it was practically impossible, and it was retarding the production. In order to improve the handling of the production Mrs. Reed decided she wanted one central authority to have all of the jurisdiction over the production.

Q. Were the results of the change what you expected, beneficial?

A. Well, they have been very satisfactory ever since.

Mr. Patten: That is all.

. . . . . .

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You mean if a supervisor or instructor would tell a girl to quit talking and go to work there would be some conflict over that order; is that it?

A. We have no supervisors in the production depart[fol. 2373] ment, Mr. Langsdale. We wouldn't have one there that could do it except myself.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2375] Q. So, as far as disciplining the operators was concerned, and watching over them to see that they kept at work, you didn't have any difficulty of conflicting instructions, prior to the time you took over in 1935?

A. We never have, regarding their work. Everybody there wants to work. They come down there to work; they are very anxious to work, and there is no difficulty keeping them working. Give them the work, and they will keep on working.

Q. Let me understand you, Mr. Baty—and this will be my last question.

You mean to say, from your observation it has never been necessary, from the time you took over in 1936, for an instructor to discipline an operator by telling that operator to do her work instead of wasting her time? It never had happened?

A. I didn't say it had never happened. It did happen.

Q. Then, the instructor would discipline them and tell them, "Go to work," wouldn't she—I mean, the instructor?

A. She would.

Q. Did you have any trouble about that kind of instructions?

A. Not a great deal.
Q. Did you have any?
A. Some.
Q. What kind?
A. A few minor cases where there would be a disturb[fol. 2376] ance start between the instructor and the girl.
Q. Not of sufficient importance to cause you to tell the instructor she couldn't do it any more?
A. We did.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2377] Mr. Langsdale: Mr. Baty, I hand you I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 18-A and ask you to state what that is.
A. This is a list of the employees, exclusive of executives, which received three weeks' vacation with pay during the year 1937.

Trial Examiner Batten: Is that from the time payroll or from both payrolls?
A. That is from both.

Mr. Langsdale: I hand you I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 18-B and ask you to state what that is.
A. This is the list of the employees, exclusive of executives, who received three weeks' paid vacation during the [fol. 2378] year 1938.

(Thereupon the lists above referred to were marked for identification "I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 18-A and 18-B.")

[fol. 2382] Ella Mae Hyde, a witness called by and on behalf of the Respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Ingraham:
Q. Just state your name, please.
A. Ella Mae Hyde.
Q. Where are you employed, Mrs. Hyde?
A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. About 10 and one-half years.

Q. What is your present position with the Donnelly [fol. 2383] Garment Company?

A. I have charge of the work in the employment office.

Mr. Langsdale: I didn't get that answer.

The Witness: Charge of the work in the employment office.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. How long have you held that position?

A. About 7 or 8 years.

Q. Now, what work is done by the employment office?

A. We do the interviewing necessary, applicants coming in and leaving their applications, and assist in filing the [requestions] for help as are turned in to us by the heads of the departments.

Q. Does that bring you in close contact with Mr. Baty?

A. Very close, yes.

Q. Were you present at any conference between Mr. Baty and Mrs. Reed on or about the month of June, 1935?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Baty have a plan, or method, of handling the management of the factory that was different from the one that had been in effect?

• • • • • •

A. Yes, he did have.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2384] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Just state very briefly what changes Mr. Baty was proposing to be made.

A. He suggested that there be a central person from whom orders should be issued, rather than a group of people; that he had found difficulty in getting production through as he felt should be done efficiently, because of the conflicting instructions or orders that were given by various people in the factory. In order to obtain the best results, he felt that this should be eliminated. Then there would be no misunderstanding or conflicting agreements.

Q. What instructions did Mrs. Reed give to you?

A. That Mr. Baty was to do the hiring and firing and disciplining of all employees; that I was to work under his directions on those matters.

Q. Did you know whether or not Mr. Baty put that plan of operation into effect?

A. Yes.

Q. After he took charge of the factory?

A. He did.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2385] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Hyde, were you present at a meeting of employees on or about March 18, 1937?

A. I attended the latter part of the meeting.

Q. Were you present when Mrs. Reed spoke?

A. Yes.

[fol. 2386] Q. State whether or not you heard Mrs. Reed say that the International Union was never going to come into the Donnelly plant?

A. Mrs. Reed said—

. . . . . .

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Well, were you present during the entire speech Mrs. Reed made?

A. Yes, I was.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2387] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you hear Mrs. Reed make the statement that "Dubinsky or no other 'ski' is going to run my business."?

A. No.

. . . . . .

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. State whether or not you heard Mrs. Reed say that she wanted the employees to get the names of any of the employees that belonged to the International Union.

[fol. 2388] A. No, I did not.

Q. Will you state, in substance, what Mrs. Reed did say.

A. She began her conversation, or talk, with the employees by telling them that we had enjoyed what one would consider a nice business; that we had opened up a few more

Nelly Don departments, and that she knew that the employees were worried to a certain extent, and that she would like them to know that she would give them all the protection that she could; that she felt the police would also give protection, and in case they would not, that it would have to be resorted to the courts.

Q. What, if anything, did she say with reference to the International Union?

A. She said that the International, Dubinsky or any other "buttinsky" would not intimidate her into making her compel, or force her employees, to join any labor organization which they did not choose.

Q. Can you state the time of day that this meeting occurred?

A. Yes. It was just about 5 o'clock.

Q. How did you happen to attend the meeting?

A. Well, for the simple reason that I had gotten a call that there was a meeting for all employees, including everyone, invited to this meeting, and I couldn't arrange my work to get away at the beginning, so I went down as soon as I could.

[fol. 2389] Q. Do you know who called you?

A. No, it was just a call over the phone.

Q. Had you had any discussion with Mrs. Reed or any executives of the company in regard to holding such a meeting as that?

A. No, I didn't know [that] it was about.

Mr. Langsdale: I didn't get that answer.

The Witness: I said no, I did not. I did not know what it was about.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Hyde, were you at work on the morning of April 23, 1937? A. Yes, I was.

Q. Will you just briefly state what occurred with reference to Sylvia Hull?

A. Well, I arrived a few minutes after 8, and was told, I can't remember by whom, that there was some confusion on the 8th floor. So I went upstairs and I found a group of girls working in the section, same section as this Sylvia Hull, grouped around her machine, and they were singing songs, and I suggested that since knowing about the notice that was in the paper the night before, that Sylvia Hull come down to the desk with me, so that we could get these girls back to work, and their remarks at the time were that they would not go back to work unless she left the building. When I asked them to go back to work and she came down to the office with [fol. 2390] me, instead of these girls all going back to work, a group of them followed us down, and when I asked them to again return, they said they would as soon as they heard Sylvia say she was going to go home, at which time Sylvia did say "I will go home. I didn't know the girls felt this way about it, or I wouldn't have done it."

Q. Did you ask Sylvia Hull why she joined the union?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you ask her why she joined the International Union?

A. No, I didn't. There was very little conversation. She went home.

Q. What, if anything, did she say with reference to going home?

A. She said that she wanted to go home.

Q. Now, did she leave any telephone number or any [say] to be reached?

A. Yes, she did. I asked her to leave her telephone number, and she said it was the number of a neighbor, and I told her that I would get in touch with her, but that if I didn't contact her, would she please allow me the courtesy of getting in touch with me, since she was leaving a neighbor's telephone number.

Q. Did you ever make any efforts to call Sylvia Hull?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. When did you do that?

[fol. 2391] A. The next morning.

Q. Were you able to reach her? A. I was not.

Q. Did you ever try after that? A. Yes, I have.

Q. Over how long a period?

A. Oh, I don't recall. For a number of days.

Q. Did Mr. Baty instruct you to try to communicate with Sylvia Hull? A. Yes.

[fol. 2392] Q. You mentioned that there was a newspaper article in the paper the night before this occurrence took place. I will hand you respondent's exhibit No. 1 and ask you if that is the newspaper article you referred to. A. Yes, it is.

Q. Now, on that same morning was there any other disturbance at the plant? A. Yes.

Q. Will you just state what occurred with reference to the other disturbance?

A. A little later, after Sylvia left, approximately an hour, I heard this confusion outside my doorway on the seventh floor. There was a group of girls coming from the eighth floor, going down to the sixth, and I asked them where they were going. They said, "Down to visit Fern Sigler." They said she had on a union button. And I made the suggestion to them that they go back to work, and they said they would as soon as they visited Fern. And when I insisted, the greater portion of them went on back to the eighth floor, but a few went on down to six.

I followed them down there. They went in and looked at Fern's machine, and turned around and went back upstairs.

Q. Now, did you go down to the sixth floor again after the first time? A. No.

[fol. 2393] Q. Did Mr. Baty go down to the sixth floor when he arrived? A. Yes, he did.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Baty what had occurred?

A. I told him of both instances that morning.

Q. Did Mr. Baty bring Fern Sigler to the office?

A. He did.

Q. I say "office." That is your office, isn't it?

A. He didn't bring her to my office. He took her inside the nurses' office.

Q. I will hand you Board's Exhibit No. 5 and ask you whether or not that is what occurred at the office with reference to what Fern Sigler said and what Mr. Baty said and what you said. Will you just please read it?

. . . . . .

(The exhibit referred to was [ready] by the witness.)

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Is that what occurred, Mrs. Hyde? A. Yes.

Q. And Fern Sigler went home that morning?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. This occurred on the 23rd of April, 1937?

[fol. 2394] A. That is right.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2395] Q. Is it true that the plant was working at full capacity during the latter part of April and the first part of May? A. Yes, they were.

Q. Weren't most sections working over 40 hours?

[fol. 2396] A. Yes, they were.

Q. Wasn't the section in which May Fike was working, working over 40 hours?

A. Yes, they were.

Q. Now, Mrs. Hyde, had Mr. Baty a short time prior to April, 1937, transferred all operators that performed underarm hemming to one section?

A. He had transferred all operators that performed underarm seam binding.

Q. To this one section?

A. Yes.

Q. About how many operators that performed that kind of work were in that section?

A. About 14 or 15, something like that.

Q. As a result of doing all of that character of work in one section was the company able to get along with a less number of operators doing that class of work?

A. On that type of operation they were, yes.

Q. Did May Fike do any other kind of operations satisfactorily?

A. She was a binder only.

Q. Now, Mrs. Hyde, in your work in the employment office have you ever received any instructions or orders from the company or any officer of the company, Mrs. Reed or Mr. Baty, to discriminate against applicants on ac-[fol. 2397] count of any union affiliations?

A. No, I have not.

Q. What, in fact, have been your instructions?

A. That that would make no difference. Regardless of what union or labor organization to which they might belong, as long as they had the qualifications to fill the positions which we needed to be filled, that was all that was necessary.

Q. Have you ever been instructed to inquire into the matters of that kind in connection with applicants?

A. I have never inquired about that.

Q. Have you ever advised or suggested to any applicant that they would not be employed at the Donnelly Garment Company if they were a member of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever suggested or said anything to any employee of the Donnelly Garment Company that they couldn't hold their job at the Donnelly Garment Company if they joined the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. I have never said that.

Q. Have you ever heard Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Baty, Mrs. Reeves, or any other official, or any person in a supervisory capacity, make such a statement?

A. No, I have not.

Q. Have you ever discharged or recommended for discharge any person on account of their union affiliations [fol. 2398] or sympathies?

A. I have not.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Baty, Mrs. Reeves, or any other official or supervisory employee of the company make such a suggestion? A. I have not.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, as I understand it—Is Mrs. Hyde one of the ones who is a head of a department?

Mr. Ingraham: She works with Mr. Baty. She can't actually discharge without Mr. Baty's approval.

Mr. Langsdale: Just a minute. I object to that statement.

Trial Examiner Batten: The list says "heads of departments."

Mr. Ingraham: It is his department.

Trial Examiner Batten: Is Mrs. Hyde in the same position, relatively speaking, as the instructors?

Mr. Ingraham: No. She has more to do than the instructors.

Trial Examiner Batten: Is she considered as a supervisor?

Mr. Ingraham: I would say this, Mr. Batten: Mr. Baty is the final one who passes on, for instance, the discharge, but Mr. Baty does consult with Mrs. Hyde, and Mrs. [fol. 2399] Hyde keeps advised as to the people who it would probably be to the best interest of the company to let off.

Trial Examiner Batten: In other words she does, as far as recommendations are concerned, then—

Mr. Ingraham: She does. I would class Mrs. Hyde in an entirely different category than the instructors. In other words, it is her job to keep up on who it is advisable to retain with the company and who should be laid off.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Hyde, did you ever authorize or suggest to any employee that they should form the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Did you assist in the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union in any way?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever granted permission to any employees to solicit membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union during working hours, on company property?

A. I have not.

Q. Do you know of any financial contribution, or any contribution, that has been made by the company, or any official of the company, to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I do not.

Q. Have you yourself ever contributed any money or any other assistance to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

[fol. 2400] A. I never have.

Mr. Ingraham: That is all.

. . . . . .

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. What portion of your time is occupied with interviewing?

A. The greater part of it, Mr. Leary.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2404] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Now, what kind of songs were these girls singing around Sylvia Hull's desk?

A. The old one that we all know, "Hail! Hail! The gang's all here!"

Q. Weren't there any others?

A. I don't recall any others. I was only there a very few minutes.

Q. Do you remember any of the Loyalty League's songs?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Haven't you ever been in the Loyalty League?

A. Have I what, did you say?

[fol. 2405] Q. Have you ever been in the Loyalty League?

A. I am a member of the Loyalty League.

Q. Have you been a member since its formation?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. And you never heard any of their songs?

A. No, I never did.

Q. Have you ever heard any of their songs sung?

A. I couldn't answer you truthfully about that.

Q. They do have songs, don't they?

A. I think they do. In fact, I think I heard them sing one at a dance one time.

Q. About how many girls, would you say, were around Sylvia Hull's machine?

A. Oh, I would say around fifteen or twenty.

Q. You didn't insist that they go back to work, did you?

A. I certainly did, Mr. Leary.

Q. I believe you testified before that you suggested.

A. And then I told you that I insisted.

Q. Insisted on the Fern Sigler incident, isn't that correct?

A. I insisted on both of them, whether I used the word "suggested" or not.

Q. Do you mean to convey the same idea when you use the word "suggest" as when you use the word "insisted"?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Well, after your insisting that the girls on the eighth floor go back to work, and they refused to go back, did you reprimand any of them?

[fol. 2406] A. What do you mean, "reprimand them"?

Q. What education have you had?

Mr. Ingraham: I object to that question.

Mr. Stottle: He should ask the witness what she did.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I think she may answer to determine whether or not—she should know what "reprimand" means.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Do you know what that word means?

A. Yes, I do, Mr. Batten. Of course, I do. In fact, as far as insisting on people returning to work, I can't take them physically and force them back, Mr. Leary.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. As a matter of fact, you did nothing, did you, except to lead Sylvia Hull out of there?

A. I did do other things. I insisted on the girls returning to work.

Q. But they didn't return to work, did they?

A. But they did, when Sylvia Hull said that she was going home.

Q. But Sylvia Hull didn't say that, if I remember your testimony correctly, until after she was in the office.

A. That is right.

Q. Now, I am referring to the incidents that occurred [fol. 2407] on the eighth floor in the section around Sylvia Hull's machine, about which I believe you testified that you suggested the girls going back to work; is that correct?

A. Yes, I think I used the word "suggested", as you said.

Q. And they refused to go back to work, didn't they?

A. Yes. They said they would go back to work when Sylvia Hull left the building.

Q. Did you consider that a refusal to go back to work?

A. I would say it was, to a certain extent, yes.

Q. Now, did you do anything else at that time, while you were on the eighth floor, to make those girls obey your order, namely, that they return to work?

A. There was nothing else I could do, Mr. Leary. No,

. . . . . .

[fol. 2409] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Well, as far as Sylvia Hull was concerned, and as far as the company was concerned, was the blame put on Sylvia Hull because the other girls wouldn't work, or was the blame placed on the girls themselves?

A. There was no blame placed on anyone, Mr. Leary.

Q. Did you report to Mr. Baty that the girls on the eighth floor refused to work? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. Baty reprimanded any of them?

A. I don't know what Mr. Baty did, except to go on the eighth floor after he arrived at work. He also went on the sixth floor after he arrived, and there was no disturbances. People were in perfect order.

Q. There were no discharges on the sixth and eighth floors, were there? A. No.

Q. And there were no girls off other than the ones we have referred to here, Sylvia Hull and Fern Sigler?

A. There was no one laid off.

Q. There was no one sent home other than Sylvia Hull?

[fol. 2410] A. Sylvia Hull went home by her own choosing.

Q. Well, disregarding Sylvia Hull and Fern Sigler?

A. No.

Q. No girls were docked in pay for that day, were they?

A. I don't know about that.

Q. You have the record, haven't you?

A. I haven't looked them up. I certainly can't answer your question.

Q. Well, did you talk to anyone on the eighth floor, other than the girls who were singing and stating that they refused to work?

A. I didn't talk to the girls on the eighth floor only to tell them to go back to work, Mr. Leary, and then to ask Sylvia Hull to come to the office with me.

Q. Now, before asking Sylvia Hull to come to the office, did you make any attempt to ascertain what, perhaps, might be considered as her side of the story?

A. No, except that she offered the explanation herself, that she didn't know the girls would feel that way, that if she had, she would never have done it.

Q. Well, that was said in the office later, wasn't it?

A. That was said to me downstairs.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2412] Q. Wouldn't you say that on the basis of your last few answers, that it was the other girls who were violating the rules of the company, and not Sylvia Hull, while you were on the eighth floor?

A. I would let the Examiner decide that.

Q. Well, I am asking what your judgment is.

A. I don't have any judgment on that subject, Mr. Leary.

Q. Now, then, did you go to the seventh floor, was it, to your office? A. Yes.

Q. And how many persons were present in the office when you talked to her?

[fol. 2413] A. Oh, there was a group of girls standing around, I should say maybe eight or ten.

Q. Most of those on the eighth floor had come down to the office? A. No, not most of them.

Q. About how many of them?

A. I said about eight or ten; something like that. I couldn't just be real truthful about that number.

Q. That group of eight or ten girls heard your entire conversation with Sylvia Hull on the seventh floor, didn't they?

A. They stayed there until they heard Sylvia Hull say that she was going home, yes.

Q. Did you tell Sylvia Hull that it wasn't necessary for her to go home?

A. I did not tell her that.

Q. Did you tell Sylvia Hull that she would be given any protection by the company, if necessary?

A. No, I didn't. It wasn't necessary to have protection.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2414] Q. Did you, at any time, during the incident concerning Sylvia Hull, tell these girls that they would have to work, and that they would have to work with Sylvia Hull?

* * * * * *

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you make any investigation to determine whether or not the girls on the eighth floor were just, or reasonable, in taking a position that they would not work with Sylvia Hull?

A. No, I didn't do that.

Q. Have you ever made such an investigation?

A. It is not my responsibility, Mr. Leary.

Q. Well, have you ever made such an investigation?

A. No, I have not. I have no authority.

Q. Have you ever suggested any to Mr. Baty?

A. No.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. Baty has ever made such an investigation?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Do you know whether any official of the company has?

A. No, I do not.

Q. If such investigation were made, and action taken, [fol. 2415] such action would be reflected upon your personnel records, would it not?

A. It depends upon what the action would be, Mr. Leary.

Q. Well, as far as layoffs or discharges were concerned, they all would be reflected on your records, wouldn't they?

A. If you mean reasons for people leaving, yes. I would have that information, probably, but with no thorough explanation.

Q. Well, now, this business of April 23rd was something that couldn't be considered usual, and as having happened in the normal course of your business, would it?

A. No.

Q. As far as the handling of employees and the personnel problem was concerned, it was something that will long be remembered there, and did make an impression upon yourself, didn't it?

A. I remember the incident, as far as I, personally, am concerned, yes.

Q. You had Sylvia Hull's address on your personnel records, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. You never wrote her a letter?

A. No.

Q. Never sent her a telegram requesting her to come to work?

[fol. 2416] A. I called her a number of times.

Q. I asked you if you ever sent her a telegram?

A. No.

Q. What time did she leave the plant that morning?

A. I would say about 8:15 or 8:20; something like that.

Q. Did you reprimand any of the girls who refused to return to work when you told them to return to work, when such girls were on their way down to the sixth floor to see Fern Sigler?

A. I can only insist, Mr. Leary, I do not reprimand or discipline employees.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2417] Trial Examiner Batten: Did you reprimand them in this situation?

A. No, I did not.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Did you give Mr. Baty all of the details of your attempts to get the girls to return to the eighth floor?

A. I tried to, yes.

Q. Do you know whether or not Mr. Baty reprimanded any of the girls?

A. I do not.

Q. For the benefit of the record, I am referring to the group that came down to the sixth floor to see or visit Fern Sigler.

A. I don't know. I wasn't there at the time Mr. Baty was there.

Q. If there had been any reprimands in the way of layoffs or discharges they would be reflected on your records, would they not?

A. Well, Mr. Leary, I wouldn't consider a reprimand a layoff or a discharge. I consider a reprimand a correction.

Q. Well, if there had been any layoffs or discharges resulting from the girls failing to return to work when they were instructed to, wouldn't such layoffs or discharges be reflected upon your personnel records?

A. I probably would have known it.

[fol. 2418] Q. It is more than a probability? It is an actual fact, is it not, that you would have known it?

A. I might have known about a girl leaving, Mr. Leary, but I might not know the full reasons for that girl leaving.

Q. Mr. Baty never told you, did he, that it was incumbent upon him to lay off or discharge any girls because of their participation in the April 23 incidents?

A. He didn't tell me.

Q. In so far as Fern Sigler is concerned, she didn't violate any rules of the company, did she?

A. If you mean by rules, she was there at a given time, and she had on a white uniform and behaved, yes.

Q. She was sitting at her machine?

A. Yes.

Q. And attempting to do her work?

A. Yes.

Q. Are there any other rules of the company she should have been following that morning?

A. No, I don't recall any.

Q. Would you say she wasn't violating any rules of the company?

A. Not at the time I saw her.

Q. And as far as any information that you picked up from the girls that you talked to is concerned, she had not violated any rules of the company, had she?

[fol. 2419] A. I am sorry, I didn't talk to any of the girls about Fern Sigler, other than insisting that they return to work.

Q. So that from all of the information you have, from Mr. Baty, or from what you saw yourself, you would say that she did not violate any rules, wouldn't you?

A. That is my personal knowledge.

Q. And from the knowledge acquired from conversations with Mr. Baty, is that also your answer?

A. What conversations?

Q. Did you have any conversations with Mr. Baty regarding the Fern Sigler situation?

A. I told Mr. Baty after he arrived at work that there had been a disturbance on the sixth floor involving Fern Sigler.

Q. You knew Mr. Baty had gone to the sixth floor and looked the situation over, didn't you?

A. Later. Not then. After I told him.

Q. Did Mr. Baty ever tell you that he had found Fern Sigler violating any rules of the company?

A. He did not tell me.

Q. How long did the plant continue to run at full capacity in 1937?

A. How long after what?

Q. Read the question.

(Thereupon the last question was read by the reporter.)

Q. Did it ever slow down?

[fol. 2420] A. The latter part of June in 1937.

Q. And it ran at peak capacity up to that time, is that right?

A. Yes. The months of March, April, and May are our biggest months.

Q. So that, as of May 12, 1937, it was running at full capacity?

. . . . . .

[fol. 2433] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mrs. Hyde, are you married?

A. I am.

. . . . . .

Q. Now, at the time of the Fern Sigler and Sylvia Hull incident, you were the personnel manager, were you not?

A. I have never carried that title, Mr. Langsdale.

Q. Not even before the NRA decision?

A. I never claimed that I did, no.

Q. Never called yourself the personnel manager?

A. I have always called myself employment manager.

Q. You made a number of affidavits which were filed in [fol. 2434] the NRA—I mean, in the three-judge hearing?

A. Yes, sir.

. . . . . .

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Langsdale, according to Mr. Ingraham's statement, in answer to my question a while ago, there isn't much dispute, is there, about what her position is?

Mr. Langsdale: Well, my own conception of the title, personnel manager, is a little different from what she says her duties were at that time.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, of course, I think I have said several times before that the important thing is, not titles peoples have; the important thing is, what do they do.

Mr. Langsdale: Yes, and, of course, we are attempting to show what she does, and in addition to that we are attempting to show what title she holds herself out as having.

Mr. Langsdale: Let me show you this affidavit, Mrs. Hyde, which purports to be one signed by you on the 5th day of November, 1937.

Trial Examiner Batten: Which proceeding is that in?

Mr. Langsdale: The three-judge proceeding.

(Whereupon, the document above-mentioned was handed to the witness by Mr. Langsdale.)

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. That is your affidavit?

A. That is right.

Q. It states, does it not, "I have been employed at the [fol. 2435] Donnelly Garment Company for the last nine years and have been personnel manager for the last seven years." You signed that and swore to it on the 5th of November, 1937?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, I believe you stated that Sylvia Hull voluntarily said that she would go home. I think I have your exact language,—and she further said, "I didn't know the girls felt that way about it or I wouldn't have done it." Is that what your testimony was, this morning?

A. That is right.

Q. Let me show you this affidavit filed in the three-judge hearing, purporting to be one signed by you on the 5th of November, 1937, and ask you to read it and see whether or not that is an affidavit that you signed on that date.

Whereupon, the document above referred to was handed to the witness by Mr. Langsdale.)

A. That is right.

Q. On this affidavit, signed on the 5th of November, 1937, you state "The same group of girls followed us to the office. After my instructions that they again return to their work, they made the remark in unison 'We will return to work as soon as we hear her say she will go home', at which time Mrs. Hull answered 'I will go home'."

A. That is right.

Q. You said nothing in this affidavit about her saying [fol. 2436] that if she had known they felt that way about it, that she wouldn't have done it?

A. It isn't in there.

[fol. 2437] Q. You say that Sylvia Hull left with you a telephone number which she told you was a neighbor's number?

A. That is right.

Q. And that you called her the next day?

A. That is right.

Q. What did you have in mind saying to her the next day?

A. I was going to tell her what Mr. Baty would suggest that I tell her.

Q. What did Mr. Baty suggest that you tell her?

A. He had made no suggestion definitely at the time except that he would like to talk to Sylvia again.

Q. Then, you didn't call her for any purpose other than to say Mr. Baty would like to talk to her?

A. I don't know what Mr. Baty was going to tell her. Mr. Langsdale.

Q. You called there with the intention of talking to Sylvia Hull?

A. That is right.

Q. I don't understand just what you say you meant to tell her.

A. I don't say I meant to tell her anything except that Mr. Baty would like to talk with her again.

Q. Did you put down the telephone number that she gave you?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did she give you the name of the neighbor?

[fol. 2438] A. I don't recall whether she did or not.

Q. Did you get any answer over that telephone at all?

A. I did.

Q. Did you talk to some person over the telephone?

A. I did.

Q. Do you know whether it was a man or a woman?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Did you tell that person who you were?

A. I don't remember whether I did or not.

Q. Did you tell her you wanted to talk with Sylvia Hull? A. I did.

Q. What did this person tell you?

A. She left the phone and came back and said she wasn't at home.

Q. Did you leave any word with her for Sylvia Hull?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You say you called again. How much later?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Was it the following day, week, or two weeks?

A. I can't answer that. I don't know.

Q. Can you tell us any time within a month?

A. I would say it was within a month, yes.

Q. Was it after Sylvia went to Atlantic City?

A. I don't know when she went to Atlantic City accurately, so I can't answer your question.

[fol. 2439] Q. You [say] the newspaper publicity at that time? A. I did.

Q. Does that refresh your memory as to whether it was after she went to Atlantic City or before, that you called her? A. It doesn't help me a bit.

Q. What did you want to talk to her about the next time? A. The same reason, Mr. Langsdale.

Q. Just to tell her Mr. Baty wanted to talk to her?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you tell this man or woman, or whoever answered the phone that time—or did they answer the phone that time?

A. I can't tell you accurately, but I believe it was the same setup. They said she wasn't at home.

Q. They left the phone, came back and reported she wasn't at home? A. Yes.

Q. Did that happen more than twice?

A. I don't recall that I called more than twice.

[fol. 2440] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mr. Baty not being there, who had the authority, if anyone, to send these girls back to work who refused to go back to work until Sylvia Hull should go home?

A. There wasn't anybody there who had the authority to make them do anything.

Q. No one but Mr. Baty?

A. No, only the power I was exercising at that time as strongly as I could.

Q. But you really didn't have any power? A. No.

Q. You stated in your testimony this morning that a little later you saw a group of girls in front of your office on the seventh floor and you asked them where they were going, and they said they were going down to the sixth floor to see Fern Sigler. A. I said that.

[fol. 2441] Q. And that you told them to go on back, and most of them did go on back, but a few of them went on?

A. That is right.

Q. [That] what they did was to go down there and stand and look at her, and then turned around and went right back? A. They did.

Q. Let me show you another affidavit that purports to be one signed by you on the 5th of November, 1937, and which was filed in the so-called three-judge proceedings, and asked you to read it and see whether or not that is your affidavit.

(The exhibit was accordingly handed to and read by the witness.)

A. That is right.

Q. In this affidavit you say:

"About 10 o'clock of the morning of April 23, 1937, I investigated a commotion in the hallway on the seventh floor and found that a group of operators whose place of employment was on the eighth floor were on the way to the sixth floor to visit Fern Sigler."

A. That is right.

Q. You further say: "I demanded that these girls return to their machines and work, advising them that it was after 8 o'clock and they had no right to disrupt the organization, to which they replied, "We will only be gone a few minutes." A. That is right.

[fol. 2442] Q. You further say: "I followed these girls to the sixth floor and witnessed their actions. At no time did any person touch Fern Sigler or her clothing. They requested in unison that she leave the building."

A. That is right.

Q. You made that affidavit? A. That is right.

Q. "These girls returned to their machines at the end of this limited conversation." Is that correct?

A. That is right.

Q. "The next time I saw Fern Sigler she entered the door of the nurses' office with Mr. Baty." Is that correct? A. That is correct.

Q. The portions I have read are all a part of an affidavit made and signed by you on November 5, 1937?

A. Yes, they are.

Q. You stated in answer to one of Mr. Ingraham's questions that never in your employment there had you been ordered to discriminate against any employee because of union affiliations. Is that correct?

A. That certainly is.

Q. And you meant by that to cover the time of the life of the N. R. A.?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. And you further stated, in answer to one of Mr. [fol. 2443] Ingraham's questions, that you never had inquired about the union affiliations of any employee?

A. That is right.

Q. And you meant to cover that same time by that answer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you further stated, in answer to Mr. Ingraham's question, that you had never discharged or recommended for discharge any person because of union affiliations?

A. That is right.

Q. And you meant that answer to cover that same time?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you attend the meeting of April 27, 1937?

A. I did not.

Q. When did you first learn that there was to be a meeting?

A. I don't know that I knew there was to be a meeting, Mr. Langsdale.

Q. You just didn't know anything about it?

A. No, sir.

Q. At any time?

A. I might have known it when the meeting was over, I don't know.

Q. You didn't know there was any preparation for a meeting? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Do you know why the message didn't get around to you when it was being telephoned around the plant?

[fol. 2444] A. I am left out of a lot of invitations, Mr. Langsdale.

* * * * * *

Q. About the meeting of March 18, when did you first learn that there was to be such a meeting?

A. When I saw the girls going downstairs as an assembly and I had previously received a telephone call to the effect that there was a meeting for all employees, and I knew the time that it was, because these girls were going down there and they went past my desk.

Q. At what time did you receive that telephone call that there was to be a meeting of all employees?

A. Oh, I don't remember, Mr. Langsdale.

Q. Well, how much before the meeting, if you know?

A. I couldn't even tell you that.

Q. In the middle of the afternoon?

A. I should say it was.
Q. Did you consult with Mrs. Reed about it?
A. No.
Q. Do you know whether she was at the plant that afternoon? A. I did not, no.
Q. You became a member of the Nelly Don Loyalty League when it was first organized? A. Yes.

[fol. 2455] HOBART F. ATHERTON, a witness called by and on behalf of the Respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:
Q. State your full name, please.
[fol. 2456] A. Hobart F. Atherton.
Q. Where are you employed, Mr. Atherton?
A. At the Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Since November 9, 1933.
Q. In what capacity are you employed?
A. Employed in the maintenance department.

By Mr. Langsdale: Since 1933, did you say?
A. I have been employed at the company since November 9, 1933.

By Mr. Ingraham:
Q. Mr. Atherton, do you recall a newspaper article appearing in the Kansas City Times of February 26?
A. I don't remember.
Q. I will hand you Respondent's Exhibit 6, and ask you if you saw that article.

• • • • • •

A. Yes, I remember seeing that article.

By Mr. Ingraham:
Q. I will ask you to state whether or not there was a petition circulated by the employees after that article had appeared in the paper. A. There was.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2457] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Well, did you read this article in the paper at the time? A. I did.

Q. Did you sign the petition that was circulated March 2d? A. I did.

Q. Did any officer of the company ask you to sign that petition? A. No.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, now, Mr. Ingraham, do I understand that you intend to call a large number of individual employees?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, your Honor.

Trial Examiner Batten: To testify?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, now, of course, I don't propose to have a large number called to testify to this point. You may call a reasonable number, and use your own judgment as to what is reasonable.

Mr. Ingraham: All right, your Honor.

Trial Examiner Batten: And make an offer of proof on the entire balance, if you want to, but I am not going to [fol. 2458] listen to all of them, but you use your own judgment as to what you think is a reasonable number, and at that time I think we can probably determine what will be done.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2462] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Atherton, do you recall who it was that had the petition of March 2 when you signed it?

A. Mary Sprofera.

Q. In what department does she work?

A. The order filling department.

Q. Is she just a clerk in that department? A. Yes.

Q. Did she state whether or not the company or any of its officers were sending her around to obtain names to that petition?

A. She stated that she was doing it of her own accord.

Q. Did she make any threats about what would happen if you didn't sign it? A. She did not.

Q. What did she state?

A. To the best of my recollection, she said that the employees were signing this petition to [protect] against the [fol. 2463] things that had been said against the company and against its working conditions, and so on?

Q. Did she say you could sign it or could not sign it, just as you saw fit? A. That is right.

Q. Mr. Atherton, did you witness any violence at the Missouri, Gernes, or Gordon plants during the month of March, 1937?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Were you at a meeting of employees on March 18, 1937? A. Yes.

Q. Can you state approximately the time of day that meeting took place?

A. It was called between 4:30 and 5 o'clock.

Q. Will you just state briefly what took place at that meeting?

A. The meeting was opened by Rose Todd, who acted as chairman of the meeting. She gave a short talk and told the purpose of holding the meeting.

Q. In substance, what did she say?

A. That there had been so many requests from different employees, or inquiries as to what we were going to do, in view of the threats that had been coming to us by different methods, and that apparently all employees were [fol. 2464] anxious to do something, or to find out what they should do in case these threats materialized, and she thought it would be a good thing if we all got together and talked it over, and that was the purpose of the meeting.

Q. Did Mrs. Reed come down to the meeting?

A. Not until quite a good deal later in the meeting.

Q. What then next took place at the meeting?

A. There were several employees who made little talks at this meeting as to what their experience had been, some of them in other unions, and some of them what had been said to them by people who were then working in other garment plants.

Q. Were these employees operators?

A. Some of them were operators, and some of them worked in other departments. Most of them were operators.

Q. Did Mr. Baty make a talk?

A. Mr. Baty wasn't there.

Q. Did Mrs. Reeves make a talk?

A. Mrs. Reeves wasn't present at that meeting.

Q. Was Mr. Keyes at the meeting? A. He was not.

Q. Was Beulah Spilsbury at the meeting?

A. She was not.

Q. Please just state in substance, what Mrs. Reed said.

A. Well, the inquiries had been, what Mrs. Reed or the company was going to do in the way of giving the em- [fol. 2465] ployees protection, or as to what their order might be. Somebody from the floor suggested, see if Mrs. Reed was in the building and, if she was, have her come down and tell us what she was going to do. Someone was asked to ascertain whether she was in the building or not, and, if so, to have her come down to this meeting. So, it was found that she was in the building, and she was asked to come down and make this speech.

Q. Tell in substance what she said, as you remember it.

A. In substance, she said that it wasn't her purpose to compel her employees to join any organization against their will, and that she would see that they had all of the protection they could be provided, she didn't know what it might be. She said she would consult with her attorneys and see what could be done in the way of giving them protection, and she would also see if we could get police protection if necessary.

Q. Did you hear Mrs. Reed make the statement that the International Union was never going to come into the Donnelly plant? A. I did not.

Q. Or anything similar to that statement?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you hear Mrs. Reed say that Dubinsky or no other "ski" was going to tell her what to do?

A. I did not.

[fol. 2466] Q. Did you hear her say that the plant would be closed if the employees joined the International Union?

A. I did not hear her say so.

Q. Did you hear Mrs. Reed ask that the employees report to her any members among the employees of the International Union? A. No.

Q. After Mrs. Reed finished speaking, did she leave the meeting? A. She did.

Q. Did the company, its officers, or Mrs. Reed, have anything to do with the calling of that meeting?

A. They did not.

Q. Do you know how the meeting happened to be called? A. I do.

Q. Will you just state how it happened to be called?

A. As I previously stated, there had been so much discussion among the employees that a few of us had been talking about the thing quite seriously among ourselves. We decided it would be a good thing if we did have a general meeting of all the employees and allow each one to express his or her opinion, and on the previous evening Rose Todd and myself were talking about this and decided that it would be a good thing to call a meeting of all the employees. We did, the next day.

Mr. Langsdale: Is that the March 18th meeting?

[fol. 2467] Mr. Ingraham: March 18th.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did the employees take any action at that meeting?

A. They did not.

Q. Did the violence at the Missouri, Gernes and Gordon plants increase from that date on?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. What next was done by the employees?

A. Do you mean at that meeting?

Q. No, I meant if you finished with that meeting, what occurred after the meeting, within the next week or 10 days?

A. Well, a number of the employees, including myself, continned a discussion of the things that occasioned that meeting, and decided that we wanted to see, ourselves, what could be done in the way of protecting our jobs, the right to work if we so desired, so that a few of us took it upon ourselves to call on a firm of attorneys, to find out what we could do or what we would be entitled to do, what we could get in the way of protection.

Q. What firm of attorneys did you call upon?

A. We called on Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich & Tyler.

Q. Who did you talk to at that meeting?

Trial Examiner Batten: Who was in this group?

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Who was in this group?

[fol. 2468] A. The group that called upon the attorneys?

Q. Yes.

A. Rose Todd, Sally Ormsby and myself.

Q. Well, was there a larger group who had conferred with you about calling on attorneys?

A. Not specifically. There was a larger group who had been talking things over from time to time.

Q. Well, who did you talk to at Gossett's office?

A. We first talked to Mr. Gossett. He took us in and introduced us to Mr. Tyler, and we then talked to Mr. Tyler.

Q. Now, will you just state what occurred at that meeting?

A. We told Mr. Tyler that we represented the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company; that we were desirous of knowing what we could do, or what could be done for us in the way of getting protection against such things as were occurring at the Missouri, Gordon and Gernes Brothers' plants.

. . . . . .

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Just state, in substance, what was said.

[fol. 2469] A. Mr. Tyler asked us if we represented all the employees. We replied that we did, and he said well, he would soon find out whether we did or not, or words to that effect. He said that before he could give us any counsel, or advice, or do anything for us, he would have to have a substantial retainer fee. We told him that we could get it.

Q. Did he state any amount?

A. He named the sum of $500.

Q. How soon did he want that?

A. He didn't say how soon. He said before he could do any work on it he would have to have that money.

Q. Was anything else said in reference to any legal action that might be taken?

A. Yes. We asked him if it was possible for us to secure an injunction against the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or any other outside organization who might interfere with us.

Q. Then after the meeting in Mr. Tyler's office, what next occurred?

A. We discussed ways and means of raising this money that had been asked as a retainer fee, and after some discussion on the subject, it was generally agreed between us that we could get it from the employees, but as Mr. Tyler had previously stated, he had to have this money before he could undertake to do any work for us, [fol. 2470] and we were very anxious to have him start immediately. Miss Todd said that she thought she could borrow the money, thought she knew where she could get it. I said if that was the case, for her to go ahead and get it, that we knew we could get it from the employees to repay it. So it was agreed that Miss Todd try to borrow the money.

Q. Do you know whether or not she did borrow the money? A. She did.

Q. Did you later raise money among the employees to repay that sum that Miss Todd borrowed? A. We did.

Q. How did you raise the money?

A. Sometime around the last of March, or the first part of April, we again called a meeting of the employees, at which time Miss Todd told them that Miss Ormsby and Miss Todd and myself had called on Mr. Gossett and Mr. Tyler, and that they had asked us for this retainer fee and it would be necessary to raise the money to pay this, and we asked the employees generally for a suggestion as to how they would like to raise it. Some suggested that we give a party or a dance, raise it by that method. Finally, some one got up in the meeting, Eva Lieberman, I believe,—I am not positive,—and made a motion from the floor that the employees contribute 50 cents apiece to raise this sum. That motion was put to the meeting and was carried unanimously.

[fol. 2471] Q. The money was raised in that fashion?

A. It was.

Q. Were you present at the plant on the morning of April 23, 1937? A. I was.

Q. I will ask you to state whether or not you saw this article that appeared in the Journal Post on the 22d of April, 1937?

(Thereupon, the article above referred to was handed by Mr. Ingraham to the witness.)

Trial Examiner Batten: That is Respondent's Exhibit 1?

Mr. Ingraham: Respondent's Exhibit 1.

A. Yes, I did.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. What effect did that article have on the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company?

* * * * * *

[fol. 2472] A. As I came in the eighth floor, I saw a group of operators around one of the machines, and I asked somebody what was the matter, and they said that Sylvia Hull's machine—the girls were protesting about the article that appeared in the evening paper the evening before, stating that she was a delegate of the Donnelly workers to the convention in Atlantic City for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

[fol. 2473] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you see any violence?

A. I did not.

Q. Were you present at a meeting on April 27 of the employees of the company? A. I was.

Q. What was the reason for calling that meeting?

Mr. Langsdale: What meeting was that?

Mr. Ingraham: April 27.

A. Miss Todd, Miss Ormsby, and myself had had several conferences with Mr. Tyler, and after the Wagner Act have been declared constitutional we had another conference with Mr. Tyler, at which time he suggested to us that it might be a good thing if we could organize our own independent union, and that if such were the case he would be much better enabled to get us the protection we needed, if we were an organized group rather than a group of individuals.

He stated that, under the Wagner Act, we had the right to self organization, and that he didn't think injunctive relief would give us the thing that we wanted. So, it was decided that we would call a meeting of the employees on the evening of April 27 and put this proposition before [then,] as to whether they wanted to organize an independent union or not.

Q. Did that meeting occur during working hours or after working hours?

[fol. 2474] A. After working hours.

Q. Who arranged for the meeting place? A. I did.

Q. Did you take the matter up with the Donnelly Garment Company? A. I did not.

Q. Did the Donnelly Garment Company at that time lease the second floor of the building, if you know?

A. So far as I know, they did not.

Q. Whom did you arrange with for the use of that floor? A. Mr. Appleby.

Q. Who is Mr. Appleby?

A. At that time Mr. Appleby was representative of Murray & Company, who had the management of the Corrigan Building.

Q. Did Mr. Appleby give you permission to use that space? A. He did.

Q. Will you very briefly state what occurred at that meeting?

A. The meeting was called to order by Rose Todd. She explained the purpose of holding the meeting and stated what Mr. Tyler had told her, Miss Ormsby and myself concerning the value of forming our own union, and asked that a motion be made to organize an independent plant union.

That motion was made, seconded and carried unanimously, that we organize an independent plant union.

[fol. 2475] Next was the naming of the organization. That was something that had been previously discussed by Miss Ormsby, Miss Todd, and myself, and Mr. Tyler, in trying to arrive at a suitable name, and we offered the name of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. That was acceptable to the employees, and it was so moved and seconded and carried, that that be the name of the organization.

Miss Todd then introduced Mr. Tyler, who was present at that meeting and made a short talk to the employees.

Then, Miss Todd said that she would ask to be given the authority to appoint a committee of people to select nine people to be the executive committee of the union.

The motion was made that she appoint that committee. It was seconded and carried. She appointed this committee to select the nominees for the executive committee positions, and they retired from the room.

While they were gone from the room Mr. Tyler again spoke at the meeting and said that it was necessary that the organization have a set of bylaws, that he had prepared a set, which he would suggest that we adopt, and, if necessary, amend later, at our convenience.

Those bylaws were read. The motion was made that they be adopted, and it was carried.

The nominating committee then—At that time I believe some cards were passed out, or sometime during [fol. 2476] the meeting cards were passed out for the employees to sign if they wished to become members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

The nominating committee then returned to the room and stated that they had arrived at a group of people to be the executive committee, a group of names. Those names were read to the meeting.

An opportunity was then given for any other nominations from the floor. There were no other nominations, and this committee was voted upon and elected to be the executive committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Then, as I recall, Miss Todd asked if everybody had received a membership card and if they wished to sign it. There were some in the back of the room who had not yet received cards. The cards were given to them, and they were told if they didn't want to sign those cards they didn't have to, or if anybody desired to think the matter over before they signed, they had the right to do so. And the cards were asked to be collected, those that had been signed, and they were collected by a group of boys who were acting as ushers at the meeting.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Q. Now, was the Nelly Don Loyalty League the predecessor of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. In so far as it was in existence before the formation [fol. 2477] of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, yes.

Q. I mean to say, was the Nelly Don Loyalty League responsible in any way for the organization or formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. It was not.

Q. Is the Nelly Don Loyalty League still in existence?

A. It is.

Q. Is that purely a social organization? A. It is.

Q. Do they pay dues in that organization?

A. They do not.

Q. Did any official of the Donnelly Garment Company or any person with supervisory authority ever talk to you about the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No.

Q. Did the company, to your knowledge, or any of its officials, in any way assist in the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. They did not.

Q. Was Mr. Baty, Mrs. Reeves, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Green, Miss Spilsbury, or Mrs. Reed at the April 27 meeting?

A. They were not.

Q. Do you know of any meeting prior to that time called by Mrs. Reed where she talked to a group of operators in her office in regard to the formation of any union?

[fol. 2478] A. I do not.

Q. Now, what occurred after the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union with reference to the union seeking bargaining rights for the employees?

A. The executive committee of the union immediately got to work upon drafting a working agreement, or a contract, which we wanted to negotiate with the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company.

After numerous conferences among ourselves, and with Mr. Tyler, we finally worked out a draft of what we wanted and asked the company officials for a meeting at which we wanted to present this contract to them.

Q. Did that meeting occur on or about May 27, 1937?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was present at that meeting?

A. Mrs. Reed, Mr. Ingraham, Mr. Baty and Mr. Keyes were present for the company, and the executive committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union were present.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2479] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Atherton, will you just briefly state what occurred at that meeting?

A. Mr. Tyler, on behalf of the committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, presented this draft that we had prepared to the officials of the company and started to read it to them. He read several paragraphs, and there was quite a bit of discussion about different paragraphs of the contract between the officials of the company and the committee and Mr. Tyler.

After much discussion concerning these paragraphs or sections of the contract Mrs. Reed stated that she would like some time to think it over and asked that the committee return later in the day, namely at 2 o'clock that afternoon, for further negotiations.

[fol. 2480] Q. Was there a meeting later in the day?

A. There was.

Q. Were the same parties present?

A. They were.

Q. State what occurred at that later meeting.

A. The company had prepared a draft of this contract, certain things that they wanted in it, and so on. There was a great deal more discussion. I think one of the first things we discussed was the 40-hour week. The company objected to binding themselves to an agreement to limit the working week of the plant to 40 hours. The executive committee insisted that that be in the contract, that we did agree that we would work more than 40 hours, but for anything over 40 hours, we should be paid overtime.

Q. Was there any discussion as to what employees would be members of the union and covered by the contract?

A. There was.

Q. Will you state what occurred with reference to that matter?

A. The executive committee of the union insisted that all employees of the company, of both companies, the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, be members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. The company objected to that. They couldn't see why it was necessary that the office employees or the salesmen or anyone except piece workers be members of the [fol. 2481] Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. The committee had a different idea. They felt that if we wanted to be the bargaining agent for the employees, that we wanted all employees to be members of the union.

Q. Was there any discussion about the minimum of $15 per week?

A. Yes, there was.

Q. State what occurred with reference to that.

A. We asked that the minimum, demanded in this contract that a minimum of $15 a week for any employee, beginner or otherwise, of the company, be $15 a week. There were some employees at that time who were getting less than that, some of the basket boys, bundle boys, errand girls. The union felt that $15 was a fair minimum to be paid these workers.

Q. Did the company object to binding itself for two years to any minimum?

A. They did. They stated they didn't think it was necessary that we have a written contract. We said that we wanted the written contract with them, and asked that it be made for a period of two years. They said they didn't want to bind themselves for any stated length of time, that they couldn't tell what businness conditions would be at the end of two years, and after much discussion pro and con, that was finally drafted into the final agreement.

Q. Was there any discussion in regard to the recogni[fol. 2482] tion of the union as the bargaining agent for all employees?

A. Yes, there was.

Q. At that time were all the employees of the Donnelly plant members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. To the best of my knowledge, they were. There may have been some who were out on sick leave that hadn't returned, or some salesmen who were on the road at that time, whom we had not been able, as yet, to take into membership.

Q. Well, what, if anything, was discussed in reference to the recognition of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. We asked that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union be recognized as the sole bargaining agent of all employees, on any matters pertaining to wages, hours, working conditions and any other thing that might be subject to discussion with the company.

Q. Did the company object to that provision?

A. There was some discussion on it as to whether we—they wanted to know whether we thought we were able to bargain for, for instance, the people on the road, the salesmen, the office employees, and so on. We stated that we thought we were.

Q. State whether or not Mrs. Reed objected to any recognition that would include anybody other than the factory workers.

A. She did object to anything that included others ex-
[fol. 2483] cept piece workers.

Q. Piece workers?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there any discussion in regard to instructors and floor girls being chosen from the ranks of the operators?

A. There was much discussion on that point. The committee of the union felt that in case of promotion, that the people who had been working in the plant should have preference to those positions. The company took the stand that they should have the right to fill those positions in any way they saw fit. We insisted that employees—previous employees, be given preference in any position where they could be promoted from piece work job to a time worker's position.

Q. Was there any discussion with reference to the procedure in case an employee felt that he or she was unjustly treated in order to obtain any correction of that matter, that that employee would first seek action by the committee of the union?

A. There was. The committee of the union demanded that any grievances or complaints of any employee be brought to them so that they might take it up with the company.

Q. Did the company object to such a provision?

A. They did. They objected, said that they wanted any employee of the company to feel free to come to them with any complaint or grievance they might have, not have to go [fol. 2484] through somebody else. It was finally agreed, after much discussion, that the employee should have the privilege of taking it up either way, either with the committee of the union or with any official of the company, if they so desired, or with both, if they so desired.

Q. Was there any discussion about the meal period?

A. Yes.

Q. Just state what occurred with reference to that.

A. We demanded, in our contract, that meal period be not less than 30 minutes or more than 1 hour. The company objected to that because in some departments in times past, if the work was slack, the employees would be told to come back, take 2 hours for lunch, and return to work at 2 or 3 o'clock, or whatever time the company thought they might have work for them. This demand of ours limited the time which they could be kept out on their meal periods.

Q. Was there any discussion with reference to a closed shop?

A. There was.

Q. Will you just state what occurred with reference to that?

A. The union committee demanded that we have a closed shop. The company objected, saying that they had always had an open shop, employing anybody they saw fit to employ. They saw no reason why they should change. We reiterated our demand that we have the closed shop, because we were to be the bargaining agent for the em-

[fol. 2485] ployees and we didn't want any conflict among ourselves as to who was going to have the right to bargain for the employees, and if we were the only union or organization that come in there and have the right, we should represent all employees. For that reason we demanded a closed shop.

After much negotiation on it, the company finally agreed to give us a closed shop.

Q. Did you again argue that you had in your union all the employees?

A. We did.

Q. And that you represented every employee in the plant?

A. We did.

Mr. Langsdale: That discussion was the 27th of May meeting?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Now, what was the discussion in reference to layoffs?

A. The company demanded that they have the right to lay off employees when conditions so necessitated, due to slack seasons, emergency or to being no work, for other reasons such as being unable to obtain materials, and so on. The union recognized that, after some discussion, as a fair demand on their part, and so agreed to it.

Q. What occurred with reference to the provision that [fol. 2486] the general chairman should spend the necessary time in the affairs of the union and continue at his or her employment with the company at a proportionate rate of pay?

A. Well, it was necessary that the chairman of the union devote some portion of her time to the affairs of the union, inasmuch as we were just getting started. There was quite a number of things to look after and work out, but it wasn't necessary that she give her full time to it, and the committee of the union didn't feel like they wanted to pay her salary for full time. We couldn't afford it at the time, so we asked the company to make that provision in the contract, that they would employ her at her previous salary, and pay her for that time that she did not give to the union affairs. The union would pay her for the time that she spent in union matters.

Q. Was it after much discussion finally agreed by the committee of the union that Miss Todd would spend her time that she gave to the union after working hours?

A. It was.

Q. Was there any discussion with reference to arbitration?

A. Yes. It was recognized by both parties that arbitration was the only fair means of settlement of any difficulties, and it was agreed that the union should name one arbitrator and the company name the other, and then there was quite a good deal of discussion as to who the [fol. 2487] third arbitrator should be. Both parties wanting the privilege of naming the third arbitrator. Finally, after a great deal of discussion, it was agreed upon that if the union and the company could not agree upon the third arbitrator, that the arbitrator should be named by the District Judge of the Federal Court.

[fol. 2488] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Atherton, was there any discussion on the part of the company and the members of the union that there would be any objection to any Federal Judge?

A. There was none.

Q. Do you know of any reason why your committee or why the company would object to any Federal Judge for the Western District?

Mr. Langsdale: I object to the question as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

Trial Examiner Batten: He may answer. I assume that they would have no objection to a district federal judge. I merely asked him the question, supposing they could not agree, what would happen? That was just a supposition.

A. There was no thought in the minds of any of the union committee that any federal judge would not be fair-minded in naming a third arbitrator, and for that reason they didn't object—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): Mr. Atherton, don't misunderstand me. I assume any federal judge would be acceptable to any of them. I merely asked you the question, what would happen if that should occur?

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Atherton, was there any discussion as to strikes, stoppages and lock-outs? A. There was.

Q. Will you state what occurred with reference to that?

[fol. 2489] A. We demanded that the company provide in this contract that there would be no stoppage of work or lock-out of its employees for any reason. And after much discussion on that, the company agreed to do so if the employees would agree not to strike or walk out.

Q. Was there any discussion with reference to the discharge of employees by the company? A. Yes.

Q. What occurred with reference to that?

A. The company maintained that they had the right to discharge any employee for any reason. The committee of the union objected to that and said that while they would grant that the company had the right to discharge employees for certain reasons, they stipulated that they should not be discharged because of membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or any work they might do in connection with performing their work in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Q. Did not the company insist that it did have the right to discharge for inefficiency or the nonperformance of work, and for any reason except the employees' affiliation with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. They did.

Q. Was there a discussion with reference to vacations?

A. There was. The union committee felt that the piecework employees were entitled to paid vacations on the [fol. 2490] same basis as any time worker was.

Q. And was that provision finally agreed to?

A. It was, after much discussion. It has been the policy in the past that the company would give a week's vacation with pay to piecework employees. The union committee felt that after a certain period of service the piecework employees were entitled to two weeks' paid vacation, the same as the time workers.

Q. Was there in effect prior to the execution of this contract an arrangement whereby the company paid half of the premium on sick and accident insurance carried by the employees? A. There was.

Q. And that the company paid half of a group life insurance plan that was carried by the employees?

A. That is right.

Q. State whether or not representatives of the union wanted a provision guaranteeing that contribution on the part of the company in the contract.

A. We did. We demanded that that be incorporated in the contract, guaranteeing us those things would be continued for the duration of the contract.

Q. That also applied with reference to the maintenance of a hospital room and trained nurses?

A. It did.

[fol. 2491] Q. Was there a wage agreement entered into at a later time? A. There was.

Q. Will you state approximately when that contract was entered into?

A. It was about the 22d of June, 1937.

Q. Were there any negotiations with reference to that contract? A. There were.

Q. Will you just state what occurred?

A. The first thing they negotiated was the recognition by the company of five legal holidays, that the piecework operators be paid for those holidays on the same basis as paid vacations. Theretofore the company had had the privilege of deducting holidays from the pay of the employees if they so desired.

Q. Prior to the meeting in regard to this contract between the company officials and the representatives of the union had the representatives of the union requested certain data and information regarding the wages from the company? A. They had.

Q. Had the representatives of the union drafted a proposal regarding wages?

A. We had, with Mr. Tyler's assistance.

Q. Do you recall whether or not that original draft provided that employees that worked on the eighth floor on what is called the Donnelly plant higher-priced gar-

[fol. 2492] ments would receive a certain minimum wage?

A. It was.

Q. Do you recall what the amount of that minimum wage was?

A. $25.60, I believe, was the amount we had stipulated in our first draft for employees on the eighth floor, working on garments selling at $45 a dozen and above.

Q. Were operators classified in the various groups in the contract? A. They were.

Q. Do you recall what group 1 operators were engaged in sewing?

A. Group 1 operators were engaged, or spent the major portion of their time working on garments selling at $45 and above.

Q. Did this supplemental agreement provide for a different minimum than was provided for in the original contract? A. It did.

Q. What amount was this minimum?

A. That minimum is $16.50.

Q. When was that proposal made to the representatives of the company?

A. In the first draft we proposed to the company that the minimum be $16, stating we thought that that was a fair minimum, and after some discussion they agreed to that. And in another conference, before the final draft [fol. 2493] of the supplemental agreement, the committee, in discussing the agreement with Mr. Tyler, felt that maybe we could get more than a $16 minimum, so we decided to ask for a $16.50 minimum.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. More than what minimum?

A. The $16 minimum which we had in our first draft of the supplemental agreement.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did the company ask for time to check their records? A. They did.

Q. I will hand you this supplemental agreement and ask you to state what other discussions took place with reference to this supplemental agreement.

A. This paragraph stating:

"All workers, whether paid by the piece or by the week, including office workers, shall be on the same basis in regard to hours, vacations on pay, service in hospital rooms, privileges of sick and accident insurance, group life insurance, hospitalization, and any other services which may be offered by the employer and for which the employer pays all or any part of the cost."

That was the subject of quite a good deal of discussion.

Q. Can you state what occurred with reference to that?

A. The committee of the union maintained that in as much as all employees were members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union they should all be accorded the [fol. 2494] same privileges or treatment by the company, regardless of whether they worked in the office, designing room, or whether they worked on a machine, with regard to any benefits and privileges given by the company.

The company, after some objection, finally agreed to that.

Q. Was there considerable discussion with reference to the minimums contained in group 1?

A. Yes. The union, as I stated before, demanded that the operators on the eighth floor who were working on garments selling at $45 a dozen and above be guaranteed a higher minimum than operators working on lower-priced garments.

At that time most of the work, if not all of the work on that priced garments was done on the eighth floor.

The company objected to paying all of those people a higher minimum. After much discussion and negotiations it was finally agreed that operators who worked on any floor who spent a portion of their time on garments selling at $45 and up should be included in this group 1 operators, and that 40 percent of that group, at least 40 percent of that group, would be given a minimum of $25.60 a week.

Q. Is it not a fact that the company contended that they could work the operators that are in the first classification of group 1 the entire year on the higher-priced garments and manufacture all of the garments of that class?

A. That is true.

[fol. 2495] Q. Was it the position of the union that they would prefer that the company distribute that work and not confine it to a certain group of operators the year around?

A. That was the position of the union committee.

Q. Were the other classifications that are contained in the contract based on similar grounds as the first group?

A. They were. Group 2 operators and group 3 operators were operators working on garments selling below $45 a dozen.

Q. I had in mind the classification of other type of workers, as the hand ironers.

A. Yes, the same method was used in arriving at the establishment of minimum wages for hand ironers, for mechanics, folders—

Trial Examiner Batten: And pressers?

A. We have no pressers. The stipulation is in the contract, or mention is made of pressers, but we have no pressers. That was just to take care or provide for them in case we would have any pressers.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Atherton, was this contract agreed to at the first conference between the company and the representatives of the union? A. It was not.

Q. Was it agreed to at a later time?

A. It was agreed to at a later date.

Q. To your knowledge, has the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company ever con-[fol. 2496] tributed money or any other assistance to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. They have not.

[fol. 2497] Q. Have any officers of the company or any executives or persons with supervisory authority ever contributed directly or indirectly to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. They have not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2498] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Atherton, has the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company ever paid for the use of any chairs for the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. They have not.

. . . . . .

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Well, according to your knowledge.

A. They have not.

Q. Have either of the companies ever paid for the use of a loud speaker, to your knowledge?

A. They have not.

Q. Have either of the companies ever paid for the use of the second floor to the Corrigan Realty Company prior to the date that the Donnelly Company rented that space?

Mr. Langsdale: It is assumed that all these questions include "to your knowledge"?

[fol. 2499] Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

A. They have not.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Has the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union used the bulletin boards for union purposes at the factory?

A. They have not.

. . . . . .

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Have you ever heard any official of the company, or any person with supervisory authority authorize the use of the telephones by members of the union for union purposes? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever heard any official of the company, or person with supervisory authority, authorize bundle boys to carry messages for members of the union for union purposes? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever heard any official of the company, or person with supervisory authority, authorize any member of the union to use typewriters, filing cabinets, for [fol. 2500] union purposes? A. I have not.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Baty, [Mrs. Reed] or any other official of the company, or any person that had the authority to hire, discipline or discharge, say or suggest that an employee would lose his or her job if they didn't join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever hear any of those named persons make such statements that an employee would lose his or job if they joined the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever hear any of those persons state that the company would not employe any person that belonged to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. No.

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Atherton, was the subject of disturbances at the Missouri, Gordon and Gernes plants before March 18, 1937, a subject of common discussion among the employees at the Donnelly Garment plant?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

[fol. 2501] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. What was the state of mind of the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company in regard to conditions at the Missouri, Gordon and Gernes plants before March 18, 1937?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as being without a foundation, that this witness knows what the state of mind of the employees at the plant was; and immaterial, also.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I will sustain it on the ground it is immaterial.

Mr. Tyler: I offer to prove by this witness that the subject of the violence at the Missouri, Gordon and Gernes plants before March 18, 1937, was one of almost continual conversation by the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company plant, and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, and that the condition of the employees' minds at that plant was one almost bordering on hysteria and continued to increase in intensity as the strikes went on at the Gordon, Gernes and Missouri plants, and that that was one of the main causes of their employing attorneys, and later on was one of the impelling reasons for them to organize their own labor union.

Mr. Leary: I will object to the offer on the same grounds.

Trial Examiner Batten: The offer is refused.

Mr. Langsdale: The International Ladies' Garment [fol. 2502] Workers' Union objects to the offer upon the ground that it includes, a part of it, to permit this witness to pass upon the mental attitude of other employees, and he has shown no knowledge, laid no foundation to show that he is capable of passing on the mental attitude of those employees.

Mr. Tyler: The record shows that this witness was employed at the plant; that his duties caused him to circulate about the plant, and I submit that any employee in such circumstances is competent to tell what the subjects of discussion were which were uppermost, and what the general attitude of employees was.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, of course, I assume—I don't know—I wasn't [here], but I assume that probably there was so much talk in the plant that it even interfered with production. In fact, I have never seen a case yet where two unions, or one union, is conducting an intensive organizational campaign that it doesn't affect production in the plant. I mean, it just goes without saying that it is a part of it. You can't separate it, so I don't suppose there is any argument but what in this plant and all the rest of the plants, if it was all material to this hearing, the production was reduced.

Now, my point on this is this: That if the respondent, or any of its officers formed this union or assisted in forming it, or after it was formed they sponsored it or in [fol. 2503] any way assisted it, even if you were to prove that all the 1,350 employees were ready to shoot the next International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union member which they met, it still wouldn't detract one ounce from the fact that the respondent had either formed, sponsored or dominated the union, and even though you were to definitely prove that and permit it on the record, if the Board hasn't proved that this union was either formed, sponsored or is now dominated by this company, the respondent is not guilty of an unfair labor practice, irrespective of what the employees do, because they can do whatever they please, I mean, within reasonable limits, and I thought I ought to make that statement just in explanation of my ruling.

Mr. Tyler: If the Examiner please, I intend to make no point as to reduction of production by these difficulties. I do say that there is no more important fact, and no fact approaching in importance the fact of what caused the employees of this company to form their own union. The Board is claiming that it was domination or fear or bribery, or some such influence by the employer.

I submit that the employees asserting that they formed the [plant] of their own free will, will, in establishing that fact, have the right to refer to the causes which influenced them in making that choice, and undertake to show by this witness that one of the causes was not the employer [fol. 2504] domination, but was fear and dislike of what the International was doing in its campaign to organize garment workers in Kansas City.

I take it I have an exception to your Honor's ruling without—

Trial Examiner Batten: (interrupting) Well, of course, you have an automatic exception.

Mr. Stottle: And, Mr. Examiner, you will recall that Mr. Ingraham asked similar questions as to violence down at the Gordon and Gernes plant, and whether it increased, and your Honor sustained the objection to those questions. Our position also is that that would show a motive or a reason for the formation of this union, and would tend to show that it was not company domination.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you may have an objection and I will make the same ruling, Mr. Stottle.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Ingraham didn't make an offer of proof. When he comes back, I will ask him if he desires to enter it, or let the question go.

Trial Examiner: Let him decide when he comes back, and I will determine it, and I would make the same ruling, and I would say the same to the respondent. It isn't a question of whether these people had a motive to organize the union. The only question is, did the respondent have anything to do with it, and if they didn't, they can have any motive they please.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2506] Mr. Shepard: Respondent makes the same offer of proof, and takes exception to your ruling.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Atherton, I direct your attention to your testimony about the first time you and the other employees went to see attorneys. At the time of that visit had you been authorized or directed by the Loyalty League to go and see attorneys, or was it merely at the informal suggestion of a number of employees?

A. It was the suggestion of a number of employees as employees.

Q. Did any officer of the company, of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, have anything to do with that previous discussion that led up to your going to see attorneys?

A. They did not.

Q. At that conference was anything discussed with the attorneys other than whom you represented, how the work was to be paid for, and whether you could get an injunction, and whether an injunction would do the work you wanted? A. That was all.

Q. Was the possibility of forming a labor union mentioned at all at any time in that meeting? A. It was not.

[fol. 2507] Q. What events brought about the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Mr. Atherton?

A. At a conference which we had with you, Mr. Tyler, some time after the 12th of April, at which time notice appears in the papers that the Wagner Act had been declared constitutional, you informed us that you thought if we would organize our own independent union you would be much better enabled to give us the protection we desired. To the best of my knowledge, it was the declaration of the constitutionality of the Wagner Act that was the most compelling motive in causing us to decide to organize our own union.

Q. Did the report in the paper of Sylvia Hull's purported planned trip to Atlantic City have anything to do with it? A. It did.

Q. Was there a hope or desire on the part of the employees that they might in some way better their conditions that had anything to do with the formation of the union? A. There was.

Q. When was the first time that the possible formation of a union was ever suggested, as nearly as you can fix it from your own memory?

A. Some time between the 12th of April, and I would say, the 20th of April.

Q. Have you in your direct testimony told all you can remember of what happened at the meeting of April 27, [fol. 2508] when the union was formed?

A. I think, in substance I have.

Q. Isn't it a fact that a number of people got up and asked questions or made inquiries during the course of that meeting? A. That is true.

Q. Can you remember at this time the names of any of those people?

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you have copies of those minutes of that meeting, here?

Mr. Tyler: If the Examiner please, it is not the contention of the intervener that those minutes cover everything that was said or done at that meeting.

Trial Examiner Batten: I understand that, Mr. Tyler. I just wondered if they were here?

(Thereupon the minutes referred to, Board's exhibits Nos. 8 and 9, were handed to the Examiner.)

Trial Examiner Batten: Go ahead, Mr. Tyler.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Did you ever know of anyone down there at the plant, any employee, complaining, either secretly, openly, or in any other way, about being coerced or that they didn't have a chance to express their true feelings at that meeting? A. I did not.

Q. Did you ever hear of any employee down there making that complaint about any meeting that the Donnelly [fol. 2509] Garment Workers' Union ever had?

A. No. It was the practice at all meetings which I attended that any member of the union was given the privilege, and many times urged, to get up and say anything they wanted to say.

Q. Have you ever heard whoever was speaking at that meeting, whether it was Miss Todd, myself, or somebody else, urge those present to follow their own wishes in what they did and to pay no attention to what Mrs. Reed might want, or what Mr. Baty might want, or what Mr. Dubinsky might want, or what Mr. Perlstein might want? Have you ever heard that urged? A. I have.

Q. More than once? A. Many times.

Q. Have you ever heard anyone at any of those meetings urge the employees to do such and such a thing because Mrs. Reed wanted it done? A. I have not.

Q. Mr. Atherton, what, if anything, was done in preparation by the committee of the union for determining what wages they would ask in the wage agreement?

A. The company was asked to give certain data as to wages and salaries paid different classifications of employees. And those were furnished to us.

They were discussed at much length, living conditions, [fol. 2510] cost of living—By that I mean the cost of housing, food, clothing, and so on. All of those things were discussed between us as to arriving at what demands we would make in the way of minimum wages.

Q. Did you make any investigation of what wages were being paid in other garment plants in this locality?

A. We did, to a certain extent, inasmuch as we received information from individuals as to what they were getting, and we had been told what wages were being paid under the I. L. G. W. U. contracts in other shops in Kansas City.

Q. I believe you personally got a raise in wages since the contract was executed between the union and the company, did you not? A. I have.

Q. Did you ever have a raise in wages before the contract was executed? A. I have.

Q. Do you know of other persons who have gotten raises in wages since the contract was executed? A. Yes.

Q. Many of them?

A. I have heard of quite a good many.

Q. Do you know of employees or groups of employees who got raised by virtue of the agreements in that contract? A. I do.

[fol. 2511] Q. Just tell the Examiner what things the employees gained by virtue of that contract that they didn't have before the contract.

A. They were guaranteed a minimum wage, where theretofore there had never been any minimum guarantee in existence for the employees.

They gained the right of collective bargaining with their employer.

They gained the agreement of the company to continue in effect for the period of the contract the benefits of accident and health insurance, group life insurance, hospitalization, where before that time there was no guarantee that the company would continue that in operation. They had the privilege, if they so desired, of discontinuing it without any notice.

In the supplemental agreement they gained recognition of five holidays, Decoration Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, and Christmas Day—that all employees should be paid for those holidays, whereas, before that, the company had the privilege of deducting from their wages for time given for those holidays.

They gained the right to—the continuation of the right to use the main entrance to the building and the passenger elevator for their entrance and exit of the building, which they had had theretofore, but it wasn't guaranteed in any way.

[fol. 2512] Q. Were wages in any classification raised?

A. Wages were raised in the cutting department, spreading, in the dividing department; minimum wages were raised in all piece work departments. A great many operators were making as much or more than the minimum guarantee, but if the work was such that they couldn't make that they would be guaranteed that, anyway. A number of miscellaneous employees were guaranteed a minimum, which had never been established before, and all beginner operators, or apprentices, or beginner employees in any department of the company, were guaranteed a salary of $16.50 a week. Also, the employees were guaranteed that a classification of beginners should not extend over a period of 12 consecutive weeks, whereas, before, if the company so desired, they could continue an employee as an apprentice for an indefinite length of time.

The same benefits from increased minimums were accrued to the hand ironers, folders, as well as the operators, and the mechanical department.

The wages of some of the mechanics were raised. Mechanical helpers and apprentices were benefitted by a raise in salary, and, as I previously testified the operators or any other piece work employee would have the right to be promoted to any time work position which might be open, and employees were guaranteed overtime pay for all time in excess of 40 hours. Before, they did not have that guarantee.

[fol. 2513] Q. Was there any change about holidays?

A. Yes. I mentioned that.

Q. Was there any change about vacations?

A. Yes. The piece work employees were guaranteed a week's vacation after 6 months' service with pay and 2 weeks' after 2 years' service, with pay; whereas, heretofore, they had not been given the paid vacation, with the exception of some piece work operators who were given a week's paid vacation each year. They gained 2 weeks instead of 1.

Q. Well, Mr. Atherton, I want to direct your attention to the conference with Mrs. Reed at which the working agreement was signed. I believe you stated in your direct examination that the employees demanded that all employees of the companies be members of the union.

Isn't it a fact that what they demanded was that all employees under the rank of those having the right to hire, fire, discharge and discipline, only, be members of the union?

A. I did. When I said "employees", I meant any of those under the rank of those with authority to hire, fire or discipline.

Trial Examiner Batten: What was the date of that meeting?

Mr. Langsdale: May 27th.

Mr. Tyler: May 27th.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. And at that meeting, is it not a fact that Mrs. [fol. 2514] Reed said "I want all my people to be free to come to me directly", and that a committee of the union, or some one for them, said "They have the right under the Wagner Act. All we want is that they shall also have the right to proceed with complaints through union representatives, if they choose."

Didn't that happen? A. That is right.

Q. You were a member of the first committee elected to represent the union, were you not, Mr. Atherton?

A. I was.

Q. And how long did you remain a member of that committee? A. One year.

Q. During the time of your service on that committee, did the committee handle any complaints of employees who wished some change made in their situation with the company? A. They did.

Q. About how many did it handle?

Mr. Langsdale: We have the record of it here, haven't we?

A. To the best of my recollection, there were probably several hundred complaints.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Can you remember any particular ones, yourself?

A. Yes.

[fol. 2515] Q. Name some of them?

A. One particular case that a complaint was made to me, personally, as a member of the committee, by an employee in the shipping department, as to pay for their overtime work. They had been taking time off for their overtime work in that department, and certain employees in that department wanted to be paid overtime for that work, instead of taking the time off. I was asked to [that] that up with the union committee, and get some settlement on the matter for them.

Q. What was done?

A. It was discussed in a meeting of the committee, and taken up with the management and settlement was finally made that certain employees in that department were to be paid overtime for their work when they did work overtime.

Q. Do you remember any other complaint?

A. There was another complaint that was brought by one of the operators who, incidentally, was a member of the union committee, as to piece work rates in her section.

Q. Any others?

A. There were other complaints from employees who wanted to be transferred from one department to the other.

Mr. Tyler: May I have the Board's list of exhibits, which was a list of complaints brought in by Miss Todd?

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2516] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. I direct your attention to the Intervener's Exhibit 15-BB, and subsequent numbers, and ask you if that calls to your mind any other complaints you have not so far recalled.

A. This Exhibit 15-AA is the one I had in mind when I said that there were complaints of employees that wanted to transfer to another department. This is one concerning Mr. Stobb, in his request to be transferred to the cutting room. Also, Mr. James Van Camp, his request to be transferred to the cutting room.

Exhibit 15-X, recalls another one to my mind. Some employees, I can't recall their names, were objecting because they had not been given the vacations with pay as stipulated in the contract, because of poor attendance record. In our contract, we stipulated that those with irregular attendance records should be given this 2 weeks' vacation with pay. These employees were complaining that they came under that classification.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2517] Trial Examiner Batten: Well, of course, I don't see any particular value to just rehearsing these that are in writing.

Mr. Tyler: Well, I haven't asked him to mention any unless he actually remembers them.

A. I remember this request of Morton Griggs, to be placed on the permanent employees' list. That was taken up with the management and settled satisfactorily.

I would like to state, Mr. Tyler, that there were a great many complaints presented to the union, presented directly to Miss Todd, as chairman of the union, it having been previously agreed by the members of the executive committee of the union that Miss Todd could so handle these complaints, if she saw fit, without taking them up with other members of the executive committee. So a great many of the complaints were handled by her as chair[fol. 2518] man of the executive committee of the union.

By Mr. Tyler: Do you know whether there were complaints handled by the committee verbally, without any written record being made of them at all?

A. There were a great many of them.

Q. Mr. Atherton, do the cafeteria employees belong to the union? A. They do.

Q. Why?

A. At the meeting of April 27th, 1937, the employees of the cafeteria were present, and —

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Did you stay at that meeting?

A. Yes, and got up and asked, after the union was organized, if they could become members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, stating that while they were not employees of the Donnelly Garment Company, or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, they felt that if there were no Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company they would have no positions, or a job, and if there were no objections on the part of the members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, they would like to join that union.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Do the elevator boys that operate the elevators in the building belong to the union?

A. They do not.

Q. How often does the union hold meetings, Mr. Atherton?

[fol. 2519] A. They have a regular meeting once a month.

Q. Well, do they hold meetings that often?

A. They do.

Q. About how often did the committee of chairmen meet while you were a member of it?

A. At least twice a month.

Q. Is the Nelly Don Loyalty League still in existence, Mr. Atherton? A. It is.

Q. Do you know of any connection between it and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I do not.

Q. Do you remember any discussion of the committee of [chairman] as to whether it would sufficiently protect the interests of the employees to have Rose Todd check on the fixing of piece work prices? A. I do.

Q. What was the conclusion reached on that subject?

A. Inasmuch as Miss Todd had formerly worked in the pricing department, and was familiar with how those piece work rates were arrived at, and as she had been a former operator, familiar with the sewing section, with the work of the operators, we felt that the interest of the members of the union and of the committee would be satisfactorily served to allow her to check those rates.

[fol. 2520] Q. In taking part in the formation of this union personally, were you influenced by any fear or coercion or pressure brought by the management or any representative of the management of either company?

A. I was not.

Q. Whose interests did you represent when you were a member of the committee?

A. I represented the members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Q. Did you ever see Mrs. Reed or Mr. Baty or Mrs. Reeves or Mrs. Hyde, Mr. Keyes, or Mrs. Spillsbury, or any officers of either company present at any meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I never saw them at any meeting.

Q. Or at any meeting of the committee of [chairman] of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I did not.

Q. Do you know of occasions when employees would go to meetings after working hours wearing their work aprons and then after the close of the meeting go back and change their aprons?

A. I do. I saw them at meetings in their aprons after working hours.

Q. Can you estimate the amount of delay it would take to get them to a meeting after work hours if all of them [fol. 2521] changed their work aprons to their street clothes? A. Oh, anywhere from 15 minutes to an hour.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2523] Q. Was there any particular incident that you know of that brought about the visit of the employees to Chief Higgins of the police force?

A. Yes; the rumored threats that we would be next on the list—

Trial Examiner Batten: Now, just a moment. I think that is covered entirely by the offer of proof that I have asked for, Mr. Tyler.

Mr. Tyler: Very well.

Trial Examiner Batten: I mean, in those paragraphs which Mr. Langsdale has asked to have stricken, as I recall it, those matters are covered.

Mr. Tyler: Your Honor rules this witness cannot testify as to the visit of the employees to Chief Higgins and what it was for?

Trial Examiner Batten: I have merely said, when I receive those offers of proof, which includes this matter, I will then determine how much, if any, of that we will take [fol. 2524] testimony upon.

Mr. Tyler: Very well.

Mr. Langsdale: The record shows that that visit was about April 2.

Trial Examiner Batten: The record doesn't need to show anything about it until I get the offer of proof.

Mr. Langsdale: The point is, I want to put in an objection and—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): The record doesn't need to show that now, because I have asked Mr. Tyler not to go into that until I get the offer of proof. The offer of proof will show it all.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2525] Q. Do you have any knowledge of any officer of either company, or representative of the management of either company, instructing or hinting to an employee that he or she had better join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No.

Q. Do you have any knowledge of any such person contributing support to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union in any way or at any time?

A. I have not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2526] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Was there a meeting about the last of March or the first of April for the purpose of raising money to pay the legal expenses with respect to advice and investigations that were brought up?

A. There was.

Q. Did you attend it?

A. I did.

Q. About what was the date of it, as near as you can fix it?

A. It was between the 27th of March and the 5th of April.

Q. Where was it held?

A. On the second floor of the Corrigan Building.

Q. Who arranged for that meeting, for the use of the space? Do you know?

A. I did.

Q. In what manner?

A. I asked Mr. Appleby, who was superintendent of the Corrigan Building for Murray & Company, if we might use that floor that evening for a meeting of the employees.

Q. Tell us everything you remember that happened at that meeting.

A. Miss Todd opened the meeting and told the em- [fol. 2527] ployees that we had consulted attorneys to see what could be done in the way of getting relief and protection for the employees.

. . . . . .

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Tell us what occurred at that meeting, Mr. Atherton.

A. Miss Todd told the employees the purpose of the meeting, that we had called on attorneys and asked them [fol. 2528] to represent us and that they had demanded the retainer fee before they could do anything, and that we had assured them that that retainer fee would be paid; that we had paid it, borrowed the money to pay it, and that we had to repay that loan.

She then asked me to talk to that gathering. As near as I can recall, I stated the amount of the retainer fee, $500, and asked for suggestions from the meeting as to how we could raise the money to get this $500.

Different persons suggested one plan and another, and finally one plan of donation was suggested, which was put in the form of a motion, and was carried, that each employee donate 50 cents toward repaying this $500.

I recall I made some further remarks that I thought 50 cents was a very small contribution to ask from any of them; that, if necessary, each employee should be willing to contribute as much as $50; that to me, personally, it was worth that much.

After the motion was carried that each employee would donate 50 cents there were some further general remarks, and the meeting was adjourned.

Mr. Tyler: Were contributions under that plan made on that day or during the days following from time to time?

A. Some of them were made that day. It was stated that they could be paid that day or the next pay day that the employees had, and that provision would be made for [fol. 2529] a place to pay their contributions.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. At the March 18 meeting who read the letter that the union had sent to Mrs. Reed?

A. I don't recall definitely who read that letter. Mrs. Reed gave it to someone and asked them to read it.

Q. Do you know whether she gave it to you or not?

A. She did not.

Q. You haven't any idea whom she gave it to?

A. No. There were a number of people in the front of the room at that meeting, and it was handed to someone who was close to where she was standing and she asked them to read it.

Q. On what floor or in what department was Mary Sprofera employed?

A. She was employed in the order filling department on the fourth floor.

Q. Where is the maintenance department?

A. The maintenance department has no specific location.

Q. Don't you have headquarters?

A. No.

Q. Where is your locker?

A. On the first floor.

Q. Where do you keep your tools?

[fol. 2530] A. In my locker.

Q. Where is this call-board for repair work?

A. On the eighth floor.

* * * * * *

Q. Who is it that tells you what work to do?

A. Mr. Baty.

Q. He gives you all of your instructions?

A. He does.

[fol. 2531] Q. What kind of work do you do in the maintenance department?

A. I do some of the actual maintenance myself, and I am clerk of that department.

Q. Where do you perform your duties as clerk?

A. Wherever I may be. I have no desk or specific location in the plant. I am on all floors of the plant at some time each day.

Q. You do not have any work bench at all?

A. We have a work bench on the first floor where we do sawing, planing, or anything of that type.

Q. Where was it in April, 1937?

A. On the eighth floor.

Q. Where was it in February, 1935?

A. On the eighth floor.

Q. Did you designate those as the maintenance department headquarters?

A. In those years, yes.

Q. Now, since you have moved it down on the first floor, you do not mention it as the maintenance headquarters; is that it?

A. No.

Q. Do you know the reason for such a change?

A. No, except if I was busy in some other part of the building I couldn't be on the eighth floor, so my instructions are sent to me by telephone and by notice wherever I [fol. 2532] may be or at whatever work I may be doing anywhere in the building.

Q. When did you first go to work in the maintenance department?

A. When I started in the employ of the company.

Q. I asked you, when?

A. November 9, 1933.

Q. Who was in charge of the maintenance department then?

A. Mrs. Reeves.

Q. Was anyone else in charge of it?

A. No.

Q. You had no head mechanic, or supervising mechanic, as you might call him?

A. None that I ever knew of.

Q. Did Mrs. Reeves give you all of your instructions as a maintenance man while she was still production manager and before she was replaced by Mr. Baty?

A. Specific instructions, yes. On general maintenance, any employee of the plant could turn in a request for certain things to be done of any minor nature that came through the call-board that was caged on the eighth floor and turned over to anybody in the maintenance department to take care of.

Q. Isn't it true, Mr. Witness, there are occasions when some problem arises in the maintenance department that requires the assistance of someone who is perhaps better qualified than the average maintenance man or mechanic [fol. 2533] to solve the problem?

A. If that is so those are taken up with Mr. Baty.

Q. Is it your answer that such occasions do arise?

A. They probably do. If so, he gives me instructions on it.

Q. Isn't the work in the maintenance department of a technical nature?

A. Not necessarily.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Just what does the maintenance department cover, Mr. Atherton?

A. Minor repairs, remodeling, and moving of departments or objects in the building occupied by the Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. All of the maintenance of the equipment, machinery; is that it?

A. Not of sewing machines. That is taken care of by the mechanical department.

Q. Then, the maintenance department is separate from the mechanical department; is that it?

A. It is.

Q. Does the maintenance department have to do with the upkeep of the building?

A. It does.

Q. Like the janitors?

A. No, we don't have anything to do with the janitors.

Q. That is a separate section; is that it?

[fol. 2534] A. That is right.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Do you have carpenters, plumbers, [millrights], and so forth, in your department?

A. We have carpenters and electricians and laborers.

Q. How many are in the maintenance department now?

A. It varies. At this time I would say there are about five.

Q. Who are they? A. You want their names?

Q. Yes. A. Ben Charde—

Q. What does he do.

A. Electrician. Lynn Owen, carpenter. Joe DeCavelle, laborer. Roy Broman, painter, Robert Siney, laborer. William Guerant, laborer.

That is all I know of at the present time.

[fol. 2535] By Mr. Leary:

Q. What are your duties as clerk of the maintenance department?

A. To transmit instructions to members of the maintenance department, and to, if necessary, show them how to do any particular work.

Q. Well, are you qualified as a general maintenance man, as a painter, a carpenter, and so forth, and electrician?

A. My employer thinks so, I guess, or I wouldn't be doing it.

Q. Well, I asked you if you are.

A. I think I am, the work that is necessary.

Q. Did you have those qualifications when you came to work with the company in November, 1933?

A. I had some of them.

Q. Now, is it your testimony that Mr. Baty gives all the instructions to the maintenance department, to you?

A. Not always.

Q. Well, would you say he gives most of the instructions to you?

A. If an employee should ask Mr. Baty to have something done in their department, Mr. Baty might O. K. a slip and hand it to them, and they would bring that slip to me, or to some other member of the maintenance department, and give it to us.

Mr. Leary: Read the question, please.

• • • • • •

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Would you say he gives most of the instructions to you?

A. In so far as I know.

Q. And it is the exception, rather than the rule, when he gives them to any other person in the department than yourself?

A. No. That happens quite often.

Q. Yes, but I say, it is the exception rather than the rule?

A. Well, I don't know that I know what you mean by "rule". If that was in any order that was supposed to be in existence, no.

Q. Well, what records do you keep, as clerk of the maintenance department?

A. I keep a memorandum notebook of the work that is to be done, and when the work is finished, I check it off.

Q. How do you know when the work is finished?

A. By going to see whether it is or not.

Q. Mr. Baty doesn't tell you, does he?

A. Not always.

Q. You tell Mr. Baty, as a matter of fact, when the work is finished, do you not?

A. Not always. If there is any doubt in my mind, I ask Mr. Baty to come and look at it.

[fol. 2537] Q. What is the purpose of your keeping the notebook?

A. So that I will know when we have completed the work which we have been asked to do.

Q. Why is it necessary for you to know that?

A. Well, I don't claim to be able to remember everything that I am asked to do. I have to keep a memoranda of it because sometimes we have numerous requests at the same time, or about the same time, for certain things to be done, and to be sure that I don't forget them, I write them down in my notebook.

Q. The point is, that when you are asked to do anything, you are held responsible for having that work done, are you not?

A. As much as any employee is when they are designated any work to be done.

Mr. Leary: Read the question, please.

(Whereupon, the last question was read by the reporter.)

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Now, is that the true situation?

A. No, unless I am asked personally to do the work, I am not held responsible for it.

Q. Do you keep any other work records of that department? A. I do not.

Q. What portion of your time do you spend keeping those records?

A. Whatever time is necessary to write them down.

[fol. 2538] Q. I asked you what portion of your time you spend.

A. Well, I couldn't say. It would all depend on what I have been given to do.

Q. Well, considering all contingencies, what portion do you spend?

A. As previously stated, I cannot tell you definitely. Whatever time is necessary to write down the memoranda.

Q. Would you say you spend half of your time over a period of a month doing that?

A. Certainly not.

Q. Would you say a quarter of the time? A. No.

Q. What amount would you say?

A. Just a very small time; just long enough to write down a note.

Q. Then when you are not doing that, namely, keeping records what do you do?

A. I work in the maintenance work.

Q. What is your particular line?

A. Whatever is necessary to be done, I work on.

Q. Well, are you primarily a carpenter or an electrician, or what? A. I am not.

Q. Are you primarily anything?

A. I assist any of the fellows in the maintenance de-

[fol. 2539] partment that need any help on anything. If it is necessary to move a bin, I help them move it, if they need help or anything of that kind.

Q. Well, you are not in the same category as an apprentice helper is to these electricians and carpenters, are you? A. No, I wouldn't say so.

Q. What is your wage there? A. Beg pardon?

Q. What is your wage? A. $40 a week.

Q. What is the wage of the electricians?

A. I don't know.

Q. What is the wage of the carpenters?

A. I don't know.

Q. What is the wage of the laborers in the department? A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know the wages of any persons in the department?

A. In the maintenance department?

Q. Yes. A. I do not.

Q. Have you ever known their wages?

A. I have not.

Q. Why was it that you testified in response to a question on direct examination that you knew of raises that were obtained for persons in the maintenance department?

[fol. 2540] A. I don't believe I so testified.

Q. Where were you when Mary Sprofera asked you to sign this March 2, 1937, petition?

A. I believe I was on the eighth floor.

Q. What were you doing up there?

A. Pursuing my daily work.

Q. Did Mary Sprofera have any business in the maintenance department on the eighth floor?

A. She might have.

Q. Did she on this occasion? A. I don't know.

Q. How do you know that the company had nothing to do with calling the meeting of March 18th?

A. Because I was partly responsible for that meeting being called.

Q. Do you know who was entirely responsible?

A. Miss Todd and myself were entirely responsible.

Q. You are positive on that? A. Absolutely.

Q. To whom, besides Miss Todd, had you spoken concerning this March 18th meeting prior to the time it was held?

A. I don't recall anybody, concerning the actual holding of the meeting.

Q. Well, had you talked to persons other than Miss Todd about related matters prior to the meeting?

[fol. 2541] A. It was a matter of general discussion among all the employees of the plant.

Q. Did you attend any meeting the night before?

A. Miss Todd and I had a meeting the night before.

Q. Who was present at the meeting?

A. Miss Todd and myself.

Q. Where was that meeting held?

A. At her—it was held at her apartment.

Q. No one else was present? A. There were not.

Q. Was it then that you decided to hold the March 18th meeting? A. That is right.

Q. How was notice given to the employees that such a meeting would be held?

A. I didn't give the notice of the meeting. Miss Todd said she would take care of that. As to what manner she handled it, all I know is a matter of hearsay, or testimony that I have heard.

Q. You haven't any idea how the people were advised of that meeting?

A. Well, I understand they were advised by telephone.

Q. For the March 18th meeting, too? A. Yes.

Q. Are you confusing that with April 27th meeting?

[fol. 2542] A. I am not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2543] Q. What was the basis of the statement that you, Todd and Ormsby made to Tyler that you represented all the employees?

A. It was a matter of which we took the responsibility ourselves for so doing.

Q. You were self-appointed ambassadors of all employees; is that it?

A. That is right.

Q. And you felt qualified to bind the employees about this certain loan that was made?

A. I had nothing to do with making any loan.

Q. Now, was the situation this, as of the time you concluded your first conference with Tyler, namely, that he had demanded $500 before he opened a book or gave any opinion and that Miss Todd said she could get the $500. Is that it? A. That is right.

Q. Now, did the committee make any—strike that. Did the committee have any conversation as to how Miss Todd should proceed to get the loan?

A. Not so far as I know.

Q. Did Miss Todd ever mention the subject to you after the time you left the law office?

A. Until when?

Q. Until at this minute.

[fol. 2544] A. Yes, she told me after she negotiated the loan.

Q. Between the time you left the law office and until the time she notified you that she had negotiated the loan, did she ever mention the subject to you at all?

A. She did not.

Q. Did she tell you, at any time, how she was going to get the money? A. No.

Q. While you were in the law office, did she ask your opinion as to how she could get it?

A. She did not.

Q. Now, in your own words, what was the decision of the three committeemen as to the next step to be taken when you left the law office?

A. It was to notify the employees as to what steps we had taken, and as to what was necessary in the way of raising the money.

Q. Well, I want you to go into detail on that, Mr. Witness. You were to notify them what had taken place?

A. That we had called on attorneys and had asked them to represent us.

Q. And that you had made what decision?

A. That they had asked for a retainer's fee.

Q. Of how much?

A. $500, and that we would ask the employees as to [fol. 2545] how they wanted to raise this $500.

Q. Is that all?

A. Substantially. All that I can remember right now.

Q. Do you know, then, what the other $500 was borrowed for?

A. I do not, except there hadn't been any sum talked of except the $500. I didn't know what sum we borrowed until after I was told.

Q. You had not obligated yourself to pay any other lawyers any money, had you? A. We had not.

Q. Your entire transactions involved Mr. Tyler alone, isn't that correct? A. That is right.

Q. And the total figure was $500?

A. That is the amount he named.

Q. You had no other contemplated expenses at the time the loan was made, had you?

A. Except that we knew that if we did have a meeting of employees we would be out for chair rental and whatever other incidental expenses there were to that meeting.

Q. Now, the chairs rented for about $12 a meeting, didn't they?

A. It depended on how many chairs.

Q. Well, I want to know what you contemplated doing with the other $500, other than the amount that you ex-[fol. 2546] pected to pay for chair rentals.

A. I said I didn't know anything about the other $500 until after it had been borrowed.

Q. Did you rent chairs for this meeting that you mentioned? A. We did.

Q. From whom did you rent them?

A. The Kansas City Chair Company.

Q. Did you order those chairs? A. I did not.

Q. Who did?

A. As far as I know, Miss Todd ordered them.

Q. Well, you are clear, are you not, on the meeting I am talking about?

A. I am, the March 18th meeting.

Q. No, I am talking about the meeting between March 27th and April 5th.

A. The meeting in which the contribution was taken up? Yes, there were no chairs ordered for that meeting. The employees stood up at that meeting.

Trial Examiner Batten: You haven't been talking all the time about this—

The Witness (interrupting): I understand he was talking about the March 18th meeting.

Trial Examiner Batten: Have you?

Mr. Leary: Pardon?

[fol. 2547] Trial Examiner Batten: You haven't been talking all the time about this meeting between the end of March and the 5th of April, have you?

Mr. Leary: Well, I certainly have, and I believe the witness' answers in the record will reflect that we were talking about the extra $500, and what they contemplated doing with it.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes.

Mr. Leary: I think the record bears my point.

Trial Examiner Batten: What I am talking about is, you have talked about meetings in several questions for the last several minutes, 10 minutes, maybe. Now, when did you change from the meeting of the 18th to this other meeting?

Mr. Leary: Well, I have been going along in chronological order, and when I left the March 18th meeting and then took up the conversation with Mr. Tyler, I thereafter referred to the next meeting, which he alleges took place—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Well, it may show that in the record, but I certainly didn't get it.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. What, exactly, did Miss Todd say at this meeting between March 27th and April 5th concerning the loan?

A. To me?

Q. No, to the employees at the meeting?

A. I don't know that she said anything to them.

[fol. 2548] Q. Wasn't the purpose of the meeting to explain to the employees the $500 that Mr. Tyler had discussed with you? A. That is right.

Q. And also the loan from the bank?

A. There was nothing said to the employees about any loan from the bank.

Q. What did Miss Todd say at the meeting?

A. I couldn't give you her exact words now.

Q. I am not asking you for the exact words. I want to know substantially what she said at that meeting.

A. She told the employees that we three had consulted attorneys; that they asked us if we represented the employees, and we told them we did, and he said he would have to have a substantial retainer fee in the amount of $500 before he could undertake any work for us, and that it was necessary for us, as employees, to—we wanted them to represent us, to raise this retainer fee of $500.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2552] Trial Examiner Batten: Now, on the matter of Board's Exhibit 1-IIII, which is the objection and motion of the respondent and the intervener to the Board's offer, which is marked "Board's Exhibit 80", the objections are overruled and the motion to strike is denied, which means, Mr. Leary, that the NRA testimony which was in the offer will be accepted, and you will have one witness ready for presentation of her testimony, strictly limited to the point in your offer.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2555] By Mr. Leary:

Q. What was it that Rose Todd told at this meeting which took place some time between March 27 and April 5?

• • • • • •

A. She told the meeting of employees that Miss Ormsby, Miss Todd and myself had consulted the firm of attorneys of Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler, and had asked them as to what we might be able to do in the way of getting protection; that it would be possible for us to get an injunction, and that Mr. Tyler had asked us if we represented all the employees, and we had told him that we did, and he said well, if we didn't he would soon find out, and that if he undertook the work, it would be necessary that he have a retainer fee of $500.

Miss Todd asked the meeting for suggestions as to how to raise that $500. There were numerous plans offered. Finally, a motion was made from the floor that all employees donate 50 cents a piece.

Q. Who made that motion?

A. Eva Lieberman. That motion was seconded and carried.

Q. Do you remember anything else that was said or [fol. 2556] done at the meeting?

A. I don't recall anything else that she said, except that she told the meeting that I would like to make a few remarks about this donation.

Q. What did you say?

A. Well, I told the employees that I thought 50 cents apiece was a very reasonable sum for each of us to donate, for the purpose for which we wanted to use it in getting protection for ourselves, and protecting our jobs, and our right to go to and from work without molestation; that it would be worth $50 apiece to each of us.

Q. And who was designated to collect the money?

A. That, I do not know.

Q. Haven't you any idea what system was followed?

A. To the best of my recollection, different employees throughout the building were asked to collect the donation.

Q. Was that collecting done?

A. So far as I know. Some of the donations were paid after that meeting that evening.

Q. Who collected them then?

A. That, I don't know.

Q. Do you know to whom the money was turned over to?

A. The money was turned over to Miss Hartman after collections.

Q. Who collected the contribution from yourself?

[fol. 2557] A. I paid it to Kenneth Peck.

Q. Who was he?

A. He was in the mechanical department.

Q. And do you know how much money was collected at that time, approximately?

A. Approximately $575.

Q. And was that money paid Mr. Tyler?

A. $500 was paid Mr. Tyler.

Q. Out of that $575; is that it?

A. Mr. Tyler had been paid $500 from this loan, and this $500 that was taken up by donation, some of it wasn't paid, I understand, until the employees' next pay day, which may have been a week for some of them and two weeks for some of them, and at the time the entire amount was collected, that was repaid at the bank, the $500.

Q. Well, isn't it true, Mr. Witness, that your committee first went to see Mr. Tyler for the purpose of sounding out the possibilities of obtaining an injunction and to secure protection for yourselves?

A. Miss Ormsby, Miss Todd and myself consulted Mr. Tyler as to the possibility of getting an injunction, or as to what else we could do in the way of gaining protection.

Q. And Mr. Tyler, at some occasion before the April 27th meeting, told you that the matter of obtaining an injunction and of securing protection could be handled easier [fol. 2558] if the employees were grouped together in an organization; isn't that true?

A. That is true.

Q. And it was in furtherance of that idea of the injunction protection that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed; is that it?

A. That was partly the reason.

Q. Well, that was the reason Mr. Tyler gave you, wasn't it?

A. The reason he gave us was that we were entitled to do so under the Wagner Act, after it had been declared constitutional, and that as an organized group he would be enabled to give us, or secure for us, better protection.

[fol. 2559] Q. Do you know who took the minutes of the April 27th meeting?

A. As far as I know, Marjorie Green took the minutes of that meeting.

Q. You are sure of that?

A. Reasonably so.

Q. You were at that meeting, were you not?

A. I was.

Q. During the entire course of it?

A. I was.

Q. Were you on the nominating committee?

A. I was not.

Q. Had you ever seen the bylaws before Mr. Tyler read them?

A. Not in their entirety.

Q. How much of them?

A. Certain parts of them had been discussed with Miss Todd and myself.

Q. Had your bargaining committee made any study as to the weekly earnings of the various employees before you presented your first proposed contract to the company?

A. We had.

Q. I am referring now, Mr. Witness, to the first contract that was signed Board's exhibit No. 6, entitled Articles of Agreement. Do you understand to what I am referring?

A. The working agreement?

[fol. 2560] Q. I am referring to the Articles of Agreement.

A. The study of the wage schedules, and so on, was made after the working agreement was negotiated and before the supplemental agreement was signed.

Q. So, no study was made before Board's exhibit No. 6 was executed?

A. No intensive study was made.

Q. What study was made, if any?

A. There had been some discussion in committee meetings of the executive committee of the union as to what steps to take, what methods to use, in setting up a draft of the supplemental agreement or the wage agreement.

Q. I am referring alone to the Articles of Agreement, not the supplemental wage agreement, Mr. Witness.

A. That is what I said, there had been some discussion—

Q. (Interrupting) Is it your testimony there had been some discussion among the members of the executive committee before you executed Board's exhibit No. 6?

A. That is true.

Q. Was that the only discussion had?

A. We had discussed methods and ways—

Q. The only persons who took part in it were the executive committee members?

A. That is right. That is, before the working agreement or the articles of agreement were signed.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2563] By Mr. Leary:

Q. On the executive committee what department did you represent?

A. General employees.

Q. What do you mean by that?

A. Those not specifically designated in other departments by the executive chairmen.

Q. Who were in that category?

A. That took in the janitors and maids, maintenance, shipping department, order filling department, the basket boys, bundle boys, pick-up boys—employees of that nature.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2564] Q. Did you testify as to just where you were when Mary Sprofera presented to you the petition of March 2?

A. I did.

Q. Where were you?

A. On the eighth floor.

Q. Did you have a desk there?

A. I did not.

Q. About what time of day was it?

A. I don't remember.

Q. It was during working hours?

[fol. 2565] A. Yes.

* * * * * *

Q. You stated, with reference to the March 18 meeting, that you and Rose Todd were almost entirely responsible for that meeting, I believe.

A. I said we were entirely responsible for the meeting being called.

Q. You were entirely responsible for it?

A. That is right.

Q. Did you consult with Mrs. Reed about it?

A. We did not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2566] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Was there any particular reason why you and Rose Todd were having these meetings at this time, prior to the formation of the union?

A. None, except we assumed that responsibility.

Q. Just the two of you?

A. That is right.

Q. When you went up to see the lawyers it was just you and Miss Todd and this other woman who determined it yourselves, I believe.

A. We determined to take that responsibility, yes.

Q. There had been no meeting of the employees to select you as a—

. . . . . .

[fol. 2567] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You had no meeting? You three just took it upon yourselves?

A. We had no meeting authorizing us to do so.

Q. You filed an affidavit in the three-judge hearing, did you not, signed by you, on the 12th day of October, 1937?

A. I don't remember.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2569] Q. Now, I am now referring to page 627, Volume 2, the transcript of the record in the case in the Supreme Court of the United States, October 10, 1937, No. 801, entitled "International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union", etc., "et al, Appellants, versus Donnelly Garment Company, Donnelly Garment Sales Company, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union", and so forth, "et al", an appeal from the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Missouri, filed in the Supreme Court of the United States on February 16, 1938, and on said page 627 is the record of an affidavit signed and sworn to by Hobart F. Atherton, dated "Kansas City, Missouri," on the 12th day of October, 1937, which was received in evidence and marked "Intervener's Exhibit 28", and was as follows: without reading the whole affidavit, I will ask you if you didn't make this statement in that affidavit:

[fol. 2570] "A committee of the employees was authorized at a meeting of the employees to see what could be done about protecting us from such threats, violence and intimidation. I was a member of that committee. We consulted attorneys and were advised that we would be entitled to the protection of an injunction issued by the court against such actions, and it was arranged that we would be ready to secure such injunction if needed."

Now, particularly referring to the language "a committee of the employees was authorized at a meeting of the employees to see what could be done about protecting us from such threats, violence and intimidation. I was a member of that committee." You made that statement and swore to it, did you not, on the 12th day of October, 1937?

A. I did, but I did not say that the meeting authorized us to consult attorneys.

Q. Well, I am just asking you if you made the statement that is in the affidavit? A. I did.

Q. And was it true at the time you made it?

A. To the best of my recollection.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2579] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Now, you stated, in answer to both Mr. Ingraham's and Mr. Leary's questions, that there was a meeting held [fol. 2580] by the employees, at which it was suggested that each one pay 50 cents for raising the fund. You said that meeting occurred sometime between March 27 and April 5. Can't you be more definite about that date than that? A. I can't recall the exact date.

Q. Why do you say it was between those two dates?

A. Because it around the 27th of March that we consulted Mr. Tyler, when he asked for this retainer fee.

Q. How does April 5 come in?

A. I don't recall whether it was toward the end of the week or not, whether Saturday and Sunday intervened, or just what it was, and for that reason I can't be positive in my statement. It was between those two dates, to the best of my recollection.

Q. No record of any kind or character was kept of that meeting?

A. There was not, as far as I know.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2589] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Atherton, after March 18, 1937, did you have many conversations with other employees of the Donnelly plant, with reference to taking some action to protect yourselves? A. I did.

Q. Was the matter of obtaining attorneys discussed?

A. No, it was just the general trend, was what we could do to protect ourselves. Everybody was asking everybody else as to what they thought we could do.

Q. Did many of the employees ask you personally, and Rose Todd, to see what could be done?

* * * * * * *

A. Yes, they did ask me to see what could be done.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think the testimony showed yesterday that there was plenty of conversation.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did the article that appeared in the paper on April 22d, wherein Sylvia Hull stated that she had been selected by the Donnelly employees to represent them at the International Convention, have anything to do with the forma-
[fol. 2590] tion of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. It did.

Q. In what respect?

A. We all felt if any employee could—

* * * * * * *

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Well, what do you mean by "we"?

A. Everyone with whom I talked or who talked to me concerning this article that appeared in the paper, felt that if any employee could attend a convention to represent the Donnelly Garment Workers without our permission, or any authorization, it was high time we did something to protect ourselves, so that we could designate our own representatives or delegates.

Q. Well, was there any reason why she couldn't go down there, if she wanted to?

A. As far as she herself, personally, was concerned, but she had no authorization by the employees to represent the Donnelly Garment Workers.

Q. Did she say she represented the majority of them?

A. She said she was going as a delegate of the Donnelly Garment Workers, to the best of my recollection.

Q. Well, as far as you know, that might be true, [fol. 2591] mightn't it? She might have represented some of them, mightn't she?

A. She might have, but not to my knowledge.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. I will hand you Board's Exhibit 18, which purports to be the minutes of a meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union on May 25, 1937, and I will ask you—strike that. I will ask you, first, if you were present at a meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union on May 25, 1937?

A. I attended every meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union during the entire year of 1937.

Q. Did you see, at any time, a stenographer by the name of Elsa Graham, present name is now Greenhaw, take any minutes of meetings?

A. I did not.

Q. I will hand you Board's Exhibit 18, which purports to be the minutes of a meeting of May 25, 1937, of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and ask you if the minutes correctly state what took place at that meeting?

Mr. Langsdale: Didn't you go into that with him yesterday?

[fol. 2592] Mr. Ingraham: No, I didn't.

Trial Examiner Batten: No; Mr. Tyler did.

Mr. Ingraham: Did he?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, I just checked my notes.

Mr. Ingraham: Did he show him the exhibit?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, he did. He read the exhibit.

The Witness: I didn't read the exhibit through yesterday.

Trial Examiner Batten: You looked it over and—

Mr. Langsdale (interrupting): You spent enough time on it.

Trial Examiner Batten (continuing): And you testified that on no occasion, that a Donnelly Garment Workers' Union meeting was called by a Donnelly Loyalty League meeting, and the converse of that, that is, on no occasion was the Donnelly Loyalty League meeting ever held and a Donnelly Garment Workers' Union meeting held immediately thereafter, and that the minutes as shown by the Greenhaw testimony, that such meetings never occurred in which he was in attendance.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, I would like to have the witness read the minutes of the meeting very briefly. There are several matters I want to inquire about that are stated in the minutes.

(Whereupon, the minutes above referred to were [fol. 2593] handed by Mr. Ingraham to the witness for his reading of same.)

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mr. Atherton, I will ask you to state whether or not at any meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union you made the statement that is contained in Board's Exhibit 18, "There seems to be a little misunderstanding as to why the Loyalty League needs this money, and a little later on I will explain that to you. We are going to have this dance on June 11 at the Pla-More under the auspices of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. As you all know, there are a lot of people on the outside who are very friendly to us, and we have been advised that it would be a good thing to give something that those friends can attend and show their appreciation, and give their support to that which they feel they want to."

Now, at any union meeting, did you ever make any remarks of that character, referring to the Loyalty League?

A. I made no remarks at any union meeting referring to the Loyalty League.

Q. Did you make any of the remarks that are contained in this exhibit attributed to you?

A. Remarks concerning the dance that was to be given at the Pla-More by the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, I did make a statement similar to that at a union meeting.

Q. But you did not refer to a Loyalty League Dance?

A. I did not.

[fol. 2594] Q. Did you make the statement at the Loyalty League meeting which these minutes purport to cover, also, "So the Loyalty League had a meeting of representatives and were authorized by the representatives to retain legal counsel. We retained Mr. Tyler, as you all know. He came down here and talked to us. That debt, the bill of Mr. Tyler, is the only debt that the Loyalty League has not paid, and Mrs. Todd told you that isn't pressing. The bill amounts to approximately $500, as that is his retainer fee."

I won't read all of this with reference to that fee.

Did you make any such statement like that at any Loyalty League meeting?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you make any kind of a statement with reference to raising 25 cents a month at the Loyalty League meeting?

A. I did not.

[fol. 2595] There is mention made of a Sweepstakes or Derby in the meeting of the Loyalty League of May 25, 1937. Will you just state what is meant by the Sweepstakes?

A. The Nelly Don Athletic Association each year had a golf tournament, which ran for several months. At the end of the season, or in the fall, they had their final play-offs, and once or twice in the last several years they have had what they called a gold sweepstakes; that is, the Association, the Nelly Don Athletic Association, sold tickets which bore, each ticket, a name of a member of the Nelly Don Athletic Association, or that many tickets were numbered, according to the number of members of the Athletic Association, and if the ticket carried a number which corresponded to a number given a member of the Nelly Don Athletic Association the holder of that ticket was awarded a prize. If the number of that ticket corresponded to a member of the Nelly Don Athletic Association who was a player in the golf tournament, then for each match he would win, the holder of that ticket would win an additional prize. And that we called our golf sweepstakes or golf derby.

Q. Did that tournament take place in the fall of the year?

A. It did.

Q. Were arrangements ever made by anybody in the spring for that tournament?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. And the tournament and the activities were con-
[fol. 2596] ducted by the Athletic Association?

A. By the Nelly Don Athletic Association.

Q. Did you join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union of your own free will? A. I did.

Q. Does the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and its bargaining committee represent your free choice of representatives for the purpose of collective bargaining?

A. It does.

Q. Did any of the officers or executives of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or anyone representing the management, or anyone in a supervisory capacity, bring any pressure on you to influence you to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or to continue membership therein?

A. They did not.

Q. Was the violence and intimidation of the employees at the Gernes, Gordon, and Missouri Garment factories by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, and the threats they made against the Donnelly Company and its employees to do the same thing, one of the principal factors in causing you to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or to assist in its organization?

Mr. Leary: We object to that on the basis that it is immaterial.

[fol. 2597] Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Ingraham: In so far as you could observe, was the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union the free and voluntary action of the employees of said companies, without any coercion or influence on the part of the management?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as calling for a conclusion.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think he was one of the organizers. I think he is in a position to answer the question.

You may answer.

The Witness: May I hear the question again, please?

(Thereupon the last question was read by the reporter.)

A. It was.

Recross-Examination.

[fol. 2600] By Mr. Patten:

Q. Now, as to the meeting at which it was proposed that each employee contribute 50 cents, when, with reference to your visit to Mr. Tyler, was that meeting held? [fol. 2601] A. Within a few days following the meeting with Mr. Tyler.

Q. Was there ever a second meeting at which that matter was discussed and brought up?

A. A second meeting of the employees, you mean?

Q. Yes. A. Not to my recollection.

Q. Was the meeting held a few days after you were in Mr. Tyler's office for the first time a Loyalty League meeting? A. It was not.

Q. Do you remember attending a union meeting, a meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, on May 25, 1937?

A. If that was our regular meeting date for May, I do. I wouldn't otherwise, without—

Q. (Interrupting) Do you know of any union meeting in the year 1937 that was held during working hours?

A. I do not.

Q. If a meeting had been held on May 25, of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, would it have been convened at 3 o'clock or 3:45 in the afternoon?

A. It would not.

Q. If any meeting had been convened at that time would you recall it? A. I would.

[fol. 2602] Q. Mr. Atherton, I show you Board's Exhibit 8-21, 8-22 and 8-23, and ask you to state whether you were present at the meeting of which those are minutes.

Trial Examiner Batten: What date is that?

The Witness: May 25, 1937.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Do you remember that meeting now, Mr. Atherton?

A. I do.

Q. Was Marjorie Green present at that meeting?

A. She was.

Mr. Langsdale: I didn't get that last question.

Mr. Patten: Was Marjorie Green present at that meeting.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. What was Marjorie Green doing at that meeting?

A. Taking the minutes of the meeting.

Q. Where was she sitting?

A. She was sitting on the speakers' platform, or stage.

. . . . . .

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Do you remember who was present taking the minutes of every meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. During the year 1937.

[fol. 2603] Q. You do? A. Yes.

Q. Who was present taking the minutes of the meeting of April 27th?

A. Marjorie Green. However, that was not a union meeting.

Q. You are sure of that, are you? A. Absolutely.

Q. Now, there was a meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, according to the minutes furnished us by the intervener on May 11, 1937. Do you know who took the minutes at that meeting? A. May 11th?

Q. Yes. A. 1937?

Q. Yes. That is a meeting in between the April 27 meeting and the May 25 meeting.

A. Well, if there was a meeting held on the 11th of May, Marjorie Green took the minutes of it.

Q. You are sure of that?

A. She took the minutes of all meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union all the time I served on the committee.

Q. That is, she took the minutes of each and every meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union in 1937, did she? A. Until April, 1938.

Q. Every meeting?

[fol. 2604] A That is my recollection, yes. To the best of my recollection.

Q. You are positive of that, are you?

A. I said, to the best of my recollection.

Q. Well, you are just as positive of that as you are that she took the minutes of the meeting of May 25, aren't you?

Mr. Lane: That is objected to as being argumentative. He says to the best of his recollection, she took it.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Have you any better recollection or any reason for having a better recollection of who took the minutes of the meeting on May 25 than you have for knowing who took the minutes at any other meeting in 1937?

A. I have.

Q. Why?

A. At all regular meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, I also sat on the speakers' stage, and Miss Green sat within a few feet of me and took the minutes of the meeting.

Q. Well, that would apply to all regular meetings?

A. All regular meetings.

Q. And what about call meetings, other meetings?

A. I couldn't testify as to call meetings without knowing the dates and seeing the minutes of them, as to whether I was there or not. I would have to have something to [fol. 2605] refresh my memory.

Q. Now, you stated a moment ago that Miss Marjorie Green took the minutes of every meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union during the year that you served on the committee. Now, do you want to qualify that answer in any way?

A. I said, of all regular meetings.

Q. Is that what you meant to say, of all regular meetings?

A. That is what I meant to say.

Q. Who took the minutes of those meetings that were not regular meetings?

A. To the best of my recollection, Marjorie Green took them.

* * * * * *

NELLY STITES, a witness called by and on behalf of the Respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

[fol. 2606] By Mr. Stottle:

Q. State your name, please.

A. Mrs. Nellie Stites.

Q. Where are you employed?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. About 7 years.

Q. What is your work for that company?

A. I am an operator.

Q. What kind of operation do you do?

A. Well, I am a pinker and binder and I do straight sewing.

Q. During the entire 7 years have you been an operator? A. Yes, I have.

Q. Mrs. Stites, do you recall a meeting of the employees on March 18, 1937?

A. Well, I don't recall the exact date, but I know there was a meeting.

Q. I am referring to a meeting where it has been testified that Mrs. Reed or some one read a letter from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Does that recall to you the meeting? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mrs. Stites, was that meeting held during working hours of the company?

[fol. 2607] A. It was not. It was after we finished our work.

Q. I will ask you to state what you recall that occurred at that meeting, what the purpose of it was, what occurred.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle, I will permit this witness to testify, but I certainly don't intend to listen to any more witnesses of what occurred at the March 18th meeting, because thus far in the record, there is apparently no dispute. I mean, there is no use of going on with an unlimited number of witnesses telling about a meeting. So if there is any further witness to be offered on the March 18th meeting, it will have to be in the form of an offer of proof.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, of course, the respondent's position is that if that matter is controverted, we are entitled to show by any number of witnesses as to what did happen.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well,—

Mr. Stottle: (Interrupting) And we are willing to make an offer of proof as to this witness, or succeeding witnesses.

Trial Examiner Batten: I say, you may proceed with this witness, but I am telling you now that if you had in mind offering any further witnesses about this March 18th meeting, I don't propose to go into it.

Mr. Stottle: Well, in view of your Honor's ruling, we will make offers of proof as to other witnesses.

[fol. 2608] By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Mrs. Stites, did you heard it announced at that meeting by Mrs. Reed, or anyone else, that she or the management wanted the names of any persons that joined the International reported to her? A. No, sir.

Q. Was such a statement made?

A. Not that I heard.

Q. Did you hear Mrs. Reed make a statement in the speech she made there that she would never let the International into her plant? A. No, sir.

Q. Tell us, in substance, or tell the Examiner, in substance, what Mrs. Reed did say with regard to the International Union?

A. Well, she said that she wouldn't let any union force her to force her employees to join anything that they didn't want to join.

Q. Now, do you recall, Mrs. Stites, the meeting of April 27, 1937, by which meeting I refer to the one when the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was organized?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will ask you to state whether that meeting was held during working hours, or after working hours?

A. It was held after working hours.

Q. Were any of the executives or officers of the Don-[fol. 2609] nelly Garment Company present at the April 27th meeting? A. Not that I saw.

Q. What was the purpose of that meeting, Mrs. Stites, or what was done at the meeting; I will ask it that way.

A. What date?

Q. April 27th.

Mr. Leary: I object to that as cumulative.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, as far as the April 27th meeting is concerned, I don't think that I am in a position, at this time, to say that it is cumulative with respect to the April 27th meeting, because that was the meeting at which the union was organized. I think we will proceed with this witness.

A. Well, I remember all the meetings, but, of course, I don't remember the exact dates, as far as that.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. This was the meeting at which the union was organized. Do you remember Mr. Tyler being there?

A. Yes. That meeting was called for the purpose of organizing our union. Mr. Tyler had spoken to the employees and told them what we could do in the way of protection for ourselves, and he suggested the best thing for us to do was to form a union, if that was what we wanted to do.

Q. And was there a vote taken there as to whether you would form a union?

A. Well, I just don't remember.

Q. Well, were cards passed out among the members, [fol. 2610] among the employees?

A. Yes, sir, there was cards passed out for each employee to sign, if they wanted to.

Q. Did you sign one of the cards at that time?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. At that meeting, Mrs. [Stiles], did they elect officers for the union? A. I believe they did.

Q. Was there any announcement made at that meeting by Mr. Tyler or Miss Todd, or anyone else, that the management of the company wanted you to form this union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you sign the card joining the union of your own free will, Mrs. Stites? A. I did.

Q. Does that union, the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and its bargaining committee represent your free choice in that matter?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Stottle: What was the ruling, Mr. Examiner?

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Stottle: Well, Mr. Examiner, we are charged with preventing the employees from exercising their free will in the choice of bargaining representatives. That is one [fol. 2611] of these three complaints or charges in the complaint, and we submit that one of the best ways of finding out whether a person did a thing of their own free will is to ask that person whether they did, and it is our purpose to ask this witness, and as many other witnesses—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Well, I don't think that is any indication, to put these witnesses up on the stand in a hearing of this kind, in a "C" case, in front of all the other employees and representatives of the company, and ask them, "Is this your free choice?" I mean it may possibly have some remote bearing, but I don't think it has sufficient that we should spend the time necessary to listen to 1300 employees get on the witness stand and testify to that point.

Now, if that is your idea, you may make an offer of testimony with respect to these 1305 employees, or whatever it is, but certainly, we are not going to determine that in this hearing on that basis, at least.

Mr. Tyler: Could I ask you if the Examiner holds that there is any presumption that these people are being dominated by somebody in the court room in this matter, or any presumption that they would commit perjury?

Trial Examiner Batten: I didn't even intimate such a thing.

Mr. Tyler: I understood you to say that their testi- [fol. 2612] mony, as to what they wished, would be either of no value or extremely little value.

Trial Examiner Batten: I didn't say any such thing, I don't think.

Mr. Tyler: I misunderstood you, then.

Trial Examiner Batten: The record will state what I said in my remarks.

Mr. Stottle: Well, Mr. Examiner, don't you think we should have the testimony of this witness with the persons that you have referred to excluded from the court room?

Trial Examiner Batten: No, I don't think it is of any value in the issues in this case, to parade these people on the stand. Now, if that is your idea, you may make as complete an offer as you care to with respect to that matter.

Mr. Stottle: Well, I will ask another further question.

Mr. Stottle: Mrs. Stites, had you heard of the strikes and disturbances down at the Gordon and Gernes plants at about that time in March and April, 1937?

Mr. Leary: I object to that for the reason that it is immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Stottle: Well, Mr. Examiner, we want to go into that matter to show that it did affect the employees and that that was one of the reasons why they formed this union, as tending to show that it was not due to the domi- [tol. 2613] nation of the Donnelly Garment Company.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think, Mr. Stottle, that I don't need to make any statement with respect to that ruling, because I have indicated on several occasions in this hearing just what my position is about that matter. You may make such offer as in your opinion is necessary to protect the interests of your client.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Well, Mrs. Stites, did you see an article in the Newspaper of April 22, 1937, regarding Sylvia Hull having been chosen to represent the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company at the convention of the International Union? A. I did.

Q. What effect, [Mr.] Stites, did that have on you and other employees, so far as you observed at the Donnelly Garment Company plant, so far as forming this union is concerned?

• • • • • •

[fol. 2614] A. Well, when the article was read, naturally, we were all very much surprised that one person would take it upon themselves to say that they were going to represent us at Atlantic City in a union that we didn't even belong to or we hadn't any association with.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Was that one of the factors that caused you and the other employees to form this Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. Yes, sir. We decided that if some one was going to represent us, why, we would choose our own representatives.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Now, who do you mean "we"?

A. Well, myself and the workers that I worked with. The people that we associate with daily.

Q. You mean the girls that you talked to; is that what you mean? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In your section?

A. Well, my section, the cafeteria, wherever I happened to be at different times. It was just a general discussion all over the plant.

[fol. 2615] Q. It was the talk of the town, wasn't it, the next day? A. That is right.

Q. During the working hours and at noon and after work and before, wasn't it?

A. Well, I wouldn't say during working hours, because we make quite a bit of noise up there and we can't hear very well talking.

Q. You mean, then, there was no talk during working hours about it?

A. I wouldn't say that.

Mr. Tyler: Mrs. Stites, so far as you could observe, was the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union at this meeting of April 27th, the voluntary action of the employees? A. It was.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, as to the two matters which you have excluded this witness from testifying to, respondent desires to make this offer of proof:

Respondent offers to prove by this witness that if permitted to answer appropriate questions, she would testify that at or prior to the time of the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union on April 27, 1937, there was no coercion, intimidation, pressure or suggestion of any kind, directly or indirectly, brought to bear upon her by the management of the Donnelly Garment Company [fol. 2616] or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company through any of its officers, executives or supervisory officials, or anyone representing the management, to cause or influence her, or which did cause or influence her to join or support the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, now, that is with respect to what ruling? The one on the meeting of March 18th?

Mr. Stottle: No, as with respect to the ruling that she joined this of her own free will, if your Honor will permit her to testify that she did, and other witnesses to testify on the question of whether she did join of her own free will, of course, we would prefer to call the witnesses.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, what do you mean, reverse my ruling? Is that what you mean?

Mr. Stottle: Well, I thought you were intimating that I was making a different offer of proof.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I do think it is different than even my ruling. You say to this witness "You join of your own free will." Now, your offer is to show that the respondent in no way coerced or intimidated this witness. I don't think that is quite the same thing, do you?

Mr. Stottle: Well, I will ask the question.

Trial Examiner Batten: I say, do you think it is the same?

Mr. Stottle: I do think so. If she joined of her own [fol. 2617] free will, I don't think she was coerced by the Donnelly Garment Company.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, of course, if you think it is the same thing, and that is what you mean by what you just said, then I will reject the offer.

Mr. Stottle: Well, I would rather ask the question and have your Honor rule it out or let it in.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't care to pass upon it. If you think it is the same thing, I will reject that part of the offer.

Mr. Stottle: Well, Mrs. Stites, I will ask you whether at the time of the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, on April 27th, or prior thereto, there was any coercion, intimidation, pressure or suggestion of any kind, directly or indirectly, brought to bear upon you by the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company through any of its officers, executives, or anyone representing the management, to cause or influence you, or which did cause or influence you to join or support the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. None.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, now, just a moment. The answer may be stricken.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. You just tell me now just what the question means, beginning at the beginning of Mr. Stottle's question. Do [fol. 2618] you remember the first part of the question?

A. Well, my idea—

Q. (Interrupting): Well, I mean, now, tell me, do you remember the first part of the question?

A. Well, no, I don't.

Trial Examiner Batten: Will you read the question, please, Mr. Reporter.

* * * * * *

Trial Examiner Batten: Now, you understand it now, do you?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Now, do you recall one part in there that said "pressure either directly or indirectly"?

[fol. 2619] A. Yes.

Q. Now, tell me what that means.

A. Well, my idea of that would be, if you were told to join the union and if you didn't join it certain things would happen to you. That is the way I would define it.

Q. That is your definition of it?

A. Well, that is.

Q. I mean, that is what it means to you?
A. That is what it would mean to me.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you may answer.
A. Well, I can only answer it one way. There was none.

By Mr. Stottle:
Q. Did you hear or know of any such coercion or pressure or influence or suggestion by the officers of the company brought to bear upon any other employee of the Donnelly Garment Company to cause them to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?
A. I did not.
[fol. 2620] Q. Was there any threat made to you by the management or anyone representing the management that if you didn't join this Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or organize a plant union of your own that you might lose your job, or make membership in that union a condition of employment?
A. No.

Trial Examiner Batten: Did you finish your offer, Mr. Stottle?

Mr. Stottle: Well, if your Honor is going to let her testify on these matters, I think I need not make it.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I am not. I ruled it out, and it is still out. I have no intention of changing my ruling whatsoever.

Mr. Stottle: May I inquire, Mr. Examiner, if we will be permitted to ask other witnesses, employees down there, whether they were dominated, as we have of this witness, by the officers of the Donnelly Garment Company?

Trial Examiner Batten: Let me ask you: Isn't it possible that 1,200 employees might come in here and testify honestly that they were not coerced, and you might have two that would come in and say they were, if the 1,200 said No, and the two said Yes, the 1,200 wouldn't prove that the two were wrong, would they? In other words, you might have 1,200 that were not, and you might have two that were? Isn't that true?

[fol. 2621] Mr. Stottle: It is possible.

Trial Examiner Batten: The 1,200 that were not would not disprove that the two were; isn't that correct?

Mr. Stottle: I think in that case the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union would still be the overwhelming choice of the majority.

Trial Examiner Batten: I am talking now about the question of coercion. You might have one who was coerced, and you might have every other employee who was not. That would not prove that the one was not coerced, would it?

Mr. Stottle: But, as Mr. Tyler said, it would disprove, in my mind at least, that the Donnelly Garment Company coerced the formation of the union.

Trial Examiner Batten: It is not a question of whether they coerced the formation of it. It is a question of whether they sponsored it or dominated it.

Mr. Tyler: Intervener wishes to suggest in that case there would be no basis laid for a decision that it was dissolving, displacing, or in any way interfering with the rights of this union.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Tyler, let me ask you: Isn't it possible to have 95 percent of the employees in a company voluntarily join a union of their own free will, absolutely, and yet have it sponsored or assisted by a company?

[fol. 2622] Mr. Tyler: I think that is conceivable, although it would be so exceedingly improbable it would be very improbable that any such finding could be made in that case that the rights of 95 percent to their own union and their own contract could be dissolved, under the law, because some one or two or more had been coerced.

Trial Examiner Batten: I am not talking about coercion. I say, isn't it possible for a company to form a so-called company union and support it, and yet have 95 percent of the employees join it of their own free will without any coercion on the part of the company.

Mr. Tyler: I think that is theoretically possible, but in a situation where the union has continued to operate for a period of over two years, and where no substantial testimony of any kind is offered by the persons upon whom the burden of proving that devolves, after two years for gathering it, and unlimited funds for gathering it, I submit no possible basis for that kind of a decision has been laid in this case.

Trial Examiner Batten: I am not ruling on this case, I am just asking you, isn't that possible?

Mr. Tyler: I think, theoretically, that is possible.

Trial Examiner Batten: And there is one further question I would like to ask in connection with your remark. I don't know whether you meant to imply it or not, but is it your thought that if, an independent union having been [fol. 2623] formed by a company or assisted by a company —admitting that to be true in the beginning—is it your idea that over a period of time that independent organization can purge itself of the control or the domination which it started out with?

Mr. Tyler: I will be glad to answer your Honor's question. Let me begin by making it clear, I do not for one moment admit there was any fault or domination in the formation of this union—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): You do not need to answer it at all if you were not implying that in your answer to my former question.

Mr. Tyler: I want to answer it. I don't think there is any evidence in this case of domination of this union, or formation of it, by the company. But, if that had been true, I still believe the law to be—if that had been true and, nevertheless, at the present time the union actually represents the free will choice of the members, what Your Honor calls purging would have taken place and the employees would have the right to continue to operate that union and bargain for it. I believe that to be the law.

* * * * * *

Mr. Stottle: Respondent offers to prove by this witness, if permitted to answer the appropriate questions, that on April 27, 1937, she joined the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union of her own free will and accord, uninfluenced by the [fol. 2624] management of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or any of its officers, executives, or anyone representing its management in any way; that since such time she has continued to belong to and support said union of her own free will and accord, uninfluenced by the management in any way; that she voted for and chose the executive or bargaining committee and succeeding committees of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, in the meeting of April 27? Of course at that meeting she says she doesn't recall that she voted for any, as I recall the testimony.

Mr. Stottle: Mrs. Stites, did you at any time ever vote for a bargaining committee?

Mr. Langsdale: Just a moment. I object to that as immaterial and repetitious. She did testify she didn't recall the meeting of April 27. Now, are you talking about some time later?

Trial Examiner Batten: Oh, no. She recalled the meeting very definitely.

Mr. Patten: Her testimony was, she didn't recall whether they voted to form a union.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, that is right, Mr. Patten.

You may proceed, Mr. Stottle.

Mr. Stottle: Did you vote for the bargaining committee that was chosen by the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, [fol. 2625] and does it represent your free choice of bargaining representatives?

A. I did vote for it.

Trial Examiner Batten: Who was on the committee you voted for?

A. Well, I don't believe I could remember right now the different ones. I do remember we voted Rose Todd as the chairman, and, I believe, Mr. Fred Brown and Mrs. Riggs. I don't believe I recall the other names.

Mr. Stottle: Whatever their names were, Mrs. Stites, the committee did represent your desire and choice as a bargaining committee of the union?

A. Oh, yes, sir.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent further continues the offer of proof by this witness that the choice of the bargaining committee by her was of her own free will and accord, uninfluenced by the management or any of the officers of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company in any way; and makes the same offer of proof by this witness as to each succeeding bargaining committee or executive committee elected by the union, namely—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): Mr. Stottle, it seems to me you are going entirely outside of the matter which I suggested I wouldn't permit testimony on.

I am going to adjourn now and ask you to prepare your [fol. 2626] offer in writing so that I may read it over and give it some thought, because I don't see that the offer of proof you are now making conforms at all to the question which I permitted her to answer. I want you to put it in writing so that I may read it and give it some thought.

* * * * * * *

And if you will put in a short offer in writing on the March 18 meeting that I sustained an objection to—

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2627] By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Mrs. Stites, are you a member of the Loyalty League?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you join it at the time of its formation, or when?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Are the Loyalty League and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union both the same organization?

A. They are entirely separate.

Q. What is the nature of the Loyalty League as to what it does, its activities?

A. It is purely a social affair.

Q. Did you gain the impression, Mrs. Stites, from anything that happened at the April 27th meeting, when the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed, or from any other source, that the Donnelly Garment Workers'

Union was just a continuation or a successor to the Loyalty League?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you attend any meetings of the Donnelly Gar-[fol. 2628] ment Workers' Union after the organization meeting of April 27, 1937?

. . . . . .

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Did you see or observe any participation by the officers of the company, or any of the executives of the company, in any of those meetings?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Was Mrs. Reed or Mrs. Reeves, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Green, or Mr. Baty present at any of those Donnelly Garment Workers' Union meetings that you attended?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Do you know of any of those officials, or any other supervisory official of the company ever participating in the affairs of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or giving any advice as to how they should conduct the union? A. No.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, I have prepared, rather hurriedly, an offer of proof now on the points that I deem Your Honor ruled out. This relates only to two things; one, the question of her free will in joining the union, and [fol. 2629] the domination by the company. I cannot distinguish between the two matters.

It seems to me that if she exercised her free will, she was not dominated by the company, and if she was dominated by the company she did not exercise her free will.

This offer of proof, which covers about four and a half pages, covers those two phases; but I deem them one phase, although they are separate charges in the complaint.

Trial Examiner Batten: You did not cover the matter of the March 18 meeting, then?

Mr. Stottle: No, because you permitted her to testify to that. I did, in this same offer of proof, cover the matter of strikes, and so forth, at the Gernes plant, which you excluded.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2631] Trial Examiner Batten: I think you had better proceed with this witness. I will permit the questions and answers, and then I will pass upon any further witnesses.

You may just proceed with this witness.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2632] By Mr. Stottle: Mrs. Stites, I will ask you if on April 27 you joined the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union of your own free will and accord, uninfluenced by the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or by any officer, executive, or supervisory employee thereof, or by anyone representing the management of said companies? A. I did.

. . . . . .

Mr. Stottle: Mrs. Stites, I will ask you if since that [fol. 2633] time, since April 27, 1937, you have continued to belong to and support the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union of your own free will and accord, uninfluenced by the management of said companies or anyone representing the management of said companies?

A. I have.

Q. Mrs. Stites, I will ask you if the executives or the bargaining committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, which was chosen at or about the time of the formation of the union, on April 27, 1937, and each of the bargaining committees which has been chosen since that time represents the free choice—represents your free choice as a bargaining committee to represent you in all matters relating to collective bargaining and working conditions, wages, hours, and so forth, at the Donnelly plant.

A. It does.

Q. And that choice was made of your own free will and accord, and not influenced by the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or anyone representing the management of said companies? A. It was.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2635] Q. Mrs. Stites, I will ask you to state whether or not prior to the time of the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union on April 27, 1937, there was any coercion, intimidation, pressure or suggestion of any kind, directly or indirectly, brought to bear upon you by the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, any of its officers, executives or supervisory officers, or anyone representing the management, to cause or influence you, or which did cause or influence you to join or support the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or interfere in any way with the exercise by you of your own free will in determining whether you should join, or support that union?

A. There was not.

Q. Since the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, has there ever been any threat, intimidation, coercion or suggestion given to you, or received by you, directly or indirectly, from the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or anyone representing the management of either of said companies that you must or should continue to support and belong to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, or that you should refrain from joining the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or in any way interfering or attempting to interfere with your own free will in determining whether you should or should not con-[fol. 2636] tinue membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers Union or refrain from joining or supporting the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir, there was not.

Q. I will ask you, Mrs. Stites, whether you know of or have ever heard of any such coercion, intimidation, pressure or suggestion being brought to bear by the management of those companies on anyone representing the management, upon any other employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, to cause or influence them to join or continue membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, or interfering in any way with the exercise of their own free will and choice in regard to such matters?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you mingled and talked with a great many of the employees at various times regarding the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I have.

Q. And you have never heard any intimidation that any of those employees that you have talked with or from anything that they have said that they were influenced by the management in that regard? A. I never have.

Q. I will ask you whether there has ever been any threat or suggestion made to you, directly or indirectly, [fol. 2637] by the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company or by anyone representing the management, that if you or the other employees did not organize, join or support the plant union, that you or the other employees would or might lose your jobs or positions or indicating to you in any way that membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was a [dondition] of employment at the Donnelly plant, or interfering in any way with the exercise by you of your own free choice and will with regard to said matters? A. No, sir.

Q. I will ask you whether you have ever received any communication, oral or otherwise, from any officer, executive or supervisory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or anyone representing the management of said companies which has caused you to think or feel that the management of those companies was placing any restriction on your rights or desires or freedom, or on the rights, desires or freedom of any other employees, as to what union they should join, or whether they should join or not join any union? A. I have not.

Q. Mrs. Stites, I will ask you to state whether you knew or heard of strikes—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Now, Mr. Stot- [fol. 2638] tle,—that finishes that offer?

Mr. Stottle: That finishes that part of it.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I don't think it is at all necessary for her to answer any questions about the strikes and trouble in the other plant, because that, if you have an offer ready on that, I can pass on that one now.

Mr. Stottle: Well, it is the last page of what I have given you.

Trial Examiner Batten: It is all in one, is it?

Mr. Stottle: I put it all together as an offer of proof by this witness.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I will take the matter of the offer of proof under advisement, and unless you are notified otherwise, it is unnecessary to produce any further witnesses on those matters.

Now, as to the last page, which is page 5, of the offer of proof on the Gernes and Gordon factories, and that other matter, that offer, as in accordance with my rulings, several rulings during the hearing, is refused.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, it so happens that this witness is on the stand when we make this offer of proof, but as to other witnesses, of course, it would hardly seem that we should be made to bring them up here and have them sworn as preliminary to making the offer of proof.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, Mr. Stottle, I talked [fol. 3639] with Mr. Ingraham about that, that is, not in connection with this particular question, but whether it would be necessary on some of these matters to have the witnesses here, and I told Mr. Ingraham that I thought it advisable to put on at least one, in some cases, perhaps two or three, but it would not be necessary to have them all here in court. So I am assuming that this is one of the matters where you had intended to bring in a large number of witnesses.

Mr. Stottle: That is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: Who would be asked the same questions and it isn't necessary for you to produce them here.

Mr. Stottle: Well, we will prepare offers of proof on these two points, then, the strike situation, and the domination, and free will situation, as to other witnesses without actually producing the witnesses.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you can put it on the basis of each individual or you can put it on the basis of an offer of proof which a certain list of witnesses would testify to so that you don't have to make individual offers.

Mr. Stottle: That is all, Mrs. Stites.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is, unless you are notified tomorrow that I will receive the testimony, and in that case, of course, you can produce the witnesses.

Mr. Tyler.

Cross-Examination.

[fol. 2640] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mrs. Stites, have you ever been a member of the committee of chairmen of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever have a complaint about the rates of piece work pay on underarm work or some work that you were doing at the factory. A. I have.

Q. What did you do about that complaint?

A. Well, I went to Miss Rose Todd about it.

Q. What was the complaint? What was the nature of it?

A. Well, it is a certain operation we have of pinking sleeves in, and it was a very difficult sleeve to put in—

Mr. Langsdale (interrupting): Can you fix the date on that?

Mr. Tyler: I will ask her in a minute.

A. (Continuing) And we felt like that it was worth more money than we had been getting, so we took the matter up with Rose Todd.

Mr. Tyler: Give me about the date you took it up with Miss Todd. Was it [cinse] the formation of the union?

A. Yes, sir.

• • • • • •

A. Well, I believe it was some time in January.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. What year? A. 1939.

Q. The present year? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was done about that complaint?

A. Well, we explained to her what the complaint was, and she said that she would investigate it, and so we got the price that we asked for.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Was that complaint made on behalf of yourself alone, or on behalf of yourself and others?

A. On behalf of myself and others.

Q. Can you name any of the others at this time?

A. Well, I believe Mrs. Irene Rush was with me when we talked about it.

[fol. 2642] Q. Do you attend the meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union when they are held?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. Do the employees generally attend them as fully now as they did in 1937, or not? A. Yes, they do.

Q. Did you ever see the employees come down to those meetings, the women employees, after working hours, still wearing their work aprons? A. Many times.

Q. What is their customary procedure when they do that?

A. Well, it is much easier to get down to the meeting with your apron on and dress afterwards. We can save more time.

Q. Can you give me your best estimate as to what per cent of the women come in still wearing their work aprons at those meetings?

A. Well, I would be—at least 80 per cent of them.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2646] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Now, Mrs. Stites, confining yourself to the times after the union was organized, do you know of any meetings of the union at which the employees stood up?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Now, you have referred to a meeting prior to the organization of the union at which they did stand up.

A. That was a meeting of the employees only. That was before the union was formed.

Q. Now, will you tell what happened at that meeting?

A. Well, the meeting was called. Miss Todd had told us that her and Mr. Atherton, and I believe Sally Ormsby, went to see attorneys about what protection we could have against these threats that had been made to us, and she told us that we had to have a retainer fee of $500, and she asked us what we wanted to do about it, and what suggestions we could offer as to how to raise the money. One suggestion was made that we have a dance, as we had had before, and some one made a motion that we all give 50 cents apiece, and that motion was carried.

[fol. 2647] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. What was the date of that meeting, as near as you can remember?

A. I believe it was the latter part of March.

Q. What year? A. 1937.

Q. Do you know whether the employees did raise money in the form suggested by the motion or not?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. How do you know that?

A. Well, part of it was paid at the meeting, and part of it was collected by different girls. Some of it was right away, and others waited until their pay day to pay it.

Q. Do you know whether the employees raised money in any other way except this collection of 50 cents apiece?

A. That is all I know of.

Q. Did you ever know of a meeting of the union, Mrs. Stites, to be followed immediately, in the same room, by the same people, by a meeting of the Loyalty League?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever know of a meeting of the Loyalty League to be followed immediately, in the same room by the same people, by a meeting of the union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you attend all of the union meetings in the year 1937?

[fol. 2648] A. To the best of my recollection, I have.

Q. Did you ever hear any employee down at the plant complain, either secretly or otherwise, that he or she was being coerced into joining the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Are you or are you not at the present time satisfied with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union as your bargaining representative? A. I am satisfied.

Q. Did you have knowledge of the disturbances down at the Gordon, Gernes, and Missouri Plants in the spring of 1937? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. What was the effect on the Donnelly Garment Company employees of these disturbances at the Gordon, Gernes and Missouri plants in the spring of 1937?

. . . . . .

[fol. 2649] A. We had been reading all of these articles in the paper about the strikes over there—

. . . . . .

A. (Continuing) —and we had talked to a lot of the girls, and a lot of them had been talked to by people who worked over at these other plants, and of course we were told that they were coming over to our plant—the expression they used was "to get us next." And there was quite a bit of fighting over there, and tearing of clothes off. [fol. 2650] Naturally, we felt we needed some protection of some kind.

Mr. Langsdale. I ask that all of that part of the answer about what had been going on over there be stricken out as not responsive to the question.

Trial Examiner Batten. It may be stricken.

Trial Examiner Batten: Did anybody threaten you, personally?

A. No.

Q. Did anybody ever threaten to beat you up? A. No.

Q. So, all you know, then, is what you read in the papers and heard somebody else say; is that it?

A. I talked to girls who had worked over at the Missouri and Gordon garment factories—

Q. (Interrupting) I say, all you know is what somebody told you, then? A. That is right.

Mr. Tyler: You talked to people who told you they had met with violence at the Gordon and Gernes plants?

Trial Examiner Batten. Now, I think I have indicated all through this hearing that I am not going into those matters, Mr. Tyler.

Mr. Tyler. Then, intervener joins in the same offer of proof on this matter just offered by the respondent.

Trial Examiner Batten. You mean page 5, Mr. Tyler? [fol. 2651] That is the page that applies to this matter.

Mr. Tyler. Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten. With reference to the offer on page 5, it will be refused.

Mr. Tyler. And also, repeat the offer of proof which intervener made on the same subject heretofore.

Trial Examiner Batten. The offer is refused. In order to identify that, the respondent's offer of proof has been marked 1-JJJJ, and you are now referring to the fifth page of that?

Mr. Tyler. Yes, sir.

(Thereupon the offer of proof above referred to was marked "Board's Exhibit No. 1-JJJJ.")

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mrs. Stites, did any officer of the company, or representative of officers of the company, tell you about these things you have said you heard about, or did you hear them from other people?

Mr. Langsdale. I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten. Objection sustained.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2652] Trial Examiner Batten. Mr. Tyler, did you intend by your questions to cover the same matters Mr. Stottle did with respect to his offer of proof, pages 1 to 4? I don't think you did.

Mr. Tyler. I will join in the same offer of proof the respondent made, pages 1 to 4, as well as 5.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2653] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Were you employed at the plant continuously through the year 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you attend all meetings of all employees of a general nature held that year?

A. To the best of my knowledge, I did.

Q. What was the first one you attended that year? I will include the Athletic Association, the Loyalty League, and so forth.

A. We had a Loyalty League meeting—I can't tell exactly the date—that year.

Q. What is your best judgment as to the date?

A. I can't say.

Q. You have some judgment about it, don't you?

A. Not as to that date, no.

Q. You know nothing at all about it?

A. I don't remember anything at all about the date. I know we did have a meeting.

Q. Was that the first meeting of the employees that year that you attended? A. I wouldn't say.

Q. Do you remember specifically the first meeting you attended? A. No, I don't.

Q. No incident is outstanding in your mind now that [fol. 2654] would tend to identify that meeting for you?

A. Well, I do know we had a meeting in April, 1937.

Q. What date was that?

A. The first—we had a meeting of employees in March, the 18th.

Q. I want the date of this Loyalty League meeting in April.

A. I can't remember the date of the Loyalty League meeting. I know we had a meeting, but I don't remember the date.

Q. What was the approximate date in April?

A. I don't know.

Q. Who presided at the meeting?

A. I believe a Mrs. Gray did, as well as I can remember it.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Who was that?

A. Mrs. Gray.

Q. Presided, you say?

A. Yes.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Where did this meeting take place?

A. I believe that meeting was on the third floor.

Q. Where on the third floor?

A. Well, it was just an open space there then. There was nobody using that part of the building.

Q. The third floor, you say?

A. It was either the third floor or the second floor. I wouldn't be positive about that.

Q. What is your best judgment?

[fol. 2655] A. I am not positive.

Q. I am not asking you to be positive. What is your best judgment?

A. I wouldn't say.

Q. You haven't any judgment?

A. Not concerning that.

Q. What was the subject of that meeting?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You have no idea at all?

A. No.

Q. How do you place that meeting as having taken place in April, 1937?

A. I wouldn't say that the meeting took place in April.

Q. It might have been March?

A. I know we had a Loyalty League meeting in 1937.

Q. Might it have been in March?

A. No, sir, I can't say.

Q. Might it have been in May?

A. It might have been any time. I don't remember.

Q. Why did you answer that it was in April?

Mr. Ingraham: She didn't answer that it was in April.

Mr. Leary: She did.

Trial Examiner Batten: Just a minute. She said she thought it was in April.

Mr. Ingraham: I understood her to say there was a [fol. 2656] meeting of employees in April, and then she said, "I don't know when the Loyalty League meeting was."

Trial Examiner Batten. She said the employees' meeting was in March. I think that is what she said. Irrespective of what she said, go ahead, Mr. Leary.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. At this meeting you are talking about where Mrs. Gray presided, who called that meeting?

A. I don't know.

Q. Was it a Loyalty League meeting?

A. It was.

Q. Is it your testimony, or was it your testimony that it was held in April?

A. It was not.

Q. What is your testimony now as to the time the meeting was held?

A. I don't remember when the meeting was held. All I remember, I know we had a Loyalty League meeting. We have had several.

Q. How do you know that? What places it in your mind?

A. I can't answer that.

Q. Now that you have been thinking about it, do you believe you could tell when the first meeting was you went to with all of the other employees of the company in the year 1937?

A. I wouldn't say which was the first meeting in 1937.

Q. How many meetings of employees did you attend in 1937?

A. I expect I attended several.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2658] Q. Will you name the dates of the eight meetings, or thereabouts, that you attended in 1937?

A. Well, we had a meeting around, I would say, the middle of March, one the latter part of March, and we had one in April, and our regular union meetings after that were on the first Tuesday in every month.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2659] By Mr. Leary:

Q. How many meetings did you attend in 1937 where Rose Todd presided?

A. Oh, I would say five or six.

Q. What was the date of the first one?

A. I believe it was in March.

Q. What date?

A. Somewhere around the middle of March.

Q. The 13th?

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2660] By Mr. Leary:

Q. How did you establish the date of the meeting which you say took place some few days after March 27?

A. I don't understand that question.

Q. Is it your testimony that a meeting did take place some few days after March 27? And, by the word "few" I mean within three to six or seven days.

A. I don't remember saying that.

Q. Is it your testimony now that no such meeting took place?

[fol. 2661] A. I wouldn't say that.

Q. I am referring to the year 1937. You understand that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you say, then, that from March 27 on for the next six to ten days there were no meetings?

A. I didn't say that.

Q. What do you say?

A. I don't understand your question, what you want me to answer.

Q. What do you say as to whether or not there was a meeting held from the 25th of March on?

A. After our union was formed we had a meeting the first Tuesday in every month. That is as near as I can give you the date.

Q. What do you say as to whether or not there were any meetings of employees, including the Nelly Don Athletic Association, the Loyalty League, the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and so forth, from March 25 on? Name the first one.

A. From March 25, did you say?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, the latter part of March the employees had a meeting.

Q. How do you establish that meeting as having taken place in the latter part of March?

A. How?

[fol. 2662] Q. Yes.

A. Well, for the reason that all of this trouble was going on about the strike. We had been reading a lot about it, and we were concerned about our own welfare, and the meeting was called to see what could be done about it.

Q. How do you fix that as being in the month of March?

A. Because all of this trouble was taking place in the month of March.

Q. Did you attend any meetings the first week in April?

A. I might have. I don't remember the date.

Q. Did you attend any the second week of April?

A. I don't remember the date.

Q. Did you attend any in the third week of April?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. Did you attend any the fourth week of April?

Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, the witness has testified—

Mr. Leary (Interrupting). Just a minute. He is going to put the answer in her mouth this time.

Trial Examiner Batten: She may answer as to whether she attended a meeting on certain dates. When your turn comes you may clarify anything about that, Mr. Ingraham.

Mr. Ingraham: I think it is an unfair examination.

Trial Examiner Batten: What is unfair about it?

Mr. Leary: I submit, Mr. Examiner—

Trial Examiner Batten: Just a minute.

[fol. 2663] Mr. Ingraham: The witness has stated when she attended a meeting the latter part of April, and now counsel—

Mr. Langsdale (Interrupting): And I say that is the worst kind of suggestion.

Trial Examiner Batten: She testified she attended a meeting on April 27, which would be the fourth week of April.

Mr. Ingraham: So, now, counsel says, the first week, the third, or the fourth week—

Trial Examiner Batten: Of course there is no point now in having the witness answer the question.

Mr. Leary: No. The entire effect of it is lost.

Mr. Ingraham: I do not think that kind of examination is good.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't see any objection to her saying when she attended the meetings.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2664] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Who took the minutes of this meeting you attended late in April?

A. Marjorie Green.

Q. You are sure of that now?

A. Well, she was sitting on the platform in front of all of us.

Q. Writing down in a stenographer's notebook?

A. Yes, sir.

• • • • • •

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mrs. Stites, are you married?

A. Yes, I am.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2665] Q. Who employed you, Mrs. Stites?

A. Mrs. Hyde.

Q. Ella Mae Hyde, who sits back here?

A. Yes, sir.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2666] Q. Were you at the organization meeting of the Loyalty League?

A. Yes, sir.

• • • • • •

A. Well, I don't remember the year.

Q. Mrs. Cray presided at that meeting, the organization meeting?

A. I believe so.

• • • • • •

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Where was that meeting had, if you recall?

A. Well, it was either on the second or third floor. I wouldn't be sure.

Q. Of the plant where the Donnelly Garment Company [fol. 2667] did business?

A. Well, that was a vacant floor at the time.

Q. I know, but in the same building? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did you hear the constitution read at that meeting of the Loyalty League? A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. Well, let me call your attention to Board's Exhibit 2, which is an issue of the "N.D.A.A."—I think that is the Nelly Don Athletic Association,—February 13, 1935, and call your attention to this paragraph where I have my thumb (indicating). It says "Cards were passed out and 900 joined." Do you remember that event, that cards were passed out to 900 employees, and all but 11 were signed and returned? Do you remember that happening?

A. I do.

Q. And "Because of the overwhelming response, a constitution was drafted and a mass meeting called for February 8." Do you remember that?

A. I don't remember about the constitution.

Q. Well, you say there was or wasn't one drafted?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. It says "Mrs. Gray opened the meeting with an account of what had been done and will be done. She displayed a drawing of a tentative pin and explained [fol. 2668] the meaning of the word 'Loyalty'."

Do you remember that? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 2668] Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, the respondent has objected to questions concerning the Loyalty League, and all matters that took place prior to the Wagner Act. It is understood we have a continuing objection to these questions?

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, what was your understanding the other day?

Mr. Stottle: I thought we did have as to the Loyalty League matters.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think the record will show.

Mr. Lane: The intervener has not made an objection to this specifically, for the reason that we assumed we had an objection to questions along that line.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I presume the record will show.

Mr. Lane: That is why we have not made a specific objection.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2670] Q. Do you know whoever had been the Loyalty League representative in your department?

A. Well, yes.

Q. Who was the Loyalty League representative in 1937, at the time of this March 18th meeting?

A. I believe the one in our section, I believe it was Mrs. Martha Armstrong.

Q. Armstrong or Ormsby? A. Armstrong.

Q. She was your representative at the time of this March 18th meeting, in 1937, was she?

A. Well, I couldn't say.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2671] Q. Now, Miss Todd presided at the meeting of March 18, 1937, did she not? A. I believe she did.

[fol. 2672] Q. And she was president of the Loyalty League then, Miss Todd was?

A. I believe she was.

Q. Do you remember who your instructor was on April 27, 1937?

A. I believe it was Ada Vining.

Q. That is, April 27, 1937?

A. Now, I wouldn't be positive about that, because we had a change along there some time or other.

Q. Well, was Ada Vining present at the meeting of April 27, 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is when the union was formed. That is the date of the formation of the union, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, what other instructor did you have about that time besides Ada Vining? A. Mrs. Lola Skeens.

Q. And was she present at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember that your instructor said "Now, we girls will all stay together and go to the meeting together", the April 27th meeting?

A. No, I don't remember anything like that.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2675] Lynn Davis, a witness called by and on behalf of the Respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. State your name, please. A Lynn Davis.

Q. Where are you employed?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed by the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Ten years.

Q. In what capacity are you employed there?

A. I am an operator.

Q. Have you been an operator during this entire period? A. Yes, I have.

Q. What type of operation do you do?

A. I am a binder and I do some straight sewing.

Q. Did you attend a meeting of employees on March 18, 1937? A. I did.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, you indicated to me that you didn't want us to continue with that line of testimony.

[fol. 2676] Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, I think unless some testimony appears later in the proceedings with respect to the March 18th meeting, I see no need of continuing to have these people testify about that meeting.

Mr. Stottle: Well, I will ask the question, and you can exclude it if you want to, and then that would raise the issue.

Mr. Stottle: Mrs. Davis, did you hear any statement made at the March 18th meeting by Mrs. Reed or anyone else that she wanted the names of the Donnelly Garment Company employees reported to her or reported to the management of any employees who belonged to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as cumulative.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Stottle: Did you hear Mrs. Reed state that she would never let the International Union into her plant?

Mr. Leary: Same objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, we haven't prepared an offer of proof on that point, but we will prepare an offer of proof as to this witness and other witnesses on that subject.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I would suggest, Mr. Tyler, that you prepare it. Then you may offer it and as [fol. 2677] I arranged in the other instance, you may attach a list of people if you want to, and it will not be necessary to bring all those people here in order to make your offer.

Mr. Stottle: All right.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Mrs. Davis, are you a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I am.

Q. Did you attend the meeting of April 27, 1937, at which that union was formed? A. I did.

Q. I will ask you to state whether that meeting took place during working hours or after working hours.

A. It took place after working hours.

Q. Did you go down in your uniform or did you change to your street clothes? Do you remember?

A. I don't remember at that particular meeting. I do sometimes.

Q. You sometimes go to meetings in your uniform?

A. I do.

Q. Were any officers or executives of the Donnelly Garment Company, or supervisory officials like Mrs. Reeves or Mr. Baty present at the April 27th meeting at the time the union was organized? A. Not that I saw.

Q. Do you remember the occasion of a meeting the [fol. 2678] latter part of March, or the first few days in April, a meeting of employees at which contributions of 50 cents apiece were taken up to help pay lawyers?

Mr. Langsdale: I object to the question as leading and suggestive. They are not taking any chances whatever upon the witness' memory.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I don't think there have been any objections sustained thus far that I know of about questions. This witness may be examined with respect to this meeting, and then after this witness, I see no need of any further witness about this particular meeting.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Well, do you remember a meeting at which donations of 50 cents were taken up from employees or at least, it was voted to do that? A. Yes, I do.

Q. You were at that meeting? A. Yes, I was.

Q. Now, was that meeting held towards the latter part of March or the first of April, or when was it held?

A. Well, I don't remember just exactly the date of it; probably the last day in March, or maybe the first of April. I don't remember for sure.

Q. Did you contribute 50 cents for that purpose?

A. I did.

Q. Did you pay it at that time, or later, do you recall? [fol. 2679] A. I think I paid mine that night at the meeting.

Q. Did you observe other employees paying their 50 cents at that time? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Were there quite a number of them, or just one or two?

A. Well, I don't remember how many. I know there was several people down there giving their 50 cents, and some of them were waiting until a later time.

Q. Mrs. Davis, tell us as briefly as you can what took place at this meeting on April 27th, at which this union was organized, as far as you can remember.

A. Mr. Tyler was at this meeting, and told us in what manner that we might organize a union, and if the employees so desired,—and it was voted that we would form a plant union. Miss Todd was there, and there was a vote taken as to whether Miss Todd should appoint a nominating committee, and it was voted upon that she should. She appointed this nominating committee, and they were to select nine persons to represent the employees. They left the room, and while they were gone, there were cards passed out among the employees to sign. They could sign them after the meeting there or they could take them home with them and talk it over with anyone that they wished, as to whether they would like to sign them or not. On this card, it was something to the effect that "I hereby wish to become a charter [fol. 2680] member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union."

This nominating committee returned to the room and they had selected nine or ten persons, I am not positive, to represent the employees. These people were voted upon and they were elected.

[fol. 2681] Q. Were officers elected at that meeting, or later, do you know?

A. Yes, they were, at that meeting.

Q. Now, Mrs. Davis, are you a member of the Loyalty League? A. Yes, I am.

Q. When did you join that?

A. Well, I don't remember.

Q. Was it at the time of its original formation or sometime later?

A. It was at the time of its original formation.

Q. Have the Loyalty League and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union been merged into one organization, Mrs. Davis? A. They have not.

Q. Is the Loyalty League still in existence at the Donnelly plant? A. It is.

Q. Did you gain any impression from any announcement that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was just to be a continuation or successor to the Loyalty League?

A. No, I did not.

Q. What is the nature of the activities of the Loyalty League? A. Purely social.

Q. Did you ever hear of that League attempting to make bargaining agreements with the company on behalf [fol. 2682] of its members as to working hours and things like that? A. No, I have not.

Q. Do you pay any dues to the Loyalty League?

A. We did.

Q. How does it raise any money that it might need to raise? A. By dances, carnivals, or such as that.

Q. During the period that you belonged to it, do you recall whether it gave quite a number of dances or other parties? A. Yes, we have.

Q. Have you attended some of those? A. Yes.

Q. Mrs. Davis, do you remember who took the minutes at the first meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, the April 27 meeting?

A. No, I don't remember who took them.

Q. Have you attended other meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union since that time?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. When do they hold their meetings, or when are they supposed to hold their regular meetings?

A. The first Tuesday in each month, I think, has been designated for that.

Q. Have they been holding those meetings with some regularity since the formation of the union?

A. Yes, they have.

[fol. 2683] Q. Have you attended most of those meetings, or how many?

A. Well, not every one, but most of them.

Q. What time of day are those meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union held?

A. 5 o'clock or 5:15.

Q. That is, it is after working hours? A. Yes.

Q. I will ask you whether any instructor or any officer or other person directed you to join, or to go to the April 27 meeting when the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed. A. They did not.

Q. Your action in going there was voluntary?

A. Yes, it was.

Mr. Stottle. Now, Mr. Examiner, I would ask certain questions along that line, but I will make an offer of proof on it.

Trial Examiner Batten. I presume this young lady's name will be included in the list attached to that offer?

Mr. Stottle. That is right. And the same thing is true with reference to the strikes and other information.

* * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Mrs. Davis, how do you identify the meeting of March 18 referred to here? You have in mind apparently [fol. 2684] what is referred to as the March 18 meeting. How do you know that meeting was held on March 18?

A. Well, I know that we were very undecided as to what we might be able to do and what kind of protection we might be able to have.

Q. What was the chief topic of discussion at that meeting?

Mr. Ingraham. Just a minute, please.

Did I understand the Examiner to rule that, as far as the March 18 meeting is concerned, he is not going to allow any more testimony with regard to that meeting?

Trial Examiner Batten. By that, of course, I didn't mean to exclude the testimony of the present witness.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Did any of the employees talk at that meeting, other than Rose Todd? A. Yes, I think they did.

Q. Do you remember the names of any of them?

A. I don't believe I do.

Q. Were you in a group that went to see Director Higgins? A. I was not.

Q. Were you in any group that called on Mrs. Reed?

A. No, I was not.

Q. Was the meeting of March 18 a Loyalty League meeting, according to your understanding?

A. No, it was not.

Mr. Patten. That is all.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2685] By Mr. Leary:

Q. What does Rose Todd do at the plant?

A. I don't know what her duties are.

Q. Have you any idea? A. No.
Q. Don't you ever see her around there? A. Yes.
Q. What does she do when you see her?
A. Oh, occasionally I see her around over the building, in the cafeteria during the lunch hour.
Q. During working hours do you ever see her?
A. She is on our floor sometimes.
Q. On what floor do you work? A. Eighth floor.
Q. How often is she on the eighth floor?
A. I don't know.
Q. When she was on the eighth floor what was she doing?
A. There was nothing special that she was doing. I would probably just see her as she came into the department on the eighth floor.
Q. Did you ever see her doing any work on the eighth floor?
A. Well, I am usually busy. I don't watch what she is doing on the eighth floor. I don't know what she does.
Q. Have you ever seen her do any work on the eighth floor?
A. What do you mean, work? What kind of work? No, I haven't.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2686] Q. Who told you to go to the March 18 meeting?

Mr. Stottle. Mr. Examiner, you excluded respondent's questions to this witness as to the March 18 meeting, and I don't believe she should be permitted to testify to it in answer to other persons' questions.

Mr. Leary. I don't believe he did in this witness' answers exclude the March 18 meeting. Mr. Patten was examining her on the March 18 meeting.

Trial Examiner Batten. I permitted Mr. Patten to go ahead with it, thinking I had permitted her to answer your questions, Mr. Leary. I sustained the objection to it, did I?

Mr. Stottle. To one or two objections.

Trial Examiner Batten. On the March 18 meeting?

Mr. Stottle. Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten. My thought was, I said this [fol. 2687] would be the last witness on the March 18 meeting.

I did sustain your objection, did I not, Mr. Leary?

Mr. Leary. I would rather be bound by the record. I, frankly, can't tell you now.

Trial Examiner Batten. I made a note for you to make an offer. Do you remember definitely that I did, Mr. Stottle?

Mr. Stottle. I remember you sustained it. And I remember saying I would make an offer.

Trial Examiner Batten. If that is the case, I will have all of the testimony with respect to the March 18 meeting stricken out.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2688] Mr. Patten. As I said before, there are a num-[fol. 2689] ber of points about the March 18 meeting that have not been touched upon in this hearing, and the intervener feels it is important to bring those out in the testimony. On the three questions that you sustained the objection to, as asked by Mr. Stottle, those points have been covered several times.

Trial Examiner Batten. But, as I understood, the objections and Mr. Stottle's offer of proof go to an offer of proof covering the March 18 meeting. Isn't that right, Mr. Stottle?

Mr. Stottle. I had understood you wanted us to do it that way.

Trial Examiner Batten. In other words, when I said put it in an offer of proof I wasn't limiting it to these two specific questions.

Mr. Stottle. I didn't understand you were, or I would have asked more questions.

Trial Examiner Batten. But Mr. Patten apparently understood me to mean these two objections.

Mr. Patten. The objection was that they were repetitious and cumulative, as I understood it; and I understood the further testimony would be so confined.

There are points about that March 18 meeting that have not reached you at all, and I think if intervener wants to bring those points out it would be [predjudicial for us to be required to do it merely by an offer of proof.

[fol. 2690] Trial Examiner Batten. I am not going to require you to do it by an offer of proof, if there is something that has not been brought out, but I would very much prefer, if you have no objection, that when the intervener puts its case on you put your own witnesses on on that matter rather than do it through the witness which is presented by the respondent. I am not telling you you must do that, but it seems to me it would be better from the standpoint of your case.

Mr. Patten. Sometimes the respondent uses the same witness the intervener intends to use.

Trial Examiner Batten. That is true, but I didn't want to complicate this matter of an offer of proof with the matter of the March 18 meeting.

Mr. Patten. Then, your suggestion would be that we recall the witness when we get to our case if there is some such matter we want to take up?

Trial Examiner Batten. You may ask the questions now and I will rule on them, if you want to. I merely suggested that so that you do not get the thing mixed up with the respondent's position.

I have talked this matter over with Mr. Stottle and Mr. Ingraham, of presenting all of the witnesses which they would like to present in order to make a record on these matters which may be cumulative, and I assume they are now presenting these witnesses in accordance with the [fol. 2691] discussion we have had, but you may go ahead, if you want to, and I will rule on yours now.

Mr. Patten. I suggest, as to the questions I have already asked this witness, and she has answered, they are not questions that are cumulative, and that the ruling be allowed to stand on those.

Trial Examiner Batten. I will have the reporter read them back.

(Thereupon Mr. Patten's cross-examination of this witness was read by the reporter.)

Trial Examiner Batten. I don't see any objection to permitting those questions to stand. I don't see anything new there, particularly, but it may stand as it is.

(By Mr. Leary) Who advised you that the April 27 meeting was to be held?

A. I don't remember any certain person.

Q. Who told you that the May 11 meeting was to be held? A. Nobody told me about a meeting.

Q. Did you go to a meeting on May 11?

A. Not that I remember of.

Q. Did you go to a meeting where they were talking about Donnelly Garment Workers' Union pins?

A. I don't believe I did.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2692] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Are you married? A. Yes, I am.

* * * * * *

Q. Who was in charge of the employment office when you went to work at Donnelly's?

A. Mrs. Hyde employed me.

Q. Mrs. Ella Mae Hyde, who sits here in the courtroom? A. Yes.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2693] Q. Do you remember what section you were working in on the 27th of April, 1937, when the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed?

A. No, I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember who your instructor was at that time, April 1937? A. No, I am not sure who it was.

* * * * * *

MRS. CLARIS MARTIN,

a witness called by and on behalf of the respondent, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Give your name to the Examiner.

A. Claris Martin.

[fol. 2694] Q. You live in Kansas City, Mo.?

A. I live in Johnson County, Kans.

Q. Are you employed by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been employed by that company? A. Thirteen years.

Q. In what capacity are you employed by them?

A. I am an operator.

Q. Have you been an operator during that entire period?

A. Well, yes. There have been times when I inspected, during slack seasons, but that was a long, long while ago.

Q. Are you married? A. Yes, sir, I am.

Q. Do you remember the occasion of the meeting at which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed?

A. Yes, sir. The April 27 meeting.

[fol. 2695] Q. What date did you give?

A. April 27th.

Q. 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you attend that meeting? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. I will ask you to state whether that meeting was during working hours or after working hours?

A. It was immediately after working hours.

Q. Did you attend the meeting in your uniform, or did you change to your street clothes first?

A. I attended in my uniform.

Q. Have you attended other meetings of employees or of the union after working hours in your uniform?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you give the reason why you would attend in your uniform rather than your street clothes?

A. Well, there have been meetings where we have attended and tried to dress, and people coming down from various departments and getting off at different hours, I know at one particular meeting, we missed half of the meeting because there was a congestion in the dressing room. People couldn't get in and they couldn't get out, because the company had arranged these various hours of starting work and getting off of work to take care of that jam in the dressing room, and so, after about once or twice [fol. 2696] losing time like that, we decided they had better go down in their uniforms.

Q. It is a matter of convenience, then, to do that way?

A. Very much so.

Q. I will ask you to state, Mrs. Martin, briefly, as you remember it, what occurred at this meeting of April 27th at which the union was formed?

A. Well, there had been meetings preceding that one, and at this particular meeting I believe Hobart Atherton and Rose Todd had gone and talked with Mr. Tyler, and I believe that was what Rose said when she introduced Mr. Tyler, and that she believed he was in a position to explain to us more clearly what we could do, or should do, if we were in a position to be afraid, and we all were afraid. So Mr. Tyler talked with us, told us what courses were open, and that he believed if we had this plant union, that no outsider would be able to come in and tell us what we had to do, and it was common opinion at that time, the newspapers and radios and everything else were filling the public with fear of strikes and losses of jobs, and things like that, as well as terror.

Q. Were cards passed out?

. . . . . .

[fol. 2697] By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Mrs. Martin, were cards passed out at that meeting for the purpose of joining the union, if you chose to do so?

A. Yes, sir, they were.

Q. Was there any announcement made as to whether you had to sign those cards or didn't have to?

A. Yes, sir, there was an announcement made that we didn't have to sign those cards unless we wanted to, and if we wanted to sign at that particular time, we could. If we wanted to take them home and talk the matter over with our husbands, or family, that was permissible.

Q. Do you recall who made that announcement?

A. I would say Mr. Tyler, because he was taking charge of that particular meeting. There had been no officers elected at that time.

Q. Did you sign your card at that meeting?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

[fol. 2698] Q. Do you recall whether a bargaining committee and officers were elected at that meeting?

A. Yes, sir, I believe they were.

Q. Do you recall the procedure that was taken to elect the officers and bargaining committee?

A. Well, I know that a nominating committee was appointed, and that they went outside, I believe, and came back in with name that were submitted, and those people left the room that were voted upon.

Q. And were they elected as a result of that vote?

A. Yes, sir. They were.

Q. Did you observe any officers of the company or any of the executives such as Mr. Baty, or Mrs. Reeves, at that meeting?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. Did any official of the company or any supervisory employee direct you to go to that meeting, Mrs. Martin?

A. No, sir. That was just passed down the line of machines.

Q. Did you go of your own free will then?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Are you a member of the Loyalty League?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you join that organization?

A. Well, I don't recall when I joined, because I don't believe that I was working when it was organized.

[fol. 2699] Q. You joined some time after it was organized? A. After that.

Q. Is the Loyalty League and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union the same organization?

A. No, sir, they are not.

Q. Did you gain the impression from anything that was said at the April 27th meeting, or any other meeting, that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was taking over the Loyalty League?

A. No, sir. It has always been quite clear in my mind that they were two separate things.

Q. What is the nature of the Loyalty League?

A. It is a social organization; sponsors dances and parties.

Q. Have you attended any of the parties or dances of the Loyalty League?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

Q. Did you ever hear them discuss union matters at any of these meetings?

A. No, sir, I have never attended any of their meetings; just their social affairs.

Q. Do you now whether the Loyalty League does have meetings in addition to the actual dance or social affair?

A. I suppose they do, because it is a club, but I am indirectly in it. I belong, but I have very seldom attended. It is for parties and social activities. I have other interests. [fol. 2700] Anything that doesn't appeal to me, I don't take an active part in.

Q. Have you attended meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Since the organization?

A. Yes, sir, I have.

Q. How often do they hold meetings, approximately?

A. They hold them once a month.

Q. Have you been going to those meetings regularly, or practically so?

A. Well, I haven't attended every meeting, but a majority of them I have.

Q. Did you ever see any executives of the company at any of those meetings?

A. No, sir, I haven't.

Q. Do you know of any way in which the executives or supervisory employees, like Mr. Baty, or Mrs. Reeves, have participated in the affairs of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No sir, not to my knowledge.

Q. Do you know of any financial support that they have given to the union? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know of any money that the company itself has paid to the union?

[fol. 2701] A. No, sir.

Q. For its support? A. No, sir.

Q. Mrs. Martin, are you satisfied with the bargaining committee and the union as your representative as a bargaining committee?

A. Yes, sir, I am, quite definitely.

Q. Have you always been satisfied with it since the organization of the union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you had any compla. ts that have been adjusted or not?

A. In our department, you mean?

Q. Any complaints as to personal complaints as to not receiving high enough piece work prices, or anything of that nature that you have complained to the union about?

A. No, sir, I don't believe that I have.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, with the same understanding as to offers of proof on domination, free will and violence, and so forth, we rest on this witness.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, of course, as far as I know, there will be no restrictions as to the names you shall include.

Mr. Stottle: No, I just wanted it understood, since she was here, that the reason I haven't asked the questions [fol. 2702] is because I intend—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): I even said you didn't have to have them here to make your offer, didn't I?

Mr. Stottle: That is right.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Patten.

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Are you Miss Martin or Mrs. Martin?

A. I am Mrs. Martin.

Q. Do you know any employee of the Donnelly Garment Company that—or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company—that has complained that they didn't like the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Leary: I move that the answer be stricken.

Trial Examiner Batten: Stricken.

Mr. Patten: Have you ever heard any employee complain that they didn't want to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Leary: I object to that as calling for hearsay, and also, that it is immaterial.

Mr. Patten: I asked what she heard.

[fol. 2703] Trial Examiner Batten: I will sustain the objection. It is immaterial, and I will overrule the matter of hearsay.

Mr. Leary: I move the answer be stricken.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may be stricken.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Have you ever heard of any employee being coerced or pressure being brought to bear on any employee?

A. No, sir.

Q. To lead such employee to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may answer. What was your answer?

The Witness: No, sir.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Are you now satisfied with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union Committee as your bargaining agent?

A. I am, sir.

Q. Do you know of any employee that is dissatisfied with the committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union as their bargaining agent?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

The Witness: May I answer that question?

[fol. 2704] Trial Examiner Batten: No.

Mr. Patten: Are you afraid of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Sustained.

Mr. Patten: Were you afraid of that union in the spring of 1937?

Mr. Leary: Same objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: Same ruling.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Do you recall a meeting of March 18, 1937?

A. Yes, sir, I do, sir.

Q. Were you present? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall who spoke? A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. Who?

A. I can't recall every one. I may not know all of their names, but I know that Hobart Atherton spoke at that meeting, and I know that two of the operators from the eighth floor spoke, and I know that I spoke, myself.

Q. You spoke, yourself? A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. What was the substance of what you said?

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't know whether I asked this question once before, but, of course, you are repre-
[fol. 2705] senting the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and it wasn't organized on March 18th, and all the testimony, the questions which you have asked, and the respondent, have gone to indicate there was absolutely no connection between the two.

What is the interest of the intervener in the meeting of March 18th?

Mr. Patten: We want to show that we think it is most material to this case; that one of the reasons for forming the union, that led the organization to union, was the anxiety and fear and hysteria of all these employees down there over what might happen to them if they didn't get protection in some manner, shape or form; that meeting, in our theory, the meeting of March 18th, was the production of this fear and hysteria.

Several of the employees spoke there. We think that what she said will go a long ways in convincing the Examiner that the union was the product of this fear, this desire for protection, and in so far as that is shown to be the fact, it will negative any possible inference that the union is the product of company influence.

Trial Examiner Batten: And you mean that that fear, and so forth, and the meeting of March 18th, was sort of a prelude to the meeting of April 27th?

Mr. Patten: No, not that this meeting had anything to do with the meeting of April 27th, but that the state of [fol. 2706] mind existed on March 18th that later bore fruit in the meeting of April 27th.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Now, do you remember any other employees speaking at that meeting?

A. Yes, I do. There were these two operators from the eighth floor.

Q. Do you remember the names?

A. Well, there was an Eva someone, that I remember, and I don't know the other lady.

Q. Do you know how Mrs. Reed happened to attend that meeting?

A. Yes, sir, I do. There has been—Mr. Atherton had spoken, and these other two ladies, three ladies, had gotten up and said what they wanted to, and I had spoken, too, and everyone, of course, was excited and some one remarked that they believed that Mrs. Reed was in the building, and some one else said yes, that Mrs. Reed had been seen on the elevator, and so they sent some one after her. Some one said they would go see if she was still there. I don't know whether it was a boy from the cutting room or one of the mechanics. I know it was some one of the employees in the factory department who left the room and came back a few minutes later with Mrs. Reed.

Q. Were you working or visiting in New York?

A. I was not working or visiting. I was there as a representative of the Y. W. C. A. from the Industrial [fol. 2712] Women in the Middle West, attending a conference.

Mr. Patten: That is all.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Patten, on this question, which has come up frequently, I think about the first week, in fact, Mr. Tyler brought it up; this question of the mental attitude of these people, due to the organizational campaign of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, and all that that goes along with it. I think I should tell you now that if there is any further testimony of that kind, you can put it in in an offer of proof, because I don't think it is material to the issues here, and I think I told Mr. Tyler one day when he spoke about it, said that he felt that it was a motive or would be one motive, that would explain the organization of the independent union, and I think at that time I disagreed with Mr. Tyler. So if you have any further evidence in that line, you will submit it in an offer of proof, and if you care to, of course, you may submit another witness and ask those questions, to make your record. If you don't care to do that, you may submit it without offering another witness.

[fol. 2713] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Isn't it true, Mrs. Martin, that the Donnelly Company is run in a very orderly fashion?

A. Yes, sir, it is.

Q. It is rather highly systematized, is it not?

A. Well, everyone seems to know their job and what they are supposed to do.

Q. And they have rules and regulations so that there will be smooth operations and no confusion; isn't that correct?

A. I don't know—

* * * * * *

[fol. 2714] A. Well, everyone knows what time their department starts working, and what time it stops, and what time we go to lunch; and all of us are satisfied to the extent that we work to the best of our ability.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. For instance, some people come to work at 7:30 in the morning, some at 7:40, and some at 7:50? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that is all for the purpose of having a speedy access to the building; isn't that it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Because your elevators are limited?

A. Because the elevators are limited, and then the space is limited to the dressing rooms.

Q. And when you go in in the morning, for instance, on the 7:40 shift, about the time you arrive there the girls that were supposed to have gone to work at 7:30 have already left the dressing rooms and have gone out to their work upstairs? A. They are supposed to.

Q. And it runs smoothly?

[fol. 2715] A. They all try to get there on time. They know when they are supposed to be there.

Q. And there isn't confusion, as a rule, when the plant opens in the morning and the girls are coming in at 10-minute intervals? A. No, sir.

Q. And the same applies, does it not, at the noon hour?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, if they all get off at the time they are supposed to get off they will go down on the elevator?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The girls will not be running over each other in the elevator and hallways? A. No, sir.

Q. Let's say, Miss Witness, for instance, at noon if everybody stopped working at once and started down on the elevators together there definitely would be confusion, wouldn't there? A. There would be.

Q. And at any time, if they all got off at once and started out, there would be confusion?

A. That is what I explained awhile ago, the reason they wear their uniforms to these meetings, they all get off at different times and the elevators are crowded and some of them go down in their uniforms, because they get off at later intervals.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2724] Trial Examiner Batten: A recess was permitted for the purpose of having the attorneys review an-amended complaint which has been submitted by the Board as of the close of the Board's case, which is marked "Exhibit No. 1-KKKK." Do you have the original of that, Mr. Leary?

Mr. Leary: Yes. I am now handing it to the reporter.

• • • • • •

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle and Mr. Tyler, as I understand it, you men have gone over this amended complaint; is that correct?

Mr. Tyler: Correct.

Mr. Stottle: Correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you have any statement on it, Mr. Stottle?

Mr. Stottle: Well, I understand the purpose of the recess was to see whether we agreed that this did represent [fol. 2725] the situation as existed at the close of the Board's case, and from our reading, we don't find any variation of it.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2726] Trial Examiner Batten: I was going to say that all the objections, as well as the motions, such as the motions to make more definite and certain, motions to strike, directed to the complaint, or any amendment thereto, will apply to this amended complaint as though made, with respect to this particular document, and all the argument with respect to those motions and rulings.

• • • • • • •

[fol. 2727] Trial Examiner Batten: Some question has arisen, I think, and I discussed it with Mr. Ingraham and Mr. Tyler as to just what matters yesterday were covered upon which offers of proof are to be made, and, first, there was the meeting of March 18th; second, was the matter of violence, and so forth, in Kansas City, with respect to other plants, and in that connection, Mr. Tyler's matter of yes-
[fol. 2728] terday afternoon, what, if any, effect that had upon the mental attitude, and so forth, of the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company; then, the meeting that occurred between March 27 and April 5, that is, the meeting at which donations were asked, 50 cents each from the employees; and Mr. Stottle's matter of asking the witnesses "Did you join this organization of your own free will?"

In other words, there are four matters then that—

Mr. Tyler (interrupting): That would make five.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, except the matter of the mental attitude of the employees. I classified that under the one matter, Mr. Tyler, that is, of violence and the things which created that atmosphere.

• • • • • • •

Mr. Patten: Mr. Examiner, do we understand that we are not to touch on any subject on the matter of the meeting of March 18th?

Trial Examiner Batten: I told Mr. Ingraham and Mr. Tyler this morning, in this conference, that, of course, these rulings do not apply, Mr. Patten, to matters upon which there has been no testimony.

In other words, I certainly am not eliminating those matters that have not been testified upon, and I think Mr. Ingraham and Mr. Tyler indicated that they understood that.

[fol. 2729] HELEN WALTON, a witness called by and on behalf of respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. State your name to the Examiner.
A. Helen Walton.
Q. Where do you live, Miss Walton?
A. 4908 Lister Avenue.
Q. Where are you employed?
A. Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. How long have you been employed there?
A. Seven years.
Q. What is your position with the company?
A. Operator.
Q. Have you been an operator during that period?
A. Yes, I have.
Q. What kind of operation do you do?
A. I am a binder and pinker.
Q. Are you a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Did you attend the meeting of April 27, 1937, at which that union was organized?

[fol. 2730] A. Yes, I did.

Q. Was that after working hours or during working hours?

A. It was after working hours.

Q. Did you go down in your uniform or change to your street clothes?

A. I went down in my uniform.

Q. Did you attend other meetings in your uniform, Miss Walton, after working hours?

A. Well, yes. I very seldom change.

Q. Did anyone direct you to go to the April 27 meeting, or did you go to it of your own accord?

A. I went of my own accord.

Q. I wish you would tell us in a brief way what occurred at that meeting.

A. April 27?

Q. April 27, 1937.

A. Well, Miss Todd spoke, and we nominated a committee to appoint general chairman and to form our union. Mr. Tyler spoke to us, and we signed cards.

Q. What were the cards you signed?

A. You mean, what did they have on them, the writing?

Q. Yes. What was the purpose of the cards, or what did they say on them?

A. "I hereby become a charter member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and abide by its bylaws and regulations."

[fol 2731] Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle, I think after this witness covers the meeting of April 27, unless there are some new matters, I will not hear from any further witnesses about it, because I think there has been sufficient testimony about that meeting. As I said in other instances, you might call another witness and ask the questions and show that the witness was not permitted to answer, or you may submit your offer of proof as though the witnesses were here and present.

Mr. Stottle: All right, Your Honor.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Miss Walton, did you see any officers or executives of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company present at this meeting of April 27?

A. No, I don't believe I did.

Q. Did you gain the impression at that meeting, Miss Walton, that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union which you formed there was to take the place of the Loyalty League?

A. No, sir.

Q. Are you a member of the Loyalty League?

A. I am.

Q. When did you join the Loyalty League?

A. 1935.

Q. Did any officer or executive of the company direct you to join the Loyalty League, or suggest that you join it?

A. No, sir. I asked to be allowed to join it.

Mr. Stottle: I believe that is all.

[fol. 2732] Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Patten?

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. You are Mrs. or Miss Walton?

A. Miss Walton.

Q. What section are you in, Miss Walton?

A. I am in 413 now.

Q. [Where] you on the 23rd of April, 1937?

A. In 412.

Q. Was Fern Sigler or Sylvia Hull in that section?

A. Sylvia Hull was.

Q. Were you there on the morning of April 23, 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see any unusual occurrence around Sylvia Hull's machine?

A. Well, it was a general upsetting.

Q. How close were you to it?

A. Across the table.

Q. Was there any violence?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did the instructor take part in it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were any threats made?

A. None.

Q. Was the power shut off?

A. Not that I remember of.

[fol. 2733] Q. What was the instructor doing?

A. I believe she was away, at the end of the tables, by the bins. I think she was kind of crying about it.

Q. Do you recall anything about bylaws at the April 27 meeting?

A. No, not right offhand, with the exception of the ones I spoke of a few minutes ago.

Q. The bylaws read at the meeting?

A. Yes.

Q. Was anything said about amending the bylaws?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember what was said about whether you could sign the cards or not, as you pleased?

A. Well, we were told if we wanted to sign the cards there, we could, or if we cared to take them home and have someone read them over with us, we could do so.

Q. Did you sign the card as your own voluntary act?

A. I did.

Q. You were not in fear of anyone in signing that card?

A. No.

Q. Going back to the morning of April 23 and the Sylvia Hull incident, how much noise do the machines make? In other words, how far away can you hear a person talking in a normal voice when the machines are running?

A. If I am talking to the girl across the table from me I [fol. 2734] quit working at that time, because I would be unable to hear with both machines running.

Q. Do you have to raise your voice any for her to hear you?

A. Some, yes.

Q. How far is that?

A. Well, it is about this distance (indicating), across the table.

Trial Examiner Batten: What is that, about four or five feet? How far is it, Mr. Ingraham, across those tables?

Mr. Ingraham: I think it is about four or five feet.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Baty, how far is it across those tables where the machines sit?

Mr. Baty: Across from one side to the other?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes.

Mr. Baty: Four feet.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Did you ever attend at one time a meeting of both the Loyalty League and the union, the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I have not.

Q. Do you recall any occasion when a union meeting came to an end and the employees of that meeting were asked to stay and attend the Loyalty League meeting?

A. No, sir.

[fol. 2735] Q. Or the other way around?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did that ever occur, to your knowledge?

A. It has not.

Q. Do you attend union meetings regularly?

A. Well, I have missed a few on my bowling nights, but, otherwise, I attend them all.

Q. Well, how about early in 1937, from the time the union was organized on until the end of the year?

A. Yes, I attended those fairly regularly during that time.

Q. Do you recall any meeting ever having been held before the end of the working day or during working hours?

A. No, I don't.

Mr. Patten: That is all.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Leary.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Who told you to go to the April 27th meeting?

A. No one told me. I went because it was a general discussion among we girls.

Q. How did you know there was going to be a meeting?

A. Well, there had been quite a bit of talk about it during the day, and the girl next to me, I think, maybe, told me.

Q. Do you know where she got her information?

A. She didn't say.

Q. Do you know Marjorie Green?

[fol. 2736] A. I do.

* * * * * *

Q. What did you go to that April 27th meeting for?

A. Well, we wanted to find out, I think the most of us, just what we were going to do in the way of protection.

Q. Did you think they were going to form a union then?

A. Well, no. We had been talking something about doing whatever we could.

Q. Is it then your answer that you didn't know they were going to form a union at that meeting?

A. We didn't know exactly what they were going to do.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Who was your instructor on April 23d, the date of the Sylvia Hull incident?

A. Who was she?

Q. Yes.

A. Mrs. Allison.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2737] Q. Were you one of the girls who followed Sylvia Hull to the office?

A. No, I didn't follow her.

Q. Some of the girls did, did they not?

A. I don't know.

Q. You say all Mrs. Allison did was just stand over and cry some place; is that it?

A. She was standing in the back, yes.

Q. She didn't make any effort to stop it?

A. Well, she asked we girls to sit down and go to work, and she didn't seem to have very much luck with us, because we didn't want to work with her.

Q. Were you one of those who refused to work if Sylvia Hull stayed there?

A. I was.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2739] Q. You saw Mrs. Hyde at that meeting on the 27th?

A. I don't remember.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Patten:

Q. You understood you could sign that card, or not, as you pleased?

A. I didn't get the question.

Q. Did you understand that you could sign the membership card, or not, as you pleased?

[fol. 2740] A. That is the way I understood it, and I signed it of my own free will.

* * * * * *

PEARL COLLINS, a witness called by and on behalf of the Respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Just state your name, please.

A. Pearl Collins.

Q. Where are you employed?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. About 12 years.

[fol. 2741] Q. In what capacity are you employed there at the present time?

A. Instructor.

Q. Were you an instructor in 1937?

A. Yes.

Q. In what section?

A. 521.

Q. Was Fern Sigler an operator in that section at that time?

A. She was.

Q. I will ask you if on the morning of April 23, 1937, there was any commotion on the sixth floor?

A. There was.

Q. Were there operators from other floors on that floor at any time?

A. Yes.

Q. State whether or not these operators congregated around Fern Sigler?

A. They did.

Q. State whether or not they sang songs.

A. Well, I think they sang songs. I don't remember exactly what they sang.

Q. What did you do, if anything, when they were there?

A. Well, I merely asked the girls to leave and go back to work.

[fol. 2742] Q. Was the power on in your section at that time?

A. It was.

Q. Was Fern Sigler working at that time?

A. She was.

Q. Did the girls leave when you asked them to?

A. Well, not immediately, but then they soon left.

Q. State about what time it was when this first commotion started.

A. I think it was about 8 o'clock.

Q. Later, did these girls return?

A. Well, I don't know whether the same group of girls returned, but some other girls did return.

Q. Did you see anybody touch Fern Sigler?

A. No.

Q. Did you see any of the girls push Fern Sigler under her machine?

A. No.

Q. What, if anything, did you do with respect to the second group of girls that come?

A. Well, I put a telephone call in to ask the operator to locate Mr. Baty.

Q. Did Mr. Baty come up at that time?

A. No, not immediately. He came later.

Q. When Mr. Baty first came up, at that time were there any girls from other floors congregated around Fern Sigler?

[fol. 2743] A. Well, when he first came in, there wasn't.

Q. Then did he return to the office or leave the floor?

A. He left the floor.

Q. Then did another group of girls come down to your floor?

A. They did.

Q. Did you attempt to reach Mr. Baty again?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did he come to your floor?

A. He did.

Q. And what did Mr. Baty do?

A. Well, I don't know what he did. I wasn't close enough to hear what he said, but I knew Fern Sigler left with him.

Q. Did you hear any of these girls congregated around Fern Sigler make any statements that they were going to throw her out of the window?

A. No.

[fol. 2744] Q. That they were going to tear her clothes off?

A. No.

Q. Did you, at any time, order the operators in your section to attend any meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No.

Q. Have you at any time solicited members for the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No.

Q. Did you at any time assist, in any way, in getting operators to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No.

Q. Has any official of the company, or any person with authority to hire, fire, or discipline employees, ever ordered you to become a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No.

Q. Did you join of your own free will?

A. I did.

Q. Have you ever had any discussion with any officials of the company, or any person with supervisory authority, in regard to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No.

Q. Did you attend the meeting of April 27, 1937?

A. I did.

Q. Will you just state how you received notice of that meeting?

[fol. 2745] A. Well, I don't remember exactly whether I received notice myself, or whether the thread girl, did, but a message came that Rose Todd was calling a meeting of the employees.

Q. Will you state whether or not that meeting occurred during working hours or after working hours?

A. It was after working hours.

* * * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. When Mr. Baty finally came down to Fern Sigler's [fol. 2746] section, who, if anyone, was with him?

A. I didn't see anyone with him.

Q. Did you see Rose Todd?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Was she in that section on that day, to your knowledge?

A. Not to my knowledge, no.

Q. How far were you from Fern Sigler?

A. I was right next to her part of the time, because I worked up and down the whole section.

Q. But, when this disturbance was going on?

A. Part of the time I was right there.

Q. You say you worked up and down the section?

A. I distributed work up and down the section.

Q. I thought you were an instructor.

A. I am.

Q. Isn't it the thread girl's duty to distribute work?

A. It is my duty, too.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you are charged with the quality, whereas the thread girl is charged with quantity?

A. I try to keep the girls busy, too.

Q. You are charged with both quality and quantity?

A. I am not in charge of it.

Q. What are you in charge of?

A. I am not in charge of anything.

Q. You are just there?

[fol. 2747] A. I am just there.

Q. How long have you been there?

A. I think, a little over 12 years.

Q. You distribute the work, as well as instruct the girls?

A. Yes.

Q. Didn't you have a thread girl there at that time whose duty it was, also, to distribute?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was she on the job that morning?

A. Sure.

Q. You say Rose Todd wasn't there around Miss Sigler at all, that you saw?

A. Not that I saw.

Q. You stated that you did not suggest to anyone that she join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, I didn't.
Q. Why didn't you?
A. Well, it wasn't any of my business whether they joined or not.
Q. Why not?
A. What do I care what the other employees do?
Q. But you were a member of the union, weren't you?
A. Yes.
Q. Weren't you anxious to see that the other employees joined?
A. Not particularly, no.

[fol. 2749] PEARL ATCHISON, a witness called by and on behalf of respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

[fol. 2750] Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:
Q. State your name, please. A. Pearl Atchison.
Q. Where are you employed, Mrs. Atchison?
A. Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. In what capacity? A. Instructor.
Q. How long have you been employed at tht Donnelly Garment Company?
A. About ten and a half years.
Q. What section do you work in? A. 523.
Q. Was May Fike an operator in that section in the spring of 1937? A. Yes.
Q. Was she there on the morning of April 23, 1937?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Was there a commotion on that floor that morning?
A. There was.
Q. Did the girls in your section work during that commotion? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Was the power on at all times? A. It was.
Q. Were you in the section during the time these various commotions were going on?
[fol. 2751] A. I was.
Q. Did you hear anything that was said by the groups of girls that went over to Fern Sigler? A. No, sir.
Q. Were those girls from other floors, these groups of girls that went over to Fern Sigler?

A. I couldn't hear anything.

Q. Did May Fike continue to work during the times that these groups of girls were over at Fern Sigler's machine? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When May Fike was working did she have her back to where Fern Sigler was sitting? A. She did.

Q. Would it be possible to see Fern Sigler from May Fike's machine unless May Fike stood up and turned around? A. No, she could not.

Q. Did you see May Fike at any time stand up?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, that morning did you have any conversation with May Fike relative to Fern Sigler? A. I did not.

Q. Did you have any conversation with May Fike with reference to the commotion? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you at any time say to May Fike that it was [fol. 2752] too bad that Fern Sigler joined the union?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. Did you ask May Fike if she was a member of the union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you attend the meeting of April 27, 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did any official of the company, or any officer with supervisory authority, suggest or order that you attend that meeting? A. No, sir, they did not.

Q. Did any official of the company, or any person with supervisory authority, talk to you at any time with reference to joining or not joining the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did any official of the company, or any person with supervisory authority, ever discuss with you whether or not you should join or should not join the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you at any time solicit members for the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you ever suggested to any employee at the Donnelly Garment Company that he or she should join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

[fol. 2753] A. No, sir.

Q. Did you on April 27 order May Fike and the other operators in that section to go to the second floor and attend the meeting for the purpose of forming a union?

A. No, I did not.

[fol. 2754] Q. Did you order May Fike or any other operator to go down to that meeting in a body and stay together so that you could return to work as soon as the meeting was over? A. No, I did not.

Q. State whether or not that meeting occurred during working hours or after working hours.

A. After working hours.

Q. Following April 23, 1937, did May Fike work the rest of that week?

A. She didn't come in on a Monday morning.

Q. Well, I mean just the week of April 23d. I think April 23d was on Thursday.

A. Yes. She worked the rest of that week.

Q. Well, then, the following Monday, did May Fike work?

A. She didn't work on a Monday morning, but came in at noon, and then—

Q. (Interrupting) Did she work the rest of that day?

A. She worked the rest of that day.

Q. Had she notified you or anybody connected with the company, to your knowledge, that she would not be in that Monday morning to work?

A. No, she did not.

Q. Well, now, state whether or not she worked Tuesday.

A. She didn't come in Tuesday morning, but came in at noon and worked Tuesday afternoon.

[fol. 2755] Q. That was April 27, 1937?

A. Yes, but Mr. Baty came in the section Tuesday morning and I told him I needed another operator, and so I told him that she wasn't there, and he got in touch with her.

Mr. Langsdale: Will you speak a little louder? I didn't get any part of that answer.

A. (Continuing) Got in touch with her, and she came in at noon.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Now, the operators worked the rest of that afternoon? A. Yes.

Q. Was your section busy at that time?

A. Yes, very busy.

Q. Well, following April 27th, did May Fike work the rest of the week?

A. Yes, she worked the rest of the week.

Q. Did she then, or did she during that time, say anything to you with reference to taking a vacation?

A. Yes, she wanted a couple of weeks' vacation.

Q. Did you tell her that she would have to see Mrs. Hyde? A. I did.

Q. Did your section, the operators in your section, in which you worked, take their vacations the first part of May?

A. No, sir, we did not.

Q. What time were vacations taken that year?

[fol. 2756] A. Around the middle of June.

* * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. Mrs. Atchison, did any officer of the company or any other person in authority ever ask you to send your girls down to any union meeting?

A. No, sir, they did not.

Q. Did any officer or other person representing the company ever ask you to encourage any employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir, they did not.

Q. Did you ever try to lead your girls any place, or take them with you, or do they go and come as they please?

A. They go and come as they please.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2758] Q. Who told you of the April 27th meeting?

A. Well, I really don't know.

Q. Will you speak louder, please?

A. Whether some of the operators or the basket boy, or who.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2760] Q. Now, you say you never encouraged or suggested to any employee at the Donnelly Garment [fol. 2761] Company that employee joined the Donnnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

* * * * * *

Q. You never did in the entire existence of that organization suggest to anyone?

A. No, I did not.

Q. That he join or remain a member, or that she join or remain a member of that union?

A. I did not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2762] PEARL FIELDS, a witness called by and on behalf of the respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. State your name to the Examiner, please.

A. Mrs. Pearl Fields.

Q. Do you live in Kansas City, Mrs. Fields?

A. In the Inter-City district.

Q. Where are you employed?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed there?

A. Four years.

Q. What is the nature of your work for the company?

A. Operator.

Q. Have you been an operator during that entire period? A. Yes, I have.

Q. What is the nature of your operation?

A. Straight sewing, the first part operation.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, I wish to ask this witness [fol. 2763] questions about the April 27th meeting as a foundation for our offer of proof, unless you have decided to let her answer.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you mean the question is in line with the questions asked previous witnesses; is that it?

Mr. Stottle: Yes.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Did you attend the meeting of April 27, 1937, at which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

[fol. 2764] Q. State what occurred at that meeting, briefly.

A. Well. Mr. Tyler talked to us, and then a nominating committee was named, and they left the room and came back with a list of officers and representatives, and they were elected unanimously to serve as the first officers of our union.

I don't know that there was much else took place that I remember, only that our union was organized at that meeting.

Q. Were you instructed by any officer or executive to go to that meeting? A. No, I was not.

Q. Did your instructor direct you to go to that meeting? A. No.

Q. I will ask you to state whether that meeting took place during working hours or after working hours.

A. It was after working hours.

Q. Did you wear your uniform or go in your street clothes?

A. I went in my street clothes.

Q. Did most of the employees there go in their street clothes or their uniforms?

A. I wouldn't say most of them. I think most of the girls who got off earlier changed to their street clothes in order to get home as quickly as they could after the meeting.

Q. Did you see any officers or executives of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales [fol. 2765] Company present at that meeting?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Was anything said at that meeting by Rose Todd, Mr. Tyler, or anyone else, to the effect that Mrs. Reed or the management of the Donnelly Garment Company wanted the employees to form a plant union? A. No.

Q. Were membership cards passed out at that meeting?

A. Well, not membership cards.

Q. Were some cards passed out?

A. Yes—that we wanted to become charter members of the union.

Q. You mean application cards?

A. Yes. They were not membership cards.

Q. Was any pressure brought to bear upon you to sign those cards at that meeting, or what were you told about that?

A. We were told to use our own discretion, sign them or not, as we wanted to.

Q. Did you sign yours at that meeting?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you gain the impression, Mrs. Fields, from anything said at that meeting that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was to take the place of the Loyalty League? A. No.

Q. Are you a member of the Loyalty League?

[fol. 2766] A. Yes, I am.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle, if you have finished your questions about the April 27 meeting, I don't care to listen to any further witnesses on it, unless it is something that has not yet been covered by the previous witnesses.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, I expected you to rule me out, but you didn't, so I went ahead asking the questions. If you say you don't want us to ask any more such questions we will, of course, submit an offer of proof.

Trial Examiner Batten: The offer of proof, of course, will be submitted in the same manner as if you had presented the witnesses.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. When did you join the Loyalty League?

A. Shortly after I started working there; I don't know just when.

Q. Did any official of the company, or any executive, ask you to join the Loyalty League? A. No.

Q. Is the Loyalty League still in existence? A. Yes.

Q. What is the nature of the activities of the Loyalty League?

A. It is purely a social organization.

Q. Did it ever, to your knowledge, act as a labor union down at the plant?

[fol. 2767] A. No, they haven't; not since I have been there, anyway.

Q. Did you ever hear of their negotiating with the Donnelly Garment Company for a union contract or concerning wages? A. No.

Q. Did you ever see any officers of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company at any of the later meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, I haven't.

Q. You have attended a good many of those meetings?

A. Yes, I have.

Q. Do you know of any participation that the officers of the company have had in any meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No.

Q. To your knowledge, has the Donnelly Garment Company, or any of its officers or executives, given any financial support or any other aid to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Have you been directed by any officer or executive of the Donnelly Garment Company, or by any instructor, to go to any of the subsequent meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, I have not.

Q. Have any of those meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union that you have attended been held [fol. 2768] during working hours? A. No.

* * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2771] Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, respondent is not objecting to the lack of identification, but respondent does object that it does not tend to prove or disprove any issue in the case and would therefore be immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: In other words, it is about in the same classification as some of the other newspaper articles we have had. It may indicate something, but it doesn't prove anything.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2772] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Did you purchase a union pin?

A. I have a union pin, yes.

Q. When did you get it?

A. Sometime after I joined the union—after our union was organized.

Q. How soon after?

A. I can't remember how soon.

Q. They were all bought at about the same time, weren't they? A. I think so.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2775] Ruby Lago, a witness called by and on behalf of the Respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. State your name, please. A. Ruby Lago.

Q. Are you employed at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. I am.

Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Almost 5 years.

Q. Are you an operator? A. Yes, I am.

Q. I will ask you if you are a member of the Loyalty League? A. I am.

Q. When did you join that organization?

A. When it was first organized.

Q. State whether or not that is a social organization?

A. It is.

Q. State whether or not it was also the purpose to—strike that. State whether or not the Loyalty League was organized also for the purpose of refuting untrue statements made about the company.

[fol. 2776] A. No.

Q. It was not?

A. I don't know that part of it, what it was supposed to be for. When I joined the Loyalty League I understood it to be absolutely a social organization.

Q. Have you attended any meetings of that organization?

A. Well, I don't remember if I ever attended one after it was organized. I have only attended dances we have had at the Pla-Mor.

Q. Has the company or any of its officers or officials, to your knowledge, controlled the Nelly Don Loyalty League?

A. No, they don't.

Q. Did any officials of the company, anybody connected with the management, ask you to become a member of the Nelly Don Loyalty League? A. No, they did not.

Q. Did you join it of your own free will?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. To your knowledge, has the Loyalty League any connection with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, it hasn't.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2777] MILDRED FRANCES STRINE, a witness called by and on behalf of the Respondent, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. State your name, please.

A. Mildred Frances Strine.

Q. Are you employed by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. I am.

Q. In what capacity?

A. Secretary to Mrs. Reed.

Q. How long have you been Mrs. Reed's secretary?

A. About 7 years.

Q. I will ask you, Mrs. Strine, if you were present at a meeting of the employees on March 18, 1937?

A. Part of the meeting, I was.

Q. Who asked you to go to that meeting?

A. Mrs. Reed.

Q. Will you just state when Mrs. Reed arrived at the plant on that day?

A. Well, Mr. and Mrs. Reed were leaving for Florida that evening, and right after lunch Mrs. Reed and myself [fol. 2778] went down in town and did a little shopping, and we stopped by the office late in the afternoon.

Q. Will you just state what occurred with reference to your going down to attend this meeting?

A. Well, Mrs. Reed came out of her office to mine and she said that a group of employees had come up and told her that there was a meeting downstairs, and had asked her to talk, and asked me to go downstairs with her.

Q. Did you go? A. Yes.

Q. Did Mrs. Reed make a talk? A. She did.

Q. Did Mrs. Reed ask you to take notes of what she said?

A. Yes, when we started down, she said that I had better take a pad and take down her statement.

Q. And you took just Mrs. Reed's speech?

A. That is as long as I was at the meeting. I was just there while Mrs. Reed spoke.

Q. Was Mrs. Reed introduced to speak as soon as she arrived at the meeting?

A. Yes. I didn't go to the platform with Mrs. Reed, but she went up to the platform and I believe Rose Todd was on the platform when we walked in, and Miss Todd introduced Mrs. Reed and then she started talking.

Q. And when Mrs. Reed finished, did she leave the meeting?

[fol. 2779] A. We left immediately.

Q. Now, what did you do with the notes with reference to writing them up?

A. Well, we went out to Mrs. Reed's home, and Laura Baker, Mr. Reed's secretary, was doing some work for him out there and she was at the typewriter, and so I dictated my notes to Miss Baker and she wrote them off.

Q. Did you give the original to Mrs. Reed?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Were copies made? A. One carbon, yes.

Q. I will hand you Respondent's Exhibit 12, and ask you if that was the carbon copy of the notes that were written? A. It is.

(Thereupon, the document above referred to was marked as "Respondent's Exhibit No. 12" for identification.)

Q. I will ask you to state whether or not you asked Mrs. Reed for the original of this.

A. I did, but she didn't have it. She must have misplaced it, or something. She didn't have it.

Mr. Ingraham: Respondent offers in evidence Exhibit 12.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2780] Mr. Ingraham: Could I ask one further question of the witness?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. You have read Respondent's Exhibit 12?

A. I have.

Q. If that is a correct statement of what Mrs. Reed said at that meeting?

A. It is. It is my notes. I stood by Miss Baker's machine and dictated those to her and she handed them to me.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2781] By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Strine, I will ask you to state if you know whether or not Mrs. Reed had any knowledge of the meeting of March 18, 1937, until—

Mr. Leary (interrupting): Just a moment, please. What about the exhibit?

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you may go ahead.

Mr. Ingraham: Until Mrs. Reed arrived at the plant?

A. I am sure she did not.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will be received.

(The document heretofore marked as "Respondent's Exhibit No. 12" was received in evidence.)

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Strine, has Mrs. Reed been ill this spring?

A. Yes, she has.

Q. Has she had any surgical operation?

A. She had two operations this spring, yes.

Q. Is she now under the care of a trained nurse?

Mr. Leary: Now, I object to this as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, what is this for?

Mr. Ingraham: Well, I just want to show that Mrs. Reed is sick.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2782] Mr. Ingraham: Well, she would be here if she was well.

* * * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2787] By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Do you belong to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you belong to the Loyalty League? A. No, sir.

Q. Are you employed by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2788] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Miss Strine, what did you do before you became secretary to Mrs. Reed?

[fol. 2789] A. I did stenographic work.

Q. For whom?

A. For Mrs. Stephenson in the credit department, and for Mr. Donnelly.

Q. You mean in the credit department of the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you secretary to Mr. Donnelly while he was there?

A. Well, I did his stenographic work. I don't believe he had any secretary at that time.

Q. How long have you been employed by anyone in connection with the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. How long have I been there?

Q. Yes. A. Fifteen years.

Q. And you have been doing stenographic work all of that time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, taking dictation for letters, correspondence?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you ever done any reportorial work?

A. No, sir.

Q. All you have done is to take dictation of correspondence, is that right?

A. And I have handled matters for Mrs. Reed.

[fol. 2790] Q. But, I mean as far as your dictation is concerned, you have taken dictation only for correspondence?

A. I don't know whether I understand what you mean.

Q. Well, you have never recorded any hearings of any kind, have you?

A. Not except that one.

Q. With this one exception, in your whole lifetime you have never reported any meeting?

A. No, I don't believe I have.

Q. Do you remember the hearing commonly known as the three-judge hearing? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you filed some affidavits signed by you in that case, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. When did you first see this carbon copy that has been introduced and designated as respondent's exhibit No. 12?

A. When Miss Baker gave it to me, when she had finished typing it.

Q. When did you next see it?

A. I think, this morning.

Q. Who showed it to you this morning?

A. Mr. Ingraham.

Q. Do you know where he got it?

A. I suppose he got it out of my file out at the house.

Q. Do you know where he got it?

[fol. 2791] A. No.

Q. Has it been in his possession since the time you first saw it after taking it out of the typewriter and this morning? A. All of this time?

Q. Yes. A. No. It has been in my file.

Q. I understand. But you haven't seen it—you haven't looked at it since the day it was made until this morning? That is true, is it not?

A. I don't believe I have. I don't know; I may have looked at it in going through my file; I don't remember.

Q. You have no recollection of having read that exhibit No. 12 between the day it was made and this morning, do you?

A. No, I don't know that I have.

Q. And you don't know that anyone else has read it between those dates, do you?

A. I don't know.

Q. And when Mr. Ingraham handed it to you did he tell you where he had gotten it?

A. I don't believe he did.

Q. You knew in this three-judge hearing, the one that went to the Supreme Court of the United States, that there were a number of affidavits filed by different parties with reference to what Mrs. Reed had said at the meeting of March 18, 1937, didn't you?

[fol. 2792] A. Yes.

Q. And you knew that Mrs. Reed had made an affidavit in which she had related what she said at the meeting of March 18, didn't you? A. Yes.

Q. And you filed three affidavits in that hearing, signed by you, didn't you? A. I think I did.

Q. And you didn't say one word in any of them about having taken down what Mrs. Reed said at the meeting of March 18, did you? A. It didn't come up.

Q. Your attorneys prepared the affidavits, didn't they, and you signed them?

A. I signed the affidavits.

Q. And you didn't say one word in any of the affidavits about having taken down what Mrs. Reed said at the meeting of March 18, did you?

A. Mrs. Reed covered that.

Q. You didn't say that? A. No.

Q. You were present at the Judge Miller hearing?

A. Part of it.

Q. You did not take the witness stand in that hearing?

A. No.

[fol. 2793] Q. And you didn't tell anyone in that hearing that you had taken this matter, exhibit No. 12? Did you tell anybody in this hearing that you had taken this?

A. No.

Q. You didn't even look up this carbon for anybody's use, did you? A. No.

Q. You didn't even call your attorney's attention to the fact that somewhere out there in your files you had this carbon copy of the minutes or of the speech Mrs. Reed made at the March 18 meeting?

A. My attorneys knew it was there.

Q. You didn't tell them, did you?

A. I didn't need to. They knew it.

Q. Who knew it?

A. Mrs. Reed and Mr. Ingraham.

Q. Mr. Ingraham, you mean to tell the Court, sat idly by and didn't produce that carbon in the Judge Miller hearing? A. He intended to.

Q. But he didn't do it?

A. Mrs. Reed was going to testify to this herself.

Q. Mrs. Reed testified in the Judge Miller hearing?

A. Yes.

Q. But she didn't say anything about your taking this down, in that hearing, did she?

[fol. 2794] A. Mr. Reed and Mr. Ingraham intended for her to, and Judge Miller wouldn't let her.

Q. Why do you say Judge Miller wouldn't let her?

A. Because he stopped her testimony.

Q. We have a record of her testimony here. We will see if he did or not.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. You mean, stopped her from using these minutes?

A. He wouldn't let this go in. I think Mrs. Reed intended to testify about this.

Q. Did she testify about it and he told her he wouldn't receive it?

Mr. Ingraham: No, he stopped her before that—

Mr. Langsdale (Interrupting): Wait a minute, Bob. This witness is on the stand.

Trial Examiner Batten: I am asking the witness.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Did she refer to these minutes? A. No.

Q. Then, he didn't stop her, did he?

A. He didn't stop her on these minutes, no.

Trial Examiner Batten: That was Mr. Langsdale's question.

Mr. Langsdale: And you didn't take the witness stand at all in that hearing, did you?

[fol. 2795] A. No, sir.

Mr. Langsdale: Now that it is admitted that Judge Miller didn't stop her, there is no need of offering this testimony of Mrs. Reed in the Judge Miller hearing.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You didn't even testify, by affidavit or orally, leaving out the consideration of this so-called transcript, as to what Mrs. Reed said at the meeting of March 18, 1937, either in the three-judge hearing or in the Judge Miller hearing, did you?

A. No, I didn't, because I didn't think it was important enough. I thought Mrs. Reed would take care of that.

Q. You didn't leave that up to counsel? You just thought it wasn't important enough? Is that what you wish to say?

A. Counsel knew about it, and they didn't bring it up with me.

Q. Let me call your attention to an affidavit—

I had better get the original on this. No. 8. It follows Mrs. Reed's, I think.

Q. Let me show you an affidavit which was filed in the three-judge hearing, which purports to be one signed by you on the 30th day of October, 1937—signed by Mildred Frances Strine—and ask you to examine it and see if that is an affidavit that you made and swore to on the date that is indicated on the document. (Handing to the witness the document referred to.)

Is that an affidavit that was made and sworn to by you?

[fol. 2796] A. Yes, sir.

Q. And filed in the three-judge hearing? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 2797] Mr. Langsdale: Now, I offer in evidence the affidavit of Mildred Frances Strine, as appears commencing on page 209 of the record of what has been called the Three-Judge Court, and in Volume 1 of that record at that page, the same being the transcript of the record filed in the Supreme Court of the United States for the October Term, 1937, No. 801, entitled "International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union", and so forth "et al, Appellant, versus Donnelly Garment Company, Donnelly Garment Sales Company and Donnelly Garment Workers' Union", and so forth "et al," appealed from the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Missouri.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Langsdale, how many pages is that affidavit? Can't you have a copy of that made and you folks agree that is what it is, and put it in as an exhibit, because whoever reviews the record—

Mr. Langsdale (interrupting): My only purpose is to show that it makes no reference whatever to this document, Respondent's Exhibit 12, that was brought in this morning.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, I will agree that that is true.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, in that case it will not be necessary to offer the affidavit, will it?

Mr. Langsdale: No, not necessarily.

Now, then, there are two other affidavits.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Let me hand you this copy of an affidavit, one that [fol. 2798] is signed by you on the first day of November, 1937, filed in the Respondent's case in rebuttal, in the three-judge hearing, just referred to, and ask you to read it and state whether or not that is a copy of an affidavit made and sworn to by you, and filed in this cause?

(Whereupon, the affidavit above referred to was handed by Mr. Langsdale to the witness.)

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Langsdale: The purpose of offering this affidavit is to show that there is no reference made in it of any kind or character to any speech having been taken by this witness, at the meeting of March 18th.

Mr. Ingraham: I will agree that is true.

Mr. Langsdale: Is there any reason why they should agree it is true?

Mr. Lane: I am endeavoring to locate the affidavit. Do you have the page number in the three-judge transcript where they appear?

Trial Examiner Batten: Page 209 is one.

Mr. Langsdale: The other is in Volume 2.

Trial Examiner Batten: Of course, the Respondent's attorneys, if they agree that it isn't in there—

Mr. Lane (interrupting): Well, Mr. Langsdale asked if we agreed. I want to look at it.

Mr. Langsdale: Now, I show you a third affidavit, sworn to by you on the 3d day of November, 1937, and filed by [fol. 2799] the plaintiff, or the Donnelly Garment Company in this three-judge case that has been referred to, in rebuttal, by the plaintiff, Donnelly Garment Company, and ask you to read it and state whether or not you made and swore to that affidavit as of the date therein described?

(Whereupon, the affidavit above referred to was handed by Mr. Langsdale to the witness.)

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Langsdale: Now, my object in calling the witness' attention to, and having her read this third affidavit, is to show that there was no reference made in that affidavit to her having taken down a speech made by Mrs. Reed on the 18th day of March, 1937.

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Mr. Langsdale: Will it be admitted?

Mr. Ingraham: That is admitted.

Mr. Langsdale: Now, will it also be admitted that there was no other affidavit made by this witness and used in that same trial?

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Mr. Langsdale: And will it also be admitted that this witness did not testify in the so-called Judge Miller hearing?

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Mr. Langsdale: Let me show you an affidavit that purports to have been signed by Nell Quinlan Reed on the [fol. 2800] 5th day of November, 1937, and which was filed by the plaintiff, the Donnelly Garment Company, in rebuttal, in the so-called three-judge hearing, and have you tell the Examiner whether or not you are familiar with that affidavit.

(Whereupon, the affidavit above referred to was handed by Mr. Langsdale to the witness.)

Mr. Ingraham: Well, Mr. Langsdale, I will make no objection to the introduction in evidence of that affidavit that you are asking the witness to identify.

Mr. Langsdale: What I want to show is that Mrs. Reed, while talking about what she said at that meeting, said nothing about this witness having taken it.

Mr. Ingraham: It is all right with me for that affidavit to go into the evidence.

Mr. Langsdale: May we offer this whole affidavit?

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, I suppose you are all agreed.

* * * * * *

Redirect Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Strine, I will ask you if you were present at a conference between Senator Reed, Mrs. Reed and myself, prior to the hearing before the three-judge court, at which time there was a discussion about the use of the transcript of Mrs. Reed's speech?

[fol. 2801] A. Yes, I believe I was, and as I recall, Senator Reed—

Q. (Interrupting) Well, just state what took place there, and what Senator Reed said.

A. Senator Reed—before the Miller case?

Q. No, the three-judge.

A. The three-judge. Mr. Reed, as I recall, said that this would not be used in that case; that that was on the temporary injunction and he didn't think that it was necessary to use that; that that should be used in that case, but when the case went to trial on a permanent injunction, that Mr. Reed and Mr. Ingraham decided that that was when this would be brought in.

Q. Now, state whether or not you were present at any conference prior to the time Mrs. Reed testified before Judge Miller, at which time it was discussed as to whether or not Mrs. Reed would testify about this transcript and offer it in evidence? A. It was.

Q. And tell what was decided, if you remember, about whether or not she would, before Judge Miller, offer it in evidence?

A. Well, I don't remember in detail, except when it was discussed, it was decided that Mrs. Reed would offer this herself before Judge Miller, in her own testimony.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2802] Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, on some of these matters in which you stated that you would allow offers of proof, you have said that we could put another witness on, or we could stop and make the offer.

Now, we have other witnesses here in regard to the matter of the Loyalty League. We have offered several witnesses and these other witnesses will testify about the same, to about the same facts.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, as I recall, I have not indicated that you should not call any further witnesses about the Donnelly Loyalty League?

Mr. Ingraham: No, that is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: And I certainly see no need of calling any further witnesses, unless it is on matters that have not been covered by prior witnesses.

Now, you may offer one further witness on that, or you may make an offer of proof, the same as if the witnesses had been present here in court, and it will have the same force and effect.

Mr. Ingraham: Well, with that understanding, then, [fol. 2803] we will make the offers of proof, and at this time, I think outside of possibly one more witness, a doctor, the Respondent rests.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you mean with respect to Mrs. Reed?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

[fol. 2805] Appearances:

Daniel J. Leary and Henry H. Foster, Jr., 1016 Scarritt Building, Kansas City, Missouri, appearing for the National Labor Relations Board.

R. J. Ingraham, James J. Shepard, Jr., and Burr S. Stottle, 1900 Telephone Building, Kansas City, Missouri, appearing for the Donnelly Garment Company.

Frank E. Tyler, Thomas J. Patten, and Lucian Lane, 1008 Dwight Building, Kansas City, Missouri, appearing for the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

[fol. 2806] Clif Langsdale, 922 Scarritt Building, Kansas City, Missouri, and Jane Walker Palmer, 818 Scarritt Building, Kansas City Missouri, appearing for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2817] Jack McConaughey,

a witness called by and on behalf of the Intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, having been previously duly sworn, was recalled and further examined and testified as follows:

* * * * * * *

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. State your name, please.

A. Jack McConaughey.

Q. You are the same Mr. McConaughey who has previously testified in this case? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where are you employed, Mr. McConaughey?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed there?

A. Nine years.

Q. In what capacity are you now working there?

Mr. Langsdale: It seems to me, if the Examiner please, that this line of preliminary examination is all repetition. This witness has been on the stand before and has given all of this information and it is not disputed.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think, part of it; I don't know that I would be certain it all has.

[fol. 2818] I might say this, with respect to this matter of witnesses, that you recall, Mr. Tyler, that where they have been on before and all of the preliminaries have been covered, you may do the same as the other attorneys have done, ask such preliminary questions as you think you need to in order to lead up to what you are approaching.

Mr. Tyler: I will endeavor not to repeat.

What was the last question?

(Thereupon the last question was read by the reporter.)

A. Working in the accounting department.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. How long have you been in the accounting department?

A. Since March or April of this year.

Q. Are you a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been a member of that union?

A. Since its inception, April 27, 1937.

Q. Are you a member of the executive committee or board of chairmen of that union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been a member of that executive committee?

A. Since the inception of the committee, in 1937.

Q. Do you hold any office in that union? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 2819] Q. What is it?

A. Treasurer.

Q. How long have you been treasurer?

A. For a year and about three months.

Q. You have knowledge of the financial affairs of that union, based on your work as treasurer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does that organization pay its own bills?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever know of anybody else except the organization itself paying any of its bills?

A. No, sir.

Q. I ask you what these papers are that I hand you at this time. (Handing papers to the witness.)

* * * * * *

A. Those are invoices of the Kansas City Chair Rental Company.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2821] Mr. Langsdale: What number is that one (indicating), Mr. Tyler?

Mr. Tyler: 17-A.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. McConaughey, did these invoices come out of your files as treasurer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I notice that some of them are billed to the Donnelly Garment Company. Did the Donnelly Garment Company pay any of those bills which are invoiced to the Donnelly Garment Company?

Mr. Langsdale: Mr. Tyler, to save time, would you mind asking which ones are Donnelly Garment Company? [fol. 2822] I saw only one.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Langsdale, for your information, I have just checked up on my notes, and Mr.

Slotkin testified on June 26 that there was no account for the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union until January, 1939.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Will you state for the record which ones of these exhibits are billed to the Donnelly Garment Company? Look them over and state for the record.

A. Shall I use the exhibit number or the invoice number?

Q. The exhibit number.

A. Exhibit No. 17-B and 17-E are billed to the Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. Did the Donnelly Garment Company pay the bills represented by those invoices?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did the union pay them? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever give any instructions to the Kansas City Chair Rental Company to charge any rental for chairs used by the union to the Donnelly Garment Company? A. No, sir.

Q. Have you checked your accounts to see whether you have paid, as treasurer for the union, for chairs for every meeting that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union ever had? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 2823] Q. What result did you find?

A. That there were three meetings for which we had no invoice for chairs.

Q. How can you explain that, if you can explain it?

A. Either because it was billed to the Donnelly Garment Company and the invoice not forwarded to us, or else we just don't have the invoice.

Mr. Langsdale: I ask that the answer be stricken out as speculative and having no probative value whatever.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may stand.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Has the Kansas City Chair Rental Company presented any unpaid claim to you in the last few months?

A. No, sir. All of our bills have been paid.

Trial Examiner Batten: What were the dates of these three meetings, if you can recall them?

A. I believe there were two in 1937 and one in 1938, but I don't remember the dates.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Did the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union ever have any meetings at which the members stood up?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember the dates of any of those meetings?

A. There was one in 1937, the date of which I don't remember.

Q. Will the treasurer's books of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union show the moneys paid out by that union for various months since its organization?

[fol. 2824] A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will ask you to take the treasurer's book, which I now hand you, and read into the record the disbursements made by that union for two or three months, which you may take at random.

Trial Examiner Batten: You want just any two or three months as typical?

Mr. Tyler: I want to show that every month they paid substantial bills for themselves. I don't think it is necessary to put the whole book in evidence, but I want to show the payments made by the union for that month.

. . . . . .

Mr. Tyler: If the Examiner please, my recollection is that this is not in evidence. Moreover, I think it has some probative value, showing that month after month they paid their own bills, rather than a summary of all bills.

Trial Examiner Batten: If you are going to pick two or three months, I have no objection. However, [fol. 2825] it seems to me it would have more value if you would have a photostatic copy made of two or three months and put it in, but you may do as you please.

Mr. Langsdale: May I state to the Examiner, this is a report of a certified public accountant, which takes in each payment each month, stating the item and the amount, commencing with May, 1937, and running through December, and commencing with January, 1938, and running through December. That is, it takes in all of the expenditures from the date of its [information] down through 1938.

Mr. Tyler: My recollection is, that has not been offered as yet. I am not sure.

Mr. Patten: It has not been identified or offered.

Mr. Langsdale: You may look at it and see if it reflects the facts, and maybe it will save a lot of time.

Mr. Tyler: I will look at it at recess. How will that be?

Mr. Langsdale: All right.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may go ahead.

A. November 2, 1937, there was an expenditure for the Schooley Printing Company, $4.67; the 8th there was an allowance for checking dues of 50 cents; refund on dues for overcharge, $3.25; refund on dues for overcharge, $1. On the 16th there was Rode Todd's salary, from the 1st to the 16th, $32.50. On the 16th, Rode Todd, taxi fare, $4.85. On the 16th, The Culino Company (cards for [fol. 2825-A] party), $16.22. On the 23d, Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Taylor, $1,000. On the [22th], Rose Todd's salary, 16th to the 1st, $32.50. On the 30th, Fred V. Brown's salary for November, $5. On the 30th, Kansas City Chair Rental Company, $12.14. On the 30th, G-R Sound Service, $15.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2829] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. I see an item there for the month of November, 1937, "Allowed for collecting, cafeteria." What does that mean?

A. That was the dues that were allowed the collector of dues in the cafeteria for the actual collection of dues.

Q. Was or was it not the custom of the union to allow a compensation for members who collected dues during those [fol. 2830] early days?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. If that was abandoned, when was it abandoned?

A. It was abandoned, with the beginning of the check-off system they asked the company for.

Q. Who asked for that check-off system?

A. The Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Q. I see, also, an item for refund in connection with dues. What does that mean?

A. The dues had been overcharged. At this time, because of this change from one method of collecting dues to another, this possibly would have been a payment ahead of two or three months' dues, which some of the members chose to do, and then when we began to deduct that from their salary we refunded some that had been paid ahead.

Q. As treasurer have you ever knowingly received or accepted from the company a larger amount of money representing dues held out by the company than the actual number of members of the union? A. No, sir.

Q. Will those pages of monthly receipts and disbursements show payments every month since the existence of the union?

A. Yes, sir, I believe so.

Q. Mr. McConaughey, do you remember a meeting of employees of the Donnelly Garment Company on March 18th, 1937?

[fol. 2831] A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you present at that meeting?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What time of day was it held?

A. After working hours.

Q. Where was it held?

A. On the second floor of the Corrigan Building.

Q. Was that floor of the Corrigan Building at that time leased by the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company? A. No, sir.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2832] Mr. Tyler: Mr. McConaughey, you were a member of the executive committee of the union at the [fol. 2833] time of the negotiations of the working agreement with the companies on May 27, 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you attend any conference between the representatives of the union and the representatives of the company on May 27, 1937? A. Yes, I did.

Mr. Tyler: May I have a copy of the working agreement?

Trial Examiner Batten: Board's Exhibit No. 6.

(Thereupon Board's Exhibit No. 6 was handed to Mr. Tyler.)

Mr. Tyler: I hand you Board's Exhibit No. 6, being the articles of agreement between the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, and ask you what matters were discussed in those negotiations between the union and the companies on May 26, 1937.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Tyler, I want to make the same ruling on this that I just made on the other. There have been two members of this executive committee testify in detail about this, and either two or three of the respondent's witnesses. So, unless you are going to cover matters that have not thus far been covered, I don't want to go into it with this witness. Now, if there is anything else, anything new, I want you to cover it with this wit- [fol. 2834] ness, but Miss Todd and Mr. Atherton, both of whom were at this meeting, testified quite extensively about these negotiations—and Mr. Baty, and I believe Mrs. Reeves. So, unless there is something new, I think it is cumulative.

Mr. Tyler: Your Honor has stated it is regarded by you as a matter of substantial importance as to whether there were real negotiations. I think the number of witnesses who were present and who recall matters of discussion or argument tends to establish genuine negotiations.

If Your Honor regards that fact as definitely established I will not offer further evidence on that point. If you do not consider it as definitely established, I certainly think I should go into it.

Trial Examiner Batten: You do not expect me to answer that question, do you?

Mr. Tyler: Well—

Trial Examiner Batten: As Trial Examiner of this case, do you expect me to answer that question now?

Mr. Tyler: I have no expectation one way or the other, but I do think that unless Your Honor feels that is definitely established, I should be allowed to present the evidence by the persons who were present at those negotiations.

Trial Examiner Batten: You may present it by an offer of proof.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, respondent would say, in [fol. 2835] that connection, that your statement that unless some new matters were to be gone into—it could hardly be determined what the witness would testify to unless he is permitted to answer the questions and state what did occur.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle, I presume Mr. Tyler has interviewed this witness as to his testimony, and gone over it thoroughly, as every attorney should before examining his witness, so that he should be able to judge that. I can't. I am simply saying, if there is anything this witness can testify to about these negotiations that will add to the information in this record, certainly the Examiner wants it and the Board wants it. If it is simply a matter of repeating what at least four other witnesses have testified to, I don't think it is necessary.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent desires to show in an offer of proof that the witness is excluded from testifying, for the reason you have indicated, that is an important matter; and, for the reasons Mr. Tyler has stated.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think it is an exceedingly important matter. I agree with you on that.

Mr. Stottle: What is the ruling on the objection to this witness being excluded from testifying on it?

Trial Examiner Batten: I will reserve my decision.

Mr. Tyler: For the present the ruling is, this witness in not allowed to go into the negotiations of May 27, 1937?

[fol. 2836] Trial Examiner Batten: Excepting in so far as he testifies to matters that have not yet been covered.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Do you know, Mr. McConaughey, as to what matters have been described in this hearing as being covered by the negotiations of May 27?

A. I wasn't present at the time of the testimony of any other witnesses in this courtroom on that subject, so I don't know exactly what has been covered.

Q. Has anybody told you fully, in detail, as to what has been covered by the other witnesses? A. No, sir.

Q. Were you present at any negotiations of June 21 or June 22, 1937?

Mr. Stottle: Just a moment. Mr. Examiner, in view of the witness' last two responses, respondent renews its objections to his being excluded from testifying, because it is apparent that no one could determine now whether he has any new matters [of] not.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle, you have been present every day of this hearing, haven't you?

Mr. Stottle: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: And you, Mr. Tyler?

Mr. Tyler: I have been absent a day or two.

Trial Examiner Batten: But you have had Mr. Patten or Mr. Lane, or someone, representing you every day of [fol. 2837] this hearing, have you not?

Mr. Tyler: Yes.

Mr. Stottle: But, Mr. Examiner, I have never discussed with Mr. McConaughey one word as to what his negotiations were—

Trial Examiner Batten: I want the record to show that while the witnesses have not been here all the time, the attorneys have been.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2838] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. McConaughey, your work requires that you be present in the building of the Donnelly Garment Company practically every working day, does it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does it require that you go from floor to floor in that building frequently? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you familiar with the principal subjects of discussion among the employees of the two companies during the months of March and April, 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What were the principal subjects of discussion?

A. Strikes at the Gernes plant, and what we might be able to do to protect ourselves from the apparent danger that was due us in a short while.

Q. Did you ever hear of any threats that the same proceedings would be taken as to employees of the Donnelly companies as were being taken against employees at the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri plants?

Mr. Leary: I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten: Objection sustained.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. What was the attitude of mind of the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment [fol. 2839] Sales Company during March, 1937, in regard to the possible action of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union against them.

A. Everyone felt that— I talked to numbers of them on my job in the service department at that time—I talked to hundreds of people every day, and they were all expressing concern over the happenings that were taking place all over town, and many of them told me of having heard directly from people they knew there, or else overheard people who were in the line of strikers, that we were going to be the next on the list, which naturally caused an agitated state of mind throughout the plant and no one could pursue his job with a great deal of peace of mind, because he didn't know at what time he was going to be kept from coming into the building himself.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Tyler, I think I have indicated previously on this matter of violence and this situation in Kansas City that I didn't think it was material, and therefore asked the respondent to make an offer of proof.

And I think yesterday I indicated, on this attitude of mind of the employees as a result of this situation, that I didn't consider it material.

Therefore, I will ask that you prepare an offer of proof on it, because I don't think the respondent can be held responsible for a situation that is a matter of employees' [fol. 2840] organization by unions and matters of that kind.

I think I have stated before, I don't think it is material to the issue as to whether or not the respondent formed this union, dominates it, or sponsors it. Therefore, I would ask that you prepare an offer of proof on that question.

Mr. Tyler: I wanted to make it clear I wasn't waiving my point heretofore made on that matter. Hereafter, then, I will offer a written offer of proof on that point, without endeavoring to go into it with individual witnesses.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes. And I want to say, as I said to Mr. Ingraham yesterday, the offer of proof which you make will have the same force and effect as though you had presented the witnesses here and offered it that way.

Mr. Langsdale: What about this answer he just made to the last question? Does that stand, so that it will be the subject of cross-examination?

Trial Examiner Batten: I permitted the questions to be asked up to the point where I could tell what it was all about. I thought Mr. Tyler was going into that subject matter.

Mr. Langsdale: There is one phase of the answer I want to cross-examine on if the answer stands.

Trial Examiner Batten: Of course, I do not expect to have cross-examination on a matter which I have asked [fol. 2841] for an offer of proof on and stated that I don't consider it to be material. Therefore, I wouldn't consider the witness' answer, or the question, material.

Mr. Tyler: If the Examiner has already ruled that it is, in his opinion, incompetent and not admissible, and therefore when I offer this written proof I may expect you to make the same ruling, I see no ground for cross-examination.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't believe I said it was incompetent. I don't think I used that term.

Mr. Tyler: No.

Trial Examiner Batten: But any offers of proof the parties offer, Mr. Tyler, when they are offered I intend to make a ruling, as I stated at the beginning of this hearing, that will be served on all of the parties. You cannot assume that I will make the same ruling, because I might change my mind and want to hear all of that testimony.

Mr. Langsdale: I move to strike the answer of the witness to the last question.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may be stricken.

Mr. Lane: Mr. Examiner, do I understand if you reject an offer, so that the record stands that there is no evidence —

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): If I would reject this offer on the ground that I do not consider it material and relevant, of course this witness—As yesterday, with the respondent, we permitted a witness, in some cases, [fol. 2842] to go ahead and answer the question, because, as I have discussed with you attorneys frequently, I want sufficient questions in the record so that if the matter is reviewed by the Board or the Courts they will know what it is all about.

Mr. Lane: Do I understand if these written offers are accepted by you the hearing will be reconvened so that these witnesses can be recalled?

Trial Examiner Batten: Whatever ruling I make will be sufficiently covered and you will be advised of exactly what the status of the matter is.

Mr. Langsdale: If you do permit the offer, then it would be necessary, would it not, to call the witness for the purpose of cross-examination?

Trial Examiner Batten: I just said, Mr. Langsdale, when I make my ruling all of these matters will be fully covered in the ruling. That is exactly what I mean. And when my ruling is served on the parties, if you have an exception to take, you may take your exception.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2843] Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, although the witness is a witness of the intervener, respondent deems the answer which was made, which has just been stricken out, as material evidence in the case and desires to except to the ruling, and asks the Examiner if it may be understood that respondent may have exceptions to rulings you make as to the intervener's witnesses without requesting it each time.

Trial Examiner Batten: You are requesting that you be allowed to save exceptions to rulings as to intervener's witnesses from now on?

Mr. Stottle: No. May it be understood we have an automatic exception to the rulings? If it were considered an adverse ruling to us, I understand we would automatically have an exception, but Your Honor might not deem this matter an adverse ruling to the respondent.

Trial Examiner Batten: The record will stand as it is now as to my statement on exceptions. I think that matter is covered in the record.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent does except to the striking of this answer.

Mr. Tyler: Mr. Examiner, it will be somewhat difficult for me to prepare written offers of proof at the same time as offering oral evidence. May I have—[fol. 2844] Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): I understand, Mr. Tyler, of course, you being the last one, I can't expect you to prepare them now. When the oral testimony is finished—all of the parties—I will give you a reasonable length of time to prepare these offers of proof.

Mr. Lane: Does Your Honor have a complete statement of the offers we are to make, or are we bound to keep track of it?

Trial Examiner Batten: I think the record indicates it. I am also keeping track of it. If you miss any I will probably call it to your attention. I intend to set a date by which time all offers and all material must be in, and if they are not received by that date I will assume you do not intend to submit any, because sometime, on some date, this thing has to be closed, but I will make it a reasonable time.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. McConaughey, did any employer or representative of the employer ever in any way endeavor to coerce or threaten you in connection with membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or any other union?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did any employer or representative of the employers offer you any inducement such as favorable working conditions or increase in pay, or promotion, in case you would take part in the organization or membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

[fol. 2845] A. They did not.

Q. Do you know of any employee in the plant, or any extra employee in the plant, who was threatened or induced in connection with membership in that union or any other by the employer or any representative of the employer?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Have you had any increases in salary, or in wages, since you have been employed by the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Yes, sir, innumerable ones.

Q. Will you name them?

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2851] By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. McConaughey, I show you the minutes of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union of May 25, 1937, in which appears an article which was read to those present from the noon paper. The article is set out on the first page. I will ask you if you remember that meeting.

(Thereupon the article referred to was handed to the witness by Mr. Tyler.)

A. Yes, sir, I remember the meeting.
Q. Did that meeting convene at 3:45 p. m.?
A. No, sir. We have never had a union meeting except after working hours.
Q. At that meeting did Miss Todd say to those present along at the beginning of her remarks, "I want to tell you this is going to be two meetings, the first being a meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and after that the meeting of the Loyalty League"?
A. No, sir, she did not say that.
Q. Was that meeting followed by a meeting of the Loyalty League?
[fol. 2852] A. No, sir.
Q. Mr. McConaughey, when you were on the stand previously in this case did Mr. Langsdale ask for the folders containing the invoices of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Were they handed to him? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Were the invoices for chair rentals which you have identified at this time on the stand in the folders which were handed to him?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you know whether he had possession of those folders for any length of time or not?
A. He had possession of them over the lunch hour.

Trial Examiner Batten: You are referring to Intervener's Exhibits 17-A to 17-I, inclusive?

Mr. Tyler: Yes, sir. Those offered this morning.

By Mr. Tyler:
Q. Were you present at a meeting of the employees along about the end of March or the first of April, 1937?
A. Yes, sir, I was.

Q. Where was that meeting held?
A. On the second floor of the Corrigan Building.
Q. What time of day was it held?
A. Just after working hours.
[fol. 2853] Q. Can you fix the date of that meeting?
A. I believe it was the 29th or 30th of March. At least, it was about a month before the formation of our union.
Q. What was the date of the formation of the union?
A. April 27.
Q. What happened at that meeting?
A. It was a short meeting. We all stood up around the platform, and Miss Todd called the meeting to order. She informed us she had consulted Mr. Tyler a few days before with a view to getting injunction relief in case it was necessary, and he desired to have a retainer's fee, and wanted to know how we wanted to get it.

There was a number of ideas put forth as to how to do it—dances, and stuff like that, but one of the members got up and made the motion that we donate 50 cents apiece to pay Mr. Taylor his retainer's fee.

The meeting was adjourned as soon as that business was transacted.

Q. Do you know who made that motion?
A. Miss Daisy Kilby.
Q. Was that motion put to a vote?
A. Yes.
Q. What was the result?
A. That we would take it up, the 50 cents.
Q. Do you know whether 50 cents apiece was collected [fol. 2854] from the employees?
A. Well, I got it from the ones in my department, and paid it myself.
Q. From about how many people did you collect 50 cents apiece?
A. The boys that work around there, 10 or 12.
Q. How soon did you make that collection?
A. Within a few days. I might have waited until April 1 for a pay day, I don't remember.

Q. Did you or did you not attend a meeting on April 27, 1937? A. I did.

Q. Where was that meeting?

A. On the second floor of the Corrigan Building.

Q. What time of day was it held?

A. Right after working hours, between 4:30 and 5, I would say.

Q. Who attended that meeting, in a general way?

A. All of the employees. I didn't see any of our executives, or anybody like that, but everybody else was down there.

Q. Did you see any officer of either company there?

A. No.

Q. Was anybody with authority to hire or fire employees there? A. No.

Q. Tell the Examiner what occurred at that meeting.

A. Well, we all went down—word was passed around [fol. 2855] that there was to be a meeting, and we went down on the second floor, and the meeting was called to order by Miss Todd, acting as chairman, and she said that recent news press notices had said the Wagner Act was valid, and Mr. Tyler, as a result of that, had gone into the fact and was going to advise us about forming a labor union.

Mr. Tyler then spoke about why he thought it was a good idea for us to form our own labor union, if we wanted to.

Then, we had a discussion among the members there, and it was moved by someone from the floor that we have a labor union, and the motion was carried.

Then, the matter of the name was brought up. The name Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was suggested, and the motion was made that Miss Todd appoint a nominating committee to bring in names for nine chairmen, and the motion was carried and the nominating committee left the room.

While they were out of the room we passed out cards which said, "I hereby desire to become a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and abide by its by-laws," and we were told to sign them if we wished, or not to if we didn't wish.

And then, Mr. Tyler read the by-laws that he had drawn up tentatively; with the provision that in case we wished to amend them they could be amended at any meeting by a majority vote. These by-laws were adopted.

[fol. 2856] By that time the committee had returned from selecting their Board, and we put that to a vote, after there had been requests for any other nominations from the floor, and there were none. We put this group to a vote, and they were elected.

Some of the cards were collected at the meeting, I think the major portion of them—some of them the next day.

Then, that adjourned the meeting, I believe.

Q. How did you get notice that that meeting was going to be held?

A. I may have answered the phone call, or I may have had one of the other boys—just by word of mouth some way.

Q. Did anybody give you orders to attend that meeting?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did anybody hint to you that it would be for your own good to attend that meeting or to your damage if you didn't attend it? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear at a meeting of the union the statement made from the platform that the employees should not consider what Mrs. Reed or Mr. Dubinsky wanted, but only what they themselves wanted with regard to union matters?

A. That has been repeated repeatedly.

Q. Did you ever hear any contrary statement to the effect that the employees should find out what Mrs. Reed wanted and give consideration to that?

[fol. 2857] A. That wasn't their concern.

Q. Did you ever hear any statement made that you should give attention to what Mrs. Reed wanted?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you join the union of your own free will and accord? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was any inducement offered you to join the union?

A. None whatever.

Q. Are you satisfied with it as your bargaining representative? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know of any employee in the plant ever complaining that pressure was brought on him or her with regard to his or her affiliation with any labor union?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Tyler: That is all.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Tyler, on the three matters this witness has testified to, one being the last question you just asked, of his own free will, if you call a witness for some other purpose—I don't know as there is any objection to asking that question, although I don't consider it material to ask a witness that on the stand. From the respondent yesterday I asked for an offer of proof on that, so I don't want you to think that by passing the matter up —In other words, if you contemplate calling 1,200 [fol. 2858] employees and asking them that question, it is an entirely different matter.

On the meeting of April 27, which this witness testified to, unless you have witnesses that can add something to what has already been testified to, I don't want you to offer any further witnesses on it. You may make it in an offer of proof.

As to the March 27 to April 5 meeting, I permitted this witness to testify, because I thought perhaps he would be able to definitely place the date. Now, unless other witnesses have something to add to the testimony we have already received on this meeting, you may make an offer of proof as to that.

Mr. Tyler: I understand, then, as to any testimony regarding the April 27 meeting, unless I have some item about it hitherto not touched upon it is your ruling that I need not ask succeeding witnesses those questions, but to make an offer of proof on it?

Trial Examiner Batten: You do not need to present another witness for the purpose of having the witness sworn and ask the question and then have the witness stopped. You may make your offer the same as if the witnesses were here and sworn.

Mr. Tyler: And the same ruling as to the meeting held about the last of March or first of April?

Trial Examiner Batten: As to any offer of proof you make.

[fol. 2859] Mr. Tyler: And as to the other matter, the free will of the witnesses, of course Your Honor understands my position, that that is as much a fact as his indigestion or whether he has a broken leg, and the best way to get that is to ask him about it.

Trial Examiner Batten: You say it is an objective like a broken leg. I can see a broken leg, but I can't see this witness' mental reaction to that question.

Mr. Tyler: The best way you can is to hear him testify about it. As to that question, shall I put that in an offer of proof?

Trial Examiner Batten: If you intend, as Mr. Ingraham indicated to me that he did, calling a very large number of witnesses to testify on that point, I say you had better submit it in the form of an offer of proof. If you submit witnesses on other matters and you incidentally ask them that question, I have no objection, although I still don't consider it material, for the reasons I have previously stated in the record, but I wouldn't have any objection to it.

Mr. Tyler: That is all, Mr. McConaughey.

* * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

[fol. 2860] Mr. Langsdale: How long have you worked for the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Nine years.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2866] Q. When asked by Mr. Tyler how you got notice of the meeting of April 27 you stated that you might have answered the phone, or one of the boys might have answered? A. That is right.

Q. That you didn't just recall?

A. I beg your pardon.

Q. That you didn't just recall how you got that notice?

A. That is right.

Q. In the so-called Judge Miller hearing I find that, on [fol. 2867] page 1163, in talking about that meeting you were asked this question:

"Q. What kind of notice was given of that meeting?

"A. Well, I have a house phone, one of our inter-departmental phones in our department. I was called by the telephone operator to the effect that there would be a meeting, and would I please inform the people in my department to that effect, and I did."

You made that answer to that question in the Miller hearing?

A. If it is there, I suppose I did.

Q. Well, is that true?

A. Yes. And, further, in the same hearing, the Miller hearing, the question and answer following the ones just read:

"Q. Who was it called you, do you know?

"A. It was Miss Wardell, the telephone operator."

Did you make that answer to that question?

A. If it is in the record.

Q. Well, is it true?

A. It was my recollection then, and now, that you refresh my memory, it is true.

* * * * * * *

By Mr. Leary:

Q. I believe you stated the company has never overpaid the union on the check-off. Is that what you meant to say? [fol. 2868] A. That is right.

Q. Is the check-off money given to you monthly?

A. Either to myself or Miss Todd.

Q. Has it ever been given to you? A. Yes.

Q. What check do you make to determine whether or not there is too much money in the amount the company gives you?

A. Well, my check on that is to take the figure and divide it by 25, find out what the total number is, and find out how many we should have, and see how it comes out.

Q. Where do you find out the number you should have?

A. We have our file of cards that are signed by members, which we keep in Miss Todd's desk at all times, and we know how many members we have.

Q. Who keeps that file up to date?

A. Either myself, Miss Todd, or Miss Green.

Q. Where do you get your information to keep it up to date? A. From the employment department.

Q. When do you check with the employment department on that matter?

A. We get a slip from them just periodically, no special time.

Q. Have you any of those slips you have ever received?

A. No, sir.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2869] Q. Do you ever give any receipts to your individual members? A. No, sir.

Q. Does the company give them receipts for money they have paid to the union?

A. Give the employees receipts, is that what you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Are you sure of that?

A. Oh, I suppose you would call it a receipt. On our check stubs it lists all of our deductions, hospitalization, and so forth, and union dues are marked on the stub. It is thumbnailed on there.

Q. And, as far as you know, the members of your union accept that receipt as all they need; is that it?

A. That is right.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2870] Q. Isn't it true that an employee must be working a certain number of days per month in order to be paying dues? A. Yes, primarily.

Q. What is it? A. Yes, in a general sense.

Q. How many days a month do you have to be employed in order that you must pay dues?

A. I don't know.

Q. You haven't any idea?

A. Not the slightest.

Q. You are the treasurer, you say?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Has that question ever arisen in your experience as treasurer of the organization? A. No, sir.

Q. Is it your testimony that Miss Todd came to this meeting of an unidentified date, sometime late in March, 1937, or thereabouts, and stated that a committee of three had called on Mr. Tyler and that it was necessary to raise $500 as a retainer for Mr. Tyler?

A. I don't recall she said how many. She said, we and some other employees.

[fol. 2871] Q. Other than that, is not my statement correct?

A. It is substantially correct, yes.

Q. Your understanding of that was that nothing was to be done by Mr. Tyler until he received the $500; is that it?

A. I am sorry, I don't understand a retainer's fee as clearly as that. I just thought he would probably go ahead with his investigation. I don't know what a retainer's fee means to you fellows.

Q. Nonetheless, the $500 was collected, was it not?

A. Yes.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2874-75] Q. When you collected this money sometime in late March or early April, 1937, did you give the payors receipts? A. No, sir.

Q. Whom did you give the money to?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Haven't you any idea?

[fol. 2876] A. No, I haven't.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2877] Redirect Examination

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Is the Loyalty League still in existence?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you attended any meetings, parties, picnics, or socials in the last couple of years?

A. I don't remember any meetings. I have attended a number of picnics.

Q. Was the meeting of March 18, 1937, a meeting of the Loyalty League? A. No, sir.

Q. Was the meeting held about the end of March or the first of April a Loyalty League meeting?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did that meeting toward the end of March or the first of April approve or ratify the report of the employees who said they had hired attorneys about the injunction investigation? A. Yes.

Q. Is the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union a successor to the Loyalty League?

A. In no way.

Q. Did you ever attend a meeting of the Loyalty League at which the members talked about, "Now we will [fol. 2878] have the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union to do so and so." Did you ever attend any such meeting or hear any such conversation? A. No, sir.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2879] Recross Examination.

Mr. Stottle: Will you state what negotiations occurred on May 27, 1937, between your committee and the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company as to your working agreement?

Trial Examiner Batten: Will you give him a copy of that?

* * * * * *

[fol. 2880] A. On May 27, the committee of employees [fol. 2881] met in Mrs. Reed's office, and we took along a draft of our agreement that we had drawn up to be [ready] over and considered by Mrs. Reed and her affiliates.

We convened about 10 o'clock in the morning, 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning, and Mr. Tyler read the contract, or read part of the contract to the parties that were there, and there was conversation about various points as he came to them. But after he was about halfway through Mrs. Reed said she would like to go over the contract with her constituents, and we were to meet again in the afternoon, possibly at 12 o'clock.

We were in Mrs. Reed's office from about 10 to about 12, and returned again at 2 o'clock.

During this time Mrs. Reed had read the contract, and we took up the various points which she didn't like and the points we didn't like that she might have offered.

I believe the first point of controversy I can notice here (referring to Board's Exhibit 6) is on the rates of pay in paragraph 2.

It states that we should have a minimum of $15, and Mrs. Reed objected to this because she didn't feel she should tie herself down for a two-year period for paying that minimum wage. Although she had been paying that $15 minimum wage to some of the pieceworkers, yet none of our time workers had received such a minimum guarantee at all.

[fol. 2882] The working hours of 40 hours a week, Mr. Brown was very insistent on bringing that point in. I know most of the boys in the department where he was working and where I was working were very desirous of getting the 40-hour week. We had had a taste of it under the N. R. A. and we liked it.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Are these all matters you discussed in the May 27 meeting? A. Yes, sir.

Q. That you had had a taste of it under the N. R. A. and all of those things you are stating, are things you stated there?

A. With the exception of the taste of it.

Q. Mr. Stottle's question was, tell us what went on in the meeting.

A. All right. I will watch that. Under the seventh paragraph, Complaints and Grievances, Mrs. Reed wanted to have the right of having an employee come to her as well as our own union, and of course that was acceptable to us, because that was a right under the law, anyway, but that was a point she brought out, and it was inserted.

Q. A right under the law. What do you mean?

A. According to the Wagner Act, as it has been explained to me, the employee doesn't necessarily have to go through the group.

Q. You mean, the individual can go and bargain with the boss?

[fol. 2883] A. Under Complaints and Grievances.

Q. What is your opinion of the difference between grievances and bargaining?

A. Well, bargaining is the original concept of what is right and what is wrong for the two groups. After the contract has been made, any points that the person seems to feel is not living up to the contract would be a grievance. The contract itself, of course, is not a grievance.

Q. Does that mean if a matter should arise not covered by the contract the individual could go to the Employer?

A. I don't know. That hasn't arisen, to my knowledge.

Q. I just wondered.

A. Paragraph 9 Mrs. Reed objected to, but we were very insistent on getting a closed shop for our own protection.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Is paragraph 9 the closed shop paragraph?

A. Yes, sir. But she agreed to it, after some discussion with her constituents.

Paragraph 12, on arbitration, was presented by ourselves, with the exception that the company asked that the third party on the arbitration should be made up of a judge of the United States District Court.

Q. You say that was the suggestion of Mrs. Reed?

A. I said, that point of the arbitration was suggested by her, which was written in. However, arbitration was in [fol. 2884] our original contract.

Q. She suggested the Federal Judge?

A. Right. Vacations, under paragraph 15, was a heated subject of controversy, because it required Mrs. Reed to give any employee who had been there over two years—any piecework employee, or any employee, as far as that is concerned, two weeks' vacation with pay.

It had been the custom before that for anyone over there a year, to give them one week's vacation with pay, and there was a tie-up of certain money to her which she didn't want to do. But we brought out the point that our time workers had gotten two weeks and we felt we were bound to do as well by our pieceworkers, which represented a larger group, as the time workers had.

Paragraph 16, although it had already been the practice of the company to pay a portion of our Prudential Life Insurance, and so forth, was a point put in by us. We brought out the point that she was doing it, and we said we wanted it in there, anyway, so that the assurance of that for two years would be ours, so that we wouldn't have the anxiety in case she should decide not to do it.

The length of the contract, that was discussed. We wanted a two-year contract. We felt we couldn't probably, get a contract for any longer than that, but we did want it for two years. Mrs. Reed was very insistent that it be a year's [fol. 2885] contract because she didn't want to tie herself down to any two years to be paying the increases she would be forced to pay by the new contract.

I think that pretty well covers it, Mr. Stottle.

By Mr. Stottle:

Q. Mr. McConaughey, did you and your committee feel that a Federal District Judge would be as fair and unbiased as any person who could be chosen to act as a third party on the committee?

A. Oh, yes. We had no objection to that.

Q. Mr. McConaughey, you testified that the first meeting was from approximately 10 o'clock to 12 o'clock is that right? A. That is right.

Q. Was discussion going on between the parties during that period of time?

A. Yes. They were reading the contract and voicing opinions on it.

Mr. Stottle: That is all.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Langsdale?

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You say at the meeting of May 27 Mrs. Reed held out on the closed shop provision of the contract, paragraph 9? A. That is right.

Q. Do you recall anything she said about it?

A. Just that she wanted to be able to hire whom she [fol. 2886] liked. She didn't want to be restricted to a closed shop.

Q. Did she say why?

A. Nothing but that she wanted a free rein in whom she would hire.

Q. Did she think someone might want to work there who wouldn't want to join the Garment Workers' Union? Did she say that? A. She didn't say that.

Q. Was there anything else she said in expressing her opposition to a closed shop?

A. No, sir, I don't believe so.

Q. Did I understand you to say the pieceworkers had never had any minimum at the Donnelly Garment Company until this contract of May 27?

A. No, sir. I believe you misunderstood me. I said it had been the practice of the company to pay pieceworkers a $15 minimum; not that they were guaranteed it, but it had been their practice.

Q. You stated in answer to one of Mr. Leary's questions that you gave those employees who paid their 50 cents at the April 1, 1937, meeting no receipt?

A. That is right.

Q. Did you keep any record yourself of those who paid?

A. No.

Q. How did you know who paid and who had not paid? [fol. 2887] A. I would write down the names of the boys working around me, and when they would pay me I would put down a check mark, and send the money to whoever got it.

Q. How would those in charge of collecting from the 12 or 13 hundred, then, know who had paid, without any records at all?

A. I believe the primary—

Q. (Interrupting) Just answer the question. Do you know how those in charge of collecting the fund knew who had paid and who had not?

A. No.

Mr. Langsdale: That is all.

By Mr. Leary:

Q. Did you testify that you knew you wouldn't get more than two-year contract; is that it?

A. I didn't say we knew; I said, we didn't feel.

Q. You didn't feel as though you would get more than a two-year contract?

A. That is right.

Q. And you wanted more than a two-year contract; is that it?

A. Not exactly. I don't know whether we did or not. It was the subject of discussion, whether we could get more than a two-year contract, or what we could reasonably expect to get.

Q. You did testify you felt you would only get two years, didn't you? A. Yes.

[fol. 2888] Redirect Examination

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. McConaughey, on this 50-cent collection, did you actually collect from all of the boys in your group?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you report to whomever you turned the money over to that you had collected from everybody in your group? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In these negotiations about closed shop, do you remember Mrs. Reed said anything about she would like to feel anybody could work in her shop regardless of what he did or didn't belong to?

A. I believe that was the idea.

Q. I am not asking you for the idea. Did she say anything along that line? A. Yes, sir.

Q. She did say something along that line?

A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 2889] Q. Will you repeat what she said about that?

A. She felt she should be able to employ whom she wanted to, no matter who they were, or what they belonged to. She wanted to feel she would have a free rein in employing anybody who came into the place that she wanted to employ.

Q. Did the committee before it went to see Mrs. Reed on May 27 determine how long a contract they were going to ask for, before they went in to talk to Mrs. Reed at all?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. What did they determine on?
A. Two years.
Q. Did they make up their own minds about how much time they were going to ask for before they went in there? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 2890] Trial Examiner Batten: Before proceeding with the witnesses I think I should indicate for the record that Board's Exhibit No. 1-KKKK is the amended complaint, which is received.

Board's Exhibit No. 1-LLLL is the respondent's answer to the amended complaint.

And, Mr. Tyler, 1-MMMM will be reserved for the intervener's answer, so that those three documents will be together in the record.

1-LLLL will be received.

1-MMMM is the respondent's offer of proof covering sub-section B of its answer.

(Thereupon the documents, above referred to were marked for identification "Board's Exhibits Nos. 1-KKKK, 1-LLLL, 1-NNNN," and were received in evidence.)

I presume in that offer of proof, Mr. Ingraham, you refer to certain named persons who would testify?

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: Then, you say, further, " including the documents and exhibits which are in the N. R. A.-Judge Miller case Exhibit No. 3. You are including all of that in your offer?

[fol. 2891] Mr. Ingraham: I am including all of the exhibits that the witnesses I have named testified about.

Trial Examiner Batten: You are restricting your offer to the witnesses named in Board's Exhibit No. 1-NNNN.

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct—and the documents they testified about.

Trial Examiner Batten: No. 1-OOOO is the offer of proof by the respondent which covers the matters upon which an offer was requested as follows: The meeting of March 18, the meeting that occurred between March 27 and April 5, the matter, "Did you join of your own free will?" And the matter of the violence and the organizational campaign of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in Kansas City. Is that correct?

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Mr. Stottle: It includes some more, though, Mr. Examiner.

Trial Examiner Batten: What else does it include?

Mr. Stottle: The April 27 meeting.

Trial Examiner Batten: Pardon me. Also, the April 27 meeting. Five matters.

Mr. Stottle: No. It includes, also, the Loyalty League matter. We did include that in the offer of proof.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't have that in my notes.

Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, if you recall, we put on one witness, and then I said we had other witnesses, but if [fol. 2892] you were going to make a ruling that we should make an offer, that we would do that; and then, you made the same announcement made previously about the other matters.

Trial Examiner Batten: Whether I did or not, the record will indicate.

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, the record will show.

Trial Examiner Batten: Oh, pardon me. I do see that. You are correct, Mr. Ingraham. Now, those are the only matters included in your offer of proof, No. 1-OOOO, is that correct?

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: Let me ask this question: The only matters which you have included in your offer of proof are the matters within my ruling?

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is, you have not included in this offer of proof any new matters?

Mr. Ingraham: No.

Trial Examiner Batten: In other words, it is your intent and purpose to include in the offer of proof only those matters that might be construed as cumulative or repetitious? On the violence matter, of course, it couldn't be, because I wouldn't accept any testimony on that. But I want it understood that in the offer of proof you are not offering any testimony other than that under my ruling. That is, I [fol. 2893] told you if there is anything new, new testimony would be received. Is that correct?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Mr. Stottle: That was our intention, and I think that is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten. I wanted that understood. It will be received.

(Thereupon the offer of proof above referred to was marked for identification "Board's Exhibit No. 1-OOOO," and received in evidence.)

Mr. Langsdale: Suppose something should crop up that is not new in the offer of proof, it would be just as necessary for us to move to strike it.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is the reason I wanted to clarify this point. If there should be something entirely new in there, I am not receiving it on the basis of an offer of proof. In other words, this offer of proof I am receiving contains only those matters within my ruling?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes. As I understood Your Honor, for instance, about the March 18 meeting, you ruled that you didn't care to hear any more testimony on that, and we could make an offer of proof about the March 18 meeting.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes. But I said, with respect to all of these matters, that if you had witnesses to testify upon any new matters that hadn't been gone into, I would [fol. 2894] receive it.

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: And in receiving the offer, it is on the basis of that ruling?

Mr. Ingraham: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: The N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibits—I think you will all recall I reserved Exhibit No. 2 for certain N. R. A. testimony of the respondent, and I reserved Exhibit No. 7 for certain testimony of the respondent with respect to the Judge Miller case, and I reserved Exhibit No. 11 for the respondent's testimony with reference to the Sylvia Hull matter, and I reserved Exhibit No. 15 for certain testimony of the respondent.

The respondent has presented N. R. A.-Judge Miller case Exhibit No. 3 and has asked to have that marked as Exhibit No. 3. It will be received.

(The document above referred to was marked for identification "N.R.A.—Judge Miller Case Exhibit No. 3," and received in evidence.)

This contains not only the N. R. A. testimony but the Judge Miller testimony, also, and all testimony which the respondent wants to offer from the N. R. A. and the Judge Miller case. Therefore, Exhibits 7, 11, and 15 will not be used, although they were reserved for the respondent. You will find all of that testimony in Exhibit No. 3.

[fol. 2895] Now, the other attorneys have all been served with these papers; that is, the offer of proof, 1-OOOO and N. R. A.-Judge Miller case Exhibit No. 3. I will expect them to file with me any objections to this testimony or to the offers of proof by Saturday morning at 9:30, and any additional testimony which they care to offer.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2899] Trial Examiner Batten: If that is the case, I can give you notice now that the day this oral testimony closes, we will reconvene ten days from that date, and if it is otherwise I will notify you in the meantime.

We will proceed.

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Examiner, yesterday I said I would bring a doctor's report in with regard to Mrs. Reed. I have now a letter from her doctor, and I would like to offer it in evidence. I have shown it to Mr. Langsdale and Mr. Leary.

(Thereupon the letter above referred to was marked for identification "Respondent's Exhibit No. 14.")

Mr. Ingraham: I offer Respondent's Exhibit No. 14.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2902] Mr. Langsdale: What you want is to explain to the Examiner why she isn't here?

Trial Examiner Batten: For what it may be worth?

Mr. Ingraham: That is right.

Mr. Leary: I would say it is immaterial, then.

Trial Examiner Batten: On that basis I will receive it.

• • • • • •

[fol. 2904] Marjorie Green, a witness recalled, by and on behalf of the intervener, having been previously duly sworn, having been further examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Mr. Tyler: State your name, please.

A. Marjorie Green.

Mr. Langsdale: May I interrupt a minute? I requested Mr. Ingraham to bring in a list of the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company who received a raise to $16.50 a week by reason of Board's Exhibit No. 7, which is the supplemental contract. He states that he has checked the payroll record and that there is no time worker who received any increase by reason of the $16.50 provision of that contract? Is that correct? (addressing Mr. Ingraham.)

Mr. Ingraham: That is correct, but I do not state that [fol. 2905] the $16.50 has been paid to the piece rate operators.

Mr. Langsdale: Well, are you checking that?

Mr. Ingraham: I am checking that, but that is a tremendous job.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Your name is Marjorie Green?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you are the same Marjorie Green who has testified before in this hearing?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I am.

Q. And of the executive committee, or committee of chairmen, of that union?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What office do you hold on that committee?

A. Secretary.

Q. How long have you been secretary?

A. Since the formation of the union.

Q. Miss Green, did you take the notes, the minutes of the organization meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union on April 27, 1937?

A. No, sir.

Q. Who did take those minutes?

A. I don't know.

Q. How do you happen to remember that you did not [fol. 2906] take them yourself?

A. I remember, because I sat in the back of the room.

Q. Did you come in late?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember who was on the platform when you came in?

A. No. I couldn't see the platform clearly at all.

Q. Have you taken or kept minutes of other meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And, also, of meetings of the committee of that union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whether you have kept minutes of all of those meetings or not?

A. No, I haven't kept a record of all of the chairmen's meetings; and there were some general meetings of which I did not keep the [meetings.]

Q. Do you say that was because you were absent?

A. Absent on vacation, or on account of illness.

Q. Would you say that you have kept most of the minutes? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You do stenographic work, Miss Green?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you done that?

A. About ten years.

Q. Have you ever been secretary of any organization before this one?

[fol. 2907] A. No, sir.

Q. You know what quotation marks mean, do you, Miss Green? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What do they mean?

A. The words of another person.

Q. I hand you the minutes of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and ask you to notice whether you have used quotation marks rather freely in those minutes?

Mr. Leary: I think the minutes speak for themselves, Mr. Examiner.

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you mean, Mr. Tyler, that wherever the quotation marks appear in the minutes it means the persons have been quoted verbatim?

Mr. Tyler: That is what I am going to ask her, if that is what she means by the quotation marks?

Trial Examiner Batten: I understood she said that.

Mr. Tyler: No. She said she understands what quotation marks mean. I am going to ask her whether in using them in these minutes, she was quoting the exact words or not.

The Witness: May I answer?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes.

A. No. I have used them incorrectly in some instances there. In a great many instances these are the exact words, but it doesn't mean in every place they are all of the words used. And I have changed some of the wording somewhat.

[fol. 2908] Q. (By Trial Examiner Batten) Then, they do not mean anything, do they, to anybody reading through there? Your quotation marks do not mean anything?

A. No. They have been used wrongly in this instance.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) What was your effort in keeping those minutes as to putting down everything that was said and exactly what was said, or something else?

A. I tried to take down the main points brought out, and all motions made, and all things of importance that were discussed.

There were times when I couldn't hear everything that was said, or things I didn't think were of importance, and did not put them down.

Q. Did you ever put anything into those minutes that did not happen? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever leave anything out of those minutes for the reason that you thought it might look bad to somebody who was examining them.

A. No, I didn't.

Q. You put down what you thought were the important actions taken? A. Yes sir.

Q. Will you look at the minutes for May 27, 1937?

A. That is a meeting of the chairmen?

[fol. 2909] Q. Yes. May 27.

(Thereupon the witness referred to the minutes specified by Mr. Tyler.)

Q. Have you looked over those minutes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. If the words you have written there were all that were said in those negotiations and they were said without unusual delays, how long would it have taken you to take down that much notes?

A. Probably not more than 10 minutes.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether those negotiations lasted longer than that or not?

A. Yes. They lasted several hours.

Q. Are you positive of that?

A. I am sure they did.

Q. What is the reason you do not have a greater amount of notes for those negotiations?

A. There was just too much general conversation. There would be a group of two or three here talking and answering each other's questions, and another group somewhere else, and people were interrupting one another too much. I put down what I thought were the conclusions we came to, and I didn't attempt to take down every word that was said.

Q. Did you ever ask Mrs. Greenhaw, whom you may have known as Mrs. or Miss Graham, to take notes of any meetings of the union or the committee of chairmen for you?

[fol. 2910] A. No, sir, I never did.

Q. Did she ever turn in to you any record which she said was notes she had taken of any meeting?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever hear of her taking any notes of any meeting before this hearing?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. I will show you Board's Exhibit No. 18-A, and the letters following A, and ask you to look it over.

(Thereupon Board's Exhibit No. 18-A was accordingly read by the witness.)

Q. Have you read the exhibit, Miss Green?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that or is it not a substantially true record of any meeting held that day?

A. It is not.

Q. What reasons do you have for saying it is not?

A. It appears to me to be a combination of meetings. In the first place, we have never had any meeting at 3:45 in the afternoon. It seems to be a combination of some other meetings.

I notice here in one place there is some talk about identification cards—about showing those. We used those identification cards when we were using the busses to come to work, and that was from about the middle of March to [fol. 2911] about the first of May. I don't think we were using identification cards to get in the building at this late date in May.

Q. Do you notice any statement by Miss Todd about one meeting to be followed immediately by another one?

A. We never had anything like that.

Q. Did you ever hear Miss Todd make such a statement at any meeting?

A. No, sir, I never did.

Q. What investigation, if any, did the committee of the union make before making proposals to the employer on May 27, 1937?

A. We secured a list of salaries from the company, and we looked into business conditions and what would constitute a living wage in Kansas City, and wages paid in other garment companies, and we had heard friends who worked in other garment factories discuss it—we spent a great deal of time on it.

Q. Did the committee make any investigations again before presenting their demands as to wages in the wage schedule which was executed June 22, 1937?

A. Yes. We spent a great deal of time working on this.

Q. What matters did you consider?

A. We considered the wages that had been paid, and the wages that other companies paid, and the general cost of living.

[fol. 2912] Q. I show you Board's Exhibit No. 7, labelled "Supplemental Agreement," the agreement of May 27, 1937, and ask you what subjects, if any, mentioned in that wage agreement were the subject of negotiation between the representatives of the union and the management.

* * * * * *

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) The question was, which matters mentioned there were the subject of actual negotiations between the union representatives and representa-

[fol. 2913] tives of the management.

A. On the second page here the subject of holidays, the five paid holidays—We had asked for five paid holidays. We had asked for this, and Mrs. Reed, or some other member of the organization, didn't like this [ideal] very well, and they granted us these five paid holidays but reserved the right to make up for these holidays, if necessary, if they felt they needed the work.

Before, pieceworkers had not been paid for holidays.

And then, in this agreement the minimum wage was raised to $16.50, and officials of the company stated that they—in fact, they just didn't want to agree to this at all, but we held out and insisted we have this minimum established throughout the plant of $16.50, and the minimums of different classes of operators was raised.

Before, there had been a minimum throughout for pieceworkers of $15. However, a great many of them made more, but they were not guaranteed anything above $15.

And the minimum on cutters was raised from $40 to $42.50. And the same applies to mechanics. We asked for those increases.

Bundle boys were guaranteed a minimum of $16.50 and $18 per week of 40 hours. And throughout the plant the minimum for the different classes of operators were increased.

Q. Whose interests were you representing in these negotiations?

[fol. 2914] A. I was representing the interests of the employees.

Q. Were you doing that in good faith, or just pretending to do it?

A. I was doing it in good faith, to the best of my ability.

Q. How long did those negotiations last?

A. Oh, one day we had a meeting, and I think that lasted probably several hours, and the following day there was another meeting held, and it lasted an hour or two hours.

Q. Where was it held? A. In Mr. Tyler's office.

Q. Will you state who was present at the first conference you spoke of, which would be June 21, 1937?

A. I believe there was Mrs. Reed, Mr. Ingraham, Mr. Baty, Miss Frances, Mr. Tyler, and different members of the union committee.

Q. Who was present at the negotiations on June 22?

A. I think, about the same group.

Q. Miss Green, do you take dictation from Mrs. Reeves?

A. No, sir.

Q. Is your desk in her office?

A. No, it isn't.

Q. Where is your desk located?

A. It is out in the main office, and it is—well, I am not a very good judge of distance, but I imagine it is 10 or 15 feet from the door to her office.

[fol. 2915] Q. Has Mrs. Reeves ever undertaken to tell you what should be done about the union affairs, or what you should do in connection with union affairs?

A. No, sir.

Q. Has any other member of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or representatives of the officials, so undertaken to order you about the union affairs? A. No, sir.

Q. Has any of them ever given you a hint as to whether it would be to your welfare to join or not to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir, no one of them has.

Q. Or to join any other labor organization?

A. No, sir.

Q. You have never been offered any inducement by any member of the company to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know of any other employee being coerced or induced by the management as to taking action with respect to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever have any knowledge of any financial support of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union by any employer of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or any representative of either company, or any official of either company?

[fol. 2916] A. No, sir.

Q. What is this piece of paper I hand you, Miss Green?

A. It is a resignation from the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union signed by Dewey Atchison, and it was made at our request.

* * * * * * *

Mr. Tyler: I ask that it be marked Intervener's Exhibit No. 19.

* * * * * * *

Mr. Tyler: If I haven't offered this in evidence, I offer [fol. 2917] it in evidence now.

Trial Examiner Batten: If there is no objection, it will be received.

* * * * * * *

Q. What complaints can you recall at this time that you gave consideration to as a member of the committee?

A. We had numerous complaints on the work, where the girls were unable to make their guarantees and we have investigated it and had it changed, and we have had numerous complaints of people there wanting to be transferred from one department to another, and we have had complaints about wanting increases in salary, and we have [fol. 2918] had complaints about holidays.

In one instance we were off on Monday and worked the following Saturday, and we handled that complaint. Some of them thought that should be considered as overtime, and we took care of that.

And then, we have had another complaint where it was brought to our attention that a certain instructor was being unreasonable with her employees, and that complaint was taken up with the management and the situation corrected.

Q. What did you mean to say "with her employees"?

A. What is that?

Q. You said a certain instructor was being unreasonable with her employees. Is that what you mean?

A. With the girls in her department.

Q. What was about [about] that?

A. It was taken up with the officials of the company.

Q. Was any improvement secured?

A. Yes, there was.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2919] Q. (By Mr. Tyler) How often has the committee of the union held meetings?

A. Oh, twice a month, and in a great many instances oftener than that.

Q. Has the attendance at those meetings been about the same recently as it was when it was first formed?

A. Yes.

Q. Has the attendance at general union meetings been about the same in the last few months as the first few months?

A. Yes, I think it has.

Q. Do you, yourself, habitually attend meetings of the union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you seen employees at those meetings wearing their working clothes?

A. Yes, I have seen some there wearing working clothes, and others in their street clothes.

Q. Did you ever attend a meeting held during working hours?

A. No, sir, I never did.

[fol. 2920] Q. Did you ever know of any meeting of the union held during plant working hours?

A. No, sir.

Q. How do you explain the girls' attending these meetings wearing working clothes if they are not there during working hours.

A. I assume—

Mr. Leary (Interrupting): I object to what her assumptions are.

Q. (By Trial Examiner Batten) Do you know, Miss Green?

A. Well, no one told me so, but I just am sure that is the fact.

Q. What?

A. That some of them get off just a few minutes before time for the meeting to start and rather than take time to go to their lockers and change clothes and have to run the risk of having to stand in the back of the room, they hurry on to get a seat and then dress after the meeting is over.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Is it a fact that those who come in late generally have to stand up at those meetings?

A. Yes.

Q. About how large is the average [attended] at union meetings?

A. Oh, I would say when we have a great number of employees it runs around 1,000 or 8 or 9 hundred. At other times, when we don't have so many people employed, it [fol. 2921] is naturally less than that, but there is a great number there.

Q. Did you ever see any official of the company or anyone else direct the employees to attend those meetings?

A. No, sir, I never did.

Q. Did you ever hear of that happening?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever see any instructor tell the girls in her department to follow her to a meeting?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or take them to the meeting with her?

A. No, sir.

Q. Are you a member of the Loyalty League?

A. I am.

Q. How long have you been a member?

A. Well, I don't recall exactly, but I expect I have been a member ever since it was organized.

Q. Is it still in existence?

A. Yes, sir, it is.

Q. Have you gone to any functions, parties, picnics, or meetings it has held in the last two years?

A. Yes. I have been to carnivals, dances, and picnics.

Q. Was the meeting of March 18, 1937, a Loyalty League meeting? A. No, sir.

[fol. 2922] Q. Was the meeting about the end of March or the first of April, 1937, a Loyalty League meeting?

A. No, sir, it was not.

Q. Have you ever been present at any meeting of the executive committee when the matter of Rose Todd acting for the employees in connection with price-fixing was discussed? A. Yes, I have.

Q. What was said, what was talked in such a meeting?

A. Well, there was just a great deal of conversation, and it was agreed that since Miss Todd had spent, I should say, several years—maybe longer—in doing that type of work, she was very familiar with it and understood it and would be the logical person to represent the union in that type of matter. She had formerly worked on the machines and understood a great deal about that type of work.

Q. Do you personally prefer the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union as your bargaining representative to any other union you know about?

A. Yes, sir, I certainly do.

Q. What are your reasons for preferring the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. Well, in the first place—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): Mr. Tyler, I don't think it is material what her reasons are. She has a perfect right, as an employee of the company, to select [fol. 2923] any union she wants.

Mr. Tyler: I submit, one of the questions involved here is whether she does prefer it or whether the company is so dominating her that she has to belong to it.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean by that, you contemplated calling all of the employees to testify to this question?

Mr. Tyler: I contemplate calling a large number.

Trial Examiner Batten: I can tell you now, I do not intend to listen to them.

* * * * * *

Mr. Tyler: Well, on the present question—

Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): She may answer this. I just don't think you should call these employees and put them on the stand and say, "Now, is this the union you want?" And so on, and so forth. This is no place to determine what the employees want. An election is the place to determine that. The think we are trying to determine in this hearing is, did this company have anything to do with forming this union, or sponsoring it? That is the question we are trying to determine.

Mr. Tyler: We are not, also, endeavoring to determine whether the employer is now dominating it or dominating these employees?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, but you couldn't determine it by having these girls get up on the stand and testify here, in front of the management. The place to determine [fol. 2924] that is by a secret election, where they can vote and no one know how they vote. If you have a large number of witnesses to offer on that, you may make an offer of proof, because I don't [inten] to sit here and let you call all of these girls up here to testify whether they want this union to represent them.

* * * * * *

A. In the first place, we are able to be independent and manage our own affairs. We think we understand the needs of our plant better than anybody outside can understand them. What affects somebody in New York or Los Angeles doesn't affect us here.

And not only that, it is much more economical.

It gives us the right to bargain with our employer rather than through someone else.

Q. Miss Green, did you or did you not attend any meeting at which the employees decided to contribute 50 cents each toward the payment of attorneys for injunction advice?

A. I did attend that meeting.

Q. When was that meeting held?

A. Either the last of March or the first of April.

Q. Of what year? A. 1937.

[fol. 2925] Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Tyler, are you going to ask her about something on this that has not been testified to yet?

Mr. Tyler: No, I am not going into that. That is one thing I understand I am restricted to an offer of proof on. I just wanted to ask her the date.

Trial Examiner Batten: If she knows the date—As a matter of fact, if you have any witnesses that have the exact date, I think we should have it.

Mr. Tyler: Do I understand the Board's position is that no such meeting took place?

Trial Examiner Batten: If you have any witness who can testify as to when this meeting did occur, I think we should receive it.

Mr. Tyler: That is all.

Mr. Shepard: I would like to have the record show, in view of your remarks with regard to a representative of the management being present, when this witness gave her answer in response to Mr. Tyler's question in regard to domination no member or representative of the company was present.

Trial Examiner Batten: I agree with you. Mr. Baty is not in the room, but I see him out in the hall. And of course the company's attorneys are here.

Mr. Shepard: We are here of necessity, of course.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, I assume you have to be here.

Cross Examination.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2926] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Was it a man or woman who took the minutes at the April 27 meeting? A. I don't know.

Q. How many men stenographers did you have there?

A. I don't know, but I would say they would be very few.

Q. Do you know any of them by name?

A. Well, I know we have had several young fellows there who have been going to school—

Q. (Interrupting): I mean some stenographer capable of taking the minutes of a meeting like that.

A. Mr. Powell is a stenographer, but I don't know whether he was employed there at that time or not. And we had a Mr. Wrenn, but I don't believe he is employed there now.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2927] Q. Now, you stated that the question of raising [fol. 2928] the bundle boys to $16.50, and other time workers of that class, came up in the negotiations that were had in connection with Board's Exhibit No. 7, which is your supplemental agreement. There was quite an argument about it?

A. I don't think there had ever been any definite minimum wage set for bundle boys.

Q. Tell me, was there any argument about that?

A. I don't know that there was any argument, because we were asking for a minimum of $16.50 throughout the entire plant.

Q. Did Mrs. Reed object to it?

A. Yes, I think she did. I think she objected that in many instances it would be too much, that they were young boys, without much experience and—

Q. (Interrupting) Was that what she said?

A. That was the conclusion I drew from what she said.

Q. That was the substance of what she said? A. Yes.

Q. For these bundle boys generally $16.50 was a little high? A. Yes.

Q. Did you know at that time there wasn't a single one of them getting less than $16.50?

A. I assumed they were getting less than $16.50.

Q. It is admitted in the record by counsel that there [fol. 2929] wasn't a single one of them getting less than $16.50. Was that one of the matters you were arguing about? A. It was discussed.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2931] Q. Why was the request made of Dewey Atchison that he resign from the union?

A. We discussed it and thought it was best.

Q. Why?

A. We just thought, while he wasn't in the capacity of an official or supervisor, he worked rather close to production, and we thought it best to ask him to resign.

Q. Explain that a little more clearly. What did his proximity to production have to do with membership in the union?

A. I can't explain his job, I don't understand it.

Q. The fact is that because he was an executive you asked him to resign?

A. He isn't an executive.

Q. You had no reason for it, then?

A. We thought it best.

. . . . . .

[fol. 2932] Q. Now, you stated that at one time you took up with the management the fact that one of the inspectors was being unreasonable with the girls in her department. Who was that instructor?

. . . . . .

A. Miss Wardell.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. What had Miss Wardell been doing that was unreasonable?

A. Well, we had had different girls come to us saying she was being unreasonable about different matters, that she was unfair about different things.

Q. Tell me one thing she was unfair about?

A. I don't recall offhand.

Q. Tell me one thing.

A. I think one thing she complained about was that they spent too much time in the washroom.

Q. What did she say to them about that?

A. I don't know.

Q. At any rate she didn't want them to spend so much [fol. 2933] time in the washroom?

A. That was one of the reasons.

Q. With whom did the committee take up that matter?

A. That was taken up with Mr. Baty, I believe.

Q. Well, do you know?

A. I didn't take it up myself.

Q. Were there any other complaints that you recall having been made against any of the instructors?

A. No, I don't recall any others.

Q. That is the only one you know of?

A. That is the only one I recall.

Q. Is Mr. Wardell still there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say that because Miss Todd spent some time in piecework pricing you thought she would be one who could represent your union in that matter?

A. Yes, sir, I said that.

Q. Who was representing the company?

A. They had two employees who work on piecework prices.

Q. Representing the company?

A. That is their work. They were former operators, and that is their work, setting piecework prices, that is their job.

Q. Why didn't you use Mrs. Nichols to represent the union?

A. Miss Todd was a member of our committee, and she [fol. 2934] was very familiar with the work.

Q. Mrs. Nichols was a member of your union, too?

A. Yes.

Q. But you thought, on account of her doing it for the company, you had better have someone check her?

A. We wanted to have someone representing the union check that work.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2935] MRS. EFFIE WEIGAND, a witness called by and on behalf of the intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Your name is Effie Weigand? A. It is.

Q. You are employed by the Donnelly Garment Company, are you, Mrs. Weigand? A. I am.

Q. How long have you been employed by them?
A. Approximately two and one-half years.
Q. In what capacity? A. I am an operator.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2937] Q. Have you ever had to do with any filing or presenting of a complaint at the Donnelly plant to or through the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union committee?

A. Well, no, I didn't file the complaint. I took part in it after the complaint was filed.

Q. Tell us what that complaint was.

A. Well, the early—when we were changing from the winter styles to the spring styles. They were new, in the spring line and, of course, soft material, and we had some darts we were putting in that were difficult to put in, and [fol. 2938] the rates were arranged about the same as for those we had been putting in that were straight, and a number of girls complained to their representative at that time, who was Sallie Ormsby, and I was one who was asked to check on how much I could do on that work.

Then, we went in a group and discussed it with Miss Todd—the group who had made complaints and myself, we went up and discussed it with her.

Q. Did any adjustment of any kind result from your taking part in that complaint?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you ever take part in any other complaint since the formation of the union that you now recall?

A. No, I don't believe I have.

Q. What is your guarantee down at the Donnelly plant?

A. $22.50.

Q. What do you customarily make down there?

A. Well, that varies. I usually make about the approximate guarantee, and there are a number of weeks that I don't make it. And then, during the rush season, when I stay on one thing, I have made as high as $39.85. I believe that was my highest check.

Q. Do you remember that minimum guarantee is of value to you personally?

Mr. Leary. I object to that as immaterial.

[fol. 2939] Trial Examiner Batten: She may answer.

A. It is.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Why, Mrs. Weigand?

A. Because I must have a weekly income to provide for a growing family and their schooling. My expenses go on weekly, and I need this weekly income to provide for those expenses.

Q. Have there been weeks when you wouldn't have gotten that much without the guarantee?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Mrs. Weigand, did you attend part of the hearings of the so-called Judge Miller trial in the Federal Court a few weeks or months ago?

A. Part of them.

Q. Did you ever hear Velma Dowdy testify in that case? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did her testimony have any effect upon your choice as to what union you wanted to belong to?

Mr. Langsdale: I object to that as immaterial and not tending to prove or disprove any issue in this case. In the Miller case this witness testified how much dues were paid by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, and I suppose that is what you want her to testify to here.

Mr. Tyler: That is what I am leading up to.

Mr. Langsdale: And I say it is immaterial to this case, the difference between the dues paid by the International [fol. 2940] Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the dues paid by the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Trial Examiner Batten: If that is the purpose, I want to ask you, Mr. Tyler, how you think it is material. As I have previously stated, the employees can select their own union, one where the dues are nothing, or one where they are $10 a week. The Board has nothing to do with the union the employees select. As long as that union is not dominated or influenced by the company, the employees have a right to select any union they want to select, and pay any dues they want to pay.

Mr. Tyler: I agree with you. And I think that is the purpose of the Wagner Act, to do that.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is the only prime purpose.

Mr. Tyler: My theory is, it must be determined whether these employees are operating the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union out of either fear or favoritism of their employer, or whether they are doing it by their own wish. And, in order to show they are doing it by their own choice, they should be allowed to state the reasons for that choice, and whether those reasons are probable or improbable should throw some light on whether they are telling the truth.

If this witness testifies she saves a substantial amount of money by belonging to this union over which she would be forced to pay if she belonged to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union—

[fol. 2941] Trial Examiner Batten (interrupting): She wouldn't be forced to pay it unless she joined it, would she?

Mr. Tyler: No, but it has been shown that the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union wanted to organize these people.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is not in this case. Wouldn't it be possible to have a union which was absolutely dominated by the employer, and they, not knowing it, would freely join it and pay their dues?

Mr. Tyler: No, I don't think that is possible. If the employees, in their own minds, desired to belong to that union, their reason might be bad, and they might be even deceived by the employer, yet they have a right to that union.

Q. They have a right to the union, but the union hasn't any right to represent the employees if it is formed by the employer, sponsored by the employer, or dominated by the employer.

Mr. Tyler: I submit, the reason for the employees choosing this union is the most vital kind of evidence as to whether the company does dominate it or not.

Mr. Langsdale: The objection I want to make to this testimony—This witness testified she joined the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union in 1937, April 27, I assume. She didn't hear the Dowdy testimony until 1939, so, manifestly, it couldn't have had any effect on her joining a union.

[fol. 2942] Trial Examiner Batten: I don't think it is material to the issues in this case. I think this lady has a personal right to join any union she wants to join, and if she prefers the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union she doesn't have to give the Labor Board or anybody else any reason for joining it. She doesn't have to show the Labor Board she has a reason. She may join it because the first name of it starts with a D and the last word in the name starts with a U.

Mr. Tyler: I agree, she doesn't have to give the Labor Board any reason, but I submit she has a right to give a reason in sustaining that it was her own free choice.

Trial Examiner Batten: Nobody is questioning Mrs. Weigand's reason for joining this union.

Mr. Tyler: The Board is questioning the reason for the majority of employees joining this union.

Trial Examiner Batten: No, the Labor Board is not questioning her reason for joining this union.

Mr. Tyler: Is it questioning that of any employee whatever?

Trial Examiner Batten: We are not interested in the reason for joining.

Mr. Tyler: But we are interested in the reason the great bulk of them have for joining, are we not?

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't think so.

Mr. Tyler: I have not included this lady's testimony in [fol. 2943] the offer of proof in the Judge Miller case.

Trial Examiner Batten: We are interested in it to this extent, whether or not she knows whether any executive or officer of this company influenced her to join it, or whether she was told by any such person to join it, or if she knows of any officer of the company who helps operate it or helped form it.

Mr. Tyler: I will ask her those questions but before doing so, I understand Your Honor excludes her answering the questions as to the effect the testimony of Velma Dowdy had on her?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes.

Mr. Tyler: I offer to prove, this witness, if permitted to testify, would testify as follows:—I am going to read her testimony in the Judge Miller case.

Mr. Langsdale: Where are you reading from?

Mr. Leary: Why can't it be set out in the record here?

Mr. Tyler: All right. I will mark it and let the reporter copy it.

Trial Examiner Batten: That will be all right.

Mr. Tyler: I will mark it. It would be about the fourth page of her testimony, beginning at page 1173, with the second question, and continuing to the bottom of page 1177.

Mr. Langsdale: Now, without reading that, may I inquire if it all has to do with what she heard Velma [fol. 2944] Dowdy testify to? If you have something else there I may have a different suggestion.

Mr. Tyler: Yes. It all refers to the difference financially to her, but it does include the question as to what difference it makes to her to work for the Donnelly Company or at any other garment company.

* * * * * *

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Mrs. Weigand, did any official of either the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly [fol. 2945] Garment Sales Company, or any representative of any official of either company, ever endeavor in any way to coerce you to belong to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. They never have.

Q. Did any such person ever offer you any inducement to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. They have not. I have never had any communication with any official of the company.

Q. Have you ever talked with an official of the company about any union or union connection?

A. Not on any matter.

Q. Did you ever hear any employee at the plant complain, secretly or otherwise, that he or she had been threatened or coerced in connection with union membership of any kind?

A. I have not.

Q. Did you ever see any instructor at the plant gather the people in her section together to attend a meeting?

A. I never have.

Q. Did you ever hear anyone in the plant order anybody to attend any meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. I believe you testified that you are not and never have been a member of the committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

[fol. 2946] A. I have not.

Q. Have you been a member of the Loyalty League?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you attended any functions of the Loyalty League in the last two years?

A. Yes, I have. I attended a dance at the Pla-Mor, and just recently I was on the committee to help arrange for the picnic of the Loyalty League; and I have attended several representative meetings.

Q. Did you ever hear in any meeting of the Loyalty League or any committee of the Loyalty League, any plans to arrange what the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union would do?

A. I have not.

Q. What custom have you followed as to whether you would attend meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union in your work clothes or in your street clothes?

A. Well, it has always been my custom to go down in uniform, because I can get a better seat where I can hear what is going on.

Q. Is it a fact that those who go in late frequently have to stand up? A. That is true.

Q. Have you or have you not seen a substantial number of the employees at those meetings in their work clothes?

A. Yes. A great many of us have attended in our work clothes.

[fol. 2947] Q. Did you attend any meeting of the employees about the end of March, 1937, at which it was moved that employees contribute 50 cents each towards attorney's fees in connection with the injunction?

A. I did.

Q. Did you hear such motion as I have described made?

A. I did.

Q. Can you fix the date of that meeting?

A. I believe it was the 30th of March.

Q. How do you fix that date?

A. Well, my birthday falls on the first day of April, and it was a few days before that, because I remember we had some carrying on and talking. I believe my birthday fell in the latter part of the week that year. This happened in the early part of the week.

Q. The year you are speaking of was 1937?

A. That is right.

Q. That motion referred to was carried, was it, by those present? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether any of those 50-cent contributions were collected thereafter? A. Mine was.

Q. How do you know?

A. Because I gave it to the girl.

[fol. 2948] Q. Do you remember whom you gave it to?

A. No, I don't remember that.

Q. Mrs. Weigand, did you ever attend a meeting of the employees at which a meeting of the Loyalty League was announced first, and then it was announced it would be immediately followed by a meeting of the union, and the two were held in the same room, one right after another?

A. I don't recall ever attending a Loyalty League meeting—that is, a meeting.

Q. Then you, of course, do not remember attending a Loyalty League meeting that was intermingled with or immediately following a union meeting?

A. No.

Q. Did you ever hear anybody else talk about such a meeting before this hearing began? A. No.

Q. Do you attend most of the meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. Yes; I attend regularly.

* * * * * *

Cross Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. I didn't get what your birthday and this 50-cent [fol. 2949] meeting had to do with each other. Will you tell me?

A. Well, my birthday—that is rather an odd time of the year, and I, of course, am the recipient of many jokes.

Q. But this was two days before April Fool's Day?

A. That is true.

Q. What did they have to do with each other?

A. We had our meeting—I know it was in the last part of March or the first part of April, and my birthday came around in that week. The first part of March I know the meeting was held, the first of the week, and necessarily—I wouldn't swear it was the 30th of March but, as near as I can remember it, it was the 30th of March, which I would say was Monday or Tuesday of that week.

Q. What day of the week did your birthday come on?

A. I think it was Thursday.

Q. Your memory is pretty good. Have you been reviewing a calendar lately? A. No, I haven't a calendar.

Q. Did Mr. Tyler show you a calendar? A. No.
Q. On what day of the week was your birthday in 1936?
A. I don't know.
Q. Do you know what day it fell on?
A. I might have been—
[fol. 2950] Q. (Interrupting) Now, tell me, if you can, what day your birthday fell on in 1936?
A. I remember I was given a birthday party.
Q. On what day of—

Mr. Lane (interrupting): I object to that.

A. I wouldn't know, unless I had a calendar.

By Mr. Langsdale:
Q. What day did it fall on last year, 1938?
A. Friday, last year.
Q. In 1938? A. I believe it was on Friday.
Q. What day was it on in 1939, this year?
A. Saturday morning—well, on Saturday.
Q. What were you going to say about changing your department?

Mr. Leary: Had a party, she said.

A. Oh, my daughter gave me a birthday party. It was the first birthday party my girl had ever given me.

By Mr. Langsdale:
Q. But this meeting you think was two days before April 1, how does your birthday cause you to recall this meeting, the loss of the 50 cents?
A. It might have been that, I don't know.
Q. Anything else?
A. I just associate it with the fact—I can't fix the date definitely, but I associate it—My birthday came in the lat-
[fol. 2951] ter part of that week, and I know this meeting came in the first part of the week.
Q. How do you know?
A. As near as I can recall, it came early in the week, and I believe I paid my 50 cents that week.
Q. Why do you say it came early that week? Why not the next week?

A. I can't understand the question. What came early in the week?

Q. This 50-cent meeting.

A. Because I recall this meeting came early in the week.

Q. But it might have been early in the next week?

A. Oh, no.

Q. You are sure of that.

A. It was right closely associated with the latter part of March.

Q. And that is the only reason you can give to the Examiner for saying this was about the 30th of March?

A. Just my memory, and incidents associated with about that time.

Q. Well, what other incidents?

A. No other incident that I recall, at that time.

Q. You say you never spoke to any executive about anything down there?

A. I never have, except I have spoken to Mr. Baty here [fol. 2952] in the courtroom. Those are the first words I have ever exchanged with any executive with authority at the Donnelly plant.

Q. Mr. Baty has never spoken to you about your employment down there about, anything?

A. He never has.

Q. Has he ever given you any instructions about anything? A. Never has.

Q. Or any directions about anything? A. No.

Q. Do you know Mrs. Ella Mae Hyde? A. Yes.

Q. Have you spoken to her? A. Yes.

Q. You got your job from her, didn't you?

A. I put in my application. I don't remember who called me.

Q. But you put it in with Mrs. Hyde, didn't you?

A. She and a stenographer both interviewed me.

Q. Have you been a member of the board of representatives of the Loyalty League?

A. I was chosen by my section this spring to represent my section to the Loyalty League.

Q. How were you chosen, do you know?

A. By vote. The girls in the section chose two of us, and we were both voted on by ballot.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2953] Q. The time for leaving work down there is staggered, is it not? A. It is.

Q. Starting when?

A. Well, I am not familiar with all of the starting times. I have started at 7:30, and—

Q. (Interrupting) I am talking about starting to leave work.

A. Oh. I have left all the way from 4 to 5:30.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2958] Mrs. Mabel Riggs, a witness called by and on behalf of the intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Will you state your name?

A. Mabel Riggs.

[fol. 2959] Q. Where are you employed?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed there?

A. It will be 10 years this August.

Q. In what capacity?

A. Well, I have been in the pattern department during that time.

Q. What department are you in now?

A. Still in the pattern department.

Q. Are you a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union? A. I am.

Q. Did you take any particular part in the meeting in which that union was organized—any specific part, except being present, I mean?

A. Well, I was on the committee.

Q. What committee. A. The nominating committee.

Q. Who made up that nominating committee?

A. Mr. Jeter, Mr. Crawford, Miss Taylor, and Mrs. Moore.

Q. (By Mr. Langsdale) What was the last name?

A. Mrs. Moore, from the operators. I think that was all.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) What was that committee asked to do?

A. We were instructed to bring in a representative committee from the different departments to act as the chairmen of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2961] Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Will you tell us, Mrs. Riggs, what you mean by the word "representative", as you used it in your answer "to pick out a representative committee"?

A. I don't know that I should have used that word. They wished to have a person on this committee to represent the different departments. For instance, we had one form the cutting department, another from the mechanics, and I know we had more operators than other people—we did want at least two from the group of operators—and one from the handwork department in raising a good many things not covered by the operators or mechanics or cutting; and we did want a person from the office, and possibly a person from the group at large that didn't probably have any certain department. Those were our instructions.

Q. Was it your personal purpose to do that for the interest of the employees, or because of some outside domination by the employers?

A. We did it from the standpoint of the employees.

Q. Have you ever been ordered or directed by any employer or representative of the management as to what you should do in connection with the union?

A. I have not.

[fol. 2962] Q. Have you ever had any inducement offered to you by any official of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company or any representative of such official, in connection with your union activities?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you made your union affiliation of your own free will and accord? A. I have.

Q. You were at one time on the committee of [chairman], I believe, were you not? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have heard in this courtroom of a complaint about a certain instructor that came to the committee?

A. Yes.

Q. Tell the Examiner what the complaint was as it came to you and what was done about it.

A. As I understood the complaint, there were people in the department thinking that perhaps the instructor exercised more authority than she should. In other words, she would have an unhappy frame of mind and rather take it out on them just a sort of personal conflict. I don't know what else you call it. For instance, she would just have it in for them today, and maybe she would like them tomorrow, and it was rather burdensome on the people who worked under her.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2963] Q. Have you ever attended meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union wearing your work clothes and not your street clothes?

A. Well, I work in street clothes, largely.

Q. Have you ever attended meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union during office hours—during plant hours? A. I have not.

Q. Did you ever know of any employee in the plant complaining, secretly or otherwise, that he or she was coerced in connection with membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I never heard of any.

[fol. 2964] Q. Did you ever hear of any employee being induced by favors to have anything to do with the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, favors from the employer?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever receive such inducement yourself?

A. Never have.

Q. You belong to that association by your own free will and accord? A. I do.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2965] Cross-Examination.

Mr. Langsdale: What is your salary, Mrs. Riggs?

A. Well, we consider salaries a personal matter.

Mr. Tyler: I object to that.

Trial Examiner Batten: She may answer.

Mr. Langsdale: What is your salary?

A. I make $65 every two weeks.

[fol. 2966] Q. When did you receive your last raise?

A. I think it was October, 1938.

Q. Was that while you were a member of the committee of [chairman]?

A. Yes. I was a member of the committee of chairmen in 1938.

Q. You are in the pattern department? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who is the supervisor in that department?

A. The head of the department is Miss Spilsbury.

Q. Who was the supervisor there in 1937?

A. Miss Spilsbury—Well, I don't know. We always call her the head of the department. I suppose you mean by that, supervisor?

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2970] Read the last question.

(Thereupon the last question, as follows, was read by the reporter:)

"Did you have anyone you called supervisors in April, 1937?"

Trial Examiner Batten: You may answer.

A. I don't know that I know exactly what you mean by "supervisor"? The head of my department was Miss Spilsbury. She was in 1937.

Q. (By Mr. Langsdale) Who is Mrs. Strickland?

A. Mrs. Strickland is a lady who works in our department.

Q. Supervisor?

A. No. I don't know what you mean by "supervisor." We don't call anyone in our department a supervisor.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 2974] Redirect Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mrs. Riggs, what events occurred at the meeting of April 23, 1937, according to your memory?

A. The Donnelly garment employees met on the second floor of the Corrigan Building after working hours on April 27, 1937.

Miss Todd presided at the meeting. She talked generally about things we had been discussing in groups preceding this meeting.

She told us again that Mr. Tyler and Mr. Gossett had been engaged as our attorneys, and it was time for us to make some definite plans of procedure. She said Mr. Tyler was present and would talk to us.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2977] Q. Have you ever heard anything that sounded to you like an intimidation that you had better belong to this organization, or you had better continue in it, or the management would avenge itself on you? A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever heard any pressure used by any executive of the Donnelly Garment Company or any member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union to get you to join the union? A. No, sir.

* * * * * *

[fol. 2986) EDWARD F. SWINNEY, a witness called by and on behalf of intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Will you state your name, please?
A. Edward F. Swinney.
Q. You are a resident of Kansas City, Mo?
A. Jackson County.
Q. What is your business connection, Mr. Swinney?
A. Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank, Kansas City, Mo.
Q. How long have you held that position?
A. I have been in the bank 52 years.
Q. How long have you lived in Kansas City, or Jackson County? A. Fifty-two years.
Q. Mr. Swinney, do you know Rose Todd?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall any incident, about the end of March, 1937, when she came to you concerning borrowing some money for some employees of the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Yes, sir. I remember—I don't know the exact time, but it was about two years ago.

Q. Now, Mr. Swinney, did anyone else except Rose [fol. 2987] Todd communicate with you, by letter, or telephone, or messenger, or in any other way, concerning that loan?

A. No, sir, no one whatever.

Q. Did anybody gauarntee that loan?

A. No, sir, except Miss Todd said she would see it was paid.

Q. Why did Miss Todd say she wanted that money, if you remember?

Mr. Langsdale. I obgject to that as calling for hearsay testimony and a self-serving statement.

Trial Examiner Batten. He may answer.

A. Miss Todd came to me and said the employees had a way of collecting money down there by way of 50 cents and a quarter around among the employees, but that they needed some money right away, and asked if we would make them a loan of $1,000, which I did.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Did you take a note for that loan, Mr. Swinney?

A. They did over at the discount cage, yes, sir.

Q. Was that the first time, as a banker, you have ever loaned money without collateral security?

Mr. Langsdale. I object to that as immaterial and not tending to prove or disprove any issue in this case.

Trial Examiner Batten. Objection sustained. I suppose [fol. 2988] this man has been in the banking business long enough that if he makes such a loan he has to take the responsibility for it. I suppose this bank is like any other bank, they do it every day.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Mr. Swinney, was there any collusion, outside guarantees or hints or suggestions about this loan?

Mr. Langsdale. I object to the question as calling for a conclusion of the witness.

Trial Examiner Batten. He may answer.

A. I never had any conversation with anybody except Miss Todd pertaining to the loan.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Or any message, or—

A. Nothing at all.

Q. Was that loan repaid, Mr. Swinney?

A. Yes, sir, Mr. Tyler.

Mr. Tyler. That is all. Thank you.

Mr. Stottle. No questions.

Trial Examiner Batten. Mr. Langsdale?

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mr. Swinney, how long had you known Rose Todd prior to the time she made application for this loan?

A. I would say about 10 or 12 years.

Q. Where did you meet her, Mr. Swinney?

A. At my office.

Q. In what connection?

[fol. 2989] A. She was a kind of "all-around-man" for the company.

Q. For the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And she had come in there before on matters for the company, had she? A. Oh, yes.

Q. You had made a good many loans to the Donnelly Garment Company, Mr. Swinney, during that period?

A. No, sir.

Q. Had you made any?

A. Away back when they first started, we made them a loan. I don't think we have since.

Q. That is probably because they haven't needed it. They carry their account with you? A. Yes.

Q. Does the Donnelly Garment Sales Company carry their account with you?

A. I don't know what companies they have now.

Q. There is the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company.

A. There may be an account of that kind. They have one or two accounts. They do their business with us.

Q. Do you also carry the account of Mrs. Reed, Nell Quinlan, Donnelly Reed? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 2990] Q. Do you carry the Senator's account?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you carry the account of Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich, and Tyler—Gossett? A. I don't think so.

Q. You don't know? A. No.

Q. But over a period of 10 years, do you know whether Rose Todd had contacted you in behalf of the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Just coming and going, bringing some stuff up to my office, or something of that kind; just in a general way.

Q. And, as you explained it, your impression of her position down there was that she was a sort of "all-around-man" for the company? A. Yes, sir.

* * * * * * *

Redirect Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Tyler) Mr. Swinney, did any official of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company ever tell you that Rose Todd ever had any position of authority down at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. No, sir.

[fol. 2991] Q. Did Rose Todd herself ever tell you she had any position of authority down there?

A. No, I don't think she did.

* * * * * * *

LYLE JETER, a witness called by and on behalf of intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) State you name, please.

A. Lyle Jeter.

Q. Where do you live? A. 7800 Jarboe.

Q. By whom are you employed?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been employed there?

A. Over 11 years.

[fol. 2992] Q. In what capacity? A. Machinist.

Q. Were you working there in March of 1937.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have occasion to go by the plant of the Missouri, Gernes, and Gordon Garment companies in March of 1937? A. Yes, sir, I did go by.

Q. Where is that plant?

A. About Twenty-Sixth and Walnut.

Q. Is there more than one plant there?

A. You mean more than one company?

Q. Yes. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see any excitement around the doors of the building where these companies have their places of business? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you stop there at that time? A. I did.

Q. Tell what was happening there.

Mr. Leary. I object to this as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten. That is all right, if you people want to go into all of this thing.

Mr. Patten. This man knows of a personal threat to the Donnelly employees.

Trial Examiner Batten. Made to him?

[fol. 2993] Mr. Patten. In his presence.

Trial Examiner Batten. Made to him?

Mr. Patten. Yes, made to him; he was standing around in the group.

Trial Examiner Batten. You may go ahead and I will see what it is.

A. I stopped up there three or four different times, and the girls that were working for these different companies were trying to get into the building. There were pickets there, and when the girls would try to enter the building—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting). Just a minute. Tell us what the threat was.

A. One morning I was standing up there and Miss Tobin went back and forth across the street—I was standing in front of the plants—and an elderly lady started in the building and five or six ladies jumped on her and beat her up—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting). Tell me how you were threatened.

Mr. Langsdale. I move that that part, the last part of his answer be stricken.

Trial Examiner Batten. It may be stricken. Tell me how you were threatened.

A. I have to tell a little bit about this first part, if I may.

Q. (By Trial Examiner Batten). Did somebody threaten you personally?

[fol. 2994] A. Threatened the Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. Tell me what they said, and who it was.

A. As this old lady got up and started in the building somebody said, "Isn't that awful, the way they are treating her?" And Miss Tobin said, "That's just a sample of what we are going to do down at Donnelly's."

Q. (By Mr. Patten) Did you report that at the plant?

A. I talked it over with the employees.

Q. Mr. Jeter, did you take any part in the meeting at which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was organized? A. I did.

Trial Examiner Batten. Now, Mr. Patten—

Mr. Patten (Interrupting). This is a point that has not been covered.

Trial Examiner Batten. The point you have finished covering, I don't think that is material to this case.

Mr. Patten. I understood you had said if we had cases involving actual threats to persons employed by the Donnelly Garment Company we could put that in.

Trial Examiner Batten. Yes, if you have any actual threats of violence committed as to any employee of the Donnelly Garment Company, that should be in here. I don't think this sort of testimony has anything to do with it.

Mr. Patten. That was a personal threat. He was an [fol. 2995] employee of the Donnelly Garment Company, standing around and heard this remark.

Trial Examiner Batten. I do not consider that as a personal threat to him. That is something thay may have occurred a thousand times. If somebody personally threatened this man, or something of that sort, I think that testimony would be relevant.

Mr. Langsdale. Is this answer to be stricken then, so that it is not subject to cross-examination or rebuttal?

Trial Examiner Batten. I want to hear the attorneys first.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) Mr. Jeter, did you interpret that as a threat to the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company?

Mr. Leary. I object to that as calling for a conclusion.

Trial Examiner Batten. Objection sustained.

Mr. Patten. The only thing lacking, apparently, under your definition of a threat, was for them to address him personally and say, "You, Mr. Jeter, are going to be—"

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting) Now, Mr. Patten, if a Donnelly employee was threatened personally, or any violence committed, I will receive that testimony. The fact that this man happened to be down there where something was going on and heard some remarks—I think there were some remarks like that in the paper, too, but I don't consider that matter an issue in this case. I think that is a [fol. 2996] matter between the employees. I don't see how the company can be held responsible for that situation.

Mr. Patten. It shows the circumstances leading up to the formation of this union. If we can show the circumstances, that the union was inspired by the employees and did not rise out of the action of the company—In so far as we show these circumstances which motivated them we negative the contention of the Board and the Internationak

Trial Examiner Batten. That might be possible, remotely. It may be stricken. I am not going to receive that type of testimony on that question.

Mr. Patten. Mr. Examiner, the intervener offers to prove by this witness, and others, that threats were made in their presence in connection with physical acts of violence, which they personally witnessed, to the effect that those acts of violence were only circumstances to show what would be done to the Donnelly Garment Company employees when the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union started its drive to organize the Donnelly plant.

Trial Examiner Batten. And the other witnesses' testimony would be substantially the same as this testimony?

Mr. Patten. And that those threats were made in connection with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. The other witnesses' testimony would be substantially the same or similar to that we have offered—that this witness has testified to and Your Honor has ordered [fol. 2997] stricken.

Trial Examiner Batten. The offer is refused.

Mr. Stottle. Respondent excepts to the striking of the answer and to the refusal of the offer.

Trial Examiner Batten. Mr. Stottle, by that you certainly don't want to imply that the respondent was responsible for all of this difficulty between groups of employees of those different companies, do you?

Mr. Stottle. No. Our position is, when evidence has occurred from the stand, if it would tend to disprove the charges in the complaint, we are entitled to it from the stand.

Trial Examiner Batten. You think that testimony would tend to prove the thing Mr. Patten has stated; is that right?

Mr. Stottle. That is right—or tend to disprove some of the charges in the complaint.

Trial Examiner Batten. Tend to disprove what charge in the complaint?

Mr. Sottle. The charge of domination, is one.

Trial Examiner Batten. That was Mr. Patten's point I think. What other charge in the complaint?

Mr. Stottle. I would have to read the record through, Mr. Examiner.

Trial Examiner Batten. You read it and let me know what other complaint. That might change entirely the complexion of my ruling. If there is anything else, you will [fol. 2998] let me know?

Mr. Stottle. Yes.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) Mr. Jeter, did you have any part in the meeting at which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was organized? A. I did have.

Q. What part did you play in that meeting?

A. I was one of the nominating committee.

Q. How were you appointed?

A. Miss Todd said as she called the names of the ones to be on the nominating committee, to stand up, and she called my name.

Q. Were you surprised or not when that happened?

Mr. Leary. Oh, I object to that as immaterial.

Trial Examiner Batten. Sustained.

Mr. Leary. And I move that the answer be stricken.

Trial Examiner Batten. It may be stricken.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) Was it prearranged?

A. I didn't know it if it was.

Q. Nothing had been said to you—

Mr. Langsdale (Interrupting). I object to that as self-serving.

Trial Examiner Batten. You may answer.

Q. (By Trial Examiner Batten) Did you know ahead of time Miss Todd was going to appoint you on this committee?

[fol. 2999] A. No, sir.

Q. You had never heard of it before? A. No, sir.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) What did your committee do?

A. Left the room and went to another floor, the girls' recreation room. We tried to pick out one from the different departments—I don't remember how many, but I believe it was 8 or 9, to form the executive committee to run the union for one year.

Q. Did you have in mind that you should get persons of whom Miss Todd would approve?

A. We tried to get the ones who were pretty well known to all of the employees in the factory, in all of the departments.

Q. Were you thinking about the employees? A. Right.

Mr. Patten. That is all.

Mr. Lane. Mr. Examiner, there are various other matters we would inquire about of this witness except for the rulings of Your Honor with respect to offers of proof. We will make those offers of proof.

Trial Examiner Batten. Mr. Lane, I assume when you make your offers you will include this witness' name as one of those. There will be no restriction on you in the names you include in your offer.

Mr. Lane. I merely make that explanation as to why [fol. 3000] we don't go into further matters with this witness.

Trial Examiner Batten. I understand you do not go into those matters with this witness, or any further witness, for the same reasons.

Mr. Lane. Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten. Mr. Stottle?

Mr. Stottle. Mr. Examiner, you have excluded his answers on threats. That would be the only question I would want to ask about.

Cross-Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Stottle) Mr. Jeter, will you state the circumstances of the threat which you heard against the Donnelly employees down at the other factories here in Kansas City?

Mr. Leary. I object to that as repititious now.

Mr. Langsdale. It's having been ruled on. And it is immaterial. You said "the" threat?

Mr. Stottle. Yes, the same one.

Mr. Langsdale. I object to it as immaterial, and as already having been ruled on by the Examiner.

Trial Examiner Batten. I don't think there is any question about that.

Mr. Stottle. The objecion is sustained.

Trial Examiner Batten. I don't know that it is in the form of an objection. I think I ruled on the matter, as far as the intervener was concerned, and I think you joined in [fol. 3001] it, and took exception to the ruling. Now, what is the purpose—

Mr. Stottle. The only purpose would be that, if respondent wouldn't have a right to object to a question of the intervener—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting). Is there any doubt in your mind that you have or have not that right.

Mr. Stottle. Well, not in my mind, no.

Trial Examiner Batten. I don't think there is any question about it.

Mr. Stottle. That is all.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3003] Q. (By Trial Examiner Batten) What is your job at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. I am a machinist.

Q. How many machinists are employed there?

A. Oh, about 7 or 8, I would say.

Q. Do you have anyone in your department who acts as a person that assigns the work, or anything of that sort?

A. Well, we have a call-board on the eighth floor, and we have—

Q. (Interrupting) Do you have anything to do with that yourself?

A. No. They have a boy there that takes the calls.

Q. Do you have anything to do with that?

A. No. I just answer calls off the board.

Trial Examiner Batten. The testimony with reference to this matter may be stricken. Apparently this man is only an employee. The respondent cannot be charged with what he does.

Mr. Langsdale. He hasn't said he did anything.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't want the record to be in such condition that Mr. Ingraham or Mr. Stottle might [fol. 3004] feel they should call other witnesses to go into things brought out in this testimony.

Mr. Patton, do you have any further questions?

Mr. Patten. No further questions.

Q. (By Mr. Langsdale) Mr. Jeter, are you the assistant of Marvin Price in that department?

A. No, sir.

Q. Who is? A. Assistant to who?

Q. Marvin Price.

A. I don't know whether he has any assistant or not.

* * * * * *

Mrs. Edith Koll, a witness called by and on behalf of intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, [fol. 3005] being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Patten:

Q. State your name, please. A. Edith Koll.

Q. You are Miss or Mrs. Koll? A. Mrs.

Q. What is your address?

A. 1916 East Sixty-Ninth Terrace.

Q. How long have you been employed by the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. I think, about ten years.

Q. Were you employed there in the month of March, 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you attend a meeting at which Mrs. Reed spoke in the month of March, 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you take any part in that meeting?

A. I did.

Q. Tell what part you took in that meeting.

A. Well, I asked if Mrs. Reed was in the building and if she could talk to us.

Q. Where were you sitting in that meeting?

A. Well, I wasn't sitting. We were standing. I was —oh, I expect about 8 or 9 from the platform.

Q. Did you ask that question of your own volition? [fol. 3006] A. Yes, sir.

Q. No one told you to ask it? A. No, sir.

Q. With respect to the beginning and the middle and the end of the meeting, at what point did you ask that question?

A. You mean, what prompted me to say it?

Q. At what time during the meeting?

A. Well, we were just talking about conditions of the other garment companies that were on strike, and we just wondered in what way we could get protection.

Q. How long had the meeting been going on before you said anything?

A. Oh, I expect 15 or 20 minutes.

Q. Did you see anyone leave the room after you asked that question? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know who it was?

A. No, I can't say.

Q. Do you know whether several people left the room?

A. Yes, I remember about three—two or three people.

Q. Did you know whether Mrs. Reed was in the building or not? A. No, sir.

Q. Now Mrs. Koll, what is the nature of your work down [fol. 3007] there? A. Operator.

Q. Is there a place in the building where the employees buy Coca-Cola, a soft drink stand, or something of that kind? A. The cafeteria.

Q. Do you drink Coca Cola once in awhile?

A. I sure do.

Q. When you go to get a Coca-Cola do you ask anybody's permission?

A. No, sir. I just get up and go.
Q. Do the other operators do the same thing?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you keep track of the time you are absent?
A. No.

Mr. Langsdale: I object to that as immaterial and not tending or prove or disprove any issues in the case, and ask that her answers about going to get Coca-Cola be stricken.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may stand.

Mr. Patten: These persons you saw leaving the room, did they leave the room in response to your question?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Patten: That is all.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle?

Mr. Stottle: No questions.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Langsdale?

[fol. 3008] Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:
Q. Mrs. Koll, to whom did you address your question?
A. Rose Todd, I believe, had opened the meeting, and she was—
Q. (Interrupting): You addressed your remark to Miss Todd?
A. I just merely asked the question. I don't know who took it up.
Q. Did you ask it of some girl next to you, or Miss Todd?
A. No, sir. I asked it of someone on the platform.
Q. What reply did you get from Miss Todd, if any?
A. I don't remember who answered me, but someone said, "We will see if she is in the building," that it was getting late and she had probably gone home; but she hadn't gone home and she came down and talked to us.
Q. Miss Todd was in charge of the meeting, wasn't she? A. Yes.
Q. So, it was Miss Todd who replied to your question?
A. I don't remember.

[fol. 3008] Q. Did she tell you she had just seen Mrs. Reed come in? A. No, sir.

Q. Did anyone make that remark? A. No, sir.

Q. You say, "We stood up." What do you mean "We stood up at that meeting?"

A. We didn't have any chairs at that meeting.

[fol. 3009] Q. No chair at all? A. No, sir.

Q. Everybody stood up?

A. As well as I remember.

Mr. Langsdale: That is all.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Leary?

Mr. Leary: No questions.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Patten?

Mr. Patten: No questions.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is all.

(Witness excused.)

CARL CRAWFORD, a witness called by and on behalf of intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) State your name, please.

A. Carl Crawford.

Q. Where do you live?

A. 1720 Claremont, Englewood.

Q. That is in Jackson County? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are an employee of the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 3010] Q. Were you employed there in March of 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you attend a meeting at which Mrs. Reed spoke?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know Miss Frances, or Mrs. Strine, who is Mrs. Reed's secretary? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see her at that meeting? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you a member of a committee that went to see Director Higgins of the Kansas City police?

A. Yes, sir, I was.

Q. Who organized that committee.

A. Well, offhand I can't say. All I remember is that several of the girls called up and wanted to know who all would go down, and I volunteered to. I had a car, and I told them I would take a carload of them down.

Q. Do you remember who called you?

A. Grace McTernan, I believe.

Q. As far as you know, did Rose Todd have anything to do with getting that committee together? A. No, sir.

Q. Do you recall any time, at any meeting of the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company, that a meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and of the Loyal-[fol. 3011] ty League were held on the same afternoon?

A No, sir, there hasn't been.

Q. Would you say that has never happened?

Mr. Leary. That is, as far as you know.

A. I know that it has never happened.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) Was the meeting at which Mrs. Reed spoke a Loyalty League meeting?

A. No, sir.

Q. Are you a member of the Loyalty League?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you ever understood the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was organized by the Loyalty League?

A. No, sir, in no way.

Q. Is it a continuation of the Loyalty League?

A. No, sir.

Q. Does the Loyalty League still continue to have dances and parties. A. Yes, sir.

Q. How close were you to Mrs. Strine at the meeting at which Mrs. Reed spoke?

A. I wasn't very close. I was in the back of the room.

Q. Do you know whether she was taking notes or not?

A. I believe she was, but I wouldn't swear to that.

Q. Were you a member of the nominating committee that was appointed at the meeting at which the Donnelly [fol. 3012] Garment Workers' Union was organized?

A. Yes, sir, I was.

Q. Was your selection to serve on that committee a matter about which you had any advance notice?

A. No, sir.

* * * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. How many of you went down to see Director Higgins?

A. I would say there was approximately 25.

Q. Why so many?

A. Well, I guess they just wanted a good representation down there.

Q. [Do,] you went down in a crowd? A. That is right.

Q. And had your picture taken while you were there with Director Higgins?

A. I believe there was a picture taken there.

Q. And published in the paper?

A. I believe it was, yes.

Q. Did you arrange for a photographer to be there?

A. No, sir.

Q. Who called the meeting of March 18th?

[fol. 3013] A. I can't tell you.

Q. How did you get any notice of it?

A. Well, there is just a general line—someone called up and said, "We are going to have a meeting."

Q. What message was delivered to you?

A. That there would be a meeting.

Q. Was that all? A. That is all.

Q. Just that there would be a meeting? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Nothing else was added to that at all? A. No, sir.

Q. Where did they say the meeting would be?

A. On the second floor.

Q. When did they say it would be?

A. After working hours.

Q. Now, that is absolutely all that was said about the meeting?

A. That is all that was said to me.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 3014] Q. Who was president of the Loyalty League at that time?

A. I believe Rose Todd was.

Q. Did you hear Rose Todd say what the purpose of the meeting was?

A. Well, she said they would have a meeting to see what might be done in the way of protection.

Q. She said they would have a meeting. What did she mean by that?

A. All of the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. What did she say about it?

A. She said she had called this meeting to see how they felt and what they wanted to do.

Q. She said she had called it?

A. As our president, yes.

Q. How long was your nominating committee out?

A. Oh, I would say approximately 15 minutes, as I recall.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3019] RAYMOND SMITH, a witness called by and on behalf of intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) State your name, please.

A. Raymond Smith.

Q. Where do you live? A. 5536 Brooklyn.

Q. You work for the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the nature of your work?

A. Machinist.

[fol. 3020] Q. Were you working there in March of 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have occasion to leave town on or about the 24th of March, 1937? A. I did.

Q. Where did you go?

A. St. Joseph.

Q. What was that the last time, with respect to the 24th of March, you were at the plant at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. I left on the morning of the 24th. I came back the 30th.

Q. For what purpose did you go to St. Joseph.

A. Well, we had a plant up there, and I went up there to get the machines in shape, ready to start work.

Q. You say you returned on the 30th? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What day of the week was that? A. Tuesday.

Q. What time of day did you return?

A. Well, it was shortly after 5 o'clock. We closed at 4. It is about one hour and ten minutes drive from our plant, the St. Joseph plant, down here.

Q. Did you go directly to the plant?

A. I went directly to the plant, yes, sir.

Q. Was that the first time you had been back to the plant since you left on the 24th?

[fol. 3021] A. Yes, sir.

Q. What happened when you got back to the plant?

Mr. Langsdale. What day of the week was this?

Mr. Patten. He has testified it was the 30th of March.

Q. (By Mr. Patten) What happened after you got back to the plant?

A. They were having a meeting on the second floor, and I went up to the meeting.

Q. Who was there? A. Everybody was there.

Q. All of the employees? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see any officer or person of authority from the company there? A. No, sir.

Q. What were they talking about?

A. Well, they were discussing means of raising a fund to pay our lawyers.

* * * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Now, that was the 24th of May, 1937, that you went to St. Joseph to make this setup?

[fol. 3022] A. The 24th of March.

Q. And you went there for what purpose?
A. To get some machines ready to start the factory.
Q. Did the committee go, too, the committee chairmen?
A. What committee chairmen?
Q. Of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?
A. There wasn't any such thing as the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union then.
Q. Where was the plant in St. Joseph located?
A. It was in the Brittens Building between—It was on the corner of Third and Jule.
Q. They were just opening it up? A. Yes, sir.
Q. They hadn't any plant up there until that time?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. They had had a plant there? A. Yes, sir.
Q. What was it they were opening up?
A. Opening up the factory up there.
Q. Opening the factory?
A. Yes, sir. It had been closed up to that time.
Q. For how long?
A. Since 1934. I believe it was the year before.
Q. You left St. Joseph at what time?
A. About four o'clock.
[fol. 3023] Q. How did you leave there? A. In my car.
Q. You came back what highway? A. 71.
Q. Where did you live at that time?
A. I lived at, I believe it was 4821 Cypress.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3024] Q. What were you going by the plant for at that time of the evening, after the plant had shut down?
A. I came in to get some machines lined up so the truck driver could bring them up to me the next morning.
Q. The plant wasn't in operation at that hour of the day, was it? A. No, sir.
Q. How long did this meeting remain in session?
A. Well, I can't say as to that, because I wasn't there when it started. It was over at about a quarter of 6, I imagine. I never asked the time on it.
Q. How long did it last after you got there?
A. I imagine 20 or 25 minutes.
Q. And it had been going on some time before you got there?

A. Evidently not some time. It had been going on a short time. I got in shortly after it opened.

Q. Who was in charge of the meeting?

A. I believe Miss Todd was.

Q. What part of the room were you in while you were at the meeting?

A. I was close to the freight elevator, approximately in the center of the room.

Q. Standing up? A. Yes, sir.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 3025] By Mr. Leary:

Q. Was this the first trip you had ever made to St. [fol. 3026] Joseph for the company? A. No.

Q. You had made a lot of them?

A. Yes, I had made a lot of them. I have been at the plant every time they opened one up there.

Q. How many times did you go up there in 1937?

A. I can't tell you. I would go back and forth most every night—every day I was up there I drove back and forth after I got the factory going.

Q. What was the date of your first trip to St. Joseph in 1937? A. 24th of March, 1937.

Q. That was the first time? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you return from your second trip to St. Joseph?

A. The second trip? I think I came in the end of the week.

Q. What date?

A. It was along about the first or second day of May—April, that I came back.

Q. Have you checked any records to tell you this was the 30th of the month, Tuesday? A. Yes, I have.

Q. What records do you have?

A. I have my book I always keep for my own personal [fol. 3027] record. When I am out of town like that on a job I put down the dates and the day I received my equipment, or whatever I might have received, in that book, and then I consult a calendar along with my book, and that is how I came to have it.

Q. Have you that book here? A. Yes.

Q. May I see it, please?

(Thereupon the book referred to was handed by Mr. Patten to Mr. Leary.)

Mr. Leary: No further questions.

* * * * * *

Mr. Tyler: I would like to call Mr. Baty for a couple of questions.

LEE BATY, a witness called on behalf of intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, having been previously duly sworn, was examined and testified further as follows:

Direct Examination.

Mr. Tyler: Mr. Baty, did Ellen Fry or Glynn Brooks or Mamie Tubbesing, or any or either of them, apply for reinstatement or for jobs at the Donnelly Garment Com- [fol. 3028] pany in July, 1935, or any time after that, either personally or through the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

Mr. Langsdale: Just a minute. What is the intervener's interest in this?

Mr. Tyler: My interest is, the complaint includes, in one of its clauses, the claim that the company has dominated this union by refusing to reinstate workers who were either members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or not in sympathy with the employers' plans.

Trial Examiner Batten: Is there any objection?

Mr. Lansdale: No.

A. They did not.

Mr. Tyler: Since July, 1935, has the plan of operation of the business been such that if these people had applied for work it naturally would have come to your attention?

A. Yes.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3037] ELLA MAE HYDE, a witness called by and on behalf of intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, having been previously duly sworn, was examined and testified further, as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mrs. Hyde, did Glynn Brooks ever apply to you for work in the Donnelly Garment Company in January or February, 1938, or at any time since then?

[fol. 3038] A. She did not.

Q. Has your desk ever been on the fifth floor of the building in which the Donnelly Garment Company is located? A. Never.

Mr. Tyler: That is all.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Stottle?

Cross-Examination.

Mr. Stottle: Did you have a conversation with Glynn Brooks at all, that you remember, in January or February of 1938?

A. I have never seen Glynn Brooks.

[fol. 3041] Mr. Tyler: It is admitted by attorneys for the Board, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the respondent, and the intervener, that Arch S. Welch, if present in court, would testify that the 37 photographs which I now hand the stenographer are photographs taken by him on the afternoon of Friday, July 9, 1937, of 37 sheets of paper, each containing an affidavit signed by a number of individuals and acknowledged before a notary public, the whole bound together under a cover which was stamped indicating that it had been filed with the National Labor Relations Board on June 7, 1939; and that he made photographs of such sheets of paper bound together under that exhibit stamp; and that these photographs are photographs of each page, and nothing else, and that there are no alterations, [fol. 3042] subtractions, additions, or changes.

I now offer in evidence the exhibit, which I will ask the stenographer to mark intervener's exhibit No. 18, lettering it from A to whatever that results in.

(Thereupon the photographs above referred to were marked for identification "Intervener's Exhibit No. 20-A to 20-KK, inclusive.")

Mr. Tyler: That is an affidavit for an election.

Trial Examiner Batten: You are offering these?

Mr. Tyler: Yes, sir.

Trial Examiner Batten: Any objection?

Mr. Leary: I don't understand the purpose of the offer.

Mr. Tyler: It goes to the choice and free will of these employees of the Donnelly Garment Company, and as to whether they were dominated by their employer or not in forming the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Mr. Leary: I submit, Mr. Examiner, that is an improper way of trying to show such testimony. There is no showing that the witnesses are not available.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't suppose that the witnesses are available, because I did advise the respondent and the intervener I didn't want them to call all of the employees down here and ask them the very questions that are in these exhibits. I presume that is why the witnesses are not here.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3043 Trial Examiner Batten: I understand. Just the [fol. 3044] one matter of the free will and choice of the employees.

Mr. Tyler. Yes.

Mr. Ingraham: Yes, I think it covers the free choice of the employees.

Trial Examiner Batten: My thought is this, if this covers the matter of the free choice of the employees, while I have my very serious doubts as to how material it is to this case, as I have indicated before—I mean, having the employees all come in here and be sworn and testify, and so forth, I would have no objection to receiving this if it covers the respondent's and the intervener's offer of proof on this question of free will.

Mr. Tyler: On that point, it will cut down the amounts of the offer of proof I made in the future with reference to these other matters, the meetings of March 18, March 30, and April 27, and I so offer it.

Mr. Ingraham: Your Honor, I don't like to have this substituted for the offer of respondent.

Trial Examiner Batten: It is not substituted. I am not asking for any substitution.

Mr. Langsdale: You don't want it substituted for what?

Mr. Ingraham: I said I didn't want it substituted for our offer.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will not be received. You may incorporate it in the offers of proof if you want to.

[fol. 3045] Mr. Ingraham: We have made an offer—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): I say, this is refused, and if any of the parties want to incorporate the material in an offer of proof, you may do so.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3053] MRS. MARTHA GRAY, a witness called by and on behalf of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Will you state your name?

A. Mrs. Martha Gray.

Q. Where do you reside, Mrs. Gray?

A. St. Regis Hotel, Lindwood and Paseo.

Q. What do you do?

A. I am employed by the Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. In what department?

[fol. 3054] A. I work in the retail store.

Q. How long have you been there in the retail store?

A. Seven years.

Q. Is that your first employment with the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mrs. Gray, I call your attention to a document which has been marked Board's exhibit No. 2 and ask you to read the article in the right-hand column headed by the words "Nine Hundred Join Loyalty League."

A. You want me to read it?

Q. I want you to read this (indicating on exhibit), and this continuation of it (indicating on exhibit).

* * * * * *

Q. Does that article "Nine Hundred Join Loyalty League" refresh your memory as to matters that occurred on the occasion mentioned? A. Yes.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 3055] Q. It says here, "February 5, on the instigation of Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Strickland, about forty-six employees, representing as nearly as possible the entire factory, met at the home of Mrs. Gray." Is that correct?

A. Some of them met there.

Q. (Continuing reading) "They decided to sound out the personnel on the forming of the League." Is that correct?

A. Well, there had been talk, and that came out there. I don't know anything about that.

Q. It says, "Mrs. Gray opened the meeting with an account of what had been done and will be done. She displayed a drawing of a tentative pin and explained the meaning of the word 'Loyalty' as it pertains to the League's purposes." Is that true?

A. That didn't take place at my home.

Q. Did it take place at another meeting?

A. I suppose so. I thought you were asking me about the meeting at my home.

Q. It says, "Mrs. Gray displayed the drawing of a tentative pin." Did you do that?

A. Certainly not at my home.

Q. Was there a mass meeting which followed the [fol. 3056] meeting of your home?

A. As I recall it.

Q. (Continuing reading.) "Cards were passed out to 900 employees and all but 11 were signed and returned." Do you remember that?

A. No, I can't say that I do. I don't know much about that.

Q. (Continuing reading) "Because of the overwhelming response, a constitution was drafted." Is that correct?

A. Well, I know nothing about it.

Q. Have you that constitution? A. I have not.

Q. You have never seen it?

A. I have not.

Q. Do you know where it is? A. I do not.

Q. Then it says, "Mrs. Gray opened the meeting with an account of what had been done and will be done." Is that correct?

A. I don't remember presiding at any meeting. I think we had a meeting there. I do remember something about the word "Loyalty," spelling it out, but I don't remember such as that.

Q. Did you open the meeting?

A. To the best of my knowledge, I did not, but it is very indistinct in my memory.

Q. It says Herbert Mutchler was there. Who was Herbert Mutchler?

[fol. 3057] A. He was an employee.

Q. (Continuing reading.) "Herbert Mutchler was asked to act as temporary chairman. He read a pertinent editorial from the February issue of Liberty magazine."

Do you remember what the editorial was about?

A. No, I don't.

* * * * * *

Mr. Langsdale: I offer from the February 16th issue of the Liberty magazine the only editorial in that magazine. I do not offer anything except the one-page editorial.

Mr. Ingraham: We object. It is immaterial to any issue in this case. There is no showing that this is the editorial referred to.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3058] Mr. Tyler: We object. There is no showing this is the editorial that was read.

* * * * * *

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't know why you don't all agree that this should go in. I suppose the only question is whether or not this is the thing that was read at the meeting; is that it?

Mr. Langsdale: The article says it was read, and this article is in.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Langsdale, I think you are getting pretty close to the matter I have asked the respondent and the intervener not to go into in this case.

Mr. Langsdale: What is that?

Trial Examiner Batten: The matter of what goes on where one union starts to organize, and there are strikes, and so forth.

Mr. Langsdale: That is not the purpose of it, if the Examiner please. They have paraded a number of witnesses before the Examiner to the effect that this is purely a social organization, organized only to give dances, tea [fol. 3059] parties, card parties, and things like that. At this organization meeting this was read and—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): What exhibit have you there?

A. I have Board's exhibit No. 2.

* * * * * *

Mr. Tyler (Interrupting): This witness didn't say an editorial of that date was read.

Mr. Lane: There is no showing who wrote this article, Board's exhibit No. 2, or that it was accurate.

Mr. Langsdale: It is in evidence now.

Trial Examiner Batten: It is a Nelly Don Athletic Association bulletin?

Mr. Lane: It has no bearing here.

Trial Examiner Batten: It must have some or it wouldn't have been admitted.

Mr. Lane: It was over our objection.

Mr. Tyler: There is no evidence that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or the Nelly Don Loyalty League had anything to do with that publication, regardless of who got it out.

Trial Examiner Batten: Of course, there is the allega- [fol. 3060] gation in here, I believe, that the Loyalty League is a labor organization—in the complaint.

It will be received for whatever value it has.

(Thereupon the editorial above referred to was marked for identification "I. L. G. W. U. Exhibit No. 19," and received in evidence.)

* * * * * *

[fol. 3061] Mr. Langsdale: And it is further agreed, is it not, Mr. Tyler, that this is the only editorial in the Liberty magazine for February 16, 1935?

Mr. Tyler: I said, apparently it is. Perhaps I should make a study of the magazine.

Mr. Langsdale: Do you want to do it over the recess?

Mr. Tyler: Yes, I will admit that that is the only editorial in that exhibit.

Mr. Shepard: It is admitted.

Mr. Langsdale: Counsel for all parties admit that I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 19 is the only editorial in the Liberty magazine for February 16, 1935, and that that page may be taken from the magazine and offered the same as though the entire magazine were offered.

I offer I. L. G. W. U. exhibit No. 19.

[fol. 3062] Mr. Shepard: Respondent is making the same objection previously made.

Trial Examiner Batten: Subject to the objection both parties have made, it is received.

Is that all, Mr. Langsdale?

Mr. Langsdale: That is all until tomorrow morning.

Mr. Tyler: I would like to move to strike out all of the rebuttal testimony offered by Mr. Langsdale from Mrs. Gray, on the ground that there is no evidence that she was acting on behalf of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or The Donnelly Garment Company, and that nothing said or done at that meeti could in any way bind the respondent or the intervener.

Trial Examiner Batten: The motion is denied.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3075] MAY FIKE, a witness called by and on behalf of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was further examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Mrs. Fike, you have been previously sworn and testified in this case? A. Yes.

Q. Your name is May Fike? A. Yes.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 3077] Q. Mrs. Fike, you first went to work there in what year, did you say?

A. In 1926 or 1927, I am not sure which.

Q. Was there ever any change, as far as you knew, in the duties of the instructors at the Donnelly Garment Company plant from the time you went to work there in 1926 or 1927 up to the time you left there in May, 1937?

Mr. Tyler: Just a minute.

* * * * * * *

[fol. 3078] Mr. Tyler: I object that she is not in a position to testify to what the duties were of the instructors at the Donnelly Garment Company plant.

Mr. Ingraham: Respondent makes the same objection.

Trial Examiner Batten: She may answer. Objection overruled.

A. Not as far as my orders were concerned.

* * * * * * *

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. From whom did you receive your orders up to the time you left in 1937? A. The instructor.

Q. Did you ever receive any order or direction at any time from Mr. Baty? A. Never.

Q. Or from Mrs. Hyde? A. No, sir.

Mr. Langsdale: That is all.

[fol. 3079] Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Fike, did you testify previously that the rest of the operators in your section took their vacations a week after you had taken yours?

A. I didn't know the exact time.

Q. Didn't you make that statement, though?

A. I said it was a week or ten days. I don't know what my answer was, exactly, but I do know it wasn't over two weeks—that I understood the vacations would be taken—that was my understanding.

Q. I am asking you whether or not you said the other operators took their vacations within a week or two weeks after you had taken yours?

A. I don't know whether I said that or not, because I didn't know.

Q. So, if you said it, the answer you made wasn't true?

A. The understanding was—

Q. (Interrupting) Just answer the question, please. If you made such a statement, that the other operators took their vacations within a week or two weeks after you took yours, that answer wasn't true?

Mr. Langsdale: Just a moment. I object to that as argumentative, and for the further reason that she now says she doesn't know when they took them.

Trial Examiner Batten: She can say that if she did [fol. 3080] answer a certain way, whether it was true or not.

Mr. Langsdale: Did she mean to answer that way?

Mr. Ingraham: Was it true or not?

A. Well, if I answered it that way, I could have been mistaken. I don't know how I answered it.

Mr. Ingraham: Then, it wasn't true, if you answered it that way?

Mr. Langsdale: I object to that. This witness does not now know when they took their vacations.

Trial Examiner Batten: The record is clear.

(Addressing the reporter.) Will you get the record?

(Thereupon the transcript of the previous proceedings in this matter was produced by the reporter and examined by the respective attorneys.)

Mr. Ingraham: Mr. Examiner, I think the record will show whatever she said, and I am willing to go ahead. We can't find that right now.

Trial Examiner Batten: We will proceed, then, and if you find it—Mrs. Fike, will you remain here?

The Witness: Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Mrs. Fike, did you ever hear any official of the company give any orders to instructors? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever see any written instructions that were given to instructors by the management?

[fol. 3081] A. I have seen them hand lots of things—I didn't know what was in them.

Q. And you do not know what orders the management gave the instructors at any time, do you?

A. I know only what instructions I got, and where from.

* * * * * *

Edna Lucas, a witness called by and on behalf of International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Will you state your name, please?

A. Edna Lucas.

Q. Where do you live? A. 2716 Harrison.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3082] Q. Are you a member of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. No, sir.

Q. Are you working on a permit there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But at one time did you work for the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you go to work for that company, if you recall?

A. I went to work there in the year of 1933; I don't know the date.

Q. When did you sever your connection with that company? A. I beg your pardon.

Q. When did you quit, or when were you discharged or whatever— A. I was fired, I guess.

Q. When? A. March 8, 1937.

Q. During all of the time that you were there from whom did you receive your instructions?

A. From Pearl Atchinson, my instructor.

Q. And any orders, instructions or directions you got came from whom?

[fol. 3083] A. From my instructor.

Q. And when you left there, on March 8, 1937, who told you about it, and what did she tell you?

A. Pearl Atchinson told me I was wanted in the office, Miss Ella Mae's. So, I went up to the office and she told me not to come in the following morning, to call in.

Q. Prior to that time did you hear your instructor, Pearl Atchinson, say anything with reference to what might happen there?

A. Yes, I did. I went in one morning and turned up my machine and started to go to work, and she said to this other lady that there [there] three girls there that were giving her trouble and she was going to get rid of them.

Q. To whom did she say that?

Mr. Ingraham: I object to that. It is not binding on the respondent, as to what Pearl Atchinson said.

Mr. Tyler: I object to this line of questioning as improper rebuttal.

Trial Examiner Batten: How is this rebuttal, Mr. Langsdale?

Mr. Langsdale: It shows who was giving instructions— The first time any evidence was produced here to show there was any change in the duties of instructors was when Mr. Baty took the stand.

Trial Examiner Batten: There was no objection as to Mrs. Fike, about whether there was any change when she [fol. 3084] was there.

Mr. Langsdale: I am asking this witness the same thing.

Trial Examiner Batten: I am talking about, with reference to this last question.

Mr. Langsdale: This is only an individual piece of testimony to show who was, as a matter of fact, getting rid of the girls down there.

Trial Examiner Batten: I will sustain the objection on this question.

Mr. Ingraham: And I move to strike the answer.

Trial Examiner Batten: It may be stricken.

Mr. Langsdale: Was there any change, as far as you observed, in the authority of the instructors from the time you went to work there in 1933 until you left on March 8, 1937? A. No, sir.

Mr. Tyler: I object that this witness cannot tell by observation whether there was any change in the authority of the instructors.

Trial Examiner Batten: I presume she is answering us to what she knows.

By Trial Examiner Batten:

Q. Were you an operator there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You mean by your answer—As far as you know, was there any difference in the way the instructor treated you, [fol. 3085] or in the instructions she gave you between 1933 and 1937? A. No, sir.

By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. Did you ever receive any instructions from anybody but your instructor down there? A. No, sir.

Q. Or any orders or directions? A. No, sir.

* * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you work steadily for the Donnelly Garment Company from 1933 to 1937?

A. No, sir, I didn't. I worked during seasons, but I worked steadily one year. I drew one vacation check.

Q. What year was that? A. I think it was in 1937.

Q. Now, did you receive your instructions as to how to sew from the instructors?

A. Well, I did nothing but hem, and I knew how to put hems in.

Q. Did the instructor show you how to do that?

A. No, sir. I knew how to do it when I was put at the machine. She just gave me the work, and I put the work in.

Q. And the instructor never showed you anything about how to sew, the new workings, or anything of that kind?

A. Well, a hem is just the same.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3087] LULU CHAMBERS, a witness called by and on behalf of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Mr. Langsdale: State your name, please.

A. Lulu Chambers.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3088] Q. Did you at one time work for the Donnelly Garment Company? A. I did.

Q. When did you first go to work there?

A. About 1928.

Q. When did you last work there?

A. March, 1937.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3089] Trial Examiner Batten: Just a moment. I want it understood that this testimony only goes to the point about change, as far as orders and instructions are concerned.

Mr. Langsdale: That is what I intended to elicit.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3090] Mr. Ingraham: Of course, Your Honor, I didn't know the names of the witnesses or what they were going to testify to, other than, as I understood, they were going to be offered to show there was no change made by Mr. Baty.

Trial Examiner Batten: That was my understanding, that that was the only reason for calling these witnesses.

Mr. Langsdale: That was it.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3091] By Mr. Langsdale:

Q. You received your orders and directions during that entire time from your instructor? A. Yes, sir.

Q. During all of those years, in the same manner?

A. Yes, sir.

* * * * * *

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you work steadily at the Donnelly Garment Company from 1928 to 1937?

A. No. I worked seasonally until in 1932. Then, in 1936 I was out.

Mr. Langsdale: Wait a minute.

Mr. Langsdale: That was from 1932 on?

A. Yes.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. You worked steadily? A. Yes.

Q. Then, what happened in 1936?

A. I was out for my vacation, and I called in and asked for additional time, which they let me have, and then they [fol. 3092] called me back, and then I was laid off in March.

Q. Did the instructors show you how to perform the different operations?

A. Yes, when I ~~first~~ went there. But I hemmed all of the time, and, of course, after I learned it I didn't have to have any more instructions.

Q. After you learned to hem, from then on the instructor didn't assist you in any way.

A. No, only to tell when we needed to put in a narrow hem, a wide hem, or something of that kind.

Q. When you were called back to work, was that done by Mrs. Hyde? A. Yes.

Q. And when you were laid off, was that done by Mrs. Hyde? A. Pearl Atchinson—

* * * * * *

[fol. 3093] When did you ever hear Mrs. Wherry tell an instructor what her duties were?

A. She would stand, sometimes—

Q. (Interrupting) When? What year?

A. It happened practically any time anything would come up.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Were you talking about Mrs. Wherry giving instructions to the instructors about what they should do, or to the operators? A. To both of us.

Q. You heard her, did you? A. Absolutely.

Q. On what occasion did, you hear her give instructions [fol. 3094] to the instructor?

A. At different times when we would be talking.

* * * * * *

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Did you testify there was a change in that while you were there or not?

A. No. I don't think there was any change during the entire time I was there. Mrs. Wherry would give the instructors orders about us talking, and different things that would come up in the work.

* * * * * *

Clare Silvey, a witness [call] by and on behalf of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

[fol. 3095] Direct Examination.

* * * * * *

Q. Were you ever employed by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. I was.

Q. When did you first go to work there?

A. It was in 1933 sometime.

Q. When did you last work there? A. 1937.

Q. During the entire time that you were there, between the date when you went to work in 1933 and the date when you left in 1937, did you ever observe any change in the conduct or authority of the instructors?

A. No, I did not.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3096] Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did you work steadily from 1933 to 1937?

A. Well, I was off during seasonal layoffs.

Q. Were you not an extra?

A. No. I had worked there—if I hadn't been laid off I would have gotten my vacation with pay that year.

Trial Examiner Batten: You mean, in 1937?

A. Yes. I had worked right straight on through.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Did your instructor show you how to perform the operations that you made on the garments that you were sewing on?

A. When I first went there she did.

Q. How long after you were there did she do that?

A. Well, about a month, I guess.

Q. Just a month? A. Yes.

Q. And from that time on your instructor never showed [fol. 3097] you how to perform any operations on this sewing?

A. Well, you see, I was a hemmer, and we had a punch on our hem for a 1-inch, 3-inch, or whatever size hem we put in the dress, and we had so much to turn under. That is what I did, was hemming.

Q. Did you ever hear Mrs. Reed, Mr. Baty, or Mrs. Reeves talk to any of the instructors about their duties?

A. No, I didn't.

* * * * * *

[fol. 3099] Mr. Leary: I want to present in writing my oral motion of yesterday to amend the amended complaint by inserting paragraph (p) again.

And, in connection with that, I have an amendment to the offer of proof, of Board's exhibit No. 30, prepared in writing, which I will not ask to be marked or identified now, because I desire to have Your Honor's ruling, when you are prepared to give it, upon the motion to amend the complaint:

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't intend to make any ruling more than to say that when all of these offers of proof are put in, all of the motions, and so forth, I intend to go over all of them and make a ruling, which will be served on all of the parties.

[fol. 3100] Mr. Leary: In that event, then, I will put into the record in writing my oral motion of yesterday to amend the complaint.

Trial Examiner Batten: I don't think it is necessary. I didn't request that it be in writing. The rules state it may be made in writing or orally.

Mr. Leary: I am required to do it, Mr. Examiner.

Trial Examiner Batten: Well, you may do it, but I have not requested it. I have stated it may be made either orally or in writing.

Mr. Leary: Well, I have it in writing. I am asking for an exhibit number for it.

Trial Examiner Batten: I presume the reporter can assign you one.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent desires to object—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): It isn't offered yet.

Mr. Leary: In connection with this exhibit, which we are without a number for now, I desire to offer an amendment to the offer of proof, Board's exhibit No. 30, with attached exhibit D.

Mr. Stottle: Respondent objects to the offer of proof on all the grounds which we have heretofore suggested to (o) and (p). And also make the further objection that if the Examiner should receive this new offer of proof, that we [fol. 3101] would have to recall Mr. Baty, who was on the stand when the matter came up and was not permitted to go ahead and answer questions on that subject.

Trial Examiner Batten: Are you offering that offer of proof now?

Mr. Leary: I was going to ask to have it marked first, and then I intended to offer it right away.

Trial Examiner Batten: You are not going to offer it, are you, until after your amendment has been marked? There is nothing to base it on, is there, until that is done? However, you may offer it.

Mr. Leary: I would prefer to get it into the file. I don't think, Mr. Examiner, full consideration can be given to the motion to amend unless we have the offer of proof in connection with it.

Trial Examiner Batten: If you make an offer of the offer of proof before the other has been marked, how could I receive it, under that consideration—because it doesn't apply to anything. If you offer that first, what does it apply to?

Mr. Leary: Can't we have a number now for the motion to amend? Don't you have the number?

Trial Examiner Batten: We will take care of that.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, if numbers are going to be assigned to these motions and offers of proof when re-
[fol. 3102] spondent is not here to enter objection—

Trial Examiner Batten (Interrupting): Now, Mr. Stottle, there is no intention of proceeding in such manner. If you are even intimating that such a thing is going to be done, I certainly want to take exception to that.

Mr. Stottle: I didn't mean to put in the manner the Examiner has stated, but we would like to have an opportunity to make objections when the offer of proof and amendments are put in.

Trial Examiner Batten: You certainly will, Mr. Stottle. I asked Mr. Leary to delay the matter until I have passed on some other matters.

Do you have any other motions, Mr. Leary, besides the one to amend the complaint, and the offer that accompanies it?

Mr. Leary: No, I haven't.

Trial Examiner Batten: Mr. Ingraham, have you any motions?

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, we desire to renew our motion to dismiss, which I think was marked Board's exhibit No. 1-FFFF, and related to the whole complaint; and, also, renew our motion to dismiss each and all of the paragraphs in the complaint, which is Board's exhibit No. 1-GGGG.

Trial Examiner Batten: Do you have any further motions, Mr. Stottle, or Mr. Ingraham?

. . . . . .

[fol. 3103] Mr. Tyler: Intervener renews its motion to dismiss as heretofore filed.

. . . . . .

Trial Examiner Batten: The numbers in Board's exhibit No. 1 have been assigned up to 1-SSSS, so the amendment to the complaint, Mr. Leary, which you submitted awhile back will be 1-TTTT; and, having reserved my decision on it when it was made orally, I will not dispose of it any further at this time.

(Thereupon the amendment to the complaint was marked for identification "Board's Exhibit No. 1-TTTT," and received in evidence.)

Trial Examiner Batten: And your offer of proof is an amendment to Board's exhibit No. 30?

Mr. Leary: That is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: It will be received, but not as evidence, of course, until it is passed upon by the Examiner, and it will depend upon the amendment 1-TTTT. [fol. 3104] If 1-TTTT is rejected, that will automatically dispose, of course, of the offer of proof to Board's exhibit No. 30.

. . . . . .

[fol. 3105] Trial Examiner Batten: There are several matters I would like to have the attorneys make careful notes on so that there won't be any slip-up when the time comes for the Examiner to review the record.

Mr. Tyler, as I understand, you are not going to submit any of the N. R. A. testimony?

Mr. Tyler: That is correct.

Trial Examiner Batten: Now, the Judge Miller case testimony which you submit, I would like to have you mark it N. R. A.-Judge Miller case No. 8.

Mr. Tyler: N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibit No. 8.

Trial Examiner Batten: That is right. That, then, will, of course, cancel the following numbers which were assigned previously to the N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibits: 12, 4, and 16.

Now, that testimony, Mr. Tyler, you will have up to and including Wednesday, July 19, to prepare, and you will serve it, of course, upon the other parties, and you will serve the original at the reporter's office; she will give you the address. And you will mail to the Trial Examiner, in care of the National Labor Relations Board, in Washington, one copy of the testimony.

Mr. Tyler: Should that original show receipt of service by these other people, or will it be assumed that it has been served on them?

[fol. 3106] Trial Examiner Batten: You may do that if you care to. I haven't required it in other instances.

With respect to the offers of proof, Mr. Tyler, you have several of those to make, and you will mark them all No. 1-RRRR, and the original will be delivered to the reporter's office by Saturday noon, July 22; and you will serve copies upon the other parties, and you will forward to me three copies of the offers of proof, one for my record and two for the Board's record. That will be sent to the Examiner, in care of the Board, at Washington, D.C.

Mr. Tyler. That will be addressed to you personally, in care of the Board?

Trial Examiner Batten: That is right. With respect to any rebuttal that any of the parties have to the written testimony in the N. R. A. or the Judge Miller case, that will all be marked, no matter whose rebuttal testimony it is—you will indicate on the first page whose rebuttal it is, respondent's rebuttal, Board's rebuttal, or intervener's rebuttal, and that will all be marked N. R. A.-Judge Miller case exhibit No. 17.

Now, that must be in the hands of the reporter at her office by noon Saturday, July 22.

Mr. Ingraham, as I understand it, you have no offer of proof to make on part A of the answer, those being jurisdictional matters?

[fol. 3107] Mr. Ingraham: That is correct.

Mr. Langsdale: You say it must be in Washington by Saturday, June 22?

Trial Examiner Batten: No. In the reporter's office.

No. 1-SSSS, when prepared, will be the rulings of the Trial Examiner on all pending matters, which will be forwarded to the Regional Director in Kansas City for service on all of the parties.

Mr. Langsdale: Must this rebuttal be sent to you, also?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes. I would like to have one copy of the rebuttal testimony forwarded direct to me.

Now, all of these delayed exhibits, as I stated before, are to be filed with the reporter on or before noon, Saturday, July 22.

As I understand it, Mr. Tyler, you will recall when Mr. Ingraham made his offers of proof with respect to the matters which the Trial Examiner stated he would not want to receive any further testimony on, that at that time it was understood that the offers of proof are to cover only those matters which are repetitious and cumulative, outside of the item of violence, and the things that go with that, the effect which that had upon the minds and the actions of the employees at the Donnelly Garment Company. Is that correct?

Mr. Tyler: I am not sure I understand you. My offer of proof has about seven matters which it is entitled to cover, and one of those is the effect on the minds or atti[fol. 3108] tudes of the Donnelly garment workers employees.

Trial Examiner Batten: My point is, only one of those matters, which has two parts, is a matter upon which I have received no testimony. Isn't that correct?

Mr. Tyler: Which one is that?

Trial Examiner Batten. The matter of violence and mental attitude of the employees, their reaction to the violence, and so forth. In other words, whatever we discussed, Mr. Stottle, at the time you made your offers, which was agreed to by the respondent. That is what I am getting at. Your offer will be upon the same basis. That is, it is not supposed to include new testimony—I mean, new matters.

Mr. Tyler: No. The matters specifically excluded by your rulings.

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes, except for the one, of course, that I receive no testimony on. That, of course, can be as broad as you want to make it.

Mr. Tyler: You are not restricting me as to the number of people I say would testify, but only that no new subjects may be gone into?

Trial Examiner Batten: I am not restricting you to anything you put in the offer, but I want you to understand—does not include new matters.

One other thing, in view of the fact that the offers of proof which have been offered, practically all of them have [fol. 3109] been offered at the request of the Examiner. The attorneys may make such objections to those offers as you care to. If you do not care to make an objection to an offer of proof, it is not necessary that you do it, because, having requested the offers of proof, the Examiner feels it is his obligation to pass on those offers.

Mr. Stottle: Mr. Examiner, you mean we could make those objections in writing and mail them in?

Trial Examiner Batten: That will all have to be in the hands of the reporter by Saturday noon, July 22, and the originals and copies mailed to me.

Mr. Langsdale: If we prepare objections to the offers of proof in writing will they have an exhibit number?

Trial Examiner Batten: I think I stated that all objections would—

Mr. Langsdale (Interrupting): You said the offers of proof will be 1-RRRR.

Trial Examiner Batten: I think I had better assign a different number for any objections which might be filed. That would be 1-UUUU, Mr. Langsdale. I am glad you called that to my attention, because I thought I had one for that.

Mr. Langsdale: Is that for all parties, the objections of all parties, 1-UUUU?

Trial Examiner Batten: Yes. The thing that I want to impress upon everybody is that all of these delayed ex-
[fol. 3110] hibits, if they are not in the hands of the reporter by Saturday noon, July 22, when the record of the transcript and the exhibits are forwarded to Washington, it means they just will not be included in the record, so I want to impress upon you the importance of having it here.

Mr. Lane: May I make this inquiry? We have offered as intervener's exhibit these 37 pages of affidavits, which were rejected. In making an offer of proof on that subject will we assume that they are now part of the record?

Trial Examiner Batten: You don't need to assume it, Mr. Lane. All rejected exhibits are bound in a separate binding and are part of the record.

Mr. Lane: So, we may refer to it?

Trial Examiner Batten: You may refer to it as intervener's rejected exhibit—whatever it is.

There was one other matter you, Mr. Leary, and Mr. Ingraham, had with reference to some payroll matters.

Mr. Ingraham: We will take care of that.

Trial Examiner Batten: What do you mean, you will take care of it? You mean you may yet want to use Board's exhibit No. 28, which was reserved for the payrolls?

Mr. Leary: Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: In connection with that, Mr. Ingraham, is it understood that you are going to submit certain payrolls to Mr. Leary?

[fol. 3111] Mr. Ingraham. Yes.

Trial Examiner Batten: If he cares to have photostats made of those and made a part of the record, as Board's exhibit No. 28, you have no objection to their receipt?

Mr. Ingraham: I think the payroll is immaterial to any issue in this case. I don't want to say I have no objection to the introduction of that evidence. I am going to bring in the payrolls and if Mr. Leary wants to use them, of course that is up to him, but I would object to the materiality.

Trial Examiner Batten: Then, it had better be handled this way: Mr. Leary, if you do decide to use some of them you will mark them Board's exhibit No. 28, and they will be in the hands of the reporter, at her office, on or before July 19.

Mr. Ingraham, those payrolls, if Mr. Leary desires to use them, will be marked Board's exhibit No. 28, and will be in the hands of the reporter by Wednesday, July 19. And then, you will have until Saturday noon, July 22, to file any written objections; and if there are no objections filed, the Examiner will assume there are no objections.

Mr. Leary: In connection with the payrolls, Mr. Examiner, I haven't had an opportunity to look at them, and I don't want to be foreclosed in offering them in any other manner than the original or the photostat of them. I might find it possible to prepare—as I understand, there are only 150 names on each one of them—just prepare the 150 names, [fol. 3112] the date, and the figure, and it can all be done by a more compact method than having photostats of the payroll.

Trial Examiner Batten: I will not accept them in any form other than photostats, or a delayed exhibit, because that opens up too wide a variance. You and Mr. Ingraham might get into a discussion of what should be in and what should be out.

If you and Mr. Ingraham want to stipulate, subject to his objection as to its being material, then you may mark it Board's exhibit No. 28 and make it anything you want, as long as you two agree. But I am not going to leave a matter open in the record upon which the attorneys do not agree.

Case No. XVII-C-371.

It is hereby stipulated and agreed by the parties hereto that the evidence taken before the NRA Regional Labor Board, Twelfth District, in Case No. 160 styled "International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Complainant vs. Donnelly Garment Company, Respondent" or any part thereof may be offered or received in evidence in the instant proceedings with the same force as though the witnesses were personally present and sworn and so testified, subject, however, to the right of any party to make an objection that said evidence or any part thereof is immaterial, irrelevant or hearsay, or deals with matters which occurred prior to the passage of the National Labor Relations Act.

It is further stipulated and agreed by the parties hereto that the evidence taken before the Honorable Andrew Miller, United States District Judge, in the case entitled "In the District Court of the United States, for the Western Division of the Western District of Missouri. Donnelly Garment Company, et al., vs. International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, et al., Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Interveners, Case No. 2924" may be offered or re-[fol. 3402] ceived in evidence in the instant proceedings with the same force and effect as though the witnesses were personally present, sworn, and so testified, subject, however, to the right of any party to make an objection that said evidence is immaterial or irrelevant to any issue herein or is hearsay testimony, or deals with matters which occurred prior to the passage of the National Labor Relations Act.

It is further understood and agreed that nothing herein contained shall deny any party hereto the right to call any witness whose testimony has been taken in either of the above proceedings, either for further examination or in lieu of using such witness' testimony as incorporated in either of said transcripts, but this does not apply to offers of proof made in either of the above proceedings.

Date 7/7/39 — Witness

Objections and Motion to strike of Respondent to offer of Proof filed by Board and marked Board's Exhibit No. 30.

United States of America

Before the National Labor Relations Board

Seventeenth Region

In The Matter of

Donnelly Garment Company
and
International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union
and
Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract.

Case No. XVII-C-371

Respondent objects to the offer of proof made and filed by the Board herein designated as Board's Exhibit 30, and referring to the testimony which it is claimed Ellen Fry, Glenn Brooks and Mamie Tubbesing would give, which testimony is set forth in Exhibits A, B, and C attached to said exhibit, and is taken from the testimony given in the N. R. A. hearing before the International Labor Relations Board, Twelfth District, in the matter of Donnelly Garment Company and International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, Case No. 160, in the year 1935, and objects to the testimony offered to be proved by each of said witnesses, and objects separately to each and every question and answer therein set forth, and moves that the above mentioned offers of proof as to each of said witnesses be rejected, and moves that the testimony of each of said witnesses and that each and every of the questions and answers thereto be excluded and stricken and not considered as evidence in this proceeding for each and all of the following reasons, to-wit:

That said testimony was given prior to July 5, 1935, and refers to matters which purport to have existed or occurred prior to said date, and said testimony and each and every question and answer thereof is immaterial and irrelevant to any issue in this proceeding and deals with matters purporting to have existed or occurred prior to the enactment of the National Labor Relations Act; that the conditions, acts and conversations testified to by said witnesses, if they existed or occurred, were lawful at the time they existed or occurred, and the fact, if it is a fact, that such things existed or occurred or that respondent or any of its representatives may have done or said or authorized any of such things, at the times referred to, or when same were lawful, carries no imputation and does not tend to prove that the respondent (or intervenor), or any one representing either of them, would violate or has violated the National Labor Relations Act after its enactment, or that they would or did commit, authorize or do, after the enactment of said Act, any of the acts or unfair labor practices alleged in the complaint herein, and such testimony is therefore conjectural, speculative and [fol. 3420] irrelevant as to any issue in this proceeding; and for the further reason that there is no showing that the persons testifying or referred to in said testimony had authority to bind or speak for respondent (or intervenor) at said times, or if they had such authority at said times, there is no showing that such authority continued after the enactment of the National Labor Relations Act or that respondent handled or managed its business or the various departments thereof in the same way or by the same division of authority after the enactment of said Act as it did at the times said testimony was given or that what was said by said witnesses applies to conditions in respondent's business or the methods of handling same since the enactment of said Act and hence said testimony is too remote, is not binding upon respondent or intervenor, is immaterial, irrelevant, conjectural, and without probative value as to any of the matters here in issue; that there is no charge in the complaint of any discrimination by respondent against said witnesses or the persons referred to in said testimony; that said testimony is hearsay and states conclusions; that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was not then in existence or even contemplated and said testimony can have no bearing on the question of whether said union was formed, dominated or maintained by respondent or whether it represents the free will and choice of respondent's employees as their bargaining agency: that said testimony does not tend to prove or disprove any issue in this proceeding and, if received, would require extended testimony on the part of respondent and intervenor to refute such irrelevant and immaterial testimony, all of which would needlessly encumber the record; that for each and all of said reasons, the reception or consideration of said testimony in this proceeding would be improper, illegal and prejudicial to respondent and intervenor.

[fol. 3421] Respondent further objects to the second paragraph of said offer of proof and to the offer of proof made therein relating to the testimony which it is alleged Glenn Brooks would give if permitted to testify in this proceeding, for the reason that said testimony, if given, would not prove or tend to prove any of the issues in this proceeding, or to prove or tend to prove that the respondent engaged in any of the unfair labor practices charged in the complaint and because same is immaterial and irrelevant to any of the issues herein and would not be binding on respondent; and it does not appear that said Glenn Brooks was an employee of the Donnelly Garment Company at the time of the enactment of the National Labor Relations Act or since said date, and it does not appear that there was any obligation on the part of respondent to recall said Glenn Brooks or assign work to her at the times referred to in said offer of proof or in the complaint; and respondent moves that the said offer of proof as to Glenn Brooks be rejected and not considered as evidence in this proceeding.

[fol. 3457] if produced, sworn and examined would severally testify to the following facts and circumstances, substantially as follows, to wit:

(In this offer of proof, the witnesses are, for convenience, referred to by the masculine gender but such reference is to be construed as masculine or feminine as the case may be.)

That he (or she) is an employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company; that he is a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

I.

That he joined the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union of his own free will and accord, uninfluenced by the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company or by any officer, executive or supervisory employee thereof, or by anyone representing the management of said companies; that since said time he has continued to belong to and support said Donnelly Garment Workers' Union of his own free will and accord, uninfluenced by the management of said companies or by anyone representing the management of said companies; that the Executive or Bargaining Committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union chosen at the time of the formation of said Union on April 27, 1937, and each of the bargaining committees subsequently chosen or elected, represent his free choice of a bargaining committee to represent him and said Union in all matters relating to terms and conditions of employment at the Donnelly plant and that such choice of bargaining committees was made of his own free will and accord, uninfluenced by the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company or any one representing the management of said companies.

[fol. 3458] That at or prior to the time of the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union on April 27, 1937, there was no coercion, intimidation, pressure, suggestion or inducements of any kind, direct or indirect, brought to bear upon him by the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company through any of its officers, executives or supervisory officers or anyone representing the management, to cause or influence him, or which did cause or influence him, to join or support the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, or interfere in any way with the exercise by him of his own free will in determining whether he should join or support said Union.

That since the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union there has never been any threat, intimidation, coercion, suggestion or inducements given to him or received by him, directly or indirectly, from the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company or any one representing the management of either of said companies, to cause him to continue to support and belong to said Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or to cause him to refrain from joining the international Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or in any way interfering or attempting to interfere with his own free will in determining whether he should or should not continue membership in said Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or refrain from joining or supporting the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

That he does not know and has never heard of any coercion, intimidation, pressure, suggestion or inducements being made by the management of those companies or any [fol. 3459] one representing the management, upon or to any other employees of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company to cause or influence them to join or continue membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or interfering in any way with the exercise of their own free will and choice in regard to such matters. That he has mingled with the employees at the Donnelly plant and heard a great deal of discussion by them concerning the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and never heard any conversation by any employees indicating that the management had brought any pressure or influence to bear upon them in regard to such matters.

That there has never been any threat or suggestion made to him directly or indirectly by the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company or by any one representing the management, that if he or other employees did not organize, join or support a plant union that he or other employees would or might lose their jobs.

That he does not know of and has never heard of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company, or any officer, executive, supervisory employee or any one representing the management of said companies, doing or saying anything either prior or subsequent to the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union on April 27, 1937, calculated or tending to encourage, promote or foster membership in the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or in any "plant union" or tending to discourage membership in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or local thereof.

[fol. 3460] That he does not know and has never heard of any officer, executive or supervisory employee or any one representing the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company assisting in the formation, maintenance, or administration of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or contributing financial or other aid of any kind to that union, or rewarding in any way any person for their assistance or support of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

That he was never directed or ordered by any one, either by instructors employed by the Donnelly Garment Company, or by any official, executive or supervisory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company, to attend the meeting of April 27, 1937, at which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was organized, or to attend any other meetings of said Union, or to join or support said Union, or how to vote upon any matter at meetings of said Union, but that his attendance at all such meetings and his support of said Union and his vote and all other action taken by him at any of said meetings has been wholly voluntary on his part and was done of his own free will and accord, uninfluenced by any officer, executive, supervisory employee, or any person representing the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company.

That he has never received any communication or information, oral or otherwise, directly or indirectly, from, or purporting to come from, any officer, executive or super-

[fol. 3461] visory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company or anyone representing the management of said companies which has caused him to think or feel that the management of those companies was placing any restriction upon the rights, desires or freedom of himself or other employees as to what union they should join or whether they should join or not join any union, or interfering in any way with the exercise by him of his own free will and choice in regard thereto, that all information which he has received has been to the effect that the management of the Donnelly Garment Company and Donnelly Garment Sales Company wanted the employes to do as they pleased as to joining any union they pleased and that there would be no discrimination against them because of their joining or not joining any union.

[fol. 3462] II.

That he knew of the strikes taking place at the Gernes and Gordon factories in Kansas City during March and April, 1937, and heard of violence and molestation of employees of those companies by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or its representatives in connection with those strikes and of interference with employees of those companies in going to and from work, and had heard that the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union was going to do the same things to the Donnelly Garment Company employees as it had done to the employees of such other companies and that he had read the newspaper articles concerning those strikes and had read the newspaper article of April 22, 1937, stating that Sylvia Hull had been chosen to represent employees of the Donnelly Garment Company at a convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union at Atlantic City; that those matters caused him and other Donnelly employees to become greatly wrought up and was one of the factors which caused the employees to organize the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union; that such action was taken by him, and so far as he could observe was taken by the other employees, voluntarily, of their own free will and accord, without any interference, suggestion, coercion, or inducement on the part of the management or anyone representing the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company.

[fol. 3463] III.

That he was present at a meeting of employees held on March 18, 1937 on the second floor of the Corrigan Building; that said meeting took place after working hours; that said meeting was arranged by Rose Todd and Hobart Atherton; that Miss Rose Todd, an employee of the company, presided at the meeting; that the principal topic discussed at the meeting was the strikes which were then occurring at the Missouri, Gernes and Gordon garment factories and the violence and molestation of the employees of such companies by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and the threats that the Donnelly Garment Company "would be next" and the same things would be done to the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company as were being done at the Missouri, Gernes and Gordon plants, and what action the employees could take to protect themselves against such threatened action; that no executive or supervising employee took any part in conducting the meeting; that near the end of the meeting someone was sent to invite Mrs. Reed to come and speak to the meeting, and she came and made a short talk to the employees; that Mrs. Reed in her talk spoke of the threats which the International Ladies Garment Workers Union was making of what would happen to the Donnelly employees, and said that she would do everything she could to protect us against any violence. She said it was our own business whether we wanted to join a union. She said that she wasn't going to let Mr. Dubinsky or any other buttinsky force her to force her employees to join the International Union against their will; that Mrs. Reed did not say that she would not permit the International Ladies Garment Workers Union to come in her plant; that she did not say that she wanted reported to her the names of any Donnelly employees who belonged to the International Ladies Garment Workers Union; and that he did not hear any such announcement or request by any other person at said meeting; that when Mrs. Reed had finished her talk she immediately left the meeting; that he was not told or directed by anyone, either instructors employed by the Donnelly Garment Company [fol. 3464] or by any officer, executive, or supervisory employee of said company, to attend said meeting, but that he received information that the employees were holding a meeting and that his attendance at said meeting was wholly voluntary and of his own free will and accord, uninfluenced by any action or suggestion on the part of the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company.

[fol. 3465] IV.

That about the last of March or first of April, 1937, he attended a meeting of employees on the second floor of the Donnelly plant; that said meeting occurred within a few days of the first day of April and did not occur on May 25th; that it was held long before the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was organized on April 27; that said meeting was arranged for by Hobart Atherton and Rose Todd and was held after working hours; that said meeting was stated by Rose Todd and Hobart Atherton to be for the purpose of discussing means of raising money by the employees to pay retainer fee, $500.00, to the law firm of Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich & Tyler for their advice and services concerning an injunction to protect the Donnelly employees against threatened violence and molestation such as was occurring at the Gordon, Gernes and Missouri garment factories in Kansas City; that various suggestions were made for raising the money and finally a motion was made and carried that employees be asked to contribute fifty cents (50¢) apiece for that purpose; it was stated that payment of the fifty cents might be made at that meeting or at the following pay day; that he understands something over $500.00 was raised in this way; that this meeting was not a Loyalty League meeting but was a meeting of employees; that he was not directed or ordered to go to the meeting by any officer, executive or supervisory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company, but he attended same of his own free will and accord; [the] he saw no officer, executive or supervisory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company at said meeting and so far as he knows no such officer had anything to do with the calling of said meeting.

[fol. 3466] V.

That he attended a meeting of employees at the Donnelly plant held on April 27, 1937, at which the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was formed; that said meeting took place after working hours; that he attended said meeting of his own free will and accord; that he was not instructed or invited to go to said meeting by any officer, executive or other supervisory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company; that he was not directed or instructed to go to said meeting by any instructor employed by the Donnelly Garment Company; that he did not see at said meeting any officer, executive or supervisory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company and knows that no such officer, executive or supervisory employee participated in any way in said meeting; that Rose Tood presided at said meeting and stated that she and some other employees had been to see the law firm of Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich & Tyler to see what protection the employees might secure against the threatened violence and molestation of employees, similar to that which had been occurring at the Missouri, Gernes and Gordon garment factories; that after the National Labor Relations Act had been declared constitutional Mr. Tyler had advised that the employees were entitled to organize a union if they so desired; that this meeting was called to see what they wanted to do about it; that she introduced Mr. Tyler to the meeting and Mr. Tyler explained to the meeting what the employees were entitled to do in the way of organizing a union; that the name of Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was suggested as a name for such union if they should decide to form one; that the meeting voted to form such a union; that application cards for membership in such union were distributed among the employees and it was stated by Mr. Tyler or Miss Todd that the employees should feel entirely free to sign or not to sign the cards as they might choose and that they might either sign at said meeting or take the cards home for consideration or discussion with their families; that a nom-[fol. 3467] inating committee was chosen by the meeting with instructions to nominate persons for officers and a bargaining or executive committee of said union; that this nominating committee retired from the room and later returned and made certain nominations for bargaining committee and officers; that the persons nominated were voted upon and elected by the unanimous vote of those present; that he did not gain the impression from anything said at said meeting by Rose Todd, Mr. Tyler or anyone else, that Mrs. Reed or the management of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company were asking or wanted the employees to form a plant union; that there was no pressure brought to bear by anything said at said meeting to coerce anyone present at the meeting to join the union or to sign the application cards, but that matter was left to the voluntary action of the employees; there was nothing said or done at that meeting which gave him the impression that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was to take the place of the Nelly Don Loyalty League or that there was any connection whatever between those two organizations; that he signed one of the application cards referred to and voluntarily joined said union; that he has attended most of the subsequent meetings of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and that he has never seen any officer, executive or supervisory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company at any of such meetings and that to his knowledge no such officer, executive or supervisory employee has ever participated in any of the affairs or subsequent meetings of said union.

[fol. 3468] VI.

That he is a member of the Nelly Don Loyalty League; that he was not asked to join the Loyalty League by an official, executive or supervisory employee of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company; that the Loyalty League is a social organization and has never engaged in any of the activities of a labor union; that there are no dues in the Loyalty League; that the Loyalty League was not merged into the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was not a continuation of or successor to the Loyalty League in any way; that the Loyalty League is still in existence and has continued its meetings and activities since the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union; that to his knowledge no coercion, suggestion or influence was never exerted or attempted to be exerted by the Donnelly Garment Company or the Donnelly Garment Sales Company through the Nelly Don Lyalty League or any of its officers in the formation and administration of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union; that so far as he knows or ever heard the two organizations have always been and are now wholly separate and distinct; that to his knowledge at no time did the said Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and the Nelly Don Loyalty League hold a joint meeting nor did a meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union immediately either precede or follow a meeting of the Nelly Don Loyalty League.

Case No. XVII-C-371.

In the Matter of
Donnelly Garment Company
and
International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union,
and
Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract.

Respondent's attention has been called to the fact that its previous offers of proof herein do not cover the following portions of International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union's motion to strike parts of respondent's original answer, as called for by the Trial Examiner's ruling (paragraph 6 of Exhibit 1-yyy). In pursuance of said ruling, the respondent offers to prove the facts set forth in the clause of Paragraph 2 of Section A, on Page 2, of its original Answer which the ILGWU has moved to strike, by the certified copy of the decree, findings of fact and conclusions of law of the U. S. District Court for the Western District of Missouri in Case No. 2924 which has been offered in evidence herein as a part of NRA-JMC Exhibit 3, and by the testimony of John B. Bachofer analyzing the contracts made by the ILGWU with other garment companies which testimony is also contained in NRA-JMC Exhibit 3 and by the contracts themselves made by the ILGWU with other [fol. 3470] manufacturing companies, which contracts were in evidence in the Judge Miller case and certified copies of which are contained in Respondent's Exhibit 2 for identification which exhibit was previously offered in evidence by respondent in this proceeding and which offer, respondent's Exhibit 2, is now renewed.

Respondent offers to prove the portion of its original answer contained in paragraph 12, section D at the top of Page 26 of its said answer which the ILGWU has moved to strike, by the testimony of David Dubinsky contained in NRA-JMC Exhibit 3, and by the contracts of the ILGWU above referred to contained in respondent's Exhibit 2 for identification, and by the testimony of John B. Bachofer above referred to, contained in NRA-JMC Exhibit 3, and by the testimony of Meyer Perlstein given in said Judge Miller case and by the testimony of A. B. Gernes and Hyman Gordon who are officers or executives of Gernes Garment Company and Gordon Bros. Manufacturing Company.

Intervener offers to produce and examine under oath as witnesses herein the persons whose names are signed hereto, and offers to prove that if such witnesses are produced, sworn and examined they would testify in substance as follows:

The undersigned, all being employees of the Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company below the rank of anyone with authority to employ, or discharge, or reprimand employees, and all being members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, hereby state that they have read this statement in full, signed it of their own free will and choice, and if present in court they would testify under oath to the following facts:

To the best of their knowledge and belief the meeting of March 18, 1937, was called by employees on their own initiative and without any action, influence or suggestion of the employer, or any representatives of the employer; that at such meeting Mrs. Reed was sent for after the meeting had been going on some little time and that when she came to the meeting and spoke she did not say that she would not allow members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to work in the Donnelly Company; [fol. 3472] that she did not say that the ILGWU would never be allowed in her plant, nor did she express such an idea or purpose in substance in any other language, nor did she say that she wanted the names of anyone who joined the ILGWU reported to her.

The undersigned would also testify under oath if present in court in this hearing that during the month of March, 1937, the disorders and violence connected with the Gordon, Gernes and Missouri strikes then being carried on were a subject of common and frequent conversation and comment and discussion by the employees of the Donnelly companies; that it was commonly reported, and each of the undersigned had heard, that the ILGWU, or some of the pickets or strikers in those strikes, had committed acts of violence, and that they, or some of them, had stated that the Donnelly plant was next on the list, or similar words, the substance of which was that the people connected with these strikes and the violence connected therewith, planned and intended to subject the employees of the Donnelly companies to similar violence if such employees did not join the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union; that the undersigned had all seen or heard of articles in the newspapers concerning the strikes at Gordon, Gernes and Missouri; that as a result of this information the attitude of mind of the undersigned parties, and of the employees of the companies in general, was one of apprehension, uneasiness, and fear that the employees of the Donnelly companies would be shortly subjected to similar violence and intimidation to that which they understood and believed was being carried on in connection with the Gordon, Gernes, and Missouri strikes; that such state of mind of apprehension was one of the causes of the action of employees in ratifying and approving the action of certain employees in employing legal counsel in connection with in- [fol. 3473] vestigation as to whether an injunction could be secured giving the employees of the Donnelly Companies legal protection against such anticipated violence, and that later on toward the end of April, 1937, such information and belief as to possible or probable violence or intimidation by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union was one of the reasons which caused the undersigned to approve and take part in the formation of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union in the belief that such union would increase the rights of the employees to legal protection as well as being of value to the employees in connection with other matters such as negotiating contracts and agreements covering conditions of employment, wages, etc.

The undersigned state that they are members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and that they joined said union and have at all times since remained members thereof solely of their own free will, choice and preference, and that they have not been influenced by any threats, coercion or pressure of their employer, or any representatives of said employer, and that they have no knowledge of any instance in which the employer or any representatives of the employer have exerted pressure, intimidation, coercion or any other influence upon the undersigned or any other employees to join the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union or to stay out of any other labor union.

[fol. 3482] Offer of Proof By Intervener

United States of America
Before the National Labor Relations Board
Seventeenth Region

In the Matter of

Donnelly Garment Company
and
International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union,
and
Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract.

Case No. XVII-C-371

Intervener offers to produce and examine under oath as witnesses herein the 1165 persons who signed the affidavit which was introduced in evidence herein as intervener's Exhibit 20-a to 20-kk, being the affidavit and application for election offered in evidence in this case on June 7, 1939, and again on July 14, 1939, the original of which was filed with the National Labor Relations Board at its Regional Office in Kansas City, Missouri, on or about June 7, 1939, which said intervener's Exhibit 20-a to 20-kk and the affidavit and signatures thereon are incorporated in this offer by reference with the same force and effect as though set out herein in full. Intervener offers to prove that said 1165 witnesses if produced, sworn and examined herein would testify that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union is their free and voluntary choice as bargaining representative for them with their employer; that they joined and have at all times remained members of said Donnelly Garment Workers' Union of their own free will and without coercion, intimidation or other influence of their employer, and that they have repeatedly in the past and do now again offer to abide by the results of a fair and [fol. 3483] secret election held under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board as to their preference between Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union or no affiliation with any labor union whatsoever.

GOSSETT, ELLIS, DIETRICH

[fol. 3484] Offer of Proof by Intervener.

United States of America
Before the National Labor Relations Board
Seventeenth Region

In the Matter of

Donnelly Garment Company
and
International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union,
and
Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract.

Case No. XVII-C-371

Intervener, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, offers to produce and examine as witnesses herein under oath if permitted to do so the persons whose names are signed hereto, and offers to prove that said witnesses if produced and examined would testify under oath to the following facts, viz.:

would be next, which matters had been the principal topic of conversation around the Donnelly plant since the strike had started; that the meeting was a voluntary meeting of employees; that it was not a meeting of the Nelly Don Loyalty League and those who called the meeting were not acting in any capacity for the Loyalty League; that the Loyalty League was not mentioned at the meeting and had nothing to do with the meeting; that the officers, executive or supervisory employees of the companies had nothing to do with calling the meeting and, so far as these witnesses know, did not know that the meeting was to be held or was being held.

Intervener offers to prove that the matters talked about at the meeting concerned what the employees themselves as a voluntary group could do about protecting themselves from the kind of treatment that was being given the employees of other garment concerns by International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Several employees made speeches from the floor about that subject when someone from the floor suggested, after the meeting had been in progress for some minutes, that Mrs. Reed, if she were in the building, should be asked to come down to tell what the company was going to do or was able to do in the matter of providing protection for the employees. Two or three employees at the suggestion of the chairman left the room to go after Mrs. Reed and in a little while Mrs. Reed came into the meeting. She had someone read to the meeting a letter that had been received from Meyer Perlstein of [fol. 3486] the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Mrs. Reed then talked for a few minutes, the substance of her talk being that the company was going to do everything legally possible to provide protection and that she was consulting the company attorneys in that connection and that arrangements were being made to provide busses for transportation. Mrs. Reed stated that she was not going to allow Dubinsky or anyone else to force her to intimidate or compel her employees to join a union they did not want to join. Mrs. Reed did not say that the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union was never going to be allowed in her plant or that she wanted the employees to report to her the names of any employees who belonged to the International. Mrs. Reed left the meeting immediately after her talk and the meeting was adjourned shortly thereafter.

Each of the undersigned has read or has had read to him the foregoing offer of proof and states that he would so testify in substance if produced as a witness in this case.

Case No. XVII-C-371

In the Matter of

and
Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract

The intervener offers to produce and examine as witnesses herein under oath, if permitted to do so, the persons whose names are signed hereto, and offers to prove that said witnesses, if produced and examined under oath, would testify substantially as follows, viz.:

That toward the end of March or the early part of April, 1937, a meeting of employees was held on the second floor of the Corrigan Building; that all of the undersigned and substantially all of the employees of Donnelly Garment Company and Donnelly Garment Sales Company were present at that meeting; that the meeting occurred after the close of working hours; that they were not ordered or directed or asked to attend the meeting by any officers, executives or supervisory employees of the companies and no such persons were present or had anything to do with the meeting, but that it was a voluntary meeting of employees and the employees attended of their own free will; that it was not a meeting of the Nelly Don Loyalty League; that at the meeting Rose Todd presided and explained that she, [fol. 3488] Hobart Atherton and Sally Ormsby had taken it upon themselves to consult attorneys to see what could be done by the employees themselves toward securing an injunction against violence and threatened violence or to secure other legal protection for the employees; that they had consulted the law firm of Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich & Tyler and had been informed that before the employment could be undertaken a retainer fee of $500.00 would be required; that at such meeting the action of Rose Todd, Hobart Atherton and Sally Ormsby in consulting attorneys on behalf of the employees was approved by all those present, and various ways and means of raising the money, such as by giving dances or carnivals, etc., were suggested and discussed; that during such discussion a motion was made from the floor that all employees donate fifty cents each for the purpose of raising that fund and that the motion was seconded and carried; that some contributions in that amount were made at that meeting and others were made later, the collections being made by individuals in the various sections or departments, and that the money for the purpose of paying the attorneys' retainer fee was raised in that way; that these witnesses understood that the legal services for which this money was being raised concerned obtaining injunctive relief or other legal protection and were not connected with the formation of a plant union; that this meeting was held a considerable time before the union was organized on April 27, 1937. All of the undersigned paid their contributions and the foregoing meeting and the agreement to do so resulted from the voluntary action of the employees, without suggestion, pressure, coercion or inducement from any officers, executives or supervisory employees of the companies.

[fol. 3490] Offer of Proof by Intervener

United States of America
Before the National Labor Relations Board
Seventeenth Region

Case No. XVII-C-371

In the Matter of

Donnelly Garment Company
and
International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union,
and
Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract

Intervener offers to produce and examine under oath as witnesses herein the persons whose names are signed hereto, and offers to prove by such witnesses that if produced, sworn and examined they would testify in substance as follows:

That they are and on April 27, 1937, were employees of Donnelly Garment Company or Donnelly Garment Sales Company; that on said date a general meeting of employees of said companies was held on the second floor of the Corrigan Building; that said meeting was convened after the close of working hours at the plant and that no employees left work during working hours in order to attend the meeting; that the meeting was called by employees and no officers, executives or supervisory employees of the companies had anything to do with calling the meeting and no such persons attended the meeting or participated in it in any way, and no such persons suggested, urged or asked the employees to attend, nor did any instructors ask or direct the employees to attend, but that the employees went to said meeting voluntarily of their own free wills. Virtually all of the employees appeared to be present at the meeting.

[fol. 3491] Miss Rose Todd acted as chairman and explained that the meeting was called to discuss whether the employees wanted to form their own labor union in order to secure greater protection for themselves as employees than could be otherwise obtained and to be a business organization to deal with the companies as representatives of the employees. Miss Todd introduced Mr. Frank E. Tyler, of the law firm of Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich & Tyler, who had been consulted on behalf of the employees. Mr. Tyler talked for a few minutes and explained that the Wagner Act had been held constitutional by the Supreme Court and that under the act the employees had a right to form their own union if they chose to do so and that a union of employees would afford a better chance to secure adequate protection than could be obtained if the employees were unorganized. He stated that he had drawn a brief form of by-laws which he would submit if the employees decided to form a union. The matter of forming an employees' union was then discussed and a motion was then made that an independent, unaffiliated plant union be formed. The motion was seconded and a vote was taken and so far as the undersigned know all of the employees present voted in favor of forming such union. The name of the union was discussed and it was decided to call it "Donnelly Garment Workers' Union". A nominating committee of five persons was then appointed for the purpose of nominating nine people to be voted on to compose the executive committee of a general chairman and eight group chairmen. The nominating committee retired from the room.

The chairman then passed out cards, which said in substance, "I hereby agree to become a charter member of Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and agree to abide by its by-laws and regulations". It was explained that the employees could sign these cards or not, as they chose, and that they should sign them only if doing so was their own voluntary choice.

[fol. 3492] The by-laws as prepared by Mr. Tyler were then read by him and he suggested their adoption, with a right to amend when necessary, and by vote of the employees the by-laws were adopted.

The nominating committee then returned with its report. The chairman asked for any additional nominations from the floor but none were made. A vote was taken and those nine persons nominated by the committee were elected. Rose Todd was elected general chairman and she introduced all of the group chairmen. The cards that had been passed out were then collected. Miss Todd then asked that anybody with suggestions to make should report them to the committee.

This organization meeting convened at 4:30 or 4:45 o'clock and lasted about an hour and a half or longer. The organization of the union was the voluntary action of the employees and did not result in any way from suggestion, pressure, coercion or intimidation of the management or anybody connected therewith, and its formation was in no way sponsored, assisted or dominated by anyone connected with the companies in an executive or supervisory capacity.

[fol. 3508] (Board's Exhibit 1-UUUU—First Part)

Date 7/22/39—Witness .....

Respondent's Objections to Board's Exhibit 1-TTTT and Board's Exhibit 30-A

United States of America

Before the National Labor Relations Board

Seventeenth Region.

In the Matter of Donnelly Garment Company and International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract.

Case No. XVII-C-371

Comes now the respondent and objects to Board's Exhibit 1-TTTT (Motion to amend complaint by adding new subparagraph (p) of paragraph 11 of the complaint), and objects to Board's Exhibit 30-A (Amendment of offer of proof contained in Board's Exhibit 30), and asks that said motion and said offer of proof be denied and rejected for the following reasons, to wit:

1. The Complaint (Board's Exhibit 1-RRR), in paragraph 4A, contained a similar charge, as to eighteen persons. This was stricken by the Trial Examiner. The Board then modified paragraph 11 and inserted a similar allegation in subparagraph (p) thereof, limited, however, to three of said eighteen persons, to wit: Ellen Fry, Glynn Brooks and Mamie Tubbesing.

Respondent submits that the same reasons which justified the dismissal of the charge as to the eighteen persons named in paragraph 4A also justify the denial of the proposed amendment as to three of such persons, and the rejection of the amendment of offer of proof in support thereof.

[fol. 3509] Respondent therefore objects to said amendment to the Complaint and to said amendment of offer of proof, for each and all the reasons contained in respondent's Exhibit 1-TTT (Motion to strike 4A, dated June 7, 1939), and also for all the reasons set forth in respondent's Exhibit 1-HHHH (objections and motion to strike Board's Exhibit 30).

2. The respondent further objects to said Exhibits 1-TTTT and 30-A, for the reason that the testimony offered in Board's Exhibit 30-A in support of the proposed amendment to the Complaint, shows on its face that said testimony would not tend to prove the unfair labor practice charged in paragraph 11, to wit, that respondent by said alleged acts interfered with its employees' freedom of choice in forming or joining a labor organization, in violation of Section 8(1) of the National Labor Relations Act; and because said evidence is immaterial, irrelevant, and remote to any issue herein.

3. For further objection, respondent states (and the evidence shows) that none of said three persons, Ellen Fry, Glynn Brooks and Mamie Tubbesing, was an employee of the respondent on or since July 5, 1935, the date of the enactment of the National Labor Relations Act, and hence there was no obligation on the part of respondent to re-employ them on July 23, 1935, even assuming the truth of the evidence set forth in Board's Exhibit 30-A (which evidence is denied by respondent); and said evidence, if true, would not constitute proof of any unfair labor practice by the respondent in violation of Section 8(1) of the National Labor Relations Act, as charged in said paragraph 11.

4. Respondent further objects to said proposed amendment to the complaint and said amendment of offer of proof for the reason that if said amendment to the Com- [fol. 3510] plaint (Exhibit 1-TTTT) is allowed or said offer of proof (Exhibit 30-A) is accepted, it will be necessary for respondent to offer oral testimony in rebuttal of the evidence contained in Exhibit 30-A. The Trial Examiner will recall that this matter came up while Mr. Baty was on the stand but that he was not permitted to testify concerning the matter which is contained in Board's Exhibit 30-A pending the Trial Examiner's reservation of ruling on Board's Exhibit 1-TTTT and Board's Exhibit 30-A.

United States of America

Before the National Labor Relations Board

Seventeenth Region.

In the Matter of Donnelly Garment Company and International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract.

Case No. XVII-C-371

Respondent objects to Board's Exhibit 28 for the reason that same and the information therein contained is immaterial and irrelevant and does not tend to prove any charge in the complaint.

Respondent further objects thereto for the reason that said Exhibit 28 covers only the period of three months' time and does not include the earnings of piece workers, bundle boys, etc., and no inference may be drawn from said Exhibit tending to prove any charge in the complaint.

Respondent's Objections to "NRA-JMC Exhibit 17".

United States of America

Before The National Labor Relations Board.

Seventeenth Region.

In the Matter of Donnelly Garment Company and International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, Party to the Contract.

Case No. XVII-C-371

Respondent makes the following objections to NRA-JMC Exhibit 17, being rebuttal testimony offered by the Board and the ILGWU from the N. R. A. and Judge Miller case transcripts.

I.

(Testimony of Tillie F. Shirley, Mrs. Reeves, Lillian Rutherford and Lou Perkins.)

Respondent objects to the offered testimony of Tillie F. Shirley, Lillian Rutherford, Mrs. Reeves and Lou Perkins contained in the above-mentioned exhibit, for the following reasons:

1. That same is immaterial and irrelevant to any issue in this proceeding and for the reason that same deals with matters purporting to have occurred prior to the enactment of the National Labor Relations Act.

2. For the reason that respondent was under no legal obligation, at the times referred to in said evidence, to reemploy any of the persons referred to.

[fol. 3515] 3. Respondent further objects thereto for all the reasons set forth in NRA-JMC Exhibit 2A, 2B and 2C (being respondent's objections to the NRA testimony originally offered herein by the Board).

4. Respondent further objects to said testimony as not being proper rebuttal after the close of the oral testimony, and for the further reason that it is irrelevant to any evidence put in by respondent or intervenor.

II.

(Testimony of Thelma Owen.)

Respondent objects to the testimony of Thelma Owen (1 page) offered from the Judge Miller case transcript, for the reasons:

1. Because same deals with matters as to which the respondent and intervenor were excluded from offering testimony.

2. Because same is not proper rebuttal for the foregoing reason, and also because offered after the close of the oral testimony.

3. Because same is irrelevant to any testimony received on behalf of respondent or intervenor.

III.

(Testimony of Sylvia Hull.)

Respondent objects to the offered testimony of Sylvia Hull, consisting of six pages of the above mentioned exhibit, for the following reasons:

1. Said testimony deals with wages and hours and other alleged grievances concerning working conditions at the Donnelly plant which matters are immaterial and irrelevant to any issue in this proceeding.

2. For the reason that said testimony is not proper rebuttal after the close of the oral testimony.

[fol. 3516] 3. Respondent objects to the last page of said testimony for the further reason that same refers to the "March 18" meeting, as to which subject the Examiner has ruled that no further testimony would be received.

IV.

(Testimony of Clif Langsdale.)

Respondent objects to the offered testimony in said exhibit of Clif Langsdale as not being proper rebuttal testimony, after the close of the oral testimony.

Respondent further objects thereto for the reason that said testimony refers to and deals with a stenographic transcript of a conference, which transcript is not offered in conjunction therewith, and therefore said testimony is incomplete and indefinite and should not be considered in the absence of the transcript referred to.

900 Join Loyalty League..

The employees of the Donnelly Garment Company have, in the past week, formed the "Nelly Don Loyalty League" to refute untrue statements and propaganda circulated by the unions.

February 5th, on the instigation of Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Strickland, about 46 employees, representing as nearly as possible the entire factory, met at the home of Mrs. Gray. They decided to sound out the personnel on the forming of the League.

Cards were passed out to 900 employees and all but eleven were signed and returned. Because of the overwhelming response, a constitution was drafted and a Mass meeting called for February 8th.

Mrs. Gray opened the meeting with an account of what had been done and will be done. She displayed a drawing of a tentative pin and explained the meaning of the word [fol. 4363] "loyalty" as it pertains to the league's purpose.

In separate meetings, representatives had been chosen from each department to assure the future and fairness of the directory board. These names were announced and taken down by the secretary pro-tem.

Herbert Mutchler was asked to act as temporary chairman. He read a pertinent editorial from the February 16th issue of "Liberty" Magazine. He announced that the directory board would act as an election board. The result of their selection will be ratified or refused by a mass meeting to be held soon. By-laws will be decided upon at this meeting.

There will be no dues in the League.

By-Laws of
The Donnelly Garment Workers Union

Article I.

Name:

The name of this organization shall be the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

Article II.

Purpose:

The purpose of this organization shall be the protection and furtherance of the rights and interests of the employes of the Donnelly Garment Company by means of dealing with proprietors and employers through a committee representing this Union as to wages, terms, hours, and conditions of employment in the Donnelly plant; the protection of employes and members of this Union from coercion, intimidation, violence or threats of violence in order to force them to join unions organized and dominated by outsiders not employes in this plant; to enable the employes of this plant to continue in their employment therein with what is believed to be the smallest reasonable expense of unionization; the greatest chance of continuous employment without strikes or lockouts, and under the best conditions as to wages, hours, and surroundings which can be reasonably obtained; to promote the welfare of the employes of the Donnelly Garment Company as a group and individually by all lawful and proper means.

Article III.

Nature of Organization:

This Union shall be open to all employes of the Donnelly Garment Company. It shall be an independent organization, not affiliated with any other labor union or organization of labor unions, and members of it shall not be members of any other labor union.

[fol. 4367] Article IV.

Dues:

The dues of members of this organization shall be Twenty-five cents (25¢) per month.

Article V.

Officers and Representatives:

The members of this Union shall annually elect a chairman and eight (8) group members, making up a committee of nine (9), all of whom shall be employes of the Donnelly Garment Company, and who shall have authority to call meetings of the members of the Union at which the general chairman, or some other member of said committee, shall preside, to represent the members of this Union in dealing with employers as to wages, hours, terms, and conditions of employment, and negotiating with employers concerning any disagreements between employers and employes, and investigating and presenting any complaint of any employe or employes as to any matters connected with his or her employment. The committee shall have no power to call or direct a strike of the members of the Union without first presenting such matter to the membership at a meeting open to members of the Union only and at which meeting there shall have been a majority vote in favor of such action.

Article VI.

Officers:

In addition to the general chairman of the committee of nine, there shall be designated by election of the Union, or if not so done by the Union then by appointment of the general chairman, a vice-chairman who shall preside in the absence of the chairman, a secretary and a treasurer who shall be members of the committee of nine and who shall exercise the duties generally exercised by such officers [fol. 4368] in similar organizations.

Article VII.

Elections:

The general chairman shall call a meeting for the purpose of the annual election of members of the committee of nine on the fourth Tuesday of April of each year, giving notice of such meeting at least three days in advance thereof, at which meeting each employe being a member in good standing of this Union shall be entitled to one vote. If the general chairman shall fail to call such election, then a majority of the committee may send a call for an election at a date selected by them.

Article VIII.

Authority of Committee:

The committee of nine shall have full authority to represent the Union in taking all necessary and proper steps to complete the organization of this Union, to represent it in any matters in which it may be properly concerned, to employ counsel for it to take steps to comply with any legal requirements or regulations to which it may be subject, to preserve and protect the rights of its members in the peaceful carrying on of their employment, to represent further and protect the interests of its members in dealings with their employers.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 78.

State of Missouri,
County of Jackson—ss.:

MARY HANBACK, of lawful age, being first duly sworn, on oath states:

I am a stenographer employed in the designing office of the Donnelly Garment Company and have been so employed for approximately six years. I am a qualified stenographic reporter.

On April 23, 1937, I made a stenographic record of a conversation which took place in the nurse's office in the Donnelly Garment Company's plant between Mrs. Fern Sigler (an operator), Mrs. Ella Mae Hyde (employment manager), Mr. Lee Baty, (Production Manager), and Miss Rose Todd (in the pattern department). The attached typewritten transcript, marked Exhibit 1 and made a part hereof, is a correct transcript of the aforesaid conversation so reported by me.

MARY HANBACK.

Subscribed in my presence and sworn to before me this 28th day of October, 1937.

M. L. WATERS,
Notary Public in and for Jackson County, Missouri.

My commission expires May 9, 1939.

[fol. 4370] Exhibit 1.

Fern Sigler April 23, 1937

R. Todd: I hardly know what to say. It is all right for you to work but I don't know that you can do with that many girls that feel that way. How long have you belonged to the union?

Fern Sigler: A couple of weeks.

R. Todd: I wish you would tell me why you feel the way you do.

F. Sigler: I think it is the best idea. Every employee has a right to join any organization they choose.

Mrs. Hyde: It's perfectly all right. We have no objections.

F. Sigler: An employer should be able to control their girls.

R. Todd: It is a little bit difficult when there are 44 people in a section and one feels entirely differently.

F. Sigler: I haven't bothered anybody. I don't know what business it is of theirs if I belong to anything else.

Mr. Baty: How did they find out you belonged to the union?

F. Sigler: I wore my pin.

Mrs. Hyde: Did you wear your Loyalty League pin?

F. Sigler: I haven't worn my Loyalty League pin for two weeks. I didn't wear either of them.

R. Todd: Of course, we have had union people work here for years. I have been here most of the last twelve years and there has always been union people here. We don't care. We have hired union people. They have come over from Lee's and worked week after week when their work was slack over there. However, time alters circumstances, personal opinion is incensed and it is a little difficult to keep that many people from expressing their opinion.

[fol. 4371] Mr. Baty: You think the matter over and I suggest that you go home for a few days until things quiet down.

F. Sigler: It will be the same thing when I come back.

Mr. Baty: It's just the publicity in the paper and the people are pretty well riled up. It is impossible to control them as long as you remain but in a few days it should quiet down.

R. Todd: I talked to some of the girls yesterday afternoon and tried to get them to see that it's all right if you want to work and belong to the union. However, they feel so keenly about it, we don't think we can do anything about it. It's a case of the majority ruling. If we have many people who feel the way you do about it, they would be after the other that felt differently. Apparently, they don't feel that way. It is very evident that they don't.

Mrs. Hyde: These girls won't stay at their machines as long as you are in the section.

F. Sigler: If they wanted to show their loyalty to Mrs. Reed, they would be back at their machines and not wasting time. I was trying to do my best to produce but you can't do anything with a mob standing over you.

R. Todd: It's not a personal thing, Fern. I could go down and sit down and sew and they wouldn't bother me but I don't feel the way you do about it. When that many people are incensed about a thing and feel so sincerely that they are right, they can't help but express themselves. One does and the others are going to follow. What do you think you have gained that we haven't by joining the union?

F. Sigler: Shorter working hours.

R. Todd: You have been able to work most any hours [fol. 4372] you wanted to. Nobody forced you to work on Saturday.

F. Sigler: Two weeks ago when I was off sick, and still sick when I came back, I got bawled out two different times for being off sick.

R. Todd: Bawled out by whom?

F. Sigler: By Ella Mae.

Mrs. Hyde: My name is Mrs. Hyde. Do you know how many days you have missed so far this year?

F. Sigler: Two days on account of death and the other four or five days I was sick.

Mrs. Hyde: At the time, you admitted that you could have been on the job more.

F. Sigler: I said I was sick. If you will give me an authorized statement to go home, I will take it and go.

R. Todd: Nobody is going to do any violence against you. If you want to go home, all right. You got yourself in it and you can stay in it or get out if you want to get out. As president of the Loyalty League, I am not going to try to sell you on the idea that we are right but the majority will certainly rule in a case like this. You expect the majority to rule if they believe like you; we expect it to rule when they believe like we do. We have had no violence and we don't intend to have any violence.

Mr. Baty: You will have to go temporarily. It's not a matter of choice. We don't intend to have a disturbance here. If you will go home, we will call you back when we think it is quieted down. It is the only thing we can do. People from every floor in the factory were down at your machine a while ago.

F. Sigler: I didn't invite them down. I was tending to my own business.

Mr. Baty: They weren't ganged up at any other spot [fol. 4373] so there is no doubt as to who was causing the dissention and we can't send home 700 people and keep one. You get ready and go home and we will call you back when this has blown over.

F. Sigler: This is a layoff then?

Mrs. Hyde: Nobody has fired you.

Mr. Baty: It is just temporary. When things have quieted down, we will call you back in here.

Mrs. Hyde: Do you have anything at your machine you want?

F. Sigler: I don't know whether I have or not. I may have a blouse down there.

Mrs. Hyde: It's safe if you want to leave it but if you want it, I'll get it for you.

Mr. Baty: We will see what happens and call you Monday or Tuesday.

R. Todd: That will give the girls time to calm down.

Mr. Baty: We will talk to them in the meantime and keep them quiet.

Mrs. Hyde: We had better be sure we know how things are down here before we have her come in. I will call her Monday morning.

Mr. Baty: The whole thing is an outbreak from the publicity in the paper last night.

F. Sigler: What was the publicity?

R. Todd: An article in last night's Post. Haven't you attended any meetings?

F. Sigler: No, I haven't attended.

R. Todd: Read the Post after you leave and keep informed on it.

F. Sigler: Are you paying me for the time I am off? I need my pay as well as any of the other girls. How do you think I'm going to live?

Mr. Baty: Why do you think we should pay you while you are off? You joined this organization and these [fol. 4374] girls are very much opposed to it. It is no fault of the company that they don't like you and won't work around you.

F. Sigler: An employer is supposed to be able to keep the employees at work.

Mr. Baty: We won't go into the Wagner Act. We're just running our business here and not a law office.

F. Sigler: These factories all come under that, you know.

R. Todd: Did you join because you really wanted to join?

F. Sigler: Yes, I certainly did. I have a mind of my own and I don't let anybody control it.

Mr. Baty: Do you think the union will give you better working conditions and better treatment personally.

F. Sigler: I wouldn't say. I don't know.

Mr. Baty: The thing that I am interested in is that if there are any particular conditions here that are not right, I want to correct them.

R. Todd: It has always been the practice here that if we had any complaints to make, we made them. If we don't make them, we certainly can't straighten them out.

F. Sigler: You can do things I don't have the authority to do.

R. Todd: I have no authority. There isn't anybody who has worked around this place in as many different places as I have. I used to have a desk upstairs. I was gone a couple of years and took what they had to give me when I came back. Nobody has done more different kinds of work than I have. Many times I didn't know where I was going to work. This old business of living is kind of a "give and take" proposition and you might as well be happy about it. I have operated a machine and worked in the dividing department and done a little [fol. 4375] pattern work. If you are going to work in any organization you have to fit in. You also have to do things the way the majority want them done. My advice to you is, if you feel that strongly about the union and have enough people to back you up, be in a union shop. I wouldn't any more think that I could join the union and get by with it than the man in the moon. I'd expect to be put out in the street and I'd ought to be. You can't expect any organization to revolve around one or two people. There are 1200 of us. I have no way of knowing how many of you there are but it is very evident that it is not a majority. I talked to some of the girls last night and asked them to be quiet about it and they went away thinking they would. When they all got together they couldn't stand it. What do you think you had better do?

F. Sigler: I don't know.

R. Todd: Didn't you expect this to happen when you told everybody you belonged to the union?

F. Sigler: I didn't see why it should.

R. Todd: Did you think you had enough people here to back you up? What did you expect? I never tried anything in life that the majority didn't rule. We went downstairs and sent those girls back to work and they went back to work.

F. Sigler: Didn't I have a right to join this union? As long as I don't bother anyone, what business is it of theirs if I belong?

R. Todd: If you had a majority of union people and I came to work in your organization, you wouldn't feel very friendly towards me, personally and as an individual. By the time you got ten or twenty people together, you wouldn't be very nice to me about it.

Mrs. Hyde: They wouldn't let you work if you didn't belong to the union.

[fol. 4376] R. Todd: It would be a closed shop and you would hire nobody except union people. We are going to run an open shop as long as the majority feels that way. The majority is going to rule, as always.

Mr. Baty: I am going to ask you to go home temporarily and Mrs. Hyde will call you back when I think it is safe for you to come back.

Articles of Agreement.

This Agreement is made and entered into between the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, a plant labor union made up of 1305 out of a total of 1333 employees of the employer below mentioned, party of the first part, and the Donnelly Garment Company, a Missouri corporation being engaged in manufacturing, and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company, a Missouri corporation being engaged in selling, each of said corporations having its home office and principal place of operation at 1828 Walnut Street, Kansas City, Missouri, parties of the second part. Party of the first part and parties of the second part hereby contract and agree as follows:

(1) This agreement shall apply to each corporate employer and its employees, it being recognized that the business of said companies and the relation of the employees of the said corporation are, in certain respects, dependent upon each other, and that it is desirous to have the same general conditions of employment in each of said companies. The word "employees" as used herein shall apply to the employees of bot' companies except executives or any person or persons having authority to employ or discharge, and the word "employers" as used herein shall refer to both corporate employers.

(2) Rates of pay: The rates of pay of employees under this contract shall be such as are agreed upon by the parties hereto. However, such rates shall have a minimum of Fifteen Dollars ($15.00) per week as hereinafter stated, this minimum being especially applicable to less-experienced and under-average piece work operators, messengers, bundle boys, and other unskilled workers. Wages for experienced operators, cutters, mechanics, pressers, etc., shall be based on their experience and skill.

(3) Hours: The working hours of the employees shall be eight (8) hours per day exclusive of meal period and forty (40) hours per week. Any time in excess thereof shall be deemed as overtime.

(4) The employer recognizes the election of a committee of the union to represent it, provided members of such [fol. 4378] committee shall have been continuously employed by the employer for the period of at least a year immediately preceding election to such committee, and the employer agrees to further negotiate and deal with such committee in regard to the working conditions, wages and hours of labor of employees, and all other matters properly within the jurisdiction of such committee.

(5) Promotion and Seniority rights: Instructors and floor girls in addition to those employed at the date of this contract, or substituted for any of those now employed, shall be chosen by the employer from the rank of operators or other employees of the company except in cases of emergency or where definitely exceptional circumstances exist.

(6) The employer recognizes the union as the sole bargaining agency on behalf of the employees.

(7) Complaints and grievances: Any employee considering himself or herself unjustly disciplined or unjustly treated shall have the right to present such matter to the duly authorized committee of this union, and such committee by a majority vote may elect to take the matter in question up with the employer for the purpose of securing redress for any proper grievance or injustice which the committee may believe to exist. Nothing in this agreement, however, shall prevent any employee from taking up any matter of dissatisfaction directly with the management in addition to presenting such complaint to the committee representing the union.

(8) Meal period: The meal period for employees shall not be less than thirty (30) minutes per day nor more than one (1) hour per day, but within such limits as may be fixed by the committee.

(9) Closed shop: The employer agrees that on and after June 5, 1937, no one of its employees shall be retained in its employ who is not a member of this union. It is further agreed that hereafter no person shall be employed by the employer who does not, at or prior to such employment, sign an application for membership in this union, and no such person shall be retained as an employee who shall not, within two weeks after such employ[fol. 4379] ment begins, be accepted by this union as a member.

It is further agreed that no one shall be continued as an employee after such person shall have resigned from or ceased to belong to this union either by voluntary retirement or expulsion.

(10) Lay-offs: It is recognized by the parties hereto that it is desirable that employment should be as regular and continuous as is consistent with proper merchandising and working conditions. If the employer shall believe that a shorter day for employees will avoid a lay-off of any substantial number of employees, such shorter day with proportionate rates of pay for employees on hourly or weekly basis may be established.

(11) The employer agrees that the individual who may be chosen as general chairman of the union shall be entitled to spend the necessary time in the affairs of the union and to continue his or her employment with the company at the proportionate rate of pay hitherto received from the company for the time thereafter given to the company.

(12) Arbitration: The union and the employer agree that in the event they are unable to agree with reference to any matter of dispute, the question in dispute shall be submitted to a Board of Arbitration, one member to be chosen by the union, one by the employer and the third by the two above-referred-to, and if the two cannot agree as to the third arbitrator, then the third member shall be chosen by a Judge of the United States District Court of this district. The parties hereto agree to accept and abide by any decision made by a majority of said Board of Arbitrators.

(13) Strikes, Stoppage and Lockouts: This agreement provides for an orderly adjustment of differences. Therefore it is agreed by the parties hereto that during the term of this agreement, there shall be neither a strike, stoppage in work by the employees, nor a lockout by the company.

(14) It is understood that the employer shall have the right to reduce the number of employees in accordance with its judgment as to business requirements, and to discharge any employee whose services are unsatisfactory [fol. 4380] to the employer for any reason which, to the employer, shall seem sufficient, but such discharge shall not be because of the affiliation of said employee with this union or his or her activities therein.

(16) The members of this union shall have the privilege of taking out sick and accident insurance with the Prudential Life Insurance Company as at present contracted for, and the employer agrees to pay not less than one-half of the premiums on such insurance so long as said contract is in effect. The members of the union shall have the right, at their option, to become parties to a group life insurance plan with the Prudential Life Insurance Company as at present contracted for, and the employer agrees to pay one-half of the premiums on such insurance so long as said contract is in effect. The employer agrees, as at present, to maintain in its plant at 1828 Walnut Street, Kansas City, Missouri, or at any successor plant in Kansas City, Missouri, a hospital room with not less than two trained nurses in attendance, said service to be for the benefit of all members of the union free of charge.

(17) Duration of contract: This contract shall continue in full force and effect for a period of twenty-four months from the date hereof.

Date 6/13/39—Witness Todd.

Supplemental Agreement Provided In The Agreement Of May 27, 1937.

Whereas, an agreement was, on the 27th day of May, 1937, entered into between the Donnelly Garment Company, Donnelly Garment Sales Company, and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, which said agreement provided that rates of pay should be agreed upon by the parties thereto;

Now, Therefore, it is stipulated and agreed as follows:

[fol. 4383] The following holidays shall be recognized:

Decoration Day
Independence Day
Labor Day
Thanksgiving Day
Christmas Day

All workers shall be paid for these holidays, piece-workers on the same basis as paid vacations.

The Employer shall have the privilege to make up for the time lost on account of holidays.

[fol. 4384] Methods now used by the Employer in determining piece-work rates shall be continued.

For the purpose of this agreement, employes shall be designated by groups according to the types of work performed.

Group "I" Operators shall include:

Operators who work a portion of the time on garments selling above $45.00 per dozen and work the remainder of their time on garments selling at $45.00 per dozen and below, and who efficiently perform two or more different types of operations or operate efficiently two or more different types of machines conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer. This group includes operators on any two types of machines, including special machines such as:

Pinking	Taper
Binding	Double Stitcher
Blind Stitching	Tuckers
Hemstitching	Button and buttonhole
Embroidery	Snap
Shirring	Hook and eye
	Zigzag

The piece-work rates shall be the same for all operators in this Group and are so fixed that at least;—

40% of the operators shall receive an average minimum of not less than 64¢ per hour, viz. $25.60 per week of 40 hours.

And that at least 30% shall receive an average minimum of not less than 56¼¢ per hour, viz. $22.50 per week of 40 hours.

And that the remainder shall receive an average minimum of not less than 50¢ per hour, viz. $20.00 per week of 40 hours.

It is estimated that approximately 40% of the operators of this Group could perform all the sewing on gar- [fol. 4385] ments selling above $45.00 per dozen if all of this type work was assigned to specific operators. However, to permit the distribution of this work to a larger number of operators and to provide more continuous employment throughout the year, the above method for minimum wages has been agreed upon.

Group "II" Operators shall include:

Operators who work on cottons, linens, etc., selling at $45.00 per dozen and below, and who efficiently perform two or more different types of operations or operate efficiently two or more different types of machines conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer.

The piece-work rates shall be the same for all operators referred to in this paragraph and are so fixed that at least;—

40% of the operators shall receive an average minimum of not less than 50¢ per hour, viz. $20.00 per week of 40 hours.

And that at least 30% shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

And that the remainder shall receive an average minimum of not less than 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

Group "III" Operators shall include:

Operators who work exclusively on lower priced cottons and who are not included in Groups "I", "II", or "IV".

The piece-work rates shall be the same for all operators referred to in this paragraph and are so fixed that at least;—

40% of the operators shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ p r hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

The remainder shall receive an absolute minimum of [fol. 4386] not less than 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

Group "IV" Operators shall include:

Beginner operators, working on low priced cottons.

The operators included in this group shall receive an absolute minimum of 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

The classification of "beginners" shall not extend as to any one worker longer than a period of twelve consecutive weeks.

There shall be no discrimination in piece-work rates paid to beginners.

Pressers:

Machine pressers shall be paid at the rate of 75¢ per hour, viz. $30.00 per week of 40 hours.

Group "I" Hand Ironers shall include:

Hand Ironers who work a portion of the time on garments selling above $45.00 per dozen and work the remainder of their time on garments selling at $45.00 per dozen and below, and who efficiently perform their duties conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer.

The piece-work rates shall be the same for all hand ironers in this group and are so fixed that at least;—

40% of the hand ironers shall receive an average minimum of not less than 64¢ per hour, viz. $25.60 per week of 40 hours.

And that at least 30% shall receive an average minimum of not less than 56¼¢ per hour, viz. $22.50 per week of 40 hours.

And that the remainder shall receive an average minimum of not less than 50¢ per hour, viz. $20.00 per week of 40 hours.

[fol. 4387] Group "II" Hand Ironers shall include:

Hand Ironers who work on cottons, linens, etc., selling at $45.00 per dozen and below and who efficiently perform their duties conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer on all classes of the aforesaid goods.

The piece-work rates shall be the same for all hand ironers referred to in this paragraph and are so fixed that at least:—

40% of the hand ironers shall receive an average minimum of not less than 50% per hour, viz. $20.00 per week of 40 hours.

And that at least 30% shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week for 40 hours.

And that the remainder shall receive an absolute minimum of not less than 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

Group "III" Hand Ironers shall include:

Hand Ironers who work exclusively on lower priced cottons and who are not included in Groups "I", "II", or "IV".

The piece-work rates shall be the same for all hand ironers referred to in this paragraph and are so fixed that at least;—

40% of the hand ironers shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

The remainder shall receive an absolute minimum of 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

Group "IV" Hand Ironers shall include:

Beginner hand ironers, working on low priced cottons. The hand ironers included in this group shall receive an absolute minimum of 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

The classification of "beginners" shall not extend as to [fol. 4388] any one working longer than a period of twelve consecutive weeks.

There shall be no discrimination in piece-work rates paid to beginners.

Group "I" Folders shall include:

Folders who work a portion of the time on garments selling above $45.00 per dozen and work the remainder of their time on garments selling at $45.00 per dozen and below, and who efficiently perform their duties conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer.

The piece-work rates shall be the same for all folders in this group and are so fixed that at least;—

40% of the folders shall receive an average minimum of not less than 50¢ per hour, viz. $20.00 per week of 40 hours.

And that the remainder shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

Group "II" Folders shall include:

Folders who work on cottons, linens, etc., selling at $45.00 per dozen and below, and who efficiently perform their duties conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer.

The piece-work rates shall be the same for all folders in this group and are so fixed that at least;—

40% of the folders shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

And that the remainder shall receive an absolute minimum of 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

Group "III" Folders shall include:

Beginner folders, working on low priced cottons.

The folders included in this group shall receive an absolute minimum of 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

[fol. 4389] The classification of "beginners" shall not extend as to any one worker longer than a period of twelve consecutive weeks.

There shall be no discrimination in piece-work rates paid to beginners.

Miscellaneous Piece-workers

It is agreed that at least 50% of all piece-workers not included in the foregoing groups, such as belt turners, workers in notion department, button hand sewers, etc., shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours. The other 50% shall receive an absolute minimum of 41¼¢ per hour, viz. $16.50 per week of 40 hours.

Group "I" examiners shall receive an average minimum of not less than 52½¢ per hour, viz. $21.00 per week of 40 hours.

Group "II" Examiners shall include:

Examiners who work on cottons, linens, etc., selling at $45.00 per dozen and below and who efficiently perform their duties conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer.

Group "II" examiners shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

Group "II" Examiners shall include:

Examiners who work on cottons, linens, etc., selling at [fol. 4390] $45.00 per dozen and below and who efficiently perform their duties conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer.

Group "II" examiners shall receive an average minimum of not less than 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

It is recognized that in order to maintain as nearly as possible constant employment throughout the year it is frequently necessary to transfer manufacturing employes from one section to another, in which case they shall retain the standing of their regular section. But in case of such transfer if the compensation be higher than the section from which the employe was transferred, they shall be entitled to such higher rate while so transferred.

"A" Class Machine Cutters

"A" Class Machine Cutters shall receive a minimum of $42.50 per week of 40 hours.

Stretchers

Stretchers shall receive a minimum of $33.00 per week of 40 hours.

Helper Stretchers

Helper Stretchers shall receive a minimum of $25.00 per week of 40 hours.

Apprentice Stretchers

Apprentice Stretchers shall receive a minimum of $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

Group "I" Dividers shall include:

Dividers who perform efficiently all types of dividing work conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer.

Group "I" dividers shall receive an average minimum [fol. 4391] of not less than 56¼¢ per hour, viz. $22.50 per week of 40 hours.

Group "II" Dividers shall include:

Dividers who work almost entirely on cottons selling at $45.00 per dozen and below and who efficiently perform their duties conforming to the quality standards set by the Employer.

Group "II" dividers shall receive an average minimum of not less than 50¢ per hour, viz. $20.00 per week of 40 hours.

Group "III" Dividers shall include:

Beginners in the dividing department and shall receive a minimum of 45¢ per hour, viz. $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

Group "I" Mechanics shall include:

Mechanics who efficiently service all types of sewing machines and other mechanical equipment.

Group "I" mechanics shall receive a minimum of $42.50 per week of 40 hours.

Group "II" Mechanics shall include:

Mechanics who efficiently service all single needle sewing machines and a limited number of special sewing machines.

Group "II" mechanics shall receive a minimum of $40.00 per week of 40 hours.

Mechanic Helpers

Shall receive a minimum of $25.00 per week of 40 hours.

Mechanic Apprentices

Shall receive a minimum of $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

[fol. 4392] Miscellaneous Indirect Labor—Week Workers.

Work Distributors $20.00 to $25.00 per week of 40 hours.

Janitors and Maids—experienced—Minimum of $18.00 per week of 40 hrs.

Bundle Boys $16.50 to $18.00 per week of 40 hours.

There shall be a minimum of $16.50 per week of 40 hours for beginners in all lines of work in plant or office.

[fol. 4393] It is recognized that in order to maintain as nearly as possible constant employment throughout the year it is frequently necessary to transfer manufacturing employes from one section to another, in which case they shall retain the standing of their regular section. But in case of such transfer if the compensation be higher than the section from which the employe was transferred, they shall be entitled to such higher rate while so transferred.

The position and classification of each individual is to be determined by the Employer.

Workers employed on a strictly temporary basis shall not be compelled to join the union, unless the union so requests.

All workers, whether paid by the piece or by the week, including office workers, shall be on the same basis in regard to hours, vacations on pay, service in hospital rooms, privileges of sick and accident insurance, group life insurance, hospitalization, and any other services which may be offered by the Empioyer and for which the Employer pays all or any part of the cost.

There shall be no factory entrance, the lobby and elevators shall be open to all employes whether in plant, office or designing room.

Salesmen, office employes, shipping clerks, instructors, designers, and any other employe not heretofore included shall receive the compensation now being paid unless changes are made by mutual consent. But no person shall receive less than a minimum of $16.50 per week of 40 hours..

[fol. 4394] This contract may be amended from time to time by the mutual consent of the parties hereto, and shall in its present form and as amended be in force from this date until twelve o'clock noon on the first day of July 1938, and shall be deemed to be extended from year to year, unless one of the parties to the contract shall, at least sixty days before the first day of July in any year, give notice in writing to the other party that the contract shall terminate on July 1, of that year.

In Witness Whereof, the parties hereto have caused this contract to be signed by their respective representatives and officers this 22 day of June, 1937.

[fol. 4395] (Board's Exhibit 8.)

Date 6/13/39—Witness Todd.

Notes on Meeting Held April 27, 1937.

Meeting opened by Rose Todd. "I believe everyone is present and it certainly is a very gratifying sight to see this many of us together again. I sincerely hope this meeting is going to be as enthusiastic as our last one was.

"As chairman of the committee of employees, I have called this meeting this afternoon to discuss a matter of vital importance to us as employees.

"Several weeks ago it seemed to me that it was necessary to obtain some legal advice for us. After considering where we could obtain that advice we decided to ask Mr. A. Gossett and Mr. F. E. Tyler to act as attorneys for the employees.

"I have known Mr. Gossett and Mr. Tyler personally for years. More and more these past few weeks it has seemed to me that we are approaching a time when it will be necessary to form an organization that will give us the protection that we need.

"Your first question no doubt it, 'won't the Loyalty League do that?' My answer is, 'it will not'—because the Loyalty League is purely a social organization that we want to keep alive and going, and this will be a business organization to take care of our problems and give us representation to definitely confer with the proper representatives of our company at times when we feel that it is necessary.

"I am not presenting this to you without giving the plan very careful thought and after asking the advice of Mr. Gossett and Mr. Tyler.

"No doubt you are hearing rumors, and recent activities show you that we have reached the time when our plans must be definite.

[fol. 4396] "Our loyalty and sincerity to ourselves and to each other can well be displayed at this time.

"The law gives us the privilege to organize a labor union and we need this protection immediately.

"We have been trying to think of a name to call this organization, because as many of the details as we can should be worked out today. I have this suggestion to make (and we have also talked this over with Mr. Tyler), and we have agreed that it is a good one. Our new organization will be called DONNELLY GARMENT WORKERS' UNION.

"I am launching right into discussing this with you because we have a busy afternoon and a lot to take care of. My first personal distress was the use of the word 'union'. You probably do not like it any better than I did but you must see by this time that to meet the demand that can be made by outside unions that our organization will have to be a union. We are legally entitled to form a union of our own for representation, and if we do we cannot be forced to join any outside union. (Applause) I think what I intended to say was not necessary. I am going to ask you to think this over carefully and sanely as we have been doing for the past few weeks. The evidence is here.

"Now, Mr. Tyler is here with us this afternoon, and I am going to ask him to make a little explanation to you and to talk to you for a few minutes. Mr. Tyler."

Mr. Tyler: "Ladies and Gentlemen. I am appearing before you in a rather unusual position this afternoon. Some weeks ago several employees came to my office and employed Mr. Gossett and myself as legal advisers of the employees, so that I am, in fact, at this moment, acting as an attorney for you, or for many of you, even though you have never seen me before.

"To some of you that will be somewhat unwilling, but I wish to give you the reasons that are behind our suggesting this action to you. We noticed in the paper two or three days ago that some representative, or some committee of the Donnelly Garment Workers was shortly to go East to represent those workers at some national convention, or some labor meeting. So far as we have been able to learn there is no authorization by you of any such individual, or any such committee. As long as you remain unorganized, I think that will continue to happen. Some group here or there will be making tentative arrangements with this or that organization without your authority. Here four or five labor organizations will claim the right to speak for you without your proper authority.

"In order to stop this, and to make it clear that you are speaking for yourselves through your own representatives whom you choose, we think your own union is desirable.

"In the second place, you know as well as I do that in these days it is not at all unlikely that more or less violent efforts can be made to force the employees of a certain factory to join this union or that union. In many cases, [fol. 4398] force, violence, intimidation, threats and similar measures are used to unionize you against your will. It isn't at all unusual for a group of some union to crowd your doorsteps so that you can't get into your work without serious danger. We have already taken precautions against this sort of action, but an injunction is not a very satisfactory remedy. It is rather difficult to try to govern thousands of people by an injunction, and we suggest that if you have your own plant union and bargain for yourselves with your employers you will then be in a position to say to those outside groups, 'There is nothing here to organize, we are already organized'. I think we would be able to give you much better protection in case of any violent attempts of threats or intimidations.

"You probably noticed that the Supreme Court has declared the Wagner Act constitutional. I am not prepared to say that the Wagner Act applied to this organization, because you are engaged in manufacture, and not Inter-State Commerce. However, the lines drawn on Inter-State Commerce are drawn very close, and perhaps the Wagner Act does apply to you. If it does, it certainly does everything it can to encourage unionization. It says employees shall have the right to organize their own union. It encourages you to take such action as I am now recommending. If the Wagner Act, certainly since it has been declared constitutional, is to extend its protection to you, it will by reason of your becoming unionized and fully recognizes your right to form your own union. I do not think this action can or will be considered as any act of unfriendliness to your employer. I believe they recognize your right to take this step, and that it isn't an unfriendly act to them. In fact, it is much better for them, and for yourselves, for you to have your own union with your own representatives, rather than have a group here trying to [fol. 4399] represent outsiders from New York, and another group here representing some other outside union, etc.

"Your chance for continuing satisfactory and beneficial employment, your chances for satisfactory wages, for satisfactory hours, for continuous employment, for friendly cooperation among yourselves, will be vastly increased by your joining together in your own union. Certain difficulties may arise (I can't point out just what might possibly happen) but as long as your officers will continue to request Mr. Gossett and myself to advise you and counsel you, we shall be glad to meet these difficulties and do our best to protect you in all your legal rights.

"This organization has a reputation not only in Kansas City, but throughout the Middle West of having an unusual warm and friendly spirt of loyalty, not only with your employers, but among yourselves. That spirit should add very greatly to the satisfaction you get out of your work from day to day, as well as the actual money wages you get. I hope very much that that spirit will continue and that reputation will spread throughout the entire nation. Looking toward that end I again earnestly recommend to your consideration and to your favorable action the formation this afternoon of an independent, unaffiliated labor organization of your own, controlled by a committee that you shall choose, acting for your interests, and representing you both in your dealings with your employer, and to deal with outside parties who may seek to control you. If we reach that stage, if your verdict is in favor of the formation of that union, I should then like to present a brief form of by-laws, and recommend them to you. They would, of course, be subject to your change when and if you see fit."

Rose Todd: "I think Mr. Tyler has made it very clear [fol. 4400] to us how an organization of this kind could act for us, and there isn't any doubt in my mind that there isn't something we can do. I have not felt at liberty to say yes or no because I wanted to talk to Mr. Tyler about it. There is this one thing that we can do, and I would say that we should not put it off one more day. While we are together as an entire group of employees let's form this organization. I want to ask then for a motion to be made that we form a union at this meeting.

(Motion made by Ethel Reigel that "we form an independent, unaffiliated plant union at this meeting". Seconded by Arch Lile.)

All in favor make it known by saying 'I'. (Unanimous).

"That was very gratifying to me, and I am sure it will be to each one of you. The next thing we should take up, and I should like to ask for a motion to be made that we select or appoint a nominating committee to retire from the room and take enough time, any amount that is necessary, to bring back to us a group of chairmen to act as officers for our union.

(Motion made by Lena Faulconer that a nominating committee be appointed to select a General Chairman and eight Group Chairmen to represent our independent union and to act as officers of our union. Seconded by Eva Lieberman.)

All in favor make it known by saying 'I'. (Unanimous).

"I am going to appoint on that committee five people, headed by a General Chairman. I will ask Mrs. Riggs, of the 9th floor, to act as chairman of the Nominating Committee. As I call your name will you please stand:

Lyle Jeter.
Carl Crawford
Cordelia Taylor (Pressing Department)
Leona Moore (representing the operators)

I am going to ask you all to leave the room after I have given you a few instructions, think this over carefully, and bring back the names of a group of people, one that can act for us as a General Chairman and eight other people that will be a very good representation of our organiza- [fol. 4401] tion as a whole. I have written down here the departments that I think you should remember to represent. My suggestion, first, as I said, is that you have a General Chairman, then have one group chairman say from the Cutting Department, and I think with the number of operators that we have on the machines that we should have two from that group. We should have one representing our hand-work, and by that I do not mean just hand-sewing. We have various places throughout the organization that when you get together I am sure will come under this classification, 'hand-work', notions, buttons, dividing, receiving department, shipping department; we need one from the office; one from the pressing department; one from the mechanics, etc., and I think we could cover the balance of our employees if you will select one person that is fairly well known to represent the employees in general. We have people in our Receiving Department, various people on the third floor that are in different departments, our maids and our porters. Make this a committee that will be a good representation of our organization.

"I am going to ask this committee of five people with Mrs. Riggs acting as chairman to leave the room—I think the best place for you would be the Recreation Room on the third floor.

"While the Nominating Committee is out of the room, I want to ask all the boys from the Cutting Department, and it may be necessary that I ask for more, to please come to the platform. There is a good big gathering of boys over in the right-hand corner—will you please come forward too?

"I have a card here that I am going to read to you, and after a while I am going to ask Mr. Tyler to read to you the By-Laws that he has drawn up for us to use for our union organization, and it may be that those things will be changed a little, but we could not very well have this meeting today without having our By-Laws read to us. I am [fol. 4402] going to ask the boys to pass these cards out and they will take them up later during the meeting.

(Reading: "I hereby agree to become a charter member of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and to abide by its By-Laws and regulations.")

This is not just for fun, it is all business now. Any of the cards that you do not pass out, please b ng back to the platform. Do not take any of these up yet. I am going to ask you to be patient as the meeting goes along because we have several things yet to take care of. Remember, you do not have to sign these cards unless you want to. If you want to wait until after the By-Laws are read, that is all right, sign your card whenever you want to. Does everyone have a card? Some in the back of the room do not have. Will someone take some cards to the back of the room? Anyone that does not have a card now, please stand up until the boys can get one to you. We have plenty of cards if they are needed. I do not want the cards taken up yet, hold them until I ask for you to take them up. Also, I want to make it clear, if any of you are wondering about the people that are not here—they will have an opportunity to join tomorrow or the first day they are back (a few are out on account of no work, and a few are out on account of illness).

"Hugo Kranz is asking particularly about the employees in the cafeteria. Of course, they are really not employees of the Donnelly Garment Company but if it were not for the Donnelly Garment Company they would not be here, so for the time being we are going to include those people in the cafeteria as employees and members of our Union. If we find that in the future this isn't correct, we will take care of it at that time.

[fol. 4403] "I am going to ask Mr. Tyler now to read the By-Laws that we have asked him to draw up to present to you, because I do not think the committee has had enough time. In the meantime, I will ask him to read the By-Laws to you."

Mr. Tyler: "I wish you would keep in mind as I read these By-Laws that the last thing I want to do is cram anything down your throats if you don't want it. These are your By-Laws, and your union—not mine. If you want to you can decide that a woman has to wear a striped dress or a polka dot scarf to belong to your union, and because we decided to take prompt action does not mean that we are trying to force you to agree to anything. I do suggest, though, that if we tried to discuss the individual viewpoints of each of you we would be here next Monday morning. If these will do at all temporarily, I hope you will adopt them and later talk them over, and I assure you that a majority of you may amend them, whenever you make up your minds to do so. I suggest you adopt them and then leisurely amend them when the majority of you wish them changed. They are drawn as follows:

Reading of By-Laws.

(Insert right before 'Article III . . . "I might fill in a statement to the effect that under the Wagner Act the fact that you have a committee representing you does not take away your right to go directly to your employer about a complaint. You still have that right even though you have a committee that represents you as a body."

"Some suggestion was made about the employees in the cafeteria. The Labor Relations Board has a right to say that the people in the cafeteria and office will have to have a separate union because they are doing a different kind of work. I do not believe it will happen, but if it does we will meet them when the time comes."

"This union will not finance what some unions finance. You are not financing for the support of some strike in this, or some other city.

[fol. 4404] "In that case you don't need any large dues (25¢ per month in the By-Laws; which can possibly be reduced to 15¢).

"I suggest that if the By-Laws are satisfactory someone move they are adopted.

(Motion made by Ellen Nokes that we accept the By-Laws as they were read. Seconded by Virginia White. Unanimous acceptance.)

"The Nominating Committee has returned to the room, and we will hear from them now. Mrs. Riggs will you come close so we can hear you. Come a little closer, will you please? I think it would be just as well if you would come up here and talk before the microphone."

Mrs. Riggs: "Madame President, and Fellow-Workers. The Committee has arrived at a decision. We submit the following:

as group chairman from the cutting department, Fred Brown; two group chairmen from the operators, Sally Ormsby and Mamie Riddle. As Group Chairman from the Pressing Department, Anna Richards. One Group Chairman from the office, Marjorie Green. One Group Chairman from the Mechanics, Jack McConaughey. One Group Chairman from the workers in general, Hobart Atherton." Charlotte Casey from the tine workers.

Miss Rose Todd: "You have heard the names of the General Chairman and the eight group chairmen, which I will not repeat, but I will ask that a motion be made that these chairmen be accepted as a group.

(Motion made by Hazel Sauke that we accept these chairmen as a group; seconded by Anna Reese. Unanimous decision).

I am going to ask at this meeting that each of these new chairmen come to the platform.

"Our meetings as an entire group of employees are not so frequent, and I thought it would be a very opportune [fol. 4405] time for me to present the new chairmen that will act as our representation at any time that is necessary.

(Presentation of Committee Chairmen)

"I want to ask everyone to remain seated now until we have taken up these cards, and have no one to leave the meeting until we are dismissed. Will the boys please take up the cards now? Has everyone had a card? If not, please stand.

"I have just a few words more that I want to say. If at any time you feel that there are little things going on that should be reported to the committee, please feel free to do so. Is there anything else that should come before this meeting? If not, the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4406] Notes On Employees Meeting May 11, 1937.

Rose Todd (General Chairman, Donnelly Garment Workers' Union): "I want to call the meeting to order and ask you to be as quiet as possible. A few people are smoking—will you please put that off until a little later—it isn't any too well ventilated in here anyway.

"I have called this meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union because so many people have expressed themselves to me today, and it seemed to me it was just as smart to do it today as to wait until tomorrow. I am sorry that a few of the employees had to go home earlier today before we made this decision.

"I want to read this, because I want to be sure to get everything into it that I thought of today:

"Many of the employees have stopped at my desk today to express their feelings in answer to the recent newspaper attack that the Dubinsky Union has made against the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

"It seems needless to ask you if the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union is going to answer this threat. But for the satisfaction of each member, I am going to ask this question: 'Are we going to defend our rights as a Plant Union and win this fight?'

"It is always encouraging to each of us to hear the enthusiasm and the expression of determination of our fellow workers. If Mr. Dubinsky has any hirelings here they can carry a report to him.

"In the capacity of Attorney, Senator Reed for many years represented the Donnelly Garment Company, many times preventing infringement on Nelly Don patents, winning a decision against 29 companies that I can remember. In any contact I have never found that Mr. Reed has any or has ever had any connection with the Donnelly Garment Company, other than his interest in Mrs. Reed's business and its preservation for us as employees. We intend to protect our jobs. The Donnelly Garment Workers' Union gives us the bargaining agency that we need with the company officials and the protection we need. Our working agreement with the company officials will be worked out satisfactorily and the interest of [fol. 4407] each employee maintained. Satisfactory working conditions will be continued and we do not need outside help to accomplish any of these things. Many things have been accomplished by the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company and we finish every job we tackle.

"This one will receive our whole-hearted support and attention and victory will be ours.

"Mr. Dubinsky says they are going to spend $100,000 to organize this plant. $100,000 could be spent to much better advantage helping their own members. But they evidently intend to attack us and use any available method to get us to join their union. Several reports have been made of calls on our employees. Many of you have the correct answer ready. The rest of you might prepare yourselves. Because we are not going to join Dubinsky's Union.

(General Applause).

"I think that is a splendid answer. All we can hope for.

"I can't help but feel that that $100,000 might be spent to very good advantage on their own employees.

"They evidently intend to attack us in every way possible. A number of our girls have been reporting to me from time to time that there have been people who call on them at night. The answers they have given them have been quite apt. I think if I were the rest of you I would get my answer ready.

"I think we all understand now that we are not going to join their Union. (Applause). Any reasonable efforts that we want to take to protect ourselves, we are going to do it. Let's be as peaceful as possible.

"We do have now a little business that has been taken care of since our first meeting and I want to present that to you. If you have any questions to ask that is perfectly all right. There are several things that the Group Chairmen have considered at their meeting, and we have also had a meeting with the officials of the company.

[fol. 4408] (Aside: "If I do this long enough, I may be able to do it without notes.")

"You all know that our dues are to be twenty-five cents a month. I want to tell you now those dues are to be collected on the first Tuesday of each month, so save your quarters.

"We are having a Union card printed—quite a nice looking card, and the twelve months of the year will appear on the card. We are also having some stickers made that will act as receipts for our dues that are paid each month. Last time they were not printed and it was quite a job getting them all ready. Each person in the department collecting the dues as you pay them will paste a sticker on your Union card. You will notice on this card, there is a place to sign your name. Please do not neglect to do that. They should be ready by Friday of this week, but it will be almost impossible to get them to all of you before next Monday or Tuesday.

"There are probably a number of you that have not had occasion recently to be on the ninth floor, but on the right hand side of the door you will find a desk where our work will be conducted.

"In keeping our Union as a very business-like organization, the question of salaries came up. The Group Chairmen asked the officials of the company to consider that the Union pay part of my salary, and the company retain me in their employment the balance of the time. I do not think that will be a great burden to you.

"Then there are other expenses. I do not want anyone to go away feeling that twenty-five cents is too much for you to pay. If things go smoothly, we can always lower our dues. At the present time, it does take quite a little to get an organization of this kind started. Our Union cards are costing something and all those little things have to be taken into consideration.

[fol. 4409] "You realize now that Mr. Tyler is representing the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, and he will have to be paid. I expect a good many of you are wondering what he is going to charge. I talked to him in some detail, and I am sure you will feel that he is quite right in the answer he gave me. He doesn't know what his answer will be, because it depends on how much trouble we cause him, and how much work he will have to do for us.

"The Union does have to be self-supporting in every detail. Being a thoroughly reliable group of employees we can take care of our own financial obligations.

"First I want to tell you that each person collecting dues in each department is allowed his dues for doing that work. You will understand that in some departments that isn't anything at all and in others it is too much. There may come a time when we can arrange the collecting of our dues in some other way. At the present time no one has been able to suggest a better plan.

"Our Treasurer at the present time is Fred Brown—he may not be next year but whoever it is will have to spend one night a month taking care of the book work. It seems to me only fair that we pay him for that work. Anybody in our Union would be glad to give their time, but if you have somebody doing that work you expect them to be dependable and reliable and we should pay them something.

"At the present time it seems to me $5.00 would be all right for a month's work on that. It doesn't seem very much and if we find that it will take more than one night, we will pay the Treasurer more than that.

"I have told you, or it was mentioned, that the Group Chairmen had a meeting and after that meeting I wrote a [fol. 4410] letter to the officials of the Donnelly Garment Company, addressing to [to] the attention of Mrs. Reed asking that they appoint a time and a place for the Chairmen to meet with them. That meeting was held last Thursday afternoon. I want you to understand that with Mr. Tyler helping us, and all, our working agreement is going to be worked out satisfactorily and everybody's interests maintained. One thing we did ask the officials of the company for is a closed shop. That is a detail that cannot come in our By-Laws. It is an agreement that will have to be made between the Union and the officials of the company. Under the Wagner Act we are entitled to it to the extent that anybody working for the Donnelly Garment Company must belong to our Union and cannot belong to any outside Union. (Applause).

"Another question that I have been asked a number of times is 'Can we put a label in our dresses'? We are entitled to put a label in our dresses signed by the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union.

"Lots of people are asking if we are going to have pins. May I hear a motion that we adopt a pin.

Motion: "I move that we have a pin." (Seconded, and approved unanimously).

"I think that takes care of any business that has come up since our last meeting. I want to make this your meeting as well as mine and if there is any new business, let's take care of it at this time. I'm a little bit stingy and it costs quite a bit to get these chairs and this microphone. If any of you have any business you would like to bring up, let's do so at this time.

Question: "Can we pay our dues in advance?"

Answer: "You can pay your dues anyway you want to. That is you have the privilege of paying them in advance if you want to do it."

[fol. 4411] "I do want to say this, that any of you at any time that want to talk to me, remember I can always be reached at noon or anytime necessary. Feel perfectly free to ask any questions you want to ask. The Group Chairmen will have meetings of their own from time to time. When the girls and boys come back from these meetings feel perfectly free to ask them what went on, even if it is a meeting among themselves or with the company officials. There are no secrets about the union.

"During the year there will be a financial statement made, and our books will be balanced every month at the time the dues are collected. That will be our only income for the time being, and if you stop and think about it, you will realize that maintaining our own legal counsel will cost us quite a bit of money alone.

Question: "Can we maintain our standing as a Union and meet on premises maintained by the company?"

Answer: "So far we can."

Question: "How about a Union newspaper?"

Answer: "I have been doing a little scouting around on that. In the past the boys have attempted a paper and the girls have helped a little (very little). We are trying to work out a scheme with the employees, whereby we will have a very interesting news organ and somebody in charge of it that will have time to give to it. We may be able to work this out in the near future."

Question: "If a new employee comes in are you going to set a time before they have to become a member of the Union?"

Answer: "Anybody coming to work for us will join the Union immediately. If there is any doubt in their minds about whether or not they want to join our Union, then there is some doubt in their minds as to whether or not they want to work here."

"Does any one have any other questions? I am going to give you a minute and then we are going to adjourn the [fol. 4412] meeting. If there is anything you want to consider before we have another general meeting, please say so now. It has been so very nice to see you all together again."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4413] Meeting of St. Joseph Plant Employees May 13, 1937.

Rose Todd: "On April 27th we formed a Plant Union, and if you have been reading the papers you will notice and understand that under the Wagner Act we are entitled to have a Plant Union.

"At this meeting of April 27th I was elected General Chairman, and in that capacity I have called this meeting to ask you to join our Union. I want you to feel free to do as you please.

"We have nine chairmen, including the General Chairman, and we have met with Mrs. Reed and officials of the company and asked for a Closed Shop. We are legally entitled under the law to ask for a Closed Shop. Anybody working for the Donnelly Garment Company and belonging to our Union cannot belong to any other Union.

"The question was asked, 'How much time will be allowed before definitely stating whether or not you will join the Union?' I think if you are interested in working for the company you will be interested enough to join the Plant Union. You will not be allowed to belong to any outside Union if you belong to our Union. I want you to understand, however, that we have no grudge against other Unions. All we want is the protection I believe we are legally entitled to for our employees. That is why we formed our Union.

"Any Plant Union has to operate on its own and carry its own expenses. We want it that way, and it is necessary to charge twenty-five cents (25¢) per month dues. I am employed part time by the Union and the other part by the company.

"Our Attorney suggested that we select one chairmen [fol. 4414] from the St. Joseph plant to represent the employees of this plant at our meetings in Kansas City. Will someone please make a nomination for that person now?

(Motion made by Christine Westbrook that Mrs. Lillian Ellis be elected to represent the employees of the St. Joseph Plant. Motion seconded by Raymond Smith. Accepted unanimously.)

"We will let you know a little later when the dues will be collected and by whom.

"We are going to have Union cards printed. On this card will be the 12 months, and as your dues are paid they will be marked on the card. You will not have to pay dues when you are not working for the Donnelly Garment Company."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4415] Notes on Meeting of Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, May 25, 1937.

Rose Todd: "Will the meeting please come to order. We have a few things we want to take care of today. First, I want to tell you that our Union cards are being distributed and will be taken care of as quickly as possible.

"I want to read you an article that appeared in the noon paper. No doubt some of you have read it—probably a good many of you haven't seen it yet." (Reading)

"Meyer Perlstein of St. Louis, southwest regional director of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, opened headquarters at 1022 Baltimore Avenue today to organize, he says, the Donnelly Garment Company.

"We will open with an advertising campaign through newspapers and radio against the patronage of garments manufactured in the Donnelly plant", Perlstein said. "Six girls now are undergoing training to travel from coast to coast visiting store keepers handling the Donnelly garments urging them to stop handling the Kansas City product. If the store operators refuse to comply their stores will be picketed.

"As membership of our union in the Donnelly plant increases, a strike will be called. In such a case additional money will be required and we are ready to spend $250,000 to accomplish our goal, and that amount is ready."

"There are two organizers working in the plant at the present time, Miss Wave Tobin, manager of the local union, said, and this number will be increased to fourteen, she said, to build up the membership of the I.L.G.W. union in the Donnelly plant. Both Miss Tobin and Perlstein said a strike would be necessary. (Unquote)

"That is raising their 'ante' quite a bit in two weeks. But I still can't feel they can sign up enough people here to call a strike. (Applause) [fol. 4416] "If there are any people in here working—I would advise you to work very quietly.

"I think you will all be interested in knowing this—a number of people have asked me if our working agreement has been sent to Mrs. Reed, and a number are wondering if we shouldn't have it there now. I have tried to explain to the various ones that have asked me, that our working agreement is being drawn up by Mr. Tyler. I want to tell you now that I went down to see Mr. Tyler this morning and our working agreement will be finished and in Mrs. Reed's hands this afternoon or in the morning—I do not know just which time as it has to go through the mail.

"No doubt you noticed in our paper published last week that we are going to have a dance at the Pla-Mor, Friday night, June 11th. I am going to ask Hobart Atherton to explain why we are having this dance."

Hobart Atherton: "I think I said the last time I talked to you that I was mad. I have been mad several times since, but this outside interference is entirely unnecessary.

"We are going to have this dance June 11th at the Pla-Mor, to be given under the auspices of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. At this dance we are going to have a few carnival booths so those who do not want to dance can have a good time doing something else.

"I don't know of anything else I can tell you about the dance that you don't already know, so I will turn the microphone back to Miss Todd."

Rose Todd: "If anyone has any questions to ask about the dance, I think this would be a very opportune time to do it.

"I think we should all understand that we are having [fol. 4417] this dance primarily because a great many of our outside friends would like to know us as a group of employees and this will give us an opportunity to have a nice time and get together and make new friends.

"If there is any business or any questions, please bring them up now.

"I might tell you this—we will have the tickets for our dance ready to go on sale about Thursday or Friday of this week. I don't believe we can make it much sooner.

"If there isn't any further business to take care of at this time I would like to hear a motion made to adjourn."

Question: "Will we have card tables for those who want to play cards?"

Rose Todd: "We will have card tables for those who want to play cards. We will also have enough booths to lend a carnival spirit and give us something besides cards and dancing.

"Any further questions? I don't want you to get tired but I do want to answer all your questions.

"If there is no further business, the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4418] Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers' Union
Friday, May 28, 1937

Meeting opened by Rose Todd, General Chairman.

"Please be quiet. I think this is a very fine way for us to end a splendid week of work and the fine things we accomplished yesterday and a grand way to start a three days' vacation.

"The first thing I want to tell you (and then Mr. Tyler will talk to you) is that on Tuesday morning we are going to place on the 7th floor, the pins from which we want to make our selection to use as our union pin. There will be several different styles (one plain gold one; one plain silver one; one silver with enamel; one gold with enamel). I want you to take the opportunity to go by and look at these pins, and on Friday I will ask a representative in each section to send a note around letting each person express his or her desire for a pin, and we will total them and let that stand as our choice of a Union pin. On the note with the pins will be the price of each one.

"A great many have asked about Union dues. If there is no objection to this, the following statement will tell you how we will handle our dues. When you are not employed you will not pay dues. Our dues will be collected on the first Tuesday of each month. Anyone returning to work, whether it is from the 15th to the end of the month, will not have to pay dues that part of the month. But on the first Tuesday of each month you will pay your dues for that month. If there are no objections we will let it stand that way. If there are any objections, please don't hesitate to make them.

"The next thing I would like for you to remember is that friends make friends. There has been some little [fol. 4419] disturbance around this week. Maybe the girls are right; maybe they are wrong—I am not the one to say. If we have people here we feel are not entirely sincere to our way of thinking, I believe if you will think it over and try to be tolerant and be nice about it, you may be able to win them over to your side. I'm not telling you what to do, but just asking you to think it over.

"I will ask Mr. Atherton to tell you about the Dance and Carnival."

Hobart Atherton: "As I told you the other day, we are having this dance of the D. G. W. U. at the Pla-Mor on June 11th. This will be our first party or dance as a Union. Let's all try to make it a huge success. There will be a few carnival concessions in some part of the ballroom, so those that don't want to dance will have ample opportunity to enjoy themselves. Let's turn out and bring our friends and have a grand party! Thank you."

Rose Todd: "Mr. Tyler is going to give you some explanation of our working agreement. Mr. Tyler."

Mr. Tyler: "Miss Todd and members of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, I might read this working agreement which was entered into yesterday, by your committee on the one side, and the employer on the other, but there are at least a half dozen questions that have been asked a number of times and I would rather spend my time giving you my views on those questions and will ask someone else to read the actual working agreement to you.

"I want first to trace the steps you have made in the last month, I say to you, that a careful study of the Wagner Act should convince any fair-minded person, be he lawyer or layman, that every step we have taken is in exact conformity with the law.

(Reading from Wagner Act)

[fol. 4420] "That is the Government saying to you that collective bargaining, in its opinion, is an element of continuing peace and they propose to protect you in your right of self-organization and bargaining as a whole. That is exactly what you have done. You self-organized and formed your organization in response to the invitation of the Government. Of course, if you had decided to join some other organization that was your right to do so.

(Reading from Wagner Act—Section 7)

"In accordance with that provision of the law, you elected your own representatives. They were representatives of your own choosing.

(Reading from Wagner Act)

"In other words, the Government says in the Wagner Act that if in such organization as you join or as you form, you actually have a majority of the employees, then that organization has the right to bargain for all employees. There is not a shadow of a doubt but what you have the majority of the employees of this plant in this organization. As a matter of fact, you have substantially all of them. Therefore, your organization has the right under the Wagner Act to bargain for all employees. And when you hear the terms of your working agreement read you will see that your representatives, by virtue of this act, have bargained for all employees.

(Reading from Wagner Act)

"Your Union can not take away from you the right as an individual to go directly to your employer to present any grievance you have. You will see when the articles are read that they do not take away your right as an individual to go to your employer with anything you don't [fol. 4421] think is right. You may also go to the committee, and if the committee thinks you are right they will fight it out with the employer, or you may go to your employer if you so desire.

(Reading from Wagner Act)

"That actually says that nothing in the law shall prevent the employer from making a contract with you. Not that the employer has to, but the employer is entitled to make a contract with you if you present it to him that no one shall work in his plant unless they are a member of the Union representing that plant. (Applause)

"In accordance with that provision, in the exercise of your full legal right, a clause will be read to you in that agreement, that on and after June 5th no one shall be employed in this plant who is not a member of this Union. (Applause) But up to that time no discrimination shall be made among the employees because anyone does or does not belong to the Union (up to June 5th). A few are out of town; a few are on the road. They will be given the opportunity to join the Union by June 5th.

"The next thing it seems to me at the present time is a little moderation and a definite feeling of peace. Remember, there are always two points of view in any question. I have no doubt but what some of you have friends or relatives who are disappointed that you have chosen to go this route rather than another. Maybe some of you would have preferred to have gone some other route rather than this one. Remember, those people are entitled to their views—they are human.

"You have won a complete and sweeping victory. Don't endeavor to stir up difficulty. If it is true there are outside organizations that are trying to break down this Union, one way they would naturally go at it would be to stir up trouble in this organization. Don't play into [fol. 4422] their hands by endeavoring to use too much influence on someone you think is not whole-hearted about this matter. Don't take the chance of injuring an employee because you think they may not be loyal.

"I can assure you if there are people here in this organization who are here for the sole purpose of making trouble, they will work their way out in the course of reasonable time. I want to ask you to exercise a little tolerance, realizing you have won an over-whelming victory. Be tolerant and don't instigate anything that might be unfair or aggressive.

"A number of people have said to me, 'should we get a charter for this Union', or 'why don't we get one' or is one necessary?' It is not necessary for you to have a charter for your Union but you can have it if you want it. A few unions are incorporated; a few have charters. But they don't want to accept the responsibility that will follow. If a union is incorporated the court can enjoin and fine that corporation. It has a method of control over unions that it doesn't have when they are not incorporated. I don't think that applies to you at all.

"It might increase your feeling of unity to have a charter. You can have it if you want it. It would probably cost you about $100.00. You would have to file a petition in court and the court would appoint a referee, who would make a return of his findings and the charter would be filed by the Secretary of State at Jefferson City. If you feel you should have a charter, you can have it but I don't think it is necessary. It might be worth while and add to your feeling of unity and responsibility. Let's leave that to the committee to work on. I can assure you that you don't have to have it. Your organization is legal without it. You can choose if you want to take on that additional expense.

"Several people have suggested, 'should not we have legal dealing with the Labor Board?' The Labor Board [fol. 4423] is not created to organize any labor union—it is not to obstruct any labor union. Its duty is when a disturbance results as to which labor union is to bargain with the employer, or whether the employer is in some way coercing or intimidating the employees, or whether they are being dominated by outside influences. Or in other words, if the Union is not getting a square deal the Labor Board hears testimony from both sides and decides which side is right. There is no need for the Labor Board to take any action whatever until such a disturbance or situation arises. I can't see the slightest sign or any possible question of anything done here by force, intimidation or by outside domination. I can't see how a membership of 1305 out of 1333 employees isn't a majority. I can't see any question for the Labor Board to pass on at the present time.

"I have talked to the national attorney for the Labor Board and with the local Labor Board. I told them that we are carrying on a strictly lawful labor union and if there are any proper requirements, lay them on the table and we will abide by them.

"The Labor Board has the right to determine what labor union has the right to bargain with the employees. If there is any disturbance the Labor Board will determine which union represents the majority. There is no possible question as to this Union representing not only the majority but substantially all of the employees, but we will keep that in mind. The committee is working on that question and if you desire we will go to the Labor Board and ask for a certificate, certifying this Union is entitled to deal with the employer for all employees.

"There are certain rumors that come to us. (Quotes from article in Kansas City Star, May 25).

"I don't believe they will spend that much money to go out and see that people don't buy our garments. If it is [fol. 4424] true that that much money has actually been raised to attack this company, then the people that contributed that money are in need of some very serious protection. (Applause)

"This is still a free country. To say that any outside organization (I don't care how good or how perfect) has the right to force a Union in this plant, disturb the employees or endeavor to force them to break their contract with their employer, is to say that liberty has flown from this country. I think you are going to get the full protection of the courts in this country but I doubt if it will be needed.

"If those things proceed in any substantial way (I don't mean by any peaceful picketing), I say to you, you are going to get the full protection of the courts and my confidence in them is a whole lot.

"There are perhaps other questions you will have—more detail to be ironed out.

"The Labor Board has the right to say, if it so elects, that the proper unit for dealing here should be changed. They have the right to say that the work of the people who are operators and the work of the people in the office should be made into separate divisions, with the salesmen or office force having a separate agreement from the rest of you. If so, we will do it that way. There are perhaps some other changes that we will have to make as time goes on.

"There is no ground for any threat that you need fear against the legality and the right of your Union to the full protection of the law and to develop its interest as long and as far as it may be desired.

"I want to congratulate you for reaching this agreement without violence and without trouble in the plant. It is a credit to you, a credit to the town and a credit to labor throughout the whole nation." (Applause)

[fol. 4425] Rose Todd: "It is getting late now—would you rather leave now or have the working agreement read to you? It has already been signed and accepted. We will be glad to read it to you if you want to hear it. (Unanimously requested working agreement be read). I will ask Mr. Atherton to read it to you—he reads better than I do."

Hobart Atherton: "This is our Declaration of Independence." (Applause)

(Mr. Atherton reads working agreement)

Rose Todd: "Is there any other business to come before the meeting? If not, we will adjourn."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4426] Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union
Wednesday, July 21, 1937

Rose Todd: "Will you please come up to the front—we have about 200 seats up here we would like to have filled.

"I believe everyone is present now, so will you please be quiet. The Union has a few things of importance to take care of at this meeting. First, I want to rectify a mistake I made in talking to a group of operators on the third floor. One of the operators asked if anyone with a $16.50 minimum would work on silk dresses. I previously had read the Wage Agreement which states this group will work on dresses on which the wholesale price is $45.00 and under, but I just made a mistake and gave you the wrong answer. Our Neldas come under this price, and sometimes we have a few acetates that sell for this same price.

"Another thing I want to bring to your attention—in checking our Union pins I find we have pins out in the amount of $19.75 which are not paid for. If anyone has not paid for their pins, please get in touch with the representative in your department and take care of this as soon as possible. We would like to make another substantial payment on our pins this week.

"Also, for the benefit of a number of you, I have a few grievances that have been handed to the company on which I have not had a report. It will only be another day or two until I will be able to give you a report on these.

"Yesterday, at a meeting of the Group Chairmen, we asked Mr. Tyler to come down and discuss a few things of great importance to us at this time. I will now ask him to explain the things we discussed with him yesterday. Mr. Tyler."

[fol. 4427] Mr. Tyler: "Miss Todd, and members of the D.G.W.U., I am going to 'bore' you more or less with a little talk about a legal situation which I think affects you, and I am going to offer some advice which, in my opinion, you should take. In doing this I am thinking only of your interests. I do not think it will be unwelcome to the employer—but I don't care whether it is or not—because I am considering it from the viewpoint of your own interests and I want you to consider it yourselves in the light of your own interests, because that is really your first business to take care of yourselves and your own interests.

"I want to tell you the situation of the lawsuit that is now pending between the Donnelly Garment Company and the I.L.G.W.U. Of course, as you know, this suit was filed some two or three weeks ago. I had no notice of it until I read it in the paper and I made it my business to become familiar with the details of it.

"The Donnelly Garment Company has filed an injunction suit in the Federal Court in Kansas City against the I.L.G.W.U. and certain of its officers and members. This suit says the defendants (I.L.G.W.U., the C.I.O. and certain of their members) are doing and are threatening certain unlawful things to the damage of the company, and they ask the court to order these people to stop doing those things. If the court does stop them, it will be by an injunction. . . . This petition, of which I have a copy, says that the I.L.G.W.U. and certain members of that Union, which it names, has carried on certain illegal acts and is threatening the employees of this plant that unless they abandon their plant Union and join the C.I.O. they will sooner or later lose their jobs and will be beaten up. It is making false statements as to the inhuman system of work in this factory which causes employees to faint and fall in the aisles and injuring their health from overwork. These [fol. 4428] reports are being spread about the country falsely for the purpose of injuring the company. It says the defendant has stated it will, and can, and is about to cause a strike in this plant, although it has no right to bargain in this plant. It has threatened violence and intimidation to the employees if they do not join their Union. It has threatened people who buy goods from the Donnelly Garment Company—it is carrying on secondary boycott which is against the law. We can say we won't buy any goods from (say Montgomery-Ward) if we don't want to —we have the right to do that, but we do not have a legal right to organize a gang and threaten 'Mr. Jones' if he buys there, and do damage to him and tell false tales about that company to prevent him from buying there. That is called secondary boycott and is against the law.

"The I.L.G.W.U. is doing and threatening these unlawful things, and the company asks that the Federal Court order them to cease and desist doing these things—they ask that these things be stopped by an injunction against them.

"The defendant says the Norris-LaGuardia act is involved in this case—that there is a labor dispute—and that the court cannot grant an injunction to the employer unless three things exist. First, if there is a labor dispute, then the employer must say he has tried to deal with the party he is asking the injunction against and cannot deal with them. Also, show that an opportunity has been given in court for the purpose of hearing testimony and cross-examination.

"They say in this case now pending that they can't have an injunction because there is a labor dispute between the C.I.O. and the Donnelly Garment Company—because there have been no efforts made by the Donnelly Garment Company to negotiate with the I.L.G.W.U.

[fol. 4429] "The company, in answer, says: First, this is not a labor dispute. There is no dispute or quarrel between the Donnelly Garment Company and its employees. There is no labor dispute in this plant. This is an attempt by outsiders to injure the business of the Donnelly Garment Company by telling untruths about it; by violence and intimidation. That is not a labor dispute—that is an outsider attempting to injure the business of the company. The mere fact that it is a labor union that is charged with doing this does not exempt them. I do not think it is a labor dispute. I am not sure what the answer will be.

"The employer says also that they cannot negotiate with the C.I.O. and I believe they are right there. Under the Wagner Act, when one Union has a majority of the employees, that Union is the sole bargaining agency for all employees. There is no doubt this Union has a substantial majority; therefore, the employer has to deal with us under the law. If they started to deal with the C.I.O., it would be a violation of the law. Negotiations can be had only with the Union representing the majority in any plant. The court will decide that question sooner or later.

"It may be the court will say this injunction was brought too soon. It may say the company is entitled to an injunction if these things are true. Then efforts will be made to determine whether these things are true. The defendants have admitted these things— nevertheless they will be entitled to be heard in court.

"What is your interest in this lawsuit? I do not know to what extent they can damage the business of the Donnelly Garment Company. They are spreading false reports in a good many towns—what affect this will have on buyers I do not know, but at least there is a threat. I do [fol. 4430] not know to what extent they can damage the company. It will affect us in this way: If they can damage or ruin the business of the company you will be out of a job. If they are seriously damaging the company, wages will be reduced for you. If the company has to do a poorer business they will have to lay off employees or cut down wages. If the company is forced to negotiate with these other people it concerns this Union. You have the right to ask and you can be protected if you think it is wise to do so.

"I have gone over the matter with the committee and told them I thought it would be wise for you, as a Union, to go into court and file an intervening petition. We would file a petition stating our rights and that we wanted to be protected against the same things the company is asking to be protected against. Further, we would ask that the C.I.O. be enjoined from endeavoring to break our contract between our Union and the employer. Also, we would ask that the employer be enjoined from making any negotiations with the I.L.G.W.U. We have this right under the law. They must deal with the Union having the majority. Therefore, if the employer is put under pressure to deal with the C.I.O. you have the right to ask the court to tell him not to do so. He is legally bound to deal only with you.

"After very careful study and consideration I believe it would be worth your while to file an intervening petition and ask the court to protect your interests in this lawsuit, and I believe you are entitled to do so. I believe your position would be strengthened, and incidentally the company's (but that is merely incidental) when both the company and the employees ask for this protection. It is my opinion that a little aggressiveness would pay you in the long run and would strengthen your position.

[fol. 4431] "This litigation will go ahead whether you file a petition or not. The court may say it was brought too soon and it will be dismissed. If it is the company can immediately file again. If you should decide to enter that litigation the court would at the same time consider your rights and make some sort of an order as to your rights. Otherwise, you would be left out of the question being considered and the court would consider only the company's rights.

"You would, of course, incur certain expenses if you decide to file an intervening petition. I cannot tell you how much that would be. I don't know whether there would be one brief and I would have to appear in court only once or whether it would take many weeks—it might even go to the Supreme Court. However, I can assure you the fee would be fair and reasonable under the circumstances. If this Union should 'blow up' and I couldn't collect, no individual would be liable as an individual for any part of this expense. The Union would be expected to pay the expense of that litigation.

"The committee considered and recommended unanimously that we should file this intervening petition. They felt it was your Union and your business and it was important to all of you and that your sentiments should be taken.

"A thorough study of the Wagner Act convinces me that the dominating factor is the sentiment of the employees themselves. So long as you have a substantial majority of your members who really want to carry on bargaining with the employer you are going to be successful in this Union, and neither the C.I.O., the I.L.G.W.U. nor the Labor Board can prevent (I say this after most careful thought) you as long as you have a substantial majority who really want to support this Union and give it some thought and effort. The big point in the whole thing is that you yourselves can have what you want by [fol. 4432] a substantial majority but you have to give it some thought and time. If you want to do that you will be successful in your Union.

"After most careful consideration it is my opinion it would be to your benefit, and incidentally to the company's, to appear in court and, as a Union, file an intervening petition asking that your rights as a Union be considered in any decree the court makes. I want you to consider this, and I will now turn the meeting back to Miss Todd."

Rose Todd: "I know a good many of you have been wondering what was going to become of this suit. That was one thing that prompted us to have a meeting of the committee and ask Mr. Tyler to discuss this with us. A number of employees have asked me, 'why can't we do something?' So yesterday at this meeting Mr. Tyler discussed this very thoroughly with us—we had had some discussion among ourselves previous to that time. The committee unanimously approved taking this action. Mr. Tyler has explained it to you just as he explained it to us. I hope you have given it careful thought because we have a legal case and it seems that we should do something about it and take advantage of it. I am going to ask that someone make a motion that we file an intervening petition.

(Motion made by Ethel Reigel "that we do file an intervening petition." Seconded by Marie Cahill.)

All in favor make it known by saying 'I'. (Unanimous).

"If anyone wants to say 'No', say it now. We consider this a matter of vital importance to us, and I want to know we are unanimous in it or how many 'No's' we have. The motion has been made, seconded and carried unanimously.

"Does anyone have any business to bring up before this meeting? Does anyone want to ask any questions? If so, [fol. 4433] Mr. Tyler will be glad to answer them. Don't feel one bit timid about asking questions. Be sure to ask them—don't go away wishing you had asked some of these questions. It might be a question that would be of great interest to the rest of us. If you don't think of them now, you are free to ask them any time."

Question: "Will we all have to go into court?"

Mr. Tyler: "I think that is a very good question. Nobody will have to go to court in the beginning. The first thing to be determined is whether this suit is properly brought. If it is properly brought the court will hear the testimony. The company can ask any individual and have the court order any individual brought into court to testify. Probably two or three dozen will be asked. Maybe we, as a Union, will want certain members to testify. Any party to a lawsuit has the privilege of having witnesses brought into court to testify. You need not be the slightest bit uneasy about that. Just tell the truth and you will be fully protected in your rights. It will probably be several months before anyone will have to testify in court. You have probably noticed that the company has asked for damages from the C.I.O. They are not incorporated . . . and I wouldn't give very much for their chances of collecting."

Rose Todd: "Any other questions? I thought you might be wondering about the question of finances. I don't think we need be greatly concerned about the expense. The small amount this would cost would be nothing in comparison with what it would cost if a strike was called here and we were out of work for two or three weeks."

Question: "Who can call a strike besides members of this Union?"

Rose Todd: "If they can get enough C.I.O. people here they can call a strike.

[fol. 4434] "Any other questions? In the meantime, I want to tell you that about one-third of the space in this room has been taken up by lockers, so will you people in the front please keep your seats until the people in the back rows have left. It won't take but a few minutes—it just takes about twelve minutes to empty this room.

"Does anyone have any further business that should be brought up at this meeting?"

Wilma Kile: "May we have meetings on company property?"

Rose Todd: "Mr. Tyler advises there is no objection to our having meetings here unless we feel we are dominated by the employer. This, however, is not company property—the Donnelly Garment Company have only a lease on this building.

"If there is nothing else, the meeting will stand adjourned."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4435] Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union
Thursday, Nov. 18, 1937.

Rose Todd: "Will you people who are standing please come down here and sit down? You can get out just as easily on the 19th street side. We are going to make this meeting as short as we can, but we want to get as many people seated as possible. Won't some of you please come around on this side—we still have room for about 50 people over here.

"I have a few things to say and two or three others have a few things to say. We will make this meeting as short as possible.

"I think you know that several months ago we appointed an Auditing Committee and that committee was comprised of Bertha Estes, Chairman, Flora Brown and Heath Cowan. These three people were to audit the treasurer's books twice a year. I thought you would be interested to know that we came out twenty-five cents to the good. I thought we did well to collect those three months' dues the way we did and come out twenty-five cents over.

"I want to thank each one of you for the help you have given us the last few months, and I still want you to bear in mind if you have any information that you think would be of any value, please tell me or any one of the committee. Sometimes it may not seem to you to be of importance but it is of importance when we get down to facts, so please keep that in mind, and I certainly do appreciate the help you have been.

"There is one other thing I want Hobart Atherton to talk to you about. We discussed this at our meeting of the chairmen on Tuesday of this week. Mr. Atherton."

Hobart Atherton: "We had a meeting of the chairmen of the D.G.W.U. the other day and it was unanimously [fol. 4436] decided that we should have a regular meeting once a month. We had a discussion as to the night to have that meeting. I know most of your social engagements come the latter part of the week, so how about the first Tuesday of each month for a regular meeting night? The meeting to be held at five o'clock. All in favor make it known by saying 'I'. (Unanimous).'

Any objections?"

Question: "Why five o'clock?"

Hobart Atherton: "Would you rather come back at eight o'clock? The reason we have to have it at five o'clock is because the people who are in the office are not through until five o'clock, and a great many throughout the plant are not through until four-thirty and four forty-five—the cutters are not through until five o'clock. So if five o'clock is agreeable to all of you, we will have our meetings the first Tuesday in each month at five o'clock. It seems to be agreeable, so that is when we will have it."

Rose Todd: "I want to add a little bit to that—a day or two in advance I will post a notice reminding you of our meeting. I want you to make an effort to stay for these meetings. We will have them regularly and they will not be as long as our meetings usually are. That is a little personal responsibility of each member of this Union. I find if we don't do these things the first part of the week we don't get them done. These meetings will be comparatively short.

"I talked to the committee and we discussed it quite a lot—knowing that all of you were interested in the trial and a number of you didn't have time to read the papers or maybe didn't get a lot out of them, we decided to ask Mr. Tyler to talk to us and tell us what happened at this trial.

"Before I ask him to do that I want to read a letter [fol. 4437] which was sent to one of our friends here in Kansas City from a Jewish friend in New York. This letter was written in Jewish and was translated and brought to me. I thought you would be interested in hearing it because it gives you a good example of working conditions in New York according to hours and the work they have during the year." (Reads letter).

Dear Friend Feldman:—I wish to say that we are all well and hope you and your family are also, well. My dear friend Feldman, the conditions in New York are just terrible. You cannot imagine how bad it is here especially when you are out of a job, and the season was so poor that even those people that had jobs were working only a few weeks. I hoped that I would get a little work during the season but I could not find anything. And the reason for it was that Weinstein, my boss, took sick and spent 12 weeks in the hospital, and now his factory is closed altogether.

If you could do something for me in the way of finding a job for me in Kansas City, I would never forget it all my life because my suffering is beyond description. Please, dear friend, do me this favor, because my family must eat even if I starve.

Your friend,

(Signed) A. GORDON,
1775 Walton Ave.
(Presser, Local 35) Bronx, New York City, N. Y.

Rose Todd: "I will now ask Mr. Tyler to talk to you. Mr. Tyler."

Mr. Tyler: "Miss Todd, and members of the Donnelly Garment Workers Union, I am going to make this very brief. I feel, however, as your attorney and as your employee, I really should report to you on what was done in accordance with your instructions delivered at a meeting held some three or four months ago.

"You will recall you authorized your attorney to file an intervening petition in the suit brought by the Donnelly Garment Company against the I.L.G.W.U. and a number of individuals. In accordance with that authority, my firm filed that intervening petition on your behalf, in which we asked for you that the I.L.G.W.U. be permanently enjoined from acts of violence on any member of this com-[fol. 4438] pany or any one of these employees; that they be permanently enjoined from boycotting the products of this company because if those products are seriously boycotted the effect will be that some of you will lose your jobs or have your wages lessened. So we asserted we had a right in the protection of the business of this company; also in the protection of our own individual liberty in going to and from work.

"We also asked that the Donnelly Garment Company, our employer, be enjoined from dealing with the I.L.G.W. U. because we had a contract with them ourselves and if they undertook to negotiate with the I. L. G. W. U. they would be violating their contract duty with us. In both of those things I think we are fully justified.

"The trial lasted a week. In your brief we set up that if the Court should hold that the Norris-LaGuardia Act prevented us from having an injunction at this time, then the Norris-LaGuardia Act was unconstitutional, and I believe that to be the law. By reason of that issue injected into the case, it became necessary for a three judge court to hear the case. Judge VanValkenburgh, Judge Reeves and Judge Otis sat in hearing the case. The trial lasted a week, during which time two attorneys representing you attended and presented evidence by way of affidavits, some of which came from you people, and argued the case in your behalf.

"The court took the matter under consideration and I imagine it will be some 30, 60 or 90 days before a decision is handed down. No doubt whichever side loses will appeal it. Ordinarily, an appeal from a three judge court goes directly to the United States Supreme Court. It is possible there will be another trial here—in that case the testimony will be oral and the case will last three or four weeks. It is more likely that the loser will appeal directly to the Supreme Court.

[fol. 4439] "We presented your side of this case just as fully as we could. We did our best with it. We briefed and are still briefing the law and will present to the court a full brief of the law. We gathered the evidence that was available and saw to it that it was a part of the record.

"Toward the end of the case there had been all week repeated suggestions that the I.L.G.W.U. had greatly improved the conditions of employees of firms who had become members of that association, and hence it would be a wonderful thing for us, but we were just to 'plain dumb' to see it.

"At the end of the defendant's case, in which that statement had been made many times, the employers of five firms of this city whose employees have been unionized by the I.L.G.W.U. were subpoenaed to bring their books into court and present them to the court and they came, most of them unwilling, but a court order has the force of bringing them and their books in against their will. They came into court and brought their books showing the wages they were paying after they had been unionized by the

I.L.G.W.U., and these figures they were paying have become, under oath and with the original books presented, a part of the records.

"I am going to read some of those figures to you. I cannot attempt to read all of them—I cannot attempt to analyze all of them at this time, but I can take a sample page from one firm and read the wages paid the week before the case was tried, about Oct. 9th. I think you have a right to have these figures placed before you. I am going to read right down the line of a sample page. It is a fair representation of all the books, in my opinion. We have not picked out some page that looks lower than others. We have just taken a sample page here and there and gone down the weekly payroll in those firms in Kansas City. I [fol. 4440] don't do this with any feeling of glorification or with any feeling of crowing over anyone else. I feel genuinely sorry for these people, but I think it is due you to know what the results have been in the places that have been unionized by the I.L.G.W.U. in Kansas City. You can draw whatever conclusions you wish, but at least those figures were brought out from the books themselves and you have the right to know it. I am not telling you what firms they are. If you doubt the authenticity of them I can show you the photographic pictures of the pages of the books. The books have gone back to the company that presented them. These figures, under sworn testimony in court, run about like this:

"Here is one set. I will read typical wages received by one firm the week of May 5, 1937. Remember, the attorneys for both sides were watching this book so nobody can slip anything over—the attorneys from all sides were watching while these were read. These are the week's wages for finishers in that particular plant. They are not giving the number of hours—in some of these only a few hours were worked that week. This is the payroll for that week:

$ 5.40	$16.00	$11.94
3.30	2.25	14.00
11.15	14.00	13.25
12.60	7.71	11.25
10.54	10.49	11.38

That is for the week ending May 5, 1937.

"Here are the operators in that company which has been unionized by the I.L.G.W.U. for the week's work ending May 19th:

$ 8.51	$ 6.76	$ 8.56
5.25	8.09	7.54
2.28	2.22	13.05
5.86	7.74	9.82
4.51	7.21	7.96

"Here are the figures concerning the cutters. I will have to read a little testimony on this.

[fol. 4441] (Quoting from testimony)

These two are for 55 hours.

Question: Do they work 55 hours a week? Answer: No, that is overtime.

Question: For 55 hours work that cutter got $43.31? Another man worked 57 hours that week and he got $44.89? Answer: That is right.

Question: And you are the concern that ostensibly has a 35 hour contract with the I.L.G.W.U.? Answer 'Yes' or 'No'. Answer: Yes.

"Here are some further figures from another company—for operators who were organized by the I.L.G.W.U. I will read these right down the page:

$ 9.00	$14.18	$10.72
9.17	12.26	12.21
8.24	6.43	18.25
6.95	10.31

Question: This is the highest on the page? Answer: Yes.

Reading further:

$10.21	$10.43	$ 8.14
13.54	12.34	8.55
10.70	7.44	17.11
2.88

Question: That is the second highest on the page?

Reading further:

$10.80	$10.41	$10.71
11.22	10.10	9.51

The rest are in line.

"Then still another company which was organized by the I.L.G.W.U. One of these weeks is the week just before the case was tried—the ink was hardly dry. The weekly pay of operators reading right down the page:

$10.69	$10.21	$11.12
14.68	13.00	9.99
10.82	17.00	11.31
12.12	17.80	12.12
14.96	10.40	10.10
10.10	13.44

"I don't read this with any feeling of crowing over anyone. I tell you truthfully I feel a sense of unhappiness in reading these figures. I had believed all the time that the [fol. 4442] Union activities of the I.L.G.W.U. could not bring about the results that they claimed they would bring about. I had believed that the people who were herded into that Union, against the will of the majority of them, would find that they had gained nothing and lost the amount of the dues they had to pay and lost a far more valuable thing, their independence of action, and the right to do as they please without dictation from outside sources, but I was actually thunderstruck when these figures from the books themselves were placed on the stand. They may mean a different thing to you than they do to me, but I believe this evidence, given under oath, should be read to you.

"You have been, it seems to me, successful. You have avoided disorder and violence such as was shown in the pictures at the trial. You have avoided that almost entirely in this plant. You have continued your employment and, it seems to me, in a profitable way. You have asserted your own independence and have maintained it.

"I want to say to you, the battle is not over—I don't know what turn it will take but I don't want you to go away and forget about it. If this Union is of value to you, give it your active support. This thing is not over and no victory and advantage is maintained by people who sleep on their rights. I am not going to tell you what you should do about the Union—the one valuable thing beyond all others is your own actual independence. If you believe in your Union and if you do want to control your own destiny about these things, then give it your whole support. But if I am mistaken—if you do not feel that way, follow your own wishes. Don't let me dictate to you, don't let Miss Todd dictate to you, don't let your employer dictate to you—but think it out for yourself. If I can be of help by answering any questions, I will be glad to do so. But I [fol. 4443] urge you and appeal to you to make up your own mind by following your own independent reasoning without relying on me, Miss Todd, your employer or the I.L.G.W.U. and put that in force by your own loyal support.

"If there is anything I can do for you in the matter of legal suggestions—I consider you very good clients—write me a letter or come down to see me and I will try to explain anything I can. My services, such as they are, are wholly at your disposal. Thank you."

Rose Todd: "Does anyone have any questions you want to ask? If so, now is a real good time to get them answered. Is there any business any of you feel we should take up at this meeting? I don't want to dismiss you if there is anything we should bring up at this meeting.

"We want to remember that the first Tuesday in December will be our regular meeting of the Union. If there are any problems in the meantime on which I can be of help to you, I certainly want to do it. If I am not handling things the way you want, then I want to be told. Don't hesitate to take anything up with me individually, the group chairmen or your employers.

"I will ask you once more—do you have any questions to bring up at this meeting? If not, the meeting will stand adjourned. Thank you."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4444] Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union
Tuesday, Dec. 7, 1937—5:00 P. M.

Rose Todd: "I think you will all be real proud of this loud speaker when I tell you that the one we have been using at our meetings cost us $15.00 each time we rented it. This is one that has belonged to us for some time but we have just recently had it fixed so it will work.

"I think we can really begin our meeting now—there may be a few people coming in from time to time.

"I would like to bring to your attention at this time that if you have any grievances, please be sure to let us know about them. When you are dissatisfied about your problems come directly to me, any one of the committee or to your employer. We are just human beings and we can't all be happy all of the time. But, after all, we do have to make this thing apply to 1152 people, and we want to make any necessary adjustments satisfactory to you.

"We could have joined the C.I.O.—we can still join. It would cost us thirty-five cents per week dues—and incidentally they fine you every time you do not attend a meeting. Twice a year the girls pay $1.00 to renew their union cards. It costs us twenty-five cents per month to operate our Union, and I know we are smart enough because of the results we have obtained from our own Union. There is not a one of you in this room that doesn't have a guarantee that is higher than the C. I. O. Mrs. Reed could have signed up with the C.I.O. and gotten anything she wanted. We have all worked hard—that is the only reason [fol. 4445] we have accomplished what we have tried to do with our Union. We have a better contract than anyone in town. (Applause)

"The Chairmen of this Union are simply your agents—If you feel like we are not handling the work the way it should be handled, come and tell us. We don't know how to work these things out unless they are brought to our attention. Some of these criticisms are not just. Sometimes they are thoughtless and sometimes they are not. I know that as happy and as much as we have gotten out of our Union we want to keep it rolling along in a nice clean way. (Applause) We want everyone of you to have what is coming to you as nearly as we can. We will make every reasonable effort. So my theory is—and I am perfectly sincere—let's ask for the things that are reasonable and then work toward that end and we will get them. Don't ask for a lot of things that are unreasonable. Another thing, I think all of you realize from time to time we just have to work together on this. Please bear that in mind.

"I am going to ask Fred Brown to read our financial statement to you. Mr. Brown."

(Fred Brown reads financial statement.)

Rose Todd: "I want to read you a letter from the firm of Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich & Tyler—you should know what that means. This letter is addressed to me.

(Reads Letter.)

"I think I had better make a little explanation here. I will make it before instead of afterwards. From time to time a number of people have asked me what I thought our bill from Mr. Tyler would be, and I said that I didn't have any idea. When we got into this and got into court, I began to realize how much work and time it was taking, so I thought if we got a bill for $3500.00 or $4000.00 we needn't be surprised. When you think it over from this angle—[fol. 4446] there are 1152 people employed here—1141 are members of this Union. The only people who are not members of this Union are employed temporarily or have not been put on the permanent payroll, so scattered over a year's time, it is a small item compared to the number of people.

(Reads statement)

"As Fred told you, we have paid $1500.00 of this amount. This is our reply to Mr. Tyler, which is short.

(Reads letter)

"As you noticed, the letter signed by Mr. Tyler stated we could take care of this as we are in a position to do so.

"I want anyone who has any questions to ask about this to feel perfectly free to do so—don't go away from here and make a lot of thoughtless remarks. If you feel this isn't fair (I don't know what we can do about it) but at least you should express yourself. I feel, considering the amount of work that has been done, that it really is a nominal fee to pay for what we are getting out of it.

"I want to tell you I have a book here—I only have four copies. It is a printed copy of our brief prepared by Mr. Tyler's firm for our case. Any of you may borrow it. I only have four copies because Mr. Tyler just had a limited number run off as they were rather expensive to print. Any of you that care to may read these books. In a way it is rather dry reading for most of you, but it is interesting to us as members of our Union. It is the exact thing that was given to the Federal Judges in our case. Mr. Tyler told me that in all probability it would be after the first of the year before a decision is rendered in our case.

"I want you to ask any questions you want to. If you have any questions to ask, please don't hesitate to ask them.

"I will ask Mr. Atherton to read a letter to you which [fol. 4447] was received from one of our customers. I think it is real cute and I think you will enjoy it. About two or three weeks ago Miss Stuart showed it to me and I told her at that time that the next time we had a meeting I wanted to read it to you. Shortly after lunch I found out that Mr. Keyes had had some copies made and sent down to Mr. Baty. When I asked Mr. Baty about it he said that he had sent it through the factory. I've been planning to read this letter to you for three weeks and he beats me to it, but I do not think a great many of you have had an opportunity to see it as yet. I will ask Mr. Atherton to read it to you. Mr. Atherton."

(Mr. Atherton reads letter)

Rose Todd: "I think that is a pretty nice letter, but if it were not for the individual help of each of you it would not be possible.

"I thought you would be interested to know this—The Globe Knitting Mills had the same problem to face that we did. They did the same thing we are doing and they won their argument.

"I want you to feel perfectly free to ask any questions. This is your meeting—just because I am doing most of the talking doesn't make it my meeting—it is our meeting."

Stella Willis: "If we don't have enough money in the treasury to pay Mr. Tyler, couldn't we put it to a vote and each one donate fifty cents to take care of it?"

Rose Todd: "I don't think that will be necessary, Stella. [4448] We can pay it at our convenience. When you figure about 1200 employees at twenty-five cents per month, our annual income will be about $3600.00. We may even have some more expense—whoever loses the case will appeal it to the Supreme Court and there will be more expense. Several times when I have been down at Mr. Tyler's office his table was stacked high with books, and all of that material had to be read and decided what pertained to our difficulty and put into our brief. They are not concerned about our not paying our bill. However, before long we will be having another party. Our parties certainly have been a success and we will be able to make a little money in that way. We don't need to worry about it—we will make our expenses.

"Does anyone have any comments to make? It is about 5:30, so if there is nothing else, the meeting will stand adjourned. Thank you."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4450] Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union
Tuesday, Jan. 4, 1938—5:00 P. M.

Meeting opened by Mamie Riddle, Vice-Chairman. (Miss Todd away on her vacation)

Mamie Riddle: "If the meeting will come to order now, Marjorie Green, our secretary, will review the minutes of the last meeting.

(Minutes of last meeting reviewed)

"I will ask Mr. Atherton to speak to you now. Mr. Atherton."

Hobart Atherton: "At our last meeting it was announced that we would send a donation to the Mayor's Christmas Tree association. I have a letter from Mayor Smith, addressed to Marjorie Green, our secretary, thanking us for this donation, which I will read to you.

(Reads letter from Mayor Smith)

"We also have a letter from our General Chairman, Miss Todd, who is vacationing in California, which I will read to you.

(Reads letter from Miss Todd)

"You all know, of course, of the nice turkeys we received the day before Christmas. I would like to have an expression from you on what you think about authorizing our secretary to send a note of thanks to Mrs. Reed for this lovely gift. Will someone make a motion?"

(Motion made by Ola Jewett that we authorize our secretary to send a note of thanks to Mrs. Reed expressing our appreciation for the lovely turkeys we received. Seconded by Violet Bennett.)

All in favor make it known by saying 'I'. (Unanimous)

"I don't believe there is a lot of new business to take up today—not that the chairmen know of at any rate. If any of you members know of anything that should come up at this meeting, don't be backward [fol. 4463] Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union, Tuesday, March 8, 1938—5:00 P. M.

Rose Todd: "I think this is a grand crowd we have this evening and I hope we can do it every time.

"We have approximately 125 to 150 new members in our Union so let's give them a glad hand. (Applause)

"During the meeting we are going to read our by-laws for the benefit of all of us. I get a little 'rusty' on them as I know some of you older members do and, of course, our new members haven't heard them. I am going to ask Jack McConaughey to read the by-laws of the Donnelly Garment Workers Union to you."

(Jack McConaughey reads by-laws)

Rose Todd: "I am going to ask Hobart Atherton to read our working agreement a little later in the meeting. First, I want to ask you a few questions.

"It is about time to make out new Union cards for the coming year and I would like to know if you approve of our card as it stands. The only thing we would need to do is to eliminate the names of the months from around the edge of the cards, as it is not necessary to have this the way we are now handling the collection of our dues. If our card is satisfactory (with the one change) as it stands, please make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Accepted unanimously).

"I thought those of you who are interested in ice skating would be interested to know that we made about $10.00 over and above our expenses at our party last Tuesday night. We might bear this in mind—it is a little previous—but next fall we might plan to have these parties once or twice a month.

[fol. 4464] "I would like to read you a letter which we received from Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler dated Feb. 25th. No doubt you read in last night's paper that our case comes up in the Supreme Court during the first two weeks in April.

(Reads letter from Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler, signed by Mr. Tyler)

"That brings to my mind, and we took it up at our chairmen meeting last Friday, that we still owe Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler $1200.00, and with the amount of expense we have had this past year and possibly will have more (not a heavy expense but a little more in the next two or three months) I feel we should give it some consideration, and I would like to hear some expression from a number of you on what you think we should do about it. I would like to hear from not just one or two of you but from a number of you. We have paid more than half of our bill to Mr. Tyler but it will soon be time to elect officers for the coming year and I would like to get this bill cleaned up before we elect new officers. We have done a great deal of work on this and we are still just as interested as we ever were. I would like to hear some discussion from several of you. Let's make up our mind to do something at this meeting."

Hazel Saucke: "How many members do we have in our union at the present time?"

Rose Todd: "We have approximately 1325 to 1335 members at the present time. We have about 1350 employees—some of these people are employed temporarily and do not belong to the Union."

Hazel Saucke: "It seems to me that the quickest way and the least amount of work would be for each one to donate $1.00."

Nell Prine: "I was going to suggest the same thing."

Eva Lieberman: "I was also going to suggest this."

Rose Todd: "I have given this considerable thought—we all feel a personal responsibility for this and we [fol. 4465] would like to keep our expense as nominal to each individual as we possibly can. I have also given a great deal of consideration to our new employees as to whether we should ask them to pay the same amount, and I am sure they will agree with us that if they had gotten work anywhere else they would not have had a $16.50 per week guarantee, or perhaps would not have gotten work at all. I want you to feel perfectly free to discuss this and raise any objections or make any suggestions you wish. We want to make this an open discussion.

"I have this suggestion, if we vote to do this, that we pay one-half of this amount this week and one-half the first week in April. I would like to see us get this bill cleaned up while the old officers are still in office."

Agnes Lennon: "I would like to say for the new members that I feel sure everyone would be glad to help with this."

Helen Little: "I think most of the employees realize that if they belonged to the C. I. O. or the A. F. L. they would be assessed quite a little bit more. I think the minimum is $1.25 per month, and I think everyone would be willing to help out and donate $1.00."

"If there is no further comment I would like to ask for a motion that each member donate $1.00 toward paying our indebtedness to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler, fifty cents to be paid this week and fifty cents the first week in April. Will someone make a motion to this effect?"

(Motion made by Helen Little that each member donate $1.00 toward paying our indebtedness to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler, fifty cents to be paid this week and fifty cents the first week in April. Seconded by Agnes Lennon.)

[fol. 4466] Rose Todd: "It has been moved and seconded that each member donate $1.00 toward paying our indebtedness to Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich and Tyler. All in favor, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Accepted unanimously).

"I will tell you while we are all together how we will handle the payment of this. If you have any objections, make any suggestions you care to make. I would suggest that we appoint one person in each department, and I will appoint that person myself and will send out an I. D. M. with instructions on how to collect this money. This is my idea as to what to put on that I. D. M.:

"The name of the person who is to collect the money, and have that person list the names of each person in the department. When this is turned in, put the money in an envelope and return it to me between 11:00 and 12:45 on the 7th floor, or between 4:00 and 5:00 on the 10th floor, with the name of each member paid or unpaid, your name and section number, with the money.

"I just make this as a suggestion, and if any of you have any suggestions, please make them."

May Crume: "May we pay it all at one time?

Rose Todd: "You may pay this money all at one time if you wish.

"I want to thank you personally for handling this matter in this way. It is a load off my mind—I felt like it was a personal responsibility.

"I was going to ask if we wanted to continue having our meetings at 5:00 o'clock. At our last meeting we didn't have a very good crowd, but tonight we have a grand crowd. If you would rather, we could have our meetings at some other time in the evening."

May Crume: "I think it is better to have these meetings while we are all here."

[fol. 4467] Stella Willis: "Would it be possible to have our meetings at 4:30?"

Rose Todd: "We just can not have our meetings at that time because many of our members work until five o'clock.

"Another thing I want to mention—our by-laws state that our election of officers is to be the 4th Tuesday in April so we will have to postpone our meeting for April until the 4th Tuesday in April. I will send out a notice reminding you of this and will also send out a notice that we will not have our meeting on the first Tuesday in April.

"I am going to ask Hobart Atherton to read our working agreement to you. I was going to try to read our wage agreement or at least the part of it that concerned the most of our new members, but as this has been a long meeting we will not take the time. Any time any of you older members or any of the new members would like to know in detail about our wage scale, come to my desk on the 7th floor and you may read this wage scale and I will be glad to explain it to you. I do think it is worth while to take enough time to read our working agreement. Mr. Atherton."

(Mr. Atherton reads working agreement)

Rose Todd: "I want to make an announcement. Anna Moore, who has been in the hospital for about three weeks, wishes to express her thanks to you for the flowers and cards which you have sent her and for calling on her, so I have volunteered to extend her thanks to you.

"Do not forget our dance March 25th. This date is definite now and there will be no more changes. We will get the tickets out on Thursday of this week. I thought you would be interested to know we have already sold quite a number of tickets to the salesmen. They are always very generous and they have been particularly so [fol. 4468] this time. I know we will give this dance the same loyal support we always give affairs of this kind.

"I want to thank each of you individually for attending this meeting tonight—it does me good to see so many of you here.

"If there is no further business the meeting will stand adjourned."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4469] Meeting of Donnelly Garment Workers Union
Tuesday, April 5, 1938—5:00 P. M.

Rose Todd: "A number of people had to work until five o'clock today so our meeting is a little late in starting. We have a number of things to take care of, so please don't be impatient.

"I am going to ask Fred Brown to read our financial report to you. This report itemizes the different things for which we have been spending our money. Mr. Brown."

Fred Brown: "This report lists every item from November 1st to date." (Reads financial report)

Rose Todd: "I want to remind everyone again—from time to time we hear a few complaints here and there (and I am sorry to say when they come to me they are from the people who are earning the most money), 'what are we doing with our money?'—'what are we spending our money for?' I hope you have listened to this report with all fairness. We are trying to operate this Union to the best of our ability and we are all interested in it. It does seem like quite a lot of expense but if you stop to think if you would divide this expense by 1300 employees, I think you will agree it is very nominal.

"Mr. Atherton wishes to make an announcement regarding the trial and has a few remarks to make. Mr. Atherton."

Hobart Atherton: "We have received a letter from Mr. Tyler, who is our attorney, stating that our case will be heard before the Supreme Court on April 25th. A good many of you were under the impression that our case would be heard the first two weeks in April, but it has been postponed until April 25th. There will undoubtedly be some additional expense to the Union, but as Miss Todd has said if we would divide this expense by the membership [fol. 4470] in this Union I am sure you will be agreeably surprised by the per capita cost.

"Miss Todd has said that the complaints which we have had so far seem to be coming from the people who are making the most money. If that is true I think they should give these matters a little more thought. If we had belonged to the C.I.O., which could possibly have happened, our average wage would have been about $13.00, and out of that we would have been paying to the union about $5.00 per month. So far we have been assessed about $1.50, in addition to our regular dues of 25 cents per month. If anyone can complain about that I do not think they have very good grounds. I was going to say if it cost us $50.00 it would be worth it to work for the Donnelly Garment Company and not the C.I.O." (Applause)

Rose Todd: "I want to add a word to that. I think we lose sight of the fact sometimes that if Mrs. Reed had wanted to sign up with the C.I.O. it would have been a very simple matter. Other employers around town have done it. I think we know what it means to us to organize our own Employees' Union and handle this ourselves. We are getting a much better guarantee than any other organization in Kansas City. I do not think these remarks are malicious—they are just thoughtless, but by the time they get around to a dozen people or so you wouldn't recognize your own remark.

"One thing of importance we want to do at this meeting is to bring before you several plans as to how to elect our officers at our meeting April 26th, and while we are all here we should decide in what manner we will do that.

[It] any of you have any suggestions on how we should handle this, please feel free to give them to us.

"I am going to take the privilege of telling you two or three ways we could do it. I discussed this with Mr. Tyler [fol. 4471] to be sure we were handling it properly and he made several suggestions. I am going to give you the three plans which we thought were the best. After that I would like to hear expressions from you.

"We could handle this in a regular election ballot way. That presents some difficulties and I will name a few of them. If we have ballots printed, naturally we would want to know we had gotten every ballot back from the printers. The problem of handling them out to this many people and getting them all back and not getting some back that didn't belong, to me, does present a little difficulty.

"We could have an open meeting like we have had in the past, except as our organization has grown and we know more about it; I do not think it would be fair unless we counted everyone's vote. There are about 750 people here this evening, but surely at our next meeting we will have a full turn-out.

"Another way we could handle it would be to elect two nominating committees and let those committees, between now and the last Tuesday in April, each prepare a ballot of our own members who have been employed here over a year (our by-laws state that officers of our Union must be employed here at least one year), and at our meeting the third Tuesday in April these ballots, prepared by each nominating committee, could be presented to us as a whole. This would give us a very fair choice of two separate tickets.

"I would like to hear some expression from several of you as to how you think best to handle this. I really would like some expression on which you think is best. I know you have an idea which is right, which is wrong and which is best for us, so please do not hesitate to make some comment on whether you would like to hold a regular election, whether you would like to elect two nominating committees [fol. 4472] or whether you would prefer to have an open election."

Ruby Kennedy: "I would like to leave the officers just as they are."

Rose Todd: "That is very nice. I think we would be wise to retain a few of the old members who know something about the work, but I think we need some new blood. There are so many capable people here and I think it would be smart to make some changes. You do not have to agree with me—that is quite all right."

Violet Bennett: "Why must we have two nominating committees?"

Rose Todd: "I just suggested this because it gives us more of a choice. The last time, when we organized our Union, we just had one nominating committee, but we didn't know as much about organizing, etc., then as we do now. With this many people I think it is much fairer to have two committees instead of one."

Iris Kallowich: "What about each department electing its own representatives?"

Rose Todd: "That part has been taken care of in our by-laws, which state that we shall have nine chairmen, unless we vote to change it, and one person from each department would form a committee of approximately 70 people."

Clarice Martin: "I think that two nominating committees of four or five people would be able to know the members personally and make a very good selection."

Rose Todd: "We will put it to a vote—I believe that is the best thing to do. But first we must make it as a motion. May I hear a motion to the effect that we appoint two nominating committees, who will, between now and the last Tuesday in April, prepare separate tickets to be presented to the members of our Union as a whole at our meeting on April 26th?"

[fol. 4473] (Motion made by Ellen Nokes that we appoint two nominating committees, who will, between now and the last Tuesday in April, prepare separate tickets to be presented to the members of our Union as a whole at our meeting on April 26th. Seconded by Jo Chapman.)

All in favor of electing two nominating committees today who will prepare two separate tickets covering our officers for the coming year, to be presented to the members of our Union as a whole for our vote at our meeting the last Tuesday in April, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Carried unanimously)

"We will have to take time enough to elect these people. Remember, we have to elect two committees and I would suggest that these committees consist of five members each. That will give us a better representation than three, and it doesn't seem necessary that we need eight.

"May I hear a motion to the effect that we elect two committees of five members each?"

(Motion made by Fred Ellis that we elect two committees of five members each. Seconded by Kenneth Peck.)

"All in favor of electing two committees of five members each, please make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Carried unanimously)

"The next thing we have to do is to nominate these ten people."

Fred Ellis: "I nominate Kenneth Peck." Seconded by Louise Broker.

Jessie Mudd: "I nominate Ruby Lago." Seconded by Ellen Nokes.

Louise Broker: "I nominate Mildred Maddox." Seconded by Hazel Saucke.

Nell Biggs: "I nominate Elsie Wright." Seconded by Rose Hendricks.

Jessie Kelley: "I nominate Bessie Gilliland." Seconded by Hilda Richmond.

Clarice Martin: "I nominate Margaret Ducolumbier." Seconded by Veda Hoyland.

Mary Sprofera: "I nominate Leslie Ward." Seconded by Ula Crawford.

[fol. 4474] Mary Sites: "I nominate Daisy Kilby." Seconded by Louise Broker.

Edna Rawlings: "I nominate Winnie Underwood." Seconded by Mary Sprofera.

Anna Reece: "I nominate Ollie Cooney." Seconded by Jack McConaughey.

Rose Todd: "We have elected ten people. I am sorry we cannot have everybody but we only need ten people to make up these committees. I will ask these ten people to come forward so everyone may see who they are, and we will vote on each one.

(Introduction of the ten people elected to make up the two committees. Leslie Ward not present.)

"We will now vote on these people.

"All in favor of Margaret Ducolumbier, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Daisy Kilby, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Winnie Underwood, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Elsie Wright, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Bessie Gilliland, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Leslie Ward, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Ollie Cooney, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Mildred Maddox, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Ruby Lago, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous)

"All in favor of Kenneth Peck, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Unanimous) [fol. 4475] "I am going to ask Margaret Ducolumbier to act as chairman of the group consisting of Daisy Kilby, Winnie Underwood, Elsie Wright and Bessie Gilliland. I will ask Leslie Ward to act as chairman of the group consisting of Ollie Cooney, Mildred Maddox, Ruby Lago and Kenneth Peck.

"Is there any other business to come before this meeting? If not, the meeting will stand adjourned. Thank you."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4476] Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union
Tuesday, April 26, 1938—5:00 P.M.

Rose Todd: "I am so thrilled with this new auditorium—I think it is just grand. (Applause)

"Quite a number of people have asked me today about our hearing in Washington. It was to come up either yesterday, today or tomorrow. So far we haven't had a wire saying they had presented it to the Supreme Court, so in all probability it will be tomorrow. It will be some little time before we have a report or decision. They are allowed thirty days to render a decision. I do not know how true it is, but I understand they are trying to rush this case through, so it seems to me that within a couple of weeks we should be hearing something.

"I want to mention this, too. At least a dozen people have mentioned to me this week that they ride back and forth to work with people who are employed here who won't stay for the meetings. I know it is some little inconvenience if you have a ride back and forth not to be able to come and go in the regular way, but I want to ask you individually to talk to these people. It doesn't take long for our meetings and this Union means our jobs and our 'bread and butter'. We may get a favorable decision from the Supreme Court and then we may not, and it would just mean that we would have to start all over again.

"I do wish we could get better crowds to stay for our meetings—we would probably have had more people here tonight if they had realized we had a new auditorium.

"I am going to ask Hobart Atherton to copy on the blackboard the two ballots that have been selected by our nominating committees, following our instructions at our last meeting, and number these ballots No. 1 and No. 2, [fol. 4477] and we will vote on them accordingly.

"Very soon now it will be time for our new Union cards. You will notice we did not have the months of the year put around the cards. Since our dues have been taken out of our pay checks we haven't been using the stickers.

"I would like to ask for some expression from different ones if you would be interested in having some bit of entertainment or something in the way of educational interest taken up at our meetings from time to time. I know the new officers coming in will be interested in anything we can offer them. I wish a number of you would feel free to speak up as to whether you wish to continue to have just a very short business meeting or whether you would like to combine it with something else.

"Someone mentioned to me some time ago that they thought Miss Spilsbury would, when she had the time and if we wanted her to, be glad to tell us about her trip to South America and show us the moving pictures which she took. Things of that type, and I could think of a half dozen more, would take up 15 or 20 minutes. Please let me hear some expression from some of you."

Stella Willis: "I think it would be very nice and it wouldn't take very much longer."

Rose Todd: "This meeting is our annual meeting for election of officers. Our regular meeting is the first Tuesday in the month, and next Tuesday will be day for our regular meeting. I will send out a notice reminding you of this. Let's talk up this meeting and tell everyone about our new auditorium and try to have a better crowd at our next meeting. This is not a bad representation but let's have a better crowd next Tuesday night.

"Something else I want to mention while Mr. Atherton is [fol. 4478] copying the ballots—I was talking to Mr. Baty today because I realize that we have laid off a few people and it seems the way the work is and the way the material is coming in that we will have to lay off some more people. He wanted me to tell you not to be unduly alarmed. We will keep as many people busy as we possibly can. I know on the 8th floor one section is pretty low on work and part of the girls will stay home tomorrow. That will happen throughout the building and in all probability in most departments, and it may be a number of you will be laid off temporarily. Please do not get panicky about it, but if they haven't the material to work on they cannot furnish the work.

"Does anyone have any business to bring before the meeting while Mr. Atherton is finishing copying the ballots on the blackboard?

"Can all of you see the blackboard? We will try to bring it up a little closer. I will read the names on the ballots and ask these people to come forward. I think if you see them you will know who they are. Quite often we know people but do not know their names.

"Will two or three boys please come up to the platform and help balance the blackboard? As I read the names will these people please come up and sit on the front row?"

(Reads names):

Ballot No. 1:

Rose Todd, General Chairman
Marie Cahall, Vice-Chairman
Jack McConaughey, Treasurer
Marjorie Green, Secretary
Walter Higgins, Mechanics
Mrs. Riggs, 9th floor
Irene Boothe, Pressing Dept.
Elizabeth Barrett, Sec. 531
Alvin Riefel, 5th floor

[fol. 4479] Ballot No. 2:

Rose Todd, Chairman
Hazel Saucke
Jack McConaughey, Treasurer
Marjorie Green, Secretary
Walter Higgins
Anna Reese
Mary Sprofera
Rada Williams
John Crist

"I am going to take it upon myself to give you a little history of these people in case some of you do not know them:

"Marie Cahall is a member of the Pioneer Club and has been employed here for more than 15 years. She works on the 8th floor in section 412.

"Jack McConaughey you all know, I am sure.

"Marjorie Green was one of our chairmen last year.

"Walter Higgins, I think everyone knows.

"Mrs. Riggs works on the 9th floor in the Pattern Department.

"Irene Boothe works in the Pressing Department and has been employed here about 6 years.

"Elizabeth Barrett works in section 531. She has just recently been transferred down to the second floor. She has worked here about 9 years.

"Alvin Riefel works on the 5th floor in the Cutting Department.

"I am going to ask the first group of chairmen to please stand up."

(Miss Todd introduces group No. 1).

"In group No. 2:

"Hazel Saucke works on the 8th floor and has been employed here for several years.

"Anna Reese works in section 524 and has been here a number of years. I am sure everyone knows her.

[fol. 4480] "Mary Sprofera works in the Shipping Department and is well known.

"Rada Williams is a member of the Pioneer Club and as far as I know has always been an inspector.

"John Crist works in the Cutting Department on the 5th floor."

(Introduction of group No. 2).

"I believe the best way to take this vote is by standing. May I hear a little comment? Would you rather vote by saying 'Yes' or 'No' or by standing? I believe it would be more satisfactory by standing. I have some ballots prepared in case there is any question so we can count the votes if there is any doubt.

"I will ask how many of you are in favor of ticket No. 1. If you are not through studying these ballots, just say so. I think you have two good, strong tickets. You have some of the old members and some new ones. I think the nominating committees have given this quite a lot of thought, and I think the people on these tickets are people who are well known and to whom you can go and talk over your troubles at any time.

"If there is anything else you want to take up at this meeting we can do that now and you can be thinking about this.

"It is now time for our Auditing Committee to audit our books again and they want to be sure to do this before they are turned over to the new treasurer. They can do this sometime in the near future.

"Now, I am going to ask all in favor of ticket No. 1. Let me repeat it for you. I think the nominating committees have acted and tried to be very wise in selecting two groups of people that will be a good representation of this many employees.

(Reads group No. 1).

[fol. 4481] "That gives you two operators, the same as we had last time.

"All in favor of ticket No. 1, please make it known by standing. The balance of you that do not stand this time please do not hesitate to stand the next time.

"All in favor of ticket No. 2, please make it known by standing.

"I do not think there is any doubt but what No. 1 has the majority. If anyone has any doubt about it please say so. I do not want anyone to go away saying we did not do this properly.

"I want to hear some expression from several people on different sides of the room. I will ask Lola Skeens what her opinion is."

Lola Skeens: "I think No. 1 has it."

Stella Willis: "I think No. 1 has the majority."

Anna Richards: "I think No. 1 has it."

Rose Todd: "I will have these names posted on the bulletin boards tomorrow so you can familiarize yourselves with them. I think it is a very good representation and people who have been here for a number of years and who are very well known.

"Personally, I will try to do a better job this year than I did last year, and with your help we will accomplish a great many fine things.

"Is there any other business to come before the meeting tonight? Do not be timid about speaking up.

"We have this new auditorium and there is no reason why we can't have interesting meetings. If you have any suggestions to make, please tell us about them.

"If there is no further business I will ask for a motion to adjourn.

"It has been moved and seconded that we adjourn. Thank you."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4494] Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union
Tuesday, July 5, 1938—4:45 P. M.

Jack McConaughey: "I don't think this will be a long meeting. Mrs. Cahall, our Vice-Chairman, has asked me if I would start the meeting and tell you what we have on hand. I don't believe we have a great deal to take care of except we do want to hear from Mr. Tyler in regard to our case which was tried before Judge Collett.

"I do understand there have been some arrangements made for swimming at the Pla-Mor, and from several people I have talked to I understand they had a very nice time last Thursday evening. I think this is a very nice way to get together to have a good time.

"We also have quite a number of clippings from a Dallas paper with reference to Meyer Perlstein. It seems he had gone down to Dallas to organize and they were so dissatisfied with him that the pickets turned around and started to picket him. They even went so far as to write to New York to have Meyer Perlstein ousted from the Union.

"I will now present Mr. Tyler who, I am sure, is known to all of you. He will talk to us about Judge Collett's decision. Mr. Tyler."

Mr. Tyler: "Mr. Chairman and members of the Donnelly Garment Workers Union, this is too hot an afternoon to listen to a lecture about a lawsuit. I will make it as brief as I can. I have been asked to bring you up to date on the status of the litigation in which your Union is a party. I will go over this briefly.

"You remember one year ago today the Donnelly Garment Company filed a suit asking for an injunction against the I.L.G.W.U. and a lot of individuals, giving their names. In this Union we had a meeting and after a good deal of thought we decided to file an intervening petition in that [fol. 4495] lawsuit. We did file that intervening petition in which we said we wanted a restraining order against the I.L.G.W.U. preventing them from interfering with our independence, boycotting our products, using violence against us and interfering with our contract with the Donnelly Garment Company. Then the I.L.G.W.U. said since we (your Union) had raised the question of whether the Norris-LaGuardia act was unconstitutional if it prevented us from getting an injunction, then Walsh said that being the case we will have to have it tried before a three-judge court and appeal, if we lose, directly to the United States Supreme Court.

"We had a hearing which lasted a week and the three-judge court decided in our favor. Then our opponents appealed directly to the United States Supreme Court. That court said to our opponents, 'you should not have come to this court'. They sent the case back to the Kansas City court so we came back to this court and Judge Otis of Kansas City before whom the case was originally filed, practically disqualified himself and sent the case to Judge Collett. Judge Collett is also a United States District Judge.

"Our opponents filed a motion to dismiss or dissolve the temporary restraining order, which says they cannot picket us, start false statements about us, endeavor to force us to break our contract with our employer, attack us or boycott our products. That order has been in effect a year—today is the anniversary of when that order went into effect.

"Before the case was heard before Judge Collett we spent a week writing a brief on the status of the case and one day arguing it. I would rather not try to guess what his opinion will be. I think you can safely rely on this, that whoever loses will go to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. It may be that we will have to have oral testimony and witnesses be cross-examined. If [fol. 4496] we do it will probably take two or three weeks of time and I hope we don't have to do that. It may be there will be just an appeal of this order in which case your lawyers will handle it; it may even be the temporary restraining order will be vacated temporarily; it may be we can be picketed for several weeks. If so, I think you can rely on it being peaceful picketing. It will not be a repetition of what happened at the Gordon and Gernes plants.

"I am sure if it is true, and if it remains to be true, if a substantial majority of you (not just half of you) but as I believe is the case, some 95% or 98% are satisfied with your own Union to make your own contracts and are willing to fight for it, I can tell you you can win. I don't know how long it will take. It may take another six weeks, six months or a year. I don't know what future litigation there may be, but as long as an over-whelming majority want to carry on your own plans, if you want to stay with the fight you can win. (Applause)

"Let me just go back two or three minutes. Do you remember a year ago last March what was happening at the Gordon and Gernes plants? I could read you from the Supreme Court testimony. The testimony says that cots were set up at that plant and employees after breaking through the picket lines had to go to bed when they got inside; their clothes were torn; their hair pulled and in several cases some were knocked unconscious. Some are still suffering from the effects. That is sworn testimony. Some of you saw those things happen a year ago last March. Not less than twenty or thirty times people heard these rioters say, 'this is just a curtain raiser to what we are going to do to the Donnelly Garment Company'. I could quote from sworn testimony of many witnesses to that effect. That was what was facing us when we took up the question of what we should do.

"Let's see what has happened since July 5th when the [fol. 4497] court granted us this restraining order, requiring other people to leave us alone and if they didn't they would have to deal with 'Uncle Sam'. Since July 5th at the time when we decided we should go into court, we have had a solid year of peace. I don't believe anyone has been interfered with in going back and forth to work or has had any reason to be afraid of any violence, isn't that a fact? Have we accomplished that? If so, we have had a solid year of peace. Furthermore, we haven't had continual dissension in the plant; we haven't had two, three or five Unions fighting over who had the majority or continually being on the brink of labor trouble. We have had a solid year of peace. Another thing that we have had is reasonably continuous employment. These are not 'boom' times—there are 10 million people out of work in this country yet, but for the past year we have had fairly continuous employment in this plant unless I am mistaken. That is something we would not have expected if we hadn't stood up for our own rights. More than that you have had reasonably good wages—you have had better wages than in any other garment plant in this town or in this neighborhood. That is something we have had because we stood up for our own rights. You have had substantially lower dues than that paid in other Unions; more independence and ability to control your own affairs and do as you like.

"I am not a labor organizer—it is not my business to tell you what labor organization you are going to join. I am not trying to make up your minds for you. If I am mistaken, if you don't want this Union then I will drop out and you can go elsewhere for advice. It is not my business to tell you what to do, but as long as you want me and members of my firm to fight your court battles for you and give you the best advice we can we will do so to the best of our ability. We are ready and willing to do this as long as you want us to.

[fol. 4498] "You can really have what you want but you will have to give it your time and attention. You must take this thing seriously and work on it. Unless I was willing to work and give it some serious thought I wouldn't want to take a job on that board. Anyone who isn't willing to work on it shouldn't take a job on that committee. You are representing about 1000 people and I wouldn't want to take the responsibility unless I was willing to work on it. If I were on that committee I would use the best judgment I had and give the best thought I had to the job.

"I think you should keep in mind this is a democratic organization. It is impossible for 1000 people to agree on exactly just what should be done. It isn't human nature for everyone to think alike. Where there is a majority, those of you who are disappointed should fall in with the majority until the next election and then try to change the policy of the Union. I suggest to you that you run this Union on a democratic plan. The majority should rule. If some of you don't agree with the majority, then I think you should go along until the next election. I think it is good sense for you to run as a democratic organization with the majority ruling. I want to say that 'vigilance is the price of liberty'. You can't ignore this Union and expect it to take care of you. If this Union is worth anything it is worth your support and worth working for. (Applause)

"I really would rather have you vote to dissolve this Union today than to have you just forget about it and pay no attention to it at all, but I think you have done splendidly. I have had letters from the Atlantic Coast and letters from the Pacific Coast saying that those Donnelly employees must be an outstanding bunch that have the backbone to stand up for what they want. There are a lot of places in this country that have this attitude about us.

[fol. 4499] "I want to heartily congratulate you on the swell job you have done the past year. I am here to help you along any line. If any of you want to ask any questions here or in my office I will be glad to answer them to the best of my ability."

Jack McConaughey: "Any questions you want to ask Mr. Tyler? If so, let's ask them while he is here.

"I was just thinking while Mr. Tyler was talking, it has just been a year since we have had this injunction—this is a second 'Independence Day' for us.

"I would liked to have had a treasurer's report for you today but I am very sorry I don't have it. We have over $1000.00 in the bank at the present time and with this month's receipts it will probably be $1300.00 or $1400.00. From a financial standpoint we are pretty well on our feet.

"I think we have not 95%, not 98%, but 100% of Donnelly employees who are supporting this Union.

"If there is nothing else, may I hear a motion that we adjourn? The motion has been made and seconded that we adjourn."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4532] January 16, 1939.

Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union Tuesday, January 10, 1939—5:00 P. M.

Rose Todd: "If the meeting will please come to order, I will ask Jack McConaughey to read the minutes of our last meeting.

(Minutes of last meeting read.)

"May I hear a motion that we accept these minutes as read?

(Motion made by Ortense Root that we accept the minutes as read. Seconded by Irene Brush.)

(Accepted unanimously.)

"I want to bring to your attention the matter mentioned by Mr. Tyler at our last meeting in regard to our new contract. It will not be long now until time for our new contract to be drawn up, and if you have any ideas about changes that should be made please send them to me. As Mr. Tyler said, do not let these things go until the last minute and think we will have everything in that we want in. Of course, when we renew our contract it will be necessary that we make a few changes. We should give this some thought so we will take care of the things that are necessary and worth while to us.

"I talked to Mr. Tyler this morning and asked him if he had heard anything that would be of interest to us. The thing that will be of most interest to us, of course, is that he has filed a brief (a rather short brief) with the Supreme Court because, as you no doubt know, the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union has filed a brief with them asking that the Supreme Court take this case and review the evidence and set aside the decision that was rendered by the Federal Court in St. Paul. Mr. Tyler says [fol. 4533] because of the type request it is that they are asking them to hear this case—we have no assurance they will—it remains to be seen whether or not they will. In making a request of this kind it is necessary that we file a brief and I assume we will know their decision within the next few weeks. In case they do agree to hear it, the case would have to be presented in brief form and taken to the Supreme Court, very similar to what it was a year or two ago. At that time they refused to hear the case because they had no jurisdiction. In case they say now it does not come under their jurisdiction, the only recourse left would be for them to go back to the Federal Court. They could either drop it or have a trial on its merits.

"There is another thing I want to mention to you. A number of people have mentioned it to me from time to time and we thought we should give it some thought. I want to explain to you what it is.

"Several months ago one of our members mentioned to me that they thought it would be a nice idea if we would create a death benefit fund of $250.00 to give to our employees in case of death. On the surface it sounded very nice and of course we do a lot of nice things as members of our Union and employees of the Donnelly Garment Company. Then someone else mentioned they thought it would be nice if we could include husband or wife of employee.

"It doesn't seem it is a large amount of money for us to take care of (possibly $200.00 or $250.00). There was some discussion about the amount we would have in this fund. Someone else mentioned 'I don't have a husband or wife and it would just be an expense to me, why should I do it?' We really gave it a lot of thought and mentioned it to quite a few different people. A number of people had not heard of it and on the surface thought it sounded [fol. 4534] nice. We discussed it at our chairmen meetings and decided to select a group very representative of our employees and have a meeting. We had this meeting of about twenty-four or twenty-five people; some men; some women; some married; some had husbands; some had wives; some did not have either; some had no one other than themselves. We gave it quite a lot of thought and discussed it thoroughly, and I want to give you a few of the facts that were brought out in this discussion.

"We do, as I said before, a lot of nice things and $250.00 in case of death certainly could be used by any of us, but the thought was brought out during the discussion that that is the reason we have our group insurance. We pay one-half of this insurance and the company pays one-half. That actually makes us, if we carry the minimum of $500.00, pay for only $250.00. The majority of the people, in fact all of them, agreed that we should encourage people to carry this insurance and we should not encourage them to feel that they would get $250.00 so why should they carry this insurance. They felt it was stepping on the toes of the provision that has already been made for us. I wanted to explain this to you as a number of people have inquired about it and I think if you give it any thought you will feel it is a very nice thought but really not at all necessary.

"I want to ask if any of you have any problems or any business that should be brought up at this meeting.

"I have another thing I want to talk to you about. We have been discussing it at our chairmen meetings—and that is to have a carnival and dance around Valentine's Day. We had a meeting of eight or ten people, and we in turn discussed it with a good many of our members, and it seems to be the general opinion, and I want to ask you how you feel about having, what we had in mind calling a 'Mardi-Gras', Feb. 11th.

[fol. 4535] "All in favor make it known by saying 'I'.

"All opposed make it known by saying 'No'. (Carried unanimously)

"I want to say this: I know we have never had anything of this kind that did not turn out successful. The only possibility that might hurt us is that we usually have bad weather during February. When we have had Valentine parties before we have always had good crowds. I am very anxious, and I know you are, that we make this a success.

"We had a meeting with several people who have worked on these carnivals before and found out whether we could get the hall or not, so now that you have approved it we will make arrangements to get the hall.

"We appointed Hugo Kranz to take care of the beer concession and he will select the people he needs to help. We thought it would be more advisable if any of the departments want to help at any of these booths to get in touch with us on the 7th floor. The committee lined out what they thought would be good booths to have. If any of you have any suggestions about booths that would really make money, we would like to know about them. We will have to get into this and figure out the floor space and just what we can accommodate in the way of booths and concessions.

"What we had in mind, because it was the Union (as sometime during the year we will probably have some additional expense) was that it would be an opportunity for us to make some money, the departments to make a little and for us to get together and have a nice party.

"I would like to hear some expression from a number of you on what you think about dividing the profits from each booth between the departments doing the work and the Union, giving the department 25% and the Union 75%. I find from talking to some of the people who were on the committee for the last carnival that they cleared a nice [fol. 4536] amount of money and I am sure we can clear about twice as much.

"The Union has not had a nice get-together for several months and I think if everyone will put forth the effort there is always a lot of entertainment at these parties and we always have a good time.

"I would like to hear some expressions from a number of you on the sharing of the profits—25% to go to the department doing the work and 75% to go to the Union."

Stella Willis: "As long as it is our Union I think after our expenses are paid it should all go to the Union."

Rose Todd: "I feel practically the same way, but it is a great deal of work and I know some of the departments have clubs and like to make a little money and, as I said before, it is a lot of work and I think that is worth considering. A number of people have said the same thing.

"I would like to hear from someone else."

Edwina Jones: "I feel the same way Stella does, that everyone is willing to help out the Union and they would just be that much more willing to get behind it."

Rose Todd: "I think that is a very nice way to feel about it. I would like to hear from some others. Just because these two people have said they thought all the profits should go to the Union, you do not have to agree with them."

Lyda Burns: "I suggest that we take a vote on it."

Virginia Dare: "I feel we are all members of our Union and the profits should go to them."

Rose Todd: "All in favor of sharing the profits with the departments doing the work, the department to re- [fol. 4437] ceive 25% and the Union 75%, make it known by saying 'I'.

"All in favor of having all of the profits go to the Union, make it know by saying 'I'.

"I think it would be best to have a rising vote.

"All in favor of dividing the profits, the departments doing the work to receive 25% and the Union 75%, make it known by standing.

"All in favor of giving all of the profits to the Union please stand. (Majority vote to give all profit to the Union) (Applause)

"I think that is very nice. Let's all get behind this carnival and make it a success. If we have bad weather start early and get there. This carnival and dance will be held at Ararat Temple on Feb. 11th. It is a grand place to have a party and it will accommodate all of us and a lot of our friends."

Stella Willis: "May we take our friends?"

Rose Todd: "Absolutely, bring them and let's all have a good time.

"If you have any ideas you think would work out nicely for booths or any ideas that would work out for our party please let us know.

"We will appoint a committee to get busy and work out the concessions and booths. This committee will consist of the chairmen of the Union, and I will send out a notice to the other members of the committee, and we would like to have a meeting Monday evening at 4:30. The following people will be on this committee:

The Chairmen of the Union
Carl Crawford, Chairman
Hugo Kranz
Hobart Atherton
Marvin Price
Clara Phillips
Margaret Ducolumbier
Katherine Atchison

[fol. 4538] "Is there any other business to come before the meeting? If not, the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4539] February 10, 1939

Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers' Union Tuesday, February 7, 1939—5:00 P. M.

Rose Todd: "I wish to thank you for staying this evening. It really does me good to see such a nice crowd.

"We have several things we want to discuss this evening.

"I think our chief concern at the present time in the way of any activity is our Carnival. We are not particularly concerned, but we haven't heard a great deal about the ticket sale. However, a number of people wait until the last minute to buy their tickets. If everyone here will make a real effort to be at the Carnival and to sell a few tickets and if you will ask the ones who are not here to do the same thing, we will not have any trouble in putting this Carnival over.

"Anything of this kind is a great deal of work and unless you have worked with something on this order you do not realize just how much work it is, and it takes all the rest of us being there to put it over so we can have a good time and make it a success, as well as a success financially.

"I will ask Jeanne Skinner to say a few words to you about the Carnival."

Jeanne Skinner: "Just a word about the Carnival Saturday night. You are going, of course, and I am sure you are enthusiastic about it, and we want to make this the biggest party we have ever had. I imagine some of you have been planning to go in costume, and if you [fol. 4540] haven't why not give it a thought? You know, after all, it is to be a Mardi Gras and if you are in costume I think you can have more fun. So why not try it just this time? We don't want you to think you have to be dressed up. Come any way and let's have a grand time."

Rose Todd: "I will ask Carl Crawford to say a few words also. I believe I mentioned at our last meeting that Carl is chairman of the Work Committee."

Carl Crawford: "I think this Carnival coming up Saturday night, without a doubt, will be one of the best Carnivals we have ever had. There are a lot of people interested in it—everyone is taking a part in it. I am going to disagree with Jeanne Skinner about costumes. I say come if you have to dress like 'Lil Abner' or 'Daisy Mae'. A Nelly Don house dress would be just fine. I am sure everyone will feel at home. As far as entertainment is concerned, we can assure you we will have plenty."

Rose Todd: "I want to mention this: I hope the person is here today who came to me the day after our last meeting in January and offered to help with the Carnival in any place she could. I did not write down her name at the time and I do not remember who it was. I have been trying to think of it and I hope she will let me know as we will need a number of people to work in the different booths.

"I have a letter here from the Mayor's Christmas Tree Fund which I wish to read to you. It is a little late but I forgot to read it at our last meeting.

(Reads letter)

This is to thank us for the check for $15.00 which we sent to them.

[fol. 4541] "Does anyone have any questions they would like to ask? If you have, do not be hesitant about asking them.

"I want to say a few words in behalf of the people who do not want to wear costumes—certainly do not stay away on that account. Come anyway and have a good time laughing at the ones in costume—they won't care. Wear a house dress; wear anything, but come and have a good time. Be sure and be there.

"I want to ask again, does anyone have any questions or business to bring before the meeting? If you do have any questions this is a good time to get them answered."

Stella Willis: "When does our contract run out?"

Rose Todd: "Our contract expires on April 27th. There may be a few minor changes—there may be some changes of a more serious nature. We are giving it every thought.

If you have any suggestions to make, send them to us and we will look them over carefully. When the time comes to draw up our new contract Mr. Tyler will help us, of course. It will be two years this coming April 27th since our Union was organized.

"I want to mention this also: We will send out notices tomorrow regarding some of the booths, and during the week we will have small meetings of the different groups of people who are going to work in each booth and discuss just what each one's work will be that night.

"Is there anything else? Any more questions?

"I just can't tell you how grateful I am to see so many here tonight.

"If there is no further business, the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4542] March 15, 1939

Meeting of Donnelly Garment Workers Union, Tuesday, March 14, 1939—5:30 P. M.

Rose Todd: "Will the meeting please come to order? I believe we can start now as I do not think there will be many more coming in.

"There is one thing I want you to remember, and I want the ones who are here to carry the message back to the ones who are not here this evening; and that is, we must have a good crowd out for our next meeting as that is the day on which we have our election of officers for the coming year. So bear this in mind and try to get everyone to stay for this meeting. We must have a good attendance—besides being a new year it is almost time to draw up a new wage agreement and a new working agreement, and we should be giving this some thought.

"As you will remember, we organized our union on April 27, 1937, and on May 27, 1937, our working agreement was signed. This agreement was to run for two years. Also, our wage agreement comes up for renewal on June 22nd, so please keep these things in mind.

"No doubt during the last two years we have all learned a great deal about unions—I know I have. There must have been a few things you have thought of, something that might be well to have changed in our agreements with the company, so bear that in mind, and if you have any suggestions or you hear anyone commenting on it and they have any suggestions to make, please make them to me or to some member of the committee. On the whole I think it has worked out very well, but I have a few minor changes in mind that should be made and I know some of you have as different people have mentioned them to me from time to time. I really think this is one [fol. 4543] thing that it is very important for us to remember and we should take care of it in a business-like and thoughtful way.

"I know you have probably been a little curious as to how we came out on our Carnival, but at our last meeting our report wasn't complete. At this time I will ask Jack McConaughey to read you the report on the Carnival.

(Jack McConaughey reads report on Carnival)

(Applause)

"It was a great deal of hard work for everyone but I know we are all pleased with the results.

"Do any of you think of anything in the way of business that should be brought up at this meeting? Really, the way to make these meetings interesting enough for everyone to want to stay is for everyone, if you have any ideas, to take part in them. If you have anything you think will be of interest to the rest of us, please don't hesitate to mention it.

"I do want to repeat for the benefit of those who have just come in, if you have any suggestions about changes that should be made in our working agreement which comes up for renewal on May 27, and our wage agreement which comes up for renewal on June 22, please let us know about them. Keep that in mind and if you have any suggestions please be sure to tell us. Some of them might be very good ones that should be taken into consideration.

"Probably most of you noticed in the paper but for the benefit of those who might not have seen it, I want to [fol. 4544] mention that our trial is not to come up before Judge Collet. It has been set up to a week from today (March 21st) so far as we know now. I understand it will be heard by Judge Miller from North Dakota, and it will be heard here in Kansas City. It may be, as Mr. Tyler has told you before, that some of you will be called as witnesses. If that is true do not be alarmed about it as all we have to do is tell the truth. Surely if we stick together as we have during the last two years we will still win.

"Is there anything at all you might suggest that would be of interest to us or that should be taken care of at this meeting?

"Please bear in mind that the fourth Tuesday in April is the date on which we elect our officers for the coming year. We will not have a meeting on the first Tuesday in April, but will postpone it until the fourth Tuesday, which is April 25th. I want to repeat, I want everyone to make an effort to attend that meeting. It is of vital importance to us as members of this union and everyone should be there.

"In preparation of that election, I want to ask if you care to elect our officers this year in the same manner as we did last year. In case you have forgotten I will tell you how we handled it last year.

"We discussed two or three different methods and the one we thought best and the one we adopted was to appoint two Nominating Committees who in turn would present two groups of officers to be voted on at our meeting the fourth Tuesday in April. If that is a satisfactory arrangement—or first, does anyone have any other suggestions that would be better? If you do have, this is the time [fol. 4545] to make them. If you think the plan we used last year is satisfactory, I would like to hear a motion that we elect our officers by appointing two Nominating Committees, who in turn, will present two groups of officers to be voted on at our meeting the fourth Tuesday in April."

(Motion made by Hinton Nolan that we elect our officers for the coming year by appointing two Nominating Committees, who in turn, will present two groups of officers to be voted on at our meeting the fourth Tuesday in April. Seconded by Violet Bennett.)

Rose Todd: "It has been moved and seconded that we elect our officers by appointing two Nominating Committees who will present two groups of officers to be voted on at our meeting the fourth Tuesday in April. All in favor make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Carried unanimously).

"During the week, or within the next few days, the committees will be appointed who will take care of preparing these two ballots. Notices will be sent out to each section and posted on the bulletin boards advising you who are on these committees.

"Is there anything else? I might mention this, if you hear of anything you think would be of any value to us in this trial which is coming up next week, do as you have before—mention it to us as it might be of some value. There is nothing for you to be alarmed or excited about. We will just go along in the same steady way we have in the past and take care of our problems as they come up. But please bear in mind, if you hear of anything please let us know.

"As you know they (I. L. G. W. U.) have been allowed, since Judge Collet gave his decision several months ago, to picket us peacefully, but they have never taken advantage of it.

[fol. 4546] "I do not think of anything else which we should take up at this time. If you think of anything, please say so now.

"I certainly do want to thank you for staying tonight, and before our next meeting let's all get busy and have a grand crowd out for our meeting the fourth Tuesday in April.

"If there is no further business the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4547] April 5, 1939.

Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers' Union Tuesday, April 4, 1939—5:30 P. M.

Rose Todd: "Will the meeting please come to order? I know the thing you are primarily interested in right now is how the trial is coming along. I think it is just too bad it had to happen when we are so busy so we couldn't hear more of it, but we will try to give you a few details so you will know what progress is being made.

"The Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Sales Company are presenting their case first, as you no doubt know from the papers and conversation around the plant. It has been going on for two and one-half weeks and it looks like they will be through by noon tomorrow, or at least by the middle of tomorrow afternoon. I think you will be interested in knowing there have been a number of witnesses from out of town; several buyers from different sections of the country—one from Pittsburgh, one from Florida, one from Oklahoma City, one from Tennessee and two or three others. I think the next thing of interest to you in the way of witnesses have been two operators from other plants in Memphis, Tenn. Before we have finished with the meeting I want to bring something before you that one of the witnesses testified which is vitally important and of interest to us. The next witness to take the stand will be the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union which will begin probably tomorrow afternoon or Thursday morning, depending upon how long it takes them to finish up with the case as it now stands. Following that the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union will present their case; after that the rebuttal by all three sides will be given. That will close it, and I think we are going to win—in fact, I know we will win. (Applause) [fol. 4548] "If you will remember, at the last meeting I told you I had appointed a Nominating Committee to nominate a group of officers for us to vote on the last Tuesday in April, as our officers for the coming year. I want to present this Nominating Committee to you, and following that I would like to have a motion made and seconded to accept these committees, then we will vote on it.

"I am going to appoint two committees of five members each. The first committee:

Katherine Hamel, Shipping Dept.
O'Dell DeCavelle
Harry Grogan
Opal Holliday
Gladys Anderson

"On that committee I am going to ask Katherine Hamel to act as chairman.

"The second committee will consist of:

Pearl Bennett
Laura Plummer
Ben James
Polly Griffith
Hilda Richmond

"I will ask Hilda Richmond to act as chairman of the second committee.

"I want to ask if you have any other nominees, and if you do, feel perfectly free to do so. One thing, we do need balanced committees. I want you to feel perfectly free to add nominees if you wish. Does anybody care to nominate anyone else to be on these committees? If not, may I hear a motion that these committees be accepted?

(Motion made by Anna Reece that these committees be accepted. Seconded by Pearl Norris.)

All in favor of these committees as they stand, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. Motion is carried unanimously.

[fol. 4549] "I will post the first thing in the morning or tomorrow noon, where these people are, and any suggestions you have to make, you can send them an I.D.M., get in touch with them on the phone in the house, or call from home and talk to them personally. Do not feel at all hesitant about recommending anyone you feel will be a fair representation of our organization. I think when you see that you will note that we have quite a fair representation throughout the organization in these people.

"Now, I want to tell you a little about the testimony of one of the girls from Memphis, Tenn. What I want to tell you is that she was sworn and in her testimony on the stand as a witness, she testified that they received a guarantee from the I.L.G.W.U. of $11.00 per week which of course we know is far below anything we have in the way of a guarantee. They charged 35 cents per week for dues, $8.50 per person for initiation fee, and $1.00 twice a year for a new card. As you probably know, a union card is a card that consists of a little place to put stickers when dues are paid, and on the right-hand side they have from two to three to four special assessments to make. She also stated that if they did not attend their meetings twice a month they were charged a 50¢ fine. I want to ask some of those girls who have been sitting there waiting to be witnesses what they figure it would have cost us to belong to the I.L.G.W.U. for one year. Will any of you volunteer?"

Ruby Lago: "The $8.50 initiation fee. Then the 35¢ each week for dues is $1.40 a month. Then $2.00 a year she said was for cards would be over 16¢ a month. The first month alone would be over $10.00. About $10.16 per person."

[fol. 4550] Rose Todd: "For the whole plant, in round figures, it amounts to $37,110.00 for the first year for our 1300 people. It is really unbelievable. That was actual testimony on the witness stand. I know you will be interested to know that the total amount of money we collected during the first year of our organization was between $6,000.00 and $6,500.00. The total amount of money that we have collected during our entire organization is a little over $11,000.00. Last week we had a little over $1,100.00 in the treasury but this week we have a little under that. Of course, we are paying any expense for any of our members requested by Mr. Tyler to be at the trial for any occasion whatsoever. That is being taken care of by the D.G.W.U. No one has ever given us a thin dime and we do not need anyone's assistance now. This is our Union and we intend to keep it ours. (Applause). I was just really amazed when I sat down and figured out that we have actually saved ourselves about

$31,810.00. That doesn't mean any special assessments which no doubt we would have had to pay because I have heard so many say that they do have them, and mentioned that we might have other assessments. Then I think we have every reason to feel that if we were forced into the I.L.G.W.U. they would expect more from us, for our guarantee is above $11.00 per week, and no doubt they would expect more money. In fact, I have been hearing quite frequently that the dues in Kansas City for plants having a higher guarantee have been more because they need money to fight this case.

"May we give a little attention to our own finances? We need to raise some money soon. I want to ask some of you to express yourselves very freely on what you think of this. The trial probably will not be over before the middle of next week; maybe longer. I wish ever so many of you would express your opinion on what we should [fol. 4551] do about it; in what manner we should raise some money. We need to add to our treasury to take care of the expense connected with this trial."

Effie Weigand: "This same operator testified that working conditions were better before joining the union and her pay was definitely more."

Rose Todd: "Yes, she said working conditions were not as good as before joining the union. She was the one who had her clothes entirely torn off her in the picket line, and she appeared to be very sincere regarding her testimony.

"I want to hear some expression from you as to what we should do about this thing."

Comment: "I suggest each one contribute one dollar."

Ben James: "Would a dollar from each member be enough? How much do we need?"

Rose Todd: "Well, I do not know just what we do need."

(Motion made by Etta McCurry that each member donate $2.00. Seconded by Harry Grogan.)

(Opportunity given for further discussion of donation)

Daisy Kilby: "I have been down there for two weeks and if some of these girls could hear some of the testimony they would be willing to give $2.00. Just think what they would be out if they belonged to something like that. $2.00 in two years isn't much. I know we can give $2.00."

Ben James: "How much do you need?"

Rose Todd: "You ask me what I need? Really, I do not know what we need. I know that from looking back, quite a bit of the expense we have had so far in this union has given us exactly what we want. In the first place, we have had our independence. We have a guaran- [fol. 4552] tee far above any that has been presented in the trial. They have been reading payrolls that have been subpoenaed by the Donnelly Garment Company and have entered them as evidence. The payroll of the Marlene Frocks here in Kansas City, and who make ready-to-wear, was entered as evidence, and as I remember it there were about four salaries about $25.00, the highest one being $28.06. Some of them were pitifully low for forty hours' work. They are allowed six weeks of apprenticeship during which time they earn from $3.50 to $5.00 to $7.50 per week. Presser after presser and operator after operator is expected to live respectfully on $7.00 and $10.00 per week."

Harry Grogan: "You mentioned it might cost us $10.00 a year. Even at that, we know it isn't a third or even a fourth of what it would have cost us, so I think maybe $2.00 each would be fair, and if anything is left over we could put it in our treasury or maybe we could have a 'shindig'."

Daisy Kilby: "Today, they had testimony where their guarantee was supposed to be $13.00 but those men taking care of the payroll testified that they did not get the guarantee if they did not make it."

Rose Todd: "I want to tell you that we would not expect you to pay this $2.00 in one lump sum. I think perhaps the wisest thing to do would be to give 50¢ a week, or $1.00 one week, then wait two weeks and give the other $1.00. We have never made but one donation to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union previous to this time, and that was $1.00. I think the plan we used before to collect this money would work out very nicely. I would ask one person in each department to collect the money at noon time or after work."

Comment: "One of the girls said to me that it must [fol. 4553] have cost a great deal for this trial, and she thought even $5.00 would not be too much to pay. I have heard a number of the girls say the same thing."

Rose Todd: "We really do not need that much, and we do not want this to be a burden to our members. We have our independence and it is certainly worth keeping. We are going to win this thing, we have the right to win, and it takes money to carry on a lawsuit. (Applause)

"A motion was made previously by Etta McCurry and seconded by Harry Grogan that each member donate $2.00. All in favor of donating $2.00 per member to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, make it known by saying 'I'. (Remember that this is a majority of the members here and if we vote to do this, then we expect the others to abide by it. However, that is no different than we have always done; the majority rules and I presume always will.) If you have any objections, please make them now. All in favor of each member donating $2.00 please make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Carried unanimously).

"I think that is very fine and I really think it is the way for us to do it. Remember this, if you feel it is difficult for you to pay this donation in two payments, you can pay it a small amount each week, but do not make it difficult for the person in your department who is collecting this money. We will work out a method of collecting and that is about the easiest way to handle this donation.

"Do we want to make this donation 50¢ per week, or $1.00, say this Friday, and $1.00 two weeks from Friday?

"All in favor of paying 50¢ per week beginning this week, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Very little response either way)

"Would you rather wait until week after this to pay one dollar and two weeks later pay another dollar? All in [fol. 4554] favor of this, make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. We have voted that a week from this Friday or a week from Thursday, anyway the day or so following pay day, we will pay one dollar, then two weeks from that day we will pay another dollar. I will send out these notices and tell you what date that will be. I will also appoint one person in each department to collect the money and will have on this card I give her the date to collect it.

"Is there any other business to come before the meeting? We will have another meeting later in the month for our actual election of officers.

"I want to say we appreciate such a fine attendance at our meetings.

"Is there any other business to come before this meeting? If not the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4555] April 29, 1939

Meeting Donnelly Garment Workers Union Tuesday, April 25, 1939—5:30 P. M.

Rose Todd: "Will the meeting please come to order now? We have a number of things to take care of tonight.

"I imagine you have heard by word of mouth that the trial is drawing to a close; in fact, it is all over except the arguments by the attorneys which will begin in the morning. They have been allowed five hours in which to present their arguments. Two hours have been alloted to the plaintiffs (Donnelly Garment Company and Donnelly Garment Sales Company). Mr. Hogsett has one hour and then Mr. Reed closes the case the last hour. Mr. Tyler has one and one-half hours for our side of it and Mr. Walsh has one and one-half hours for his side. We do not know whether we will have a decision right away or whether it will be some time. As I understand it from Mr. Tyler, being a trial on its merits, the Judge could give his decision from the bench but if he wants more time to study the case he is allowed to have it. All we are hoping

"I want to ask at this time if any of you have any questions you would like to ask about anything that has happened in the trial that you are not clear about. It is too bad it had to come at a time when we were so busy so that more of you could have heard it. I am serious about this—if you have any questions feel free to ask them. At our last meeting I tried to tell you the high points, but if there are any questions tonight feel perfectly free to ask them. Do any of you have any questions you want to ask about the trial? I know some of you must have."

Question: "Is this decision going to be final?"

Rose Todd: "No, it isn't. I think that is a very good point. This is something we should know and understand as members of this union. They are never going to give up trying to organize this plant, but if we 'stick by our guns' they will never do it. However, we cannot get lax [fol. 4556] about it. You probably noticed the comment in the paper in which Mr. Dubinsky said they would accept this union as a whole just as it is. That does make me think—it isn't something I can do, it is something we have to do ourselves, it is our job. The Donnelly Garment Company has nothing to do with it and they cannot do it. If we aren't interested enough in this union to maintain it the way we are—don't misunderstand me—but we should realize this thing will go on through the years. It may not be a trial that is as long and drawn-out as this one, but they very definitely state they will never give up trying to organize the Donnelly Garment Company employees as long as they have the legal right to do so, but as far as I am concerned as long as we have the legal right we won't let them. (Applause)

"The only thing that is going to keep this organization alive and going is for each individual member to do his own thinking. We have done it so far and there is no reason why we cannot do it in the future. It is the first time in history that individual groups of employees have had the legal right to organize.

"Our hearing before the Labor Board begins next Monday morning. You probably noticed in the paper the other day where they have ruled against the employees' union of the Kansas City Structural Steel Company, and they have also ruled against the Kansas City Power & Light Company employees' union. If this union isn't organized right we can certainly organize another one.

"As I said, the Labor Board hearing comes up next Monday morning. The only information we know now is that it may last six weeks and it may last six months, we do not know. At a meeting of the chairmen the other day we voted to ask the firm of Gossett, Ellis, Dietrich & Tyler to continue being our legal representatives and to take whatever steps are necessary so far as this Labor Board hearing is concerned. I talked to Mr. Tyler the early part of this afternoon and he says he does not know yet just what steps will have to be taken but as they get into it they will know more about it and will take whatever steps they feel are necessary.

"In connection with that, we do not know but we have heard by the grapevine system, that a number of our members will be subpoenaed for this trial. If you are, get in touch with Mr. Tyler or with some member of the com- [fol. 4557] mittee of chairmen. If you do not find them available get in touch with me. There isn't any reason why, if you are subpoenaed for this trial, that you should not notify some one. That is what we have Mr. Tyler for. If you are subpoenaed get in touch with some of us. I think it is to your interest and to all of us to let some of us know about it if you are subpoenaed so we will know what we are up against.

"I also want to mention this—it is just about time for new union cards and we will have them ready in a short time. They are being printed now and we will get them out just as quickly as possible. I think possibly we have two people we have not asked to join our union. Our supply of cards ran out and we thought we would just wait until we had our new union cards.

"Next week is time again for another regular meeting. I think it might be wise to wait another week. We might make it a call meeting but we will let you know. I know after this trial is over you will all be interested in having

Mr. Tyler come down and tell you the points that would be most interesting to us.

"I want to ask if you would like to have some meetings in smaller groups, say two or three departments or sections at a time. We would be glad to do it and in that way we could give you a little more detailed information about this trial. I think it would be interesting to hear from some of our members who have been down there and have testified and heard some of the trial. Really, unless you have heard some of these things and the testimony that has been given you just cannot realize what a difference it makes to us and what this union has meant to us. Perhaps we could have two or three meetings next week. We could have them immediately after the departments finish work for the day and it wouldn't take very long. Maybe in smaller meetings everyone would feel a little more free to ask questions and to discuss some of these things. We will put it to a vote. If you are interested will someone make a motion that we have meetings of about three departments at a time to give you a little more detailed information about this trial?

(Motion made by Nina Smith that we have small meetings of about three departments at a time for the purpose of getting a little more detailed information regarding the trial. Seconded by Catherine Atchison.)

[fol. 4558] "It has been moved and seconded that we have some small meetings to discuss some of our problems and to explain more in detail the fine points of this trial. All in favor make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'. (Carried unanimously).

"We will make it at your convenience when we have these meetings. We will see what night is convenient for the most of you.

"I want you to be thinking about this: Would you rather have one large mass meeting or would you rather make it two or three meetings? In that way maybe it would create more of an interest and people would make it more of a point to come. We have a grand crowd tonight and we want to continue to have good crowds. It is of vital importance to us as members of this union and there is nobody who can put it over but ourselves. I do not want you to think I am getting upset about it because I am not but I wish you would discuss this generally and when we have another large meeting we will talk about it further. If you think it is worth while we will put it to a vote.

"I want to particularly thank you for the way in which you have been paying the money you have pledged. Everyone has just been grand about it. Most of it will be in this week or by next week I am sure.

"As I understand it the Nominating Committees have had two or three meetings to discuss who they wanted to appoint on these committees for you to vote on tonight.

"If some of you here tonight were not at our last meeting the first Tuesday in April, I want to tell you that we voted to elect our officers in this manner: By appointing two Nominating Committees, which you approved at our meeting the first Tuesday in April, and these names are to be presented as a group to be voted on. If you want to make any other nominations or any changes you will have the opportunity to do so.

"I will repeat these names for you—listen carefully in case you cannot see the blackboard. The group on the left-hand side is as follows:

[fol. 4559] (Group No. 1):

Present officers 1939-1940.

Rose Todd, Chairman
Nina Smith, representing the operators, Vice-Chairman
Jack McConaughey, Treasurer
Marjorie Green, Secretary
Edith Heidbrink Williamson, Pressing Dept.
Walter Higgins, Mechanics
Freeland Rife, Cutting Dept.
Bessie Weilert, operator, Sec. 414
Mary McClelland, Inspector Sec. 521

In Group No. 2:

Rose Todd, Chairman
Jack McConaughey, Treasurer
Marjorie Green, Secretary
Frank Cooper, Cutting Dept.
Walter Higgins, Mechanics
Avis Mowry, Pressing Dept.
Ruth Miller, Operator
Edith Wilson, Notions Dept.
Lynn Davis, Operator, Sec. 411

"Do you have any other nominations you would like to make? If you have any suggestions now is the time to make them and we can vote on whether we shall change these groups or add anyone to them.

"In Group No. 1 the Nominating Committee has selected Nina Smith to act as Vice-Chairman; in Group No. 2 Walter Higgins has been selected to act as Vice-Chairman.

"Do I hear any comments or any desire to change any of these people? I want to look these over a moment to see if they have remembered the different departments to represent. They have selected two people from the operators; Jack McConaughey is now in the Accounting Department but formerly was in the Mechanical Department; Marjorie Green is from the office; they have selected one person from the Pressing Department (which is true on both tickets); the person they have selected to represent the people at large is Mary McClelland on Ticket No. 1 (who is an inspector in Section 521); on the other ticket they have selected Edith Wilson from the Notions Department; from the mechanics they have selected Walter Higgins on both tickets; from the Cutting Department, on ticket No. 1 they have selected Freeland Rife, and on the other ticket Frank Cooper.

"I want everyone to feel perfectly free if you have any suggestions—if you have anyone you think would be better or someone else you would rather have, speak up now. [fol. 4560] "You have two good strong tickets. I will read ticket No. 1 again.

(Reads names on ticket No. 1.)

Please bear this in mind—speak up when you say 'Yes'."

Comment: "Why don't we have a standing vote?"

Rose Todd: "That is a very good idea. All in favor of Group No. 1 please stand. I will ask Sam Sparks, Jack McConaughey and Nina Smith to come up on the platform while we are voting. I do not want anyone to go away and say there is any doubt about it.

"All opposed to Group No. 1 make it known by standing. (Group No. 1 carried by majority vote.)

"I am going to ask these people to please come forward. (Bessie Weilert and Edith Heidbrink not present). We do have two people who are on this committee that you might not be familiar with—Bessie Weilert and Edith Heidbrink. I am sure most everyone knows Bessie Weilert as she has been quite active in the By-Jingo Club. Edith Heidbrink works part time on the ninth floor pressing samples. The next time we have a meeting we will ask them to come up.

"Please bear in mind this work is new to some of these representatives and old to some of us. It has certainly been an education to me, and I think I can speak for the old ones in saying that every year we know a little more about it. We have always tried to do things the way you want them done. If we haven't speak up and tell us what we have done that you do not like. Keep this in mind—throughout the entire year let's keep this a live organization—do not get lax about it. Let's speak up and make our wants known."

Question: "When will we get to hear our new contract?"

Rose Todd: "That is a very good question. Our Working Agreement comes up for renewal on May 27th. Our Wage Agreement comes up for renewal on July 1st. It was signed effective as of June 22nd to take care of the payroll for that week. I am glad you mentioned that. We have had several suggestions made, particularly concerning our Wage Agreement. If you have any other suggestions or ideas please mention them in the next two or three weeks. I am really quite sincere about this—do not [fol. 4561] wait until these agreements come up and then someone say, 'I wish we had done so and so'. Of course, we can always amend them but now is the time to make suggestions and as much as we can we would like to take care of them at that time.

"I want to mention this, when we have these small meetings I am going to ask a number of these people who have attended some of the trial to talk to you and give you their viewpoint on it and the reaction they got from the testimony they heard given.

"Is there any further business that should come before the meeting? I think it is grand of you to stay like this—it is a nice representation. These meetings do take time but to me they never get to be a bore when I think what it means to us.

"Are there any other questions?"

Question: "Why are Emery Bird's carrying our dresses exclusively?"

Rose Todd: "The company gave it to them exclusively. They have been wanting it for some time and I imagine the company feels they will get a greater volume of business to center it in the oldest department store in town. Emery Bird's are delighted to have it and they are doing very nicely.

"Are there any other questions? Do you have anything that you want to ask—anything about the trial that you would like to know?"

Question: "When we come up before the Labor Board and they subpoena us, if we could not locate Mr. Tyler, who is on the committee?"

Rose Todd: "I will read these names to you again."

(Reads names of committee)

In all probability if they subpoena you it would be in the evening. I do not know that they will but it is just a thought I wanted to pass on to you.

"Any other questions? I wish you would ask them at an open meeting like this as it might answer questions that other people have been wanting to know about.

"If there is no further business the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4579] (Board's Exhibit 9.)

Date 6/13/39—Witness Todd.

May 6, 1937.

Notes on Meeting of Group Chairmen With Mrs. Reed Thursday, May 6, 1937.

Meeting opened by Rose Todd, General Chairman.

"Being a new organization there are many things to be worked out satisfactorily. (Mrs. Reed: "It is all very new to me too.")

"We do have a few things of importance to discuss at this time. We are working on a working agreement to submit to you for your consideration, concerning hours, wages and working conditions (which up to now have been very satisfactory) There is one thing we want to ask you to consider when we submit this plan to you—and that is we would like to have a closed shop. (Mrs. Reed: "I understand that is very essential to industrial peace.")

"Another thing we want to submit for your consideration, is that we feel that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union should (if it is satisfactory with you and with the union) pay part of the General Chairman's salary, if the company is willing to pay their part. (Mrs. Reed: "That is satisfactory with me.") Later it may be necessary that the union pay the General Chairman full time." (Mrs. Reed: "I do not feel at the present time that you would need to give all of your time to the union.")

Mrs. Reed: "I really haven't anything to bring up—I was just waiting to hear from you. When you get your agreement written up and get it into definite form, I will be very glad to consider it. In the meantime it is nice to get to talk to you and I hope these meetings will be very friendly.

"I want you from time to time when you meet with me (I do not expect any but what will be pleasant) to be very [fol. 4580] frank. If you have any suggestions I will receive them in the same disposition that you give them. Let's be very frank about all of this. Perhaps some good things can come from it. I want you to know I am very sincere and have the feeling that when we have this opportunity to meet we may be able to use the time to very good advantage."

Hobart Atherton: "At our meeting of chairmen last week we talked about the meeting that was held at Burris Jenkins' church and we discussed writing the different churches. We thought it might be a good idea for us, as a union, (with your approval) to write the Ministerial Alliance and invite them as a group to make a tour of inspection of our plant."

Mrs. Reed: "I think that would be very much within your province. If these people go out and boycott Nelly Don garments it works against you folks as well as me. I think any organization is more respected if they are known to stand up for their rights."

Hobart Atherton: "We thought perhaps the churches would be glad to have the films shown that we made for the Jubilesta last fall. (Mrs. Reed: "I think that would be splendid.")

Mrs. Reed: "The thing that makes it so important in my mind is that the School for Christian Living is a national organization and what they do here they might do other places. I think people are prone to listen to things they hear in the churches."

Rose Todd: "If it is agreeable with Mrs. Reed to write to the Ministerial Alliance, I think we should discuss it further."

Rose Todd: "If there is nothing further to discuss, the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4581] May 18, 1937.

Meeting of Group Chairmen Tuesday, May 18, 1937.

A meeting of the Group Chairmen was held Tuesday, May 18, 1937.

At this meeting a definite time for our chairmen meetings was discussed. The suggestion was made and accepted that we meet at 12:00 Noon (on the 10th floor) on the first and third Tuesday of each month. Should any matters of importance come up, a special meeting will be called.

The matter of Miss Todd's salary was again brought up and the suggestion was accepted unanimously that the Union pay Miss Todd $20.00 per week (to begin May 1st) to be paid on the first and sixteenth of each month. It was decided that no definite time limit would be set for Miss Todd to spend in working for the Union, but that she would devote the time necessary to this work, as this will only take a nominal amount of time.

Arrangements have been made to publish a paper, and a draft was submitted to the chairmen for their approval. The draft was accepted unanimously as drawn up, and 10,000 copies will be printed (the cost of this paper to come out of the treasury). These papers will be given out among the employees and they will be asked to distribute them among our friends.

The Group Chairmen expressed their desire to have a note of thanks appear in this paper, and a draft was drawn up and accepted unanimously by the chairmen.

A little later on plans may be made to publish a paper monthly, with someone in charge that can devote the time necessary to it. Definite arrangements can be made [fol. 4582] later.

The matter of our Union pin was discussed and it was generally agreed that these pins should be a small, gold-plated pin. Samples of pins carrying our emblem will be submitted for our approval.

So many outsiders have expressed their interest in our Plant Union and expressed the desire that they would like to help us in some way, that it has been decided the D. G.

W. U. will sponsor a dance and sell tickets to our friends outside the company. This dance will be held at the Pla-Mor on June 11th—tickets 50¢ per couple.

The matter of Union cards was discussed, but Miss Todd reported that Mr. Tyler advised us not to do anything further on these until our working agreement is ready to submit to the company officials.

The chairmen were asked to report any grievances that had been discussed with them, and Mr. Atherton stated that the employees in the Shipping Department had come to him with a complaint that they were not being paid for working overtime. Mr. Atherton is to talk with them again, and the matter will be brought up at our next meeting.

Miss Todd requested the Group Chairmen to advise her if any of the girls report to them that they have been offered money, as she would like to talk to them.

Miss Todd also reported that Mr. Tyler is drafting our Working Agreement.

Since there was no further business to take care of, the meeting was adjourned. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, June 1, 1937.

Meeting of Group Chairmen With Mr. Tyler Thursday, May 20, 1937.

The Group Chairmen of the D.G.W.U. met in Mr. Tyler's office on Thursday, May 20, 1937.

The main purpose of this meeting was to discuss our Working Agreement and suggest any terms which we believed should be incorporated in our Working Agreement.

Mr. Atherton brought up the matter regarding the boys in the Shipping Department. These boys had talked to Mr. Atherton a few days ago and made the statement that they thought they should be paid for overtime. This was discussed with Mr. Tyler and since it pertained to only four or five people, we decided this was something that should be settled by the committee and officials of the company, and not put into our Working Agreement, as our Working Agreeement should be more general and not cover individual cases.

Mr. Tyler will come down within the next few days and inspect our plant and see for himself the conditions under which we work. He will also look over our payroll and decide if he thinks a minimum wage should be included in our Working Agrement. In drawing up this agreement the chairmen and Mr. Tyler agreed that we should make a set of general terms to cover all employees, as we cannot make an agreement to cover each department, and that we should not try to set up a scale of wages. In order to have year round employment it is necessary that the employees go from one department to another.

We will also ask for a Closed Shop in our Working Agreement.

When this agreement is ready and has been approved by [fol. 4584] the Group Chairmen, we will present it to the company officials and they may make any counter-suggestions they wish.

Mrs. Lillian Ellis, representing the St. Joseph plant, was asked to report to us any criticisms or demands made by the St. Joseph employees; also we would welcome any suggestions they had to offer.

We will meet with Mr. Tyler again whenever we have anything of importance to discuss. In the meantime, he will proceed with the Working Agreement and when it is ready we will have another meeting, and if there are no objections we will present it to the company officials.

Mr. Tyler mentioned that he had heard very favorable comment on our plant Union and the stand the employees have taken. He stated we have done something that is well known, not only in Kansas City but throughout the country as well, and the outsiders are well pleased with the way we are conducting ourselves and have expressed the desire to help us in some way.

Mr. Tyler also mentioned to us that he had talked to City Manager McElroy, and he promised to give us protection in case of any violence at our plant. Mr. Tyler told him that if he would give us just six men with definite instructions to keep order, that would be all we would need. Mr. McElroy promised we would have protection if we needed it.

We discussed with Mr. Tyler the plans for our Carnival on June 5th and our dance on June 11th. It was his opinion that we would be able to get enough outside people who are interested in us to attend both our Carnival and Dance to enable us to make some money. The question was brought up as to whether or not it would be all [fol. 4585] right for us to advertise in the paper, and Mr. Tyler advised that he thought it would be quite in line.

The chairmen will have another meeting and make more definite plans for the Dance which is scheduled for June 11th.

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4586] May 27, 1937

Meeting 10:30 A. M. Thursday, May 27, Group Chairmen and Mr. Tyler.

Mr. Tyler: "I want to read over our working agreement to you and if you have any suggestions to make, please make them.

"I do not believe this working agreement is final—we will consider adding other things later on. Also, I don't think Mrs. Reed will just take this agreement and sign it. She will want to look it over and check it with her lawyers and make any investigations she wishes.

"However, I do think it is a step in advance and think it is the thing for us to do. It will create a feeling of solidarity, and it gives us a certain legal right.

"I suggest that we do not load up this agreement with a lot of detail. Of course, there will have to be amendments. As yet the wage agreement is to be worked out. If this agreement covers the general form or general principles, we can work on the details later. I would like to get this working agreement definitely into force as soon as possible, as it will help our morale and help us as a Union.

"Under the law Mrs. Reed is bound to deal with us but she isn't bound to accept this agreement.

"We cannot set a definite fixed wage scale, but we are asking for a minimum wage in our working agreement. Also, I would recommend that you be the sole bargaining agency for the employees.

"If Mrs. Reed agrees to a closed shop, no one but members of this Union can work here. Any new employee coming to work here will be given one week in which to join our Union."

[fol. 4587] Question: "Can anyone belong to an outside union and work here?

Mr. Tyler: "No one can belong to any outside union and work here, as stated in our By-Laws.

"In asking for a closed shop, we are perfectly within our rights. I do not believe this will cause any trouble with the I. L. G. W. U. and I don't think we should be afraid of their threats.

"If we do not ask for a closed shop, we may encourage others to fight it. They may say they are being discriminated against and will complain that they are not being treated as well as the rest of the employees.

"We are given the right, under the Wagner Act, to ask for a closed shop if Mrs. Reed agrees.

"I want to tell you people before we go up to Mrs. Reed's office, that to the best of my knowledge I have never spoken a word to Mrs. Reed, and I don't want to except in the presence of this committee.

"In presenting this working agreement to Mrs. Reed we will ask that it become effective June 1st (or a later date if we find it necessary) and to be for a term of two years."

Rose Todd: "If any of the employees have any complaints to make, shouldn't they be made in writing?"

Mr. Tyler: "I think it would be quite all right to take up any petty complaints verbally, but anything of a serious nature should be put in writing and should have an acknowledgment from the committee."

Meeting adjourned.

Meeting In Mrs. Reed's Office May 27, 1937

(Those present: Mrs. Reed, Mr. Green, Mr. Keyes, Mr. Ingraham, Mr. Baty, Mr. Evans and the Group Chairmen)

Rose Todd: "Mrs. Reed, at this time we want to present our working agreement to you. We feel this is quite an important meeting in our lives."

Mr. Tyler: "We really do not think this working agreement is a master piece, but we do want to present it to you for your consideration.

"One of our proposals is that we shall, as employees, be allowed to proceed without outside domination as to what we demand, whether we shall strike or what dues we shall pay. We believe we can manage our own affairs, have peaceful conditions and better conditions for ourselves, and for the management also. At the same time we are endeavoring to represent the interests of the employees as employees. We do not think it would be to their interests to make any demands which business conditions did not allow and therefore bring about periods of unemployment. However, we do think it is good business to make reasonable suggestions."

(Mr. Tyler reads working agreement)

Mr. Tyler: "There is no doubt this Union represents far in excess of 51% of the employees. Under the Wagner Act we have the right to ask to deal for all employees and ask for a closed shop. We think, since we overwhelmingly represent the opinion of the plant, that if a small group remaining outside the Union continued to work here, there would be constant friction. If there should not be enough work and some were laid off, there [fol. 4589] would be constant complaints about their being laid off and being discriminated against, and the girls would be irritated by the presence of a small non-union group.

"I feel that a closed shop is justifiable in this plant and the committee, by unanimous vote, has asked that a closed shop be put into effect.

"It is our opinion that it is best for peaceful operation of the plant as well as our own peace and quiet to have a closed shop.

"We submit this agreement to you and if you wish to take it under consideration and have it checked by anyone else, that is your full right. We suggest, however, that no extended time be taken in regard to the matter, and if you have any additions or counter-proposals we will be glad to go into them and consider them. I think the general situation of this Union would be helped by as prompt attention as possible."

Mrs. Reed: "I would like to have a little time to look over this agreement. However, I think it is very much in line—there will possibly be one or two little changes."

Mr. Ingraham: "After we have a chance to go over this agreement we would like to meet with you again this afternoon, and if there are any changes or modifications to be made, we could discuss these with you and you in turn could take it up with the committee."

Mr. Tyler: "That is satisfactory with me. I would like to ask Miss Todd be present when we go over this agreement."

Mr. Ingraham: "If three o'clock is satisfactory with you we will meet here and discuss it and you can then meet with the committee about three thirty and discuss it with them."

[fol. 4590] Mrs. Reed: "I think the only changes it will be necessary to make will just be legal phraseology—the spirit of this agreement is satisfactory."

Meeting of Group Chairmen With Mr. Tyler May 27, 1937.

(After working agreement had been presented to Mrs. Reed and a few modifications made).

Mr. Tyler: "This form has been modified in three or four places. Miss Todd was here every minute of the time when these modifications were made. In my opinion it is a satisfactory form and I suggest to you and advise you to execute it.

"It does not undertake to settle every situation which would come up—we decided that we couldn't possibly do that. But I do think it is of substantial value to the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company as a body.

"There is no very important change between this document and the one we prepared ourselves a little while ago."

(Mr. Tyler reads agreement)

"In this agreement, we find it is necessary in defining 'employees' not to include executives.

"Also, we have added to this agreement, that to become a member of this committee you must be employed here for at least one year. This is to eliminate the possibility of someone getting on this committee who is not a true representative of the employees and who may be working here merely to act as a traitor to the company.

"The clause regarding arbitration is a new one that has been added since we made up our first agreement."

Working agreement read by Mr. Tyler and accepted [fol. 4592] unanimously by the committee.

Working agreement signed by both the chairmen of the Union and officials of the company.

Meeting of Group Chairmen June 3, 1937.

Plans for the Dance and Carnival which is to be given June 11th were discussed at this meeting, and the committee appointed to take care of the concessions and buy supplies will meet Monday noon.

The suggestion was made that we should see Miss Fitzgerald about having some posters for our party made up. Also [wee] about having an ad put in the paper—this to be in the form of an invitation rather than an advertisement.

Tickets for the dance will be given out to the representatives of the different departments to be sold to the employees and to their friends.

Rose Todd: "Have any of you heard of any complaints which should be straightened out? If so, they should be taken care of at our meetings.

"Mr. Tyler is drawing up a form for us to use for any grievances that might come up. If we have any complaints that are just, let's use these forms.

"I want to ask you to spread the news around that the girls do not have to work nine hours if they do not want to. They are not being forced to work nine hours unless they wish to. They should know this, but let's be sure and make it clear to them.

"The pins from which we are to make our selection for a Union pin are posted on the 7th floor, and a decision will be made on these the first of the week.

"We shouldn't have so many bills from now on and [fol. 4594] we can begin to accumulate a little money in our treasury.

"I would like to have a committee named to set piece work prices. As you know, we have never had any trouble with the company about piece work prices but I feel we should have a committee to handle this for us.

(Motion made that Rose Todd, Josephine Spalitto and Lula Nichols form this committee. Motion seconded.) Unanimous.

"If there is no other business to be taken care of, the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4595] June 15, 1937

Meeting of Group Chairmen Tuesday, June 15, 1937.

Rose Todd: "I think we are all here now—Anna Richards is on her vacation and Fred Brown is unable to attend today.

"If any of you know of any business that should be taken care of at this meeting, please be sure to bring it up.

"Several of the girls have been talking to me about vacations. I think they have misinterpreted the clause in our working agreement in regard to vacations (which says that anyone who has been employed here for six months consecutively, with a regular attendance record, shall receive one week's paid vacation; and anyone who has been employed here for two years consecutively, with a regular attendance record, shall receive two weeks' vacation with pay).

"We want to make it clear that girls who have worked here for a number of years, have been gone for three or four months and who have been back at work six months, will still get one week's paid vacation.

"Several of the girls have asked Miss Guerrant about this, but I believe she has also misinterpreted the meaning of this. However, if a girl has been here for six months she will get one week's vacation.

"One thing I think we do want to discuss at this meeting is that I believe we should have an article or clause attached to our working agreement regarding a wage scale. I have discussed this with Mr. Baty and they are working out a plan for a definite wage scale, to be submitted to the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union committee. This will be somewhat graduated and will have cer-[fol. 4596] tain classifications to take care of employees who have not been here as long as others. We will work further on this and get it straightened out."

Hobart Atherton: "I would like to ask that the Union furnish me with a gasoline book."

Rose Todd: "Will someone make a motion that we buy Mr. Atherton a $10.00 gasoline book to use in taking care of Union business?

(Motion made that we buy Mr. Atherton a $10.00 gasoline book to be used in taking care of Union business. Motion seconded.)

Motion carried unanimously.

Jack McConaughey: "I would like to ask about seniority rights in regard to vacations. Shouldn't employees who have been here a greater number of years have preference over newer employees in choosing the time they would like to have their vacations? Several people have asked me about this."

Rose Todd: "We will bring this up in a written form and submit to to Mrs. Reed or Mr. Baty. This, of course, does not apply to large groups or sections who take their vacations during slack seasons, but to small groups of employees.

"I intended to talk to the employees in the Shipping Department about their being paid for overtime, but I have not done it as yet. I want to discuss this further with Mr. Baty and will let it go until next week.

"A notice will go out either this afternoon or tomorrow morning in regard to our Union pins. These pins have already been purchased. Everyone that asked for a pin will have to take it. A few may say we didn't buy the pin they wanted and they won't buy the one selected. I think we made it perfectly clear to everyone that the majority would rule and the pin that received the largest number of votes [fol. 4597] was the pin we would buy for our Union pin. So we expect everyone that signed up for a pin to take one.

"The suggestion was made to me by Fred Brown that we send out a note of thanks from the committee expressing our appreciation for the fine cooperation we received from the employees in making our party a success. If this meets with your approval, will someone make a motion that we send out this note of thanks."

(Motion made that we send out a note of thanks expressing our appreciation for the cooperation we received from the employees in making our party a success. Motion seconded.)

Motion carried unanimously.

Rose Todd: "I think the following is something we should ask for (and there isn't any reason why we should not have it) and that is I think we should ask to be paid for every holiday in the year. This will not be deducted from anyone's overtime. I think we should have this and we will ask Mrs. Reed for it.

"I do not think the department heads all realize the Union is functioning. I have talked to Mr. Baty about this, and Mrs. Reed will talk to the department heads. We do not want anyone to feel we are going to the department heads and telling them what to do, but there isn't any reason why we should not make our demands for anything that is reasonable.

"Several weeks ago some of the girls on the 9th floor were paid for working on Decoration Day. Miss Spilsbury called me and said she thought it would be necessary for some of the girls to work Decoration Day (it is always necessary for someone to work then as it always comes at a time when we are getting out a fall line) and she wanted to know if it would be satisfactory, if the girls would rather, for them to get the money instead of taking the time off later."

[fol. 4598] Hobart Atherton: "I think the following is a situation that should be ironed out: I understand that at our party Friday there were certain people who thought that executives were not entitled to attend this party. Since this dance was open to the public the executives had as much right to attend as anyone else. I think some of our people probably thought since this was the first party the Union had given, the C. I. O. might take the opportunity to say it was an employer's organization.

"When the Union gives a dance or party for Union members and their families, executives should not attend, but any dance that is open to the public, the executives are perfectly entitled to attend."

Rose Todd: "Our by-laws do not state who should be members of our Union and who should not be; who should attend our meetings and who should not. I think we should have an amendment added to our by-laws to take care of this question. There isn't any reason why practically all of the employees shouldn't belong to the Union, with the exception of executives (Mr. Keyes, Mrs. Keyes, Mr. Green and Mr. Baty).

"The question also comes up regarding Miss Guerrant —I do not believe she should be entitled to belong to our Union as she is in charge of the Personnel Department and has the authority to hire people. I discussed this with Mr. Tyler and he said he felt we were right about it.

"Another general meeting will be held in a week or two and we will add amendments to our by-laws. We will also discuss the matter of attendance of employees at these meetings and whether a fine should be imposed for non-attendance, except in emergency cases."

Hobart Atherton: "I think department heads, instruc-
[fol. 4599] tors, etc., should have all the privileges of membership except that they shall not be allowed the right to vote."

Rose Todd: "The plant at St. Joseph has been closed temporarily due to seasonal slack in work. Will someone make a motion to the effect that if the plant at St. Joseph is reopened within the year, Mrs. Ellis will remain as representative from that plant?"

(Motion made that if the St. Joseph plant is reopened within the year, Mrs. Ellis will remain as representative from that plant. Motion seconded)

Motion carried unanimously.

Question: "I understand people are saying that we paid Mr. Tyler $500.00 to organize our Union."

Rose Todd: "As you know, and as we have explained quite thoroughly, we paid Mr. Tyler $500.00 retainer's fee. He helped us write up our By-Laws and Working Agreement and will advise us and help us when we need it."

"Is there anything else now to be taken care of? If not, we will adjourn."

Hobart Atherton: "I think we should ask Mr. Tyler if we can be held responsible for any mishap that might befall any guest at a party which we would give at some public place (such as the Pla-Mor) or would they be responsible. If we could be held responsible, I think we should take out insurance to protect ourselves.

"Has anything further been done regarding a newspaper?"

Rose Todd: "A great many feel that we are not financially able to publish a paper at this time.

"If there is no further business, we will adjourn. These meetings will continue to be held in Miss Spilsbury's office unless you are notified to the contrary."

Meeting adjourned.

Rose Todd: "A wage scale has been drawn up and I want each one of you to look at it and read it very thoroughly. Our prices are not being changed in any way.

"I want you to look over this wage scale very carefully and ask any questions and make any suggestions you wish. Please be sure to read it very thoroughly. I don't want anyone to go away saying they don't know what is in it.

"This wage scale is to be effective as of June 7, 1937. This is only a tentative agreement—to take care of our payroll for today.

"We will meet again tomorrow after you have had time to think about it, and if you have any suggestions then, please make them. I think there will be some—I can see several things which I believe can be improved upon."

[fol. 4601] June 18, 1937.

Meeting of Group Chairmen June 18, 1937.

Rose Todd: "The purpose of this meeting is to discuss our wage scale.

"I want each one of you to state your suggestions and tell me just how you feel about this wage scale. My suggestion is this:

"That in Group "2", we should ask them to change the minimum from $15.00 to $16.50. My reason for this is that, as you know, the C.I.O. has definitely stated that in garment companies (not just ours) they will ask for a minimum of $16.00. I think we would be smart to go them one better and make it $16.50. I think Mrs. Reed will agree to this—at least we can ask for it.

"We will leave Group "1" as it is. I would like to be able to ask them to change the minimum from $20.00 to $22.50. I think we are handicapping the new girls on the 8th floor as long as we have 40% that will get a minimum of $25.60; 30% that will get a minimum of $22.50, which is 45¢ over what they are asking. Then the other 30%, even though they come in the $20.00 bracket, that doesn't mean if they have the ability that they cannot earn more than that.

"Our prices are not going to be lowered one bit. They will be kept at a high standard.

"In Group "3", which reads—40%—$18.00
30%— 16.50
30%— 15.00

I would like to ask, if you agree, to change that to—

40%—$18.00
60%— 16.50

This will raise our minimum above any that I know of doing similar work.

[fol. 4602] "In the garment industry, most of the contracts are for $13.00—they do not say they have to pay $13.00.

"I want each of you to feel perfectly free to express your opinions. Mamie, what do you think about this wage scale?"

Mamie Riddle: "I think it would be all right to get away from the $15.00 minimum, then the C.I.O. would not have any comeback. In my section (and it is probably true everywhere) they can make $16.50 as easy as they can make $15.00."

Charlotte Casey: "It seems reasonable to me. The girls are pleased with what they are making. The suggestion was made to me (it wasn't my suggestion) 'why is it that the boys make so much more than the girls'?"

Rose Todd: "I think you all realize you have to have a more skilled person to do cutting than to do dividing. I do not think any girl could turn out the amount of work a man could. I know of factories where they do use girls—I know of some factories where they use both girls and boys. If they will tell you the truth, they will tell you the girls cannot make as much as the men. We can discuss this with them. There are certain types of work that men are better suited to than women."

Fred Brown: "In our wage scale, does it mean if a girl doesn't make the minimum she will be replaced with someone else?"

Rose Todd: "They are rearranging the 8th floor, changing the sectional work. (Some of the girls will just have shoulder joining—some, other types of work.) We know after a certain length of time when we get the work organized it will be much easier for the girls to earn their money. They will do the same type of work all the time, and the prices will be regulated so a girl that does tedious work will be paid more for it. When you get into ace[fol. 4603] tates, rayons, etc., it will take a different type person—sometimes it takes someone who is not so fast but who is very good on tedious work, and the prices will be regulated accordingly."

Fred Brown: "If a new girl comes in does she start out at the minimum wage?"

Rose Todd: "It depends on her experience. No one will start for less than $16.50. Other places are only paying $6.75 for 12 weeks. If they let a girl off for two or three days and she comes back, they can still consider her as a beginner."

Fred Brown: "Take Group "1" for instance—say they have a slack in the better class dresses and would have to work on cheaper merchandise, what about their minimum?"

Rose Todd: "We will make only higher priced dresses on the 8th floor."

Fred Brown: "Do you think there will be any dissension among the girls about this?"

Rose Todd: "I think there will be some discussion as to what group they are to be in. We have gone back over the earnings for weeks past. Take for instance an operator who is under the $22.50 guarantee. If she can operate two or three machines, giving her an opportunity to have year round work, with the exception of slack seasons, certainly that girl deserves more consideration than the girl who can operate only one type machine.

"If over a period of weeks a girl earned more than $20.00, she would automatically be put in the $25.60 group.

"If there is any dissatisfaction among the girls about this, they should feel perfectly free to discuss it with the Union (that is what it is for) or with Mr. Baty."

[fol. 4604] Fred Brown: "I think it would be better to give them something a little bit better than the C.I.O. offers."

Rose Todd: "The minimum the C.I.O. is asking for is $22.05 on better merchandise and $16.00 on cottons."

Sally Ormsby: "Don't you think six months is long enough to figure an average? I know a girl in my section who is the fastest operator we have, but because of a few bad months her average would be lowered."

Rose Todd: "There may be times during the year when a girl cannot earn her minimum."

Sally Ormsby: "The girl I have in mind is the fastest operator we have in the section."

Rose Todd: "You must take into consideration that maybe for three or four months you will have work that is not as fast as others—the company cannot help that. Nelly Don comes as near having year round work as any factory of this type could have."

Sally Ormsby: "I feel there is a month when you cannot make it—when the line changes."

Rose Todd: "I think a girl is entitled to an average over the year."

Mamie Riddle: "I think so too. On Spring work we can work faster and do more—on the Fall line we can't do so much."

Rose Todd: "This wage scale will have to be set as a general rule governing everybody.

"Sally, this girl you refer to may not be the fastest girl on all types of work. I will look into this case individually."

Jack McConaughey: "In regard to the mechanics—what is the basis for the two groups?"

[4605] Rose Todd: "I presume it is an average of their salaries. I will ask about it. Do you have any information?

Jack McConaughey: "It is probably on the basis of their ability—maybe years of service. You do not have the same thing on the cutters' scale. What is the basis for their scale—of getting into one group or the other?"

Rose Todd: "I think ability should enter into that. A person that works out ways of doing things that make it easier, certainly deserves more credit than the one who does not."

Jack McConaughey: "After they have served their apprenticeship are they considered an old cutter?"

Rose Todd: "Our agreement says that the company shall retain the right to give increases in salary and the right of hiring and discharging. I do not think that is unreasonable."

Fred Brown: "I do not understand about spreaders and spreaders' helpers. I do not see why they would make any difference there."

Rose Todd: "You certainly wouldn't turn a new spreader to spreading material without someone to help him."

Fred Brown: "What is the difference between a spreader and spreader's helper and apprentice? I do not see where they would draw the line, unless it would be the length of time they have been here."

Rose Todd: "I will discuss this with Mr. Tyler and see if he cannot word it a little more clearly. If he wants to meet with us, we will have a meeting."

Charlotte Casey: "What about the ticket girls, recut girls and the receiving department? They have all asked me what their minimum would be."

Fred Brown: "One of the porters (on the 5th floor) [fol. 4606] came to me and told me that several of the porters had gotten raises but he was still getting the same salary he got when he was here five months."

Rose Todd: "We will see about that. What we are trying to do now is to get something worked out to take care of the piece work operators. We are still working on the wage scale."

Marjorie Green: "I do not know a great deal about the work downstairs, but this sounds very reasonable to me."

Rose Todd: "Is there anything else to be discussed?"

Fred Brown: "Has the Shipping Department been taken care of as yet?"

Rose Todd: "The Shipping Department and Office will come under the Donnelly Garment Sales Company. They are working on that now."

Fred Brown: "How about the Maintenance Department?"

Rose Todd. That will come under the office group.

"Is there anything else to be discussed? Let's not overlook anything on this. We want to get it straightened out. Mrs. Reed is giving it her personal attention and we want to get it settled. She is going away within the next two or three weeks, depending on how we get this worked out and on the weather."

[fol. 4609] July 14, 1937.

Meeting of Group Chairmen July 14, 1937.

Rose Todd: "There are several matters I want to discuss with you at this meeting. One thing, Mr. Tyler has been talking to me again regarding the D.G.W.U. asking for an injunction again t the I.L.G.W.U. When we have our regular meeting next Tuesday Mr. Tyler will be here and discuss this with us in great detail. He believes now that the company has taken the initial steps it would be smart for us to do the same thing. I want you to be thinking it over and we will discuss it with Mr. Tyler on Tuesday.

"Another thing I believe we should discuss—I have been talking to Fred Brown about this, but I believe we should take a vote on it. I think that the General Chairman and Treasurer of the D.G.W.U., at the present time and in times to come, should be bonded. I believe $1000.00 would be ample, as we will probably never have much more than $1000.00 in the treasury at one time. The cost of these bonds will be $7.50 each or $15.00 per year, this expense to be paid by the Union. If during the year, the officers should change, a new bond would cost an additional $5.00."

(Motion made by Jack McConaughey that the General Chairman and Treasurer of the D.G.W.U. be bonded for $1000.00. Seconded by Marjorie Green.)

Accepted unanimously.

A general discussion was held regarding appointing an Auditing Committee to audit the Union's books twice a year. It was decided that this committee should be comprised of three people, one from the office; one from the inspectors (as we have two on our committee from the [fol. 4610] operators) and one other person. The following committee was submitted for approval:

Bertha Estes, Chairman
Flora Brown
Heath Cowan

(Motion made by Hobart Atherton that we elect Bertha Estes from the office, to act as Chairman; Flora Brown from the inspectors, and Heath Cowan from the Receiving Department to serve as an Auditing Committee and audit the Union's books twice a year (April 27th and October 27th). Seconded by Fred Brown.)

Accepted unanimously.

Rose Todd: "I want to mention one other thing I have discussed with Mr. Tyler and he advises us to put it to a vote, and that is: To have cards printed and given to each employee to sign, requesting the company to take our dues out of the payroll. Will someone please make a motion to this effect?"

(Motion made by Sally Ormsby that we ask the employees to request the company to take our dues of twenty-five cents per month out of the payroll the first pay day in each month. Seconded by Mamie Riddle.)

All in favor make it known by saying 'I'. Opposed 'No'.

(Carried unanimously).

Fred Brown stated that he needed some sort of a file to keep invoices and paid bills in, and permission was given him to go ahead and purchase this file. The cabinet which Miss Todd is now using will be given to Mr. Brown to keep his invoices and bills in.

A general discussion was held regarding the salary which Miss Todd receives from the Union, Miss Todd advising that she believed she could handle this work on her lunch hour and after hours at this time.

[fol. 4611] (Motion made by Marjorie Green that we pay Rose Todd $15.00 per week ($32.50 the first and sixteenth of each month), effective as of June 1st. Seconded by Jack McConaughey.)

Carried unanimously.

Bridge prizes will be given. It will be necessary for those desiring to play cards to make their reservations in advance.

An I.D.M. regarding this party will be sent out within a few days. Also, the Advertising Department will make us some posters to advertise our party.

The price of admission will be the same as last time—25¢ per person.

Rose Todd: "I haven't finished checking up on the money from the dance, as we still have some money out. I will try to finish checking this sometime next week as we want to have our books audited. I don't know as yet just how much money we will have, but think we made a little money on our party.

"We have a few bridge and pinochle cards left from our party which we want to sell (35¢ and 50¢).

"I think we should send Mr. Tyler some money about next week. We haven't received a statement from him as yet but we probably will within a few days.

"Does anyone have anything that should be brought up or taken care of at this meeting? If you do, please be sure to mention it."

Sally Ormsby: "A few of the girls in Section 413 have talked to me about not making their average."

Rose Todd: "If you will give me the names of these girls and the style numbers I will investigate—I won't be able to do it today, but I will see about it the first of next week and get it straightened out.

"Is there any other business to be taken care of? If not, we will adjourn."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4623] November 16, 1937

Meeting of Group Chairmen November 16, 1937

Rose Todd: "I have been checking over the piece work prices on the numbers which were brought up at our meeting of November 12th with some of the girls from the 8th floor, and I will call those girls and go over these changes with them. Some of them should be changed—especially those on long darts, but I think we should wait a little while on some of them as I believe they will work out all right."

Sally Ormsby: "Some of the girls were a little disappointed, I think."

Rose Todd: "If the girls will do their part, I know Mrs. Nichols will do hers. Of course, once in a while there is bound to be a mistake. On that one dress with the six darts in the sleeves, it originally had only four and this was overlooked. If the girls see there is an easier way to handle some of these things, they should bring them up sooner and satisfactory adjustment will be made.

"I have several things on my mind that I want to mention at this meeting.

"First, the Auditing Committee which we appointed some weeks ago, went over the Union books and report that we were twenty-five cents over on our dues. I think this is grand.

"Fred, how much did we make on our dance?"

Fred Brown: "We cleared about $75.00 after all bills were paid."

Rose Todd: "A number of the girls have asked me different things about the trial, and I thought it would be nice to have a meeting and have Mr. Tyler come down and [fol. 4624] explain to us about the trial and the results of it. Thursday is the only day this week he will be able to come and I thought it would be a good idea to have a meeting on the first floor. What do you think about it?"

Sally Ormsby: "Thursday is pay day and most of the girls like to leave on time so they can get their checks cashed."

Rose Todd: "I realize Thursday is pay day, but I think this is of vital importance to all of us and it is the only day Mr. Tyler will be able to come. We will send out a notice notifying the girls so they can make arrangements to stay."

(Motion made by Hobart Atherton that we have a meeting Thursday afternoon on the first floor for the purpose of Mr. Tyler explaining to the members of the Union about the trial. Seconded by Fred Brown.)

Rose Todd: "We haven't received a bill from Mr. Tyler as yet, but I would not be a bit surprised at any amount it would be as he has spent a lot of time and done a lot of work on this trial. Some time ago he even made a trip to Washington for which he has never charged us. During the week of the trial two attorneys from his office were there the entire time. I think our expense will be heavy but I do not think it will be a burden to us.

"Mr. Tyler advises that this case is one that will be written up in law books and is being watched with great interest all over the country. He says that whoever loses this case will very probably take it to the Supreme Court. Or, it could be set aside entirely and in that case it would start all over again with oral testimony and would probably take three or four weeks. If they set aside this intervening petition we can immediately ask for another one.

"If it does get to Washington it will take about a week or ten days to present it and, of course, the lawyers will [fol. 4625] have to be there. If it goes to the Supreme Court no additional information will be added.

"Another thing I would like to bring up is this—I think we should set a definite date for Union meetings—say the first Tuesday in each month at five o'clock. I think the members would rather stay then than go home and come back in the evening. We will put this to a vote at our meeting Thursday evening.

"I understand the company leased this entire building some time back and we should ask them about paying some rent for the use of the space for our meetings."

Marjorie Green: "I think $2.50 or $3.00 would be sufficient. We have to furnish the chairs ourselves in addition to that, which makes it rather expensive."

Rose Todd: "We will write a letter to the company regarding this.

"Does anyone have any other business? Do you think there are enough people here who would be interested in a gym class? How about ice skating—do you think we could get 15 people who would be interested in that? We could get admission tickets for 30 cents if we could guarantee 15 persons. I will send out a notice regarding this."

Sally Ormsby: "Several girls have asked me if they were off the Wednesday before Thanksgiving if they would get paid for Thursday."

Rose Todd: "I do not know about this—I will check up on it before our meeting Thursday and let you know then.

"If there is no further business to be taken care of, the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4626] December 15, 1937.

Meeting of Group Chairmen December 15, 1937.

Rose Todd: "I thought it would be nice if the Chairmen of the Union sent a Christmas Greeting to the different departments, so if it meets with your approval I will send a little note to each department saying you join me in wishing them the very best for the coming year.

"Another thing I have thought of if you approve of the idea—and that is that we should pay our Secretary this month. She has done quite a lot of work in the last six or seven months, so if it meets with your approval will someone make a motion that we pay our Secretary $15.00 this month."

(Motion made by Hobart Atherton that we pay our Secretary $15.00 this month for services rendered. Seconded by Fred Brown.)

Carried unanimously.

Rose Todd: "I think it would be nice if we would plan to have a Valentine's Party—what do you think about it?"

Hobart Atherton: "I believe the N.D.A.A. is planning to have a play the latter part of January. Would that be too close together?"

Rose Todd: "We have always had a Valentine's Party every year as everyone seems to want to have a party then and it is a very easy party to have. The Friday closest to Valentine's is Feb. 11th.

"I will talk to Hugo Kranz regarding the play and see if they can't get busy on it and have it by the latter part of January.

"I will be back from my vacation on January 10th. You will have one meeting while I am gone. Mamie Riddle will be at my desk on the 9th floor from 11:00 to 12:45 each day to take care of anything that might come up. I don't think of anything right now that should be taken up at [fol. 4627] your next meeting, but there will probably be several things before that time."

Hobart Atherton: "I wanted to mention this—we have quite a few temporary employees here—people who have been working out at the Club House and different places and have been here for sometime, and they would like to join our Union."

Rose Todd: "I think we should do something about this, as some of these people have been here from six to eight months."

Hobart Atherton: "I think they should be allowed to join our Union. Of course, they would only pay dues while they are employed here."

Rose Todd: "About seven of these boys have asked me about this in the last week." Let's put it to a vote."

(Motion made by Fred Brown that we ask temporary employees who have been employed here for as long as thirty days to join our Union. Seconded by Sally Ormsby.)

Carried unanimously.

Hobart Atherton: "I don't think we should ask them to buy pins. If they want to that is all right."

Rose Todd: "We have never asked anyone to buy a Union pin—that is optional and left entirely up to them."

Hobart Atherton: "How are we going to take care of the balance of our bill from Mr. Tyler—in monthly payments or wait until we have a larger sum?"

Rose Todd: "I don't think we should worry about this bill. I believe they would rather we pay it in a larger sum than in small amounts.

[fol. 4628] "Fred, when I get back, or while I am gone, if you will give Marjorie Green a list of the salesmen who are late with their dues she will write to them requesting that they bring their dues up to date."

Hobart Atherton: "What do you think about the Union sending a check for $15.00 or $25.00 to the Mayor's Christmas Tree?"

Rose Todd: "What do you think of this? I think it would be very nice. What do you think about $15.00?"

(Motion made by Jack McConaughey that we send a check for $15.00 to the Mayor's Christmas Tree. Seconded by Sally Ormsby.)

Carried unanimously.

Hobart Atherton: "What do you think about the Union starting a Credit Union?"

Rose Todd: "I have thought about this quite a bit and have talked to several people about it. Also talked to one of the men at the Missouri Credit Association. Have talked to several people about it and have been trying to get different opinions on it.

"There would be considerable work attached to it, and if we should start anything like that we want to go into it very carefully and check it thoroughly."

Hobart Atherton: "I believe we could make about $3000.00 per year on it."

Rose Todd: "To do anything like this would require one person's entire time and it would have to be someone who is a good bookkeeper. We would probably have to pay them about $100.00 per month.

"Several of the girls downstairs have asked me about starting a Christmas Savings. One of the sections has a [fol. 4629] Christmas Savings, and the way they handle it is to elect two girls to take care of it and collect from the girls and deposit the money under one name. I think this is all right for the sections to do something like this but we couldn't handle anything of that kind.

"I think we should give this Credit Union some more thought and find out all we can about it. If we should start anything of this kind we certainly would have to have a good strong board of directors as you will always have a certain percentage of people who are not satisfied with the way you handle things. I believe we should give this some more very serious thought before doing anything definite about it.

"Another thing, we have corresponded with Mr. Green and he advises that $3.00 per meeting will be satisfactory rent for us to pay for the space used for our meetings, to be paid at the end of our fiscal year.

"Is there any other business to be brought up? If not, the meeting will stand adjourned."

[fol. 4640] March 4, 1938

Meeting of Group Chairmen March 4, 1938

Rose Todd: "As you know, our general meeting is next Tuesday evening, so if any of you know of anything we should bring up at this meeting, please be sure to mention it.

"I thought you would be interested to know that our ice skating party last Tuesday night turned out very well. We made our expenses and a little over.

"There are still a number of people I haven't asked to join our Union. I will see these people before our meeting Tuesday evening.

"I was talking to Mr. Tyler a few day ago and he advises our case comes up in the Supreme Court sometime during the two weeks following March 28th, which would be about the first two weeks in April. We will possibly have a little more expense, so what do you think about our taking this up at our meeting Tuesday evening and discuss raising the money to pay the balance of our bill to Mr. Tyler? I would like to get this bill cleaned up, and my suggestion would be to pay one-half of it in March and one-half in April. This would cost each of us about $1.00, or 50 cents in March and 50 cents in April. Of course, it will be necessary for Mr. Tyler to be in Washington when our case is heard there—I don't know whether this was included in the bill which he has already rendered us. What do you think of this plan? Let's think it over and we will discuss it further at our meeting Tuesday.

(Chairmen agreed unanimously that they believed this would be a good plan and thought the employees would be glad to take care of the balance of Mr. Tyler's bill in this way)

[fol. 4641] "Mr. Tyler also advised me it was necessary to have some briefs printed. The reason the C. I. O. didn't have to stand this expense was because they didn't think it had any bearing on the case. If the Supreme Court decides it does have bearing on the case, then they will have to pay for it. If not, we will be obliged to pay it.

"A number of people have asked me if it wouldn't be possible for us to have our meetings at 4:30 instead of 5:00, having the people who work until 5:00 o'clock come in a little earlier or take a shorter lunch period. I discussed this with Mr. Tyler and he didn't think it advisable to do this. After all, we only have these meetings once a month, so let's all get as many people out as we possibly can.

"As you know, our dance is March 25th. Let's get behind this and sell as many tickets as we can. When do you think we should put our tickets on sale? I think we should get them out by Friday, March 11th.

"The election of new officers will come up at our meeting in April, so that will take up most of our time at that meeting.

"Miss Berning was talking to me (and I believe she had discussed it with Miss Spilsbury) in regard to having Miss Spilsbury show us the moving pictures which she took on her trip to South America. I am sure she would be glad to show these pictures at one of our meetings if we would like for her to. Since our election of officers comes up at our April meeting, it would probably be May before we could have her show these pictures.

"Mr. Price was telling me something about a very interesting talk some man gave before the N. D. A. A. Fred, will you tell us something about this?"

Fred Brown: "This man was from the Investment Syndicate and his talk concerned money management and [fol. 4642] what they are doing to establish a course in schools throughout the country to teach children how to manage and handle their money after they earn it."

Rose Todd: "I thought it would be nice to have something like this at our meetings before long.

"Do you know of any other business we should bring up at our meeting Tuesday evening?

"Don't you think it would be a good idea to read our by-laws at this meeting? We have quite a number of new employees, and no doubt quite a few of the older employees would like to hear them again.

"If there is no further business, the meeting will stand adjourned."

Meeting adjourned.

[fol. 4640] May 3, 1938

Meeting of Group Chairmen May 3, 1938

Rose Todd: "I don't believe there is a great deal of business to be taken care of today.

"I want to tell you a few things we have tried to remember in the past. Anything you hear in the way of complaints, or any suggestions you have to make that would make our organization any stronger and help keep it active, please be sure to mention them.

"I feel that we have this Union and we should always have it and we should always keep it active and going. We have learned a great deal and we still have a lot yet to learn. I think this organization should be maintained as long as the Donnelly Garment Company is in existence. It is a good thing for the employees and a good thing for the Company, and I think we should work to keep it active.

"At our last meeting of the chairmen we discussed having a party of the old and new officers. What do you people think of a steak fry or weenie roast, or would you rather have a chicken dinner? Of course, a chicken dinner would cost us a little more. What do you think would be best? And what night would be suitable for all of you?

(It was decided to have a steak fry at the Club House Thursday evening, May 12th, each person having the privilege of inviting one guest)

"Our next general meeting will be Tuesday, May 10th, and I thought it would be nice if we would ask Mr. Tyler to come down and talk to us, as we are all anxious to hear about our case.

"One other thing I do want to mention to you is this. At different times several people have asked me if it [fol. 4647] would be possible for our Union to have a savings and loan account. At the present time I think we should keep our money in the bank, but maybe a little later on we could do something like that. I talked to Mr. May at the First National Bank about this and he will let us know if they can work out something that we could use, and maybe at some time in the near future we can handle something of this kind.

"I think from now on we will have our chairmen meetings in the auditorium on the first floor.

"If there is nothing else, the meeting will stand adjourned."

Meeting of Group Chairmen July 5, 1938

A very short meeting of the chairmen was held Tuesday afternoon, July 5th, at 4:30, for the purpose of Mr. Tyler meeting the new members of the committee.

This meeting was very brief as Mr. Tyler was to talk to us at our general meeting at 4:45.

Mr. Tyler suggested that we make a note to get together about sixty days before our contract with the company expires for the purpose of working out a new contract.

[fol. 4709] (Board's Exhibit 18.)

Date 6/27/39—Witness Greenhan.

Minutes of meeting of Donnelly Garment Workers' Union, May 25th, 1937, at 3:45 p. m.

Rose Todd: This meeting has been called very hurriedly. We were to have chairs at 3:30; they were to be here at 3:30, but it takes a few minutes to get them and set them up and it takes a few minutes to get you all down here, but I didn't know there were none until I came down. However, the meeting won't last very long, so if you will be patient I am sure we can get through before very long.

I want to tell you this is going to be two meetings, the first being a meeting of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union and after that a meeting of the Loyalty League.

No doubt some of you heard that yesterday in 411 and 412 I passed out your union cards and the remainder of them will be given to you as quickly as we can take care of them. I expect to get some of it done tomorrow—it will probably take two more days to finish.

I want to read an article to you in the noon paper. Some of you I know have read it and some haven't:

Clipping

That is increasing their amount quite a bit in two weeks. But I still can't feel they are going to sign up enough people in here to call a strike.

[fol. 4710] For your people in here working—I want to advise you to work quietly. In the first place, I don't know just what I would do if anybody asked me to join the C. I. O.

I think you will all be interested in knowing this—a number of people have been asking me if our working agreement has been sent to Mrs. Reed. A number have asked if it shouldn't be there and if we needed it and I have tried to explain our working agreement is being drawn up by Mr. Tyler and I want to tell you now I went down to see him and it will be finished and in Mrs. Reed's hands this afternoon or in the morning. I don't know the time. It first has to go through the mails.

No doubt you noticed in our little paper published last week, we want to have a dance at the Plamor on the night of June 11th—that is Friday night. I am going to ask Hobart Atherton to explain to you why we are having this dance.

Hobart Atherton: I think I said the last time I talked to you that I was mad. I have been mad several times since.

There seems to be a little misunderstanding as to why the Loyalty League needs this money and a little later on I will explain that to you.

We are going to have this dance June 11th at the Plamor to be given under the auspices of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union. As you all know we have a lot of people on the outside who are very friendly to us and we have been advised that it would be a very good thing to give something that these friends can attend to show their [fol. 4711] appreciation and give their support to that which they feel they want to.

At this dance we are going to have a few carnival booths so those who don't want to dance can have the opportunity to do something else.

I don't know anything else I can tell you about the dance that you don't already know, so I will turn the mike back over to Miss Todd.

Miss Todd: If any of you have any questions you want to ask about the dance, I think this would be a very opportune time to do it.

I think we should all understand that we are primarily having this dance because a great many of our outside friends would like to know us as a group of employees. It would give us an opportunity to have a nice time and make new friends.

If there is any business pending of the Union, please bring it up now. If there isn't, I want to close this and open it as a Loyalty meeting.

I might tell you this—we will have our tickets for the dance ready to go on sale about Thursday or Friday of this week. I don't believe we can make it much sooner.

If there isn't any further Union business to take care of at this time I would like to hear a motion that the meeting be adjourned, but please don't leave the room.

Question: Aren't there to be cards as well at the dance?

Miss Todd: We will have card tables and cards for anybody who wants to play cards and the booths to lend [fol. 4712] carnival spirit and give us something besides dancing and cards.

Any further questions? I don't want you to get tired but I do want to answer further questions.

A motion has been made that we adjourn our Union meeting and immediately open our Loyalty meeting. Second.

The meeting adjourned.

Meeting of the Loyalty League May 25th, 1937

Miss Todd: There have been several things come up that the Loyalty League will be interested in. Mainly about this sweepstakes. I think some of the people understand it and some do not and a great many people have expressed to me the desire "Let's not do that." We will talk about it a little. I will ask Hobart to make a talk and then I will ask Miss Hartman to give you a report of our finances.

First, at each meeting I have made it clear that the Loyalty League has only one bill—not "bills". And that isn't a bill we have to be worried about and it isn't a bill that has to be taken care of immediately.

Yesterday we found out before our meeting and a representative also went last night, that it was impossible to rent the floor of this building for a carnival. We weren't [fol. 4713] faced with any alternative. It took so much to rent the Plamor for another meeting and so last night a meeting of the representatives of the Loyalty League was held with the representatives of the Athletic Association and we discussed holding this derby and very hurriedly in the last few minutes we cancelled the derby entirely.

Now, I want everyone who has any question to ask about our indebtedness, I want you to ask them. I will ask Miss Hartman to come up and read the financial report.

Report read by Miss Hartman.

Miss Todd: I am going to ask Hobart to explain where our indebtedness is and I will talk to you and give you an opportunity to ask questions about it.

Hobart Atherton: As Miss Todd has already told you, we only have one debt of the Loyalty League. A good many of you seem to be under the impression we have accumulated quite a lot of bills as we have gone along but we have only one.

You all realize when this agitation first started, we didn't have any union started and it was up to some organization to take the initial step to protect our rights as employees of the Donnelly Garment Company. So the Loyalty League had a meeting of the representatives and were authorized by the representatives to retain legal counsel. We retained Mr. Tyler, as you all know. He came down here and talked to us. That debt, the bill of [fol. 4714] Mr. Tyler is the only debt the Loyalty League has which has not been paid and as Miss Todd told you, that isn't pressing. We want to pay it but we don't have to do it right off hand as some may have been given the impression we have to.

That bill amounts to approximately $500.00, as that is his retainer's fee. That may sound like a lot of money off-hand but when you consider the number of people we have—1200 people, to be conservative—divided into $500.00, makes a cost of approximately forty-five cents each, which is mighty cheap attorney's fees.

Five hundred dollars is $50,000

Miss Todd: Now I want several of you to ask any questions about anything you want to know about the Loyalty League's finances. Please don't go away without somebody asking about it, because I haven't been able to answer questions fast enough all afternoon.

I think it was very unjust and thoughtless for someone to say, "I just work here, I don't know anything about these bills." As I said at the last meeting, we haven't any secrets. We are all working here. It is everybody's business. There is only one person who doesn't work here and that is Mrs. Reed. She owns the business. Don't feel timid about asking questions. We are all just one employee talking to another.

Question: Some of the girls were under the impression the Union was to pay that.

Miss Todd: I am glad you asked that. The Union [fol. 4715] will have to take care of Mr. Tyler's expenses from now on. I told you in our last meeting I didn't know what his services were and I don't know now. I talked to him again and made him this proposition—we would pay him a retainer fee of $500.00 but I certainly can asure you if we get into court with this thing, and we very likely will, that we will probably have to have more money during the year. We asked him to draw up our by-laws at that time. We asked what our dues were to be—twenty-five cents a month is very nominal. But the Loyalty League, thrugh the officers of the Loyalty League, assumed this responsibility—this retainer's fee, but as Mr. Atherton said, it was the only organization the employees had, and I felt as long as we had that organization we certainly were privileged to go ahead and do something about it. We had to protect ourselves.

We are just beginning on this thing, so don't let's get rusty already. If anybody is interested in joining the Union, you don't want to let me know. If you are interested, you had better keep quiet about it. There has never been any force about belonging to the Loyalty League. Anybody is privileged to belong or not belong. As far as belonging to the Union is concerned, you don't have to belong to that either. But one of these days they are going to work for a closed shop and I think we are going to get it. So you had better belong then.

I haven't any doubt about a few who have joined the Union. I think in time they will give themselves away about that. But we want to be fair and square.

Question: Won't everyone be willing to give fifty cents to pay that debt?

[fol. 4716] Miss Todd: I am going to say that we think this thing over a while. Mrs. from Section 411 has just made a suggestion that if each of us give fifty cents we will have enough in our treasury to take care of this indebtedness.

Applause.

Miss Todd: I think that is grand spirit to show. May I hear a motion then to the effect that each member of the Loyalty League donate fifty cents to take care of any current indebtedness we have.

Lena Lewis moved each member of the Loyalty League pay fifty cents to take care of any current indebtedness we have.

Seconded by Louie James.

Miss Todd: I think right here in this meeting we will ask each representative to accept this money and keep close check. This is purely voluntary, if you want to do it, all right. If you don't want to do it, all right.

The sweepstakes, or derby as we call it—we will forget it.

This meeting right here takes care of the only thing we were concerned about, that is the derby and that is taken care of. Our dance we talked of in the last meeting and we will have a picnic one of these days. We have had lots of nice times and they haven't cost anything and I am sure you feel real good about it and I do too.

There is one more thing—a great many people haven't carried their identification cards. Please bring them. They are getting fussy about us getting in down stairs and I don't blame them.

[fol. 4717] I think we better put it to a vote—all in favor of donating fifty cents for the Loyal League indebtedness make it known by the usual sign. Carried.

I think one of the boys should come up and tell us what has been done at the picnic grounds. I think everybody would like to know. Will some of the boys come up and tell us what shape the picnic grounds are in; whether we have water and so on?

While he is coming up I will tell you, last night in our meeting of the Chairmen, I resigned as President of the Loyalty League and we elected a new President, Thelma (?) Hufaker, in Section 411.

Fred Brown: The Picnic grounds aren't in very good shape right now. We have weeds about knee high and two ovens and three tables now, but when the time comes to have a picnic I think we will have another oven or two built and I think we will have to get the boys out there and cut those weeds. That is the shape it is in right now.

Miss Todd: Is there any other business to come before the Loyalty League. If not, you can give your fifty cents to the representative in your department. If you want to give a dime at a time, that is all right.

Now I want to introduce Miss Hufaker, your new President.

Miss Hufaker: Girls and fellow workers. This is quite an honor to me. To the best of my ability I will carry on, the best I know how. Thank you.

Miss Todd: If there is no other business, the meeting is adjourned.

[fol. 4718] Mr. Atherton: I don't want this meeting to break up without giving to Miss Todd a big hand for what she has done.

Applause.

Miss Todd: I appreciate that very much and I will try to do my best.

The meeting adjourned.

DONNELLY WORKER WILL BE SENT TO UNION CONVENTION

Garment Organization Seeking Support for Strike at Plant.

Sylvia Hull, an employe of the Donnelly Garment company, has been named a delegate from Kansas City to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union biennial convention May 3 at Atlantic City, Meyer Peristein, regional director, announced Thursday.

The Donnelly worker, according to Peristein, was one of a committee from that garment company who appeared Wednesday night before a joint group representing various Kansas City locals and requested representation at the national convention.

Peristein said the Donnelly committee desired one of their number to appear at the convention and ask the international body to indorse and support a strike against their employer for failure to negotiate a contract for higher wages, shorter hours and improved conditions. The Kansas City joint committee, Peristein asserted, agreed to pay all expenses of the Donnelly delegate.

Other delegates from Kansas City are

Cinderella Robinson and Grace Ballard, members of local No. 230 [illegible] Ladies' Garment Workers' union; Lodine Smith, local No. [illegible] Leavenworth Cloak Workers' union; Alice Davis, local No. 116, employed by the Williamsburg Garment company; Arlene Gaither, local No. 178, employed by the Gordon Brothers Manufacturing company; Ora Thompson and Annie Vaughan, local No. 269, employes of the Hart-Shaffner-Prins company, and Miss Wave Tobin, business representative of the Kansas City locals.

Peristein said the executive committee of the various local unions in Kansas City would meet Thursday afternoon to consider a resolution calling on the national organization to appropriate funds to carry on a strike at the Donnely plant.

The delegates from this section will meet April 30 in St. Louis to go to Atlantic City by special train. Peristein will be a delegate from St. Louis. The convention will last two weeks.

REOPEN A GARMENT FEUD

UNION PLANS TO SEEK DONNELLY COMPANY RECOGNITION.

Regional Director Says the International Headquarters Will Give Financial Backing to Campaign.

The feud between David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, and James A. Reed, former United States senator, was reopened yesterday with the announcement that the union plans a campaign to organize workers in the Donnelly Garment Company, founded and owned by Mrs. Reed.

Meyer Perlstein, of St. Louis, regional director of the union, said that the international headquarters had appropriated a large sum to be spent in the drive seeking recognition of the I. L. G. W. U. as the collective bargaining agent in the Donnelly Garment Company.

Dubinsky, who exchanged words with Mr. Reed several times in the presidential campaign last fall, will arrive next week to attend a dinner next Friday night at the Hotel Muehlebach of union officials and officers of the Liberty Frocks, Inc., and the Stern-Siegman-Prins Company, which recently signed union agreements here.

A LETTER TO COMPANY.

"We are going to send a letter to the Donnelly Garment Company within the week suggesting a conference to establish collective bargaining on the questions of wages and working hours," Mr. Perlstein said. "If the firm refuses, we'll go to the consuming public of the country and advise buyers of the wages and hours prevailing there now."

The regional union director, who will remain in Kansas City to supervise the organization campaign, said the minimum wage in this section for women making silk dresses is $22.80, working a 5-day week. He said the Donnelly Garment Company employees receive a minimum of $15 weekly, and that they are working forty-five hours weekly now.

Mr. Perlstein announced that Miss Jane Walker Palmer, 4040 Bellefontaine avenue, a graduate of the Kansas City School of Law in 1932, started work yesterday organizing an educational campaign for members of the union.

After-work classes in music, art, economics, public speaking, trade unionism, parliamentary law, and dramatics will be offered the members. The board of education will be asked to furnish teachers, Mr. Perlstein said.

THE CAMPAIGN LIMITS.

Part of the union's campaign directed against the Donnelly Garment Company will be to send six women to cities and towns where its garments are said "advising retailers and labor organizations," Mr. Perlstein said. Miss Palmer will have charge of this squad of field workers.

The union claims only twenty-five members among the Donnelly workers, but officials said "hundreds of others are related to union members."

"Within a year we'll have it completely organized," Mr. Perlstein said. "As soon as we have enough members, we'll call a strike. This will be in addition to carrying our side to the consumers."

Last November, Dubinsky announced a nation-wide drive to organize 80,000 clothing workers, and announced that an office would be set up in Kansas City because the union "wants to give Jim Reed a break."

Approximately 1,200 persons are employed by the Donnelly Garment Company. In a statement made last fall Mr. and Mrs. Reed said the minimum wage paid was $15 a week, that many employees made from $20 to $25 a week, and that some workers received as high as $80 weekly.

They said that under the NRA code Gen. Hugh Johnson investigated the company's books, pay rolls and working conditions, and decided its wages were higher than those they would have received under the different schedules of the NRA code. General Johnson even authorized a reduction of wages, which was never put into effect, their statement said.

ment along the lines of economic improvement and control of work conditions for the whole of our international union. It has been the forerunner of every great reform in the women's garment trades—from the day it first introduced genuine collective bargaining and responsibility for work conditions in the shops to the recent period when it first legislated into the life of this industry jobber control, contractor limitation and took the lead in national standardization of employment terms through the formation of the voluntary recovery board and through the promotion of its label on coats and suits which is operative in every market in the country.

Demands Justified

"Your Committee subscribes to the demands for a 35-hour week and for a substantial increase in wages. The cloak trade solely for their livelihood, and it will contribute to the lengthening of the work seasons and thereby add a little greater economic security to the lives of the cloakmakers. The argument that the cloak industry cannot stand a 35-hour week, we are convinced, holds no water. They used to say it when the 35-hour week was about to be introduced. Nevertheless, the cloak manufacturers and jobbers are making today greater profits than they ever made.

"Your Committee calls upon this Convention to rally behind those cardinal demands of the New York Cloakmakers' Union the entire material and moral force of our great International body. We do not have to instruct our general officers to assist the Cloakmakers' Joint Board in the negotiations with the cloak manufacturers' association. This labor are already doing with President Dubinsky at the head. But while the conferences for the renewal of the agreements are proceeding thus far uninterruptedly, a break or crisis in these negotiations may ensue at any hour and the Union may be put to the great task of enforcing its demands through a general strike.

Entire Resources

"It is for the event of such an emergency that your Committee is calling upon this Convention to line up like a solid wall behind the 35,000 cloakmakers in the metropolitan district of New York and help them to victory. No effort should be too great, no sacrifice too hard for us to protect the living and working conditions of this magnificent division of workers in our organization, to win for them the essential improvements which this Resolution calls for.

"Your Committee moves the adoption of this Resolution."

Vice-President Ziegler: "Realizing the intenseness of the hour and taking into consideration the fact that the delegates have had an opportunity to listen to the report that I submitted in behalf of the 35,000 cloakmakers whom I have the honor and privilege to represent, I rise at this moment merely to express, not only in my name but in the name of all the delegates representing the Cloakmakers' Joint Board in the City of New York and the thousands of men and women comprising this splendid organization, our appreciation to the Committee on Resolutions for their fine and splendid report and recommendations. I am sure that all the delegates will vote as one for this recommendation."

SUN TAN

Though sessions were long and prolonged many of the delegates managed to accumulate a tan that will make the folks back home think the Convention was held in the tropics.

in which they are engaged, work harmoniously together, and no decision and no restrictions could change that situation.

"What I said with regard to what existed in former years, I hope and I am sure will continue as long as our Unions continue to exist. Though we may disagree on certain things at present within the American labor movement, that traditional relationship and the cooperative spirit and the admiration that we have for that organization and for its great leader will always remain."

"It is because of this and because of our real and sincere desire that that spirit shall continue, that this friendship should be everlasting, that I am glad he is with us today and that I have the honor and privilege of presenting to our Convention a true statesman of American labor, the President of the Amalgamated, Sidney Hillman!"

of the fight. Delegates, today in this hall, no question on this matter exists any more. The mass production industries are being organized and will be organized. Unless there is organization of those industries, none of us will survive. We will not be permitted to live and enjoy the American standard of living and enjoy the liberties that we enjoy today unless labor is fully organized.

"We have shown in the last year and a half what can be done. What the ILGWU did under the leadership of David Dubinsky, what the United Mine Workers did under the leadership of John L. Lewis, what the Amalgamated has done, could have been done in the major industries of the land. I challenge anyone to contradict me.

"I have been given the privilege of heading the drive in the great textile industry, and remember, the textile industry affects every industry in the country. You cannot Court plan is making another definite plea for independence of the three branches of government.

"The independence of each of the three branches of government is found only in the exclusive powers granted by the Constitution to each of them. These powers include independence in each branch to interpret its own powers. This is fundamental to independence. One branch cannot be subject to the views of another and be independent. The Supreme Court, which has exclusive power only to try cases in which public ministers and States are parties, should have complete independence to interpret its own powers in this field, because its authority is made exclusive by the Constitution. Likewise, Congress, if it is an independent branch of the government, must interpret its powers and authority on subjects of legislation committed to its discretion by the Constitution, such as commerce, the general welfare, the common defense, taxes. Over these subjects the Court has no jurisdiction, except as Congress may give it authority. If doubt exists as to the precise meaning of commerce or the general welfare, Congress may interpret their meaning for legislative purposes, for Congress has exclusive power in this field. These are made legislative, not judicial subjects by the Constitution.

"American labor respects the law. It respects judicial processes. During the desperate distress of the depression, American labor, with other groups of citizens who constitute the national community, maintained public order by respect for and voluntary obedience to the law, notwithstanding that during those years of intense suffering, of unemployed labor, great corporations and individuals with large incomes openly violated or secretly evaded acts of Congress.

"Out of this experience we are moved to declare that the legislative method is the democratic and peaceable method of working out economically sound industrial relations and the establishment of economically desirable working and living standards.

"For these reasons we exercise the right of citizens to demand of their representatives in Congress that the recommendations of the President, clearly foreshadowed in the issues of the recent election, be speedily enacted into law."

DUBINSKY STARTS UNION DRIVE IN K.C. GARMENT PLANTS

Political Animus Toward Reed Is Disavowed at Dinner.

Picture on Picture Page.

Answering many of the charges hurled at him by James A. Reed during the presidential campaign, David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union, Saturday officially launched a movement to organize the Donnelly Garment company, controlled by Mrs. James A. Reed.

Dubinsky, speaking before more than 700 union members in the little theater of the Municipal auditorium, outlined what he considered to be the need for organizing all Kansas City garment factories, including the Donnelly concern.

"Mr. Reed said many harsh things about me during the recent political campaign," Dubinsky said, "but all that is past and I shall deal with him only as a maker of dresses. He shall be treated with consideration during our movement to organize his workers, regardless of the stand he takes."

Dubinsky said that "Reed hates Dubinsky, but all nonunion employers hate Dubinsky because he stands for hither wages."

Refers to Hitler.

Dubinsky also defended the president's plan for reorganizing the United States supreme court, asserting the opponents were the same group who opposed Roosevelt's reelection.

"The election November 3 should be considered a mandate by the people for the changes proposed by Mr. Roosevelt since they voted for him knowing that he would do whatever was possible to help them."

Dubinsky said that Reed would receive a polite letter within a few days inviting him to confer with Kansas City labor leaders about signing a union contract.

"If he refuses to meet with us, we shall start our campaign," the union president said. "It may take a long time to organize the Donnelly company plant, but we will win out in the end, as all the 240,000 members of our organization are behind us."

Install Officers.

Dubinsky said that his union had about 1,200 members in Kansas City, and that only the Donnelly company and three or four smaller concerns remained to be organized.

At the conclusion of the meeting he installed officers in the new local union which was chartered at the Stern-Siegman-Prins company when that concern signed a union contract.

The officers are Omar Rose, president; Ethel Foster, vice president; Ann Herrig, secretary-treasurer, and Joe Easton, sergeant-at-arms.

Other speakers were M. Perlstein, Kansas City regional director of the union, and Ben Gilbert, St. Louis regional director.

Respondent's Exhibit 7.

Refers to Hitler.

Discussing the report that employes of the Donnelly company signed a pledge of allegiance to their employers, Dubinsky said:

"I also read in the papers yesterday that all the Germans swore loyalty to Hitler.

"In the presidential campaign Mr. Reed called me a Bolshevik and said many other uncomplimentary things about me. You would imagine that I had long whiskers, a pocket crammed with bombs and did nothing else but wave a red flag.

"The Bolshevik charge is old stuff. Nonunion employers always call their employes such names when they ask for a raise in pay.

"Mr. Reed also said I sent money to Spain. Of course I did. But the Spanish government never got a cent. It all went to the Red Cross and Mr. Reed knows it."

Donnelly Garment Company
1828 Walnut Street
Kansas City, Missouri

Gentlemen:

The Kansas City members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union feel compelled to place before you the following grievances that should be adjusted immediately.

Fifteen members of our Union were discharged by your firm because of their affiliations with our organization. Their case was up before the National Labor Relations Board. During the period the hearings took place the NRA was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States and the Government could proceed no further. The discharged workers have not as yet been returned to work by your firm.

The Dress Industry, in which your firm is engaged, is highly unionized throughout the country. Nearly every producer of dresses is in contractual relations with our Union. The 150,000 Union workers employed in this industry are enjoying a 5-day, 35-hour working week and a $22.05 per week minimum wage scale for operators, and reasonable, fair minimum scales for finishers, pressers, cutters, et cetera. Piece workers, who compose the majority of workers in your shop as well as in the industry, are enjoying the right, through committees selected by them, of having an equal voice with the management in each shop in determining the piece rates for each garment or operation on a garment.

The workers in most of the industry enjoy the freedom and rights of organization. Collective bargaining has been established as a permanent institution. These are the conditions and wage scales in the organized industry.

However, in your shop the minimum wage scale for operators is between $12.50 and $15.00 per week.

The wage scales for finishers, pressers and cutters are at least 30 per cent lower than those that exist in the industry.

The hours of work in your shop are 40 and more per week.

Your workers are denied the right of joining a labor organization, and those who do, are immediately discharged. Your workers are denied the privileges of genuine collective bargaining. The piece workers in your shop have no voice as to what the piece rates should be as they are set exclusively by representatives of your firm.

[fol. 4867] The conditions and wages under which your employees are working not only deprive them of the privileges and opportunities enjoyed by the workers in this industry, but endanger their general work standards and wage scales. Your firm has undue and unjustified advantages over your competitors. The Union believes in "Fair Competition," but it does not consider competition fair when it is gained solely at the expense of the workers.

Under your system of production, workers are compelled to invest extraordinary effort, but the reward that follows is very meager in proportion to the efforts invested. Under modern methods of production such treatment of workers is not only wrong from the humane point of view, but also destructive from the economical point of view. In comparison with other shops in the industry which produce the same type of garment the production in your shop is about 30 per cent higher while the earnings of the workers are about 30 per cent lower.

We, therefore, believe that a conference between our Union and your firm, for an adjustment of these grievances, should take place immediately. The Union has named a committee which stands ready to meet a similar committee named by your firm.

May we respectfully request that you advise us before the end of this week as to when and where it would be convenient for you to meet our Conference Committee.

Our aim is industrial peace. We believe in intelligent co-operation between employer and employee. Such cooperation is essential for the welfare of all factors in industry, including the consuming public and community at large. Peace and harmony prevail in the major part of the Dress Industry and we are eager to extend this co-operation to include your firm. Let us join hands to avoid industrial conflict.

Respectfully yours,

Selmor Garment of St. Louis Signs Union Agreement

Novelty Frocks Also Joins Union List

Unionization work in St. Louis, held up for two weeks while the ILGWU convention was in progress in Atlantic City, was resumed at full tempo this week, according to advices received from Meyer Peristein, at the Union's Southwestern headquarters in that city.

In a message to President Dubinsky, dated May 21, Peristein writes:

"Signed today closed shop agreement with Selmor Garment Company, underwear shop employing 175 people. Also signed agreement with Novelty Frocks, a smaller shop, with 30 people.

"Conferred twice with National Underwear Corporation which has been on strike for several months. Endeavoring to reach settlement."

Wm. Green Denies Lewis Charge in Letter to Dubinsky

Before the adjournment of the Wednesday, May 12, session of the Convention, President Dubinsky received a telegram from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in which he took sharp exception to several remarks in the speech of John L. Lewis, delivered on that day before the ILGWU delegates.

President Dubinsky refrained from commenting on the message from President Green, but read the telegram to the convention at the morning session on Thursday, May

"Washington, D. C.,

"David Dubinsky, President, International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union Convention, Chelsea Hotel, Atlantic City, N. J.: I was amazed when I read a report of the address delivered by President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America at the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union yesterday, which quoted him as saying that I had demanded that Governor Murphy, of Michigan 'not permit any settlement of the strike with the CIO or the United Automobile Workers.' That statement is false and because it is false I prefer to believe that Mr. Lewis lacked proper understanding of the telephone conversation I held with Governor Murphy when he made it. I most emphatically deny that charge and resent with all the power at my command the other allegation made by Mr. Lewis, as reported in the press, that General Motors could probably get the support of the president of the American Federation of Labor. I offer as an answer to this unwarranted allegation my life's record of service to the cause of organized labor. May I supplement this foregoing denial with a protest against a statement made in the address by Mr. Lewis 'that the lack of unity in the labor movement did not seem to be such a bad thing.' Such a statement might well be made by an avowed enemy of labor for division, discord and hatred can injure labor when the opposition of hostile employers fails. I plead for unity, solidarity and co-operation within the ranks of labor and I am willing to render any service that lies within my power in an effort to bring about this result.

(Signed)
"WILLIAM GREEN,
"President, American Federation of Labor."

Convention Supports Cloakmaker Demands

Lines Up Solidly For Wage Increases and 30-Hour Week

Full support for the New York Cloakmaker organization in its negotiations for a new contract to succeed the one expiring June 1 was voted by the Convention when the Committee on Resolutions brought in a recommendation. Specific mention is made of the 30-hour week and wage raise demands. The entire moral and financial power of the International will be placed behind the cloakmakers in the eventuality of a general strike.

The proceedings discussing cloakmaker support follow:

"Your Committee gives its wholehearted and undivided endorsement to the demands of the great organization of the cloakmakers in the New York market as it is now entering upon the decisive stage of negotiations with the employers' associations in this industry for the renewal of collective agreements to replace the current contracts which expire on June 1st.

"Your Committee is fully aware of the significance attached to the renewal of these contracts in so highly important an industry as the manufacture of coats and suits and the bearing which it has on the general structure of work-hours and wage scales in our entire industry. The New York Cloakmakers' Union has consistently over a period of three decades blazed the trail of progress and achievement along the lines of economic improvement and control of work conditions for the whole of our industry.

"We are convinced of the industrial soundness of the demands of the New York Cloak Organization which it proposes to embody in the new agreements with the employers. There is not a vestige of doubt in our minds that the cloak workers of New York are entitled to the 20 per cent wage raise which is put forth by the conference committee of the Union. This resolution voices an incontrovertible truth when it asserts that the steadily rising cost of living has made such an increase imperative. The mark-up on all necessities of living is soaring to alarming proportions. Rent, food, clothing, and the smaller needs of existence cost today a great deal more than they cost in 1935 when the present contracts in the coat and suit industry were signed. To meet his modest annual budget, the cloakmaker must have his earnings raised, and his organization, the New York Cloakmakers' Union, should exert every effort to win this demand from the employers.

30-Hour Week Sound

"Equally justified is the demand for a shorter work-week, for the 30-hour week. Unemployment, or partial employment, is a curse upon industry in general but it is tragedy when it afflicts a seasonal industry such as the cloak trade. Unemployment in the cloak industry means sentencing thousands of people to misery and hunger. The 30-hour week will eliminate this deplorable unemployment of work people who depend upon the cloak trade solely for their livelihood, and it will contribute to the lengthening of the work-

HILLMAN STRESSES CLOSE TIES BETWEEN AMALGAMATED - ILGWU

Greeted by thunderous applause when he said that nothing would ever be permitted to create a rift between the Amalgamated and the ILGWU, President Sidney Hillman of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America addressed the Convention on May 13.

He discussed the progress made by the CIO in organizing the mass production industries, and as chairman of the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee, revealed that 80,000 textile workers had been organized in less than six weeks.

In introducing President Hillman, President Dubinsky said:

"When I introduce the next speaker, I introduce the president of a union that is closer to our Union and closer to our hearts than any other organization within the American Labor movement. For many, many years there was a close relationship and the best spirit of cooperation between these two unions. We were partners in many activities, many undertakings. Our two unions were always known as the twin unions within the labor movement and when the Amalgamated was outside the A.F. of L. and we were inside, we, though, it may have been against the policies and tradition of the American Federation of Labor, had the closest relationship and close cooperation with the Amalgamated. It was generally realized that these two unions must, because of the close relationship of the industry in which they are engaged, work harmoniously together, and no de-

The highlights of President Hillman's address follow:

"Your achievements are a source of encouragement and inspiration to all who are concerned with the destinies of labor. Let me say to you, President Dubinsky and officers and delegates of this convention, that nothing will ever be permitted to make a rift, to permit any disagreements between our two great internationals of labor.

"There are no difficulties that cannot be adjusted if the good will that has always existed between the membership of our organizations continues. That cannot and will not be changed.

"Who is there so small, so narrow-sighted, that would permit friction between those who have the responsibility to carry onward and forward the great task that we today have before us?

"Delegates, I bring you the greetings of our organization, sincere greetings with no reservations. We are proud because of your achievements; your great accomplishments have helped us as our progress has helped you.

"I know this hall. I was here just a little over a year ago, when there was the theoretical debate on how to organize labor and where we were told that American labor in the major industries could not be organized. Those of us who had courage to make the challenge and who said that it could and must be done, later had to carry the brunt of the fight. Delegates, today in this hall, no question on this mat-

Convention Blasts Senator Jim "Nell Don" Reed;

ILGWU Counters Attack by Ex-Senator James Reed, Nell Donnelly Head

Ready to Teach Him Lesson in Americanism

No sooner did the newspapers carry across the country the decision of the Atlantic City Convention to allocate $100,000 for the unionization of the Nell Donnelly Dress factory in Kansas City, Mo., than Missouri's ex-Senator, James Reed, issued a blast directed against David Dubinsky and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in which he also denied that he had any control in the dress firm owned by his wife.

Reed declared that "Dubinsky had the nerve to talk about Americanism although he was born in Russia and has been in this country only a few years." He also reiterated the election campaign canard of the Fall of 1936 that Dubinsky was a "Socialist, a Communist and a Bolshevik" and that his name on the Democratic electoral ticket was an offense to the Democratic Party and to all decent American citizens.

Dubinsky Replies

Replying to the Reed statement from the Convention platform, on Tuesday, May 11, President Dubinsky said as follows:

"Mr. Reed is, first of all, very much incensed over the fact that yesterday, at the convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union which is right now meeting in Atlantic City, representing a quarter of a million women's garment workers, I, in the capacity of president of that organization, challenged his patriotism on the ground that he, directly or indirectly, is responsible for allowing work conditions in the factory of the Nell Donnelly Manufacturing Company, owned and controlled by his wife, to be inferior to those prevailing in other dress factories of the same grade and thereby undermining work standards in the entire dress industry. Mr. Reed's reply to this is that I 'had nerve' to talk about Americanism in view of the fact that I had committed the unpardonable offense of having been born in Russia. On the basis of this test of Americanism, we must be permitted to believe that James Reed, when about to be born, decided to choose America as the place of his birth, while I, given the same free selection, picked Russia.

"Mr. Reed's denials that he has anything to do with the control and management of the Nell Donnelly Manufacturing Company would also have carried more weight if we were not acquainted with the public record of Mr. Reed's relations with the Donnelly concern. I did not charge Mr. Reed with managing the sales force or being the manager in charge of production. But everyone who is familiar with the protracted litigation, for instance, of the Donnelly firm during the NRA period, when it attempted to get preferred conditions and special privileges for itself as far as work terms and work pay were concerned, knows well that it was Mr. Reed who came to Washington time and again appealing to General Hugh S. Johnson on behalf of his wife's dress manufacturing concern for exceptions. It was Mr. Reed, who, after a study of his claims had been made by the then administrator, Mr. Byres H. Gitchell, together with an expert, and a recommendation had been made by them to General Johnson that proper work standards should be established in the Donnelly factory in order to eliminate unfair competition, made the threat to General Johnson that if these concessions were not granted to the Donnelly firm, he would tour the country opposing President Roosevelt and the New Deal. Everyone in Kansas City who has anything to do with garment manufacturing is equally well informed that not a thing of importance with regard to employment policy is being done in the Donnelly concern without the advice and approval of Mr. Reed.

Certainly, everybody knows that the union-baiting policy of the Donnelly firm is reflected in the special brand of antagonism to union labor which Mr. Reed has displayed in recent years.

"Mr. Reed claims that he never attacked our Union during the last Presidential campaign but that he was only outraged by my nomination by the American Labor Party and the Democratic Party in New York State as a Roosevelt presidential elector, which was 'an offense both to the Democratic Party and to all decent American citizens' on account of my being 'a Socialist, a Communist and a Bolshevik.' Well, first of all, this terrible offense to American citizenship did not seem to hurt my candidate, as Mr. Reed may recall, just as it did not do any good to his candidate, Mr. Landon. The American people amply replied to these absurd charges, by which many supporters of Mr. Roosevelt were being [illegible]ed by Mr. Reed

Teresa Angiero Sees Education As Labor Goal In Puerto Rico

Head of Island's Unions Brings Message From Puerto Rico Needle Trades Workers.

This is a part from a speech by Teresa Angiero, Secretary of the Puerto Rico Locals of the ILGWU, made on May 6 before a wildly applauding audience of delegates and guests:

"It is a great privilege and an honor to be here as a delegate to this Convention, representing the needle workers of Puerto Rico. I bring to you the greetings and the most sincere appreciation of the Puerto Rico needle workers for all the interest and good will you all have shown to improve workers' conditions on our island.

"Our island, 100 miles long and 26 miles wide, has already a population of 1,700,000 people. Agriculture is its most important occupation, while the needlework trade is its first industry if we take into consideration the number of workers who earn their living in it.

"Nobody knows exactly how many needleworkers there are on the island, all told, but it has been estimated by the Department of Labor that about 75,000 persons are working in the industry, with a further estimate that 9,000 are working in the shops and the others in their homes.

"The organization of home workers is a very hard task, and not only is it hard to organize them but also they are a menace, together with the unemployed people, for the workers when we demand our better wages and workers' rights.

"Company unions and dual labor organizations are also a great handicap for the organization of the workers. There are several associations, such as the Union Regional de Trabajadoras de Aguja, Asociacion Hijos del Trabajo y Liga Defensora de Mayaguez, etc., through which the bosses are doing all they can to keep the workers out of our ranks. Now there are two new ones already organized in Mayaguez, the Needle Workers Fraternity and the Blondi Association. Workers don't have to pay dues, while their leaders promise them to work for the welfare of the community.

"There is another great handicap, and I consider it the most important of all, and that is the lack of proper workers' education among the people. To overcome these difficulties, we are having regular meetings by barrios, towns, and cities, and we have centers for evening classes for the benefit of the masses.

"After more than one year of constant demand, we had the opportunity of having a Workers' Education Center organized and paid for with Federal funds, where fifty teachers were trained to help in the workers' educational field. When the teachers were ready the budget appropriation for them to go into the field was cut off, because, as they said, we were preaching radical ideas in our center.

"We will continue working in the organization of Workers' Education classes so as to impress in the minds of the workers that the only weapon workers have to better their economic situation is a powerful organization.

"We encounter all kinds of difficulties in our way, but as we are assisted by the great power of justice and fraternity and a better world for our comrade workers, we hope we will succeed.

"Please excuse me for my poor English. I hope sooner or later we will have the opportunity to reciprocate all the assistance you are giving to our exploited Puerto Rico workers."

and his friends, by making the election of Mr. Roosevelt nearly unanimous. Secondly, much as I should like to believe him, I still find it hard to dissociate the Mr. Reed, who has been bitterly and avowedly opposing our Union's effort to unionize the Nell Donnelly factory, from the selfsame Mr. Reed, who, during the Fall of 1936, kept continually heaping abuse upon myself, who happened to be at that time not only a Roosevelt elector but also the president of the labor organization which was trying to improve work conditions and secure the right to collective bargaining in his wife's factory.

"In one breath Mr. Reed heatedly disclaims that he has anything to do with the Nell Donnelly Manufacturing concern, and, in the other, he just as heatedly declares that no spying on workers, no discrimination for union activity, no speed-up, no discharge of girls who secretly join our Union, no long hours for low pay are permitted in that factory. If he knows nothing about the Donnelly management, where does he get all this intimate information about the work conditions and the work policy in the plant of that firm and what value can anyone, therefore, attach to his assertions that our charges are 'gross lies'?

"Mr. Reed is furthermore trying to create the impression that our International Union's act yesterday, at the convention, in voting a fund of $100,000 to support the efforts of our Kansas City Joint Board to unionize the Donnelly Manufacturing Company is a sort of reprisal because he, James Reed, was trying to abuse me during the last campaign. Well, that really is too childish to deserve a serious rebuttal. As far as our Union, or myself, is concerned, Mr. Reed may join the Klu Klux Klan, Mr. Townsend's League, Father Coughlin's outfit, the Liberty League, of which he is one of the main props, or any other group which, according to his lights, is truly American.

"The 1936 campaign is already a good way off, and why should Mr. Reed, of all people, bring it up now? But we are very much concerned with the Donnelly Manufacturing Company of Kansas City, manufacturers of dresses under inferior work conditions and the persecutor and bounder of work people who dare join our Union while in that company's employ. We do not intend to rest until the work hours and work pay in the Nell Donnelly firm are brought to a level of equality with other dress manufacturers in all markets and the right of genuine collective bargaining, not the company-union brand, is established in that factory. In this work, we admit, we are very much concerned with Mr. James Reed, and all his protestations to the contrary notwithstanding, we recognize him as a dress manufacturer with whom we expect to do business in the not distant future."

Delegate From Donnelly Firm in Kansas City Pleads For ILGWU Help

Convention Appropriates $100,000 For Campaign to Unionize Reed-Controlled Low-Pay Dress Shop

Sylvia Hull, delegate of Local 118, representing the Nell Donnelly factory in Kansas City, Mo., presented the following plea in behalf of the 1,500 girls employed in that shop to the convention:

"I have been working for the Donnelly Garment Company for the past eight years. I know the situation in the shop very well. At this convention I have had an opportunity for the first time to talk to the dressmakers who work on the same line of dresses in union shops in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and several other cities, about the wages being paid in their shops. I find that the wages paid by the Donnelly Garment Company are at least 40 per cent lower than the workers in the other shops are earning.

"We have no say in our shop in the settlement of prices. The foreladies settle the prices for us, and while the earnings of an average dressmaker in the cities I have mentioned range from $25 to $40 a week, the earnings of an average worker in the Donnelly Garment Company are between $15 and $18 a week. And while the workers in the union shops in these cities enjoy a 35-hour week, we work 40 and 53 hours a week. And what is worse than anything else is the inhuman speed-up which the company has developed in its factory. As a result of this speed-up system, the majority of the girls in the factory terminal to make this shop a union shop, a shop where the rights of the human being will be recognized. In their behalf, I urge this convention to help the Kansas City Joint Board establish union hours and union wages in the Donnelly Garment factory.

"Mr. President, we ask for the support of this great organization in these efforts. We, the girls in Kansas City, will do the rest."

Courageous!

Alice Hull

The "Loyalty League" in the Nell Donnelly Shop, the Kansas City Cotton Garment Shop, in Which Senator Jim Reed Has Absolutely No Interest, Didn't Ap-tory must quit working after a few years because their nerves become overstrained and they break down In many instances, these workers are not able to return to work. I have experienced, a nervous breakdown which was caused by this speed-up and I am still under the doctor's care.

"The owner of this firm, Mr. James Reed, a former United States Senator, travels around the country promoting what he calls 'democracy.' In his own shop, however, the rights of the human being are completely ignored and the right of the worker to join a labor organization is brutally suppressed.

"I joined the Union several months ago. I kept my membership in the Union secret because I knew that I was being watched and spied on by the detectives employed by the firm. Every worker in the shop is spied on and followed, inside and outside the factory. A few days before I left Kansas City, the newspapers announced the fact that I was a delegate to this convention. The next morning, the instructors of the shop and the leaders of the Donnelly Loyalty League, the company union organized by the Reeds, surrounded me and threatened me. They asked me to get out of the shop. They spoke with their own voices, but the words were the words of James Reed.

"I have done nothing that could in any way be interpreted as not living up to the rules of the shop. I have done my work well and have always been considered an efficient worker. But the firm has been fighting against the inroads of the Union into its plant and when they got to know of my membership in the Union and of my appointment as a delegate to this convention, they organized their forces of intimidation and forced me out of the shop.

"I plead with this convention to adopt the resolution introduced by the Kansas City delegates. I and hundreds of girls working in the Donnelly Garment factory are depraye of Alice Coming to the Convention. As a Matter of Fact It Ganged Up on Her. But Alice Come to the Convention; the Union Will Come to the Shop; and the Loyalty-Leaguers Who Mobbed Her Will Yet Praise Her.

12 WORKERS REGAIN JOBS; THANK UNION

A resolution of thanks marks the final step in a victorious action just concluded by the Union.

Some two months ago, the B. S. & G. Dress Company, 1553 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, discharged 12 workers, including the chairlady. An investigation also furnished the basis for presentation of charges to the Impartial Chairman that the firm had been guilty of underpayments and falsification of books. The Impartial Chairman ordered the workers reinstated and a settlement made for underpayments.

When the firm refused to comply with the decision of the Impartial Chairman, the Union, interested in piling up legal precedent for the sanctity of the collective agreement as a legal contract, carried the case into court through Emil Schlesinger, counsel to the Dress Joint Board. Before the case came to trial, the firm consented to an injunction under the terms of which the workers were reinstated with pay for time lost and a settlement was made for the underpayments.

The twelve workers signing the resolution were Josephine Giuliano (Chairlady), John Valenti, Joe Sincere, Luciano Pomillia, Connie Ponanti, Mana La Moinia, Lena Gangi, Agata Marceca, Caterina Buttafuoco, Mary Ferranti, Nettie Genco and Francis Molia. Specifically mentioned in the resolution were the Dress Joint Board, General Manager Julius Hochman, Williamsburg Manager Giacomo Di Nola, Business Agent Peter Bonanno and Popular Price Department Manager Frank Olivo.

Date 7/12/39—Witness Stites.

March 18, 1937.

Mrs. Reed: "I want to say that I am awfully happy to have this opportunity to tell you how proud I was when those girls wrote the petition out, and—well, I have had lots of nice things happen to me in my lifetime, but I have never had anything that made me so proud and so happy as that list of names that came to my house. Many of those girls I had worked with—and who had really helped to build this business into what it is now.

Over a period of twenty-one years we have built up an institution which anybody can be proud of, anybody connected with it. I had a letter from one of the girls last night telling me that she had worked for the Donnelly Garment Company but she wasn't ashamed to tell anyone that she had worked for a garment company. When Mr. Dubinsky put Mr. Reed into the garment business —he didn't know he was in it before—he said he would not be ashamed to belong to the Donnelly Garment Company.

We have an institution we can be proud of. You folks are just beginning to be initiated into the knowledge of just what kind of a business we are in, and some of the people that are in it.

A great many years ago when I first started, a man in St. Louis said, "You know you have to have two fires and a failure to stay in that business". We have not had any fires or any failures yet. We are twenty-one years old and we are pretty well grown up, and I think we know how to run our own business.

[fol. 4930] Just from a practical standpoint, let me say that this business has grown up around the policy of year-around work. Up until the time of the depression we practically kept that up. I increased my business in the fall of the year and I increased my machines, and then we always had plenty of business the next spring. In the spring when the depression came on I put new machines in with the idea that I had the business and that

I could give a certain amount of work to a certain number of women for a few months. A number of you will remember that the old girls agreed that they would share their work with the new ones that fall if they had to. They did not have to very much, but they did a little. By the time the next spring came along the new ones were the old ones, and they wanted to work too, so we have made every effort in the world to keep the plant going.

We have built up a Nelly Don garment, and we have built up a Nelly Don trade, and each time we get up a line we try to make something that enough women will buy to keep our plant running. There has been so much talk "Mrs. Reed isn't interested any more; Mrs. Reed doesn't care anything about it any more, etc." Mrs. Reed may not work as many hours as she used to, but the burdens on her are bigger now than ever. No matter what anybody else may say, I'll be right here running this business.

I know you are thinking about the threats of violence that the Union is making against you and the company. I want to say that the Company and I intend to do every-[fol. 4931] thing possible to protect you in case of any violence. We are now trying to make arrangements with the street car company for its busses to go to certain points and pick you people up and bring you to the plant. We will let you know about this as soon as arrangements can be made.

Many of you have been here for a number of years and you know that you have never been asked whether or not you belong to a union. The company has not discriminated against anyone on that account and Mr. Dubinsky is not going to make me discriminate against employees because they would not belong to his Union. If you want to belong that is your own business and it is up to you to decide. I will say that neither Dubinsky or any other buttinsky is going to intimidate me or the Company into forcing you to join the International Union against your will.

I can't say at this time what will be done to protect you against violence, but the company's attorneys will consider what legal steps might be advisable. In any event, you can understand that the company will not submit to any unlawful attacks lying down.

Gentlemen:—

Reporting on the physical condition of Mrs. James A. Reed.

Operation on right shoulder in Iowa City in February and has carried her arm in a sling ever since.

Tonsillectomy at St. Luke's Hospital about two months ago, and she had a very stormy convalescence.

Because of her extreme exhaustion, weakness, and highly nervous condition a prolonged period, perhaps a number of months, of absolute mental and physical rest was advised.

For four or five weeks she has been up north under the care of a trained nurse. In my opinion, there is a definite contraindication to her returning here to testify or even to giving a deposition where she now is.

Very truly yours,

P. T. BOHAN.

[fol. 5031] (N.R.A.—J.M.C. Exhibit 1.)

Extracts From Testimony of Mrs. Ellen Fry on February 26, 1935.

(Pages 12 to 47)

p. 12 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Your name is Ellen Fry?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Where do you reside? A. 1432 Summit.

p. 16 Q. Did you hear anyone in authority—I mean by that persons having jurisdiction over you—make any statements at any time about July 1933 with reference to the necessity for weeding out or discharging employees who could not make the code?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By whom did you hear those statements made?

A. I have heard them made by my instructor.

Q. Well, name the person. A. Mrs. Allison.

Q. By any other person?

A. Yes, sir; Mrs. Reeves.

p. 17 Q. Mrs. Reeves? A. Yes, sir; Mrs. Reeves.

Q. Now, is it a fact that a number of employees were let out about that time, if you know?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you among the persons let out at that time? A. No, sir.

p. 21 Q. Two or three weeks is all right. Are you a member of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you join?

A. In August 1933.

[fol. 5032] Q. Was there anything said, so far as you know, at the Donnelly factory at that time about your having joined the union?

A. No. Nobody knew a thing about it.

Q. Well, you mean by that you didn't say anything to anybody about it?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right. Now, I will ask you if you were aware of the fact that on the 15th day of March 1934 there was a mass meeting of employees of the Donnelly Company, called for the purpose of discussing the feasibility and practicability of forming a union among the workers. A. March?

Q. March 15, 1934.

A. The employees of Donnelly called that?

Q. No.

A. A mass meeting?

Q. Was there a mass meeting among certain of the girls?

A. Yes, there was a mass meeting.

Q. Where was it held?

p.22 A. Eagles' Hall. No, Musicians' Hall.

Q. Musicians' Hall? A. Yes, Musicians' Hall.

Q. Now, do you know whether there was in attendance at that meeting a person who apparently was taking shorthand notes of what was said there by the various people?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you or any person who you know of who was employed at the Donnelly factory and who met there for this purpose—I mean by that employees in your class—have anything to do with employing this stenographer?

A. Well, I couldn't say that I know—

[fol. 5033] Q. I say, do you know anything about it? Did you girls employ him or not?

A. No, we did not employ him.

Q. That's what I want. You don't actually know who did employ him, do you?

A. No.

Q. Now, how many, approximately, of the Donnelly employees attended that meeting on March 15, 1934?

A. There weren't very many of the girls, the operators, attended, but the entire officials attended; all the instructors and a good many of the others. Mrs. Reeves attended and a good many more.

Q. Now, can you give me approximately the number of girls?

p. 23 A. Not over 10 or 15.

Q. 10 or 15. You speak of Mrs. Reeves. Who is Mrs. Reeves, and what position does she occupy there in the Donnelly factory?

A. Well, some say that she is the factory manager, and some say production manager.

Q. Well, did she have authority over you? Did her rank go higher than yours? A. Oh, yes.

Q. Were you required to take instructions from her and obey whatever orders she gave you?

A. Whatever orders she gave, we had to obey; yes, sir.

Q. Now, shortly after the 15th day of March 1934 did Mrs. Reeves call you at her office?

A. She did.

Q. And did she question you about your union activities? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, tell the Board, just as nearly as you can, what was there said by Mrs. Reeves and by you.

[fol. 5034] A. The first question she asked me when I entered the door was if I belonged to the union; that she knew I had attended the meetings because she had seen me there. I told her, "Yes, sir." Then she wanted to know how long I had been a member. Well, I didn't figure that that was—

Q. Don't say what you figured. Just tell what was said.

p. 24 A. So I told her I had belonged a long time. So she asked me what good that the union could do for me. And I said, Well, I didn't know. She asked me how much it cost me to join the union, and I told her; that it cost me $1 to join. She says, "What's your dues?" I said, "25 cents a week." She says, "Well, I can't understand why that you girls want to join that old union and pay 25 cents a week dues." she says, "On account of", she says, "here we talk our heads off to get you to pay 17 cents for insurance, and we pay $50 a square foot for the cafeteria, and give them that in order that they can sell the girls 4-cent coffee."

And then she came to me again, and she says, "I want you to tell me just exactly what that union is doing for you girls. Is it giving you your jobs?" And she kept me three hours, just questioning me and cross-questioning me back and forth over what the union was going to do for me. And if I would rather have the union, why didn't I go to the union and work?

And I told her I was perfectly satisfied to work at Donnelly's; that I had been doing my work satisfactorily, had few repairs. And she said she couldn't understand why I wanted to pay out 25 cents a week and go down there and attend that union. And that was the whole run of the conversation from the start to the finish.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, you were not docked, of course, for that time you spent in the office?

p. 25 A. No. I told her during that time I couldn't make my average sitting there talking to her about the union while I wasn't sewing, so she told me that she would pay me the time I was in the office.

Q. And she did do it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, shortly thereafter, after this occasion and occurrence about which you have just testified, did a group of the girls meet at the home of one of the girls?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember how many girls were there, approximately? A. Well, I think 7 or 8 of us.

Q. At whose home did you meet?

A. Well, it was an outsider's home. I cannot recall the woman's name. I had never met her before. But we met there with the Burns girls.

[fol. 5035] Q. The Burns girls are connected with some union, are they?

A. Yes. Marian Burns is the president of the Women's Trade League here in Kansas City. The other girl is a stenographer.

Q. President of what?

A. The Women's Trade League.

Q. That's a union affiliation, is it, or organization? A. Just an organization.

Q. Did you discuss the formation and organization of a union there that night?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At this woman's home?

p. 26 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whether cards were passed either at the meeting of March 15, 1934, or at this meeting at the residence, where the girls signified their intention of joining the union?
A. It was at the residence.
Q. At the residence? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did the girls who met there on that occasion sign up? A. They did.
Q. All of them? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did they all pay in at that time?
A. No, they did not.
Q. Sign an application card?
A. They signed an application.
[fol. 5036] Q. All right. Now, were any of those girls let out at the Donnelly factory shortly after that occasion?
A. After that occasion, yes, they were let out.
Q. How many of them? A. All of them.
Q. All of them? A. Yes, except one.
Q. Except one? A. Yes.
Q. Who was that one? Do you remember?
p. 27 A. Cordie Huntley.
Q. Just give testimony about facts that you know of yourself. Now, after the occasion of your meeting over there at this residence, were you continued on in the same kind and character of work that you formerly had?
A. Just the minute they found out I was a union girl the attitude changed in the section. My instructor immediately put another girl in my work, and when we ran out of that work, she continued with keeping the other girl on the work I had been on and gave me this other girl's work.
p. 28 Q. What was the difference?
A. Well, I was joining, and had been joining ever since I had been in her section this time.
Q. (By Dir. Pratt) Whose section was that?
A. Mrs. White's.
Dir. Pratt. Mrs. White's.
Q. (By Mr. Rucker) What did she give you to do?

A. She gave me an operation of tucking, where I had to tuck 120 tucks for 25 cents.

[fol. 5037] Q. Was your work frequently changed about that time?

A. After that, why, it was changed.

Q. And how often?

A. One time I kept count of it, and I was changed seven times in one day.

Q. Now, when your work was changed could you make the code?

A. No, sir; I could not. I went to Mrs. Reeves about it.

Q. Now, when were you laid off? A. July 10.

Q. 1934? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you taken back? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go to Mrs. Reeves after that time?

A. I did.

p. 29 Q. What talk, if any, did you have with her?

A. Well, I told her that I could not—that I did my work right, and that I knew that I was one—had received more money according—that is, above the code or around the code—than the average one in that section, because I had made it a point to find out how the girls' checks were. And at that time when I was laid off they said they were laying off the lowest girls in the section, and I knew it wasn't so. And that I had to work; that I had a family of four children and an invalid, my husband's father, with us, and that I had to work in order to support them, and that he didn't get very much money.

And Mrs. Reeves told me that that was not a charitable institution; that if I was going to lose my home that I could go to the Federal Loan Association and apply for a loan. And I told her that I had gone to the Federal Loan, but that wasn't meeting the expenses; that I wanted to work; that I hadn't done anything to cause myself to be laid off; that they had always kept the best operators, and, being that they had kept me before and all, that I would rather have my work. She said, "Well, go some place else, then. I don't know when we can ever put you back."

[fol. 5038] Q. Did she ever say anything to you about going to the union?

A. Yes. She said if I wanted work so bad to go down to the union and let them get me something to do.

Q. Had you been active in union work before you were laid off?

p. 30 A. Yes, sir.

p. 31 Q. (By Mr. Reed) And as far as you know, there isn't a single one of the managers of the Donnelly Garment Company that knew on July 10 that any of you girls had had that meeting, as far as you know?
That's the truth, isn't it?

A. No, it isn't. But I am not supposed to answer that.

Mr. Rucker. Q. Answer any questions the Senator asks you.

A. All right. I know Mrs. White knew everything about it.

Q. (By Mr. Reed) How do you know she knew about it? Did you tell her?

Mr. Rucker. Just a minute. I insist the witness be permitted to answer. She started to answer. Now, go ahead.

Dir. Pratt. Q. Yes, take your time, Mrs. Fry, and just tell—

Mr. Reed. But when she says she knew it, I am asking her, before that sort of an answer goes in, if she ever told Mrs. White prior to July 10.

A. Cordie Huntley came to me and told me, is the way that I knew that Mrs. White knew that we had the meeting.

Q. Cordelia Huntley told you? A. Yes.

p. 32 Q. When did Cordelia Huntley tell you?

A. Cordelia Huntley told me that—

Q. When did she tell you, I asked.
A. After this meeting.
Q. How long after the meeting?
A. I couldn't tell you exactly, because I never put that down.

[fol. 5039] Q. Well, about how long?
A. It was before the lay-off.
Q. Well, how long before the lay-off?
A. About 1 week.
Q. Now, where were you when she told you?
A. I was standing at my machine.
Q. Well, since you have brought Cordie Huntley in, what did Cordie Huntley tell you?
A. Cordie Huntley told me, she says, "I am telling you as a friend", she says, "Mrs. White is going to frame you to get you out of this section because you are a union girl. She doesn't want any union girls in this section."
Q. That's what Cordie Huntley told you?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. But Mrs. White didn't tell you?
A. No. I know Mrs. White didn't. I told you why I knew that; that Cordie had told me.
Q. That Mrs. White said she was going to frame you? A. Yes, sir.

p. 34 Q. Well, we will pass that. You were employed on July 14, 1931, were you not?
A. Yes, sir; that's when I was employed.

p. 42 Q. Well, when were you given this hard work? Just since you joined the union or before?
A. Well, I have been given hard work lots of times, but when they joined the union is when they made the discrimination.
Q. You say they changed you seven times in one week? A. In one day.

p. 43 Q. In one day? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 5040] Q. Now, as a matter of fact, don't you know that that isn't the case?
A. I absolutely know it is.
Q. Isn't there a record kept down there on everything you worked on?
A. I beg your pardon?

Q. What were these seven operations that you were given down there on one day?

A. Well, I can't recall just exactly at the time, but you can give me binding or you can give me piping—

Q. Well, what did you have that day? That's what I want to know.

A. I don't exactly recall the seven different ones in that day, but I recall how my total went down in that day. I couldn't make no $3 a day, and no one else could, and change like that.

Q. What day was that?

A. That's beyond my recall. I had no idea that I would have to bring it up at the time.

Q. Well, you went right on working after that, didn't you?

A. I was laid off on Friday after that, during the same week.

Q. (By Dir. Pratt) This time when you got the seven different operations was 3 or 4 or 5 days prior to the time you were laid off?

A. It was during that last week; yes, sir.

p. 45 Q. All right. You spoke of a young lady down there as Cordie Huntley. (By Mr. Reed)

A. Yes. Mrs. Reeves knows her. She's a personal friend of Mrs. Reeves.

p. 46 Q. Well, you went to Mrs. Reeves and told Mrs. Reeves that Mrs. White didn't like you, didn't you? A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. What did you tell her?

A. I went to Mrs. Reeves and told Mrs. Reeves that Mrs. White, since she had found out that I belonged to the union, was not treating me fair.

Q. That's that one conversation that you have referred to before? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 5041] Q. Same one? A. Yes.

Q. Now, you know Mrs. Reeves investigated that, don't you? A. I couldn't say.

Q. Now, you didn't tell Mrs. Reeves that Mrs. White—well, I will use a slang expression—

"had it in for you" on account of the union, did you?

A. I told Mrs. Reeves that Mrs. White wasn't treating me right since she found out I was union; that she immediately took me off my work that I had been making my average on, and that she put me on something that I couldn't make it, and she knew that I had never did that kind of work before.

[fol. 5042] Extracts From Testimony of Mrs. Thelma Owen on Febr. 26, 1935.

(Pages 48 to 91)

Vol. I

p. 48 Q. Your name is Thelma Owen? A. Yes.
Q. Where do you live?
A. You mean my address?
Q. Yes.
A. 1317 Troost.
Q. Were you ever employed by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you remember when your first employment was? A. It was in August of 1924.
Q. How long did you work at that time?
A. Well, I worked about 2 or 3 years. I don't know the exact date. I was off and called back in 5 weeks.

p. 49 Q. And do you remember how long you worked then?
A. Well, a couple or three years. I don't know exact.
Q. Without any interruption? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, do you speak now of the time when you came back to work in 1929?
A. I remember that very clearly.
Q. Well, is that the time when you worked 2 or 3 years again?
A. No. I have worked from 1929 until 1934.
Q. All right. From 1929 to 1934? A. Yes.
Q. I think that's far enough back. Now, when were you laid off?

A. I was paid with a paid vacation the last week in June; was supposed to come back to work July 9. They sent me a letter and told me it would be a few days before I could come back. And then they sent me another letter and told me that they didn't see fit to call me and for me to look elsewhere for work.

Q. Have you joined the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. I had filled out my application--

Q. I say, have you joined? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, when did you actually join?

A. I joined the 13th day of November,

[fol. 5043] p. 50 Q. 1934? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When had you filled out the application blank? A. In the spring.

Q. In the spring of 1934? A. Yes, sir.

p. 51 Q. At the time you went back to Mrs. Reeves with reference to your re-employment, did she say anything to you about your union activities?

A. Well, I was working, and they transferred me to a small section of the ninth floor.

Q. Now, listen. After you were laid off and were told to come back, did you have a talk with her? A. She called me to her office.

Q. Now, at that time was anything said about the union at all? A. Yes.

Q. Now, just tell the Board what was said.

A. She said, "Thelma Owen, why did you go to old Meyer Perlstein's office and call me?" "Why didn't you come to me? We have got together and have thrashed this thing out." She said, "Why don't you go out and get you a job keeping house?" I said, "Mrs. Reeves, after working in the factory 10 years I think

p. 52 I would be a very poor housekeeper." So I said, "I thank you for the many nice things you have did for me, and think just as much of you as I ever did. I like all my instructors and you also." And she said, "Well, Thelma, I may get soft-hearted again, but don't make a mountain out of a mole hill." Those were my last words with Mrs. Reeves.

Q. Had you gone to a union meeting before you were laid off? A. I had.

Q. Had you talked in favor of forming a union group out there before you were laid off?

A. I did.

[fol. 5044] p. 54 Q. Now, was there any other thing said by any person who was your superior there to you about your union activities or the formation of a union unit out there except what you have already related?

A. Yes.

Q. What is it, and when was it?

A. Well, I worked for Mrs. Reeves and always made my code. Then they transferred me upstairs on the ninth floor to a smaller section. Having to make my own living, and looking after my mother and father—

Q. Just tell the facts. That's all the Board is interested in.

A. Well, I asked to have a talk with Mrs. Reeves, and she called on a Monday and said I could talk to her. I went up there and talked to Mrs. Reeves. She asked why I didn't want to be transferred. I told her it being a small section, it would be the first one to be closed

p. 55 down. And she looked at me and shook her finger in my face, and she said, "Thelma Owen, you have nothing to worry about. You have never been laid off for being a slow operator; and you go right back to work for Mrs. Nannie Barger. She needs you, and you will get along just swell."

But she said, "Are you a union member?" And I said, "Mrs. Reeves, I have never paid 5 cents union dues in my life." And she said, "It's funny, but somebody said today, "Did Thelma get transferred because she is active in the union?'" And the reason I didn't tell Mrs. Reeves I was going to the union was because I would lose my job.

Q. Now, it was the custom down there to give the operators who had been there some time
p. 59 two weeks vacation with pay, wasn't it?
A. Yes.
Q. Yes. And you took your vacation and got your pay? A. Yes, sir.
Q. At that time you didn't belong to any union?
A. I had signed my application early in the spring.
Q. You signed it early in the spring; six or seven of you girls. Have you got that application?
A. I think you can get it.
p. 67 Q. You didn't know that if you sent out a dress with half the number of stitches—
A. That's what they have instructors for there.
[fol. 5045] Q. Yes, to catch you. You make the mistake and then trust to the inspector to find it, is that it? A. May I say one thing?
Q. Just answer the question.
A. Will you repeat that question, please?
Q. I say that you went on and made these goods, and you say it was the inspector's business to find it out. You were willing to do that sort of work down there?
A. I was not. I showed my work to the inspector before I turned my bundle in. She said they had other bundles turned in—
p. 74 Q. At the time you took your vacation, what decided you to take it? Who did you talk to about that?
A. They tell you when to take your vacation.
Q. Well, who told you?
A. Our instructor. Our whole section taken their vacation at the same time.
Q. Who was that? A. Mrs. Neimeyer.
Q. And she told your whole section to take a vacation? A. Yes.
p. 78 Q. But you knew you were not a member of the union until you paid, didn't you?
A. It was my understanding I was.
Q. It was your understanding you were?
A. Yes.

Q. But it was after that you told Mrs. Reeves you didn't belong to any union?
A. For fear of losing my job.
Q. And you told her that, didn't you?
A. I did. I didn't tell her I didn't belong to the union. I told her I had never paid 5 cents union dues in my life.

p. 138 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Your name is Glynn Brooks?
A. Yes.
Q. Where do you live?
A. 2206 East Sixty-seventh Terrace.
Q. Were you formerly employed by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes.
Q. Do you remember approximately when you entered the employ of that company? A. Yes.
Q. When was it?
A. Well, it was in December, about the 16th, 1924.
p. 139 Q. How long did you work there?
A. Up until last July, about the 12th.
Q. July 1934? A. Right.
p. 141 Q. Now, do you now belong to the Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. Yes, I do.
Q. When did you join?
A. Well, I made application last spring. I imagine in March or April.
Q. Now, after you had made the application did you, during the noon hours and after hours, talk to the girls then about becoming members of the union? A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you attend union meetings before you were discharged? A. Yes.
Q. Now, did you have a meeting at your home of girls to discuss the question of forming a unit of the union? A. Yes, I did.
Q. Do you remember when that was?
A. Well, it must have been in the latter part of June?

Q. June 1934? A. Yes.

[fol. 5047] Q. And you were discharged in July?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, after that meeting at your home did you notice any difference in the attitude of your superiors towards you?

A. Well, I think I did.

p. 144 Q. Now, did you go back and try to get reinstated? A. Well, I did, yes.

Q. And to whom did you report down there?

A. Well, I heard through a friend of mine —

Q. No. I say, to whom did you report when you went down?

A. Well, I went down to Ella Mae Guerrant at that time.

Q. Did you talk to Mrs. Reeves?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you ask her why you couldn't return to work? A. Yes.

Q. What reply did she give you?

A. Well, she told me that I hadn't been making the code.

p. 147 Q. Now, did any officer or person whose place was superior to yours, connected with the Donnelly Company, ever say anything to you or to any other person in your presence about union activities there? A. Yes, they did.

Q. Now, tell the Board just what was said.

A. Well, I had a friend and a sister who worked over in another section, in Pearl Cleveland's section, and during my lunch hour I went over and I talked to this friend of mine and asked her if she would like to come down and visit one of our meetings. And she said: "Well, listen, Glynn, that union is all right, and I am for it, but Pearl tells me whatever I do to stay out of that union; if I don't, I will lose my job; and you know I can't afford to be out of work. I have my little daughter to support." And I said, "Well, if you would come down and listen to some of their meetings and hear the good they can do for us, I don't think you would be afraid." But she wouldn't at that time. I didn't talk to her any more. But she told me at this time, "Pearl says, 'Now, be sure and stay out of

[fol. 5048]

p. 148 there because it's going to cost you your job if you don't.'" And I talked to several girls in this particular section who told me the same thing.

Q. And that's your reason for saying in your statement that you believed it was on account of your union activities that you were laid off?

A. It certainly is.

p. 161 Q. (By Dir. Pratt) Mrs. Brooks, have you any thought or any knowledge or any reason to believe that the officials of the Donnelly Garment Company knew of this meeting that you had?

A. I have every thought that they believed this.

Q. What's that?

A. I really do. I believe they knew about this meeting that I had.

Q. Now, on what is that belief based? Why do you think that?

A. Well, because a very good friend of Mrs.
p. 162 Reeves was at this meeting, and she taken out an application the same as I did, and soon after it she just shunned us all and quit. And she was called upstairs a day or two after I was laid off.

Q. Your thought is that this good friend of Mrs. Reeves told Mrs. Reeves— A. Absolutely.

Q. —who was at this meeting?

A. Yes. And she was one of them. I brought her out to my home and gave her a nice dinner.

Q. Who was this? A. Cordie.

Q. Do you know her last name?

A. No, I don't. Because she told me time and time again of doing things for Mrs. Reeves' mother and what good friends they were.

[fol. 5049] Q. Have you anything other than your thought or suspicion to base that on?

A. Well, I don't absolutely have any pure facts, but all indications in the world point that way.
Q. Now, you say all the conditions:
A. "Indications."
Q. Now, what are those in your mind?
A. Well, I know that I always did hard work in our section—that is, tedious work and samples and things of that kind—and I very seldom had any repair.
p. 163 Q. Did you ever ask this Cordie whether she did tell Mrs. Reeves?
A. I have never seen Cordie since.
Q. Since you were discharged, or since you had this meeting?
A. Well, I have seen her, yes. Since I was discharged, I have seen her. But not since I got called back, is what I mean.
Q. And you have never asked her whether that was—
A. I have never talked to her about it, no.
Q. Did Cordie join the union later?
A. Well, she has never come to any of our meetings, I know that.
Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) She doesn't attend any of your meetings? A. No.
Q. (By Dir. Pratt) But she is the one whom you think told Mrs. Reeves about it?
A. I think so, yes.
Q. (By Mr. Doud) You say there was a meeting held out at your place? A. Yes.
Q. At this meeting did anybody advise that the signing of these applications would put you under the jurisdiction or, you might say, the help of the union?
A. I didn't get that question clear, please.
[fol. 5050] Q. In signing these applications was it explained that in signing these applications that the union officials had pledged help or protection in helping you along until the union was organized?

p. 164 A. Well, we thought to sign those applications that it would show that we were for the union.

Q. And they explained to you that you didn't have to pay dues— A. Yes.

Q. —until the union was organized? A. Yes.

Q. But that the union officials would help along with it, is that it? A. Yes.

Q. After these meetings was it common knowledge around the plant of who attended the meetings?

A. Why, yes, it was talked in our section.

Q. During the dinner hour when it was talked, did it seem to be common knowledge of who had attended these meetings and who had signed the blanks? A. Yes, it did.

Q. Did that gain credence or gain headway by you people who were holding these meetings, or was it being dropped by some who had failed to attend the meeting?

A. I don't quite understand that question.

Q. Who would start those rumors of that kind? Would it be the ones who had attended these meetings and signed up, or the ones who had not?

A. Started the rumors over the building about us being members?

p. 165 Q. Yes.

A. Well, I really don't know. I would just have different girls come to me and say, "Well, I heard you had a dinner out at your house, trying to organize a union."

Q. They didn't say who it was heard from?

A. No, they didn't tell me who.

[fol. 5051] Q. Was there anything expressed in these rumors as to the management's attitude toward the union? Was there any caution to keep still?

A. Yes, there was until we were organized, so there wouldn't be any disturbance or any trouble in the plant. We didn't mean to hide it — we didn't care for that — but we just didn't want to have a lot of trouble, because, you know, you want to protect your job and get along and do the best you can.

Q. What I want to know, was there anything in these rumors that would indicate that the management had expressed a desire for the union not to be organized? A. No.

Q. That didn't come back to you at all?

A. Well, I don't know if I get that question clear. I don't know why I can't. I can't hear very well.

Q. In these rumors that came back to you that were discussed, was there anything in those rumors that would indicate that the executives of the company or your foremen or, as I understand, your instructors didn't want to see a union organized?

A. Why, certainly.

p. 166 Q. That came back to you through those rumors?

A. Yes.

Q. That's what I wanted to get.

A. Why, certainly, we knew that.

Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) I wanted to ask you, how many girls did you have out to your house for your dinner?

A. Well, I think, as well as I remember, it was about 12 or 13 girls.

Q. And how many of those girls have been discharged? A. Well, all of them except one.

All except one?

A. Yes. And that's this Cordie. That's one reason I feel that she was our spy.

[fol. 5052] Extracts From Testimony of Miss Mamie Tubbesing on Febr. 26. 1935.

(Vol. I Pages 181 to 200)

p. 181 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Your name is Mamie Tubbesing? A. Yes.

Q. Where do you reside? A. 1620 Lister.

Q. Were you recently employed at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you work there?
A. Nine years.
p. 182 Q. What was your particular work out there?
A. Binding.
Q. Did you ever assist in instructing or act as assistant floorlady or anything of that kind?
A. I assisted the instructor.
Q. You assisted the instructor? A. Yes.
Q. For how long a period?
A. About 3 months.
Q. When was that? Do you remember?
A. In the spring of 1934.
Q. Did you work on sample lines and try-outs?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Silk and wool lines? A. Yes, sir.
Q. And cotton? A. Yes, sir.
Q. You worked the whole line, did you?
A. Yes, sir.
p. 183 Q. Do you belong to the union?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When did you actually join?
A. October 1934.
Q. Had you signed an application card before that time? A. No, sir.
Q. Had you talked about it? A. Yes, sir.
Q. When were you laid off? A. October 3.
[fol. 5053] Q. Before October 3 had you talked out at the factory during the noon hours and had you talked to girls after work hours about joining the union? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Had you expressed your intention of becoming a member of the union before you were laid off? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, before your lay-off did you go out and make individual calls on girls and discuss with them the advisability of becoming members of the union? A. Yes, sir.
p. 184 Q. Now, after you were laid off, did you talk to Mrs. Reeves about when you would be called back to work? A. Yes, sir.
Q. What did she say to you?
A. She told me she didn't think they would ever call me back.

Q. Did she give you any reason why?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What reason did she assign?
A. She said it was my attitude.
Q. What did she say, if anything, to you about the character of your work?
A. She said my work was satisfactory.
Q. But it was your attitude? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you ask her what she meant by that?
A. I asked her, "What attitude?" and she says, "You know what I mean."

[fol. 5054] Q. What did you tell her, now? Go ahead and tell the whole conversation.
A. I told her I didn't know, and she says, "Oh, yes, you do, Mamie"; and she says, "No, I don't think we will ever call you back."
Q. Did she ask you anything about your calling on the girls? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Just tell the Board, now, the conversation.
A. She asked me why I called on the girls and said all these terrible things about the Donnelly Garment Company, and I asked her, "What terrible things?" and she says, "That the wages are unfair and the girls don't make their average." And then she asked me if I really thought that was true, and I said, "Yes."

And she went on to tell me how hard they were trying to regulate those prices so that the girls could make their wages and the wages would be fair; and I told her maybe some of that time and money should be put on the wages. And she says, "Maybe that's true. Maybe the Donnelly Garment Company doesn't need me; maybe my salary should be put on those wages."

And she told me how hard she worked, how much time she spent down there; that she even worked nights about those things. And I told her I thought we owed it to our own personal beings that when we left work to leave it there; and she said, "Yes", that was true.

Q. Did she say anything to you about having listened too much to certain people?

A. Yes, she did. She said, "Well, Mamie, I think you have been listening too much to somebody outside"; and I told her that I had a mind of my own and I usually made my own judgments.

Q. Was that the extent of the conversation?

p. 186 A. Well, she told me about how the prices were set, you know, on the different ones, and asked me if I didn't think that it was better to let the girls work the entire year at $15 rather than, you know, make a difference in the different kinds of work—that is, on the silks and wool and on the cotton.

Q. Now, was anything said about the union further than what you have already said?

A. Well, she told me, she says, "Mamie", she says, "you try working at one of these places that has this system of pricing and see how you like it, and then in 2 months you report back to me. If you find that you are wrong, maybe we can help you. If you find out that we are wrong, maybe you can help us."

[fol. 5055] Q. Did you have an instructor by the name of Patton while you were there? A. Yes.

Q. Did she ever make any inquiry of you about any union activities?

A. In the spring of 1934 in April she asked me if I had ever heard any of the girls talk about the union, and I told her "no", because at that time I had not.

Q. Did she express any opinion herself about the union? A. No, sir.

Q. Now, when you were finally let off, were you told that you would be called back?

A. Well, I asked Marie about that, and she said, "Don't take your things home; you are not laid off." That is, my uniforms and my

p. 187 scissors and bobbins and things.

Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) Who is Marie?

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Was she the instructor?

A. Marie Patton, my instructor.

Q. Now, were you ever called back?
A. No, sir.
Q. You tried to get back?
A. I went down to see Ella Mae about going back.
Q. You mean Mrs. Hyde? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Were you successful in getting reinstated?
A. That is at the time that Mrs. Reeves told me that they didn't think they would ever call me back.
Q. And have they ever called you since that time? A. No, sir.

[fol. 5056] Q. Now, did they ever at any time complain to you about your work? A. No, sir.
Q. During the 9 years you worked there?
A. No, sir.
Q. Do you know whether or not they have employed women of less experience than yours since you have been laid off? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Have they or not? A. They have.

[fol. 5057] Extracts From Testimony of Mrs. Elizabeth Gates Reeves on February 28, 1935, Volume 2, Pages 202 to 318, inclusive.

By Mr. Rucker:

p. 202 Q. Your name please?
A. Elizabeth Gates Reeves.
Q. And you live in Kansas City, do you Mrs. Reeves?
A. I live in Kansas City, Missouri.
Q. You are employed by the Donnelly Garment Company, are you? A. Yes, sir.
Q. In what capacity?
A. I am production manager.
Q. How long have you occupied that position with the company? A. About eight years.
Q. And prior to that time were you associated with the Company?
A. Yes, sir, I was a clerk in the office, payroll.
Q. How long have you been connected in one capacity or another with the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. It will be fourteen years this March.

p. 203 Q. What are your duties as production manager, Mrs. Reeves?

A. Well, along with production manager, I merchandise the line and I am general superintendent, I imagine, of the entire factory; I have charge of the factory, all the producing.

Q. In other words, all of the young women who have testified, and others who occupy the same relative positions down there are under your supervision and control?

p. 203 A. Yes.

p. 207 Q. Now, do you know what they mean here by the statement they are forming this Loyalty League to refute untrue statements and propaganda circulated by the Union?

Mr. Reed: She had nothing to do with it. You are just asking her to interpret something somebody else wrote.

Q. Are you in close contact with these people who are mentioned here, Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Strickland and Mr. Mulshe? A. No.

Q. You don't see them very often?

p. 208 A. No.

Q. Are they there every day? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are they there every day? A. Yes.

[fol. 5058] p. 208 Q. Are they under you?

A. Mr. Mulshe is indirectly under me because he is a cutter. Mrs. Strickland is not and Mrs. Gray is very indirectly.

Q. Now, you did hear of the fact that there was going to be an effort made to form some sort of a league, didn't you? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Was the first notice of it that you had when you found it in this publication?

A. No. The first notice I had of it was when I was asked—told about it and was asked if I would like to become a member.

Q. And did you decline? A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you become a member?

A. Yes, I did.

p. 210 Q. Just forget about that, forget about the League. I will ask you if this conversation occurred between you—

Mr. Reed. When?

A. When?

Q. Approximately about December 12, 1934?

A. A conversation did occur between Virginia Stroup, and Frances Reidel and myself and this was the conversation and how it happened to occur. Virginia Stroup and Frances Reidel went into their section one morning in December and immediately announced to their instructor, "I belong to the Union now and I can do as I want to; we have our feet on the ground, you cannot lay us off."

p. 217 Q. And did Virginia say "the organization of the Donnelly Garment employees, I am the chair lady?"

A. Yes, Virginia announced to me that she was now the chairman of the Nelly Don Union and I said "I never heard of it, what is it Virginia" and she said "well, you better call up the Union and find out," and I said "who put you there Virginia; and how did you happen to be the chairman." She said "you better call up the Union and find out, they will tell you all about it", and I said "well, Virginia, it seems to me that if any steps like that was taken that it is up to them to notify us of your position and so forth. It is all news to us." I said "what are your duties Virginia." She said "I am to investigate any time that anybody is laid off." I said "by whose authority" and she said "well, call up the union and find out." And I said "well, Virginia, as far as I am concerned I don't recognize you as having any authority whatsoever." I said "nobody has ever notified me or told me; no operator, no girl has ever said to me that they wanted you to represent them or to the Donnelly Garment Company in any way."

[fol. 5059] p. 220 Q. Didn't you, in that same conversation say to Virginia "by the way, what is your office" and did she not reply to you "I am to find out why you lay a girl off and take it to the offce."

A. I didn't have to ask her—

Q. I didn't ask you whether you had to.

A. She announced to me what her position was and that is what she said.

Q. And told you she was to find out why you laid a girl off? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you say in reply to that statement by her "I don't see that that is any of your business. Mrs. Hyde, don't you put out any information about why we lay a girl off."

A. I certainly did. I didn't say to Virginia that it was none of her business; I asked her just by what authority that we should tell her and then I told her that as far as I was concerned I did not intend to give her any information and I authorized Mrs. Hyde not to give her any of the information. I didn't say what you said.

p. 221 Q. Now, at that point, did you not say "Virginia, just what is your organization for" and did she not say "Well, Mrs. Reeves, you call the office, they will tell you everything I have left out."

A. That took place.

Q. That took place? A. Yes.

p. 222 Q. You had a stenographic report of the meeting that had been held at the Eagles Hall of the various Union organizations in Kansas City, did you not? A. I did not.

Q. You went to the meeting?

A. Yes, I did.

p. 241 Q. (By Director Pratt) One more question. The last four weeks as to this Thelma Owen, according to the card these things did not occur, I mean there was no machine trouble and no time out, according to this card?

A. Well, Mr. Pratt, they did occur, and furthermore that is the only reason why we laid Thelma off. Her instructor complained constantly and even then when Thelma wanted to come back I personally took it up with our instructors and I asked each one of them if they would not give her another chance and they just absolutely refused.

[fol. 5060] p. 245 A. Mr. Rucker, if I may explain our policy at the Donnelly Garment Company, maybe that will answer the question for you. Every week when we analyze our payroll cards there are three people that go over that payroll card, the instructor, Mrs. Wherry, who has charge of the factory and Mr. Atchison, my assistant.

Now, we analyze each one of those cards very carefully and consider what the operator has done during the entire week, what handicap she might have been under and we do quite a lot of things gratis, and then also we take in consideration if it is hard for them to handle new work and if it is, sometimes we give them an extra allowance, just to get started and then also we take into consideration that maybe a girl has had repair work and we don't want her to fall down too low because she is an $18.00 operator and we will give her money gratis.

p. 261 A. Mr. Rucker, in hiring our employees, I want to explain that we take into consideration quite a number of things; first the quality of the work and then the quantity enters into it and then whether the operators are reliable, cooperative and obedient. Those are our requirements for a good operator.

Mr. Birkhead: What do you mean by obedient?

A. That they will do as they are told; when an instructor gives them work to do that they do it. . . . We get that report from our in-

p. 291 structors. We always get our report from Mrs. Wherry who is in charge of the factory and Mrs. Tyhurst who has charge of the work, and the examiners.

Q. You are getting beyond the scope of my question entirely. What I am trying to get and I wish you would answer the question is simply this: Does the fact that these girls have made this complaint have any bearing upon your attitude as to whether you would employ them or not?

A. Well, Mr. Pratt, it is just like that. I certainly think these girls, by their statements up here, have not admitted in several cases where they have been disobedient, that they did not follow instructions, and I would not be human if I say that I don't take a little bit of that in consideration at this date. There are certain people that you like but it is not because of their Union affiliations whatsoever. I would feel exactly the same way if they were non Union or if they were white or black or Catholics or Protestants or whatever their nationality is.

p. 292

p. 307 A. Nobody is let out of the Donnelly Garment Company unless four people pass on it. After we decide that we have to lay off a certain group or a number of people we go over our records with the instructor and she makes the recommendation because she is in close touch with the operator and knows the type of work the operator does and whether she is efficient, obedient, cooperative and reliable. After the instructor makes that selection it is checked by Mrs. Wherry who is in charge of our factory, who knows what is going on in every section of the place and Mrs. Wherry might make a suggestion, "Well, possibly we won't be able to use that girl in that section but we might be able to transfer her to another section." That is gone into very thoroughly. Then that group of people are taken up with Mr. Atchison and Mr. Atchison discusses them very thoroughly and he sees what they have made and he knows the reasons about what happened each week because he analyzes each week our payroll cards with the instructor and Mrs. Wherry. We spend an awful lot of time and money and thought each week, that I don't believe there is another factory in the United States that spends two whole days going through their payroll each week analyzing the type of operator the girl is. We treat our people like individuals and they each have certain things that they can do and we classify them and so forth and then after that is [fol. 5061] p. 309 done it is brought up to me for a final O. K. and I go into all the reasons and whys and wherefores, and then if we all four agree that this group of people should be laid off we lay them off. Like I repeated in the case of Thelma Owen, I had overruled the instructor and Mrs. Wherry and Mr. Atchison just about a month before she was finally laid off, and when it was brought up again to me with her past record I had to agree because I expect certain things of those instructors; they have to get out a certain quantity of work in order to make our factory efficient and I certainly expect to get out quality. Well, I cannot expect them then to keep people in their section that won't cooperate and won't help them maintain the quality and standard of our work so sometimes we do come along and say "well, maybe we can put this girl in another section and maybe she can get along a lot better". Does that answer your question?

[fol. 5062] Extracts from testimony of LILLIAN WALES on April 15, 1935.

Volume No. 3, Pages 321 to 330.

p. 321 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) State your name, please.
A. Lillian Wales.
Q. How long have you been in the employ of the Donnelly Company?

A. About 4 years, I think. I don't exactly remember.

Q. Are you a member of the union?

p. 322 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember when you joined?

A. The 8th day of January.

Q. 1935? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before joining the union, did you engage in union activities? In other words, had you contemplated joining prior to the time you did actually join? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who is your immediate superior?

A. Mrs. Allison.

Q. And has she been for some time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At what building do you work?

A. Twenty-sixth and Walnut.

Q. Have you always worked in that building?

A. No, sir.

[fol. 5063] Q. How long have you been working in that building?

A. Since the 21st day of January.

Q. Where did you work before that time?

A. At Eighteenth and Walnut, on the eighth floor.

Q. Have you at any time had any discussion of the unionizing of the shop out there with any of your superiors? A. Yes, sir.

p. 323 Q. Now, just tell the Board, please, in your own way, with whom you talked and what the conversation was.

A. Well, I was sent over to the other building on the 21st day of January, and Mary Copowycz is our thread girl, and she came to me and asked me—

Q. (By Mr. Blume) What is the name?

A. Mary Copowycz.

Q. Is she superior to you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In authority? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Does she have the power to hire or discharge you?

A. I don't think so. I really don't know.

Mr. Blume: Proceed.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Go ahead, now.

A. And she asked me why I joined. I told her because I wanted to and I thought it was right. And she insinuated that it was Frances—

Q. Don't say "insinuated."

A. She said Frances—

p. 324 Dir. Pratt: Q. Go ahead.

[fol. 5064] Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Go ahead now, please, with your testimony.

p. 325 A. Well, she said that, asked me why, and I told her; and she said, "Well, you know it won't do you any good." She said, "You can't get a job anywhere else." And then she went on telling me about how the union had been a long time ago, and I still told her I thought it was all right.

And she didn't have anything to say to me for quite a while; and several days later Mrs. Allison came to me and asked me, she said, "Why did you join this union?" and I said, "Because I thought it was right"; and she said, "Well, I would like to have talked to you." She said, "I believe if I could have talked to you that you wouldn't have joined this union."

She said, "The first time when I heard that Frances Riedel joined", she said, "I knew that you two kids were friends, and I was afraid of it." And I said, "Well, you could have wrote me a note, couldn't you?" and she said "Yes"; and I said, "Yes, but you couldn't have incriminated yourself that way, could you?" and she said "No."

And then she went on to say, "Well, why do you girls want to give your money to those foreigners so they can sit around and just take your money? and they are not going to do anything for you." And she said, "You can't get a job anywhere else, and the first time that you do something that this union doesn't like you are going to be completely left out, and then where are you going to be?"

p. 326 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, you are still employed there? They have never discharged you? A. No, sir.

Q. Is that true?

A. Yes, sir. But I worked over at the other building on the same floor at the same machine through several lay-offs for over a year. And Frances Riedel—Mrs. Allison came and asked her if I belonged to the union, and she told her "Yes." And on Monday preceding that date I was sent to the other building. There was never a word said about it; I was just called and sent over there with the rest of them.

Q. Now, do I understand that all of the girls who belonged to the union are in that one section, the 2609 Walnut Street building?

A. Well, I really don't know, Mr. Rucker.

Q. You don't know about that?

A. No.

Q. Do you know who works in that section and is a member of the union?

[fol. 5065] A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who? A. In our building, you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. Virginia Stroup, Frances Riedel, Nora McKee, Flossie Walton.

Q. And yourself?

A. And myself. There are several others, but I—

p. 327 Q. Do you know of any girl who belongs to the union out there that was not sent over to that section? A. No, sir.

Q. Do not?

A. Oh, you mean from Eighteenth and Walnut, Mr. Rucker?

Q. Yes. Do you know any of the girls who belonged to the union who are working in the building where you worked previously?

A. No, I don't know any of them. They sent us all over there.
Q. Well, that's what I asked you.
A. Well, I didn't understand. As soon as they found out I was, they sent me over there. And then they sent Flossie Walton and Katie McKinsey the next day. I was sent on Monday, and they were sent on Tuesday.
Q. Now, has there been any discussion about an abandonment of that section in which you are working?
A. Well, that building is only run through a rush season, and then it's closed.
Q. Then it's closed? A. Yes.
Q. Now, the rush season is not yet over, is it?
A. No.
Q. About when will that be over?
[fol. 5066] A. Well, that's hard to say. Usually around the first of June.
Q. Then in the other building the sections continue to work, do they, except for very brief periods?
p. 328 A. Yes, sir.

Extracts from Testimony Given by FRANCES RIEDEL, April 15, 1935, Volume No. 3, Pages 330 to 350.

By Mr. Rucker:
p. 330 Q. State your name, please.
A. Frances Riedel.
Q. Are you employed at Donnelly's?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How long have you been working there?
A. Well, a little over 3 years.
Q. In what building are you working?
A. Twenty-sixth and Walnut.
Q. That's the same building that Mrs. Wales works in?
p. 331 A. Yes, sir.
Q. How long have you worked there?
A. Well, just since I have belonged to the union.

Q. Is that supposed to be a more desirable location than the other building or not?

A. Well, not for myself it isn't, no.

Q. Well, why?

A. Well, I would just rather work over in the other building. It's not a nice building. We have not the conveniences over there that we had over at the other building.

Q. You had worked at the other building steadily, had you—

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before you joined the union? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 5067] Q. How long was it after if was known at the factory that you had become a member of the union before you were transferred?

A. About a little over two weeks; not quite three.

Q. Have you ever had any talk with any official in authority at the Donnelly factory? With reference to the union.

A. Yes, I have. I have talked to Mrs. Reeves and Mrs. Allison and Mary Copowycz.

Q. Tell the Board about your talk with Mrs. Reeves.

Q. (By Dir. Pratt) When and where, please?

Mr. Rucker. Q. Yes.

A. Well, it was about 2 weeks after I joined the union.

p. 332 Q. (By Dir. Pratt) When was that?

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) When did you join the union?

A. In October.

Q. In October. The latter part of October?

A. Yes. And we came back from our union meeting on a Tuesday; and on a Wednesday, why, Grace called us—

Q. Who is Grace, now?

A. It was my instructor at that time.

Q. What was her last name? That's what I mean. For the record.

A. Gnotta. And she came to Virginia and I and asked us if we belonged to the union. And I said "Yes", I did. And she said, "Well, I am awfully sorry"; and I said, "I don't see anything to be sorry about that I belong to an organization; I don't see that that's anything wrong." And she said, "Well, I just feel awfully sorry for you little girls." And then Mrs. Reeves called her or they had a conversation over the telephone, and she called Virginia up to the office.

Q. Now, were you there? A. No.

Q. Well, just tell what you know, when you were present.

[fol. 5068] Q. (By Mr. Blume) Called Virginia Who?

A. Virginia Stroup. And then later on they called me up, and Virginia was in the office at the time. And just as I got in the door she had been talking to Virginia, and she said she

p. 333 was getting awfully tired of this foolishness, and said that Grace had been listening to it and she wasn't going to listen to it any more, and that she was getting awfully tired of Virginia and I wasting time in the section. And there was Mrs. Reeves and Mr. Dewey and Grace Gnotta and Mrs. Wherry, and that was all that was in the room.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Is that all she said?

A. No. When I came in the room she asked me if I was Frances Riedel, and I said "Yes", and she said, "Do you belong to this organization?" and I said, "Yes, ma'am, I do." Then she called another girl up to the office and she didn't belong, and so she sent her back and just kept Virginia and I there.

And she asked us what this penny organization was, what we called it; and we told her it was the Nelly Don Association. And she said, "What right have you to use the Nelly Don name?" and we said we didn't know but we were organizing, trying to organize, the Nelly Don Shop into a union shop. And she said, "Well, do you think you girls, after Mrs. Donnelly has built this building up, this business up, that you are going to come in here and run it with an organization?" And Virginia said "No", that we were not going to run it or the organization didn't intend to run the business.

And she just said that she was awfully sorry for us little girls and she thought we had better sense than to do a thing like that. And when she asked us about our organization she rep. 334 ferred to it as a "one-horse organization", and they all laughed. And then Mr. Dewey asked us girls why we didn't come to them about our wages and things instead of going down to a bunch of foreigners; that we would get far more out of it.

Q. Dewey? A. Yes.

Q. Dewey Atchison?

A. Yes. And Virginia said she had came several times but it didn't do any good. And Mrs. Reeves said, Well, there wasn't any work down there that we couldn't make our average on; and we said there was; and she said she certainly didn't know of it if there was.

And when we left she said we two little girls reminded her of the two little girls that had been misled, and that we wouldn't be laid off as long as we did our work. And then she said to Ella Mae—

Q. (By Mr. Blume) Who do you mean by "Ella Mae"?

[fol. 5069] A. Ella Mae Guerrant. That isn't her name now.

Q. Ella Mae Hyde? A. Hyde.

Mr. Blume. All right.

The Witness. And she said that Ella Mae Hyde's job was to watch us two girls, the times we went to the rest room and how long we spent there. And Virginia asked her if just us two girls, just because we belonged to an organization, were to be timed the time we

p. 335 went to the wash room; and she said "Yes", she was not going to have any girl in her section that was wasting time, and that I was a very poor operator and that she could lay us both off any time she wanted to because our records were poor.

And I hadn't very much to say; I just sat and listened. And the only thing I did say to her was that I didn't blame her if a girl run all around and spent a lot of time in the wash room; that I would lay her off, too, if she spent all her time running to the wash room.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Well, had you been doing that?

A. No, sir; not that I recall.

Q. Did you tell her you had not been spending your time running to the wash room and talking? A. Yes, I did.

Q. And was that the end of that conversation?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. Now, on the following Thursday, after you had been called up to Mrs. Reeves' office, did you have a talk with Grace Gnotta?

A. Yes, Grace Gnotta came to me and asked me why I belonged to that organization. She said, "If it hadn't been for Virginia, you wouldn't have belonged, would you?" and I said, "Why, yes, I have a mind of my own; I don't have to ask Virginia what to do."

And she said that she had talked with Mrs.
p. 336 Reeves, and she said, "You won't get laid off." And I said, "Well, Mrs. Reeves done told me that my record was poor and she could lay me off any time that she wanted to." And she said, "Well, that talk wasn't intended for you"; she said it was intended for Virginia. And she said, "I talked to Mrs. Reeves and told her you were a good little operator"; and I said, "Well, Grace, I don't know whether I am a good operator or not, but I think I am the average, and I have always tried to do my work to the best of my ability; but", I said, "I did not join that organization because Virginia asked me." And she said, "Well, I am sure if you just let this organization alone, why, you would have a job here as long as you behaved."

[fol. 5070] And it was right at Christmas time when she came and talked to me, or before Christmas, and she said, "Why don't you give me a nice little Christmas present and tell me that you don't belong to this organization any more?" and I said, "Well, I have already got a Christmas present"; and that was all our conversation.

Q. Did she tell you that the girls that belonged to the union organization were the scum from Donnelly's?

A. Yes, she did. She said, "You know, you don't look like those girls; they are the scums from the company." "Yes", she said, "you don't belong to that bunch." And I said, "Well, I don't feel like just because I have a better dress or a better coat than somebody that I am better than anybody else, because I feel I

p. 337 am the equal to every girl that works down here and they are to me.

Q. Did she ask you not to attend any more union meetings?

A. Yes. She asked me if I would give her a nice little Christmas present and tell her I didn't attend any more meetings or didn't have any more to do with it.

Q. And you wouldn't make that promise?

A. Why, no, I wouldn't.

Q. Now, there's another organization out there, isn't there? A. Yes.

Q. Company organization? A. Yes.

Q. Are you a member of that? A. Yes, I am.

Q. (By Mr. Blume) What one are you talking about? Let's have that cleared up. There are several organizations.

A. The Loyalty League.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) You belong to the Loyalty League?

A. No, I don't. They wouldn't allow us.

Q. Well, that's what I am asking you. Now, why do you say they wouldn't allow you to?

A. Well, I asked for one of the cards, and Mrs. Allison wouldn't even let me have it. And they made the remark to Virginia that she couldn't carry water on both shoulders.

[fol. 5071] Q. And did you hear that?

p. 338 A. Yes, I did.

Q. Who made that remark?

A. I don't know that lady that made the remark. It was two ladies from the other building that came over.

Q. In other words, you were not permitted to join the Loyalty League, which was a company organization, for the reason that you belonged to the union; is that right?

A. Yes, I guess it was the reason. I don't know what other reason it would be.

Q. You were not asked to join afterwards?

A. They had even passed notices around of their meetings and things and wouldn't even allow me to see the letters; would pass them around me.

Mr. Rucker. That's all.

p. 348 Q. Now, did you ever hear any official of the company or anybody superior to you say anything about Ellen Fry?

A. Yes. I didn't belong to the union at that time, but I did hear Mrs. White say something about Ellen Fry.

Q. What did you hear her say?

A. She was sitting up there at her machine one day, and I was talking to her; on the corner machine where she sat at lunch time. And she had been called up to Mrs. Reeves's office for something—

Q. (By Mr. Blume) Mrs. White had been?

p. 349 A. Yes, and so had Ellen. And Mrs. White told me personally that she did not like Ellen and she was not going to have her in her section; that she was going to get rid of her.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Was Ellen then a member of the union?

A. Yes, sir; she belonged then. That's when she came to me and was talking to several of us girls at the time, asking us if we would like to belong.

Q. And did Mrs. White mention the union in connection with that conversation?

[fol. 5072] A. Yes.

Q. What did she say?

A. She said Ellen Fry belonged to the union.

Q. And did she assign that as the reason why she was going to get rid of her?

Mr. Blume. You don't suppose that's a little bit leading, do you?

Mr. Rucker. It may be.

Mr. Blume. I think there ought to be some limit to leading questions.

Dir. Pratt. Q. Go ahead and answer.

A. She said that Ellen Fry had caused lots of trouble, she belonged to the union, and she was not going to have her in her section. That's the words that she said to me.

Mr. Rucker. That's all.

[fol. 5073] Extracts From Testimony of Mrs. PAULINE LUTZ on April 15, 1935.

(Volume 3 Pages 351 to 378, inclusive)

p. 351 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) State your name, please.

A. Pauline Lutz.

Q. Were you employed at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did that employment cease?

A. About the 18th of January.

Q. 1935? A. Yes.

Q. How long had you been employed at Donnelly's before that date?

p. 352 A. Well, I think it's 5 years this last March. Would be. I may be mistaken, but I think it is 5.

Q. What type of work did you do largely during the 5 years before you were discharged?

A. Small hemming mostly.

Q. What type of work were you doing when you were discharged?

A. Well, I was doing all kinds of straight sewing.

p. 353 Q. When were you sent to the other building with reference to the time when you joined the union?

A. Well, I was sent over there about the 18th of January, and I joined sometime the week before. I don't remember exactly.

Q. Was the work which you were given to do at the other building—that is, the building to which you were moved—different from the work you had been doing?

A. Why, yes. It was straight sewing and I had been doing hemming.

p. 355 Q. Now, did you ever have any talk with any of your superiors about the union?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was it, and with whom did you have the talk?

A. The first that I ever heard about the union, Mrs. Reeves and Mr. Dewey and Mrs. Wherry called us up, the whole section, up

p. 356 in the office; and all they said about the union was that some of the girls had joined the union, and that they knew just who those girls were. And they said, "We will not tell you who they are because we don't want to humiliate you"; but they said, "Why didn't you girls come to us and tell us about it? If you want to join the union, that's all right, but why didn't you come and tell us about it?"

And they talked about having these secret meetings and everything, and they looked toward me, Mrs. Wherry did. And I said—

[fol. 5074] p. 356 I thought maybe they thought that I belonged, and in fact, I had never even heard of it. I didn't even know they had even started the union, and I had been in the section with Ellen Fry all the time, and I had never even heard of it; and I said that. And they said, "Well, you must have been asleep."

So then Mrs. Reeves, she said that she never had lied to any of us, and everything we had asked for she had tried to do. And then she said, "If any of you girls hear anything about the Union, I want you to come and tell me about it." And, of course, I thought, "Well,—"

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) You can't tell what you thought.

A. Well, I just thought, "Well, I would do that."

Q. You can't tell what you thought. All you can testify to is facts, conversations, and not your thoughts.

A. Well, that's what happened up there.

Q. Now, did you afterwards join the union?

p. 357 A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long was it after that meeting before you joined?

A. Well, I think that was about in October, and they never laid me off—

Q. Now, wait a minute. Just answer my questions, will you? That was in October. When did you join the union?

A. Sometime in January.

Q. January 1935? A. Yes.

Q. All right. Now, did you have any talk with anybody about unionism before you joined?

A. You mean, of the people in the— You mean, from the office, from the union office?

Q. Any of the officers or your superiors there. I am not talking about girls who worked there.

A. You mean our superiors in the factory?
Q. Yes, ma'am. A. Yes.
[fol. 5075] p. 357 Q. All right. When was that? What was the conversation, and with whom?
A. Well, the first time was that me not knowing what the union meant or anything after Ellen Fry and—
Q. Now, you don't understand me. I am asking you—
A. Well, I wanted to tell you how the conversation came up.
Q. All right.
p. 358 A. And Tillie Shirley there: I said, "I didn't know about Ellen Fry; and what do you think of Tillie Shirley being there?" And Mrs. White said, "Yes, to think she joined that union, when I made it possible; I made her. I gave her joining all the time so she could make $18 and $19 a week, and this is the way she did us."
Q. The way she treated her?
A. The way she treated Donnelly's. And, of course, I thought that was all right. And so, then, the next time we had any conversation about it was that it was just— I think it was the day before Christmas.
Q. Now, even up to that time you hadn't yet joined? A. No.
Q. But you had thought about it at that time?
A. Well, I felt this way: I would like to know both sides of it.
Q. All right. Go ahead.
A. So this morning as I went in somebody handed me a pamphlet, and it happened to be the charter, and I didn't know a charter from anything else; so I looked at it and went upstairs, and I went over to Ella Mae—she is in the office there—and I said, "Did you see this?" and she said, "Yes, I have one of them." And so I walked on away.

And I put on my uniform and went to my machine, and I had this pamphlet in my hand.

p. 359 I was really making light of it. I was joking more than anything else. And I went to one girl, and I said, "Look here; we belong to the union"; jollying; "here is the local, here is the number of the local." I just read that; I didn't know what it meant. And Mrs. White says, "Well, she's not interested." She says, "anybody with any sense wouldn't read that dirty thing." And I said, "Well, I don't see anything dirty about it." And so I went and sat down at the machine.

I went over to one of the other girls and said, "See, we belong to the union. Did you know it?" And she said, "isn't that fine!" And I said, "I'll tell you right now, if I knew [fol. 5076] p. 359 where these meetings were, I would like to go and hear that side of it. I don't think anybody ought to say they wouldn't join anything until they know both sides of it." And one of the girls said, "You had better look out, you will lose your job."

Then Mrs. Reeves came around in a little while and gave us our $5 with a Christmas card, and she always wished us a merry Christmas and a happy New Year; and she didn't do that to me. She just handed me the card and said, "Pauline, I want you to understand that Donnelly's don't belong to the union and they never will." And I said, "Why, I never thought anything about it." I really didn't. I just didn't know what it meant. And so she went past me, and when she came back I kind of took a hold of her hand and pulled her over to me and said,
p. 360 "Didn't Mrs. White tell you that?" And she said, "No, you did." But I hadn't seen Mrs. Reeves to tell her. I hadn't even seen her to say anything about it. And that's all that was said.

So then when I came back after Christmas to work, why, I don't know whether it was that next day after Christmas or the next Monday that they sent me over to the other building.

Extracts From Testimony of MRS. VIRGINIA STROUP on April 15, 1935, Volume 8, Pages 379 to 443, inclusive.

p. 379 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) State your name, please.
A. Virginia Stroup.
Q. How old are you? A. Twenty-seven.
Q. How long have you worked at Donnelly's?
A. Approximately 6 years.
Q. You are a member of the union, are you?
A. Yes, I am the president.
Q. Of that local. A. Yes.
Q. During the past 6 years that you worked at Donnelly's, what has usually been the character of work given you?
A. Well, I have done— Binding and straight sewing have been my main operations.
Q. In what building are you now working?
A. Twenty-sixth and Walnut.

[fol. 5077] p. 379 Q. How long have you worked there?
A. You mean at this new building?
Q. Yes.
A. Well, I think I was sent over there about the 13th or something like that of December, last year.
Q. 1934? A. Yes.

p. 380 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, is the place you are now working looked upon as the more desirable building in which to work?
A. No, it is not.
Q. Why? Have you any reasons for saying that?
A. Well, the sanitary conditions over there aren't just up to par. That is, the rest rooms. And we don't have as much space. And our horses and our equipment— There's no comparison between this building and the
p. 381 other building as for conveniences.
Q. Then, as I understand it, the other building is the more desirable building? A. It is.

Q. How long had you worked at the other building steadily before you were sent over here now in December?

A. Well, since the code came in, I should say, in 1933.

Q. And you have worked there something over a year and a half? A. Yes.

Q. Steadily? A. Yes.

Q. And you had also worked there, with the exception of 5 months, during all the time that you had been employed by Donnelly's?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, are you a member of the Loyalty League?

A. No, sir.

[fol. 5078] p. 381 Q. Were you asked to join, or did you attempt to join?

A. Well, the day that Mrs. Gray came over with Mrs. Strickland with the Loyalty League cards, they had distributed them mostly before I got up there. And Mrs. Gray was holding the cards in her hand just like that.

Dir. Pratt. Indicate fan shape.

A. Fan shape. And I asked Mrs. Gray what they were. And Mrs. Strickland took up the conversation then. She said that Mrs. Donnelly would close her doors before she would

p. 382 have a union shop, and we should sign these cards to keep our jobs and keep us in work because she would close the doors and thus throw all the girls out of employment.

So I started to take one of the cards like this, but she had her thumb holding it until I couldn't get it. She says, "Virginia, we would like to have you in our organization, but you can't carry water on both shoulders." She says, "There are no dues in this Loyalty League, and you can't belong to an organization that you pay dues to and belong to the Loyalty League."

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) So you were not given a card, then? A. No.

Q. And not asked to join? A. No.

Q. And, as I understand it, you were told in effect that you couldn't join? A. Yes.

Q. Now, did you ever have any conversation with any of your superiors with reference to the union? A. Yes.

Q. Now, I wish you would just take it up in your own way, now, and relate just what was said to you by any person superior to you in the organization with reference to the union.

Dir. Pratt: Q. And, when you are doing this, state when and where the various conversations occurred.

p. 383 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Giving the dates and the place where they occurred and the persons with whom the conversations was had.

A. Well, I think—I mean the first time that I ever heard "union" mentioned in the shop [fol. 5079] p. 383 was approximately the time they laid Ellen off.

Q. You mean Ellen Fry now? A. Yes.

Q. I wish you would give the person's name.

A. Mrs. Ellen Fry.

Q. Because the Board can't remember by first names.

Mr. Blume. And that time was what?

Dir. Pratt. July 8; 6 or 8.

Mr. Birkhead. Of 1934?

Dir. Pratt. Yes.

A. Mary Copowycz had a section at that time, and she said, "If the union would only leave our girls alone, we would get along all right." Then the next time that I heard anything about the union down there from a superior, after this lay-off in June, I believe it was,—

Q. (By Mr. Rucker)—Or July?

A. No. In October. I think they had a lay-off in October.

They called the girls up in Mrs. Reeves' office approximately October 18, or somewhere along there, to tell them first how hard they had worked to keep us in work and what a p. 384 strain it was. And Mrs. Reeves said that she had nervous indigestion, she knew, more than anyone. And at first it was a lecture as to how good they had always been to us.

And about the middle of the conversation, I should say, she said that some of the girls had been going to union meetings. "Now, we know who those girls are, but we don't want to cause them humiliation"; but at the same time she looked right straight back at me. And she says, "Virginia, what do you know about this?" And I got up on my feet and told Mrs. Reeves that I had been to one union meeting at a private home. Of course, I didn't join the union at that time.

Q. Just relate the conversation.
A. She said, "Just what did you gain by it?" And I sort of laughed, and I said, "Well, nothing, Mrs. Reeves, only a good ham dinner." And of course, everyone laughed.

Q. (By Mr. Blume) Pardon me. Was that the meeting at the Brooks home?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know the date of it?
[fol. 5080] p. 384 A. No, I don't.
So then she asked a couple or three others to get up and testify as to what they knew about the union, if anyone had approached them, and, if so, what they had said. Well, she wound up the conversation, then, by saying that anyone knowing or finding out any information about anyone having anything
p. 385 to do with the union, she would very much appreciate it if we would come and tell her. And with that we were dismissed.

Then about the first of December, about 3 o'clock one afternoon, Mrs. Reeves sent for me to come to her office. And I went up there. She says, "Virginia, do you belong to the union?" I said, "No ma'am." She says, "Well, there's been some rumors around about your being with a bunch of girls up on a certain date that ook a girl with you in the car, didn't tell where you were taking her until you got on your way; and when the girl found out where she was going, which was supposed to be a union meeting, she jumped out of the car." And I said, "Mrs. Reeves, I don't know anything about that." I said, "I have studied the economic situation, and I think I know it, but I don't belong to the union." So she was very well satisfied with my answer and let me go.

Then, of course, the charter was drawn up the 6th, and I was one on the charter. And December 12 was the day that she called Frances Ridel and myself up to the office. I went first. That morning— I would like to put this in. That morning I had asked a girl an address just be— I don't know; I just asked her for an address. So this girl was called up with us. Her name was Fannie something. I have forgotten her name. So the minute I got in the room Mrs. Reeves— I could see Mrs. Reeves, Mr. Dewey,—

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Dewey is his first name.

p. 386 A. Dewey Atchison, Mrs. Ella Mae Hyde, and did I mention Mrs. Wherry? And Miss Gnotta, our immediate instructor. She was sitting with her back sort of to us, the instructor was.

She beat her first down on the table, just like that.

Q. Who did?

A. Mrs. Reeves. And she said "I am getting darned sick of you girls carrying on like this." And she sat Frances and I right in front of her. In fact, I was in direct line of her, and Frances was like to the side.

About that time Fannie came in, and she said, "This goes for you, too, Fannie." And I said, "Mrs. Reeves, Fannie doesn't even know what you are talking about." So with a few words to Fannie about what she must do, go down and make her code or else out she goes, she told Fannie she was dismissed. So then she told us, she said, "I don't care if you belong to 25,000 unions, you can't come in here and tell us how to run our industry. Just where to you get the idea of using the Donnelly Garment Company's name in a local union?" And I told her that it was for the Donnelly workers; it wasn't for any other dress shop but the Nelly Don workers.

So she said for us to report to Sol Goldberg to keep his nose down there in his own business. And she said she was anxious to kno just what we would report to our office so she could be prepared to know what to say.

And she sort of smiled and she said, "Just
p. 387 what is your job in this one-horse organization?" And I said, "Well, Mrs. Reeves, I am the shop chairlady." She said, "Well, just what does that job consist of? What do you do?" I said, "Well, when a girl is laid off or has any complaints, she comes to me with them. And, of course, we have committees, and we try to take care of those things, and I am the shop chairlady to make the report to the office." And she laughed and said, "Isn't that just lovely!"

And then she said that Frances and I were just like a couple of little children that had gone wrong and we were misled, and she would just like to take us over her lap and give us a darned good spanking,—is what she said. Well, of course, she kind of smiled.

p. 388 you this and that." She went into specifications of how much she had allowed us. And she says, "We are not going to keep you unless you can make your code. Now you go down there and make your code, or else out you go. We are just awfully sorry."

And then she told Ella Mae— The subject came up about— When Gnotta said that— Grace Gnotta said that the girls were wasting time in the rest room, taking other girls out in the rest room and talking to them,—which I never did, and I know Frances didn't. So she pointed her finger over to Ella Mae, and she said, "Ella Mae, that's your job from now on. You see how many times these girls go to the rest room and how long they stay."

And, then, let's see. She said so many things I can't remember. She said, "Why don't you take your little band and walk out?" Also she said, Don't you think that the Donnelly Garment Company has always been fair to you in every way?"

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Did you answer any of those questions? Did you do any talking yourself?

A. Not very much. She would ask one question in getting real friendly with us, and then the very next minute she would storm into something else, and really she didn't give us much time to answer.

Q. Well, was that the end of that conversation?

A. I believe that was the end of that conversation.

p. 389 Q. Was unionism mentioned at any other time by anybody down there?

A. Well, that same day she released Frances to go downstairs, and then she called me back. And, of course, the speed-up system down [fol. 5082] p. 389 there is very strict, and it is very hard. So she said, "Virginia, you don't seem to get along very good." And so she says, "Why don't you let me put you on a straight-time position", she said. And I thought I could see through that, so I said, "No, Mrs. Reeves, I have never done anything but sew, and I know I couldn't please you in any other department in this shop." I knew it would be only a matter of time. So then she excused me.

A. Well, upon arriving downstairs in the section of the atmosphere in that short time had changed until the girls didn't want to look p. 390 up at me. You know, they didn't talk to me or smile. In other words, they didn't have anything to say to me when I came downstairs, which was very unusual.

And Mrs. Gnotta went to the girl who worked immediately across from me and told her—Her name was Lillian Foster. She is the crippled girl. And she said, "Lillian, don't ask Virginia what time it is any more. We will be going up and down the aisles, and you can ask us." I heard her say that. So I think that was about all that was said to me at that building.

Then I went over to the other building, and the atmosphere was much the same, very cold, and anyone seen taling to me would have immediate conversation with Mrs. Allison to either tell Mrs. Allison what I had said, or Mrs. Allison would ask them what I had said.

p. 394 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, do you recall having had a conversation with Mrs. Reeves along about the middle of December 1934? I believe you stated that she asked you what your business was, what you were going to do as president, and that you told her that one thing was to see about why girls were laid off. Now, did she tell you in that conversation
p. 395 that she didn't see that that was any of your business, and did she tell Mrs. Hyde not to put out any information about why they laid a girl off?

A. When Mrs. Reeves asked me what my position was, she said— And I told her that; that I was to find out why a girl was laid off. She turned immediately to Mrs. Hyde and said, "You are not to put out any information about why we lay a girl off. That is none of Virginia's business."

Q. Now, did you ever make any effort to discover why anybody had been laid off there?

A. Well, in one case I called Mrs. Reeves about Pauline.

Q. Pauline Lutz? A. Yes.

Q. What conversation did you have with Mrs. Reeves?

A. Well, I called her to tell her that Pauline wasn't getting a square deal.

Q. Did you tell her that?

[fol. 5083] p. 395 A. Yes; I told Mrs. Reeves that Pauline wasn't getting a square deal. And she told me that Pauline was still a member of the Donnelly Garment Company and, as such, they would be glad to talk to her, but not through me. They didn't recognize my organization and, therefore, would talk to Pauline direct. And I told Mrs. Reeves that it was in all fairness to her and to this girl that she wasn't having her regular work and it was being given to other people.

p. 396 Q. Now, did Mrs. Reeves, or did she not, refuse to talk to you about Pauline's case?

A. She said she didn't care to discuss that case with me at all. And with that, that was all that was said that time.

Q. Now, is that the only time you talked to her about it.

A. Well, no. I think it was the next day Mrs. Reeves came over and sat at my machine for 45 minutes. And she told me in the conversation that she thought that I was a smart girl but that brains had been known to get people into trouble and that in my case that would be probably what would happen, and that she certainly felt sorry for me because I had joined the organization. In fact, she had always felt sorry for me; that's why they had kept me so long. And she said that I was throwing a thousand girls out of her employ and she sure wouldn't want that on her soul.

Q. Sorry you joined the organization. Are you referring now to the union?

A. The union, yes. That she would hate to be in our shoes.

Q. Now, go ahead, if you have your testimony in mind now sequentially so you can take up each thing in order. Perhaps you can do it better than if I ask you about it.

A. Well, she talked with me quite a few minutes there; as I said, 45 minutes. And the conversation just sort of went over the same thing again and again, such as she said again that she didn't care if we joined 25,000 unions, if wouldn't do us one bit of good.

And then she left my machine and went over into Mr. Reeves' office there. This used to be Mr. Reeves' plant there. And she went in his office and called me in there. And she said,

"Virginia, when this place does union I'll lose my job. So this place will never go union. So get that straight." And she turned to Mrs. Allison, and she says, "We all like Virginia", she says; "we can't help but like her. It's just the things that she does." And she said so many things I can't remember.

Q. Well, just a repetition of what she said to you before, as I understand you?

A. Yes.

[fol. 5084] p. 398 Q. Now, is there anything else? Have you told all the conversations you had, now? Did you have any conversations with any other persons in authority?

A. Well, yes. One morning we girls were discussing over around the inspector's table about something that had occurred that morning. Mrs. Reeves had called Nora and told her not to talk unionism during working hours. And I know that Nora does not do that. She does not talk while she works. One girl had said that Nora talked so much unionism to her it made her sick.

So we were discussing this matter, and Mrs. Allison came over and said, "You girls can't talk unionism in this shop. Now, if you want to talk unionism you go out in the hall or go completely outside. You should have more respect for your employers than to talk unionism in here." I told Mrs. Allison, I said, "Mrs. Allison, as long as we are not on that machine, and as long as we are not supposed to be working, we can talk about unionism." She said, "I beg your pardon."

p. 399 And, in fact most of the girls that were listening in on the conversation just sort of left, and I was standing there talking to Mrs. Allison myself.

And another time Mrs. Allison came over to my machine, and she said, "Virginia, somebody told me that you called somebody a scab on the elevator the other night"; and I said, "Mrs. Allison, that isn't so." She said, "Oh, yes, it is." I said, "No, it is not, Mrs. Allison. You produce the person that said that I said that, and I will prove that I didn't say it." But she didn't produce the person. She said, "Virginia, if anybody is a scab, you are, because you are a union girl working in a nonunion place."

And then another day—that was along in January or February, just to show the atmosphere—Mrs. Allison came along, and I said, "Mrs. Allison, the girls preceding me doesn't tie her bundles securely; they fall apart." And I showed her this bundle. "This bundle is falling apart. If I lose my chalk mark, that will be my fault. I wish you would tell that girl." "Virginia", she said, "you are crazy." That's what she said. After I showed her the work, she didn't pay any attention to me and went on about her business.

Then there was another conversation. I went over to the other building to buy a dress. And Mrs. Gray, one of the executives over there, got me in the corner and asked me what I had done it for. What did I do it for? What did I join the union for? She said, "Oh, I would hate to think that that old David Dubinsky would come in here and tell Mrs. Donnelly what to do." She said, "I think it's a shame, Virginia; you should see further than that." She said, "Don't you like your job? Why don't you—If you want to work in a union shop, why don't you go work in a union shop?" And I said, "Mrs. Gray, you understand me, it's the wages and the sweatshop conditions that I want to help. We want job security here. That's what we are asking. We want to understand and have an understanding when anything happens in this shop we would have a little say about what happens."

And she said, "Virginia, let me show you something. Now, you have a daughter, and so have I. If that daughter should grow to be so large and so—growing out of your hands, in other words—what would you do about it? You would appreciate my coming [fol. 5085] p. 400 to you and saying something about it, wouldn't you. I said, "Well, in that case, applying to this, I would think the child would either get married, or, in this case, if the business got so big that I couldn't handle it and it caused me so much trouble, I would sell it." That's the very words I told Mrs. Gray.

Well, she said that I owed that much to Patsy, not to listen to what everyone said that came along; that the firm had been so good to me and kept me on during the hard months; they had kept me through there, and that I owed
p. 401 that much to the company to be fairer with them than that.

So I never did get to buy the dress. She talked to me so long that I had to leave. I never did get to buy the dress.

And I believe that that is all of my conversation.

Q. Now, you testified about attitude and atmosphere. (By Mr. Ingraham)
A. Yes.
Q. You say that the other girls wouldn't look at you.
A. They certainly wouldn't.
Q. And do you blame the company for that?
A. I am not talking about the company; I am talking about the girls, the workers themselves. They had been turned, you know, against us.
Q. And who turned them?
A. Well, the instructors, I suppose.

Q. Well, that's just your supposition. You don't know anything of your own knowledge?

A. Well, I know that Grace Gnotta told Lillian Foster not to talk to me. She said, "Don't ask Virginia what time it is. We will be going up and down the aisles, and you ask us."

Q. Well, was it your job to tell the other operators what time it was down there?

p. 423 A. Why, no, but I didn't have to stop work to tell anyone what time it was.

Q. But that wasn't part of your duties as an operator?

A. Why, no; I am not a timekeeper, no.

Q. And because the instructor told the girls not to stop you from your work and ask you what time it was, why that's turning the girls against you?

A. Grace Gnotta went around and whispered in [fol. 5086] p. 423 each girl's ear privately, and what she said to the girls she surely wouldn't be telling them a bedtime story, because after that time those girls would shun you and stand around with their back to you; or if you looked at them and gave them a smile, you got a blank look back. And if I should have had horns, I don't think they would have been much more afraid of me.

The instructor, Mrs. Allison, told us repeatedly that we were going to get laid off, us union girls would get laid off. That's exactly what she said. And that she sure felt sorry for us. And the girls were scared to death to talk to us because it might mean their job.

[fol. 5087] Extracts from Testimony of DEWEY ATCHISON on April 22, 1935.

(Volume 4, Pages 444 to 663, inclusive)

p. 448 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) State your name.

A. Dewey Atchison.

Q. Where are you employed, Mr. Atchison?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. In what capacity? A. Production engineer.
Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?
p. 449
A. Going on 17 years.
Q. What are your duties as production engineer?
A. Well, I assist in production operations, work on production records, employment records, and general production work.
Q. Do you have charge of the maintenance of records of the employees?
A. All production records and employment records are under my supervision.
Q. Do you have anything to do with the hiring and firing of employees?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, in regard to the employing of operators, what do you take into consideration as to qualifications?
A. Well, in the consideration of all of our operators, whether or not we employ them or reemploy them, we first take into consideration the quality of their work. That is the very first consideration, because the success of the company has been built on quality.

Then we take into consideration the quantity of their work. We take into consideration the cooperativeness of employees; their adaptability to do different types of work, whether or not they are fitted to do various different things, and whether they are capable of changing from one type of operation to another. In other words, whether they are dextrous with their hands. Then—Well, I believe I have covered cooperativeness.

Q. Now, has there been any practice at the Donnelly Garment Company to train new employees for the last 10 or 15 years?
A. There has been a practice ever since I have been with the company to train new employees regularly. The practice before 1928 was not [fol. 5088] p. 450 set up as we set it up in 1928. I have an example here of what was done in 1928, if the Board would like to see it. I wouldn't part with this because it is the original. This was set up in 1928. Our practice then was put down and made in the form of a detailed analysis of training of operators. I might read you a little of the first page or two here.

Q. Just tell the Board—We' go ahead and read it.

A "Through an arrangement made with Mrs. Reeves, production manager of the Donnelly Garment Company, and Mr. Dewey Atchison, their planning engineer, a series of meetings was arranged in which their instructors, together with Mr. Atchison and Miss Moore, personnel director, discussed with Mr. Day and Mr. Anderson their instructional methods used by their trainers. Meetings are being held each Tuesday and Thursday on the eighth floor of the Coca-Cola Building.

"In the first meeting Mr. Anderson explained the purpose of the meetings, pointing out objectives that it was hoped might be accomplished. Particular emphasis was placed upon the fact that 'conference methods' were to be used. Early developments indicated that

p. 451 benefit to the instructors and to the company and to the employees as individuals might be had through a detailed consideration of all of the instructional responsibilities carried out in the placing of new and inexperienced workers on power sewing machine jobs and in the continuous supervision of each worker until satisfactory maximum production is reached."

And here is another paragraph down here that I would like to read to you on it that will clear it up:

"It is the opinion of Mr. Day and Mr. Anderson that, although a high grade of instruction is being extended to the workers, yet it is not done on a systematized or uniform basis and it is felt that considerable benefit may be had through organizing, by means of the discussions, a standardized course of procedure that will be acceptable to all, which will result in uniform practices.

"The value of such practice, thoroughly established, is very great and it will have a tendency not only to shorten the learning period for the worker, with its increasing effects upon the worker's income, but will also materially increase the production and stabilize the conditions for the company."

p. 453 Q. Would the company keep records of employees as to their qualifications to become three-type operators?

A. We keep a record of the supervisor's estimate of an operator. That does not give exactly whether the instructors thought she would become a three-type operator, but it does set forth wh ther—It takes into consideration the quali, of her work, the quantity [fol. 5089] p. 453 of her work, and the reliability and cooperativeness, and the opposite—the unreliability and the disobedience.

Q. (Producing card) Is that the card that the company keeps a copy of?

A. Yes. This is a copy of the supervisor's estimate of employees.

p. 456 A. In laying off our operators the first step is to take all of the sections and go through their pay roll record and select the operators who have had the poorest showing in piecework earnings. That is taken for a period of a year.

Then there are two and sometimes three other people called in to the meeting. That meeting will include Mrs. Wherry, the lady who is in entire charge of the factory; the instructor, who is in charge of the 40 girls in that section; and myself.

p. 457 We then go into the question of whether or not the quality of the work of this particular person or her personal characteristics would warrant keeping her over some other girl who might have had a greater piecework earning. For instance, if Mary Jones and Bessie Smith both had a piecework earning of 38 cents an hour, but if Mary Jones's quality of work was better, then she would be kept in preference to the other girl.

Then after that procedure has picked out the desired number of girls to be laid off, they are given to Mrs. Reeves, who checks them over again.

p. 458 A. When a girl is laid off this particular card is dated—The girl's name is inserted by the employment department and the card sent to the supervisor, who, in turn, checks the different qualifications and returns it to the employment department.

Q. That's made out after they are laid off? (By Dir. Pratt)

A. Yes, at the time of the lay-off.

Q. Well, in arriving at the girls to be laid off, are the supervisors and instructors consulted?

A. Yes. As I stated, Mrs. Wherry, who is in charge of the factory, is present, and the supervisor of the particular girl is present. And at that time we go into the different qualities of the girl—whether she reliable or not, whether her work is good, and whether the earnings are good. We discuss it from all of the different angles from which we consider an operator.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) And you get the opinion of the supervisor? A. Yes, always.

Q. Now, the supervisor makes that card out?
p. 459 A. Yes, sir.

Q. (Mr. Dir. Pratt) Let me get this straight. You have talked about "supervisor" and "instructor." Are those two different persons?
[fol. 5090] p. 459 A. An instructor and a supervisor is the same, I believe.

Dir. Pratt. Same thing.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Now, will you just read the various elements that the supervisor takes into consideration in passing on the girl's record?

A. (Referring to respondent's exhibit 1) The exhibit reads a certain date. It has whatever the girl's name is. ". . . has left our employ for the following reason:" And that reason is put in there by the employment department. "Would you recommend reemployment in your department?" There is a blank for checking in "yes" and checking in "no."

Then the card says, "Please check the employee on the following: Quality of work." Under that is "excellent", "good", "fair", and "poor". "Quantity of work: 'Excellent, good, fair, and poor." Under "personal characteristics", "obedient", "reliable", "cooperative", "unreliable", "disobedient", "not cooperative," and a place for this instructor's signature.

Q. How long has that card been used by the Donnelly Company?
A. That particular proceeding has been in use about 9 years, as I remember it.

p. 464 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Now, you do, in addition, consult with the employee's present instructor as to the employee's qualifications?
A. We always consult with the employee's instructor and Mrs. Wherry, who is in charge of the factory. She is the factory superintendent.

p. 470 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Well, have you got the employment records here?

A. I haven't. Mrs. Reeves may have her particular card. I don't have her record here.

Q. Well, can you testify from your own knowledge, without the records?

Mr. Rucker. I am going to take his word for it. It is 1928. I am going to cut out the balance of it. Take 1928.

p. 471 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Well, do you have to refer to the records, Mr. Atchison, to answer that question?

A. I would have to if there was anything— Every time a person is laid off one of these cards is made out by the girl's supervisor.

p. 485 Q. Had you considered her unreliable and disobedient?

A. Yes, I considered her a couple of times a lit-

[fol. 5091] p. 485 tle bit, but only from the knowledge that I had through her immediate superiors. I have nothing to do with the direct work and actions of the individuals in the factory.

p. 496 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) You never heard of Mr. Blume, your attorney, employing Miss Feltenstein and her assistant, Miss Friel, to go down and report that meeting and what the speakers had to say?

A. I did not.

p. 497 Q. You didn't know anything about that?

A. No.

Q. And so that was done by somebody other than you in the organization, if it was done?

A. The only thing I knew about a stenographer taking that was when it was announced at the meeting, I believe by Mr. Dubinsky, that some stenographer was taking minutes of the meeting.

Q. You went to the meeting yourself, didn't you?

A. Yes, I went to the meeting.
Q. Now, did you intend to join the union?
A. Well, I don't know.
Q. You went there, thinking maybe you might?
A. No. I went there to see what it was all about and to hear the speakers, which some of them were nationally known.

p. 506 Q. Have you a list of the members of the Loyalty League?
A. I do not have anything to do with the Loyalty League whatsoever, excepting that I have signed an application card.

p. 638 A. I think it was in July—the 18th, some place around there—that I received a letter from the union office, Mr. Perlstein and it was signed "Mr. Perlstein." Was that right? Yes, July 18, 1934.

"Donnelly Garment Company. Gentlemen:
"A number of your girl employees who are members of our union have complained to us that they were laid off because of their membership in the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. Most of these girls have worked for your firm for a number of years, and they say that the lay-off is due solely to their joining the union. They also claim that before the lay-off took place they were called individually into the office and were asked if they were members of the union, and that the lay-off took place after some of the girls admitted, and some did not deny, that they had joined the union.

p. 639 "The National Industrial Recovery Act guarantees the right and freedom of the individual to join a labor union of his or her own choosing, and that he or she cannot legally be discharged because of so doing. If these girls were discharged by you because of their union affiliations, they have a just grievance; [fol. 5092] p. 639 if they were not discharged for that reason, they have no such grievance.

"As the representative of the labor union of which these girls are members, I respectfully request an interview with you at as early a date as convenient.

"Hoping for your favorable reply, I am,

"Sincerely yours,

"(Signed) MEYER PERLSTEIN."

[fol. 5093] Extracts From Testimony of Mrs. Gladys Elledge Richardson on April 27, 1935. (Pages 664 to 813)

Vol. 5

p. 665 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) What is your full name?
A. Gladys Elledge Richardson.
Q. When did you go to work for the Donnelly Garment Company? A. The first time?
Q. Yes, ma'am.
p. 666 A. I believe it was in the fall of 1918.
Q. And how long did you work then?
A. I worked there until January 15, 1935.
p. 668 Q. All right. Now, before the time of your lay-off in August or when you quit on account of illness in August, had you at that time been active in the attempt to form a local of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union out there, or did your activity commence, your own activity, after your return in December?
A. I started and I was a very active member for the union in the spring.
Q. In the spring?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, did you attend any of these meetings that have been mentioned in evidence here held at various women's houses?
A. Yes, sir. I was at Mrs. Glynn Brooks' home, and there was a good many members there, and from that day on, why, things were different.

p. 672 Q. Had you and these other girls whose names you have mentioned talked in favor of trade unionism before June 1934?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You actually joined the union, I believe—that is, you received your membership card—on the 12th day of December 1934, is that correct?

A. I did.

p. 672 Q. Had you, in company with any other girl, called on employees of the Donnelly Garment Company at night and talked to them about the advisability of forming a company union or a local? A. I did.

[fol. 5094] p. 672 Q. What was the name of the other woman? A. Thelma Owen.

p. 673 Q. Had you ever had any complaints from any of your instructors before the time when you became active in an effort to bring about the formation of a local of the union?

A. No, sir; I did not.

p. 674 Q. Did any of your instructors or assistant instructors ever inquire of you about the question as to whether or not you or any of the other girls at the factory belonged to the union? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when was it? Tell me who it was, the occasion, and what was said.

A. I was transferred from Mrs. White's section up into the ninth floor for Mrs. Neimeyor. And then I was laid off in June, and when I when back to work I was working for Grace—I can't recall her last name.

Q. There has been a Mrs. Grace Guerrant mentioned.

A. No. And I was transferred from her section down to Stella Willis' section, which is the finishing department—

Q. I didn't ask you about all that. I want to know the names of the persons who talked to you, if you know them; when it was, and what was said.

A. Ada is Stella Willis' assistant.

Q. All right. Now, did Ada talk to you?
A. Absolutely.

Mr. Reed. Ada Who?

Mr. Rucker. She says she doesn't know her last name. She only knows her—

Mr. Reed. Is it Vining?

The Witness. I don't believe I ever heard her last name.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) She was the assistant to whom?
p. 675 A. Stella Willis.
Q. Assistant to Stella Willis. All right. Now, what did she say to you?
[fol. 5095] p. 675 A. She says to me, "Gladys, why in the world did you join the union?" I said, "Well, after all", I said, "sometimes there's a few people around this place that can force you to join anything." And I said, "The union might help you." "And I said, "The way that things are going and the way the instructors are treating the girls, after all, I think it would be a good thing to join the union."
Q. Did she ask you if you knew the names of any girls who were active—
A. Yes, sir.
Q. —in connection with the union?
A. She did.
Q. What did you tell her?
A. I told her that I knew a good many of them but I didn't know them all.
Q. Now, then, when you went back to work at Donnelly's in December 1934 did you have any talk with Mr. Dewey Atchison, the assistant factory superintendent?
A. The day that I went to work the elevators were down—
Q. I didn't ask you about the elevators. I am just asking you whether you had a talk with him or not.

A. I did.

p. 676 Q. All right. Now, was there anything said in that conversation with reference to the union?

A. Yes. He took me by the arm, and he says, "Gladys, don't you get messed up in this union business."

Q. Go ahead, now. Is that all he said?

A. Why certainly. We was going up in the elevator, and he was whispering. He couldn't say any more.

Q. I didn't ask you whether he was whispering or talking out loud. I am asking you whether or not that was the entire conversation.

A. That was.

Q. Now, as I understand it, then, all he said was, "Do not get mixed up in this union"?

[fol. 5096] p. 676 A. "Or you will get fired."

Q. Well, you didn't say that before. Did he make that statement? A. Absolutely.

Q. That statement to you on that occasion?

A. He did.

p. 696 Q. Is that the woman that you were talking with in regard to the insurance that you just spoke about?

Oh, Ada is the assistant instructor, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did she say that to you?

A. During working hours.

Q. When?

A. When I was working on the buttonhole machine. I didn't write the date down. I should have.

Q. It was right when you were working on the machine? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there anybody else there to hear it?

A. No, sir.

Q. What did you say to her?

A. She says, "Well, if you bring in the union and this place goes union, there will be a thousand girls put out of work." And I said, "What do you mean?" and she says, "Why, Gladys, we will all lose our jobs if this place goes union." And I said, "I don't think we would. I think it would help conditions in a lot of the sections."

p. 697 Q. Now, you say nobody heard that but you and Ada? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Yes. Now, Ada is an assistant instructor?

[fol. 5097] p. 697 A. Yes, sir. And she also asked other girls if I belonged to the union, and they said, "Why don't you go and ask Gladys if she belongs to the union?"

Extracts From Testimony of R. L. Blume (Page 712) Vol. 5.

p. 712 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Mr. Blume, who directed you to employ Miss Feltenstein, assisted by Miss Friel, to report a meeting held on December 4 at the Eagles' Hall?

A. I didn't employ her.

Q. You did not employ her?

A. No.

Q. Then you didn't call her about it?

A. I may have done so.

Q. Well, who employed her?

A. The job came into my office; a call, as I now recall it, from Senator Reed's office. My shorthand reporting office.

[fol. 5101] Extracts from Testimony of Mrs. Lillian White on May 4, 1935. (Pages 814 to 957) Vol. 6 p. 815 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Just state your name, please. A. Mrs. Lillian White.

Q. Mrs. White, where are you employed?

A. Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. How long have you been in the employ of the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. 9 years.

Q. Did you go to work there as an operator?

A. I did.
Q. How long did you work as an operator?
A. 5 years.
Q. Then, you worked as an instructor?
A. Yes.
Q. Is that your present work there?
A. Yes.
Q. Mrs. White, what section have you charge of at this time? A. 522.
Q. What kind of work is done in that section?
A. Well, it is straight sewing, binding and underarming.
Q. Last June, what section did you have charge of? A. I had 521.
p. 816 Q. Did Lillian Rutherford work in your section last June? A. She did.
[fol. 5102] p. 816 Q. What type of work could she do?
A. Only straight sewing.
Q. She was limited to that one operation?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know whether or not her quality of
p. 817 work was good or bad?
A. Her quality was poor.
Q. What about her quantity?
A. Well, it was fair.
Q. Would you say that she was a poor operator?
A. I would.
Q. Did you recommend in June that she be one of the ones from your section to be laid off?
A. I did.
p. 820 Q. Did Glynn Brooks work in your section?
A. She did.
p. 821 Q. Did you have to be careful in selecting the kind of work you would give her?
A. I did.
Q. What do you mean by that, Mrs. White?
A. I couldn't give her anything like necks or sleeves on account of her stretching them.
Q. Did you change her work more than any other operator?
A. No, I didn't, because she was just one binder and that was all.

[fol. 5103] p. 821 Q. Did you recommend that she be one of the girls or operators to be laid off from your section in June, 1934?

A. I did, on account of her work.

p. 825 Q. Now, have you got the recommendation cards that you signed in regard to Lillian Rutherford, Glynn Brooks, Thelma Owen, Ellen Fry and Tillie Shirley?

A. I have all but Thelma Owen's.

Q. Well, you have the rest of them?

A. Yes, I have.

p. 826 Q. Did you sign these cards?

A. I signed and checked the lower part. The upper part was made out by the clerk in the office.

Q. Were you consulted at the time of the lay-off of many operators last June as to who would be laid off in your section?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Who passes on the question of selecting the girls to be laid off?

A. Well, there are four of us. I guess I am included as one. Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. Wherry, Mr. Atchison, and myself.

Q. They ask you to express an opinion as to the kind of work that the operators are doing in your section? A. That is it.

Q. And these cards show your opinion as to the kind of operators these respective complainants are? A. Yes.

Mr. Ingraham: We offer these cards in evidence. They are marked exhibits 19 to 22, inclusive.

p. 828 Q. You do recall that she told the girls, however, that Mr. Dubinsky made a speech up here at Eagles' Hall—

A. I was at Eagles' Hall, myself, that night.

[fol. 5104] p. 828 Q. And heard Mr. Dubinsky speak?

A. I did.

p. 833 Q. So a girl who had worked there four years had to be instructed on how to put a dart in?

A. No; not necessarily. Whenever we have a new number coming through, it doesn't make any difference if it is the same as it has been before, the instructor always sits down and

p. 834 instructs the operator.

p. 863 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) You mean to say that they have a policy down there that applies to your section and not any other section?

A. I couldn't tell you. I manage my own section and let anybody else take care of their's.

p. 864 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, have you any record —Do you make any record of the repairs that a girl has to make in your section?

A. No, I don't.

Q. How do they determine that down there. Is
p. 865 there any record made at all by anybody?

A. Just by the reports that are brought back from the inspectors to the instructors.

Q. Well, does that show the girls who have been guilty of doing the work improperly?

A. Well, it does, yes.

Q. And you don't know anything about—You have nothing to do with the reports on repairs, then?

A. I have an idea the inspector—

Q. I am not asking about your ideas. Do you have anything to do with those reports on repairs?

A. I see that the girl gets the repairs.

Q. Do you have anything to do with making a report about the amount of repairs any operator has to do? A. I do, yes.

Q. In what form do you make that report?

[fol. 5105] p. 865 A. If a girl has very many repairs, I go to Mrs. Reeves and Mrs. Wherry.

p. 876 Q. Was that the only meeting you attended, or did you go to another?

A. There were two.

Q. The first one was at the Musicians' Hall and the second was at the Eagles' Hall, wasn't it?

A. I believe it was.

Q. And you attended both of them?

A. I did.

Q. What other executives of the company attended those meetings?

Mr. Ingraham: Object to that question. This witness isn't an executive.

Mr. Rucker: Withdraw the question.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) What executives of the company attended that meeting that you saw?
A. I believe Mrs. Reeves was there.
p. 878 Q. All right. Now, then; you also had in your section, did you not, Glynn Brooks?
A. I did.
Q. You recommended her lay-off, did you?
A. Yes.
Q. Her discharge? A. Yes.

[fol. 5106] Extracts From Testimony of Mrs. Bessie Neimoyer.

(Pages 1004 to 1025)

p. 1004 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) State your name, please.
A. Mrs. Bessie Neimoyer; N-e-i-m-o-y-e-r.
Q. Mrs. Neimoyer, are you employed by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.
Q. In what capacity?
A. As an instructor.
Q. How long have you worked at the Donnelly Garment Company?
p. 1005 A. I don't remember just how long. I think around 11 years.
Q. You have been an instructor how long?
A. Ever since I have been there.
Q. What is the number of your section?
A. That I am working in now?
Q. Yes.
[fol. 5107] p. 1005 A. 411.
Q. What section were you working in last June and July? A. 531.
Q. 531. Was Thelma Owen in that section?
A. Yes, sir.

p. 1011 Q. Did you ever know of a girl who was found by you to be disobedient, unreliable and non-cooperative—did you ever recommend such a girl for re-employment?

A. I don't just understand your question.

Q. Well, do you—When they call you to ask you whether you will recommend, we will say, Mamie Smith for re-employment—she had been laid off and she had worked for you—and when you made out your estimate of her on the card you said she was disobedient, unreliable and non-cooperative—now, do you recommend the re-employment of that sort of girl? A. I don't.

Q. Never have?

A. I don't know that I have. I couldn't say positively.

Q. You don't know of any instructor down there that ever did recommend the re-employment of such a girl, do you?

A. Will you please state that question again so I can understand what you mean?

Q. You don't know of any instructor, who has found a girl working under her to be disobedient, unreliable and non-cooperative, after that finding, to have recommended that that girl be re-employed?

A. I don't know what the other instructors do.

p. 1018 Q. Did you go down to the union meetings that they had at Musicians' Hall and the Eagles' Hall? A. Yes, I did.

Q. Went to both of them, did you?

A. I went to two.

[fol. 5108] Extracts from Testimony of Ella Mae Guerrant Hyde on May 6, 1935. (pages 1025 to 1053)

Volume 7.

p. 1025 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Just state your name, please.

A. Ella Mae Guerrant Hyde.

Q. Where are you employed, Mrs. Hyde?

A. At the Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. In what capacity?
A. Employment manager.
Q. How long have you worked at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. 6½ years.
p. 1026 Q. Now, you are the party referred to when the witness have stated "Ella Mae Guerrant"?
A. Yes. I have given my whole name.
Q. That was your former name? A. Yes.
Q. How long have you had charge of the employment office?
A. For the last 3 years.
Q. For the last 3 years. What are you duties?
A. To employ and discharge.
p. 1026 Q. Now, in connection with Lillian Rutherford, she stated in her testimony that you promised to put her back to work. Did you ever make a promise of that nature to her?
A. No, I didn't. I would have no authority to do that.
p. 1027 Q. Who passes on the re-employment of operators?
A. The person in charge directly over the girls. That is the instructor, and Miss Wherry, the superintendent.
p. 1032 Q. You had attended some of the meetings held at Musicians' Hall and the Eagles' Hall?
A. Yes.
Q. Both of them? A. Yes.
[fol. 5109] p. 1040 Q. Now, are you a member of the Loyalty League? A. I signed a pledge card.
p. 1042 Q. The employees are not consulted at all on price fixing, are they? A. Yes and no.
Q. Explain that answer.
p. 1043 A. A girl may not say just exactly how much is to be given on a particular operation, but if she thinks it isn't fair it certainly is gone into in time study and then taken care of. A girl has the right to suggest that it be corrected.
Q. Is there any committee of any kind among the employees which is consulted before changes in prices are made, either up or down?

A. You mean office people?
Q. No. I mean among the employees—the people who actually turn the work out.
A. There is a committee in the office.
Q. Who is on that committee?
A. Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Reeves, Mr. Atchinson and Mr. Sleicher.
Q. Is there a single operator on that committee?
A. I don't think so. I don't know of anyone.
Q. They are all executives, aren't they?
A. I should say so.

[fol. 5110] Extracts from Testimony of Mrs. James A. Reed on May 25, 1935.

(Pages 1054 to 1115) Vol. 8 p. 1074 A. . . . Now, in our plant I think that we have more supervision and more executives than —I know I have—more than are usually in a plant of this kind. But that's been a very big part of the business of having this splendid organization, of taking merchandise that's ordinarily classed as something that has to be handled, oh, just from hand to mouth, we have made a real institution in our place.

Q. You have referred to people who have appeared before the Board. Do you mean the witnesses for the Donnelly Garment Company?
p. 1075 A. Yes, our supervisors. The different people that have appeared before the Board as witnesses for the Donnelly Garment Company.
p. 1077 A. . . . Now, in my plant I have 40 operators, 40 machines, under this one supervisor with an assistant. One of them is in charge of quality and the other quantity. And, of course, they both work with one another on both things; but that's their general responsibility.

p. 1087 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Reed, what is the minimum wage for workers at the Donnelly p. 1088 Garment Company?

A. $15.

Q. Previous to the code?

A. It has been $15.

p. 1091 A. . . . But, now, I want you to understand that my piecework prices are not based on that minimum. That for 10 years or more we considered a $15 operator as only a 75 percent operator. We expected an operator that had had 6 months' or more experience, we expected her to make $20 a week. As a matter of fact, we couldn't have maintained our

p. 1092 set-up on operators if all of our operators had only earned $15 a week.

So the minimum was $15, but we based an average operator at $20 a week; and then a great many of our girls were able to earn $25 and some of them $30 and $35 when the work came through in the best way.

We have girls out there right now who are making $35 and $40 a week and have made it right along this spring. And we have had them—Since 1919 I have had operators, based on my piecework operations, that can make from $20 to $30 and more than that, $35, a week.

p. 1093 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Has it always been the practice of the company to weed out the $15 operators as much as possible?

A. Yes. We have had a standard of an operator not being our standard operator unless she could make, generally speaking, $20 a week.

p. 1107 Q. And I suppose your instructors are more or less under your personal supervision?

A. Yes. I come in contact with them all the time.

[fol. 5111] (N. R. A.—J. M. C. Exhibit 2.)

Date 7/6/39—Witness

Objection And Motion To Strike Of Respondent And Intervenor To "N. R. A." Testimony offered By The Board.

Respondent and intervenor severally object to all and every part of the testimony offered herein by the Board referred to as the "N. R. A." testimony, being portions of the testimony taken before the N. R. A. Regional Labor Board, Twelfth District, in case No. 160, styled "International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, complainant, vs. Donnelly Garment Company, respondent", to-wit, all the testimony of Ellen Fry, Thelma Owen, Glynn Brooks, Mamie Tubbesing, Elizabeth Gates Reeves, Lillian Wales, Frances Riedel, Pauline Lutz, Virginia Stroup, Dewey Atchison, Gladys Elledge Richardson, R. L. Blume, Meyer Pearlstein, Lillian White, Marie Patton, Bessie Neimoyer, Ella Mae Guerrant Hyde, Mrs. James A. Reed, and contained in N.R.A. & J.M.C. Exhibit 1-A to BBBB at pages 1 to 8D inclusive, and object to each and every question and answer therein set forth, and move that the testimony of each of said witnesses, and that each and every of said questions and the answers thereto, be excluded and stricken and not considered as evidence in this proceeding (this objection and motion going to each question and answer separately as well as to the testimony of each of said witnesses as a whole), for each and all the following reasons, to-wit:

That said testimony was given prior to July 5, 1935, and refers to matters which purport to have existed or occurred prior to said date, and said testimony and each and every question and answer thereof is immaterial and irrelevant to any issue in this proceeding and deals with matters purporting to have existed or occurred prior to the enactment of the National Labor Relations Act; that [fol. 5112] the conditions, acts and conversations testified to by said witnesses, if they existed or occurred, were lawful at the time they existed or occurred, and the fact, if it is a fact, that such things existed or occurred or that

respondent or any of its representatives may have done or said or authorized any of such things, at the times referred to, or when same were lawful, carries no imputation and does not tend to prove that the respondent (or intervenor), or any one representing either of them, would violate or has violated the National Labor Relations Act after its enactment, or that they would or did commit, authorize, or do, after the enactment of said Act, any of the acts or unfair labor practices alleged in the complaint herein, and such testimony is therefore conjectural, speculative and irrelevant as to any issue in this proceeding; and for the further reason that there is no showing that the persons testifying or referred to in said testimony had authority to bind or speak for respondent (or intervenor) at said times, or if they had such authority at said times, there is no showing that such authority continued after the enactment of the National Labor Relations Act or that respondent handled or managed its business or the various departments thereof in the same way or by the same division of authority after the enactment of said Act as it did at the time said testimony was given or that what was said by said witnesses applies to conditions in respondent's business or the methods of handling same since the enactment of said Act and hence said testimony is too remote, is not binding upon respondent or intervenor, is immaterial, irrelevant, conjectural, and without probative value as to any of the matters here in issue; that there is no charge in the complaint of any [fol. 5113] discrimination by respondent against said witnesses or the persons referred to in said testimony; that said testimony is hearsay and states conclusions; that the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was not then in existence or even contemplated and said testimony can have no bearing on the question of whether said union was formed, dominated or maintained by respondent or whether it represents the free will and choice of respondent's employees as their bargaining agency; that said testimony does not tend to prove or disprove any issue in this proceeding and, if received, would require extended testimony on the part of respondent and intervenor to refute such irrelevant and immaterial testimony, all of which would needlessly encumber the record; that for each and all of said reasons, the reception or consideration of said testimony in this proceeding would be improper, illegal and prejudicial to respondent and intervenor.

Objection is overruled and the motion to strike is denied. Dated: July 5, 1939. James C. Batten, Trial Examiner.

Acceptance of the testimony is not intended to enlarge the issues as defined by the pleadings or to reverse rulings heretofore made with respect to the introduction of evidence upon certain subjects.

[fol. 5114] Respondent maintains that any evidence relating to matters which occurred prior to the passage of the National Labor Relations Act is incompetent, irrelevant and has no bearing on the issues involved in this case, and such evidence is submitted only because of the Examiner's ruling allowing the Labor Board and the International Union to introduce evidence relating to the hearing before the NRA Labor Board.

See rulings of Trial Examiner, Bds.-Exh.-1-SSSS, J. C. Batten, Trial Examiner.

Re: N. R. A. — J. M. C. Exh. #3.

[fol. 5115] (N. R. A.—J. M. C. Exhibit 3.)

Proceedings Before The NRA Labor Board.

MRS. JAMES A. REED called as a witness, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

1055 Q. (Mr. Ingraham) State your name, please?
A. Mrs. James A. Reed.
Q. And you live in Kansas City, Mrs. Reed?
A. Yes.
Q. You are president of the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes.
Q. Mrs. Reed, when was the business of the Donnelly Garment Company started?
A. In January, 1916.
Q. Did you start that business? A. Yes.
Q. Will you just explain how you happened to go into that business?

Objection—Immaterial.

A. Well, I started this business with two machines—.
Q. Well, did you get orders from stores, Mrs. Reed?

Objection—Immaterial.

A. I made up some dresses for myself and had some admiring friends think they were attractive, and I made some presents to my friends, and they thought there would be a market for them; they thought other women would like them. And at the time Mr. Donnelly was desirous of going into his own business, and I took two of my dresses that I had made for myself down to one of the department stores of Kansas City, and they gave me an order for 10 dozen of one and 18 dozen of the other. And I got two machines and two women to sew and started my business that way.

From that time on for a number of years it was just a matter of putting in a few more machines to take care of my orders, merchandise sold, and I first did the cutting and all the work on the garment except the sewing.

Q. You actively managed the production end of the business?

Objection—Immaterial.

A. I did, I started in the factory and I planned and worked out the ways of producing the garments. I had had no experience in manufacturing or, as a matter of fact, in any designing or any other part of the business, so I learned it as I went along. I sold my merchandise and designed new models and worked with the operators in the plant to work out better ways of production.

So until I had a hundred machines, I personally directed operators on the machines; I mean in the same way that an instructor, I call them, does in my plant now. And all through the years I have actively managed the plant, as I have always felt that my greatest contribution to the business was in the management of the factory.

Q. Mrs. Reed, will you explain the kind of garment that you first manufactured? I mean by that, was it a garment that had operations that were easy to perform?

Objection—Immaterial.

A. I don't know what you mean.

Q. I mean by that, the operators that were employed by you in the early days of your business: They were just qualified for simple sewing?

Objection—Immaterial.

A. Yes. I made what I called "apron frocks" and, in fact, the first two operators I had—neither one of them had ever operated a power machine before.

57, Tabulation relative to Comparative Earnings of Piece Work Operators—First Six Months—1937 and 1938	7131	4321

[fol. 5116] Q. And you would take operators then and 1057 teach them the operations:

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes. When my business started in 1916—later on, after the War began and my business got a little larger, while it was large enough for me to need more operators, I wasn't able to get experienced operators, and so I started in having to teach my own operators.

Later on when my plant became more established and in 1920 when so many of the other plants in Kansas City closed down and I could get experienced operators, I found that, generally speaking, I was much better off with the operators I trained myself. So until about 1930, I constantly had what I 1058 called a training section. That is, I didn't the first few years; I had such a small plant and I didn't have it organized to the point of having a training section. But I found that it was a better way to do. Rather than put new operators right into the shop, I established this training section where we trained them to do three different kinds of work, so if we were short on one kind of work they could do another kind.

Q. Now, all during the time up until a few years ago, Mrs. Reed, you worked 8 hours a day right with these operators?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Until I had to go to Mayo's for a very serious operation and my health was impaired for a little while, and that was in 1931. Up until that time I didn't work 8 hours a day; I worked longer than that. But I was at the office at my plant at 8 o'clock every morning, and I usually didn't leave until 6. I worked in the factory all day long and I usually did my designing after hours. But until 1931 from 1916 I very actively was at my plant, and most of that time my work has always been in the factory except the trips I took to New York to buy merchandise and do designing.

Q. Now, in respect to the work of operators, did you require that the quality of their work be the first consideration?

A. Yes. I feel that on the Nelly Don merchandise the most outstanding thing about that merchandise is the quality. As a matter of fact, that was the only real excuse for my 1059 existing in this business, was that I could turn out attractive little frocks that were made carefully, and the good quality of workmanship, and all the other little things I added to it in the way of designing and good fitting and generally making honest merchandise.

Q. What was the style of house garments at the time you went into this business?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, they were, generally speaking, very poorly made and made of very cheap merchandise, poorly designed, with no fit or style; something like a Mother Hubbard. The bungalow apron was at the height of its popularity at that time, and it was such a commonplace ordinary garment that a woman who had any pride in her appearance usually made her dresses at home, her house dresses at home, or had someone make them. To my knowledge, the best garment on the market at that time was a 69 cent or 59 cent apron.

Q. What did you do to improve garments of that kind?

Objection—immaterial.

[fol. 5117] A. Well, the first thing I did was to cut them so they would fit a woman. And then I used attractive colors and nice designs and had them made carefully.

Q. What have you done to develop your designing?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Originally I did all of the designing myself; and as the business grew and required my attention in the management of the factory and the purchasing of materials, I have employed other designers. I have developed a very excellent designing department. And 1060 in the past 10 years either myself or some of my assistants have gone to Europe every year. We have bought patterns for fabrics over there, and we have had our own materials printed in these attractive patterns, and our own dyeing in good style colors. I have brought French designers over here to—

Q. (By Mr. Cox) You call that converting, don't you?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, we convert practically all of our own cotton goods and some of our own silks and rayons; most of our own rayons. I have a New York office with an experienced mill man, a man who owned and managed one of the largest mills in New England for a number of years now has charge of my New York office and attends to the converting and general buying of piece goods.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) How much money, Mrs. Reed, has the Donnelly Garment Company spent on its designing department?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, we have an expense of around $100,000 a year for designing. A number of designers, two very fine designers and a number of assistant designers.

Q. What has been the result?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, I think that we have taken our place as the leader in this industry. We have departments, special Nelly Don departments, in practically every large city and town in the United States. All through New England, all the large cities on the West Coast, and in the East; in fact, all over the country.

1061 Q. Has the business been built up, Mrs. Reed, on style and fit and fine workmanship of the garments manufactured?

A. Yes, that's what it has been built on.

Q. The company has constantly been making a higher type garment and through the years?

A. We have constantly striven to make better quality merchandise and improve it in every way.

Q. Now, did that require a higher type of workmanship than was necessary in making the garments that were first manufactured?

1062 Q. Mrs. Reed, how much rent do you pay a year for your factory?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, for just the factory at 1827 Walnut I pay $30,000 a year now. Up until 2 years ago, I paid $33,000 for five floors. Now I have gotten more space at a lower rent. That is, I pay the same rent for seven floors now that I paid for five. But that was on a very short term lease. They wouldn't give me a long lease on that because they thought that prices would come up again.

1063 Q. Now just describe, Mrs. Reed, the character of the building; the light and the heating and the hospital and the other conveniences.

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, we have a first class factory building. It has excellent heating facilities. We maintain a hospital room with two trained nurses and five beds. I don't know whether it would interest anyone to know that we keep five janitors and five colored maids keeping the place clean all the time. We have the same type of wash rooms for our girls in our factory that we have in our office. I suppose the fact that I was in the factory so many years myself made me have a feeling that my girls in the factory were entitled to the same accommodations and services that the girls in the offices are used to expecting.

There has never been a back entrance at any time in my factory, even when I first started in a little store room out on Brooklyn Avenue. There has been one entrance that I came in and my office girls and designing room girls and the girls that worked in the factory came in.

The hospital room is maintained for everybody in the plant. If I am ill myself or feel badly, I go down to help from the nurse; or someone from my designing room or my office. There is one cafeteria. I don't run the cafeteria, but I give the space free to the woman who does run it so that she can serve food at a low cost. And that one cafeteria: The girls from the office or any place else—we all go to the same one.

Q. What window lighting have you?

Objection—immaterial.

A. We have excellent—I don't know what they call it, but it's lighting that's supposed to be very good for factory use. Now, when I moved into that building, this kind of light—these windows are very good for the eyes, but women like to look out, and you couldn't see out of them; and while the postoffice men didn't ever seem to mind it, the first thing I noticed when I went in there was that I couldn't see out of the windows. And I know that women object to that sort of a shut-in feeling, and so I had the windows changed, enough of them, where they could see out. I did that at partial expense to myself. Mr. Burke assumed part of that, but part of that expense was borne by myself.

Q. You spoke of the post office. Was that the Federal postoffice?

Objection—immaterial.

[fol. 5119] A. The Federal postoffice occupied the five lower floors of the building for a number of years. They just moved out when they moved into their new quarters a couple of years ago.

Q. Now, what was done about changing the floors?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, the floors were concrete, and I had those floors changed to wooden floors.

Q. Why?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, I think it is conceded that wooden floors are much easier on people to work on.

Q. Now, in regard to the windows: They have all steel frames, do they not?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes. It's a thoroughly fireproof building. It's a building that could be used as an office building It is not a loft. It is all plastered. And we have it painted every year or two when it needs it; nice light colors.

Q. Is it not, Mrs. Reed, considered the finest kind of building for the purpose for which it is used in this locality?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, as far as I know it is.

Q. Mrs. Reed, the company is using another building at Twenty Sixth and Grand?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.

Q. Will you just describe that?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, that's a thoroughly fireproof building. That does not have wooden floors, but where women have to stand I have wooden frames so that they don't have to stand on the concrete. And, of course, the operators: when she sits at a machine, her feet are on a frame above that in this other building, so that there isn't anyone standing on concrete in that building. Otherwise that's just as high type a building as the one we are in and the best building I know of available in Kansas City.

Q. Now Mrs. Reed you have constantly tried to have work the year around, have you not?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Until 1931, with the possible exception of a few days—I won't say that there never was one day; there might have been a few days—I have run my business the year round for 15 years. My business was managed and my merchandising was done, the lines that I got up, the time of the year, and the type of people I sold, and everything was based on forcing a year round business.

And when I say "forcing" a year round business, I don't know of any other term that would be stronger to use. If I did, I would. Because when I went into this business there was no such thing as a year round business with anybody making women's dresses or aprons or anything connected with women's clothing as far as I know.

[fol. 5120] Q. What was necessary to be done in order to have work the year round?

Objection—immaterial.

A. In the early years of my business I simply opened new accounts in the fall. My old accounts always used a certain percentage in the fall of what they used in the spring, but it was a very small percentage. So I always opened up new territories. And, of course, eventually there were no new territories to open that would bring in the amount of business we needed to keep going the year round. So about 10 years ago I started my first line of fall dresses that had wool in them.

I had been experimenting, trying to plan how we could turn out wool garments with our type of manufacture and and our workers. And as a matter of fact, I wasn't able to do that well enough to put out a line for two years. I made sample lines two years before, but the garments didn't please me, didn't seem to me would be saleable. But eventually I was able to make the garments and managed the work in such a way that we could turn out wool dresses in our plant. And that gave us a certain amount of extra selling or another line of merchandise to help with our fall line.

Another thing, I refused to sell anybody that didn't maintain an open department the year around. In fact, right in Kansas City I had one of our accounts here, Kline's, who wanted to buy our merchandise a number of years ago, and they only had a spring department because they didn't feel there was enough volume in the fall to warrant their bothering with our department.

And I wouldn't sell them.

They went to the trouble of having one of their friends, who was connected with Macy's in New York, with whom I was doing a very nice and very large business at the time, come out to influence me to give them my line for the spring; and I didn't do it because I was so determined to do a year round business that, even though the spring business was very tempting, I didn't sell anybody that didn't maintain this open department during the year around.

When Harzfeld's wanted to put in our merchandise a number of years ago, they intended only having a spring department. I went to see Mr. Harzfeld myself on that and finally convinced him that he could run a year around department with our merchandise. And then they put it in and have done that.

Now, that's been a great struggle in a factory that turns out merchandise in mass like we do with our system, to make merchandise that would sell; and also to make that kind of merchandise that would sell in a house dress department, which departments were established. So in the last several years our accounts have put in special Nelly Don departments where they sell any kind of merchandise I turn out.

Now, in a number of the large stores, large department stores, the departments are very definitely separated; and there was a great deal of prejudice against putting in my better dresses. But where that came up, very often I went out to see the heads of the firms myself and explained to them my desire to run my business the year around and also told them what effort I was [make] to make merchandise that would sell the year around; and in practically every case the stores have set aside this Nelly Don department and given the buyers permission to buy anything that I made.

Q. (By Mr. Cox) What is your price range? Where do you start?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, we start with our Handy Dandy aprons that retail for 79 cents, and we usually stop with $13.95, although I have made silk pajamas that have sold for up to $25. Generally speaking, the price is limited to $10.95 or $13.95.

Q. When you stated those prices, Mrs. Reed, you mean retail prices?

Objection—immaterial.

1069 [fol. 5121] Q. Mrs. Reed, you stated that there was some prejudice on the part of department stores to sell part of your garments. Why was there a prejudice?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, the other buyers thought that my merchandise looked pretty good at the prices that they were sold at. The other departments felt probably that I was turning out an awfully good garment at a pretty moderate price.

Q. Wasn't the price lower than the price for a similar kind of merchandise?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, when I get into my higher price, my better merchandise, there isn't any other merchandise just exactly like it on the market. It is practically entirely machine made. And the only way that I can turn this out at the price that I do is on this volume basis and on the sectional way that I make it. I have probably from 10 to 20 operations on one garment, even in my high-priced merchandise. And I think that there is no ready-made merchandise turned out on the same basis—that is, what's called the regular ready-to-wear merchandise. But this line that I make, the higher priced merchandise, has been developed to take care of that time when there is very little sale for regular house dresses.

1070 Q. (By Mr. Cox) don't you find that by splitting your operations up the operators do better and make more?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Oh, my yes indeed. I had an experience in my very beginning when I had just five machines, and at that time each operator made a dozen garments and made the whole garment herself. And then I was making some little play suits for Emery, Bird, Thayer's; really a special order, but it was a large order, a hundred dozen, and they were very complicated in the making. And so when I started each of these women, I really was giving up my whole five machines to this particular order. They were making it in dozen bundles. And there were a number of little operations, and we were making no headway. I could see one girl would be doing one particular thing very well, and another one another thing pretty well; but each one—they were not only not making many garments, but they were not doing a very good job of them.

So I took one of the garments myself on the machine and sat down to figure out just how it should be made, which operation would go first. I would see one girl handle hers one way, one another way, and another one another. So I sat down at the machine myself with a dozen of these garments and figured out the easiest way that they could be made.

1071 Now I gave separate operations to these different girls of what they were to do. And in a week's time, instead of getting one dozen a day from each operator, I got two dozen a day from each operator. And by the end of the second week, instead of 5 dozen a day, as we started out, we got 20 dozen garments a day, with a much better quality garment.

At first the operators didn't think they liked it as well because they thought that the other operator didn't do as good work as they did, one of two of them, and it would spoil the looks of her garment. But I was able to pay them more, and they found that the work was much easier on them because it wasn't so tedious. And by the time I had delivered those garments, I got re-orders on them and kept that little garment going for quite a while, and then sold some to other stores.

[fol. 5122] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

And that was the beginning of my sectional work. I had never worked in a factory. I didn't know anything about manufacturing except just what I learned in my own plant. But from that day on I tried to put in sectional work.

It took me a long time to really get it in because in the first days I bought my own merchandise and I sold my own merchandise, and I would be in the plant a couple of weeks, and then I would go out for a couple of weeks and buy and sell enough to run me for another couple of weeks. And while I was away usually they would start over to making their own garments. Everybody would make the same—that is, they would quit doing the sectional work. I don't know just why, but it seemed that they hadn't been used to doing it. And then I didn't have my regular factory workers. So it took me several years to get the sectional work started. But there is no comparison in my mind in that—1072 Q. (By Mr. Cox) You find they are more efficient when they are doing sectional operation?

A. They are more efficient, and it is easier on an operator. If a girl has to figure out everything she does with a bundle, she constantly has to be thinking about her work and how she is going to put it together. I think it is much more trying on her than if she knows what she is doing and can put it right along.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) A girl can make more money?

A. Oh, yes. A girl can make more money on the sectional work. You can afford to pay it. As a matter of fact, if I hadn't developed the sectional work I would never have got beyond the little five machines. I couldn't have stood the competition, even though my garments were better made and more attractive. The prices would have been so high that I couldn't have competed. I certainly couldn't have kept my people working in the pleasant circumstances and done as many things for them and have them make as much money as they do.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Reed, is it not a fact that the principal purpose in working the year round is to give year round employment to your operators?

1073 A. It is. That was the real inspiration. When I worked in the plant with these girls, I became acquainted with them, and I liked them, and I wanted to—well, I found that they needed work, wanted to work, and I couldn't —well, I just couldn't stand the thought of having to turn people out every fall. And I found that I had a very nice class of women, and I felt that by having work the year around I would attract a better class of workers and that it would be so much better for them. As a matter of fact, I have found, and I believe that my reputation, outside of maybe Mr. Perlstein thinks differently, I think I have a reputation for paying the highest wages that are paid in this line of business. And that begins with my janitors, my pressers, and my operators, cutters, my executives, all the way through. My attitude has always been to pay people as much as I could. And apparently it's been good business because I have been reasonably successful. But it's surrounded me with — at least, I have always felt they have been — a very contented and happy lot of people.

1079 Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) That is, setting a minimum wage, you mean, and then paying that whether the girls made the amount or not?

[fol. 5123] A. No, that isn't the exact thing. In the very beginning I paid my operators just so much a week. And then after I got this system of breaking up the work, I started paying them piecework and guaranteeing them the amount that they had been getting but then I could afford — Of course, when I could turn out that much more goods, I could afford to pay them more. And so I started them with piecework, and then they had their guarantee: When they made more than the guarantee, they got it.

But getting back to this girl that can do well on a special machine and isn't a very good operator: Probably while she is doing the other work, then I will pay her a little to help her along: From the very beginning, I have striven for two things: One of them was year around work. The other was to make your pieceworker, as near as it was possible, make a very fairly same average. Now, that isn't possible because when you are in your very best season and you have lots of the same work going on, you will have some "hits" that you will sell thousands of dozens of one garment. And when a girl does on making more of that, we sell it, and she can make more money; and when she does, I am very glad that she does. It turns out more production for us.

It's just like a salesman. The more a salesman makes, the more valuable he is to the owner of the business. And with a salesman, he goes out and sells his merchandise: and if you have "hits" and he can sell a lot of a number, that makes a certain amount of velvet for him.

Well, long before there was any minimum wage or NRA, I had my own minimum wage. But I have not even kept my people to that minimum wage. Now, for years and years I didn't make any promise to anybody that I would give them that. One thing is there are always a few that spoil things,—if you don't keep your courage pretty strong. But when you are having a minimum rate, there's a few women that will sit back and don't care if they don't make any more than that. As a matter of fact, they don't care whether they make that, because they will get that much.

Well, of course, if all of your people were like that, you couldn't have a minimum because that would increase your costs so very much. But in my experience and my close contact with my workers, I have found in a very large majority of cases that it is only a rare occasion where they aren't very fair.

Now, this thing of bringing up about that the minute anybody makes any money on a garment that we cut the price: We don't do that. Of course, that's all been explained, and I am not going to take a long time to go over it.
1081 But when you put your garment in at first, naturally, you are experimenting to some extent on the price. With all the experience you have, your prices won't be exactly even. You know that it would be much easier for us if it were possible to put out your first piecework prices, that it would be exactly the same basis you were working on, if you were working with a great number of people, if that would be humanly possible.

And I have done everything that I know of to make that possible. We have taken time studies. We have the very people that I know of that I have in my plant that have been there for years and years, worked on piece rates themselves for years and years, and we have all of our experience back of us. So we do everything we can to make that piece rate the same. But it won't be the same all the time. So there will be adjustments to make. One you will increase, and the other you will probably decrease. But if we kept the records over all the years that we have been in business — we showed some of those records down here — we will probably have three increases where we have one decrease.

Now, if a woman can make good money just we happen to have a good run on a garment, we don't cut that person's price — we don't have to — but I want those workers to make — the more they make, the better people
[fol. 5124] they are for me; the better workers they are, the better satisfied they are, and the better
1082 production I will have. You know, your production as a matter of fact, goes up as you can pay more. It is easier for them. I think when a person makes a little more money that it is easier for them. They probably don't have to go home and do their washing at night and things like that, and I have taken that into consideration.

And I have here these figures that I just got. These are exact figures:

Objection—immaterial.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Reed, why do you pay these bonuses?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I pay this bonus —
I couldn't enumerate all the exact reasons that I have paid these gratuities. I know that for 15 years I was in pretty close contact with the people that did the work, the actual piecework in our plant; and I had a very great desire to make their earnings as regular as I possibly could.

1083 And so it's been the practice in our place to make up for — oh, if a girl's machine breaks down, I allow a certain amount per hour, based on what that girl makes over a year's period. Not the time that she makes the most, and not the time that she makes the least. But, in a general way, pieceworkers have a way of establishing a good average of what they make.

Now, I did that simply because it seemed kind of hard for a girl to have her machine down and have to sit and not make any money at the time. And in our pricing we allowed — We don't expect a girl to sit at her machine every minute in the day, and we make allowances for their not being at their machines.

But I want to go on record that this has been a general practice of my giving out a certain amount of money here to my piecework operators that I didn't have to do, because I was already paying a higher piece-rate price than was paid any place in Kansas City and I think any place in the country on my type of work.

Q. Mrs. Reed, about how many times higher?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, in the depression in the last three or four years, I know there was an investigation in Kansas City, and they were paying—well I think I was paying three or four times as much as they were. And from what I have heard of what was going on over the country, the same thing happened.

There was only one time, and that was in 1932 when times looked the worst, and they were the worst that I had in my business, that I reduced the piecework pay 10 per cent. That 10 per cent was put back as soon as our spring business started in 1933.

This 10 per cent reduction, which was the only one that was made, and was not made until the spring of 1932, was put back in either January or February of 1933, and that was on our piecework rates.

In 1928: These are just gratuities to pieceworkers:

Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) You mean that they were over and above what they earned?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Over and above what they earned.
Q. You had a minimum, was that?

Objection—immaterial.

[fol. 5125] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

1084 A. I don't give all this money to the poorest workers. The poorest workers that just hand on to a minimum, Mr. Birkhead, I don't feel deserve all the consideration. So sometimes some of these go to girls that might be ordinarily making $25 a week and then something happens. Sometimes they don't just feel so well, I suppose; and sometimes there is more new work, business isn't as good, or there's a thousand and one reasons why a pieceworker sometimes won't make as much money. Now, if we feel that she has done everything she could to make her money, why we will help her out, even if she is a higher priced girl. So all of this is not put in to maintain a minimum. Part of this has gone to the better operators who just fall down at individual times.

In 1928 this amounted to $39,919.
In 1929, it amounted to $51,088.
In 1930, $40,962.
In 1931, $28,916.
In 1933, $42,077.
In 1932, $28,154.
In 1934, $57,697.

Now, of course, in 1934 I had more operators. But in 1929 I paid over $51,000. Now, that money has come out of my profits. I could have put it in my pocket as far as the operators are concerned. I was glad that I had it to do that. But I was not in any way forced to do it, because my piecework prices are and have been far above the average of what's been paid in this industry.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) May I interrupt you, Mrs. Reed? I didn't get the years.

A. That was 1928 to 1934. And this didn't just begin in 1928. Our books back of 1928 are put away, and I didn't think it was necessary to get the figures, but they were comparatively along this line except that I had fewer employees.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Reed, you made the statement that you paid your employees "a little". You mean a little extra?

A. A little extra, yes.

Q. Now, Mrs. Reed, can you tell approximately what it costs the company a year to maintain year around work?

1086

A. Well, of course, I can't tell that; I couldn't now. A great part of this designing department is maintained particularly to take care of this fall business. If I didn't want that business, I wouldn't have to maintain nearly so expensive a designing department. And, of course, in a very general way it increases our overhead considerably. I have given vacations to my pieceworkers from the very beginning.

Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) With pay?

A. With pay. In every way I have had the attitude of putting my factory workers on the same basis as my office workers.

Q. Do you know if that's the general practice among manufacturers who pay on a piece basis?

[fol. 5126] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

A. I know that it is not.

Q. It is not?

A. It is not. I don't know of any other factory that does it. They may, but I don't know of any other that does it.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) What about these gratuities in connection with other factories?

A. I have never heard of them doing it.

Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) Well, since the NRA regulations they are supposed to, aren't they? Pay a minimum wage?

A. They have to pay a minimum wage, yes. But I haven't limited myself just to people that were—to hold them up to the minimum wage. This $57,000 that I paid out this year has not all gone to people on a minimum wage, to make up the minimum. In fact, I think only a moderate portion of it.

1087 Q. (By Mr. Cox) Is your vacation period in that, the pay on it?

A. No.

Q. That's not in it?

A. No. Then, in addition to that I pay part of the sick benefit insurance. I pay a little more than half. We figure about what it should be; and when it's more than that, as it has been many times, my half is a bigger half than the other. We haven't increased it to the others.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Can you estimate, Mrs. Reed, how much is paid for paid vacations?

A. No, I couldn't. I just really couldn't. I have never figured that out.

Q. Now, is it the policy of the company to carry the insurance of workers when they are sick?

A. Yes. And if we have a lay off, we carry our workers for a month on their insurance.

Q. (By Mr. Cox) You mean you pay it all?

A. We pay it all if a worker it off. If we have to close a section for two or three weeks or up to a month, we pay the whole insurance.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Reed, what is the minimum wage for workers at the Donnelly Garment Company?

1088 A. $15.

Q. Previous to the code?

A. It has been $15.

Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) Previous to the code?

[fol. 5127] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions answered are immaterial.

A. Yes, for a great many years. As a matter of fact, over 10 years; with the exception of the time that I put—say, in 1931. Up to that time I have said that I ran my plant the year around. There were times of the year that I didn't employ new people and there would be fewer workers, because where you have a number of women working there's always a certain number that leave for different reasons.

But in 1931 we had a good many—when we sent our line out in November we had a very good response to it and more orders came in than we would be able to make; we knew that. Mrs. Reeves knew it; and, of course, in our particular plant everybody in the place knows whether we have lots of business or not so much.

It's sort of general information.

And this year Mrs. Wherry and Mrs. Reeves came to me along in December and said —they had started to fill up our machines, the ones that weren't entirely filled. The people had left probably a couple of months before, and we began to fill the machines, and they had so many applicants for work.

And they said, "We are turning away almost hundreds of girls every day, and here we have more orders than we will be able to fill, and can't we do something about getting them made"? And all through the years there had been times in the spring that I hadn't been able to fill all my orders; but, on my proposition of running a factory the year around, I hadn't felt too badly about it.

Well, this year when Mrs. Reeves came, I said, "Well, I hated to start up another big plant"; and she, Mrs. Wherry, and Dewey said, "Well, we have a certain number of machines that we have replaced with special machines; we have accumulated quite a number of machine heads". And Mrs. Reeves had already gone out to see somebody about a building, and she said "Mr. Shukert said we can rent a building and pay for it by the month, just the months that we use it".

She knew where we could rent some machines, and maybe I would buy a few, and we would start this other plant up and use these orders. She said these girls, even if we couldn't give them more than 3 months' work they would be glad to have it because they had no work at all.

Q. (By Mr. Reed) That was during the depression?

A. That was during the depression. That was in 1931.

Well, it did seem to me a shame for us to have business that we were letting go when people were needing work. And I told her to go ahead, and I gave her a certain amount of money to buy new machines. So we rented some machines and found a few machines in our own shop, and started up in the Shukert Building. And we had a very good spring business and we kept over a hundred, around that many, working for 6 months.

And then in the fall we had a fairly good fall business and kept the girls in our own building; they said that they would share the work. After these girls had worked several months — of course, they were glad to have that much work, but they didn't want to quit working. And that was a time when there was a great deal of talk of everybody helping out.

And so our old operators, a great many of them, that, of course, had been with me for years and years, and my first class operators, would have had plenty of work if I had just kept them. But they agreed to take time off. And we individually went to each one and said, "If you can afford it now, you stay off a week or two weeks and let us give some of these other women that haven't been working, give them a chance".

And Mrs. Reeves and Mrs. Wherry and our other instructors did that work. Now, they didn't have to do it. As far as they were concerned, it made a whole lot more work for them. But we were anxious to give everybody work we could, and so they shared the work.

[fol. 5128] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Now, the time when that was going on I didn't maintain that minimum all the time. It just would have cost me more than I could have afforded, because you have people working a few days. But I didn't cut my rates. It was after that when it really got to a point where I was losing so much money that I felt that I had to.

1091 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) That's when you made the cut of 10 per cent?

A. Yes.

Q. (By Mr. Reed) Which you restored when?

A. I restored that in the early spring of 1933. So that when the NRA came out I was paying my — before there was any NRA in existence, I had restored that 10 per cent cut and was working on a basis of the highest prices in the best times.

And that was the particular reason that after Mr. Johnson sent investigators out to my plant, they looked at my pay rolls, they saw my books, they went through my factory. They were there, oh, 4 or 5 days, almost a week, investigating my plant; and they reported to Mr. Johnson that I had a higher standard than the NRA required.

Now, my minimum which I had restored when I restored that ten per cent—$15 a week: we made an average, taking the amount of time that the operators worked on these silks and wools and the time they worked on the cottons, and, drawing that average, it would have amounted to $14.60 minimum.

But now I want you to understand that my piecework prices are not based on that minimum. That for 10 years or more we considered a $15 operator only a 75 per cent operator. We expected an operator that had had six months or more experience, we expected her to make $20 a week. As a matter of fact, we couldn't have maintained our set up on operators if all of our operators had 1092 only earned $15 a week.

So the minimum was $15, but we based an average operator at $20 a week; and then a great many of our girls were able to earn $25 and some of them $30 and $35 when the work came through in the best way.

We have girls out there right now who are making $35 and $40 a week and have made it right along this spring. And we have had them — Since 1919 I have had operators, based on my piecework operations, that can make from $20 to $30 and more than that, $35 a week.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Reed, you just testified that your wages were restored before the code came into effect.

A. Before we ever heard of the code.

Q. What was the amount of your minimum wage at that time?

A. Well, it was $15.

Q. $15?

A. Yes.

Q. Now you have testified that operators that just earned $15 were 75 per cent operators.

[fol. 5129] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

A. That's what we have always considered them in our planning of piece-work. And we took timing. We have done that with our regular piecework operators for a good many years. We don't hav a certain special operator. And we have found that, except in a rare instance, that we can make our piece rates right by our own operators, and they will be fair about it.

1093 Where we have to do certain timing—there are some operations that are so very new that every so often we have to do timing, even though we have had all these years of experience. And we have our work so well sectionalized that no matter what you do on a dress, we practically have a sectionalized operation that takes care of that.

Q. Has it always been the practice of the company to weed out the $15 operators as much as possible?

A. Yes. We have had a standard of an operator not being our standard operator unless she could make, generally speaking, $20 a week.

Now, when we had slack times—there are certain times that we have had to weed out operators that either were not adaptable or they were not good enough in any one particular way to make them valuable, and then we would have to let them go. And, of course the way I felt about it was that if I maintained this high standard that I have set for myself that I simply had to have good workers.

Now to me a good worker is just as entitled to a benefit as one that isn't so good. As far from a humanitarian standpoint, one woman is entitled to a job as well as another. And, on the other hand, we have never been ruthless about turning individual people away that needed work and that were not entirely up to our standard. We have always kept a few women like that.

1094 But, of course, they would be some woman that did particularly nice work or that was very exceptionally agreeable and would — well, that you could never get an instructor to let her go; that would be one thing. And we would think, "Oh, well, we can carry a few along". And we have done that all through the years, even though I had this $15 minimum.

Now, I have there a woman that's been there, I suppose, 15 years who has one leg cut off, and I myself helped to figure out a machine that we could let that woman work on. We had to put our knee lifter on the other side It was a sort of contrivance — she came in there and by some friend or some way she got to doing a little special work that played out that we had just done. I don't know what it was; maybe handling remnants or something. And then she said she could sew, that she wanted to sew; that she could sew on a home machine but, of course, that has only one treadler. Well, the woman's limb was amputated, the wrong one for our regular power machines, but we figured a way for her to do it. And she is still out there and is a good operator.

But we haven't been ruthless about just absolutely sifting out. On the other hand, if we just have a regular worker that is not 1095 particularly good in any way, and she doesn't do a great deal of work, she doesn't do very good work, she is possibly troublesome all the time, and thinking it is everybody else's fault except her own, why, naturally, those are the first people you let out. Naturally you do. We have always done it. We have to do it to maintain our business and to maintain the standard that we have set for ourselves and for our employees.

[fol. 5130] Q. (By Mr. Cox) Did you ever at any time try to arrive at an average? Take just your machine operators, take a week's pay, and divide the number of machine operators, and arrive at the average of what they earned?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I don't believe we have Mr. Cox.

Q. I have done that myself many times. It gives you a surprising figure as to what your average would be.

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes. I don't believe we have done that.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) I believe you stated, Mrs. Reed, that the company maintained a training section for a number of years to train new operators?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.

Q. Does it frequently happen that an operator can only do one kind of work and it is impossible to train her for any other operation?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes. That very often happens; that an operator just happens to be able to do some one type of work fairly well, she can't 1096 —you put her on something else and she can't do it well at all. She may have happened to have fallen into a certain kind of work that you had a great deal of at the time she started, and she has learned and can do that. And then when you don't have that work and you put her on general work, even of the same character, she just doesn't seem to be able to do it. We have always had a certain amount of that.

Q. Does it also happen that frequently an operator who has done good work will, without any knowledge on your part or cause, start doing poor work?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, that's happened. It happened when I was in the plant myself. Sometimes a woman has domestic difficulties, and her health may not be so good. But every so often we have that happen. A woman has done very good work, and I don't know what happens, whether she becomes dissatisfied; but very often, maybe not often but certainly all through the years that has happened, because at times when I was supervising the work myself, I could hardly believe that a girl—She had done very well, good work, and all of a sudden anything she makes isn't made right, or she has a lot of spoiled work, or she doesn't keep up the amount that she had been doing. I can't always explain it.

1094 Q. Now Mrs. Reed have you or has any official at the Donnelly Garment Company, ever at any time discriminated against an employee on account of union affiliations or sympathies?

A. I have not.

Q. Has any official ever authorized any employee to discriminate against any other employee on account of union affiliations?

[fol. 5131] A. Certainly not. Not with my knowledge, and I am sure I would know about it.

Q. Have you employed union people at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. All through the years I have never asked any question about whether a person belonged to a union or not. I know that there have been numbers of people there that have belonged to a union. And when I employ anybody, we don't ask any questions about any of their affiliations, and never have. We have always had some union people working there.

Q. (By Mr. Dond) Have you ever entered into any contracts with any of the unions?

A. No. Not personally I haven't.

Q. I mean with the plant. Has it ever been under contract with any of the unions?

A. No.

Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) There was something said about the cutters in your plant belonging to a union. Did they have an agreement as a union with you, or as individuals?

A. No, I have never had any agreement. But a number of the cutters belonged to the union. And I understand one of the cutters that is employed as an extra cutter is a member of a union. I don't know whether any of the others are or not. Some of them have at different times belonged. But I have always paid my cutters from $2.50 to $10 a week more than ordinary union wages; and I didn't even know it, and somebody told me a few years ago that I was. I just paid them what I thought they were worth and what you have to pay to have a good cutter. And it is very important in my business that I should have very excellent cutters.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Have you had in your employ a carpenter who has been a member of the union?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I have had a number of different carpenters that have belonged to the union; union carpenters that have worked for me off and on. At our home last year we had about 25 or 30 union carpenters and bricklayers and plasterers and plumbers and painters, etc. And this one carpenter that has worked for me a number of years at one time was president of the carpenters' union. And I have in my employ a young man whose father was president of the carpenters' union here for a number of years and used to do some work for us. He died very suddenly, and I took both of his youngsters to work for me. They were both just out of high school, and the girl worked for me until she was married. And I am still looking after that girl's interest. And the boy is one of our good cutters there. Several years ago he got an idea he wanted to go away, and he went away and I took him back. But I have had an interest in the family since the father died; and he was president of the carpenters' union. I have no prejudice against the unions as unions; never had any occasion to have.

[fol. 5132] Proceedings—Before N. R. A. Board.

ELIZABETH GATES REEVES, Called as a witness, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

p. 202 By Mr. Rucker:

Q. Your name please?

A. Elizabeth Gates Reeves.

Q. And you live in Kansas City, do you Mrs. Reeves?

A. I live in Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. And have lived here for how many years?

A. About twenty-three.

Q. How old are you? A. Over twenty-one.

Q. You are employed by The Donnelly Garment Company, are you? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what capacity?

A. I am production manager.

Q. How long have you occupied that position with the company? A. About eight years.

Q. And prior to that time were you associated with the Company?

A. Yes, sir, I was a clerk in the office, payroll.

Q. How long have you been connected in one capacity or another with the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. It will be fourteen years this March.

p. 203 Q. What are your duties as production manager, Mrs. Reeves?

A. Well, along with production manager I merchandise the line and I am general superintendent, I imagine, of the entire factory; I have charge of the factory, all the producing.

Q. In other words, all of the young women who have testified, and others who occupy the same relative positions down there are under your supervision and control? A. Yes.

Q. Have you any sort of an organization among the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company Mrs. Reeves?

A. What kind of an organization?

Q. I mean an employee organization of any kind?

[fol. 5133] A. We have, to my knowledge, about fourteen such organizations.

Q. Could you tell me the names of them?

A. No, I could not but we have our machines grouped in forty machines to a section and each one of those sections have a small club of their own and then we have a Nelly Don Athletic Association. That is about the only clubs we have.

Q. Now, these clubs you say which are formed among the various units or sections, I believe you referred to—

p. 204 A. Yes.

Q. They are purely social, are they?

A. Purely social.

Q. And your Athletic Organization is more or less social, isn't it?

A. Social, and then it goes in for athletics.

Q. Is that the only organization that has been founded among the employees?

A. Recently I have heard about a Loyalty League.

Q. Are you acquainted with the Loyalty League?

A. No, I am not personally.

Q. You know nothing about it?

A. I just heard about it.

Q. You publish a paper down there which is called the "N. D. A. A. News?"

A. Yes. No. The organization does not publish that. The Nelly Don Athletic Association, as I understand it, is formed from the employees of the Nelly Don Company?

A. Of employees only.

Q. Are there any fees or dues?

A. I don't know; I am just an honorary member of the Nelly Don Athletic Association.

Q. You don't know then, who provides for the publication of this paper called the Nelly Don Athletic Association News?

p. 205 A. No.

Q. Do you ever read it?

[fol. 5134] A. Yes, I do.

Q. Do you recall the issue of February 13, 1935?

A. No.

Q. Refreshing your memory, I am referring particularly to an article headed "900 joined the Loyalty League." Do you recall that now?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Now I want to read this article to you.

Mr. Reed: Just a minute. Do you have anything to do with this at all?

The Witness: No, I don't, not in any way.

Mr. Reed: I do not think it is very material.

Mr. Rucker: Here is one of the chief executives of this company and I think I have a right to inquire of this witness about this organization, notwithstanding.

Dir. Pratt: We will hear it, subject to its being connected up in some way.

Q. I want to read you the article "The employees of the Donnelly Garment Company have in the past week formed the Nelly Don Loyalty League to refute untrue statements and propaganda circulated by the Union. February 5, on the instigation of Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Strickland"—now who are Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Strickland?

p. 206 A. Well, Mrs. Gray works in our Outlet Store and Mrs. Strickland is a pattern maker.

Q. (Continuing reading) "about forty-six employees representing as nearly as possible the entire factory, met at the home of Mrs. Gray. They decided to sound out the personnel on the forming of the League. Cards were passed out to nine hundred employees and all but eleven were signed and returned. Because of the overwhelming response a constitution was drafted and a mass meeting called for February 8th. Mrs. Gray opened the meeting with an account of what had been done and will be done. She displayed a drawing of a tentative pin and explained the meaning of the word 'loyalty', as it pertains to the League's purpose. In separate meetings representatives had been chosen from each department to assure the future and fairness of the directorate board. These names were announced and taken down by the Secretary pro tem." Can you tell me who the secretary pro tem is? A. No, I have no idea.

Q. (reading) "Herbert Mulshe was asked to act as temporary chairman." Do you know who Herbert Mulshe is?

A. Yes, Herbert Mulshe is a cutter of ours.

Q. Is he here?

[fol. 5135] A. No.

Q. Is Mrs. Gray here?

A. No, she doesn't happen to be here.

p. 207 Q. Is Mrs. Strickland here?

A. No.

Q. (reading) "He read a pertinent editional from the February 16 issue of Liberty magazine and announced that the directorate board would act as an election board; the result of their selection would be ratified or refused by a mass meeting to be held soon. By-laws will be decided upon at this meeting. There will be no dues in the league." Now, do you know whether they followed this initial meeting with the other meetings which were spoken of in this publication?

A. I don't know really; I have no knowledge whatever about their activities.

Q. In other words, you have taken no interest in it, as one of the chief executives down there?

A. That is true.

Q. Now, do you know what they mean here by the statement that they are forming this Loyalty League to refute untrue statements and propaganda circulated by the Union?

Mr. Reed: She had nothing to do with it. You are just asking her to interpret something somebody else wrote.

Q. Are you in close contact with these people who are mentioned here, Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Strickland and Mr. Mulshe? A. No.
Q. You don't see them very often? A. No.
p. 208 Q. Are they there every day? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Are they there every day? A. Yes.
Q. Are they under you?
A. Mr. Mulshe is indirectly under me because he is a cutter. Mrs. Strickland is not and Mrs. Gray is very indirectly.
Q. Now, you did hear of the fact that there was going to be an effort made to form some sort of a league, didn't you?
[fol. 5136] A. No, I didn't.
Q. Was the first notice of it that you had when you found it in this publication?
A. No. The first notice I had of it was when I was asked—told about it and was asked if I would like to become a member.
Q. And did you decline?
A. No, I did not.
Q. Did you become a member?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. You have done nothing, you say, toward promoting the declared purposes of the League since you became a member?
A. I have done nothing about it, absolutely.
p. 209 Q. As a matter of fact you know nothing about what its purpose is?
A. No, I don't know anything about it except that I read the card that I signed.
Q. Well, do you remember what was on that card?
A. No, I don't, not exactly.
Q. So far as you know, that organization has no committee from among the employees of the Company for the purpose of seeing that code prices are fairly fixed, do you?
A. No.
Q. You have no committee on working conditions?
A. No.
Q. And so far as you know the only person who has ever made any complaint down there about the discharge of any employee is Miss Stroup, the representative of the Union, isn't she?

A. Miss Stroup did not make any complaint about the discharge of any employee to me.

Q. To whom did she make it?

A. I don't know. Miss Stroup called me up and told me to put a certain girl on a certain kind of work.

Q. Now, do you not recall having had a conversation with Miss Stroup, which was shortly after a number of the young women joined the Union, in which this or in substance this
p. 2 conversation occurred. Didn't you say "Virginia, I understand you are a member of the Union" and did she not say "yes, I am." Didn't she tell you she was a member of the Union?

[fol. 5137] A. I don't get your question. You talk about a League and then—

Q. Just forget about that, forget about the League. I will ask you if this conversation occurred between you—

Mr. Reed: When?

A. When?

Q. Approximately about December 12, 1934?

A. A conversation did occur between Virginia Stroup, and Frances Reidel and myself and this was the conversation and how it happened to occur. Virginia Stroup and Frances Reidel went into their section one morning in December and immediately announced to their instructor "I belong to the Union now and I can do as I want to; we have our feet on the ground, you cannot lay us off."

Q. You heard that, did you?

A. I am going to tell you the whole story.

Q. I say did you hear that? Just answer my question, will you please?

A. I heard it later from Virginia, and Frances Reidel.

Q. All right, now go on ahead?

p. 211 A. Virginia Stroup and Frances Reidel immediately proceeded to take several girls out of the section and go into the wash room, wasting time when they should be at their machines, holding useless conversation. Mrs. Gonotte, their instructor immediately reported that conversation to Mrs. Wherry. Mrs. Wherry came up and reported it to me. I called Virginia Stroup and Frances Reidel up in my office and I told them that as far as I was concerned that they could belong to twenty thousand Unions but as long as they worked at the Donnelly Garment Company they had to do their work right, and they had to be efficient and they had to be courteous and they had to turn out good work; that as far as we were concerned we had never discriminated against any group of people or any person in the Donnelly Garment Company, but as far as them wasting our time we could not let them do that and that whoever told them that because they belong to a Union that they could do as they pleased certainly misinformed them and I told Virginia and Frances Reidel that it was up to them to go to work and do their work well. They announced they belonged to the Union. I didn't ask them.

Q. Have you concluded now what you wanted to say? A. Yes.

Q. Now, to refresh your recollection, when you got into the conversation which was about 9:50 in the morning, they were then in conference with Mrs. Hyde and Mrs. Gonnotte, were they not, both these girls?

p. 212 A. No.

Q. You say neither Mrs. Hyde nor Mrs. Gonotte were there?

[fol. 5138] A. I didn't say that. I said that at 9:50 in the morning that Virginia and Frances were not in conference with Mrs. Hyde and Mrs. Gonotte.

Q. Well, what time was it?

A. When I called Mrs. Gonotte up to my office, the same as I did Mrs. Hyde, but they were not in conference. They were at their machines and they were supposed to be there but they were between their machine and the wash room previous to that time. They were not on the job. That is the reason why they were called.

Q. Didn't you open the conversation by saying "Virginia, I understand you [—] a member of the Union."

A. I told Virginia that she had announced that she was a member of the Union and that her feet were on the ground, and she said "well, they are," she says "I am a member of the Union now and I know where I stand."

Q. At that time Mrs. Reidel was not in the room?

A. Yes, Miss Frances Reidel was in the room.

Q. All the time?

A. Yes. I called Virginia Stroup and Frances Reidel and Fanny Lockwood.

Q. You say you did not ask her if she belonged to the Union; you already knew she belonged?

A. I knew she belonged, she had announced it.

p. 213 Q. Then you said "Just what do you think you can do with a one horse organization."

A. I certainly did not.

Q. "I don't care if you belong to twenty-five thousand Unions, there is nobody can tell us when we lay a girl off we have to take her back. Where do you think you get authority to tell us how to run our industry." Didn't that occur?

A. I told you just a few minutes ago—

Q. Just answer my question?

A. Wait a minute.

p. 214 Q. In substance, didn't you make that statement to her?

A. No, I didn't. I never heard a conversation misrepresented as thoroughly as what you read to me.

Q. You just said a moment ago you did tell her you didn't care if she belonged to twenty-five thousand Unions?

[fol. 5139] A. I said "I don't care if you belong to twenty thousand unions, Virginia, you have got to get down here and do your work and you cannot spend your time wasting it, running back and forth to the wash room." That is what I said.

Q. Now, isn't it true that just about the time you made whatever statement you did make in that connection that Frances Reidel came in and did not you say when she entered the room "now Frances, that goes for you, too, you are a member of the Union."

A. I have already stated —

Q. Just answer the question.

A. Well, Mr. Pratt, I thought this was an informal hearing and I think that I have a right here, when people make statements like that,

p. 215 that are absolutely untrue, and they have thoroughly misrepresented and taken just exactly one phase of one thing, then I think I have a right here to explain to these gentlemen just exactly how the conversation occurred and all about it.

Dir. Pratt: There is no question about that but at the same time, if Mr. Rucker has asked you something and you say that it is not so, all you have to say is no and then go ahead with your explanation. Do you see my point? You say that did not happen. You can answer no and then go ahead with your explanation.

The Witness: All right.

Dir. Pratt: Ask that question again.

Q. Did you say to Frances Reidel, in substance; "That goes for you, too."

A. Yes, I did.

Q. "Are you a member of the Union."

A. No, I didn't ask Frances if she was a member of the Union. I already knew it. I called Frances and Virginia up together.

Q. I beg your pardon, you made the statement "you are a member of the union."

A. I did not say "you are a member of the Union." In fact Frances stood there and I don't believe she opened her mouth the entire time she was there. Virginia did the most talking and I was talking to the three girls, including Fanny Lockwood.

Q. Did you also say in this conversation "I am getting darned sick of you girls messing around and causing trouble all the time."

p. 216

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you turn to Virginia and say "how long have you worked here" and did she reply "six years."

[fol. 5140] A. No.

Q. That didn't occur?

A. No.

Q. Did you say during that time "you have been a very punk operator, and you, too, Frances; your records are both very poor. I allowed you three and four dollars and even one time six dollars Virginia. Just how long do you think I will put up with this foolishness." Did you make that statement?

A. No.

Q. Did you say "I have allowed you, too, Frances $1.80 one time and $3.00 another time and so on. We can lay you off any time we see fit and nobody can keep us from doing so."

A. Well, as a matter of fact Frances Reidel was always considered a pretty fair operator.

Q. I ask you if you made that statement?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Nor any statement like that?

A. I don't remember making any statement like that.

Q. Did you say to Virginia "about six years ago, Virginia, we kept you here when you were not able to work."

p. 217 A. I have said that to Virginia but not at this particular time. I have said that since.

Q. That was since December?

A. Yes.

Q. Who is Grace?

A. Grace Gonotte. She is [Virginia] instructor.

Q. She was present at this conversation wasn't she?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you speak up and say she had always felt sorry for Virginia?

A. No, as I remember I did most of the talking.

Q. Did you [way] "we kept her here because we were a bunch of softies. Just what is this organization of yours."

[fol. 5141] A. No, I didn't say that. It might be true, but I didn't say it.

Q. You didn't admit it?

A. No, I didn't admit it. I think we were, me, particularly.

Q. And did Virginia say "the organization of the Donnelly Garment employees, I am the chair lady?"

A. Yes, Virginia announced to me that she was now the chairman of the Nelly Don Union and I said "I never heard of it, what is it Virginia" and she said "well, you better call up the Union and find out," and I said "who put you there Virginia; how did you happen to be the chairman." She said "you better call up the Union and find out, they will tell you all about it", and I said "well, Virginia, it seems to me that if any steps like that was taken that it is up to them to notify us of your position and so forth. It is all news to us."

p. 218 I said "what are your duties Virginia." She said "I am to investigate any time that anybody is laid off." I said "By whose authority" and she said, "well, call up the Union and find out." And I said "well, Virginia, as far as I am concerned I don't recognize you as having any authority whatsoever." I said "nobody has ever notified me or told me; no operator, no girl has even said to me that they wanted you to represent them or to the Donnelly Garment Company in any way."

Q. Now, didn't you say to her when she told you that she was the chairwoman and that she was there to find out why your laid a girl off and take her to the office —

A. I think maybe you are getting mixed up a little bit.

Q. I may be. Now, didn't you say "well, now, isn't that lovely; now let me tell you one thing, you are going down there and make your average and if you don't, out you go."

A. I don't remember saying "isn't that lovely."

Q. Do you remember saying the rest of it?

A. I told Virginia she was going downstairs and she was going to get to work and she had to make an effort to make her average and do her work right. It had come to a point where you have two girls come into a section of forty machines and announce themselves, it is a question of whether you are going to run a factory or close down the place and let them run it. It is a matter of discipline.

Q. You didn't care to have anybody there speaking for these girls, did you?

p. 219 A. That didn't enter into it at all. I would not let a girl, regardless, do a thing like that without calling her on it; regardless of who she was or what her religion or what her nationality was, whether she was Union or non Union. You have got to keep discipline in a factory if you are going to run a successful organization.

Q. I agree with you on that and I say you would not have premitted anyone of the employees to come there and take up the battle of the girls whom you discharged; you would not tolerate it?

[fol. 5142] A. Now wait a minute. It depends on how they come. It depends entirely upon the circumstances.

Q. How did you want them to come there? On their knees?

A. I don't think your question is right, myself.

Q. Now, didn't she say to you in that conversation "well, Mrs. Reeves, there is some of the work you can't make fifteen dollars a week on."

A. I don't remember her saying that.

Q. And didn't you say "oh, no, there isn't, darling; other girls can do it and you can too; you girls waste too much time of the company kidding and going to the wash room. That has got to stop. Don't let us catch you talking and you, Ella May Hyde, that is your job to see how many times these two girls go to the wash room and how long they stay. I am anxious to know what you report to the office."

p. 220

A. Well, part of that conversation occurred there and part of it occurred when Virginia was causing us some more trouble at a later date and I told Mrs. Hyde at that particular time that we absolutely had to put a stop to these girls running back and forth and taking the other operator's time, conversing in the wash room, during the Donnelly Garment Company's time, when they should be at the machines, and I told Ella May Hyde to keep a check on it. It is a matter of discipline.

Q. Didn't you, in that same conversation say to Virginia "by the way, what is your office" and did she not reply to you "I am to find out why you lay a girl off and take it to the office."

A. I didn't have to ask her —

Q. I didn't ask you whether you had to.

A. She announced to me what her position was and that is what she said.

Q. And told you she was to find out why you laid a girl off?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you say in reply to that statement by her "I don't see that that is any of your business. Mrs. Hyde, don't you put out any information about why we lay a girl off."

A. I certainly did. I didn't say to Virginia that it was none of her business; I asked her just by what authority that we should tell her and then I told her that as far as I was concerned I did not intend to give her any information
p. 221 and I authorized Mrs. Hyde not to give her any of the information. I didn't say what you said.

Q. Didn't you say to Virginia "you are just fixing to throw a thousand girls out of work and I certainly would not want that on my soul. I think you girls are just a couple of girls misled; I ought to turn you over my lap and give you a spanking."

A. I didn't say that.

Q. You didn't say that?

[fol. 5143] A. I couldn't.

Q. It wasn't a question of whether you could or not. Did you tell her that is what you thought you ought to do?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, at that point, did you not say "Virginia, just what is your organization for" and did she not say "well, Mrs. Reeves, you call the office, they will tell you everything I have left out."

A. That took place.

Q. That took place?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you not then ask her "is Ollie Thompson a member of your organization?"

A. No, I didn't.

Q. And didn't she say "I don't know?"

A. No, I didn't because I had already received a letter from Mr. Pratt on December 7th stating that Ollie Thompson was a member of the union.

p. 222 Q. Was this before — did this conversation occur before the 12th of December; didn't you have a conversation at one time with Virginia in which you asked her whether Ollie Thompson was a member or not?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, did you not say this "I don't care how many Unions you belong to, belong to all of them if you think they will do you any good; go tell Sol Goldberg he will do better if he keeps his business right down there at his own place."

A. No, I didn't; I don't know who Sol Goldberg is.

Q. You don't know Sol Goldberg?

A. Never heard of Sol Goldberg.

Q. You had a stenographic report of the meeting that had been held at the Eagles Hall of the various Union organizations in Kansas City, did you not?

A. I did not.

Q. You never [say] that report?

A. I certainly did not.

Q. You knew one was made didn't you?

[fol. 5144] A. No, except that at that meeting it was announced that somebody was making a stenographic report; I believe that Mr. Dubinsky mentioned the fact.

Mr. Reed: That was a public meeting.

A. That was a public meeting, mass meeting.

Q. You went to the meeting?

A. Yes, I did.

p. 223 Q. Did you go for the purpose of possibly joining the Union?

A. No, I didn't. I went to see what it was all about.

Q. And you didn't like it?

A. I enjoyed several of the speeches very much.

Q. Did you like the main purposes that were expressed there?

Mr. Reed: I think that is probably incompetent in this case.

Q. Did you report back to your superior about the meeting?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Made no report?

A. I did not.

Q. Are you in the habit of going to these mass meetings held by the various Union organizations?

A. Oh, I have been invited to several.

Q. Had you ever gone before?

A. I have been to functions that the Carpenter's Union have given.

Q. I mean meetings of a type similar to this?

A. I had never been to a mass meeting before.

Q. That was the first you had attended?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you attended any since?

[fol. 5145] A. No.

Q. Did you not say to Virginia in this conversation "what do you think you could do about anything with your petty position."

A. No, I didn't.

p. 224 Q. Was your purpose in calling these two young women in your office to complain to them about their conducts, which had been reported to you?

A. Well, I was really reprimanding them for the way in which they were acting, which I would do any employee of the Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. You don't tolerate insubordination from any of your employees do you?

A. We do and we don't.

Q. Now, was it true that Virginia Stroup, was a splendid operator or just an ordinary operator?

A. Well, Virginia was a fair operator; she is not a particularly good operator.

p. 225 Q. How about Frances Reidel?

A. Frances Reidel we always considered a very good little operator.

Q. Very good?

A. Yes.

Q. Is she still working for you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How about Thelma Owen?

A. Thelma Owen is a fast operator, and could turn out good work if she wanted to, and there are several periods when an instructor would stand over Thelma and make her do good work and she would do it but every chance Thelma got she would put out bad work.

Q. Over what period of time had that situation existed with reference to Thelma Owen? Ever since she worked for you?

A. Ever since she worked for us.

Q. And you kept her how long?

p. 226 were thoroughly fed up on Thelma and her work and the things she did while she was at her machine, her conversation and so forth. I personally felt sorry for Thelma. She told me that she needed the work and I have always tried my best to be sympathetic and understanding to our girls, and I knew that Thelma could do good work if she only would, and I always felt that it is a pity, when a girl was capable of doing as good work, that she just won't get in and do her part, so I personally put Thelma on to work over at our branch factory, away from the main building because there was nobody at the main building at that time who would have Thelma Owen in their section, and at that time that we reemployed Thelma Owen I talked to her seriously and I told her "Thelma, do try now, this time, to get along and make good" and she promised me that she would and she did work very well for a period of time and did turn out good work and then she got into her sloppy ways again and we had trouble with Thelma again and just a month previous to Thelma being laid off she was in Mrs. White's section, and Thelma wouldn't do her work well and she wasted time, she wouldn't get in and do what she should do and she had more break downs on her machine than any body, and furthermore, you folks know that in running a car, that a poor driver can wreck many a good car. Well, an operator who is not careful of their car can certainly have a lot machine trouble and Thelma had a lot of machine trouble because she was wrecking her machine, and Mrs. Wherry and Mrs. Atchison,

p. 227 after talking to Mrs. White, came up my office and they suggested that we lay off Thelma because she was not turning out any kind of work and she was wasting time and a very inefficient employee.

Q. When was that?

A. That was in May, 1934, and I guess I got soft hearted again and I said "well, let us give her one more chance, we are starting this new section up on the 9th floor and let us see if Thelma can't make good under an entirely new instructor" so I called Thelma up to the office to talk to her and I said "now, we are giving you one more chance, won't you get in there and make good" and Thelma said to me "well, Mrs. Reeves, I don't want to go up to Mrs. Neimeyor's section because I might be laid off if they close down that section" and I said to her "well, Thelma, if you get in there and do your work right and are careful, why there is no reason on earth why we would even want to lay you off" so Thelma was given that one last chance and when she went upstairs to Mrs. Neimeyor's section she didn't do her work right; the inspectors complained that when they took her work back to Thelma she was very rough in her language to them; the mechanic complained and Mrs. Neimeyor complained and said she would not have her in her section and Mrs. Tyhurst who is in charge of the quality of our work said she absolutely would not be responsible any more if we continued to keep Thelma Owen in our employ. Thelma can make good if she wants to but she didn't want to and she was given four chances to make good at the Donnelly

p. 228 Garment Company and I think four chances is being quite lenient with anyone person.

Q. You have her payroll card there, haven't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell me Mrs. Reeves, which of these columns represent the money she drew in 1934?

[fol. 5147] A. This last column.

Q. That is the last column on the right side of the card?

A. The last one.

Q. Do I understand that is for the month of June here?

A. Yes.

Q. And on the reverse side, that is the last week of June?

A. Yes; she got the last week vacation. She was laid off July 11th, 1934.

Q. That was following a two weeks vacation?

A. Yes.

Q. Did she get that vacation with pay?

A. She got one week with pay.

Q. What are the requirements for one week's vacation with pay?

A. That they cannot be absent over eleven days during the year except when we have no work and that is not their fault.

Q. All right. This card shows she received on the week off June 22nd, $19.97, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And on the previous week $18.14?

A. Yes.

p. 229 Q. And on the previous week $20.85; on the previous week $15.75; on the previous week $17.49; the previous week $20.77; the previous week $18.66; the previous week $17.30.

A. I am sure our records are right.

Q. Now that is the last eight weeks beginning with the week of May 4th, as I understand it, and on the last week she worked she received $16.80?

A. Which was her average for the year.

Mr. Reed: Is that her vacation week?

A. Yes, that is her vacation week, that was gratis.

Dir. Pratt: Let me just interrupt there. The pay that you give them for one week is their average for the entire year?

A. Yes.

[fol. 5148] Dir. Pratt: And $16.80 was her average for the entire year?

A. That was her average during the entire year.

Q. Now, the amount that she was required to earn under your code and under your plan, as I understand it, was $15.00 a week?

A. Well, $15.00 was our minimum; that would be our poorest operator.

Q. But as a matter of fact, her earnings for the entire year was $16.80 and that included the times she was absent, didn't it?

A. Yes, but you didn't include there the amounts that we had to allow —

p. 230 Mr. Reed: You mean that that was her average when she was there?

The Witness: When she was there.

Mr. Rucker: Well, I don't know whether it was or not. That is what I am trying to find out.

A. That was her average when she was there.

Q. I am not acquainted with the plan. Does that mean the average during the year she actually worked?

A. Yes.

Q. Or is that the average including the days she was not on the job?

A. We take their hourly rate when they are there. You could not strike an average if they were not there.

Q. I notice here one of the columns is headed "Expense". What does that mean?

p. 231 A. That means repair work and waiting for a machine to be fixed, allowances, things like that.

Q. I don't care to go back any further than April but here is April 13. As I understand that is April 13, 1934, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That starts out there with [eight] three cents under the heading of "Expense". Can you tell me what that eighty three cents was for?

A. I think that must be about two hours time on machine repair.

Q. Now, I note that she earned that week $19.10?

A. Yes, because we paid her while she was waiting for her machine to be fixed.

Q. So you had to pay her eighty three cents?

[fol. 5149] A. Yes, and in addition to that we gave her $2.10 while she was just sitting there waiting.

Q. Just sitting there waiting, that is for her machine, I assume?

A. Yes.

Q. Now then there is an item of ninety-seven cents the next week?

A. I imagine that is machine trouble, too.

p. 232 Q. And the next week thirty-eight cents?

A. Yes.

Q. That is right, is it?

A. Yes.

Mr. Reed: Was that machine trouble too, in your opinion?

A. It is my opinion, yes, that that is machine trouble.

Q. Now there are no items then under the heading of expense shown on this card for the week of —

A. No, but there is quite —

Q. I will get to that. Let us get it one at a time. Is that May 11th?

A. That is May 11th.

Q. Then there are no items shown under the heading of expense after the week of May 11th?

A. That might be; that expense either might be machine time or repair; most likely it was repair.

Q. I just want to get a picture of the card. There are no figures under the heading of expense after that time, are there, on this card?

A. No.

Q. Now, we come over here to another heading "Idle Time."

A. Yes.

Q. Now, I note that there are four entries under that heading, one the week of the 18th of May seventy-five cents, another the week of May 25th fifty-six cents, another June 8th, sixty-

p. 233 nine cents, and another June 22nd nine cents. Now, what other time did this girl lose during that period except the time that is mentioned there on that card?

[fol. 5150] A. I don't understand your question.

Q. Well, I don't think I could make it any plainer.

A. Well, I am sorry I don't understand.

Dir. Pratt: What does idle time refer to?

A. When a person is waiting for a machine or waiting for a mechanic, and suspend activity, repair work where they have to do their own repair work.

Dir. Pratt: But I think the explanation we want to get at is, the testimony has been that she had a lot of machine trouble?

A. Yes, she had.

Dir. Pratt: Now, is there one item or two items for machine trouble? In other words, does idle time come from machine trouble or when they are waiting for —

A. (interrupting) Idle time is coming from machine trouble and the repair work is from expense. You see, what we do, in our cost system, we analyze those things pretty closely and sometimes we keep them under the two headings. Sometimes when a mechanic is having trouble with a machine we put that under idle time and sometimes when the girl has really caused the trouble herself we put that under expense so that when we analyze our
p. 234 card we make that differential ourselves so that when we are judging the type of operators we know.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, have you an operator out there by the name of Magdalene Hammers?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you give me her card please?

A. I don't happen to have her card here.

Q. Will you produce it for me, please?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you a girl there by the name of May Innis?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have her card?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Do you mean you have only brought the cards of these girls that are here?

A. Well, the cards that are listed. I could not bring six hundred cards down here.

Q. I would like now to have the cards of Magdalene Hammers, and May Innis?

[fol. 5151] A. May Innis is not in our employ any more.

Q. Clare Enlow, Loretta Sisston, Ollie Thompson, Nora McKee, Kathleen Jenkins, Naomia McQuiston?

A. Now, as far as Nora McKee is concerned, she is an examiner. She is on a flat rate of eighteen dollars a week.

Q. Has she never been a sewing girl?

A. No, she has never sewed.

Q. Never ran a machine?

p. 235

A. Not that I know of.
Q. She did not make dresses?
A. No, she is an examiner.
Q. All right, if she didn't make dresses you need not bring her card. How about these other girls?
A. They are all operators.
Q. Will you give me the card please of Ellen Fry?
A. Mr. Rucker, I just want to say one thing. You are emphasizing this machine trouble just an awful lot.
Q. Mrs. Reeves, I don't want to argue with you about this. This is not the proper time to argue the case. Just answer the question. Senator is well able to argue the case.

Dir. Pratt: We will hear her explanation.

Q. If you want to make an explanation go ahead.
A. You are passing over it very lightly and I do not want these gentlemen to forget that I have testified that Thelma Owen was a fast operator but on the other hand she had more trouble with her work than any ordinary operator. Now the thing is this, that she would turn out bundles at a time but you can sew a lot of bundles, a lot easier and faster than you can spend your time repairing those bundles after they are sent to the examiners and have to be sent back for repair, and Thelma did not do her work right. She would stretch the seams and she would roll her binding in and absolutely spoil the entire fit of a garment. Now, in manufacturing Nelly Don products we have always been careful of our reputation as good manufacturers and that is why we have had to hire girls who were careful of the quality of our work.

p. 236

Dir. Pratt: Let me ask you, Mrs. Reeves, along that line. When Thelma Owen turned out a batch of bad garments, the seams stretched and bindings rolled under, and they were turned down by the inspector, then what did you do? Did you send them back to Thelma Owen?

[fol. 5152] A. But we had to pay Thelma for the time that she was repairing them.

Q. (By Director Pratt) You paid her for the time that she repaired them?

A. Repaired them.

Q. Do you mean at a flat hourly rate?

A. Absolutely; that is according to the N.R.A. Code.

Q. And there was no penalty whatever except the difference between her piece work rate and the hourly rate?

A. Yes.

Q. If she made poor garments, is that correct?

A. Well — you cannot have a girl come in and time in for her work and have her sit there at a machine without paying her time. Now, if Thelma Owen had timed in in the morning and she was with the Donnelly Garment Company four hours, we certainly would have to pay her for that four hours time under the N.R.A.

Q. What I am getting at is this, take for example if she spent four hours repairing some work

p. 237 that she had done the day before, we will say, you would pay her for time work, that is whatever it was on an hourly basis for the repairs that she made, because of her poor operations the day before?

A. We would have to if she did not make the code.

Mr. Rucker: That's it.

Mr. Cox: If she made the code do you pay for that repair?

A. We allow a little time.

Mr. Cox: Has that always been customary?

A. Yes, it has always been customary except in one instance, I remember now that several years ago when Thelma was in our employ, she did the same thing. That was before the N.R.A. and as I remember Thelma turned out about six bundles of work which was very bad and we made her repair them on her own time as a matter of discipline.

Mr. Cox: Isn't it unusual to pay for that repair work?

A. Well, the girls fall down if you don't. You have to pay for it in one way or the other.

Mr. Cox: But if they go over the code isn't that unusual?

[fol. 5153] A. The thing is, that if they turn out the work at the end of the payroll week and then on the following week if they have to do their repair work it almost works out like you have to pay them the entire time.

Q. (By Director Pratt) Is there any sum on Thelma Owen's card there which represents time work paid for repair work?

p. 238 A. Yes, I am sure that there are.

Q. Let me look at the card again?

A. That all represents expense. This here looks like an hour's time.

Q. She made $18.66 that week; that was over the code, wasn't it? Would you pay that whether she went over the code or not?

A. I don't know. We take things into consideration.

Mr. Rucker: Did she say they paid that if she went over the code?

Dir. Pratt: No, she hasn't said that.

A. We do sometimes. You see the point is here, that you take these girls, they are working on crews, you have a certain crew and Thelma was an under arm seamer. Well, she sent her work to the examiners. Sometimes two or three days will elapse before that work gets back and then sometimes Thelma gets one garment out of a bundle and it stays at her machine a day or so, so there is a lapse of time there that it over reaches one week to another.

Q. Take this week ending April 20th, an item of 33¢ under expense. For money that week she made $15.30, that was over the code? I am assuming the code amount would be $14.83. Now can you tell from this card, there are not all the records on this card of course, but can you tell from this card whether that was —

p. 239 A. (interrupting) No, I cannot but I will say this, that the Donnelly Garment Company always had a policy of trying to maintain their operators on a certain earning capacity. If you asked me just roughly what price operator Thelma Owen was I would say Thelma is about an $18.00 operator. I refreshed my memory and found out she was not quite as good as I thought she was.

Mr. Birkhead: What would you call a good operator?

A. A really good operator make around $25.00; I would say from twenty to twenty-five dollars on under arm seam binding, that is a standard operation. You never change your work on that. That is just one operation constantly, under arm seams, and every garment that we make has under arm seams.

Q. (By Director Pratt) When a girl, an operator down there turns out bad work, which necessitates going back for repair because she did not do it properly in the first place, no particular penalty attaches to that; if it gets too bad you let them go but aside from that there is no particular penalty, is that it?

[fol. 5154] A. Well, I think you have expressed it.

Mr. Cox: Is that customary in all garment factories:

A. No, it is not. These paid vacations is not a customary thing of manufacturing concerns. I believe we are the only people that do that but this extra allowance, when girls start on a new operation, is not customary. We give that to our girls in order to help them along and encourage them, and there are a great many girls, when you give them a new bundle, and I have even had complaints that when you change the color of the same identical dress they have difficulty with it. Well, in order to not have a girl be very unhappy about it, and say "oh, I am not going to make anything on this," we just say "well, you get in there and do your best and we will give you an allowance on it." Those things the regular factories doesn't do but we have always done it. Just like before we ever heard of the code, we always went through the payroll cards and analyzed them every week. I know when I started with the Donnelly Garment Company and I was on the payroll, that one of the first things that we had to do before we made up the payroll, if a girl fell down too much we would go into the reasons and the cause and the why and make it up to them.

p. 240

Mr. Cox: Are you still working on the forty hour code?

A. No, we are working under the thirty-six hours now.

Mr. Cox: You know it didn't go into effect until December 26th.

A. Well, I am not sure then.

Mr. Cox: It was tied up by the injunction, you know?

Mr. Reed: We didn't have any injunction, so the record will be clear on that.

Mr. Cox: It was not in the dress business, it was in the cotton garment.

p. 241

Mr. Reed: This code had no injunction.

Mr. Cox: No, but the injunction was filed and you could take advantage of that up until December 26th.

Mr. Reed: Could have, but did not.

A. Then another thing, as far as Thelma Owen was concerned, is as long as we are still on Thelma Owen, besides poor quality of the work and having to keep after her constantly was that we had complaints constantly about her conversation and her rough talking at the machine with the mechanics and disturbing the other employees and as I have stated previously it was through my own personal influence, really over riding the judgment of other people in our organization that I was personally responsible for bringing Thelma back as many times as we did because I wanted to give her another chance and I thought when she did she would be able to make it.

[fol. 5155] Q. (By Director Pratt): One more question. The last four weeks as to this Thelma Owen, according to the card these things did not occur, I mean there was no machine trouble and no time out, according to this card?

A. Well, Mr. Pratt, they did occur, and furthermore that is the only reason why we laid Thelma off. Her instructor complained constantly and even then when Thelma wanted to come back I personally took it up with our instructors and I asked each one of them if they would not give her another chance and they just absolutely refused.

Q. All I was saying is that this card does not indicate the repair work during the last four

p. 242 weeks?

Mr. Reed: I think it does.

A. Yes, it does. No. Look at this machine time that she had out, it is a question of all these things.

Q. (By Director Pratt) But is there any repair work?

A. Not in that particular case.

Q. In the last month it was machine trouble?

A. Well, we evidently didn't allow her then from May on; that was when I had that talk with her and I told Thelma that she just had to get in and do better work.

Q. And you were not going to make the allowance to her if she didn't, is that the idea?

A. I imagine that is what happened there. She did have a lot of break downs in Mrs. Neimeyor's section. She testified here Wednesday that she had this machine trouble.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, as a matter of fact, don't you recall that she had some words with her instructor because her machine, with which she had been working, was taken away from her and given to a woman by the name of Jennie Brown?

A. I don't recall anything about that but I do recall that Thelma Owen was constantly having words with every instructor she ever had.

Q. And that was true the entire time she worked there?

A. Yes, that is just why they didn't want her back.

p. 243 Q. Do I understand you to say that if a girl makes over the code that she is not charged with the time that she puts in on repairs?

A. I thought that I made it clear to all you gentlemen that we try —

Q. Please answer my question.

[fol. 5156] Mr. Reed: Let her answer.

A. We treat each problem as an individual problem and we analyze our operators and their problem. You take for instance if a girl sometimes would make a lot of garments that were wrong and she was conscientious about doing it and so forth, instead of not letting her fall down constantly we would give her so much gratis time but if a girl makes a habit of constantly having repair work and didn't care, we would possibly make her pay for it herself.

Q. That was true of Thelma Owen you say, she constantly had repair work?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. Then under the rule you just announced, Thelma Owen was charged with the time she put in on repairs, wasn't she?

A. Well, I will not say that she was the entire time. It looks from analyzing this card that we were working with Thelma Owen very conscientiously and worked with her on her repairs until she was transferred to another section and she had this conversation with me and I told her it was up to her to get up there and make good, and from analyzing this card and knowing what I do of the situation, instead of having repairs, then she had machine break downs. She was constantly complaining about her machine break downs. That was not new at all. When she went up to Mrs. Neimeyor's section she had the same experience as when she was under Mrs. White.

p. 244

Q. I want you to answer this question. Is it the policy of your company where an operator runs over the code for a week's work, to charge the girl with the time she puts in on repairs?

A. I answered that.

Q. Well, please answer it, I didn't get the answer.

A. I said I treated each case —

Mr. Reed: Does the girl pay?

Mr. Rueker: No, she doesn't pay anything but the time is charged against her that she puts in on repairs, without pay.

Mr. Birkhead: You mean the time is taken out?

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Is that the policy of your company?

A. I said it depended.

Q. What is your general policy?

A. We haven't any definite policy. Now that answers your question, doesn't it?

Q. No, it does not to my satisfaction.

[fol. 5157] A. We haven't any definite policy I say.

p. 245 Q. What is your usual plan?

Mr. Reed: Let her answer.

A. I said that we took each case and we analyze it very carefully.

Q. I understood you to say that.

A. All right.

Q. But have you no plan at all with reference to whether or not the time put in by operators, who have gone over the code, upon making repairs is charged against them?

A. Mr. Rucker, if I may explain our policy at the Donnelly Garment Company, maybe that will answer the question for you.

Every week when we analyze our payroll cards there are three people that go over that payroll card, the instructor, Mrs. Wherry, who has charge of the factory and Mr. Atchison, my assistant.

Now we analyze each one of those cards very carefully and consider what the operator has done during the entire week, what handicap she might have been under and we do quite a lot of things gratis, and then also we take into consideration if it is hard for them to handle new work and if it is, sometimes we give them an extra allowance, just to get started and then also we take into consideration that maybe a girl has had repair work and we don't want her to fall down too low because she is an $18.00 operator and we will give her money gratis.

Also a lot of times we just sort of figure, well she did have repair work but she will do better
p. 246 after this and we try to talk to our girls and inspire them to do better.

We have no set policy on that particular question. It is a matter of judgment and we use the very best judgment that we have and it takes three people's judgment.

Q. Now, do you make extra allowances to your operators who exceed the code?

A. Sometimes we do, absolutely.

Q. How often?

A. Well, I would say that on quite a number of occasions we do. We have one group of people that we call a flying squad, and we make them an allowance of so much an hour in addition to everything they earn.

Q. How many people in that squad?

A. Well, during busy seasons we have ten to twelve people.

Q. And how many people have you on your payroll down there, how many operators?

A. I would say that around January 1st we had about six hundred.

Q. How many have you now?

[fol. 5158] A. I don't know. I would have to check it up, that changes constantly.

Q. Approximately how many had you on the first day of November, 1934?

A. I don't know.

Q. Have you any records with you which will disclose that information?

A. Yes, we have records.

p. 247 Q. Will you be kind enough, when you come back after the noon recess, to bring me the number of operators you had on the 15th day of January, 1934, and each succeeding month thereafter on the 15th day of the month, up until now?

A. It would be impossible to get that record because we would have to go back and copy it. We do not have an active record on how many we have. It would take a couple of days to get that information.

Q. You have no record at all which shows the number of employees that you have in the factory each day?

A. We can get it, we have to compile that information.

p. 265 Q. Now, Mrs. Reeves, I am just going to ask you a question about each one of these girls. I believe Glynn Brooks was discharged on account of inefficiency, that is the only reason, an inefficient and poor worker?

Mr. Reed: Was she discharged singly or did she go out with the rest of them?

A. No, she was laid off with one hundred and sixty-five other people and there were a lot of reasons besides that, that I could go into detail. Glynn Brooks is very irritable and she could not change from one operation to the other. Now, I want to tell you one of the policies [of the policies] of the Donnelly Garment Company and what we consider a first class operator.

p. 266 Q. Ellen Fry, was she discharged for the same reason?

Q. Was she let off for the same reason?

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Then why was Ellen Fry not recalled?

A. Well, on analyzing our records and going through I have been able to find other people who we figured filled our requirements better than Ellen Fry.

p. 267 Ellen Fry was employed steadily from June 22nd, 1932 until July 13th, 1934.

Q. That is two years?

[fol. 5159] A. And the reason why Ellen Fry was kept those two years was due to the fact that during the depression we tried to carry out the idea of sharing work because we knew that it was hard to get a job any place else in Kansas City that could give them year round employment. We talked to the operators about it and put it up to them and they were very enthusiastic about sharing the work plan which had been talked about a lot in the newspapers and I think originated from President Roosevelt, and so it came to the point of whether we were going to lay these people off or not and our operators wanted to take off a few days on their own time in order to give other people work and we allowed them to do that and we were very proud that they were willing to do that.

p. 280 Q. Now Mamie Tubbesing was let out. She was not let out at the July cut down?

A. At the time that Mamie Tubbesing came up and talked to me and asked me if we were going to call her back I said I didn't know and I didn't call anybody back unless I checked their record and I checked Miss Tubbesing's record and she told me that her instructor said she was satisfactory. I checked it up with her instructor and I checked it up with Mrs. Wherry and I checked it up with

p. 281 Mr. Atchison because that was the committee that decided, taking everything into consideration, which of these girls we would lay off. I offered Mamie Tubbesing some time work and she flatly refused to have time work. Miss Tubbesing came to my office with the express purpose of getting me told, telling me what she thought of me and what she thought of the Donnelly Garment Company and everybody in the Donelly Garment Company.

She certainly was. I never saw anybody that was madder or more incoherent. She was almost ready to burst into tears and I said "well, Mamie, if you think so bad of the Donnelly Garment Company and we are so terrible, why do you want to come back here and work." And she said "I don't want to come back here to work; I am just asking whether you intend to call me back Mrs. Reeves" and she said "why, was I laid off", and I said "well, Mamie, you know that, it was your attitude," and she said "what attitude" and I went on to explain to Mamie that it was her indifference" and Mamie Tubbesing was taken off of the floor because several of the girls went to Mrs. Wherry and complained. If you are interested to know the name of the girl at the head of that group of girls I will be very happy to tell you.

p. 282 Katherine Chandler went to Mrs. Wherry and asked if Mamie could be taken off the floor because she was absolutely indifferent; she kept the girls waiting for thread and binding. Mamie was taken off the floor about July 20th, and due to Mamie's long service we kept her on the machine and we tried to do everything we could to help Mamie and when Mamie came back, when she got through telling me what she thought of me, I said "well, Mamie, how would you like to have some time work" and Mamie said she did not want time work. By time work I thought we might have some kind of work in either the dividing department or the renmant department or the turning of belts or something like that that Mamie was capable of making good at and she flatly refused me.

Q. Did I ask you about Tillie Shirley?

A. No.

Q. She was also let out in October?

p. 283 A. Yes.

Q. For [inefficency]?

[for. 5160] A. Yes, selected as one of our poorer operators. We do not go right out and pick these girls out; we had a problem on our hands. We did not have the work and we had to make a selection of one hundred and sixty-five people at one time and one hundred and forty-six at another time.

p. 284 Q. Why was Pauline Lutz let out?

A. Well, it has been the policy of the Donnelly Garment Company all during the years to weed out operators for their inefficiency. We cannot keep operators constantly who are inefficient and cannot make their average.

p. 285 Q. Now, Virginia Stroup did call upon you to take up the question of Pauline Lutz's discharge, didn't she?

Q. And did she not tell you that Pauline was one of the Union girls?

A. She did.

Q. And did you not say "as far as I am concerned we don't recognize you or your organization."?

A. I said "as far as I am concerned, Virginia I don't know why you should be speaking for Pauline. Pauline has never told me that she wanted you as a representative, or anybody else."

p. 296 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) You knew on February 13th, 1935 that certain of your employees were Union members, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you told the boys that you had reemployed eight of the persons who signed the complaint at the time the complaint was filed?

A. Before the complaint was filed.

p. 298 I want to say, as far as Union employees of the Donnelly Garment Company, ever since I have been at the Donnelly Garment Company we have never asked anybody about whether they were Union or whether they were not Union and as far as any outside work was concerned we have always hired Union carpenters and Union electricians and people like that, so we have never discriminated in any way against anybody and have never been interested in their affiliations.

[fol. 5161] N. R. A. testimony:

p. 611 Mrs. Elizabeth Gates Reeves recalled as a witness, having been previously sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Q. (By Mr Ingraham) Mrs. Reeves, are you acquainted with Thelma Owen?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you just tell the Board the kind of work that Thelma Owen did?

p. 612 A. Well, Thelma Owen was a fast operator and was capable of doing good work if she wanted to, but Thelma's instructors had to stand over her constantly and force her to do good work. And I have personally seen quite a few of her bundles that have been taken up to me for examination because her work was so poor. And I can speak very definitely that Thelma does very bad work, and I am personally responsible for having kept Thelma with the company as long as possible and bringing her back several times after we had laid her off.

Q. Now, she testified that when she was transferred to the ninth floor on May 3, 1934, that

p. 613 you asked if she belonged to the union. Is that true?

A. No, that is not true.

Q. When was the first that you learned of her union affiliations?

A. December 7, I believe, when we received Mr. Pratt's letter.

Q. After her lay-off did Thelma Owen and Blynn Brooks call at your office?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you ask her why she had called you from "old Perlstein's" office?

A. I asked Thelma if she had called me from Mr. Perlstein's office, and she said "No", she had not.

Q. Well, [retlate] just what took place at that time.

A. Well, Thelma came back and wanted to work. And about a month before, when we had transferred Thelma up to the ninth floor to give her one more chance, I had talked to her and told her to try to do better. And I personally knew that no instructor would have her back in their section. And I don't quite remember all the conversation now about Thelma.

Q. Well, did you ask her at that time of she belonged to the union?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you promise to put her back to work?

A. No, I did not.

Q. Now, what type of operator is Lillian Rutherford?

[fol. 5162] p. 614 A. Lillian Rutherford is a very poor operator, mediocre operator. She could do just the simplest work; straight sewing, I believe. Her instructor had to pick out the simplest kind of work for Lillian Rutherford to do. I believe that Lillian Rutherford made the statement that she had worked on samples.

p. 615 Q. She also states, "Very few repairs ever came back to me." Is that true?

A. That is not true.

Q. Could Lillian Rutherford make the code?

A. If an instructor picked out the very easiest work and had plenty of the very simplest operation and constantly kept enough work at her machine, it was possible for her to make the code at times. I wouldn't say it was possible for her to make the code over any period of time whatsoever.

Q. Now, in regard to Glynn Brooks, what type of operator was she?

A. Well, when Glynn Brooks first worked for the Donnelly Garment Company, she came into the employ of the Donnelly Garment Company through the efforts of her sister, Gladys Hosey. We thought a lot of Mrs. Hosey, and we still do, and we gave Glynn an opportunity and a chance. In fact, we taught her all she knows about sewing. Glynn made very, very good up until the time that it seemed like she was having some family difficulties, and she had a nervous breakdown and she quit. And then during that period that she was off it seems like her husband died. And when Glynn came back to the employ of the Donnelly Garment Company she was a different person entirely, and she wasn't capable of doing the kind of work that she had done previously. And instead of having the inclination to get in and try, she became disagreeable and irritable, and it was almost impossible to

p. 616 make her understand, when she did do repair work, have repair work, how to fix it. She couldn't do anything but binding.

Q. Now, she came back March 20, 1933?
A. Yes.
Q. Now, since that time—
A. Pardon me. May I add that the reason why we took her back at that time, because she really hadn't made good, but we made allowances for that due to the fact that we knew she was under a nervous strain and we knew her home conditions; and one of the reasons we hired her back was due to the fact that Mrs. Hosey asked us if we just wouldn't have her back and the next time we had an opening wouldn't we give Glynn Brooks another chance and opportunity. It was due to her sister's insistency in bringing her to our mind all the time that we hired Glynn Brooks back again; not from her past record.
Q. Is her sister still in your employ?
A. Still in our employ.
Q. Was she able to make the code after she was returned? Mrs. Brooks?
[fol. 5163] A. According to our records, we had to make up to her nine times out of the last nine weeks she worked.
Q. Was she a slow operator?
A. Yes, Glynn was a slow operator.
Q. Did she admit to you at one time that she was?
p. 617 A. When she and Thelma came up, why, she admitted that she was a slow operator.

Q. Did you promise to call her back to work?
A. I said that I would look around and do everything I could to try to find something else for Glynn to do, which I did. And we didn't seem to get any busier then, and up to date I haven't been able to find anything that I think Blynn could do successfully. I had in mind at that particular time she might be able to turn belts, but we have been using a lot of ribbon belts and we haven't had as many belts to turn as we have had previously.
Q. When was the first that the company learned that Glynn Brooks was a member of the union or had any sympathies with the union?
A. December 7, when we received Mr. Pratt's letter.
Q. I don't think I asked you when the company or you learned of Lillian Rutherford's union affiliations or sympathies.
A. About the same time. December 7, I would say.
Q. Let me go back to Blynn Brooks. Do you recall that Glynn Brooks states in her complaint, "I did the most particular work in the section?"
A. Yes, I remember reading it. I don't remember her saying it.
Q. Is that true?
A. No, that is not true.
p. 618 Q. Now, are you familiar with the type of work that Tillie Shirley did?
A. Tillie Shirley did straight sewing; one type of work.
Q. Was she a three-type operator?
A. No, she wasn't. She could do just the one thing—straight sewing.
Q. Did she have any trouble making her code?
A. Yes, she did. We made up to her seven times during the last 9 weeks of her employment.
Q. Did she receive donations?
[fol. 5164] A. Yes, we give our girls allowances when they seem to have a hard time getting started on new work, and we have put quite a few allowances on Tillie Shirley's work in order to help her along.

Q. Did she have any repair work?

A. Yes, Tillie Shirley had a lot of repair work.

Q. What was the date that you or the Donnelly Garment Company first learned that Tillie Shirley had any union affiliations or sympathies?

A. November 6, 1934.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Will you explain that?

A. Tillie Shirley called on a young lady who happened to be living with my mother, and Nora McKee was with her, and they called and they said they were soliciting for the union; and, naturally, it being my mother, why she told me about it.

p. 619

Q. When was she laid off?

A. She was laid off in October; at the same time that there were 145 others laid off on account of seasonal slack and a limitation placed on us by the code.

Q. Do you recall in her statement that she states she joined the union October 23, 1934?

A. That date sounds familiar.

Q. Are you acquainted with the type of work that Mamie Tubbesing performs?

A. Yes, I am.

Q. Was she a good operator?

A. We considered Mamie a pretty good binder when we had plenty of binding. And we were pleased with her work, and we gave Mamie— When we ran out of binding, we picked her to go on the floor as thread girl and to give out bundles of work. And due to the fact that Mamie didn't make good on the floor and the girls in her sections complained about her constantly because she was indifferent and didn't care anything about giving them work and keeping them on work, they went to Mrs. Wherry and asked if she couldn't be taken off the floor, and we had to take Mamie off the floor.

After putting her back on the machine we didn't have any more binding because we had changed our operation—it happened to be in
p. 620 the fall of the year—and we put her on pinking, giving her an opportunity on that. We tried to work with Mamie but her attitude was such that it was almost impossible to work with her, and she couldn't make the code on pinking. All Mamie seemed to be able to do was binding. All that shows from her previous record.

[fol. 5165] So when we laid off the people in October, due to her attitude and her indifference and her lack of cooperation, why, we chose Mamie to be laid off.

Q. Now, after she was taken off the floor and put back on the machine, did the company give her a donation in order that she would make a minimum of $18 a week?

A. We did for one week, I believe. And then we did make her some allowances on her work until she got started on pinking, in order to have her maintain her $18 a week standard.

Q. Now, did you offer to give her time work after she was laid off?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did she refuse to accept the offer?

A. Yes. And she told me she wasn't asking for work and she didn't want to come back to work. She just wanted to know if we intended to call her back to work. And what I had in mind as far as time work is concerned, I figured that anyone with Mamie's experience would have been a good person in the dividing department; and if she would have ac-
p. 621 cepted the offer we would have been able to put her in the dividing department where she would have started out with $15 a week and very soon worked up to $18 and $20 a week.

Q. Did she state that she had temporary employment?

A. Yes, she did.

Q. Did she state where?

A. No, she didn't.

Q. During this conversation, did she complain about the company?

A. Yes. She came up there, it seemed, with the express purpose of telling me everything that was wrong with the Donnelly Garment Company. In fact, as I believe I testified before, she was very angry, and she seemed to be getting all worked up. I couldn't quite find out just exactly what all was wrong, but everything was wrong from her own statements.

Q. Was she constantly complaining when she was employed?

A. No, her attitude was very indifferent, and she didn't seem to be getting along at all, and she made herself very unhappy. That is, after she was put back on the floor. But we sort of thought that was natural in anyone who had been given a position as a thread girl, for, after all, it was a demotion.

Q. Well, after she was put back on the floor did she have trouble making her code?

A. After she was put back on the machine?

Q. Yes.

[fol. 5166] A. Yes.

p. 622 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Are you acquainted with the type of work Ellen Fry did?

A. Yes, Ellen Fry was a straight sewer.

Q. When was she laid off?

A. Ellen Fry was laid off in July with our first lay-off. Or in June. Which was it.

Dir. Pratt: July. We all know that.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Was she a three-type operator?

A. No. Ellen Fry couldn't do anything but straight sewing, and she couldn't do that very well.

Q. Her work was poor?
A. Very poor. And she was constantly complaining of every little thing.
Q. Did Ellen Fry have any repair work?
A. Ellen Fry had lots of repair work.
Q. Will you tell about a conversation that took place in your office with Ellen Fry?
A. I believe I have gone over that. I will go over it again if you want me to.
p. 623 Q. Well, I will ask you if Ellen Fry stated that she was very badly in need of work.
A. Yes. Ellen Fry was constantly— That's the reason we reemployed her when we did, because she was always complaining about how badly she needed work, and she had four children, and we felt very, very sorry for her. And the last time Ellen Fry came up and talked to me, why, she told me she was going to lose her home, and I was sorry, but there were about 150 more that were in about the same condition and I took time to investigate a little bit more that time, and I found out from my investigations that Ellen's husband was employed and Ellen wasn't so bad off as some of the other people that we put to work.
Q. Is her husband employed at the Kansas City Wholesale Grocery Company?
A. That's what I understand.
Q. And has been employed for the last 2 or 3 years?
A. That's what I understood.
Q. Was it necessary to make up to Ellen Fry during the last 9 weeks she was employed in order that she be paid her code?
[fol. 5167] A. Yes, six times during the last 9 weeks she was employed.
Q. Now, do you know whether or not her work was changed seven times in one day, as she testified?
A. I know that's not true, because Ellen came up and told me the same thing, and I immediately investigated at that particular time and I found it was not true.

p. 624 Q. When was the first that you learned that Ellen Fry belonged to the union or had any union affiliations?

A. I think the first I knew about Ellen Fry belonging to the union was on December 4 when she personally handed me one of these invitations as I was going into the building, to go to a mass meeting.

[fol. 5168] Proceedings — Before N. R. A. Board.

p. 755 Mrs. Elizabeth Gates Reeves, recalled as a witness, having been previously sworn, testified as follows:

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Reeves, do you know Gladys Elledge?

A. Yes.

p. 756 Q. Did the company have any knowledge that Gladys Elledge was a member of the union?

A. None whatever.

Q. Did the company have any knowledge that she was sympathetic to the union?

A. No, not at all.

Q. Was the sole reason for her discharge the fact that the insurance company had advised the Donnelly Garment Company that she had worked at another garment company during the time that she was supposedly ill and had been receiving sick benefits?

A. That was the sole reason that Gladys Elledge was discharged. Otherwise we wouldn't have kept up her insurance for her and had her come back to work the minute she said she was able.

Q. Are you acquainted with Lou Perkins?

p. 757 A. Not personally. I don't ever remember of seeing Mrs. Perkins.

Q. Can you state the date of her last employment?

A. Yes. Mrs. Perkins was employed the last time August 20, 1934.

Q. And how long did she work at that time?

A. She worked until September 13, 1934.

Q. Was her employment at that time temporary employment?

A. Yes. Mrs. Perkins was employed to do hemming, and we tried her on hemming and she didn't make good, and we had to lay her off.

Q. Can you state whether or not she made the code during her last employment?

A. No. The [weeking] ending August 24, Mrs. Perkins made $9.07; August 31st $10.40; and she only worked 14 hours the next few days, and she made $2.45,—the Donnelly Garment Company having to make up to her $5.63 the week of August 24, $4.60 the week of August 31, and $2.89 for the 14 hours that she worked the week of September 7.

Q. Can you state the type of operator that she is?

[fol. 5169] A. Mrs. Perkins? I don't know anything personally about Mrs. Perkins' record, but I have the supervisors' estimate cards here. Mrs. Perkins was in our employe and laid off July 25, 1933. Mrs. Lena Allison signed this p. 758 as her instructor and said she was too slow. Her quality of work was fair, but her quantity of work was poor. Her personal characteristics were that she was obedient, reliable, and cooperative.

On her lay-off of June 22, 1934, Mrs. Wherry signed her supervisor's estimate card of the employee, and her quality of work was fair, her quantity poor; and as to her personal characteristics she was obedient, reliable, and cooperative.

On September 13, 1934, we have the reasons "Temporary" here, and Mrs. Gnotta signed her estimate card and said "No," she wouldn't consider her for reemployment. Her quality of work was fair, her quantity of work was poor; she was obedient, reliable, and cooperative.

That's the complete record on Mrs. Perkins.

Q. Now, at the time she was last laid off, did the Donnelly Garment Company have any knowledge that she was a member of the union or had any sympathies for the union?

A. No.

Q. When was the first the company learned of her union affiliations?

A. The letter from Mr. Pratt Dated December 6; received by the Donnelly Garment Company December 7.

p. 759 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Reeves, you were present here and heard Virginia Stroup testify?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall her testimony in regard to a conversation with you on the afternoon of the 1st of December when she gave the following testimony:

p. 760 "Then about the first of December, about 3 o'clock one afternoon, Mrs. Reeves sent for me to come to her office. And I went up there. She says, 'Virginia, do you belong to the union?' I said, 'No, ma'am.' She says, 'Well, there's been some rumors around about your being with a bunch of girls up on a certain date that took a girl with you in the car, didn't tell where you were taking her until you got on your way; and when the girl found out where she was going, which was supposed to be a union meeting, she jumped out of the car.' And I said, 'Mrs. Reeves, I don't know anything about that.'"

Now, do you recall any conversation like that with Virginia Stroup?

A. No, I don't recall any conversation like that at all.

Q. Well, did you ask Virginia whether or not she belonged to the union?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. She further testifies as follows:
"And I said, 'Mrs. Reeves, I don't know anything about that.' I said, I have studied the economic situation, and I think I know it, but I don't belong to the union.' So she was very well satisfied with my answer and let me go." Did she make any statement like that?

[fol. 5170] A. I don't remember any of that conversation at all. I don't remember calling Virginia up around December first or anything about it at all. I don't believe we had such an conversation.

p. 761 Q. Do you remember her testimony where she said that she was called up to your office with Frances Riedel and a girl by the name of Fannie? And she testifies that you said as follows:

"'I am getting darned sick of you girls carrying on like this.' And she sat Frances and I right in front of her. In fact, I was in direct line of her, and Frances was like to the side.

"About that time Fannie came in, and she said, 'This goes for you, too, Fannie.' And I said, 'Mrs. Reeves, Fannie doesn't even know what you are talking about.' So with a few words to Fannie about what she must do, go down and make her code or else out she goes, she told Fannie she was dismissed.

"So then she told us, she said, 'I don't care if you belong to 25,000 unions, you can't come in here and tell us how to run our industry. Just where do you get the idea of using the Donnelly Garment Company's name in a local union?' And I told her that it was for the Donnelly workers; it wasn't for any other dress shop but the Nelly Don workers."

Now, did that conversation take place?

A. I was reprimanding Virginia and Frances Riedel for wasting time running back and forth to the wash room. Virginia announced that she was now a member of the union and that she had her feet on the ground and that the Donnelly Garment Company could not let her go because she knew where she stood now.

And I told Virginia that I didn't care whether
p. 762 she belonged to 20,000 unions; that she had to go downstairs and do her work and she couldn't waste time that she was being paid for. Just the same as I did Fannie Lockwood, who was not a member of the union. We can't tolerate that kind of conduct.

Q. What was the occasion of calling Virginia Stroup and Frances Riedel up to your office at that time?

A. It had been reported to Mrs. Hyde that Frances Riedel and Virginia Stroup were running back and forth to the wash room and that Virginia had refused to go to her machine earlier in the morning when the power was turned on. And I called Mrs. Gnotta up first to find out whether those were the facts in the case, and she assured me that they were. And then I called up Virginia and Fannie at the same time. Virginia and Frances came into the room at the same time, and Fannie Lockwood came in a few minutes later.

Q. She further testified that you said as follows: "So she said for us to report to Sol Goldberg to keep his nose down there in his own business."

Did you say anything like that?

A. No, I didn't even know who Sol Goldberg—I never heard the name "Sol Goldberg." I knew a Mr. Plotkin who had been connected with the union. And I had had a conversation with a Meyer Perlstein over the telephone on July 18 and had made an appointment for him to keep, which he didn't keep when he told
p. 763 me that he was sure there must have been a mistake and that we were not discriminating against anybody, and where I did not say to him that he was wasting time or that we were wasting time, as he testified this morning.

Q. Now, that conversation took place after you received a letter from Mr. Perlstein dated July 18, 1934?

[fol. 5171] A. Yes, I think it was July 17 or 18. And I called up immediately when I received the letter to find out what it was all about.

Q. When was the next that you had any communication with Mr. Perlstein?

A. He called me up and said that I had made an appointment with him for 11 o'clock for the following day, and he told me that he was trying to get his girls lined up. And so then he called up and said that he guessed there must have been some mistake, and he broke the appointment, and I haven't heard from him since.

Q. So that was the last time you heard from Mr. Perlstein?

A. That's the last time I ever heard from Mr. Perlstein, and today is the first time I ever saw him.

Q. And that was approximately July 19?

A. Just about that date.

Q. These complaints were filed December 6?

A. Yes.

Q. Virginia Stroup further testifies that you said that you were anxious to know "Just what we would report to our office so she could be prepared to know what to say."

p. 764

A. I don't remember saying anything like that. I might have. I don't know.

Q. Did you state to her, "Just what is your job in this one-horse organization"?

A. She told me that she was the chair lady at the plant to find out just exactly why people were laid off. And I said, "Well, what are your duties, Virginia?" and she said, "Well, I am to investigate each lay-off." And I said, "From whom are you going to get your information?" and she said, "You are supposed to report to me." And I told Virginia that I absolutely was not reporting to her. And I also turned to Mrs. Hyde and said,

"Now, Ella Mae, you are to give out no information about the other employees of the Donnelly Garment Company. Our records are confidential."

Q. Well, what was the occasion of your inquiring about Virginia Stroup's position with the union?

A. Because she announced what she was; that she had her feet on the ground, and that now she was chairlady, and I wanted to find out what this "chairlady" meant.

Q. Did you state to her that Frances and herself were just like a couple of little children that had gone wrong and were misled, and that you would just like to take them over your lap and give them a darned good spanking?

p. 765 A. I don't really consider them children from their age, and they have children of their own. Virginia has two daughters of her own, I understand. Not children.

Q. (By Mr. Reed) Did you make any such statement?

[fol. 5172] A. [Do,] I didn't make any such statement.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Did she at that time complain about her work?

A. She did say something about that she was working hard—She was making some excuses about, oh, not working; and I think she did mention something about working awfully hard, and so forth. And I said, "Well, what seems to be the matter, Virginia?" and she said, well, she didn't seem to be able to make it. And there was some conversation about it, but I just couldn't tell you exactly what it was.

Q. Did you at that time state that she and Frances had to get down there and work?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Did you state to her, "Why don't you take your little band and walk out? Don't you think that the Donnelly Garment Company has always been fair to you in every way?" Did you make those statements?

A. No, I didn't say, "Why don't you take your little band and walk out?" I might have said that the Donnelly Garment Company had always been fair to them.

Q. She testifies that the speed-up system is very strict and is very hard. What is the speed-up system?

p. 766 A. Well, I am sure I don't know what she means by the speed-up system at all. Our system, I would say, is the best in the United States. We take in consideration our employees. We have broken our operations down to such a point that a girl who hasn't spent years and years and years as an apprentice can really get in and make a good operator. We have spent hours on planning and have built up a real system; and, as a result,—this sounds like bragging—we are about the most efficient factory I would say in the United States. But it is because we spend so much time and energy planning our work for our girls.

Now, to go into detail on that, I would say that at most factories the girls have to get up and get their own work. We have two people there, keeping them supplied constantly with work.

Q. (By Mr. Blume) Each section?

A. Each section. Each section of 40 girls has two people who keep them in work constantly and have their thread and binding and everything that goes to make that garment for them so that the girls don't have to waste their time by getting their own work. And they are paid for it. Now, that in itself is a speed-up system, but, of course, it costs the Donnelly Garment Company a lot of money to supply that supervision.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) It is not a system in the sense that they term it, but it means a more efficient system?

p. 767 A. It is a more efficient system, and it isn't that word that is misused, "speed-up."

Q. And it is not any harder on the employees? In fact, it is easier?

A. It is easier on the employees.

Q. And they are enabled to make more money?

[fol. 5173] A. They are enabled to make more money by our efficiency in our planning, in getting the work down to them.

The same thing is followed through from our cutting. Our garments are cut right, and they are inspected after they are cut before they are sent down to the section, and the operator doesn't have to pay for a cutter's inefficiency, like they do in a lot of places.

Q. [No,] did Virginia Stroup call you in regard to Pauline Lutz?

A. Virginia Stroup did.

Q. What did [you] state to you?

A. She said she would like to talk to me about Pauline Lutz and would like to have me change Pauline's work.

p. 768 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Did you state at that time that you were sorry for Virginia and that she was throwing a thousand girls out of employment and that you wouldn't want that on your soul?

A. I didn't say that. I didn't say anything like that.

Q. Now, have you got the attendance record of Virginia?

A. Yes.

Q. Will you state how many absences she has had since the first of the year?

A. From January 4 until and including the week of March 8 Virginia had only put in one full week's time, and that was January 25; one entire week, full time.

Q. Were there any special days she was absent?

A. She was absent—I haven't the days down here. I couldn't say.

Q. (By Dir. Pratt) You are referring to 1935?

A. 1935.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) When was Virginia transferred to the Twenty-sixth Street Building?

A. December 19, 1934.

Q. Now, since that time have you got her record of the wages she received?

A. Yes. Virginia has earned 43.7 cents per [our] since she has been working over at the—Since January to April. During the month of December her earnings were 42.1. During the year of 1934 Virginia's entire piecework earnings during the entire year were 38.27. So she has improved since she has been transferred over to the [over] building.

p. 769

p. 776 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Now, getting back to Virginia Stroup again. She has testified that she was a joiner, she joined dresses around the waist; and that after she was transferred to the Twenty-sixth Street building that type of work was taken away from her. Do you know whether that's a fact or not?

[fol. 5174] A. I believe that that's a fact. I believe Mrs. Allison ran out of joining, and she put her on straight sewing. I believe setting pockets at one time, as I remember it, or sewing seams in skirts, which is a very simple operation. In fact, we start all our beginners out on setting pockets. Maybe that is the reason why Virginia's showing is better.

Q. She is making better money?

A. She is now than when she was over at the 1828 Walnut Building when she was working on joining.

Q. When this new section was created on Twenty-sixth and Walnut, how many union girls were sent to that section? that you know were union?

A. Well, that's hard to answer. None that I knew were sent—When it was first opened—When we open a new section, we pick out a few to do first-part work and gradually fill in when we get the work ready for them. I
p. 777 believe that we opened that section first with six girls, sent six girls over first; and, as I remember, none of the people here who have stated that they belonged to the union were among those six. Then I think the next day we followed through with six more, and maybe 2 days afterwards we followed through with six more, until we had completed a section, picking out the girls that we felt would do better over there or would help in building up a section.

Q. Well, how many union girls are there now, that you know?

A. Nine.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Will you give their names please?

A. Virginia Stroup, Frances Riedel, Nora McKee, Ollis Thompson, Loretta Sisson, Flossie Walton, Lillian Wales, Katie McKinsey, Kathleen Jenkins.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) What is the total number in that section?

A. There are 40 girls in that section, and I think there's three inspectors.

Q. Well, when these nine girls whose names you have read were sent to that section, did the fact that they had union affiliations have anything to do with sending them there?

A. Not at all.

Q. Now, some of the operators, including Virginia Stroup, that work in that section at the present time are making more money than they did at the old building?

A. They are.

p. 778 Q. Now, are the sanitary conditions and working conditions in the building at Twenty-sixth and Walnut just as good as they are in the building at Eighteenth and Walnut?

A. Absolutely. We have State supervision there the same as we have any place else.

Q. Mr. Rucker the other evening asked you to produce the record of an employee that was hired December 6 as a little hemmer. Have you got that record?

A. I have.

[fol. 5175] (By Mr. Rucker)

p. 791 Q. I am quite sure you are!
Now, didn't you tell them about the first of October approximately this, or in meaning: "That I know exactly who belongs to the union." Didn't you tell each section that?

p. 792 A. No, I did not.

Q. What did you say about it?

A. Well, I don't remember discussing the union very much at all. In fact, I don't believe I said anything about it. I was discussing general things with the girls, like I do every so often; and I don't call one section unless I call every section in the place.

Q. All right.

A. And I couldn't tell you just exactly that conversation, because it was just a general conversation. I might have been talking to them that our Spring line was coming out, our first spring line would be out about November 15, and it might be possible that we might have to lay off a few more girls until we got under way on this spring work, or something like that.

Q. Now, let's see if we can get this "yes" or "no." Do you now deny that when you called the various sections in your factory before you for discussion of various matters about the first week of October 1934 that you then said to each section, "We know exactly who belongs to the union"?

A. I don't remember saying anything like that at all.

Mr. Rucker: That's all.

Redirect Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) And would you have remembered it if you had said anything like that?

p. 793 A. I am sure I would, because I had received instructions a good many years ago, when I first took over a position of authority from Mrs. Reed, that, as far as we were concerned, we were an open shop and we wouldn't discriminate against any persons, and we never even considered whether they belonged to the union or not. Those have been my instructions ever since I have worked for the Donnelly Garment Company. And since signing the code, I have read 7-A, and it would be a discrimination if we discriminated against or for the union.

N.R.A. Testimony.

[fol. 5176] p. 448 Dewey Atchison, called as a witness, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) State your name.
A. Dewey Atchison.
Q. Where are you employed, Mr. Atchison?
A. Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. In what capacity?
A. Production engineer.

p. 452 A. That is the practice of the company continually, to find and develop operators who can do several classes of work in order that we may give them work throughout the year.
Q. Now, even before 1928 was that the practice of the company?
A. Yes, that has always been the practice of the company.
Q. What has been the practice of the company in weeding out poor operators?

A. The company has always, with the exception of, I believe, 2 years in 1932 or 1933 when we had the share-the-work plan, —we have always through the slack seasons endeavored to first lay off our operators who were not adaptable for the different operations and who were the poorest operators in wage earning, also the ones who did the poorest quality of work; and, as I stated earlier, using the different
p. 453 things which we consider when we employ operators.

p. 457 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Now, do I understand you to say that if Mary Jones and Bessie Smith earn the same amount that, then, in case Mary's work was of a superior quality, she would be retained? Or do you mean to say that the quality of the work comes first even though Mary Jones wouldn't earn as much as Bessie Smith?

A. The quality of the work comes before the earnings.

Q. In other words, you retain operators whose earnings are not as large as some operators laid off, on account of the quality of the work?

A. Yes.

Q. That has always been the practice of the Donnelly Garment Company?

p. 458 A. Yes. As I stated before, the success of our plant is largely due to the quality of work which we produce.

p. 487 Q. Well, Ellen Fry was one of those brought back, wasn't she?

A. I think she was, as I remember it.

Q. Then how do you account for the fact that you bring back your best operators, and you brought her back in 1933 as one of your best operators, and then when you get ready to lay her off you find she has all the qualifications of your poorest operator?

[fol. 5177] p. 488 A. Ellen Fry was never considered one of the best operators.

Q. Yet you brought her back in 1933 when you just got through telling the Board you brought back the best operators.

A. She was one of the best operators in that group, but that does not have any bearing on the conditions where you have around 500 operators. She may be one of the best operators in a section of 40; therefore, she was not laid off. She was brought back to 1828 Walnut.

Q. Now, isn't it true that you did call her back there, she worked until there was a scarcity of work, you laid her off for a few days until her old section on cotton dresses was opened up, when she was recalled?

A. I don't remember that instance exactly.

Q. You don't remember that. And don't you know that she was changed from the binder to straight sewing and put on joining?

A. She has done some straight sewing, as I remember her case.

Q. Now, you knew that Ellen Fry had union learnings at the time you laid her off, didn't you? A. No, sir.

p. 495 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, do you know a Mrs. White, who is employed by the respondent?

A. Mrs. White? You mean an instructor by the name of Mrs. White?

Q. Yes, Mrs. White, an instructor.

A. Yes.

Q. Did you call upon Mrs. White when you were determining which girls to lay off from her section?

A. I do not remember which section— You are referring to Ellen Fry?

Q. I am talking about all of the girls. Now, that's a general question. In her section.

A. All of the girls in her section, yes.

Q. Now, do you remember Mrs. White saying anything about their union affiliations?

A. Mrs. White did never say anything to me about any of their union affiliations.

p. 496 Q. In fact, as I understand it, you never heard anything about any girls in your organization belonging to the union until this complaint was filed?

[fol. 5178] A. Meaning which? The complaint of Mr. Pratt's?

Q. Yes.

A. I believe that's the first time I knew of their union affiliations.

Q. Never heard of anybody in your factory having union affiliations? A. No, sir.

Q. Is that right?

A. With the exception of one instance, a cutter.

Q. But of these women, I am talking about.

A. No, there was none of them that I ever heard being affiliated with the union.

p. 505 Q. Now, do you mean to tell this Board that there was no effort made out there to prevent anybody joining the union?

A. I do.

Q. You knew that these girls who were known to be members of the union were not permitted to join your Loyalty League, don't you?

A. I do not.

Q. You didn't know anything about that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Have you a list of the members of the Loyalty League?

A. I do not have anything to do with the Loyalty League whatsoever, excepting that I have signed an application card.

Q. Well, who does have anything to do with it out there?

A. The employees themselves.

Q. No executive had anything to do with forming it, then? A. No, sir.

Q. Well, what employees started it?

A. As I remember and have heard through the publication of our N. D. A. A. News, it originated with Mrs. Strickland and Mrs. Gray.

Q. Who are they?

[fol. 5179] A. Mrs. Gray works in the store, retail store. She has a sales position. Mrs. Strickland works in the pattern department.

p. 511 By Mr. Rucker:

Q. Now, next we will take up Glynn Brooks. Now, Glynn Brook's average was 37 cents. Was that one of the reasons for not recalling her? A. It is one of the few reasons.

Q. Now, I note you say here in subparagraph 2, "Of the two groups laid off, there are over 100 who are unquestionably non-union and who have not yet been recalled." What information did you have, and where did you get your information, about when these girls joined the union?

A. We did not have any information on when they belonged to the union.

Q. Never have heard that?

A. Except the letter from Mr. Pratt and the statement on Christmas when we got the card.

p. 518 By Mr. Rucker:

Q. Now, aside from this card you have here which is headed "Donnelly Garment Company: Names and addresses of employees", you have no original record to present to the Board which shows the reason of Glynn Brook's discharge, have you?

A. Original reasons of Glynn Brooks's discharge?

Q. I say, you have no original record of the Company, aside from this card here, which shows the reason for her discharge, have you?

A. No.

Q. And that shows that she was let out because

p. 519 there was no work, doesn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, that was true; there wasn't any work?

A. That's right.

Q. And that was the reason for letting her out?

A. That was the reason for letting her out.

p. 520 By Mr. Rucker:

Q. Now, going to Mamie Tubbesing: Mamie Tubbesing, according to your record, went to work for you first in September 1925, did she not? A. She did.

Q. Now, was one of the reasons for discharging her because of her inefficiency?

[fol. 5180] A. One of the reasons, yes.

p. 522 Q. And she was laid off when? The fourth of October? A. Yes.

Q. So you had to make up to her the last 10 weeks she was employed?

A. Eleven weeks, with the exception of one.

Q. Now, during that time were you present when Mrs. Reeves offered her time work?

A. I was.

Q. Did she refuse to accept it?

A. As I remember, she did.

p. 525 Q. All right. You say Mamie Tubbesing was discharged in this report which you made to the Board, which you say came from your records, because the quality of the work was only fair, the quantity was only fair, she was noncooperative, very unreliable and insubordinate. That's what you told the Board, wasn't it?

p. 526 A. No, sir.

Q. That isn't what you told the Board?

A. No, sir. You asked me the question just now if that's the reason she was laid off. That isn't the reason she was laid off. She was laid off on account of no work.

Q. Well, what have you got all these things in here for?

A. She was not recalled for those reasons.

p. 595 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mr. Atchison, you were present when Frances Riedel testified, were you not?

A. At this meeting?

Q. Yes, at this hearing.

A. Yes.

Q. Do you recall that she testified that she had a conversation with Mrs. Reeves, at which you were present, and that during that conversation she testified that this was said: This is her testimony: "And then Mr. Dewey
p. 596 asked us girls why we didn't come to them about our wages and things instead of going down to a bunch of foreigners; that we would get far more out of it." Do you recall making any such statement as that?

A. No, I did not make any such statement as that.

[fol. 5181] Proceedings—Before N. R. A. Board

Mrs. Bessie Neimoyer was sworn and testified as follows:

Direct Examination

p. 1004 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham). State your name, please.

A. Mrs. Bessie Neimoyer; N-e-i-m-o-y-e-r.

Q. Mrs. Neimoyer, are you employed by the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what capacity?

A. As an instructor.

Q. How long have you worked at the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. I don't remember just how long. I think around 11 years.

p. 1005 Q. 531. Was Telma Owen in that section?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, will you just tell the Board the type of operator that Thelma Owen was.

A. Well, she was a very poor operator. Her quantity was good but she had so many repairs. She had been tried by so many other instructors, and I absolutely almost refused to take her, but Mrs. Reeves insisted that I take her and give her another trial.

Q. Did you have trouble with her, then, when she worked in your section?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the nature of that?

A. She was very careless about her dress.

Q. What about her work?

A. Her work was very poor. She stretched the seams, and every chance she got she would lengthen the stitch.

p. 1006 Q. You recommended that Thelma Owen be laid off?

A. She was laid off when my whole section was laid off.

p. 1007 Q. I say, you have never given any consideration, on the question of reemployment of Thelma Owen, that she was a member of the union or had any union affiliations?

A. No, sir.

[fol. 5182] Proceedings—Before N. R. A. Board.

MARIE PATTON was sworn and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

p. 959 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Just state your name, please.

A. Marie Patton.

Q. Where are you employed now, Mrs. Patton?

A. For the Donnelly Garment Company.

Q. In what capacity?

A. As an instructor.

Q. What is the number of your section, Mrs. Patton?

A. 412.

Q. Was Mamie Tubbesing an operator in your section?

A. She was.

Q. When was she laid off?

A. I don't know the exact date.

p. 960 Q. (by Mr. Ingraham) Did you have any trouble with Mamie Tubbesing in regard to the work she could do?

A. At times, yes.

Q. Just explain what you mean by that, Miss Patton.

A. Well, she was just a binder and if I didn't have any binding I didn't have anything I could give her. I couldn't change her on straight sewing or anything else. Just binding is all she could do.

p. 961 Q. Will you tell the circumstances regarding your having her to do that kind of work?

A. She was put on because we didn't have any binding and didn't have any work I could give her. At that time our line was practically all straight sewing. In my section, it is about all straight sewing, and we picked her out and put her on the floor to give her work.

Q. What was the occasion of putting her back to work as an operator?

A. Well, she didn't do right—didn't carry out her work right on the floor. She slacked in several of her duties and I was asked by a number of the operators to give them some one else to help them—to get their work to them. I had complaints from different ones, and she just didn't carry out her work.

p. 962 Q. And the girls complained?

A. Constantly. The girls, further, went over my head and went to the floor lady and asked to have her taken off the floor. I asked to have her removed; and it went on for awhile and the girls went to the floor lady.

Q. Was her quality of work good after she returned as an operator?

[fol. 5183] A. No. Her attitude was different. It seems that she didn't take hold like she did before.

Q. Now, you recommended that she be laid off in October, 1937?

A. I did.

p. 964 Q. But you did recommend that she not be re-employed because—

A. Of her attitude.
Q. Because of her attitude?
A. Yes.
Q. Just explain what you mean by her attitude, Miss Patton.
A. After she was put on the floor her attitude towards her work was different. She didn't seem to care whether she took hold and got out the quantity of her work that was required for her to get out, and in general, she just took a different stand on her work after she was taken off the floor.
p. 965
Q. Do you mean that she resented the fact that she was reduced from a floor girl to an operator?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you know that the company had to make up to her ten times during the last ten weeks that she worked?
A. She had quite a lot of expense.

[fol. 5184] Proceedings Before the NRA Labor Board

Mr. Ingraham. Mrs. White, please take the stand.

Mrs. Lillian White was sworn and testified as follows:

Direct Examination

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Just state your name please. A. Mrs. Lillian White.
Q. Mrs. White, where are you employed? A. Donnelly Garment Company.
p. 816 Q. And you were put in charge of 521?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you have in that section only girls or operators that could do the simplest kind of work?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Was that section the section that new girls would be sent to?

A. Yes; and as they advanced they would be taken out of my section to other sections.

Q. Did Lillian Rutherford work in your section last June?

A. She did.

Q. What type of work could she do?

A. Only straight sewing.

Q. She was limited to that one operation?

A. Yes.

p. 817 Q. Do you know whether or not her quality of work was good or bad?

A. Her quality was poor.

Q. What about her quantity?

A. Well, it was fair.

Q. Would you say that she was a poor operator?

A. I would.

Q. Did you recommend in June that she be one of the ones from your section to be laid off?

A. I did.

p. 818 Q. Mrs. White, at the time you recommended in June that she be one of the ones from your section to be laid off, did you consider in any way any union sympathies or affiliations which Lillan Rutherford might have had?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you know that she had any union affiliations or sympathies at that time?

A. No, I did not.

[fol. 5185] Q. When was the first you ever heard that Lil- Rutherford had any union affiliations or sympathies?

A. One day when Mrs. Reeves called me into her office. At that time she had received a letter from Mr. Pratt that this girl had belonged.

Q. Now, in considering girls to be re-employed, have you ever taken into consideration in determining whether or not to be recommend the re-employment of Lillian Rutherford the fact that she is now a member of the union or has union sympathies?

p. 819 A. No; because her work was a poor class of work.

Q. Now, you had also in your section a girl named Thelma Owen?

A. I did.
Q. Was she in section 521?
A. Yes.
Q. And she was in that section last June?
A. Yes, she was.
Q. 1934?
A. Yes.
Q. Will you tell the Board what the quality of her work was?
A. Well, it was poor. I had to watch her work. She used 6 stitches to an inch instead of our 12 stitches that we are required to use. Also she stretched her seams badly and there was a lot of repair work from other instructors that came back. I went to Mrs. Reeves one day and asked her if she couldn't be changed; that she probably would do better work for someone else.

p. 820 Q. Did you know at that time that Thelma Owen had any union affiliations or sympathies?
A. No, I didn't.
Q. When you asked that she be transferred from your section, the fact that she had any union affiliations or sympathies wasn't considered by you in any way?
A. No, it wasn't.
Q. When was the first time you learned that Thelma Owen had any union affiliations or sympathies?
A. Not until the letter from Mr. Pratt came into the office.
Q. That was in December, 1934?
A. Yes.
Q. Long after she had been transferred from your section?
A. Oh, yes.

[fol. 5186] Q. Did Glen Brooks work in your section?
A. She did.
Q. What type of an operator was she?
A. Just a binder.
Q. That was the only operation she could do?
A. That was all.
Q. What was the quality of her work?

p. 821 A. Well, it was poor.
Q. What was the quantity of her work?
A. Well, it was fair.
Q. Did she have much repair work?
A. Yes, she did.
Q. Did you recommend that she be one of the girls or operators to be laid off from your section in June, 1934?
A. I did, on account of her work.
Q. At that time did you know of any union affiliations or sympathies which she had?
A. No, I didn't.
Q. In considering laying her off, did you take into consideration the fact that she was a member of the union or had any sympathies with the union?
p. 822 A. No; not whatever.
Q. When was the first you learned that she had any union affiliations or sympathies?
A. When this same letter came in from Mr. Pratt.
Q. Now, in considering re-employment of operators. have you ever taken into consideration the fact that Glynn Brooks belongs to the union or has union sympathies in determining whether she should be re-employed?
A. No; I haven't thought anything about it because I had quite of a lot of trouble with her.
Q. Did Ellen Fry work in your section last June?
A. Yes, she did.
Q. What type of work did she do?
A. Joining only.
[fol. 5187] Q. What was the quality of her work?
A. Poor.
Q. What was the quantity?
A. Well, it was—I would say poor.
Q. Did she have much repair work?
A Yes, she did.
Q. Did you ever state at any time that you going to frame Ellen Fry?
A. No, I did not.
Q. To get her out of your section?
A. No, sir; never thought of it.

p. 823 Q. Did you change her work seven times a day?
A. I couldn't; not on these simple dresses that I had. There weren't that many operations to a dress.
Q. So when she makes that statement, that is not true?
A. It isn't true.
Q. You mean that there are not that many operations on the dresses that were being made in your section?
A. I meant straight sewing operations. There is only one thing and that is joining, and that is about all she could do.
Q. Did you ever show her two types of operations and take 45 minutes showing her?
A. No, I didn't.
Q. Now, prior to the time Ellen Fry was laid off, do you know whether or not she was making the code?
A. No, she wasn't.
Q. Did Cordie Huntley tell you of a meeting at Glynn Brooks's house where Ellen Fry and some of the other complainants were present?
A No, she didn't.
Q. Did you ever hear of any meeting at Glynn Brooks' house until after the complaints were filed in this case?
A. No, I didn't. I didn't hear a thing about it.
Q. Now, in considering, selecting or recommending that Ellen Fry be laid off from your section, did you take into consideration the fact that she had union affiliations or sympathies?
p. 824 A. No, I didn't.
[fol. 5188] Q. Did she ever tell you that she belonged to the union?
A. She never did.
Q. Did any of these complainants ever tell you that they belonged to the union?
A. They never talked to me once about the union and I never talked to them.
Q. When was the first you knew that Ellen Fry was a member of the union?

A. When Mrs. Reeves called me to her office after she received Mr. Pratt's letter.

Q. Now, did you take into consideration, in determining who should be re-employed, the fact that Ellen Fry belonged to the union and, therefore, she should not be re-employed?

A. No.

Q. Did Tillie Shirley work in your section?

A. She did.

Q. What type of operator was she?

A. One type, straight sewing.

Q. What was the quality of her work?

A. Well, it was poor.

Q. How about her quantity?

A. Well, it was fair.

Q. Did you ever pick her out as one of the best operators?

A. No, I didn't.

p. 825 Q. Did you ever tell her that her work was satisfactory?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Was she able to make the code?

A. No, she wasn't.

Q. Did you know at the time you recommended her lay-off that she had any union affiliations or sympathies?

A. No, I did not.

Q. You didn't consider, in determining her lay-off, that she had any union affiliations or sympathies?

A. No, I did not. It was the grade of work she was putting out.

[fol. 5189] Q. When was the first time you knew that she had any union affiliations?

A. When I was called to the office the same time about the other girls.

Q. In determining the re-employment of operators, did you take into consideration that Tillie Shirley was a member of the union or had union affiliations in passing upon whether she should be re-employed or not?

A. No, I haven't.

p. 829 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Now, don't you know, as a matter of fact, that there was a great deal of discussion about unionism in the Donnelly factory from the spring of 1934 on up until this day and this hour?

A. No; there wasn't.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) You never heard of the union?

A. We were told not to discriminate between the union or non-union people.

p. 830 Q. I never asked you what you were told. I asked you if you heard about the efforts to unionize the Donnelly Garment Company.

A. No, I didn't.

p. 866 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Do you know Pauline Lutz?

A. I do.

Q. Did you ever talk to her down there?

A. No.

Q. You never had any conversation at any time with her in your whole life? I mean, during the time you have been down there at the Donnelly factory you have never talked to her at any time?

A. We have passed the time of day, and spoke like that, but that is all.

Q. Didn't you tell her on one occasion that you could get anyone you wanted fired?

A. I did not.

Q. You never told her any such thing?

A. I did not.

Q. At any time?

A. At any time.

Q. That was a fact, wasn't it? You could get anybody fired that you wanted to?

A. No, I couldn't.

[fol. 5190] Q. By making an adverse report couldn't you get them fired?

A. No.

p. 867 Q. Didn't they depend on your report?

A. Yes, they did, but they looked into it further. They inquired into it and made sure my report was right.

Q. What inquiry did they make?

A. I don't know.
Q. Why do you say they made an inquiry?

Mr. Blume: What occasion are you talking about; any occasion in particular.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Why do you say you don't know when you say they inquired into it?

The Witness: Would you please read the question back?

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) When your attorney interrupted, why did you say they made an inquiry if you don't know what kind of an inquiry they made?
A. Mrs. Reeves always looks into anything further to make sure that the statement I made is correct.
Q. What sort of an inquiry would she make, now?
A. She would talk to the girl herself.
Q. Talk to the operator herself?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know whether she called Ellen Fry and talked to her about your report of disobedience and unreliability, and that she wasn't cooperative?
A. I think that Mrs. Reeves knew that.

Objection, motion to strike—not responsive.

p. 874 Q. (By Mr. Rucker) You say you never made any statement to anybody about Ellen Fry being in your section?
A. What do you mean?
Q. I mean what I asked you. Did you ever make any statements to anybody about getting rid of Ellen Fry?
A. That is a different question.
Q. Did you?
A. I didn't.

Q. Did you ever say to Frances Riedel that you were not going to have Ellen Fry in your section because she belonged to the union?

A I didn't.

[fol. 5191] Q. Of course, you knew that Ellen Fry belonged to the union, didn't you?

A. I didn't.

Q. Did you see her down at the union meeting that you attended?

p. 875 A. Yes, I saw her down there.

Q. And you reported the names of all the girls that you saw down there?

A. I didn't.

Q. You had a conference among the executives down there about the girls who attended that meeting, didn't you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you attend that conference?

A. We didn't have any conference.

Q. If you don't call it a conference, did you have a talk about it?

A. No, we didn't.

p. 886 Q. You couldn't even say about that. Now, I notice on this card, which I presented here, marked Exhibit 32, Glynn Brooks was rated by N. Patten, an instructor—by the way, is she still there?

A. Yes.

Q. (Continuing)—as being fair as to the quality of her work, poor as to the quantity, and unreliable, but not disobedient, and marked as

p. 887 cooperative. At least, there are no marks one way or another. It is checked as unreliable, checked as poor as to the quantity of her work, and fair as to the quality of her work. She was let out of the employ because of illness. The instructor at that time checked that she would not recommend her for employment. As a matter of fact, she was reemployed?

A. I guess she was.

p. 898 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. White, I believe you have testified that your section did the simplest kind of work in the factory?

A. Yes, the section I have do the cheap numbers, which are just very plain dresses.

Q. And the operators that were sent to your section were the poorer operators?

A. They were.

p. 899 Q. And Glynn Brooks was sent to your section sometime in December, 1933?

A. That is what the card shows. I just couldn't say exactly what month it was.

Q. And she was irritable while she worked for you?

A. She was.

[fol. 5192] Q. And that was attributed to the fact that she had been previously ill?

A. I would take for granted that it was.

Q. And you did, while she was in your section, try to help her?

A. As much as I could, yes.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) What type of operator was Tillie Shirley?

A. One type; straight sewer.

Q. Did you ever tell her that she was one of the best operators?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Was she one of the best operators in your section?

A. No, she wasn't.

Q. Did you ever tell her that her work was satisfactory?

p. 990 A. No, I didn't.

Q. What was the quality of her work?

A. It was poor.

Q. What was the quantity?

A. Fair.

Q Do you know whether or not she was able to make the code?

A. No, she wasn't.

Q. Did you at any time ever consider the fact that she had Union affiliations or Union sympathies in considering whether you would recommend her lay-off?

A I didn't

Q. You did not?

A. I did not.

Q. Have you ever considered her Union affiliations or Union sympathies in determining whether or not she should be reemployed?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. Those considerations were not given at all to the request of her lay-off or reemployment?

A. No; not at all. It was on her work.

Q. You did recommend that she be laid off?

[fol. 5193] A. I did with the experience I had [had] of her work.

p. 936 Q. (By Senator Reed) A witness by the name of Frances Riedel has testified here that you told her you didn't like Ellen Fry, and that you were not going to have her in your section;

p. 937 that you were going to get rid of her. Did you have any such conversation as that?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. (By Senator Reed) Now, you were asked if, in connection with that conversation or alleged conversation to which I have just called your attention, you mentioned the union in that conversation, in connection with Ellen Fry, and if you said in that conversation that Ellen Fry belonged to the union?

A. I didn't because I didn't know that Ellen Fry belonged.

Q. Did you have in this alleged conversation—Did you say in substance and effect, or in words, that Ellen Fry had caused lots of trouble; that she belonged to the union and you were not going to have her in your section?

A. I did not.

Q. Did you say anything like that?

A. I did not.
Q. You say you didn't now that Ellen Fry belonged to the union?
A. I didn't know she belonged.
Q. You understand that Pauline Lutz testified that you made the following statement regarding Tillie Shirley; that you were asked the question what you thought of Tillie Shirley being there, and that you answered it:
p. 938 "Yes; I think she joined that union. I gave her joining all the time so she could make 18 or 19 dollars a week and this is the way she did us."
A. I truthfully say that I didn't make that statement.
Q. Did you make anything like it?
A. I didn't.
Q. As a matter of fact, you have said twice, I believe, that you didn't know this girl belonged to the union?
A. No, I didn't.

[fol. 5194] Proceedings—Before N. R. A. Board

MRS. LENA ALLISON, called as a witness, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

p. 797 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) State your name, please.
A. Lena Allison.
Q. Where are you employed, Mrs. Allison?
A. At the Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. Fifteen years.
Q. Did you go to work there as an operator?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How long did you work as an operator?
A. Well, about 18 months, I think.
Q. Then you became an instructor?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you have been an instructor since that time? A. Yes, sir.
Q. At present where is your section?
A. Section 551 at Nineteenth and Walnut.
Q. (By Dir. Pratt) Is that the floor number?
A. No, it is the third floor. That's the section number.
Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Allison, did Pauline Lutz work in your section?
A. Yes, sir.
p. 798 Q. What kind of work could she do?
A. Straight sewing.
Q. She was limited to that one operation?
A. Yes.
Q. Could she make her code?
[fol. 5195] A. No, sir; she didn't.
Q. Well, during the time she was in your section did she do any work on little hemming?
A. No, sir; I don't believe she did. If I remember right, I don't think I had any hemming at all.
Q. You didn't have any little hemming in your section? A. No, sir.
Q. When did she come to work in your section?
A. Well, I don't know whether it was in the last of December or the first of January. It was something like that.
Q. Have you had any little hemming in your section since that time?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you recommend that Pauline Lutz be laid off?
A. No, sir; I didn't recommend it.
Q. Well, how did it happen that she was laid off?
A. Well, they sent some slips over, where they said that if the girls didn't make their quota they would be laid off at a certain time. I think they gave them 3 weeks to make their quota.
Q. And did she make her quota during that time?

p. 799 A. No, sir.

Q. What kind of an operator is Pauline Lutz in respect to whether she is a good operator or a mediocre operator or a poor operator?

A. Well, she is a fair operator.

Q. What is the quality of her work?

A. Well, most all the time she did fair work.

Q. Was she able to do a fair amount in respect to the quantity?

A. Well, no; not all the time she didn't. She was rather slow on doing the work that I gave her to do.

Q. Now, are you talking about her work on operations other than little hemming?

[fol. 5196] A. Yes, that's what I am talking about.

Q. She didn't do any little hemming in your section?

A. No, she didn't do any little hemming for me.

Q. And when was she laid off?

A. Well, I can't tell you just exactly.

Mr. Rucker. Sometime in January, I think, About the 6th.

Mr. Blume. Eighteenth.

Mr. Rucker. Yes, 18th of January.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) And at that time she wasn't able to make her code?

A. No, sir.

Q. And hadn't been able to make her code since she had been sent to your section?

p. 800 A. I think that's just about right because I couldn't remember just how many weeks she didn't make her code, because when I went and told her she said, well, she didn't know whether she could make it or not.

Q. Mrs. Allison, have you received any instructions from any superior in regard to the attitude of the instructors in connection with the girls joining the union or not joining the union?

A. Well, Mrs. Reeves always told us to be neutral towards anything like that.

Q. Were you instructed to refrain from a discussion of the matter?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you give Pauline Lutz more difficult work to perform than other operators in your section?

A. No, sir; I did not. I felt sorry for Pauline, and I tried to do the very best I could for her; and when they told me that she couldn't make her code and sent that little note, I tried to give her the very best that I had for her so she might make her code.

Q. Then you didn't discriminate against Pauline Lutz in any respect?

A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. Did you know at the time that Pauline Lutz belonged to the union?

A. No, sir; I did not.

p. 801 Q. Have you at any time in your section discriminated against anybody on account of union activities or affiliations?

[fol. 5197] A. No, sir.

Q. You have never at any time instructed any operators that they could not join the union?

A. No, sir; I haven't.

Q. Did you ever say that if they did join they would be fired?

A. No, sir; I never done anything of the kind.

Q. Now, during the time that Pauline Lutz worked for you or in your section, did you have any trouble with her work on account of the fact that she was color blind?

A. No, not over there, I didn't.

Q. Well, has she ever worked for you in any other section?

A. Well, she worked for me when we worked upstairs once before, but not very much.

Q. And did you know that she was color blind?

A. Not that time, I didn't; but I did this time, the last time she worked for me.

Q. And how did you discover that?

A. Well, she told me herself that she put some wrong-colored thread on some hemming, some little hemming. For another section, though; not for me.

Q. Not in your section?
A. No.
Q. But she did say to you that she had done
p. 802 that? A. Yes.

Redirect Examination.

p. 805 Q. (By Mr. Reed) You said you had to watch her all the time, and you were not permitted to tell, because you were interrupted, why you had to watch her.
A. Why you had to watch her, because, you know, she would do things that wasn't right. You had to watch her work. And she would say, "Well, Mrs. Allison, if I had such and such work, I could make it." And I would give her that work, and she couldn't make it. She said she could make it on joining, and I gave her joining, and she couldn't make it. Then, I had some work with little bits of pieces in here, and she said she could make it on that; and I gave that to her, and she couldn't make the code.
Q. You tried every way you could to help her?
[fol. 5198] A. Yes, I did.
p. 806 Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Mrs. Allison, does Lillian Wales work in your section?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you ever ask Lillian Wales this question: "Why did you join the union?"
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you ever discuss the union with Lillian Wales? A. No, sir; I didn't.
Q. Did you ever state to her: "Well, I would have liked to talk to you. I believe if I could have talked to you, you wouldn't have joined the union."
A. No, sir; I did not.
Q. You never did?
A. No, sir.
Q. Have you ever discussed the union with Virginia Stroup? A. No, sir.
Q. Never have? A. No, sir.
Mr. Ingraham: That's all.

p. 810 Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) You said that you got this notice that those who didn't make the code within 3 weeks—I think you said 3 weeks' trial you gave them—that they would be liable to be discharged.

A. Yes.

p. 811 Q. And you also said, I think, that you didn't discharge everyone who failed to make the code. And what I want to know is, how did you arrive at a method of knowing which ones who hadn't made the code to discharge, and which ones who hadn't made the code to keep on?

A. Well, Mr. Atchison sent me the notices. He went over the cards. And I have one girl yet, that she got a notice but she is making good now.

Q. (By Mr. Reed) The Doctor wants to know how you arrived at that; if you kept one girl and let the other go, what would be the reason?

[fol. 5199] A. Well, she got in and worked and made her code. I have got one girl here, and this last week, yesterday or Thursday, she drew $22, better than $22.

Q. Do you sometimes keep people who are improving. A. Why, surely.

Q. And haven't quite made up yet, but have confidence they will? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You take that into consideration?

A. Yes.

Q. Didn't you give Pauline Lutz an additional week? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You received notice about other girls than Pauline Lutz? A. Yes, sir.

p. 812 Q. And if you operate and they can't make the code, it means that they are not earning the amount they are paid? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the company has to make it up, stand the loss? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 5200] Cross-Examination of Lillian Wales.

By Mr. Hogsett:

Q. Miss Wales, your complaints you have testified to on Direct Examination, you relate to incidents that occurred about three years prior to March 9, 1937, is that right?

A. I don't understand what you mean.

Q. Well, this case we are trying began, as we contend, with a letter dated March 9, 1937. Everything you said in the way of complaints, such as they are, occurred about three years before that, back in 1934? A. 1935.

Q. Well, all right. You left in what period of 1935? A. In the month of June, 1935.

Q. All right. This occurred then between two and three years prior to March, 1937. That would be right, wouldn't it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. You joined the union on what date?

A. Jauuary 8, 1935.

Q. You continued to work at the Donnelly Company until June, 1935? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I believe you said. And at that time, there was a general lay-off, wasn't there?

A. I was sent to the 2609 Walnut building. I don't remember the date when that was laid off, that building was laid off. They told us to go over to the other building, and we did. We talked to Miss Hyde. She would have to lay us off. We asked her when she thought she would have work for us. She said she didn't know, maybe next season. We called her up. She said, no, she didn't have anything just then, that she would call us when they did.

Q. Did you get the question that I asked you?

A. I think so.

Q. What is the answer to it?

A. That building was laid off, yes.

Q. You were laid off at the same time as how many other employees, both union and non-union?

A. Well, I couldn't say, because I don't know how many girls there was in that section. It consisted of one section. I can't remember if it was just a few or not.

Q. A normal section is 40 people plus the instructors, is that right?

[fol. 5201] A. That is right.

Q. At that time, did they discontinue the use of that building? A. Yes.

Q. When did they begin the use of that temporary space at 2609, Miss Wales?

A. I don't remember. I was sent over there in January.

Q. You do not know how far ahead of that it was? A. I couldn't say.

Q. A matter of months, you think? I wouldn't try to pin you down exactly.

A. Possibly a month before that.

Q. Had you worked there before that? A. Yes.

Q. When? I mean at the 2609 location.

A. When I first went to work at Donnelly's.

Q. You were hired to work at that place? You began there, isn't that true? A. Yes.

Q. That was before you were a union girl?

A. Yes.

Q. In fact about a year before, wasn't it?

A. No, it was longer than that.

Q. Then you, as a non-union girl, just began work in that building, didn't you?

A. That is right.

Q. How long did you work at that building before you were transferred to the Main building at 18 something Walnut?

A. I couldn't say for sure. It was a few months.

Q. Yes, Ma'am. But you worked there a few months at the last time when you were assigned there in January or thereabouts, and quit in June, is that right?

A. I didn't quit in June. I was fired in June.

[fol. 5202] Q. I will say what you first said "laid off." You were laid off, weren't you? A. Yes.

Q. That is your own term, Miss Wales. I am not coining it. You worked at that building about as long as a non-union girl as you did as a union girl. Frankly, isn't that the truth. A. I don't understand.

Q. You say you began with the Donnelly Company working in the auxiliary space in 2609, worked there for several months, and at that time you were a non-union girl? A. Yes.

Q. Then after you joined the union, you again worked in that building for several months?

A. Yes.

Q. Then after you joined the union, you again worked in that building for several months?

A. Yes, but it was on a different floor.

Q. Oh my, my! On a different floor!

A. It was not the regular space that the Donnelly Garment Company had.

Q. You really were put on a different floor. What floor did you work on when you were a non-union girl?

A. If I remember correctly, it was the 6th or 7th floor. The last time it was the 3rd floor.

Q. You were actually put on the third floor, the same space on the third floor. A. No, sir.

Q. Bigger or smaller? A. Smaller.

Q. Was the whole section for this purpose on the third floor? A. Yes.

Q. And of that section, there were perhaps three-fourths or more of them, non-union girls, weren't there? A. I couldn't say.

Q. You did say so at the testimony you gave at the NRA Labor Board, didn't you? You remember that? A. Yes, I think so.

[fol. 5203] Q. You did so testify, didn't you?

A. I don't know how many of the girls that were over there were non-union, because I don't know how many girls in the whole section. I can't remember whether the section was filled or not.

Q. How many union girls were there there?

A. I couldn't rightfully say that either.

Q. All you could name were five when you were asked about that at the NRA hearing, isn't that true, Miss Wales?

A. Yes, I think so.

Q. Well, is that still true?

A. Yes, I believe I could name those girls again.

Q. I think you misunderstood my question, inadvertently. Is it still true that five girls were all that were over there that were union girls?
A. Five girls was all I knew personally.
Q. You knew your own union girls, didn't you?
A. Yes, but those five girls were all our crowd.
Q. You mean you knew your own union girls, but didn't know more than five union girls who worked at that building. You have got me confused. You knew your own union girls by name, surely, didn't you?
A. Some of them, yes. Some of them I knew better than others.
Q. But you knew them all by name, didn't you?
A. Yes.
Q. And five were all that you could name as being union girls employed at 2609 Walnut at the NRA hearing. Isn't that true?
A. That was all there was at that time, yes.
Q. And a section, if it was filled, was 40 girls?
A. That is correct.
Q. Now you joined the union in January, 1935. Are you still a member? A. I am.
Q. Were you a member at the time of the drive to unionize the Gernes, Gordon, and Missouri Garment Companies in March and April, 1937? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 5204] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. Were you out there at the time the Gernes, Gordon, and Missouri plants during that drive?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What were you doing there, Miss Wales?
A. Just like everybody else, I guess.
Q. Just exactly what would that mean, "just like everybody else"? Just what was everybody else doing?
A. Watching.

Q. Oh, just watching. Is that all you did?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Just watched?
A. That is correct.
Q. How long were you out there watching?
A. You mean every day?
Q. Yes.
A. Presumingly an hour.
Q. Who sent you out there?
A. We went of our own accord.
Q. How many days were you out there?
A. Well, I couldn't rightfully say.
Q. Where were you working then?
A. Eppy Coat Company.
Q. What time in the day did you go there?
A. Oh, about 7:30.
Q. In the morning?
A. Yes.
Q. Did you see the employees trying to get into work? Is that the reason you chose that hour?
A. No, I wanted to see what was going on.

[fol. 5205] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. You had a natural curiosity about it, I assume?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What time were you supposed to go to work at the Eppy Coat Company?
A. 8:30.
Q. And you would go to the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri entrance about an hour before that?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who did you go with?
A. Oh, sometimes by myself.
Q. And sometime with someone else?
A. No one in particular. I would see girls out there I knew, other people I knew.
Q. Union girls?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. What were these other girls doing? Were they just watching too?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you see any union girls there at the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri entrance who were doing anything else except just watch?
A. Not while I was there, no.
Q. You never, at any of the days you were there at 7:30 in the morning for an hour saw any union girls doing anything else except just watching?
A. That is correct.
Q. Did you see the police there?
A. Certainly.
Q. Certainly? Why do you use that [work]?
A. They were there. There was quite a few of them. You couldn't miss them.
Q. 25 or 30, sometimes 50?
A. I wouldn't say that. I really don't know.
Q. Was there any disorder there, violence, girls having their hair pulled out, slugged, pocketbooks thrown out in the street, clothes torn off: Did you see any of that?

[fol. 5206] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

A. Not while I was there.
Q. How many days were you there at 7:30 in the morning when the Gernes employees were trying to get in?
A. Several days.
Q. How many is several?
A. Well, I couldn't say for sure.
Q. Were you there as much as 20 days or 30, or two months?
A. Oh, no.
Q. All right. You estimate it, if you will, please.
A. Well, I would say a couple of weeks.
Q. A couple of weeks. Your curiosity was such that one morning, or two or three didn't satisfy you, and you continued to go every morning for two weeks and spent an hour there, is that right?

A. Approximately that long, yes.

Q. All right. I am not trying to pin you to the exact hours or number of days. Was there any violence there at all during that two weeks that you spent an hour there each morning?

A. I didn't spend an hour each morning, sometimes less. There was no violence that I saw.

Q. In what part of this drive was this? Would you consider it the early part of the drive or toward the end?

A. Well, some of it was at first, some of it sort of—I never went every day, if that is what you mean.

Q. Who was in charge of the other union girls just watching?

A. We had no one in charge of us.

Q. And was Miss Wave Tobin there?

A. I think I saw her once.

Q. You think so. Is that all? Aren't you sure?

A. No, because there were so many there, I wasn't looking for anyone in particular.

Q. You knew Miss Tobin because she is of your union?

A. That is right.

[fol. 5207] Q. Did you say you saw her there at all?

A. I said I think I saw here there once.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. Once. Yes. What was the object, if you knew, of these police being out there, and what were the police doing?

A. I don't know.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Madam?

A. I don't know what their object was.

Objection—immaterial

Q. If you don't know what their object was, what were they doing? What did you see them doing? You say you were watching.
A. Some of them were sitting in the car, some of them were walking, some of them were on their motorcycles.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Is that all you saw the police doing?
A. That is right.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Did you see any of the police line up in two lines from the curb of Grand Avenue across the sidewalk to the entrance into the building, so that when employees would come up, in cars or taxicabs and unload at the curb, these officers would be there as a guard to enable them to get into this plant to go to work? Did you see anything like that?
A. Not while I was there, no.

Objection—Immaterial

Q. Not while you were there. Are you aware that has been shown in moving pictures and photographs? Do you know that?
A. Yes, but that does not mean that I was it.

Objection—immaterial

Q. But you were there an hour for each of say twelve mornings, according to your own estimate?
A. Approximately, yes.

Objection—immaterial

Q. And you didn't see anything like that at all?
A. Not while I was there, no.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Now, Miss Wales, exactly what is your complaint about being transferred or assigned rather, to work at the 2609 Walnut Building? Just tell me again in your own way. I want you to tell everything you have in your mind about your complaint about working at this building? Have you done so?

A. I think so.

Q. You said you had always worked at the main plant. That is not so, because you began and worked several months at this 2609 temporary location at the very beginning of your employment. Had you forgotten that?

A. Of course, I meant by that when I was transferred over there to the 18th street building.

[fol. 5208] I was there all during lay-offs. I was never laid off during lay-offs. The only time I was off was during my two weeks' vacation. After I went into the 18th Street Walnut Building, I was kept there continuously up until January 31, 1935.

Q. You thought that was more of a complaint—to select you to work there, putting it plainly, that is what you thought, is that right?

A. Well, it looked to me like to be taken out of that building that was supposed to be on the best floor and the better garments, and be transferred to another building where the material and all the dresses were a cheaper line of dresses, was like having a good job and being demoted.

Q. When you were first hired to work in that 2609 Building, you say you worked there several months, and then you went back to the main factory? You said that, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. At the time you were transferred back to the main factory, the company closed that 2609 space, didn't they?

A. I was transferred before that.

Q. About the same time, were you not? They really closed it at the time or about the time you were transferred to the Main Building. That is true, isn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. When you were reassigned to that building, whatever time it was, it then—the company reopened that space at 2609 Walnut. That is the fact, isn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. Well now, the company under the circumstances was required to have additional space, and they put different people in there, but you think they ought not to have put you back there. That is your complaint.

A. Yes.

Q. All right. Who do you think the company should have select in your place to work there, somebody had to go—

Q. This 2609 Walnut was in fact one of the new factory buildings in Kansas City at that time?

A. I don't know.

Q. But it wasn't as fine as the main Donnelly factory?

A. No sir.

[fol. 5209] FRANCES RIEDEL

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Hogsett:

Q. Miss Riedel, lets get again the last time that you work for the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. I started to work for them in the year 1931.

Q. I mean the last day or time that you were there? A. I was there in 1935.

Q. Now, all this thing that you have been telling about them occurred at least three and one-half years before the time of the beginning of this trouble between the International and the Donnelly Garment Company, didn't it?

A. It occurred between 1931 and 1935.
Q. What date in 1935 was it?
A. It was, I believe in June.
Q. What have you been doing since June, 1935?
A. I worked for Lindall Coat Shop.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. At what wages?
A. We worked piece work there.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. What did you draw?
A. Well, my salary varied.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. What was the average?
A. I believe I drew on the average of $17.00 or $18.00 a week.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. And how long were you there?
A. I was there possibly seven or eight months.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. And then where did you work?
A. I worked at Lindall Coat Shop.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. And at what wages, on the average?
A. Well, I don't think I drew less than $18.00 at Lindall's.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. How long did you work there?
A. About eight months.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. And then where did you work.
A. Then I worked at Lyons.

Objection—immaterial

[fol. 5210] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. And at what wages, on the average?
A. Well, it varied, too; I averaged $14.00, $15.00, $16.00.
Q. How long did you work there?
A. I couldn't say exactly how long I worked there; I imagine it was about six months.
Q. And then where did you work.
A. I haven't worked since then.
Q. When was the last time you worked there?
A. I worked at Lindall's first and then Bracken's and then Lyons' and it has been two years since I quit at Lyon's, or more.
Q. Then within a period of a year and a half or such a matter—maybe I haven't got the time right, you worked at about four different places, after you left Donnelly's?
A. Three different places.
Q. In Kansas City? A. Yes.
Q. You don't keep a job very long, do you?
A. I wasn't laid off at Lindall's; I was told by Mr. Rice whenever he had a job—that is season work—that I could come back, but I got a job in the meantime at Bracken's, and I didn't care to quit at Bracken's, because I was working for him.
Q. The fact remains you have had three jobs in a year and a half since you left Donnelly's. A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you also, while at Donnelly's were taking this beauty course with a view of leaving Donnelly's and becoming a beauty operator, did you say?
A. I never made a statement that I would leave Donnelly's.
Q. What did you say about taking a beauty course?

A. I was taking a beauty course, yes.
Q. While at Donnelly's? A. At nights.
Q. I say while you were working at Donnelly's?
A. Yes.

[fol. 5211] Q. What for, if you didn't intend to work at it?
A. Well, because I thought maybe in later years I might be able to start up a shop of my own, but I never could have even figured on starting one for quite some time.

Objection—immaterial

Q. In this group that was laid off when you were laid off, how many were in that group?
A. I can't say altogether; I think about twelve or fifteen.
Q. And this whole group was laid off at one time? A. Yes.
Q. It was a whole section, as a matter of fact, was it now? A. Yes.
Q. It wasn't a picking out of you or just one or two girls; it was a laying off of the whole section?
A. Yes, but they replaced a lot of girls over at the other building when they closed down this building, too.
Q. Would you just as soon answer the question. It was a lay off of a whole section, is that right? A. Yes, sir.
Q. And that section included how many people?
A. I couldn't say.
Q. Roughly? A section is at least forty, isn't it? A. Yes.
Q. Well, then, it was at least forty people that were laid off at the same time? A. Yes.
Q. And most of those were non-union employees?
A. Yes, but that is what I am trying to tell you.
Q. You see, you are arguing with me again and all I asked you was the simple question, whether most of them were non-union employees. A. I am sorry.

Q. How many non-union employees were there in that group?

A. I couldn't say that either, because I don't remember.

[fol. 5212] Q. How many union employees were in that forty group?

A. I just got through saying I think there were twelve; I couldn't say for sure, twelve or fifteen.

Q. You said something to Mr. Walsh and I did not get clear what you meant, something about a threat to your instructor and I believe you said you did not mean it for her or did not mean it as a threat; I forget.

A. I didn't mean it as a threat, no, sir.

Objection—immaterial

Q. In any case let us clear up what it was. What was this so-called or threat to Mrs. Allison?

A. I couldn't tell you. I am afraid you would have to ask Mrs. Reeves that because I didn't mean it as a threat.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Do you know what it was they were talking about and construed as a threat?

A. No, I couldn't, only the day before Mrs. Allison came to me and told me that us little girls had been talking too much and she said "Now, Frances, I want you to quit doing so much talking" and I said "I don't think I am the only one that is doing so much talking." Now, if that could have been a threat, I don't know.

Objection—immaterial

Q. I would hardly think that would be construed by anyone as a threat. Do you know what it is you said that they thought was a threat?

A. No, I couldn't say because I don't think—

Objection—immaterial

Q. Is that all this talk about the threat amounts to,—this conversation that you just spoke of?
A. I imagine so: I didn't even know what she meant by it.

Objection—immaterial

Q. That so-called threat, if that is a threat, occurred in January, 1935, you said?
A. Yes.

Objection—immaterial

Q. And you were not laid off until June?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you attribute any connection between those two incidents? You seemed to, in your direct testimony?
A. I never said I was laid off because I threatened Miss Donnelly.
Q. I gathered that impression, perhaps without warrant, but I at least did. Now, you had worked at this other building at 26th and Walnut before you joined the union, hadn't you?
A. I was hired at that building.
Q. And how long had you worked at that building before you joined the union?
A. I was hired in that building in 1931.
[fol. 5213] Q. And worked there how many years?
A. I worked there about four months, six months maybe.
Q. Altogether how long did you work there at the 26th and Walnut auxiliary plant before you joined the union?
A. About six months.
Q. And did the company then discontinue that place or keep it?
A. I really don't know because I was transferred to the other building. The girls were still working there, when I left.
Q. Do you know how long the company did have the auxiliary plant at 26th and Walnut?
A. No, I couldn't say.

Q. Do you know how many employes were transferred there by the company?
A. When do you mean, transferred?
Q. One section, two sections, three sections, how many worked,
A. You mean when I was transferred back.
Q. No. While you worked at 26th and Walnut how many other employes worked there?
A. I believe there were two sections there at the time I first was employed there.
Q. That would mean at least eight, wouldn't it?
A. I imagine so.
Q. With the added help of the bundle boys and whatever else goes with it?
A. I imagine so; they didn't have any bundle boys there.
Q. Well, whatever they had.
A. Just the operators and instructors.
Q. Now, that was due to an over-flow of work,—not of work but a need for additional space which they could not get in their mail building is the reason they had that building; you understood, didn't you?
A. I just knew they had it I was hired the; I didn't know anything about it.
Q. I mean you were given to understand that that was just an auxiliary space used in addition—
A. They never did any explanation at all to me about that building.
[fol. 5214] Q. Whether they did or the employes did, didn't you understand that to be the fact?
A. No.
Q. Now did you claim that only union girls were sent to this building?
A. Oh, no; there were some other girls transferred.
Q. Well, I thought so. Now, how many union girls worked there while you were there out of this eighty odd?
A. How many girls worked there?
Q. How many union girls worked there?
A. They were all transferred over there.

Q. Yes. How many were there?
A. I just told you a while ago I thought there were twelve or fifteen; I couldn't say positive.
Q. And who were they?
A. Well, I couldn't name them all.
Q. Name those that you can name?
A. Lillian, Wales, Flossie and myself.
Q. Flossie who?
A. Flossie Walton, and Virginia Stroup and May Innie and I can't remember the rest of them.
Q. Those are all the union girls you can remember. How many non-union girls were put to work there?
A. I couldn't tell you because I don't know how many was in the section.
Q. Didn't you agree a moment ago that there were at least forty in a section.
A. Well, all the rest that wasn't union was non-union girls.
Q. Exactly. Now, assuming the maximum, that there were fifteen union girls, and eighty in all, would leave sixty-five non-union girls?
A. Sure. I don't imagine they would open up a section and put twelve union girls over there by themselves.
Q. I didn't think so, but I wanted to get the matter clear of any implication to the contrary. Now, do you claim that you were given any class of work different, since you joined the union—different from what you had before?
A. Yes, I was.
[fol. 5215] Q. In what respect was the class of work different?
A. Well, before I was transferred over to that building I did mostly joining; I did joining all the time and after I was sent over there I was put to setting pockets on.
Q. Do you think that is a harder job?
A. It was because the work wasn't good.
Q. Anything else now that you complain of in the way of a change in the type of work?

A. I don't remember just what other operations there are; I do remember one operation we were given, for the pockets.

Q. Is that all you can remember on that subject?

A. I do remember that they gave us these pockets to put on, and they gave these pockets to Lillian Wales and I, and we had been joining over at the other building, both of us.

Q. What is the significance of that? What does that mean?

A. Well, if you do one job of work and they take you off of it and put you on another, you haven't got the speed to do new work that you had on joining.

Q. When you testified before the N. R. A. Board on this identical subject, this exact question that I have just asked you, did you give these answers to these questions,—I will read them: "Q. Now, have you done any class of work different since you joined the union that you did before you joined the union? A. No sir. Q. Then to get back to my original question—"

Q. Did you give that answer?

A. I must have did it if it is there.

A. I remember testifying before the N. R. A. that they did change my work, too.

Mr. Hogsett: Do you agree, gentlemen, that that is what she said? It is the second question on that page. Is that admitted, gentlemen?

Mr. Walsh: Yes.

Q. Now, did you give this additional testimony on identically the same subject. "Then to get back to my original question your work has not been made harder since joining the union than it had been before? A. No, sir." Did you testify that way?

A. If it is there I must have.

Further Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. You were able to do the work in this beauty school that you attended at night, were you?

A. Yes.

Objection—immaterial.

[fol. 5216] Q. You were not too tired out at the end of the day's work to do the additional study work?

A. No, because we went there and just studied; we studied all week and then on Saturday we did our practical work.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. When was the last time you have been in the Donnelly garment factory.

A. When I got my check the following week I was laid off.

Q. You haven't been there since June, 1935?

A. No, sir. I called Ella Mae and she said there was no need to come in. There wasn't any work.

Q. What nature of work did you do at Lindall's?

A. Making coats.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. And what nature of work did you do at Lyons'?

A. Lingerie.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. And how much did you get paid at Lyons'?

A. From $14.00 to $15.00, $16.00, somewhere around there.

Objection—immaterial.

[fol. 5217] Cross Examination of Thelma Owen.

By Mr. Hogsett:

Q. Miss Owen, you have spoken here of Mrs. Reeves in a way that indicated she treated you rather badly. Was that the impression you desired to leave with the court?

A. Personally, I like Mrs. Reeves, but I was treated very bad in the shop.

Q. But I believe you rather indicated in some of your answers that you thought she treated you badly.

A. She did ask me questions I didn't like very well.

Q. Now, when you testified before the NRA Board, on page 52, you said this upon that same subject, didn't you, speaking of your conversation with Mrs. Reeves: "So I said I [think] you the many nice things you have done for me, and think just as much of you as I ever did. I like all my instructors, and you also." A. I did.

Q. You said that to Mrs. Reeves? A. I did.

Q. Were you sincere or saying that for effect?

A. I was sincere about Mrs. Reeves.

Q. Were you sincere about the instructors?

A. I was.

Q. The statement was sincere, and you meant it exactly as you said it, did you? A. I did.

Q. Now on the same subject, did you further testify before the NRA as follows:

"Q. Now, you worked for a long time after that, and when you had your last conversation with (Mr.) Reeves, you thanked her for your nice treatment.

"A. I certainly did. Mrs. Reeves, personally, I liked her very much.

"Q. She has always used you all right?

"A. She certainly has."

You said that did you?

A. Mrs. Reeves wasn't in the employment office to hire you. She was not my instructor.

Q. I didn't ask you that. Did you or did you not before the NRA Labor Board on the 26th of February, 1935, within eight months after you left the Donnelly Company, testify as I have read?

The Court: Now, repeat it.

Q. "Q. (By Mr. Reed): Now, you worked for a long time after that, and when you had your last conversation with Mrs. Reeves, you thanked her for your nice treatment?
"A. I certainly did. Mrs. Reeves personally, I liked her very much."

[fol. 5218 Did you give that answer?

A. I did.

Q. "Q. She has always used you all right?"
"A. She certainly has." Did you give that answer?

A. "Use" was not supposed to be in that. I meant treated.

Q. You are drawing a distinction now between treated and use. Did you answer this question?

A. I don't remember that, no.

Q. Now, let's see. You didn't actually join this union in the spring of 1934, at all, did you?

A. I [digned] applications, was considered a member.

Q. I will show you your application, which Mr. Walsh has produced, and ask you if it isn't dated 10/30/34, and if it doesn't bear notation: "Received 10/30/34" at the top. Just answer yes or no. A. Yes.

Q. In any case you had left the Donnelly Company's service four months before you signed this paper, hadn't you? A. Yes.

Q. Now you tried to give the Court the impression you had become a union member before you left, and you had been let out on that account?

A. As I said before, we signed the applications, and you have to have a large number of girls to give you power to accomplish anything as large as the Donnelly Garment Company. We considered ourselves members.

Q. Once more if I may ask you for an answer. What becomes of your testimony on direct examination that you were discharged because you were a union member, when the fact is you didn't sign the application for four months after you left? If you have any explanation for that, please let us have it.

A. I signed the application in May, paid my initiation the 30th day of October, 1934.

Q. When you were talking to Mrs. Reeves, therefore, in June of 1934, at the time you left—by the way, did I get that straight, is that straight, is that when you did talk to her?

A. Six months to the time I was let out, I had two different talks with Mrs. Reeves.

Q. The last one? A. In July.

[fol. 5219] Q. Of 1934? A. Yes.

Q. Was that when you left, or quit, or were laid off? A. I was fired, June, 1934.

Q. And you did later talk personally?

A. Yes, personally, by telephone and personally.

Q. We will take the one when you were, as you say, "fired", in June. You didn't then belong to the union?

A. It was my understanding I belonged to the union when I filled out the application blank.

Q. All right. Did you ever tell any of your friends that time that you belonged to the union? A. I did not.

Q. Then, to the best of your knowledge, Mrs. Reeves didn't know it?

A. She accused me of it.

Q. And you said no you never paid five cents union dues in your life?

A. I didn't say "Mrs. Reeves, I never belonged to the union" for fear of losing my job. I said I didn't pay my dues.

Q. You were wording that answer carefully, not denying you were a union member, but denying you had paid dues. A. Yes.

Q. It was your design and purpose to give Mrs. Reeves to understand you were not a union member?

A. I said I had never paid five cent's dues.

Q. Why did you tell her that?
A. Because she looked a hole through me.
Q. Aside from that, why did you tell her that? Did you want her to understand you were a union member or not?
A. I did not want her to know it.
Q. Now during the time you were "fired", there were about 160 others who were laid off, is that right?
A. I wouldn't know. I don't keep books.
Q. Now, if you will give a direct answer. I didn't assume you kept books.
A. I wouldn't know how many was laid off.
[fol. 5220] Q. You know whether there was a big reduction in the force at the same time, do you not?
A. I don't know.
Q. Well, now, you don't know that now, you say; but when you testified before the NRA Board, did you then know?
A. I don't remember what I said.
Q. I will refresh your memory from page 59 with this excerpt from your testimony: "Q. Now it was the custom down there to give the operators who had been there some time, two weeks' vacation with pay, was it not?
"A. Yes.
"Q. Yes. You took your vacation and got your pay?
"A. Yes, sir.
"Q. And then the force was being decreased and you were let out along with 160 or 170 other girls?
"A. Yes, sir."

You testified that way, did you?

A. During vacation times there is as high as three or four sections taking vacations at the same time.
Q. Mrs. Owen, did you testify this way?
A. At the time I taken my vacation there must have been 100—

Q. (Interrupting) Will you kindly answer the question by answering whether you testified this way or not?

A. You don't understand me.

The Court: Will you read the question, please?

Q. Would you kindly look it over with me (going to the witness stand):

"Q. Now it was the custom down there to give the operators who had been there some time two weeks vacation with pay, wasn't it?

"A. Yes.

"Q. Yes. And you took your vacation and got your pay?

"A. Yes, sir.

"Q. And [them] the force was being decreased and you were being let out along with 160 or 170 other girls?

"A. Yes, sir."

Do you see it there?

A. I misunderstood that.

Q. You didn't understand it? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Did you ever have any complaints there from your superiors because you would go away from your machine and go out in the waiting rooms and put in your time talking union?

A. I never talked union during working times.

Q. Is your memory better now or not so good as it was shortly after your lay-off?

A. I talked morning and lunch hours' union.

[fol. 5221] Q. I will read from Page 60:

"Q. You would go away from your machine and go out where the girls were in the [anti]-rooms, waiting rooms, and there you would put in your time talking union?

"A. Some."

Did you testify that way?

A. If it is there, I certainly did.

Q. Now another step. You do admit, do you not —I don't know that you said anything about it on direct examination, but I will ask you the direct question: Didn't they have a good deal of trouble with you there over sending work back that had been improperly done?

A. Never.

Q. That never happened at all?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you have a clear memory of these facts?

A. I try to have.

Q. I just wanted to know. At Page 66 of your testimony before the NRA Board, did you testify as follows on the subject of your having work sent back to you—on the subject matter of your having work sent back to you because you had put in only six stitches instead of twelve stitches to the inch; do you remember being questioned on that subject? Is that all a complete blank to you, or do you remember anything about that?

A. I wonder if I can be allowed to explain this?

Q. On that subject did you testify as follows, beginning on Page 65:

"Q. Isn't it a fact that the rule was 12, and that repeatedly you skimped your work and would put in six stitches to the inch?

"A. I did not.

"Q. Or less than 12; and that work was sent back to you repeatedly on that account; isn't that a fact?

"A. There was some work sent back to me and when I compared them they were not mine."

And then later, Page 66:

"Q. Well, I ask you if, when you were sewing these goods and putting in these smaller number of stitches, you did not know that the machine was not sewing them in right?

"A. I certainly did.

"Q. And you went on and made the goods, didn't you?

"A. Some of it.

"Q. A good deal of it didn't you?

"A. No, sir.
"Q. How much of it?
"A. Very little."

And then further on Page 67:

"Q. Well, how many were there in this bundle you put on the six stitches in?
"A. I don't remember.
"Q. Well, you knew, didn't you, that if goods went out improperly stitched that would result in a loss to the company; didn't you know that?
"A. I did not."

Did you testify that way?

A. I don't think I did.

[fol. 5222] A. May I explain why I had less [that] the amount of stitches I should have had?

Q. Yes.

A. The machines were set and locked by the machinists, and when they would get caught and unlocked they would skip stitches. I showed my instructor, Mrs. Neimoyer. They were cheaper dresses and she told me to go ahead and maybe it would get back like it should. I changed the needle—

Q. (Interrupting) Then you did have some trouble with work that didn't have the right number of stitches, but you say it was due to the machine?

A. I was told to go ahead, by my instructor.

Q. And make it wrong?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was the instructor? A. Mrs. Neimoyer.

Q. How often did that sort of thing happen?

A. Not very often; I will say once.

Q. About how many times did it happen that your machine was out of order and the instructor knew that you weren't putting in enough stitches and she told you to go ahead and make it up anyway?

A. That only happened once about the stitches.

Q. You were at the Donnelly plant about how long in all?

A. From 1924 until 1927; laid off five weeks; called back by the company and worked until the fall of 1927; in November; was off close to a year or about a year; went back and worked until June, 1934.

Q. Now, I want to ask you this question as to the amount of your earnings there, if on the first week of January, 1934, you did not make $17.68, the second week, $30.46, the third week, $22.41, the last week in that month $19.71; and then, without bothering to call the months, $18.12, $20.89, $16.64, $24.10, $24.69, $23.34, $13.86 or a part week, $12.78 for a part week, fifty percent of your time; the next week, $14.00, $14.60 and that for part time, the next week $15.54, $18.15, $15.01, $13.33, and if you weren't allowed six hours time because your machine was out of order that day and you were paid $2.10 extra for it; $16.59 the next week, $17.44 and had machine trouble and you were allowed a dollar extra for that; the next week $16.93 with one and a half hours time for which you were paid fifty-six cents, $15.00, $17.90, $18.14, and the last week, the 22nd of June, $19.88, and allowed you for twenty-five minutes time when there was some lost time? That is the kind of wages you were getting down there?

A. My average was $15.00 a week. I don't know what you mean by part time.

Objection—immaterial

[fol. 5223] Q. I only know what the record shows.

A. You know if you are off so many days you don't get a paid vacation.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. Did you ever make wages like that at any time?

A. I have, by working mornings and on my noon hours.

Objection—immaterial

Q. You understood this question counted overtime, every time there was overtime. Did you make those wages for that amount of time?

A. I did.

Objection—immaterial

Q. You said you were able to by super-human effort of working at your noon hour and in the morning?

A. Yes.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Don't you know that the machines did not run at the noon hour?

A. Before the NRA went into effect we worked mornings, and I have worked my full noon hour. We weren't allowed to be at our machines before five minutes before time after the NRA went into effect, and we had to leave them at noon.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. Who is Mrs. White?

A. She was one of my last instructors.

Q. You say that did not happen while you were working for her?

A. That did not.

Objection—immaterial

Q. You spoke of taking work home with you. Did you have any sort of equipment there to do the work?

A. Well, it was like trims that had to be sewed up at both ends with an opening left in the middle that had to be turned. It taken so much time I was allowed to take them home and turn them at night.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Where have you lived from the time you left the Donnelly Garment Company up to now?

A. 1317 Troost.

Q. Continuously?

A. No, San Francisco, California.

Q. You have lived at 1317 Troost except for what interval?

A. August of 1936. I came back here last September.

Q. And returned September, 1938?

A. Yes.

[fol. 5224] Q. Where did you live in San Francisco?

A. 715 McAllister Street.

Q. Were you employed there?

A. Yes, I was.

Q. Where?

A. Varsity Sport Wear.

Q. When you left Donnelly Garment Company where did you go to work?

A. Gernes, Gordon's, Missouri, Azar's and Lyons'.

Q. How long were you at Gernes?

A. About two weeks.

Q. Then how long at Gordon's?

A. About a week.

Q. And how long at Missouri?

A. About six weeks.

Q. And this other place, how long were you at that place?

A. Just off and on when they needed me, I will say three months.

Q. You did not keep your jobs very long after you left Donnelly did you?

A. No, because I had to change my name when I left Donnelly Garment Company, when they found out I was Thelma Owen, and I had worked at Donnelly's.

Q. What name did you use?

A. My maiden name, Thelma Edmondson.

Q. Were you at Gernes' when they had the riot down there?

A. I was not.

Q. Were you a member of the union at that time?

A. I was.

Q. Were you down at the Gernes, Gordon, and Missouri riot?

A. I think that was while I was gone. That is the reason I went to California, I go so I couldn't get a job in Kansas City because I had worked at Donnelly's.

[fol. 5225] Q. You did not see the disorders down there at the Gernes' plant?

A. No.

Further Cross Examination

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mrs. Owen, do you know an employee at the Donnelly plant by the name of Jennie Brown?

A. I do.

Q. I will ask you whether you had a conversation with her near 13th and Troost shortly after you left the Donnelly employ in which you said to her in substance, "Whatever you kinds do, be smart and don't sign up with the union. You have the best jobs in Kansas City. I wish I had mine back."?

A. I did not. The only time I had a conversation—

The Court: That answers the question.

Objection—material

Q. You did not make any statement to her that included any part of that?
A. I did not.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Or to anyone else?
A. I did not.

Objection—immaterial

Q. You do not know Maude Fisher at all?
A. I know Maude Fisher by working in the plant. Maude Myers, I knew her by.
Q. Did you ever have a conversation with Maude Fisher?
A. Yes, I have called at her home.
Q. But the conversation Miss Fisher swore you had with her you didn't have, or any conversation like that?
A. No, sir.
Q. Do you know Velma Wooley?
A. I do not.
Q. Therefore, of course, you did not have the conversation she swears you had with her?
A. I couldn't; I was in California at the time.
Q. When did you want you went to California?
A. In August, 1936.
[fol. 5226] Q. How long were you there?
A. Until September of this past year.

Recross Examination

By Mr. Hogsett:
Q. You have heretofore testified for the defense?
A. Yes.

Q. In answer to Mr. Walsh's questions did you testify to this page 1226: "Miss Owens, a lady here named Mrs. Maude Fisher testified here and said that in April, 1937 she had a conversation with you at 13th and Troost in Kansas City in which you said to her we have always been good friends and I am going to give you a little tip. You better not drive your car Monday morning because we will all be there, the Fords, Chevvys all will be there and we are going to upset all the cars, cut the tires and beat you up and we are going to give Mrs. Donnelly one big go around, we are going to take Mrs. Wherry for a one-way ride, and also Ella Mae Hyde. Mrs. White, is is my meat alone. I am taking her alone. You get good salaries, but you will have to sign up with us anyway. We are going to sign up the Donnelly Garment Company. Did you or did you not say that to Mrs. Fisher at that time?

A. In 1937, I was in San Francisco, California.

Q. You testified to that?

A. I did.

Q. And at the very time you said you were in San Francisco, California, you were working here for the Marlene Dress Company as an operator, from December 9, 1936 to May 5, 1937, weren't you? Yes or no?

A. Yes, I understood the month of August, 1937.

Q. You heard Mr. Walsh plainly say that Mrs. Fisher and Miss Velma Wooley testified that you had this threatening conversation in April, 1937?

A. I misunderstood him.

Q. Pardon me, you heard that, didn't you?

A. I heard that, but I misunderstood the months.

Q. And the fact is you were working for the Marlene Dress Company from December 9, 1936 to May 5, 1937?

A. I was.

Q. Now, we subpoenaed the payrolls and also the union records to prove that you were paying dues at the union not only in April, but up through July and as late as October, 1937—you learned that, didn't you?

A. Yes. May I explain that?

Q. You heard that didn't you?

A. Yes.

[fol. 5227] Q. And you immediately became quite concerned over the testimony that you had given here before this Court, didn't you?

A. The dues was—

Q. (Interrupting) Pardon me, didn't you become quite concerned over the testimony that you had given?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Pardon me, you were in Kansas City at the time of the alleged conversation, weren't you, in April, 1937?

Pardon me, you haven't yet answered. You were in Kansas City at the time of the alleged conversation in April, 1937?

A. I was.

[fol. 5238] N.R.A. Testimony.

p. 379 Mrs. Virginia Stroup, called as a witness, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Cross-Examination.

p. 415 Q. Well, did Mrs. Reeves tell you or say in your presence that anybody that joined the union was going to get fired or discharged?

A. She said you could join 25,000 unions but that wouldn't keep them from laying off a girl if they saw fit.

Q. And you would have to behave yourself and do your work, isn't that a fact?

A. She didn't say "behave myself", but she said I would go down there and make my code or else out I would go.

Q. And she never told you that the company would discharge a girl because she belonged to the union if the girl did good work?

A. Yes, and if they didn't change her work, why,—

Q. Just answer my question.

Mr. Rucker. Q. Answer his question, and don't argue with him.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Did she say that?

Q. (By Dir. Pratt) Did she say that?

A. Say that again.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) Did Mrs. Reeves say to you that a girl would be discharged because she joined the union even though she did good work?

A. She didn't say that, no.

p. 418 Q. Now, when was the first time you told any official of the Donnelly Garment Company that there was a union?

A. December 12.

Q. December 12. Before that time had you held meetings with different employees for the purpose of organizing a union?

A. I had gone to one union meeting besides the time we drew up the charter.

Q. And when did you draw up the charter?

[fol. 5239] A. The 6th of December.

Q. That was the first time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then after that how many meetings have you held?

A. Well, we have had weekly meetings, every week, since we got started.

Q. Now, this charter: Does it contain the names of the organizers?
A. It contains the names of the charter members.
Q. How many charter members were there?
p. 419 A. Seven.
Q. How many have joined since that time?
A. I don't know.
Q. Well, how many of the seven that were charter members are working at the Donnelly Garment Company now?
A. I would like to see the names of those or like for you to read me the names of those on the charter.
Q. Virginia Stroup, Frances Riedel, Ellen Fry, Mamie Tubbesing, Clara Enloe, Lillian Rutherford, Tillie Shirley, Thelma Owen, Nora McKee.
A. Three.
Q. Now, at the time this union was organized, how many of these union people were employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. I don't know.
Q. And there are just the three of you—Virginia Stroup, Frances Riedel and Nora McKee?
A. I don't know about that.
Q. Well, you know that those three—
A. Those three are working now.
Q. Those three are working now?
A. Yes.
Q. And at the time that the union was organized the rest of them were not working at the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. I don't know that.
Q. You don't know that?
[Vol. 5240] p. 420 A. No, I don't know that.
Q. Now, when was Ellen Fry laid off?
A. Well, it was along in the summer of 1934.
Q. When was Mamie Tubbesing?
A. Hers was about her vacation time last year, I believe.
Q. Lillian Rutherford?
A. Well, her vacation time.

Q. That was around June or July?
A. June, I think. Well, I should say Lillian Rutherford was laid off along in June.
Q. Tillie Shirley? A. I don't know.
Q. Thelma Owen?
A. I don't know about that, either.
Q. Now, is Ollie Thompson a member of the union? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Is Loretta Sisson? A. I don't know.
Q. Flossie Walton? A. Yes.
Q. Kathleen Jenkins? A. Yes.
Q. May Innis? A. I don't know.
Q. Gladys Ellidge? A. Yes.
p. 421 Q. Glynn Brooks? A. Yes.
Q. But at the time that this union was organized they were not employed at the company?
[fol. 5241] A. I don't know.
Q. Well, you have sat here during all these hearings, you have heard the testimony, haven't you? But you want to tell the Board that you don't know? You have talked to each one of them about it, haven't you? About their complaint in this case?
A. Those complaints?
Q. Yes. A. Yes.
Q. Everyone of these girls. Now you want to tell this Board that you don't know that they were laid off at the time that this union was organized? A. I don't know.

Mr. Rucker: Oh, I think they were according to your records and their testimony. They have all testified they were.

Mr. Ingraham. Sure.

Q. Did any official or superior to you ever tell you, or state in your presence, that if a girl joined the union she would be fired or laid off even though she did good work?
A. I don't believe I recollect hearing anyone say that.

Mr. Ingraham: I believe that's all.

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) What did Mrs. Allison say to you?

A. She said she sure felt sorry for we girls that belong to the union.

Q. What would happen to you?

A. That we would be laid off.

Q. And was she superior to you?

A. Yes. But that wasn't the way I got that question.

Q. (By Mr. Ingraham) And you haven't been laid off?

A. No, sir. And since the last hearing I should say everything has been very, very nice over there. Just like it used to be.

Q. It's [alright] now?

[fol. 5242] p. 429 A. Yes, [alright] now, but it wasn't for a while.

Q. Well, you have done pretty good work yourself, haven't you?

A. Pretty good work?

Q. Yes. A. What do you mean?

Q. Well, you don't make a practice—I mean your actual work has been up to the code?

A. Well, I hope so.

Q. Well, you know whether it has or not, don't you? A. Just what do you mean?

Q. (By Mr. Rucker) Well, have you made the code or not?

A. Why, yes. There might have been a few times, but I think everyone falls down once in a while.

p. 435 Q. (By Mr. Birkhead) Well, did Pauline Lutz ask you to make this complaint?

A. We had talked about it.

Q. I mean, she asked you to make the complaint for her? A. Yes.

Q. And the only superior in the Donnelly Garment Company, only superior to you, that ever threatened you with a lay-off or dismissal for your union affiliations was this Mrs. Allison?

p. 436 A. Yes, Mrs. Allison.
Q. And did she tell you that it had been suggested to her that she give you this warning from Mrs. Reeves?
A. She didn't say that that came from Mrs. Reeves, that we little girls would be laid off on account of our union affiliations. She told us that herself.
Q. What is her position?
A. She is an instructor. She instructs the girls how to work, the different operations.

[fol. 5243] p. 665 Proceedings—Before N. R. A. Board

MRS. GLADYS ELLEDGE RICHARDSON, called as a witness, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

p. 693 Q. (By Mr. Reed) You learned, did you not, that the Prudential Insurance Company made an investigation of this employment of yours that you had with the Gernes Company?
A. I did not.
Q. Did you learn of it?
A. I heard of it, but I didn't learn it.
Q. How did you hear of it?
A. Mrs. Ella Mae Hyde told me.
Q. And she told you about a letter that the insurance company had written, didn't she?
p. 694 A. That's correct.
Q. Showed you a letter?
A. She did not show it to me. I asked to see the letter, and she said, "After all, Gladys, that wouldn't be fair to the insurance company, and I certainly won't show it to you."
Q. Well, she read it to you?
A. She did not.
Q. Did you see the paper at all?
A. I did not.
Q. Didn't you see that paper right there (indicating)? A. No, sir.
Q. Well, wait till you look at it.

A. I never did. That's the first time I ever saw the paper.

Q. She had a letter in her hand, however, didn't she? A. She did not.

Q. What did Ella Mae Hyde say to you when she talked to you?

[fol. 5244] A. She came down to my machine and I was working, and she said, "Gladys, when you finish your bundle, you come to my office;" and I said, "All right, Mrs. Guerrant." When I got there she says, "Gladys, we don't need you any longer." I turned around and looked at her so funny. I said, "Why don't you need me any longer, Mrs. Guerrant? You are hiring a lot of new help, and, after all, I am an old girl. Why don't you need me any longer?"

p. 695 And she says, "We don't hire dishonest people." I said, "What do you mean, dishonest?" Mrs. Guerrant said, "Well, you received money from the insurance company which you were not entitled to." And I said, "What do you mean?" And she said, "Well, we received a letter from the insurance people, stating that you worked for the Gernes Garment Company and you were not entitled to this money, and we don't want you any longer." I said I would like to see the letter. She said, "No, Gladys." She said, "After all, that wouldn't be fair to the insurance company, and I want to be fair to everyone."

Q. So you were discharged there because you were drawing sick benefits from the insurance company during a period when you were working under a different name than Elledge, the name by which you were carried on the insurance policy—

A. It's strange you had my name as Gladys Elledge Richardson on that paper.

Q. —and you were informed that the insurance company had complained about it. That's why you were discharged, isn't it?

A. Yes. It was in one way, because they couldn't find anything wrong with my work. But they caught me talking unionism, and they wanted me out of there because they said, Well, after all, every girl that talked unionism down there, they was going to get them out.

p. 698 Q. When did you first talk to anyone about joining the union?

A. The first time I talked to anyone about joining the union was in the spring. We were out at Glynn Brooks' home, and she had a group out there, a group of people, and we had representatives out there, such as Marion Burns.

p. 700 Q. (By Mr. Reed) Now, when was the next time that you girls had any meeting?

A. We had several. I couldn't call the day.

Q. Where did you meet?

A. Different places; different girls' homes.

Q. Just this same little group?

A. No. There was a lot of others that was added to it.

Q. Well, how many others?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Can't you give me some light as to when you actually organized this union branch.

A. We started in the spring.

Q. When did you actually organize it?

[fol. 5245] A. At the same time.

Q. Did you elect any officers?

A. Yes, we had a few officers.

Q. Who did you elect?

A. Well, I just don't remember, but we had officers.

Q. You don't remember who you officers were? Don't remember when you elected them?

A. No.

p. 701 Q. Don't remember at whose house you were when you elected them?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, you girls who had these meetings: Did you make them public, or did you have secret meetings? A. No, they were public.

Q. Public to whom?
A. To the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. Did you invite the rest of them to come there?
A. They invited a few. As many as the house would hold.
Q. And did they come?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. There was nothing said there about keeping this secret?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you go out and tell it to everybody?
A. Certainly.
Q. Did you go down to the shop and tell it down there? A. I did.
Q. Did you down there in the shop urge people to join? A. I did.
Q. During working hours?
[fol. 5246] A. No, sir.
Q. When?
A. Lunch hours and after working hours.
Q. On the premises of the company?
p. 702 A. No, sir. I went to their homes and their business places.
Q. Well, I am asking what you did down there at the company. You said you did talk it down there.
A. In lunch hours, I did.
Q. Yes. Where are the lunches taken?
A. Sometimes I went out for lunch and went to other restaurants, and sometimes I had lunch in the lunch room.
Q. And you talked it up in the wash rooms and around there, did you?
A. During lunch hour.
Q. Yes, during lunch hour. All right. But on the premises of the company?

p. 703 Q. (By Mr. Reed) Well, you did talk it during lunch hour while you were on the premises of the company?
A. Yes.

Q. And you did it repeatedly, didn't you?

A. During lunch hours; yes, sir.

Q. All right. Now, the meeting that you had at Glynn Brooks' house was held in May, 1934?

A. Yes, sir; around that time.

Q. And you were sick until sometime in August or later, and then you came back to work. What date was it? I have asked this once, but I don't remember. When you came back to work.

A. I returned to work the 8th day of August, I worked the 8th and the 9th, and I had a relapse of the heat stroke, and I was down.

Q. And then you went back when?

A. I was called back December 12, I believe, to be correct.

Q. Now, when you were down there at the company, you were very enthusiastic for the union, I take it?

[fol. 5247] A. Certainly.

p. 704 Q. And you talked there among the girls and the people continuously from the time you went down, and you continued to advocate the union?

A. I did at mornings and noons and evenings, but not during working hours.

Q. And you made no secret of it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, from the time that you had the meeting out there in Glynn Brooks' house—I believe that's the name. A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you had that in the spring you became enthusiastic for the union. And you went back to the company and worked until July when there was a lay-off?

A. I did not work until July.

Q. When? A. I was laid off in June.

Q. In June? A. Yes.

Q. Very well. I don't mean to cavil about the date. During all that time you talked union down there, just as you said?

A. I certainly did.

Q. And notwithstanding that fact, you were called back in the month of December? Called back in August and worked 2 days, and then called back in December?

A. That's right.

p. 705 Q. And you were kept there in the shop or in the factory until the 15th day of January. Then you were called in and were told that you were being let out on account of this insurance matter. That's right, isn't it?

A. That's what they told me.

[fol. 5248] Proceedings—Before N. R. A. Board

p. 713 Mrs. Lou Perkins, called as a witness, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

p. 722 Q. (By Mr. Reed) Had you been around there telling that you belonged to the union or making any fuss or agitation?

A. Well, I had talked union to the girls.

Q. There on the premises?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you begin doing that?

A. Well, in June and July. In July when I went back to work. And I had talked it that spring that I was there.

Q. And notwithstanding the fact that you had talked it in the spring, you were called back in the summer?

A. I wasn't called back. I went back.

Q. Well, you went back and you got a job?

A. Yes. But I didn't get a steady machine.

Q. What are you? A straight operator?

A. I do straight sewing and hemming.

Q. When did you say you joined the union?

A. Joined the union in November.

Q. Of 1937?

A. Yes.

Q. That's when you were out of work, not working for the Donnelly Garment Company?

p. 723 A. Yes. And I called down there and asked for work at that time. And I don't know who answered; I don't know whether it was Mrs. Guerrant, or whether it was the nurse who answered the phone. And she said, "Wait a minute"; and I waited, of course,—

Q. You don't know who you were talking to?

A. No, I don't.

Mr. Rucker: Q. Go ahead and finish the answer.

A. She said, "Wait a minute." and I waited. And then she came back and said, "You wait till we call you." And I am still waiting.

[fol. 5249] Q. (By Mr. Reed) Did you sign any application to join the union?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When?

A. In November.

Q. As a matter of fact, you didn't join the union until February 11, 1935, and that fact is shown on your card, isn't it?

A. I didn't do any active work in it until then.
Q. Well, did you join it?
A. I joined and filled out my application.

[fol. 5250] Direct Examination of Mrs. Reeves

By Mr. Reed: (Letter of March 9th, 1937, marked Exhibit 32, received in evidence)

Q. So far as you know, did either of the signers of this letter have any relationship with your employees or with your company?

Objection—immaterial

A. They did not. They were strangers.
Q. This statement—this letter rather contains the statement "15 members of our union"—that is the ILGWU—"were discharged by your firm because of their affiliations with our organization. Their case was up before the National Labor Relations Board". At that time or otherwise, did you learn who these 15 members that they claimed were discharged were?
A. At the hearing before the Labor Board, I heard who these 15 members were. Before that I knew through a letter we had received from the Labor Board.
Q. I ask you if you could name these parties from any knowledge which you received at the hearing or otherwise as to who these 15 girls were, their names if you can remember them? A. Yes.
Q. Was Lillian Rutherford one of them? A. Yes.

Q. Was Thelma Owens one of them? A. Yes.
Q. Was Glynn Brooks one of them? A. Yes.
Q. Was Tillie Shirley? A. Yes.
Q. Mamie Tubbesing? A. Yes.
Q. Ellen Fry? A. Yes.
Q. Was Magdalene Hammers? A. Yes.
Q. Was May Innis? A. Yes.
Q. Was Loretta Sisson? A. Yes.
Q. Was Ollie Thompson? A. Yes.
Q. Was Nora McKee? A. Yes.
Q. Was Lou Perkins? A. Yes.
Q. Was Margaret Howard? A. Yes.
Q. Was Kathleen Jenkins? A. Yes.
Q. Was Nora McQuiston?
A. Nora McQuiston was the one that I heard I think.
Q. Had those girls worked at the factory at one time? A. Yes.
Q. At the time you received this March 9th. letter. About December 6, 1934, there was a letter received from the Labor Board which you referred to a moment ago in your testimony which was stricken, naming these particular people as having been discharged?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, at that time were any of these people that I have just named working for the company?
A. Yes, eight of them.
Q. Now, let us get back—were any of these people ever discharged by the company because they belonged to a labor organization?

[fol. 5251] p. 112 Q. Who is it at the plant determines when the number of employees shall be increased or shall be decreased?
A. When these—
Q. In 1934 when this occurrence happened?
A. There was a committee of three who decided upon which number to be laid off; taking into consideration their qualifications.
Q. Who was that committee, do you remember, in 1934?
A. Mrs. Wherry, Mr. Athicison and myself.

Q. Was there more than one general lay off that year? A. There were two.

Q. In July, 1934, how many employees were let off? A. Approximately 115.

Q. In October, 1934 was there another lay off?

A. Yes.

Q. About how many?

A. Approximately 180.

p. 113 Q. When you laid off these employees, this 124, or 115 I think you said, and 180 you said—whatever number was laid off—those two lay offs, were they laid off solely because of lack of work?

p. 114 A. They were laid off entirely on account of lack of work.

Q. When the lay offs of this kind were made, how was it determined who should be laid off?

A. We would analyze the operators very carefully, the ones that were incapable of doing more than just one very small proportion of work, only one type operators, who couldn't change from one machine to another, least efficient operators were naturally the ones laid off first.

Q. You have spoken of the question of efficiency and ability to operate machines. Were there other things taken into consideration?

A. Yes, there are always things taken into consideration. We have kept people who have been physically disabled for years. We have kept people we knew their financial condition at home, that they were the sole support, we have tried to be just as humane and considerate of all of our employees, and take all those cases into consideration with the situation when we had to have a lay off of any kind.

[fol. 5252]

p. 115 Q. Do you or do you not also take into consideration the attitude and manner and abilities or disabilities of these employees?

A. We certainly do.

Q. When you let out this approximately 124 in July, I believe you said 115, when you let them out did you take into consideration anything except the lack of work and the other considerations you have just mentioned?

A. That was the only thing we could take into consideration.

Q. Now, was there a further diminution of work after the month of July and before the month
p. 116 of October so that you had to lay off additional people? A. Yes.

Q. Were the reasons for that reduction in the force the same as you have given with reference to the July lay off? A. Yes.

Q. Did you know at the time you let these employees out that any of them belonged to any labor union? A. I did not.

Q. Was that matter considered by your committee? A. No, we didn't know it.

p. 117 Q. Now, there was a hearing before the Labor Board which I believe—you remember receiving a letter from the Labor Board in which they made the charge that these people had been—this list of names, 16 or 17 had been discharged because they were members of the union and had not been hired back, or brought back when there was an increased employment. Do you remember that letter?

A. I remember receiving a letter like that.

Q. Before you received that letter, had you been calling back employees? A. Yes, sir.

Q. As a matter of fact had you called back any of these complaining girls?

A. There were eight of them that had been called back.

Q. Did you at that time know that they had ever been affiliated with any labor organization?

A. I did not.

Q. Were they called back just as part of the [fol. 5253] general calling back of employees in the ordinary way?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember about how many employees were called back at that time, former employees?

A. I believe around 80 I am not positive. I would have to refer to the records.

Q. Among that number that were called back, 8 of these girls it is claimed had joined the union after they had been let out?

A. Yes.

Q. There were 15 let out, and eight of them had been called back. Did the other 7 ever, to your knowledge, apply for work at the company? A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. You spoke about the statement that was made before the Labor Board by various of these employees, former employees. Was there one of them—did it come out at those hearings, one of them claimed to have been a member of the union before she was let out?

A. Yes.

Q. Who was that? A. Ellen Fry.

Q. She was the only one? A. Yes.

Q. Are some of those that were called back—that is I am referring to the eight, still working for the company? A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether or not other union people had been working for that company for years? A. I do.

Q. Was there any question raised or objection made to their union affiliations by the company? A. They were never asked.

Q. Was the fact that any of the 7 who were not called back due to the fact that they had joined any union or that you had any information that they had joined any union?

[fol. 5254] p. 120 A. That was not the reason they were not called back. The reason they were not called back was that [there] were not efficient operators. They were not three type operators.

Q. This letter states "150,000 workers employed in this industry are enjoying a five day, 35 hour working week and a $22.05 per week minimum wage scale for operators". What are the facts about that, if you know?

Do you know from your general knowledge of this business what the wages were that were paid in many factories for this class of work? And the hours of labor they were being worked?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Our competitors?
Q. Yes. Just answer yes or no.

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.
p. 122 Q. What are the facts with reference to the hours of labor and wages being paid by your competitors right here in Kansas City or elsewhere?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I obtained this knowledge also through what the other shops were paying, through applications of operators who came to us and applied for jobs, put it down in black and white, what the conditions were they were working under.
Q. What was the fact about these employees here in Kansas City, and these other factories working on five days a week, 35 hours?

Objection—immaterial.

A. They were working 40 hours a week.
Q. What do you know about $22.05 being a minimum wage scale for operators in these Kansas City plants?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Not according to their contracts, as I remember.
Q. What was it?

Objection—immaterial.

A. $13.50 was the minimum for most of them, with the exception of one.

Q. One contract?

Objection—immaterial.

A. One contract.

Q. Whose contract was that?

Objection—immaterial.

A. The Marlene Dress Company.

Q. What were the wages being paid in the Donnelly Company for finishers, pressers, cutters at the time this letter was written, March 9, 1937?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Our minimum wage was $15 per week; and our cutters were getting from forty to fifty for a first class cutter; and our finishers were averaging from $20 to $25 to $30 per week. Our operators were averaging as a minimum $15 per week. An efficient operator was making and did make from $25 to $50 a week; the less efficient operator made from $20 to $25 a week.

[fol. 5255] Q. Was $15 a guaranteed minimum, whether they made it or not?

p. 124 A. $15 was a guaranteed minimum—even a bundle boy that had worked two days, that was his guarantee.

Q. Statement is made in this letter "That the wage scale for finishers, pressers and cutters are at least thirty per cent lower than those that exist in the industry". What is the fact about that? A. That is not true.

Q. Statement is made that "the hours of work in your shop are 40 and more per week". What is the fact about that?

A. Our regular work week is 40 hours per week. During peak seasons, while we do work over time with the full consent of the operators, nobody is ever compelled to work if they do not care to. They do it voluntarily.

Q. They get paid for that?

A. They get time and a half for every hour they work overtime.

Q. Was that true in 1934?

A. I don't remember. They got over time I know. But I don't remember whether they got time and a half or not.

Q. Is it true that today they get time and a half for all the work above 40 hours a week?

p. 125 A. Yes, sir.

Q. In 1937 when this letter was received did your workers, when they worked more than 40 hours a week, receive time and a half pay?

A. Yes.

Q. Statement is made in this letter that "the conditions and wages under which your employees are working, not only deprive them of the privileges and opportunities enjoyed by the workers in this industry, but endangers their general work standards and wage scales". Was there any such condition as that in this plant?

A. No, there was not.

Q. The statement is made in this letter "Under your system of production the worker is compelled to invest extraordinary effort, but the reward that follows is very meager in proportion to the efforts invested". Is that true in this plant? Is there any system down there like a speed up system which forces operators to do a certain amount of work?

[fol. 5256] p. 126 A. There is not.

Q. Has there ever been?

A. That is not.

Q. Tell the Judge what is meant by line work, whether there are shops that have a system by which each operator must do the work that is pushed over to him by another operator, and keep up with the rest of them. Is that what you call line work?

A. That is what you call line work. Yes.

Q. Has any such system ever been used in the Donnelly Company? A. It has not.

Q. The statement is made in this letter "Your workers are denied the right of joining a labor organization". Was that true?

p. 127 A. No, it was not.

Q. And this statement follows: "Those who do, are immediately discharged". Was that true?

A. No it was not.

Q. Statement is made "The piece workers in your shop have no voice as to what the piece rates should be as they are set exclusively by representatives of your firm". I believe you went over that the other day and told us how they were fixed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The letter states "Your workers are denied the privilege of genuine collective bargaining". What is the fact about that? Was any worker of the Donnelly Company ever denied the right to collective bargaining? A. No.

Q. Did they ever come in and ask for it?

A. No.

Q. Have you had in the plant any trouble whatever with your employees over wages, hours or working conditions in the 17 years of your connection with the company?

A. Have not.

Q. Has it or has it not always been true that any employees who thought their scale of prices was too low could make that known to the company and would receive consideration?

[fol. 5257] p. 128 A. That is true.

Q. Would adjustments be made?

A. They would.

Q. Was anybody ever discharged because they came and made such a request?

A. There were none.

Q. State, Mrs. Reeves, all you know about the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union?

A. I don't know anything about it.
Q. Did you learn that such an organization existed?
A. I did, around—some time in May.
Q. Can you state now from knowledge you have since received when it was organized. I would like to fix a date.
A. I think April 27th. I am not positive of that date.
Q. Before this date of April 27th, which you
p. 129 have tentatively fixed, in 1937, what was the condition as to strikes in Kansas City in other garment companies?

Objection—immaterial

p. 130 A. I want to correct the statement I made. I believe that I said that prior to April 27th, we paid time and a half for all over time. During our peak seasons, when we did work overtime, we paid for overtime and sometimes we would pay time and a half. But it was optional. We didn't always stick to the one rule.
Q. When did you begin paying time and a half regularly? A. I think after April 27th.
Q. That is the date that the union made a contract? A. Yes, 1937.
Q. Whatever the date was the union contract was made, it was after that you began regularly paying time and a half for over time?
A. I believe May 27th when the first working agreement was made; June 22nd was when the wage and hour agreement was made.
Q. You said you knew of strikes occurring in these other garment factories in Kansas City? Did they continue from about March 15th to April 27th?

Objection—immaterial

A. Yes, sir.
Q. What companies were there strikes in?

Objection—immaterial

[fol. 5258] p. 1931 A. Gernes Garment Company, Missouri Garment Company, and the Gordon Garment Company.

Q. Where were those companies located?

Objection—immaterial

A. 26th and Walnut.

Q. How far is that from your place of business?

Objection—immaterial

A. About six blocks—six to eight.

Q. Did you go behind those buildings and see what was going on at different times?

Objection—immaterial

A. Yes, I did.

Q. What did you see?

Objection—immaterial

A. I saw milling in the streets, lots of excitement; pickets going back and forth in front of the building, and a lot of commotion.

p. 1932 Q. Did you see policemen there?

Objection—immaterial

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What were they doing?

A. Trying to help girls get into the building, in order that the girls might go to work.

Q. Were there accounts of these strikes in the newspapers?

Objection—immaterial

A. There were, and pictures.

Q. Did you observe the effect of these strikes and threats on your employees?

Objection—immaterial

A. Yes.

p. 133 Q. State what you observed?

Objection—immaterial

A. They were very nervous and upset, and they said they had heard threats that the union was going to come and try the same tactics on the Donnelly Company, as soon as they settled strikes with other plants; they asked what could be done about it to protect them from such violence.

p. 135 Q. Now, did you or as far as you know, any officer or executive or superintendent or foreman or any other superior have anything to do whatsoever with the organization of the plant union? A. They did not.

[fol. 5259] p. 148 Q. (By Senator Reed) I hand you a circular marked for identification Exhibit 36 and ask you to examine the circular and state when you first knew of that circular being distributed.

Objection—Offer of Exhibit 36 immaterial.

p. 149 A. In May and June, 1937.

Senator Reed: I offer in evidence Exhibit 36. For the information of the Court it contains a copy of the March 9th letter which I have already introduced in evidence.

The Court: The polite Letter?

Senator Reed: Yes, the polite letter. Now, I read the big type, or I read that part of the circular which was not contained in the March 9th letter. On the cover printed in large letters "We do not patronize the 'Nelly Don' Dress." On the next page it says:

(Senator Reed reads Exhibit 36).

p. 150 Q. (By Senator Reed) From the reports which have come in, from the facts which you have learned, how wide or general was the distribution of this Exhibit 36 throughout the country?

Objection—immaterial

A. A national distribution?

Q. Was it [send] in to you by numerous of your purchasers?

Objection—immaterial

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By purchasers, I mean your regular customers?

Objection—immaterial

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Taking up the part of this circular which is in addition to the letter of March 9th, I want to ask you some questions regarding the statements contained in that. Statement is made "The workers of the Donnelly Garment Company are compelled to work long hours while their wage scale is far below that which prevails everywhere else in the dress industry." I think you have covered that when you stated there were 40 hours per week in general, and you have also covered the wages. This statement, however, was it true or untrue?

Objection—immaterial

A. Untrue.

Q. I read from the circular "The speed-up system is such that most of the 1300 workers employed by this firm are in a state of exhaustion and fatigue." Is that statement true or untrue?

Objection—immaterial

A. Untrue. False.

p. 151 Q. What was the fact with reference to the condition of your workers down there with reference to their health?

Objection—immaterial

A. The health of our workers is far above the average; and as I said before, on health insurance, we got a return premium to the Donnelly Garment Company over $6,000.00, which

Mrs. Reed immediately redistributed to her employees.

Q. Has there ever been a speed-up system or anything like a speed-up system in that plant since you have been with it?

Objection—immaterial

[fol. 5260] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

A. There certainly has not.

Q. Is it a fact, if an employee who is working on piece work, for instance, simply produces what she feels able to produce or desires to produce, that as long as they work with decent regularity, that is all there is to it?

A. That is the fact, the case.

Q. Statement is made "many of them"—that is the employees "must have constant medical attention because of the nervous strain imposed upon them by this system. Numerous workers, suffer complete nervous breakdowns." Is that true?

A. That is not true.

Q. Has it ever been true?

A. No, it has never been true.

Q. Have you ever known of a single case where a person was overworked down there and broke down under it?

A. I have not.

p. 152 Q. How many people in that plant have been there over ten years?

A. 25% of the workers, today, that have been there over ten years; and 50% over five years.

Q. And some of them have been there how long?

A. Some of them have been there since the company started when Mrs. Reed started out originally before there was even a corporation.

Q. Now, Mrs. Reeves, has there ever been a spy system in that plant?

A. There has not.

Q. Have you ever in any manner undertaken to spy upon your employees?

A. We have not.

Q. Now, they say "The spy system is under the direct supervision of a notorious strike-breaking detective agency, through which every worker is spied upon." Is that true or not true?

A. That is absolutely not true.

Q. Then follows this statement "Those who dare to complain of conditions or join a labor organization, or express a favorable opinion of the union, are immediately discharged." Is that true?

[fol. 5261] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

A. That is not true.

Q. Was it ever true?

A. No, it was not.

Q. Has there been any expression among the employees, general expression, with reference to the untruth and the repudiation of the statements contained in this circular?

p. 153 A. There certainly has. They are very indignant, and their expression took the form of sending Mrs. Reed personally 750 letters to her, telling her just exactly what she meant to them as an individual, what the Donnelly Garment Company had meant to them, and denying these charges.

Q. Were those voluntary statements?

A. They were, yes. They were all personal letters sent to her.

Q. Were there also any affidavits made?

A. Yes, there were.

Q. Have you ever seen them?

A. Yes, I saw them.

Q. Were they delivered to the company.

A. Well, I don't know where they were delivered but I saw them when Mrs. Reed happened to have them.

Q. They were in her hands? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see them?

A. I saw them and read them, everyone of them.

Q. Were you acquainted with the persons who wrote them? A. Yes, sir.

Q. I hand you a bundle of papers which I will hereafter identify, a very large bundle. Look them over and see if those are the letters which you saw in Mrs. Reed's hands, and which were written by the various employees of the company voluntarily?

A. These are the letters.

[fol. 5262] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

p. 154 Senator Reed: I offer them in evidence.

The Court: How will you identify them, Senator?

(4 bundles containing approximately 175 to 200 letters is marked Plaintiffs' Exhibits 38, 39, 40 and 41 for identification.)

p. 158 (Whereupon, Plaintiffs' Exhibits 37 to 41 inclusive, as received in evidence are made a part hereof.)

p. 160 Q. By Senator Reed: Mrs. Reeves, I am referring to one of the newspaper articles where Mr. Perlstein announced the International would send out emissaries over the trade territory of these companies to contact your customers. Do you remember whether or not the threat was carried out? A. I did.

Q. And how extensively—how did you learn it?

A. I learned it through the letters and long distance telephone calls from our old customers and through our salesmen.

p. 161 Q. About how many reports have you had from customers who have been called upon, and who were complaining or alarmed about this crusade?

A. I would judge at least a couple of hundred.

Q. (By Senator Reed) Has that condition ever existed ever since—up to the time the restraining order was issued?

A. Did that condition exist? Yes.

p. 162 Q. And since the restraining order, has that condition existed also?

A. Yes.

Q. In what parts of the country particularly was this crusade carried on? What states?

A. It was carried on in Michigan, Louisiana, the New England States particularly, where there are—

Q. (Interrupting) How about the southern states?

A. The southern states. Texas and so forth.

Q. During the time this has gone on, has it damaged your business particularly with accounts? A. Yes.

p. 165 Q. Do you know of accounts that have been lost to the company on the alleged statement of the customer that it is because of these attacks that have been made?

[fol. 5263] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

A. Yes.

Q. Now, can you name a few of the accounts?

A. R. H. Stearns, Boston, Massachusetts; D. H. Holmes, in New Orleans are two. Some small accounts, I can't recall right now in Michigan that passed up our line.

Q. This account in Boston, how long had you had that? A. Over ten years.

Q. What was their annual purchase general?

A. Well, not less than twenty-five to thirty-five thousand dollars a year.

Q. How about the account in New Orleans? How long had you had that account there?

A. Approximately the same time.

Q. That is ten years or more?

A. I am not definite on that.

Q. In New Orleans anyway?

A. In New Orleans, yes.

Q. What was your annual sales for that company? A. Approximately the same.

Q. $25,000.00 per year? A. Approximately.
Q. And you say there were a number of smaller accounts you do not recall? A. Yes.
[fol. 5264] p. 193 Q. When did Mr. Baty become superintendent of the plant?
A. June, 1935.
Q. Prior to that time if there was any person to be discharged, except when you let out numbers of them, what was the method of investigating and finding out whether they should be dismissed and who did that?
A. We would check up on the record of the girl, and we would discuss it with the instructor to see if that girl were capable of doing any other type of work than the one she was doing at that particular time. We would try her in other sections to see if she could—give her other type of work to see if she were capable of doing a job in some other part of the factory. If it were impossible, we would discuss the matter with Mr. Atchison, Mrs. Wherry and myself and we would come to a decision.
Q. If there was anyone who complained they were not being treated fairly in a department, what was the custom with regard to sending them to some other department to see if they could get along there?
A. We would change them and try to give them a chance in every other department that we could.
p. 194 Q. Now since Baty came in, has he had charge of the matter of discharging any person where it is deemed necessary to discharge him?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did your company, to your knowledge, or any officer of the company, to your knowledge, or any superior of the company, to your knowledge make any contribution directly or indirectly to the plant union?
p. 195 A. They did not.

Q. Did any officer or executive of the company to your knowledge use any influence to cause the organization of the plant union?

A. They did not.

Q. Has the company contributed in any way to the support of the plant union given financial aid or other aid to your knowledge to the plant union?

A. They have not.

Q. Did Mr. Tyler represent your company in any way?

A. Not to my knowledge.

p. 230 Q. In 1937 did Mrs. Nichols fix the prices in the manner you have detailed?

A. Yes.

Q. She is still doing it?

[fol. 5265] A. Yes, along with extra help. I will say, Miss Todd checks all prices now, and her committee.

Q. After Mrs. Nichols?

A. I believe at the time they are made.

p. 769 Q. I will hand you a book now entitled "Folding Record" and ask you whether or not that is a production record of the Donnelly Garment Company and the dates which the entries record?

A. It is our folding record, December 3, 1936 to January 27, 1937.

Q. I see on the first one of these, it covers from November 15, 1935 to January 9, 1936, that is correct isn't it, Mrs. Reeves?

p. 770 A. Yes.

Q. And I think you testified upon yesterday that those books were not retained by the Donnelly Garment Company year by year?

A. I did not testify on this, Mr. Walsh.

Q. Have you any books of that kind? I thought you testified that you had none of that kind for 1935 excepting this one, of course?

A. I imagine they would not have, that is in another department than mine.

Q. Didn't you testify upon yesterday that the production record, when I asked you about them, were not kept for any length of time? I wish you would tell me just for what length of time they are kept?

A. I do not imagine for over two years at the most.

Q. Have you 1935?

A. No, I am sure we would not have.

Q. What became of the records for 1935?

A. They are burned up, aren't they?

Q. I don't know, I never was in the shop until the other day.

A. Pardon me; I believe they are destroyed.

Q. Did you have anything to do with destroying them?

A. No.

p. 771 Q. Who does the destroying of the records when you are through with them?

[fol. 5266] A. I think the janitors.

Q. When you were production manager who turned them over to the janitors for destruction?

A. We do it in a routine way.

Q. However you do it, who turns it over to them?

A. Well, the payroll girl who would turn it over to them and those books and anything that—

Q. (Interrupting) I am just speaking of these books. Who attend to the destroying of these books?

A. The payroll girl or the file girl, after a certain length of time.

Q. Can you tell us when you were production manager what that length of time was before your turned them over for destruction?

A. Oh, I don't think we ever kept them over two years.

Q. Have you any, to your knowledge, back of 1935? Was that a regular custom to destroy them to burn them?

A. Yes, we do not keep any records after that.

Q. You do not keep any records at all?

A. Not of that character.

Q. Have you a record into which this is copied,

p. 772 that is a permanent record showing the amount of your manufactured product and the income that you derived therefrom?

A. Well not in that detail. I really don't know what the accounting department keeps. I would not know.

Q. Was there any order made at any particular time for the destruction of your records?

A. Well, I imagine the department head knows it; for instance in my own particular job there are some particular records I don't bother keeping over six months.

Q. We will keep to these production records. When those production records were destroyed did you give the order to destroy them?

A. I have in the past.

Q. I mean when you were in the production department?

[fol. 5267] A. Yes.

Q. And to whom did you give that order?

A. Well, the payroll girl; it was just generally understood; I don't believe there was ever an order. It is just a question of an accumulation of a lot of papers and you cannot keep all that stuff.

p. 773 Q. When was any order given that you can recall now to destroy any production records, general or specific, prior to 1936?

A. I would have to answer you generally on that, I could not be specific about it.

Q. I will ask you whether or not you ever gave any order, generally or specific, to destroy production records such as the ones that have been produced here and marked for identification which you have examined?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you give that order?

A. Well, the first time I did it was when I was on the payroll myself.

Q. I am asking you when?

A. That was in 1922 and 1923.

Q. And what was your position then?

A. I was payroll clerk.

Q. You were what?
A. Payroll clerk.
Q. To whom did you give that order.
A. I just told the janitors to take them away and burn them.
Q. Have you ever given any orders since 1922?
A. Well, I have given a blanket order like the person who was on the payroll, I would say "Well, keep those things for a certain length of time and then destroy them".
Q. Tell me the next order you gave and tell me just what you said to the girl, in substance?
A. Well, I believe she came and said "How long shall we keep these" and I said "Oh, well, keep them about two years or about a year and a half" or whatever it happened to be.
Q. Do you remember the exact time you told the girl to keep them?
[fol. 5268] p. 774 A. No, I don't.
Q. Were your orders carried out all the time?
A. I don't know.
Q. Then you may have them for 1935 and 1934 down there?
A. Well, now, I didn't have anything to do with this in 1937 and 1936, 1936, 1937, and 1938, so I don't know.
Q. How about 1934?
A. Well, I don't know; I don't imagine we have anything left like that.
Q. I asked you about it to get it definite and you correct me if I am not correct, and you said they were not there and they have been destroyed, is that correct?
A. That is correct, I am positive.
Q. That is true?
A. Yes.
Q. Are the production records for 1934 still down there?
A. No.
Q. Are the records for 1933 still down there?

A. No. You are still talking about that folding book?

Q. I am talking about these folding records.

p. 775 A. That is right, yes.

Q. Are the records there for 1938?

A. No.

Q. What are your peak months, madam?

I think March and April, they are two peak months, and May; March, April and May.

Q. Give us your peak months, your peak seasons please?

A. Well, that varies. I would say that those are really our peak seasons. Sometimes it depends on the amount of orders we have and sometimes it happens that January is a peak month.

Q. How about September?

[fol. 5269] A. September generally is not.

Q. How about October?

A. No.

Q. So the only ones you call peak months are what?

A. Oh, August sometimes is a peak month and sometimes December, sometimes not very much, and sometimes January and most generally March, April and May.

Q. Do you have a peak month for the winter season, what you call the winter season?

A. That would be August.

Gentlemen:

The Kansas City members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union feel compelled to place before you the following grievances that should be adjusted immediately.

Fifteen members of our Union were discharged by your firm because of their affiliations with our organization. Their case was up before the National Labor Relations Board. During the period the hearings took place the NRA was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States and the Government could proceed no further. The discharged workers have not as yet been returned to work by your firm.

The Dress Industry, in which your firm is engaged, is highly unionized throughout the country. Every producer of dresses is in contractual relations with our Union. The 150,000 workers employed in this industry are enjoying a 5-day, 35-hour working week and a $22.05 per week minimum wage scale for operators and reasonable, fair minimum scales for finishers, pressers, cutters, et cetera. Piece workers, who compose the majority of workers in your shop as well as in the industry, are enjoying the right, through committees selected by them, of having an equal voice with the management in each shop in determining the piece rates for each garment or operation of a garment.

The workers in the industry enjoy the freedom and right of organization. Collective bargaining has been established as a permanent institution. These are the conditions and wage scales in the industry.

In your shop the minimum wage scale for operators is between $12.50 and $15.00 per week

The wage scales for finishers, pressers and cutters are at least 30% lower than those that exist in the industry,

The hours of work in your shop are 40 and more per week

Your workers are denied the right of joining a labor organisation, and those who do, are immediately discharged. Your workers are denied the privileges of genuine collective bargaining. The piece workers in your shop have no voice as to what the piece rates should be as they are set exclusively by representatives of your firm.

The conditions and wages under which your employees are working not only deprives them of the privileges and opportunities enjoyed by the workers in this industry, but endangers their general work standards and wage scales. Your firm has undue and unjustified advantages over your competitors. The Union believes in "Fair Competition", but it does not consider competition fair when it is gained solely at the expense of the workers.

Under your system of production the worker is compelled to invest extraordinary effort, but the reward that follows is very meager in proportion to the efforts invested. Under modern methods of production such treatment of workers is not only wrong from the humane point of view, but also destructive from the economical point of view. In comparison with other shops in the industry which produce the same type of garment the production in your shop is about 30% higher while the earnings of the workers are about 30% lower.

We, therefore, believe that a conference between our Union and your firm, for an adjustment of these grievances, should take place immediately. The Union has named a committee which stands ready to meet a similar committee named by your firm.

May we respectfully request that you advise us before the end of this week as to when and where it would be convenient for you to meet our Conference Committee.

Our aim is industrial peace. We believe in intelligent co-operation between employer and employee. Such cooperation is essential for the welfare of all factors in industry, including the consuming public and community at large. Peace and harmony prevails in the major part of the Dress Industry and we are eager to extend this cooperation to include your firm. Let us join hands to avoid industrial conflict.

Respectfully yours,

TO THE CONSUMING PUBLIC:

The Donnelly Garment Company of Kansas City, Missouri, producers of the "Nelly Don" dress, are on the unfair list of organized labor. Therefore, we appeal to the consuming public to HELP US BY NOT BUYING, AND BY NOT OFFERING FOR SALE "NELLY DON" DRESSES until we establish in the shop of the Donnelly Garment Company the rights and privileges, wage scales, and hours of work that prevail in every shop in the dress industry throughout the country.

The workers of the Donnelly Garment Company are compelled to work long hours while their wage scale is far below that which prevails everywhere else in the dress industry. The speed-up system is such that most of the 1300 workers employed by this firm are in a state of exhaustion and fatigue. Many of them must have constant medical attention because of the nervous strain imposed upon them by this system. Numerous workers suffer complete nervous breakdowns.

On the next page of this booklet we reproduce a copy of a letter which was sent to the Donnelly Garment Company. The firm has not replied to this letter, but has instead, organized a company union which has been named the "Donnelly Garment Worker's Union." The Company has also more firmly entrenched in their shop the Spy System which they established long ago. The Spy System is under the direct supervision of a notorious strike-breaking detective agency, through which every worker is spied upon. Those who dare to complain of conditions, or join a labor organization, or express a favorable opinion of a union, are immediately discharged.

We appeal to you to help us establish in this shop, conditions and wages that befit civilized human beings. WE APPEAL TO YOU NOT TO PURCHASE THE "NELLY DON" DRESS.

TO THE CONSUMING PUBLIC:

The Donnelly Garment Company of Kansas City, Missouri, producer of the "Nelly Don" dresses, does not employ members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the only national union whose members work in the manufacture of women's garments.

Since 1934 representatives of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union have attempted to induce the officials of the Donnelly Company to meet the representatives of the Union for the purpose of reaching an agreement which would be satisfactory and beneficial to both sides. The Donnelly Company has ignored our requests and refused to even give us a hearing.

In 1934 a number of the operators employed by the Donnelly Company joined the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and formed their own local. Many of these girls had been employed by the Donnelly Garment Company for years, but as soon as it became known that they were members of the Union fault was found with their work and they were let out on one trumped-up excuse or another.

In April, 1937, two of the Donnelly operators who announced their membership in the International Union were assaulted at the Donnelly plant and sent home by the officials of that company. They have never been able to secure employment there since.

In March, 1937, representatives of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union addressed a letter to the Donnelly Company, complaining, among other things, about the discharge of employes because of their membership in the International Union, and asking the company to appoint a committee to meet with a like committee representing the Union. The request was ignored and shortly thereafter what is known as the Donnelly Workers Company Union was organized. The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union has filed a complaint, now pending before the National Labor Relations Board, charging that the Donnelly Company was guilty of unfair labor practices in dominating the formation of the company union and all of its activities.

The Donnelly Garment Company claims to be a cotton shop. From its own production records it appears that the average price of all garments manufactured by that company is in excess of thirty-six dollars per dozen. We insist that under this showing the Donnelly Garment Company should be classified as a dress shop, that it should pay the same wage scale to its operators and that they should not be required to work more than thirty-five hours per week. Their failure to observe either the wage or hour scale amounts to unfair competition.

Because of the facts stated above we appeal to the buying public not to purchase "Nelly Don" dresses.

HELP US BY NOT PATRONIZING THE DONNELLY GARMENT COMPANY.

[fol. 5278] Extracts from Testimony of NELL QUINLAN REED Given in the "Judge Miller Case"
(Pages 2502 to 2510)

NELL QUINLAN REED.

p. 2502 Called as a witness on behalf of the Plaintiffs, having been duly sworn, in rebuttal, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Just state your name please?
A. Nell Quinlan Reed.
Q. Mrs. Reed, you have been ill during the greater part of this trial?

Objection—immaterial

A. Yes, I have.
Q. You had to undergo an operation before the trial began?

Objection—immaterial

A. I did February 24th, and my recuperation was delayed by an embollism.
Q. And you are still suffering from that operation?

Objection—immaterial

A. Some, yes.
p. 2503 Q. Mrs. Reed, there has been testimony offered in this case that on March 18th, 1937 you made a speech to the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes.
Q. In which you said there would not be any union in the Donnelly plant and that neither Dubinsky nor any other "sky" could come in and tell you how to run your business. Did you make such a statement?
p. 2504 Q. Did you make such a statement?
A. I did not make any such statement.
Q. Were you invited to that meeting by the employees?

Objection—immaterial

A. Yes.

[fol. 5279] p. 2504 Mr. Walsh: I object to that as entirely immaterial.

The Court: Sustained.

Mr. Walsh: I ask the answer be stricken out. The answer was so low I did not hear it at all so I ask it be stricken out.

The Court: Strike it out. I do not see that it is material who invited her there. She said she was there but she did not make that statement.

Q. Mrs. Reed, what, in substance, did you say with reference to the International Union or Dubinsky?

Objection and motion to strike—voluntary answer not responsive, immaterial.

p. 2505 A. At that time, it was about the time that the strikes were going on in Kansas City and there was so much violence—

Mr. Walsh: (interrupting) One minute. I object to that and ask it be stricken out as not being responsive.

The Court: Yes, that part of it.

The Witness: May I say, your Honor, that my employees were very much worried about the stories that were going around that the union people were coming on us and have the same kind of strike that they had—

Objection and motion to strike—voluntary answer not responsive, immaterial.

Q. What did you say, if anything, with reference to the International Union or Dubinsky?

p. 2506 A. I said that whatever they did about joining a union it was not my affair but that I would not be coerced into forcing them to join the Dubinsky Union and that I would do everything I possibly could to protect them if they attacked us and I said that we were going to have busses, we were trying to make arrangements with the Street Railway Company to bring our people to work in busses and that if anything happened we would call on the police to give them protection and further than that we would, if necessary our attorneys would go into court for protection but I did not say that they could not and should not join any union?

Q. Mrs. Reed did you or any of the executives of the Donnelly Garment Company to your knowledge have anything to do with the employment of Mr. Tyler or Mr. Gossett as attorneys for the Interveners?

A. I absolutely had nothing to do with his employment.

[fol. 5280] p. 2507—Q. Mrs. Reed, did you or any executive of the Donnelly Garment Company have anything to do with the organization of the Donnelly Garment Company Union?

Mr. Walsh: Object to that as argument and being not proper rebuttal.

The Court: Overruled.

A. No.

Q. Have you in any manner undertaken to control the activities of the Donnelly Garment Company Union?

A. I have not.

Q. Have you ever contributed financially to the Donnelly Garment Company Union?

A. No, I have not.

p. 2508 Q. Will you explain, Mrs. Reed, just what occurred prior to the first contract that was entered into between the Donnelly Garment Company and the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union as to negotiations?

p. 2509 A. Well, our attorneys discussed the contract, the making of the contract with the attorney of the union and we had several meetings discussing what would go into the contract and eventually we had a contract that suited both parties. Mr. Tyler insisted upon the minimum of $16.50 and I had been paying a minimum of $15.00. I think that $16.50 for an absolute minimum for beginners and bundle boys and so forth is a little high but that
p. 2510 was the last thing we had to finish up on and so I thought there were not very many getting any lower than that anyhow so I finally agreed to that and we signed the contract.

[fol. 5281] Deposition of WAVE TOBIN, pp. 326-352.

By Mr. Hogsett:

Q. Please state your name, residence and occupation.

A. My name is Wave Tobin; I am 42 years old; I am living at the Aladdin Hotel. I am manager of the Kansas City Joint Board of the International Ladies Garment Workers.

Q. Now, what is the date of your first connection with the International Ladies Garment Workers Union? A. July, 1933.

Q. By whom were you then employed for the Union and in what capacity?

A. I was employed by the St. Louis Joint Board and I worked in the office as a financial secretary.

Q. By what person were you employed?

A. Mr. Ben Gilbert.

Q. What was his position?

A. He was manager of the St. Louis Joint Board.

Q. How long did you continue in that particular position?

A. Until the fall of 1934.

Q. Do you remember the month?

A. No, I don't. I think it was about October, but I am not positive.

Q. Then what change was made in your position?
A. I started working for the Regional Director of this territory.
Q. And by that Regional Director you mean whom? A. Mr. Meyer Perlstein.
Q. And what was his position as Regional Director; what did that mean?
A. It means that he supervises the offices in this territory.
Q. For whom?
A. For the International Ladies Garment Workers.
Q. He is a direct representative of the International Parent Union?
A. I couldn't say how he is classed.
Q. Well, what is your understanding from your years of employment, as to his position?
A. Well my understanding was—

Mr. Frank P. Walsh: That is a conclusion, but we don't care. Yes, let us admit he is a direct representative.

Mr. Hogsett: I understood that was a fact and [fol. 5282] that you would not deny that.

Mr. Frank P. Walsh: Yes, that is what I understand.

Q. When you became manager of the Kansas City Joint Board and up to the present time, by whom has your salary been paid?
A. By the International Office.
Q. Tell the exact manner in which you have received your checks; I suppose they are checks are they? A. Yes.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. Just describe the manner in which your pay checks arrive.
A. They are mailed personally to me.
Q. From New York?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.

Q. Are the checks drawn on a New York bank?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.

Q. In which bank the International has its account? A. Yes.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. And the checks which you receive while manager of the Kansas City Joint Board are checks drawn by the International on its bank account and signed by an officer of the International? A. Yes.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. In point of fact, who most frequently signs your pay checks during your service as Manager of the Kansas City Joint Board?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I think they are signed more often by Frederick Umhey, the General Head.

Q. What person for the International do you have contact with?

A. Mr. Perlstein, Regional Director.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. In what form is your contact had with Mr. Perlstein, and has it been had during the year and a half you have been manager of the Kansas City Joint Board?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Usually by telephone.

Q. Long distance telephone?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.

Q. Or local telephone if you are in the same town?

A. Yes.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. How long has Mr. Dubinsky been the president of the International Union?
A. Well, I am not positive that I could answer that correctly.
Q. Roughly, how long have you known he was President?
A. Since I have come into the organization, in 1933.

[fol. 5283] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. He at all times since then has been President?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know the residence of these various officers and members of the Executive Committee of the Union? A. No, I don't.
Q. Do you know some of them?
A. Well, I have records of them in the office, but I wouldn't remember them.
Q. Does your memory carry the information?
A. No.
Q. Where does Mr. Dubinsky live?
A. I know he lives in New York City.
Q. Where does Mr. Antonini, Vice President, live?
A. That would be a guess. I presume in New York.
Q. And Mr. Umhey lives where?
A. That would also be a guess. I presume in New York.
Q. Where does Mr. Katovsky live?
A. Mr. Katovsky is the Manager of the Cleveland Joint Board, I believe.
Q. Probably lives in Cleveland you mean?
A. Yes.
Q. Mr. Biotis, where does he live?
A. He is manager of the Chicago Joint Board.
Q. Presumably lives there? A. Yes.
Q. Miss Rose Pesotta, what is her residence?
A. I don't know where she lives.
Q. Mr. Israel Feinberg?

A. He is the Vice President on the West Coast, lives somewhere in California.
Q. Mr. Salvatore Ninfo?
A. I don't know where he lives.
Q. Mr. Elias Resiberg?
A. I don't know his residence.
Q. Mr. Philip Kramer?
A. Mr. Phillip Kramer is the Manager of the Boston Joint Board; I presume he lives in Boston.
Q. Mr. George Rubin?
A. I don't know where Mr. Rubin lives.
Q. Mr. Isidore Nagler?
A. He is the President of the Cloak Joint Board in New York; I presume he lives in New York.
Q. Mr. Joseph Breslaw?
A. He is President of the Dress Joint Board in New York.
Q. Mr. Julius Hockman?
A. That was a mistake. Mr. Hochman is President of the Dress Joint Board. I don't know where Mr. Breslaw lives.
Q. Mr. Bisilio Disti?
A. I don't know Mr. Disti.
Q. Mr. Louis Levy?
A. I don't know his residence.
Q. Mr. Charles Kreindler?
A. I don't know his residence.
Q. Mr. Harry Wander? A. I don't know.
Q. Mr. Max Cohen?
A. I don't know Mr. Cohen's residence.
Q. Mr. Sam Perlmutter?
A. I don't know Mr. Perlmutter.
Q. Mr. Jacob J. Heller?
A. I don't know.
Q. Mr. Charles S. Zimmerman?
A. Mr. Zimmerman is manager of Local 22 in New York, so I presume he lives in New York.
Q. Mr. Meyer Perlstein?
A. Mr. Meyer Perlstein's residence is in New York.
Q. His occupation is Regional Director, but I think once you said Southwest Regional Director. Am I correct about that?

A. We call this territory the Southwest Region.

Q. I may have gathered that somewhere else. I didn't know whether you said that or not. In fact, he is the Southwest Regional Director?

A. They call this territory the Southwest.

[fol. 5284] Q. Now, Mr. Max D. Danish?

A. Mr. Danish is Editor of our paper, "Justice", so I presume he lives in New York.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. How many offices has the International Union, parent union, over the country?

A. I couldn't answer that.

Q. How many have you visited?

A. I have visited the St. Louis, Minneapolis, Alton, Illinois, Kansas City, Dallas, San Antonio, the New York office, of course, Chicago office; I think that is all.

Q. Who prepared the copy for these two advertisements?

A. I don't know.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. Where did you get it to deliver it to the papers? A. It was mailed to me.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. From where?

A. From the New York office.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. So that out of the New York head office of the International Union came advertising copy to be published in the Kansas City papers reciting that the Kansas City office of the International Union was at 1022 Baltimore? Please answer that with "yes" or "no" if you can. A. I have answered it.

Objection—immaterial.

Mr. Frank Walsh: Answer it again. Mr. Hogsett wants you to answer it.

Q. Is that true or not?

Mr. Walsh: Let an admission be made on the record that it is true. I suppose it is. The lady says so, and it appears on there.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. You admit that, don't you?
A. I will admit that.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. Who paid for this advertising?

Objection—immaterial.

A. New York office.
Q. Just describe how, by check I suppose?
A. By check.

Objection—immaterial.

[fol. 5285] Q. Who is the person in charge of that office, the one having most authority in that office? I take it it is you?
A. Myself as manager.
Q. How long have you been the person in charge of the office at 1022 Baltimore Avenue?
A. Since April, 1936.
Q. Ever since you became Manager you have been the person in authority and in charge of that office? A. That is right.
Q. Now, there is some reference in the petition here in the bill in equity to some employees who were sent out by the International over the trade territory of the plaintiff, Donnelly Garment Company, and I think their names are given in the bill, Jane Palmer and other people that you perhaps remember. Now, in what office or out of what office do those six young women work or have they been working? Objection—immaterial
A. They worked—three of them worked out—wait a minute; let me see. Jane Palmer worked for the Kansas City Joint Board. The other two girls were workers in the shop, and one girl was from Houston, Texas.

Q. I think there were six referred to. Were there in fact six? A. I only know of four.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Now, when were those four or six, as the case may be, persons employed to do this work of traveling over the trade territory and contacting the Donnelly customers; do you remember the date? Objection—immaterial.

A. I don't remember the date; it was the early part of this summer but I don't remember the date.

Q. Could you give the month? A. I don't know whether it was May or June. Objection —immaterial

Q. Of 1937, is that your recollection? A. Yes.

Mr. Frank Walsh: What? Objection—immaterial.

A. I don't remember the date that these girls started to work.

Q. By whom were these persons employed and instructed as to their duties? A. They were employed by Mr. Perlstein, the Southwest Regional Director.

Objection—immaterial

[fol. 5286] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. Now, will you please name the four traveling representatives who did this work of contacting the Donnelly customers?

A. Jane Palmer, Esther Smith, Mary Jane Miller. The other girl's name, I don't think just now.

Q. Are you now an organizer for the International Ladies Garment Workers Union?

A. I am not.

Q. Have you been an organizer for the International during the past year? A. I have not.

Q. When was the last time that you were an organizer for the International Union?

A. Prior to April, 1936.

Q. Have you seen the report of the General Executive Board for 1937 convention?

A. I have.

Q. Now, don't you know that on Page 236 of that report appears this sentence: "Our organizing staff, Mr. Meyer Perlstein, Ben Gilbert, Frank Rother, Doris Prisler, Artie Price, Wave Tobin, Marie Lebson, Jack Spry, Jane Walker Palmer, Ellen Fry, Abraham Berkowitz"—don't you know that, that you are listed in a report by the General Executive Board of the International Union as a part of the organizing staff in Missouri?

A. I did not know that.

Q. All right, now, do you recall whether you remember the page or not—I will give you the page so you can find it later—that on page 91 of that report this appears: "Ably assisting Brother Perlstein in Kansas City is Sister Wave Tobin, former Secretary of St. Louis Joint Board, who has been practically in charge of the organization". Do you remember that?

A. I don't remember the exact wording. I know there was something.

Q. How can you explain that the General Executive Board reports Sister Wave Tobin as practically in charge of organization, when, as you have just testified, you weren't an organizer and hadn't been an organizer for the International Union for a year and a half? Now, can you explain that?

A. Yes, I can explain it.

[fol. 5287] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. I wish you would do so, please. A. The Kansas City Joint Board and the locals of Kansas City are a part—are members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, and part of my duties here as manager of the Union is to organize non-union shops.

Q. Now, how frequently is Mr. Perlstein in the Kansas City office at 1022 Baltimore?

A. Well, his visits here are irregular. Sometimes he will come every two weeks; sometimes it is a month.

Q. Where does he spend his time when in Kansas City, I mean with respect to an office?

A. Well, he stops at the Muehlbach Hotel. He comes in and out of the office.

Q. Does he have a desk there? A. No.

Q. What desk does he use when he is visiting the Kansas City office?

A. He might use any one of them.

Q. He dictates letters from there?

A. At times.

Q. Doesn't the International transact any business from any other office than 1022 Baltimore Avenue? A. No, not that I know of.

Q. Now, I show you a clipping from the Kansas City Journal-Post of March 6, 1937, purporting to report a speech by Mr. Dubinsky at the Municipal Theatre. Will you kindly glance that over just to bring the facts back to your mind. (Witness complies). Do you recall the matters referred to in that item?

A. I recall the meeting and President Dubinsky's speech, yes.

Q. Were you there? A. Yes.

Q. Did he say the things that are reported, attributed to him in this article? Did he say them in substance?

A. In substance, yes.

[fol. 5288] Q. Did you arrange for the reporter to be present at that meeting?

A. We invited them.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Now, when you say "we", do you mean that you did?

A. Yes, as a manager of the Joint Board we arranged the meeting and notified the papers.

Objection—immaterial

Q. And did you yourself do the telephoning to the reporters?

A. I imagine that I did. I usually did.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Now, at whose request or suggestion did you have the reporters present at the meeting?

A. The Kansas City Joint Board, we arranged the meeting.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Did President Dubinsky ask—did you notify the press to be present? A. No.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Did pelstein ask that? A. No, because they took it for granted that the office here would do that.

Objection—immaterial

Q. You were supposed to know that without being told by them?

A. That is right.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Now, I show you the letter which appears to bear your signature, written to the Donnelly Garment Company, of March 9, 1937. Mr. Perlstein and you signed that, I believe. Do you remember the letter, Mrs. Tobin?

A. Yes.

Q. Who dictated the letter? A. Mr. Perlstein.

Q. And where did he dictate it and have it typed?

A. I think that was dictated in the Kansas City office. I know I was present when we talked it over, and I believe that it was in the office.

[fol. 5289] Q. Who suggested the writing of the letter?

A. Well, I don't think it was a suggestion. It was just a part of the plans that had been laid out for the organization of the Donnelly Workers.

Q. And Perlstein dictated the letter and you signed it?

A. I said I was present and that we talked it over, that he did the actual dictating, but that we were both there.

Q. Exactly. A. We talked over the contents of the letter.

Q. It was his dictation? A. Yes.

Q. And you signed it? A. That is right.

Q. And then he wrote on it, "Approved by Meyer Perlstein", is that right?

A. When I say that it was his dictation, I mean that he dictated the letter, but it was not—the letter was discussed, what was put in it was discussed between the two of us and he did the actual dictating.

Q. And then you signed it as the nominal signer and writer of the letter, and he endorsed on it, "Approved by" him. You see it, don't you?

A. I see it.

Q. Now, since he was the man that actually did the dictating, why did he merely appear—ostensibly appear as merely approving it? Why didn't he sign it?

A. The letter was gotten up by both of us. The letter was discussed by both of us. He dictates better than I do; possibly that is why he dictated the letter.

Q. Now, you gave copies of the letter to the newspapers to be published as a news item that same day, did you?

A. I believe that we did, yes.

Objection—immaterial

Q. And at what hour did you type the letter and sign it? A. Oh, I couldn't remember that.

Objection—immaterial

[fol. 5290] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. All right, within how many minutes did you have copies in the hands of the Kansas City Journal-Post and the Kansas City Star or Times? A. I don't remember that.

Q. Well, if was the same day; you know that, don't you?

A. I don't even remember that. It might have been the same day. It might have been the next day. I don't remember.

Q. Well, you sought to give publicity to the letter immediately, didn't you?

A. Not exactly to the letter, to our efforts to organize the Donnelly Workers, yes.

Q. You sought to give publicity to the letter by giving copies and seeking to get the papers to run them as news items, didn't you?

A. It was just a part of the publicity that we wanted.

Q. Did you or did you not seek to get these papers to publish that letter as an advertisement on the day it was written or the day after?

A. I don't remember.

Q. May you have done that?

A. I know that we did try and were successful in getting a 'vertising in the papers.

Q. Later on, yes, but didn't you on that day or the next day try to get it run as an ad?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You hadn't even given the Donnelly Garment Company time to answer the letter when you were endeavoring to get this publicity, had you? A. I don't remember.

Q. You have once or twice said that this letter was a part of a plan and that the obtaining of publicity was a part of a plan. When did that plan to organize the Donnelly Garment Company workers begin?

A. That I couldn't say.

Q. How long before March 9th, the date of the letter?

A. Well, I would say years before.

[fol. 5291] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. How many years before?

A. Well, since the organization of the dressmakers started in this part of the country and that was in 1933.

Q. The second paragraph of the letter of March 9th speaks of the dress distributing as highly unionized throughout the country, every producer of dresses is in contractual relations with your Union and that the 150,000 workers employed in the industry are enjoying a five day, 35 hour working week and a $22.05 per week minimum wage scale for operators, and reasonable, fair minimum scales for finishers, cutters, etc. What knowledge do you have with respect to those alleged facts?

A. Well I am familiar with the agreements in the silk dress shops in St. Louis. I know that that is the scales that are paid. I am familiar with the agreements in Minneapolis, Minnesota, in the silk dress shops. I know that is what they are paid.

Q. These figures or these alleged facts stated in this letter then apply only to the silk dress shops? A. That is right.

Q. Do you know of any shop in Kansas City where these wages and terms of employment applied at the time you wrote this letter?

A. There is only two small silk dress shops in Kansas City, or was at that time, and they employed very few people and one shop makes a very cheap dress; the other shop we have an agreement with, and those wages apply in that shop.

Q. What is the name of that?

A. Marlene Dress Company.

Q. Any other shop in Kansas City where these terms, wages and conditions described here in this paragraph (indicating) apply?

A. That is the only silk dress shop in Kansas City.

Q. Do you know what proportion of the Donnelly Garment Company is silk dress and what proportion is some other kind of dress?

A. I don't know the exact proportion, no.

Q. Do you know it roughly? A. No.

Q. What is the scale on cotton goods, the Union scale? A. $13.00.

[fol. 5292] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. Minimum? A. Yes.

Q. How many hours a week? A. Forty.

Q. And how many days in a week?

A. Five days.

Q. What is the Union scale on wool garments?

A. Wool dresses is the same as silk.

Q. Now, you say in this letter further down that in your shop (the Donnelly shop) the minimum wage scale of operators is between $12.50 and $15.00 per week; the wage scales for finishers, pressers and cutters are at least 30% lower than exist in the industry; the hours of work in your shop are 40 and more per week. What knowledge, if any, do you have as to those alleged facts?

A. What the girls that worked in the shop—that work in the shop, tell us.

Q. When did they tell you and who ever told you that?

A. Well, they told me at various times.

Q. Now, I show you a pamphlet on the face of which is written, "We do not patronize the Nellie Don Dress". On the third page, third and fourth pages, the so called "demand letter" of March 9th—

And on the second page is, "Notice to the Consuming Public". Will you kindly glance at that, Mrs. Tobin? Do you remember the pamphlet? (Witness complies.)

A. Yes, I remember the pamphlet.

Q. Who composed the pamphlet, who got it up?

A. It was by Mr. Perlstein and myself.

Q. Where? A. I think that it was in the Kansas City office.

Q. When? A. I don't remember the date.

Q. How many copies were made?

A. I don't remember that.

Q. What was the manner of distribution?

A. They were mailed and given out by the girls that—

Q. That what? A. That went out on the road.

[fol. 5293] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. Your Union has made contracts, you say, with other garment companies here. Will you give the wage scale and hours of employment, the days of employment per week and any other relevant facts dealing with wages, terms and conditions of employment prescribed in those contracts? I mean by that contracts made by your Union with other garment manufacturers in Kansas City or in this territory, within the last year.

A. We have contracts with cloak manufacturers, cotton dress manufacturers and one firm that makes part cotton and part silk, and with three underwear factories, so different wage scales apply to different shops.

Q. Will you give those as best you can?

A. Well, that is asking me to remember a whole lot.

Q. Well, of course, I can't ask the impossible, Mrs. Tobin, but if you do remember, give me your best recollection.

A. I know the wage scale in the cotton shop is the same as it was set up under the NRA, which is $13.00 a week and 40 hour week. In the cloak shops the minimums are 62¢ an hour and the hours are 35. $13.00 is also the minimum in the cotton shops.

Q. How do you classify the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. As a part cotton and part silk shop.

Q. Do you have these contracts at your office, copies of them? A. Yes.

Q. Will you produce them at the hearing tomorrow and at the hearing on the 15th.

Mr. Frank Walsh: I will produce them. You don't have to ask her about them.

Q. Now, Mrs. Tobin, you have referred to the publication of "Justice". I have here issues of March 1, 1937, March 15, 1937, April 1, 1937, May 1, 1937, June 1, 1937, June 15, 1937, and July 1, 1937. Do you identify all of those as copies of the publication as the official organ of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union? A. Yes.

Q. Now, how wide a circulation does that publication have?

A. It is mailed to each member and it is—

[fol. 5294] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. (Interrupting) That would be 230,000, I think you said a while ago?

A. Approximately. That may not be the exact figures.

Q. Now, there is a regular department there appearing in almost every issue, if not every issue, devoted to the Southwest, activities of the southwest region? A. Yes.

Q. Is that right? A. Yes.

Q. [What] is edited by Mr. Perlstein usually?

A. Yes, sir. It is in the form of a letter from Mr. Perlstein.

Q. For the past year, who has been in charge of attempting to organize the Donnelly Garment Workers in your Union?

A. Kansas City Joint Board, with the aid and assistance of the Regional Director.

Q. Mr. Perlstein. Who had charge of similar activities with respect to the Gernes Garment Company, Gordon Company and the Missouri Garment Company?

A. Kansas City Joint Board.

Q. And Mr. Perlstein?

A. Mr. Perlstein advised them in organization work here in Kansas City.

Q. Now, were the methods used in the attempt to organize and in the organization of the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri companies, the normal, routine, activities used in organization work? A. Yes.

Q. Were those methods the methods that you plan to use in your efforts to organize the Donnelly workers?

A. I don't think I understand what you mean by "methods".

Q. Well, whatever you did in the organization work. I am not familiar with that and you are.

A. Calling on the girls at their homes.

[fol. 5295] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. Well, everything that you did in the attempt to organize and in the organization of the Gernes, the Gordon and the Missouri plants, is it your plan and intention to use the same methods in the attempt to unionize the Donnelly plant?

A. We called on the girls in their homes; we went to the plants and talked to them; we held meetings with them at the office. All those things we intended to do in the organization of the Donnelly plant, yes.

Q. In general, without going into the detail, in general do you plan and did you plan to use the same methods of organization in the attempt to unionize the Donnelly plant as were used and followed in the attempt to organize and in the unionization of the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri plants?

A. The plan of calling on the girls, of meeting them at their place of work, and talking to them, of holding meetings with them is the plan that we used in organizing Missouri, Gernes and Gordon's and we intended to use the same plan in organizing Donnelly workers.

Q. If there are any differences in the plan of campaign used in the unionization of the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri plants and the plan of campaign which you intended and still intend to follow in the attempt to unionize the Donnelly plant, please state what the differences are.

A. Well, in the Donnelly campaign they intended to use more publicity.

Q. That is one difference? A. They wanted to get the message to the people that buy the dresses.

Q. That is one difference. Are there any other differences?

A. None that I know of.

Q. Who had charge of the strike activities in connection with the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri strikes?

A. I had charge of the picket lines.

Q. And what is meant by the picket line?

A. They are the girls that walk up and down in front of the place with banners and girls out in front of the place trying to talk to the girls who want to go in and work.

[fol. 5296] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. Did you have charge of the picket line at each of these strikes, the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri?

A. The Gernes, Gordon and Missouri was one strike.

Q. Well, the different plants? A. Yes.

Q. I am using it in the sense of three different plants. A. Yes.

Q. You had charge of the picket line at each of those three plants? A. Yes.

Q. How many pickets did you have at each plant?

A. They varied. I don't know.

Q. Was there any violence? A. Yes, there was some.

Q. If the Donnelly Garment Company tomorrow were organized and taken over lock, stock and barrel by your Union, what dues would each worker pay? A. The dues of the workers are determined by the workers themselves.

Q. On the average what do they run? A. In Kansas City on the average they run thirty five cents a week.

Q. Thirty five cents a week dues, so each worker would pay $18.20 a year dues, is that right?

A. Is that how much that is? That is right.

Q. And if there are 1300 workers $24,660 a year, wouldn't it, isn't that right? A. Just what do you mean these figures are?

Q. That would be the amount of dues that you would get if the Donnelly plant went over lock, stock and barrel to your organization?

A. Well, I wouldn't know that, because I am not sure there is 1300 workers there.

[fol. 5297] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. I am assuming. A. And I wouldn't be sure what the dues would be. I say the dues in Kansas City are thirty five cents.

Q. Dues are just part of it, aren't they? Aren't there fines and assessments? A. There may be fines, there may be assessments, but—

Q. (Interrupting) How much per member on the average is received from each member in Kansas City who joins your Union, aside from dues, in the way of fines, assessments and whatever it is that they pay each year?

A. The amount is so very small.

Q. Well, about how much? A. And fines are the exception, certainly not the rule. I don't know.

Q. How much? A. I would say 99 out of 100 members do not pay anything.

Q. What about assessments? A. We have two International assessments.

Q. Within the year you paid an assessment for the Loyalists in Spain, didn't you? A. Oh, no.

Q. Do you deny that? A. I deny we paid an assessment.

Q. What was it? A. It was a voluntary contribution. There is a difference between assessment—

Q. (Interrupting) That was for the so called Loyalists in Spain. How much? A. It was the Spanish Red Cross.

Q. How much did that run? A. In other cities I think you have the figures there; in Kansas City there was none. There was nothing collected from the Kansas City members.

Q. All right. Now, that assessment was how much did you say?

A. I said it was not an assessment.

[fol. 5298] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. What are those assessments, how much per member per year?

A. One of them is one dollar a year and it is a death benefit assessment.

Q. What is the other one? A. And the other is one dollar a year and it is for making contributions to other labor organizations in the work of the labor movement as a whole.

Q. Is any publicity given to the salaries of the officers of the International Union? Do you know what they get? A. No, I don't.

[fol. 5299] p. 407 EFFIE BALL, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

[Mr.] Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Please state your name? A. Effie Ball.
Q. Where are you employed, Miss Ball?
A. The Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. A year, last January.
Q. In 1937 where did you work?
A. At the Missouri Garment Company.
Q. What was your position with that company?
A. Designer.
Q. Do you recall, during the months of March and April, 1937 that there was a strike at the Missouri Garment Company?

Objection is made to all questions and answers following by Mr. Ingraham from pages 407 to 412 inclusive of the Judge Miller record for the reason that said questions and answers are immaterial.

A. Yes, I do.
Q. At the time the strike was called, do you know how many employees of the Missouri Garment Company belonged to the International Ladies Garment Workers Union?
A. I don't know exactly, very few. I would say two or three.
Q. Up to the time of the strike was everything peaceful? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Could the employees go to and from work without any difficulty? A. Yes, sir.

p. 408 Q. Now, will you just tell the court what occurred after the strike was called?

A. The first morning that we came down, there was a crowd in front of the building, we were unable to get in at the front entrance at all. The picketers were out in front. Several who tried to get in then had their clothing torn and did not get in. We went around to the back from there, stayed across the street in a cafe for a while until the trouble was over a bit, and then got in, and after that we always went to the back entrance. For a while, the [fol. 5300] policemen formed a line on each side of a single door, which was the back entrance. We would try to come from our cars through that line and get in the entrance, but that being so narrow couldn't very many of us get in at a time, so they used the freight elevator, used the same system with police on each side. They would reach over the heads of the policemen, striking us with their purses, pulling our hair, kicking between the policemen's legs and kicking us.

Q. State whether or not at times the union people would break through the police lines?

A. Yes, they would quite often. Then they would just—several of them or one person—would beat them, tear their hair, tear their clothing. I had the collar torn off my coat.

Q. Did you yourself at any time begin or start fighting with these union people?

p. 409 A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you ever see any employees that were trying to get into work or trying to get out to their cars commence the fight with the union people? A. No, I did not?

Q. You did not?

A. No sir.

Q. State whether or not the union workers used profane and vile language towards the employees?

A. They did. Very poor language.

Q. Did you at any time see any police officers knocked down on the ground?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Who knocked them down?
A. I wouldn't say exactly which side it was, but it was in the scuffle they were knocked down.
Q. Did the people that were working there attack the policemen at any time?
[fol. 5301] A. No.
Q. Did the union people attack the police officers?
A. They would try and pull them away so that they could get to us.
Q. Did you see Wave Tobin at the strike?
A. I did.
Q. Is Wave Tobin in the court room?
A. Yes, she is.
Q. What did Wave Tobin appear to be doing at the strike?
A. Most of the time she stayed across the street, or out close to the curb. Often she would call a group of girls over and talk to them, and they would come back and resume their fight with us.
Q. Where was your office in connection with the rear entrance to the building?
A. Where I worked was directly above the rear entrance. I had two windows in my room, and they were directly above the back entrance of the building.
Q. Did you at times look out the window during the progress of the strike?
A. As soon as we got inside we went to the window to watch the others get in.
Q. Did the union workers shout at you employees in the windows? A. Yes, they did.
Q. Did these union workers at any time make any statements regarding the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. We were told several times this was merely small. As soon as they finished with the smaller factories, they were going down to Donnelly's.
Q. When did you learn the strike was over?

[fol. 5302] A. One morning we came down, there was no picket line. After we got inside, our employer called us together and told us he had signed.

Q. What effect did that have on the employees?

A. Most everyone was very angry.

Q. Did the employer make any statements about
p. 411 the employees being required to join the union?

A. All of the help, except I believe was the office help, and the designers were forced to join the union.

Q. And the employees as you stated resented that? A. Yes they did.

Q. Did you at any time see Wave Tobin strike at employees. A. I did.

Q. Just describe her?

A. One evening, as we were coming out, we came out through the freight elevator, usually about four abreast, and my friends and I happened to be on the outside; as we passed her, she reached out and struck my friend.

Q. You stated you now work at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you tell the Court how the wages and working conditions in The Donnelly Garment Company compare with the wages and working conditions at the Missouri Company?

A. The wages and working conditions and general atmosphere are far above any other place I have worked.

Q. After you employees signed up in the union, did you remain in the employ of the company for several months?

A. I did. I left in June.

Q. Was there any change in wages or working conditions after your employer signed up
p. 412 with the union? A. No, sir.

Mr. Ingraham: That is all

Mr. Walh: That is all

[fol. 5303] Cross-Examination.

p. 412 By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Miss Ball, you say your employer, at your plant where you worked before going to Donnelly's, said one morning when the picket line had been called off that he had signed up with the union. Had he ever said anything before as to whether he would sign up with the Union?

Objection—immaterial.

A. No, sir.

Q. He hadn't said anything about that at all?

Objection—immaterial.

A. No, sir.

Q. When did you go to work at the Donnelly Company?

A. A year ago last January.

Q. You were not present at the plant when the Donnelly Garment Workers' Union was organized? A. No, sir.

Q. Are you a member of that union?

A. I am.

Q. Did you join of your own free will?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I did.

Q. You know of anyone in that plant who to your knowledge, ever complained that he or she was forced or any pressure was applied on that person to join that union?

p. 413 A. I have never heard of it.

Q. You have never heard of such an incident?

A. No.

(Witness Excused)

[fol. 5304] p. 414 Raymond Smith called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. State your name please?
A. Raymond Smith.
Q. Mr. Smith, where are you employed.
A. The Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. Approximately ten years.
Q. In what capacity were you employed?
A. Machinist.
Q. Do you recall, in the latter part of March and the first part of April, 1937 that there was a strike at the Gernes Garment Company, the Missouri Garment Company and the Gordon Manufacturing Company?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I do.
Q. Did you at any time during that strike go up near the plants?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Will you just tell the Court what you saw?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, seen the union people or pickets, and they were on the west side of Walnut between 26th and 27th, they would try to keep the people from coming into the plant. The police would form their lines and as the people would get out of the car and come in, the pickets would rush the lines, the union
p. 415 people would rush the line, break through the lines and tear the people's clothes, hit them with their pocketbooks, pulling their hair, kicking.
Q. Mr. Smith, did you see Wave Tobin up there at the time you were there?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I did.
Q. Where was Miss Tobin?

Objection—immaterial.

A. She was out pretty well past the middle of the street the first time I seen Miss Tobin.
Q. Did you hear Miss Tobin make any remarks with reference to the Donnelly Garment Company?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I did.
[fol. 5305] Q. What was the occasion for the remark?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, there was an elderly lady got out of the car, and started through the lines. She was jerked out of the lines and drug down on the sidewalk,—oh, I would say ten or fifteen feet, she was beaten, her hair was pulled, she was pretty roughed up, and somebody out in the crowd of bystanders said, "Isn't it awful, the way they are treating that old lady"? Miss Tobin turned around and said, "You haven't seen anything. Wait until we go down to Donnelly's Garment Company".
Q. Was there agitation among the Donnelly Garment Workers during this strike up at these other plants?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes, sir. —
Q. What, if you know, was the cause of that agitation?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Well, they had made their threats that they
p. 416 were coming after us next, and our operators and all of us were pretty upset about it and mad.

Mr. Ingraham: That is all.

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Mr. Smith, are you a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers Union?

A. I am.

Q. Did anybody exert any pressure on you to join or not to join that union?

Objection—immaterial.

A. They absolutely did not.

Q. Did you ever see an incident in the factory or not to join that union?

A. They absolutely did not.

Q. Did you ever see any incident in the factory or around there indicating that any employee was being bribed or promised something by the employer to join that union?

A. No sir.

Q. Or threatened if they did not join that union?

A. No, sir.

[fol. 5306] Q. Were you present when the Donnelly Garment Workers Union was organized?

A. I was out of town at that time.

Q. Did you ever see any influence, any outside influence except the individuals—well, exerted in connection with that union?

A. There was none.

Redirect Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

p. 417 Q. Was somebody with you up at this strike you described?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes, sir. Mr. Lyle Jeters.

(Witness Excused)

[fol. 5307] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

p. 418 Lyle Jeters called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Just state your name please?
A. Lyle Jeters.
Q. Where are you employed, Mr. Jeters?
A. Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. Eleven years.
Q. In what capacity? A. Machinist.
Q. Mr. Jeters, do you recall in the latter part of March and the first part of April, 1937 that there was a strike at the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri Garment plants? A. I do.
Q. Did you during that strike go up near the plants? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you go more than once?
A. Three or four mornings.
Q. Will you just state very briefly what you saw?
A. Well, I would get up there around seven thirty or a quarter of eight in the morning, and these workers would come to work in cabs or cars, and they would get out of the cars, there would be a bunch of officers lined up on each side of the doorway. When they would get out of the car, to start into the

p. 419 building the pickets and union help on the outside would rush in and grab these folks, strike them with pocketbooks, kick them, pull their clothing and hair and maul them up before the officers could get them into the building.

Q. Did you see Wave Tobin there? A. I did.
Q. Is Wave Tobin in the court room?
A. Right there (indicating.)
Q. Did the union workers use profane and vile language toward the employees of the company? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 5308] Q. Did you hear Wave Tobin make any remarks about the Donnelly Garment Company?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I did.
Q. What was the occasion?

Objection—immaterial.

A. One morning, an elderly lady was starting into the building, before she could get into the building, some of these girls broke through the officers, they grabbed her, drug her down the street and beat her up. Miss Tobin was standing over there close to the east curb. Some of the people standing with me said isn't it awful the way they are beating that lady up. Wave Tobin said "That isn't half what they are going to do when they get down to Donnelly's."

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:
Q. Are you a member of the Donnelly Garment Workers Union? A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you join of your own free will or not?

Objection—immaterial.

A. I did.

Q. Did anybody connected with the management of that company having any right to fire or hire employees ever exert any influence or anything of that kind in connection with membership in that union?

Objection—immaterial.

A. They did not.

Q. Were you present when the union was organized, Mr. Jeters? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember when it was?

A. April 27th, 1937, I believe.

Q. Where was the meeting held?

A. On the second floor, the Corrigan Building, 1822 Walnut.

Q. The same building the Donnelly Company occupied?

[fol. 5309] A. That is right.

Q. Was or wasn't it a fact that the second floor at that time was leased by the Donnelly Garment Company? A. It was not.

Q. What time was that meeting held?

A. After work.

Q. About what time in the afternoon, do you remember?

A. I would say four forty-five or five o'clock.

Q. Were any officials of the company who had the right to employ or discharge help present at that meeting?

A. I didn't see any of them.

p. 421 Q. Just tell the Court briefly what happened at that meeting?

A. Well, all the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company who were not officials of any kind came down to the second floor.

p. 425 A. Miss Todd was at that meeting. She said she had talked to some lawyers. Under the factory act, the employees of the Donnelly Garment Company had a right to form their own labor organization, so she appointed a committee of five, I believe it was, to leave the room and go out and appoint seven or eight other officers,—I mean just nominate them—to nominate eight or nine officers to bring the names back of these officers, so the rest of the people, the whole body could vote on it. So the nominating committee went out and brought these names back and voted on

p. 426 them. Each one was voted in one hundred per cent. We got our own lawyers, and Mr. Tyler and others I believe. We have meetings about every month.

Q. Was there or was there not any vote taken about whether or not the employees wanted to form their own labor union?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the result?

A. I think everyone voted to form their own labor union.

Q. Were there or were there not cards passed around for those who cared to join or sign?

A. There were.

[fol. 5310] Q. Were those cards taken up, do you know?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In whose custody were they placed when they were taken up if you know?

A. After they were collected?

Q. Yes.

A. Miss Rose Todd's, I believe.

(Witness Excused)

[fol. 5311] Ruby Rickett, called as a witness on behalf
p. 440 of the plaintiffs, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Just state your name please?

A. Ruby Rickett.

Q. Where are you employed, Miss Rickett?

A. The Donnelly Garment Company.
Q. How long have you been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. Nine years.
Q. In what capacity are you employed, are you an operator? A. An operator.
Q. Have you always been an operator since you have been employed at the Donnelly Garment Company? A. I have.
Q. Miss Rickett, I am going to ask you if you have ever known of any kind of a system employed by the Donnelly Garment Company that would require the girls to speed up in their work to keep up with other employees?

Objection—immaterial.

A. No.
Q. Have you ever known of any spy system?

Objection—immaterial.

A. No.
Q. Have you ever known of any caste system?

Objection—immaterial.

A. No.
p. 441 Q. Do all the employees come in the same entrance?

Objection—immaterial.

A. They do.
Q. And that entrance is used by officers and executives of the company?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.
Q. Were the elevators used by officers, executives and employees?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Miss Rickett, would you mind stating what your earnings were for the last week that you have been paid for?

Objection—immaterial.

A. This last week?

Q. Yes.

Objection—immaterial.

[fol. 5312] A. $52.95.

Q. Just repeat that please?

Objection—immaterial.

A. $52.95.

Q. I will hand you Exhibit 30 and ask you if you signed that document? A. I did.

Q. Did you sign that voluntarily?

A. Absolutely.

Q. Who asked you to sign it.

A. Inez Warren.

Q. What did she say to you if you recall?

A. She said if you want to sign it, sign it.

Q. I will read the heading of this document: "We, the undersigned, as members of the Donnelly Garment Company, wish to make it known we are positively happy and contended with the positions we hold with this organization and refuse to acknowledge any union labor organization. We are thankful for the real humanitarian interest extended by our employer, Mrs. Reed". When that document

p. 442 — was passed around the factory, did you see any officer or executive ask any of the employees to sign it? A. No.

Q. Did you see any employees object to signing it at all? A. No, I didn't.

Q. Does that explain your feeling toward the company? A. Absolutely.

Q. Does it express your feelings toward any outside labor organization?

A. What do you mean?
Q. You state here "We refuse to acknowledge any union labor organization".
[fol. 5313] A. Absolutely.
Q. During the time that you worked for the Donnelly Garment Company, have you been treated fairly?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Sure have.
Q. Will you state if you can recall any privileges which the company has extended to its employees—to shorten this—I will ask you if the company has provided for hospitalization?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Hospitalization, recreation room, everything is very sanitary.
Q. Has the company provided for group insurance?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.
Q. Vacations with pay?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.
Q. How much of a vacation do you get with pay?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Two weeks.
p. 443 Q. Does the company provide maids and janitors to keep the floors in sanitary condition?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.

Q. Do you have plenty of light in the floor that you work upon?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.

Cross-Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Miss Rickett, you remember the organization of the Donnelly Garment Workers Union?

A. I wasn't there at the time it was organized.

Q. I am asking you if you remember of it?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Did anyone exert any pressure, or inducement, or threats in connection with your joining that union, or did you join of your own free will?

Objection—immaterial.

[fol. 5314] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

A. My own free will.

Q. Do you know of anyone down there who ever claimed that he or she was the subject of any influence or pressure, or promises, or threats in connection with joining that union?

A. I do not.

p. 450 Redirect Examination.

By Mr. Ingraham:

Q. Miss Rickett, did the company announce that there was an emergency in regard to production and ask whether or not the employees wanted to work additional hours above forty?

A. Yes.

Q. Did the employees ask to be allowed to work additional time above forty hours?

A. Yes, we voted on it.

Q. You voted in favor of it?

A. In favor of it.

Q. Are you paid time and a half for all the time above forty hours?

A. Yes.

Q. In regard to the speed of your machine, is there a pedal that governs the speed, and the employee can operate the machine faster by pushing down farther on the pedal?

A. Yes.

p. 454 Q. And the operator controls the speed?

A. Yes.

p. 457 Q. You mean, do you not Miss Rickett, you got a guarantee of thirty five cents in addition to your guarantee of sixty-four cents an hour?

A. That is the way we are paid. Sixty-four cents
p. 455 is my guarantee. We get overtime, that is half of that, time and a half. If I made sixty four cents an hour, I would get ninety seven cents, something like that, see, for that each hour.

[fol. 5315] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. If you sew a number of pieces, whatever you are doing at that time, on the piece work price, you would earn in excess of the sixty-four cents? Do you make more than the sixty four cents?

A. If we make more, we get it.

Q. Yes, that is it.

A. Sure, we get it.

Q. And when it comes to figuring time and a half, is it not a fact that the amount you have made for an hour, is then increased by one half, and that is what is called time and a half?

A. I don't know just how that is fixed.

Q. If you show a sufficient number of piece work, so that you would make eighty cents an hour, and you were doing that all over time would you receive in addition to the eighty cents, forty cents which would be one half of what you earned for the hour under your straight pay? A. Yes.

[fol. 5316] Objection is made to all the questions and answers and all the exhibits identified by George Cauthen—immaterial.

p. 463 GEORGE CAUTHEN called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiffs, being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination.

By Mr. Depping:

Q. What is your name please?
A. George Cauthen.
Q. Where do you live, Mr. Cauthen?
A. Oklahoma City.
Q. What are you doing there at the present time?
A. I am newspaper photographer, on the Daily Oklahoman.
Q. Have you been a newspaper photographer in Kansas City?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. With what paper? A. The Journal-Post.
Q. From when to when were you with the Journal-Post?
A. I was with the Journal-Post for thirteen years, 1925 to 1937.
Q. After you left the Journal-Post where did you go?
A. I was employed by the police department. A police photographer.
Q. While you were employed by the Journal-Post, did you in March, 1937 take some pictures for the Journal-Post of some activities down around the Gernes, Gordon, Missouri Garment Companies' plants?
A. I did, yes.

(Photographs marked Plaintiffs' Exhibits 59 to 76, inclusive, for identification).

p. 464 Mr. Depping: I will hand you Exhibits 59 to 76 inclusive, and ask you to state what they are. I will state for the record, these are pictures contained in Volume 1 of the transcript in the District Court of the United States for the Western Division of the Western District of Missouri, volume is entitled, "Statement of evidence in conformity with Equity Rule 75." These are pictures your Honor, produced at the three-judge hearing.

[fol. 5317] Q. Will you state whether or not those are pictures you took in March, 1937 at the place before mentioned? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just look at each picture.

Mr. Depping: The exhibits are 59 to 76 inclusive.

Q. I now hand you the exhibits No. 59 to 76 inclusive and ask you whether or not these are photographs you took during the month of March, 1937 in the vicinity of the Gordon Brothers, Gernes and Missouri Garment Company of activities there during the so-called strike of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?

A. Yes. Do you want me to identify them now? They are the pictures I made.

Q. They are the pictures. We now offer the pictures in evidence.

p. 465 Q. Referring to Exhibit 59.

A. No. 59 was made at the rear of the Gordon Brothers Garment Company up there.

Q. When?

A. Made it March, 1937. That is taken during the month of March, 1937, shows clashes with police and hair pulling.

Q. I refer to Exhibit No. 60.

A. No. 60 shows clashes with the police.

Q. Where was that taken?

A. Made at the rear of Gordon Brothers.

Q. Let me ask you this—were all these pictures taken during the month of March?

A. Yes.
Q. Go ahead and describe them.
A. No. 60 shows pictures of the police clashing.

[fol. 5318] The Court: Where were they made?
A. At the rear of Gordon Brothers.
A. Most of them were. I will designate that as I go along. Picture No. 61 shows police putting a woman in the patrol wagon. That was made in the rear of the Gordon Brothers Garment Company in March. Another picture No. 62 shows Miss Tobin and a group of workers.

p. 466 Q. Do you know whether they were workers—you don't know who they were?
A. I don't know who the were. I couldn't say they were workers, but anyway its the picture of Miss Tobin made in the rear of Gordon Brothers Garment Company.
Q. Are there other people on the picture?
A. There are other people, women and men in it, yes, sir. No. 63 picture shows police and women clashing, made in the rear of Gordon Brothers Garment Company in March, 1937. Picture No. 64 made in the rear of Gordon Brothers Garment Company shows two women and a policeman on the ground. This was also made in March, 1937.
Q. Where was it made?
A. In the rear of the Gordon Brothers Garment Company.
Q. Is the rear, the place where the people were trying to enter to go to work?
A. That is true. No. 65 shows a policeman and a woman, this woman is evidently being helped out of the car or put into a taxi cab. I can't quite get it. I made the picture. It was also made in the rear of Gordon Brothers Garment Company in March, 1937.
Q. No. 66.
A. No. 66 shows a group of people, workers, in front of the building, that is.
Q. Where?
A. That is on the—that would be the McGee Street side, I believe. Yes, the McGee Street side of the Gordon Brothers Garment Company. This was also made in March, 1937.

p. 467 Q. What was it?

[fol. 5319] A. This was also made in March, 1937, a picture showing the group.

A. Yes, sir, the crowd. No. 67—four or five women asleep on cots in the lobby of the building, the Gordon Brothers Garment Company. This was made in March, 1937; and No. 68—a group of women sitting in the lobby of the Gordon Brothers Garment Company building; No. 69—a group of women sitting in front of the door inside the lobby of the Gordon Brothers Garment Company. This was also made in March, 1937. No. 70, a group of people in front of Gordon Brothers Garment Company building on Grand Avenue. That is No. 70. That was made in March, 1937.

No. 71—officers and police officers restraining three or four women in this picture. That is No. 71. That was made in the rear of the Gordon Brothers Garment plant, and was also made in March, 1937.

No. 72—a woman being put in the patrol wagon by a policeman. That was made in the rear of Gordon Brothers Garment Company in March, 1937. Women and Police clashing. That is No. 73, made in the rear of Gordon Brothers Garment Company in March, 1937.

No. 74, a woman pulling another girl's hair. That was also made in March, 1937 in front

p. 468 of the Gordon Brothers Garment Company;

No. 75, a group of women made in front of the Gordon Brothers—no, this was made out in front of the Gordon Brothers Garment Company. That is No. 75.

Q. McGee Street?

A. Yes, sir. Grand Avenue that would be.

No. 76, a picture showing two officers holding a woman, who is pulling another girl's hair. There are two women in the picture. That was made in the rear of Gordon Brothers Garment Company also in March, 1937.

Mr. Depping: We now offer in evidence Exhibits 59 to 76 inclusive. (Exhibits 59 to 76 inclusive, are received in evidence and made a part of the record.)

Q. Now, Mr. Cauthen, in addition to these pictures you took, did you see other acts of violence in March, 1937?

A. I saw hair pulling, and frequent clashes with the police.

Q. Did you see police officers down on the ground?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

[fol. 5338] Objection is made to all questions and answers contained on this and the following 10 pages to and including the following: "Q. You are about two feet from him, aren't you, or three or four, we will say? A. Some space," for the reason that said questions and answers are immaterial.

Cross Examination of Ellen Fry.

By Mr. Hogsett:

Q. Miss Fry, all of the complaints that you have detailed in your direct examination took place as far back as July, 1934 and prior to that, didn't they?

A. It started from July, yes—from the time I was laid off, July 24—from July, 1931.

Q. I didn't hear you?

A. From July 1931 to 1934.

Q. And everything you said took place within that interval? A. Yes.

Q. Long prior to March 9, 1937?

A. I was only stating from July, 1931 to 1934.

Q. Now, you made an affidavit, did you not, in this case on the 31st day of August, 1937 for use on the Motion to Quash Service. Do you remember that affidavit that you made for Mr. Walsh? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In that affidavit you said you were employed as an organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you go to work as an organizer?

A. I called on some girls—

Q. (Interrupting) The date, please, is all I am asking you? A. What?

Q. When did you go to work as an organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. I don't recall.

Q. You mean you cannot even approximate it?

A. I don't recall the [dated] I went to work, no, sir.

Q. Well, it was as far back as 1933, was it?

A. No, sir.

Q. When did you begin to draw a salary as an organizer, a paid organizer?

A. Well, I could not tell you just exactly when.

[fol. 5339] Q. I do not mean to pin you to any exact time but approximately when did you begin to draw a salary as an organizer from the International, the month or the year or even the decade, if you can give it?

A. Well, let me see if I can recall; I believe it was in January, 1937.

Q. Well, in your affidavit just referred to, you say that you were employed in August, 1936?

A. Maybe it was 1936.

Q. Yes, that is what you said then but in your N. R. A. testimony which was delivered on February 26, 1935, apparently from the transcript you said at that time you were an organizer? A. Not a paid organizer.

Q. I will read you what you said under examination by Mr. Rucker: (Reading) "Q. What is the name of the union by which you are employed? A. The Ladies' International Garment Workers' Union. Q. And where are its offices? A. 813 Walnut. Q. In what capacity are you employed? A. I have been going out calling on girls. Q. Have you any title? A. Organizing. Q. [Your] are an organizer? A. Yes." You testified that way? A. Yes; not a paid organizer.

Q. All right; you were, however, an organizer?

A. I was doing organization work and I told them that I was an organizer; not a paid organizer.

Q. You get your expenses, of course?

A. Expenses.

Q. When did you become a paid, salaried organizer?

A. Well, I was thinking that it was in January and I could be wrong of 1936 and 1937; I am not positive of the dates.

Q. Which is your best judgment of the time; just give us that and I will pass on?

A. I would say 1936.

Q. Now, you worked with Wave Tobin as a paid organizer in unionizing various garment shops in Kansas City including the Missouri, Gernes, the Gordon Manufacturing Company and Stern-Slegman-Prins Coat Manufacturing Company, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you were present at the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri strikes, if you want to call it a strike, weren't you? A. Yes, sir.

[fol. 5340] Q. Just what did you do there?

A. I just stood and looked at the girls and the policemen.

Q. Did you do anything else? A. No.

Q. What were the girls and the policemen doing?

A. Well, all I seen them doing they was going and coming back and forwards to work and there was a scuffle there a few times, that the girls going in would start.

Q. What were you paid for the work you were doing as a paid organizer at the time of the Gernes-Gordon-Missouri strike—I will use that word?

A. I was paid to go out calling on girls.

Q. How much were you paid as an organizer, what was your salary? A. Twenty-five.

Q. What? A. A month.

Q. A month? A. A. week.

Q. Which was it? A. Week.

Q. You are sure of that? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you get expenses in addition to that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Just twenty-five a week which would be a little over $100.00 a month.

A. Yes, that's right.

Q. Now, all you did at this Gernes-Gordon and Missouri riot or trouble or whatever there was there was just stand and look, is that right?

A. Well, I was not there all the time; I was out calling on girls part of the time.

Q. How much of the time were you present at that strike? A. Well, I could not say.

[fol. 5341] Q. Give us an approximation, if you please?

A. You mean during the entire time.

Q. No, I understand, you were just there when they were going in and coming out as I understand. Did you see these workers, these girls just trying to go to work with bolts of any kind of metal in their hands [assulting] these union girls.

A. All I [was] was some scuffling.

Q. Did you see any of the girls trying to get in to go to work with razor blades fastened in their shoes, kicking the union girls with them?

A. I said I only saw scuffling.

Q. You now say you were just there watching. When you made this affidavit did you say this "In all of the above named shops"—meaning these that [—] name, those four Gordon, Gernes, Missouri and Stern-Slegman-Prins—"strikes were called by the Kansas City Joint Board and all of the establishments were picketed. The picketing and other activities in connection with said strikes were under the direction and supervision of Wave Tobin and I did such work as I was directed to do by Wave Tobin." You said that, didn't you?

A. The work that I did was calling on girls.

Q. I have heard you say that now, but here you were talking about strikes and doing such work as you were directed to do by Wave Tobin; that is what you said then wasn't it?

A. I don't recall saying that.

Q. Now, you were one of the persons against whom the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri Companies got an injunction because of your acts of violence in this strike, weren't you?

A. No, sir.

Q. While you were there just watching, did you see the [policement] lined up in two lines so that the employees desiring to work would have protection as they would run from the cab that brought them to the door of the building? Did you see that happen?

A. I said I saw some scuffling there [amongst] them.

Q. I did not [seen] any of them running. I saw some of the girls walking between the [policemens] to the door.

Q. Tell us if you know why the police found it necessary to form two lines for the protection of the workers?

A. There was a group of [policemens] on each side of the door talking with the girls and they would go through the line and as they—and also talking to the union girls.

Q. Is that all they were doing, just talking?

A. I never did see them, as you say, with razor blades in their feet.

Q. I didn't ask you that this time. I did a while ago. Is that all the policemen did, just talk?

A. No, as I say there was some scuffling and pushing [amoung] them; maybe the girls as [fol. 5342] they came through the lines would push one of these union girls or push a policeman against the union girls and that would start a scuffle.

Q. That is the girls you think that started the pushing were those that were trying to go to work, that is what you think?

A. That is what I saw.

Q. That is the way you saw it? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the policemen were there to keep the girls, trying to go to work, from injuring the union girls; is that what you really mean to say? A. How is that?

Q. Do you really mean to tell this Court that the police were there to protect these union girls against these girls that were trying to get into that building to work? Is that what you mean?

A. I don't get what you are driving at. I told you that the girls going to work would come into work and walk through the line that the policemen made, had one on each side and a lot of them. The time I saw them they would start pushing these union girls when the union girls would try to talk to them and the police—they would get into the scuffle.

Q. That is all you saw.

A. That is all I saw.

Q. Did you, by the way, see or were you a party to a sit-down group that took possession of the door way and lobby of this building for sixty hours? A. I was there.

Q. You were there? A. Yes.

Q. Were you among those present in the sit-down group? A. Yes.

Q. Who brought the cots in for you to sleep on at nights? A. I wasn't there that night.

Q. That night: it was several nights, sixty hours?

A. I wasn't in there, I didn't see that.

Q. Who brought the cots whether you were there or not?

A. I couldn't tell you, I didn't know.

[fol. 5343] Q. You and the others of this union absolutely took possession of that building, the entrance to that building so that nobody could get in or out except by walking over you, that is true, isn't it?

A. The girls took possession of the building.

Q. Well, you were one of them?

A. I was only there two hours.

Q. But whether you were there two hours or the sixty hours, the union girls took possession of that lobby so that people could get neither in nor out without walking over them?

A. That is the union girls?

Q. Will you answer that yes or no?

A. The union girls were inside the lobby.

Q. I am going to get an answer if I can with all respect to you. Did the union girls take possession of that lobby so that people trying to get in or out during sixty hours had to walk over these girls? Yes or no to that?

A. The union girls went in the lobby of the building.
Q. Would you mind answering the question?
A. I don't—well, they were in the people.

The Court: No. Do you understand that question?

The Witness: I don't know what he means by possession.

Q. Oh you don't understand that. I will use a different word, I will use a less complicated word. Did the union girls move into that lobby and occupy the space so full for sixty hours that people desiring to get in or out had to walk over them? A. Yes, sir.
Q. You understood that better than the word "possession"? A. I didn't understand.

Cross Examination. (Resumed)

By Mr. Hogsett:

Q. Miss Fry, you spoke of an incident when Miss Rose Todd was timing an operation and you complained to her about the way she did it; do you recall that circumstance?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. I don't remember when it was that that incident occurred. When was it?
A. That was in the spring of 1934.
Q. Do you remember the month? A. No.
[fol. 5344] Q. Do you remember the month? A. No.
Q. How many things did you complain about in direct testimony, do you recall?
A. You mean to go over each one of them again?
Q. No, how many? I lost count and I wanted to know how many you complained of, was it six, ten, fifteen, twenty?
A. Well, I would have to go over the testimony to tell.
Q. I don't care to have you do that, if you don't remember. I [thoughts] perhaps you could. Was there anything at all in the wages, hours, or working conditions at the Donnelly plant which met with your approval?

A. We had good work.
Q. Anything else?
A. And we had, after the forty hour week came in under the NRA, there were not such long hours.
Q. Anything else?
A. You say before the NRA.
Q. Any time at all; was there [every] anything that the Donnelly Company did at all during your three years of employment which really met with your approval?
A. Yes; they were very nice to me until they found out I joined the union.
Q. That is three. Anything else?
A. That is all I can recall at present.
Q. Those are all the things that you can recall that really met with your approval; is that right? A. I believe so.
Q. Now, did you know or don't you know that you were reported by Mrs. White—who was Mrs. White, by the way? A. My instructor.
Q. Reported by Mrs. White as a chronic complainer? A. No, I didn't.
Q. You didn't know that? A. No, sir.
[fol. 5345] Q. Well, were you a chronic complainer?
A. I would not say I was.
Q. But in the three years that you worked there you only found three things which really met with your approval, didn't you?
A. That is about all I could recall.
Q. I will not wait for you to spend any more time on that. As a matter of fact, you were employed seven times in the three years, in the period that you worked there and you were laid off on four occasions for inefficiency, weren't you? A. No, sir.
Q. And weren't you taken back after each of those times on condition that you would improve your work? A. No, sir.
Q. You say that didn't happen? A. No, sir.
Q. Now, you were laid off the last time in July, 1934 along with 165 other employees as a part of a general reduction in the force?

A. When I was laid off I was taking my vacation, the whole section took their [facation] and at the end of the two weeks we was told then to report back to work.

Q. Well, do you recall that you testified at the NRA hearing just as I have stated here, that you were laid off July, 1934 along with 165 other people and that they were reducing the force?

A. I recall of reading that and saying that we were laid off in July.

Q. But you also said the rest that I asked you, did you not?

A. And there were others laid off too.

Q. Yes, I know but as a part of a general reduction of the force due to bad business or what not; you know that, don't you?

A. There were some laid off.

Q. Well, 165 were laid off, weren't they?

A. I didn't count them.

Q. Now, you spoke in direct examination of the death of a person whose first name was Lottie and you gave the impression that she died from overwork; that was your purpose in narrating that? A. No.

[fol. 5346] Q. Well, now, you as a matter of fact know, don't you, that the item that you read in the paper recording her death recited that she had burned to death accidentally? You know that perfectly well, don't you?

A. I don't recall just exactly the item in the paper, but as I said that we had talked about her condition and she said that the work was killing her, that she had not made her quota for five weeks and this was her last week and I missed her the next morning and it was in the night's paper that I noticed her death.

Q. And you noticed her death was from an accidental burning, didn't you? A. No.

Q. Why you know perfectly well that that item recorded her burning to death, don't you?

A. No.

Q. Don't you know that?

A. I said I [din't] recall that she died from that burn, as you say.

Q. What burn? A. The burn you spoke about.

Q. Did you happen to know that that lady, Lottie Conroy's daughter, Rosemary Conroy is now working for the Donnelly Garment Company? A. No.

Q. You didn't know that? A. No, sir.

Q. Did you say this morning that you were or were not present when the injunction order was read at the Gernes, Gordon and Missouri riot? A. I was there that morning.

Q. You were there that morning?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, what did you say on that subject this morning, didn't you deny that?

A. No, you asked me if I was served with an injunction.

Q. I also asked you that, yes, but I asked if you were present and [din't] you deny it?

A. In the court room. I understood you to say in the court room.

Q. No, Madam, let us not be confused or please don't confuse me. I asked you this morning if you were present when the sheriff read the [fol. 5347] injunction to the rioters at the Gernes door and didn't you deny it?

A. I didn't understand you.

Q. Well, did you deny it?

A. I said I had not understood it that way.

Q. As a matter of fact, you were present as shown by this picture were you not? Aren't you in the picture? Wait, I will identify it if I can. It is Exhibit 62. Do [your] see yourself in that picture as the sheriff was reading the process? A. Yes.

Q. You are about two feet from him, aren't you, or three or four, we will say?

A. Some space.

Further Cross Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. Miss Fry, what was the last time you were in the Donnelly plant?

A. The date I could not give you but it was—

Q. (Interrupting) Could you give me the year?

A. The year or the date I could not give to you, but it was two weeks, about two weeks after we went back after our vacation. You see, the two weeks vacation came and we went back for our jobs as it was customary to do.

Q. What year would that be?

A. That was in 1934.

Q. Now you spoke in your direct testimony of working on Sundays and other times outside of regular working hours. Were you given your choice as to whether you would work at those [time] or were you forced to work at these times?

A. They told me to come in in the morning.

Q. Well, you mean they ordered you to work without giving you any choice about whether you could or would work or not?

A. Well, now, may I explain in my way?

Q. Answer it, then explain.

A. They told me they were behind in this piping and unless I could come in on Sunday and catch up, why someone else would have to take the machine.

Q. Take the machine for that day or permanently? A. Permanently.

[fol. 5348] Q. Who told you that?

A. My instructor then was Pearl; I don't recall her last name.

Q. What was the rest of her name? Do you remember the rest of her name?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Was that the customary way with you, to tell you that you must come in and work on Sundays?

A. I only recall of working three Sundays then and then two other times, just part of the Sunday.

Q. Was that the customary way that you were told that you would lose your job if you did not work Sunday?

A. They just told me that once and afterwards I never said anything because I was afraid I would lose my machine.

Q. Were you given your choice at any time about whether you would work Sundays or not?

A. You mean asked me whether I would prefer staying home or working?

Q. Yes, given your choice? A. No.

Q. Or tell you you could work or not as you pleased? A. No.

Q. You were never given that opportunity?

A. No sir.

Q. As a matter of fact, did you have any desire to make the extra money you could make by working over time or not?

A. I didn't understand your question.

Q. Did you have any desire to make the extra money you could make by working over time?

A. Well, we—

Q. (Interrupting) You, personally?

A. Me? Why, I—of course, in working over time we would make more money and in that way we would have more money to spend.

Q. And did you desire to make that extra money? A. Yes.

Q. And you preferred to make that extra money rather than not to work, or not?

[fol. 5349] A. I would rather not have to work such long hours.

Q. I am talking about these Sundays, the times you did work. Did you prefer to make the extra money or did you prefer not to work?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, at the time that you checked Miss Todd as she was timing a garment, what was your reason for checking her?

A. I wanted to find out how long she timed us because I saw her working that clock up and down and I knew how long it took her to make the bundle and I knew how long it would take me to make the bundle working as as hard as we could work.

Q. What was your reason for doing it? Were you planning on making a complaint or had somebody suggested that you time her or what was your reason?

A. No, sir; I wanted a raise on that work so we could make our quota.

Q. Did anybody else time her that you know of?

A. No.

Q. Recalling your attention to the incidents at the Gordon, Gernes and Missouri strikes, the girls that came to go to work there generally came one or two at a time, didn't they?

A. Yes, sir

Objection is made to all questions and answers on the remainder of this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

Q. And the union girls had a good sized crowd down there, didn't they?

A. There was quite a few of them there.

Q. About how many?

A. I never counted them; there was quite a few.

Q. Were the girls who came to work start, what you call the scuffle?

A. No, some—they would talk to them, they would off and talk to them and as you say I said that some of them went in peacefully and did not offer to scuffle with the girls, push them around.

Q. Do you remember whether you said this morning that the girls who came to work started the trouble? Did you say that or didn't you?

A. I said there was some trouble out there, some scuffling.

Q. Do you remember whether you said that the girls who came to work started that trouble?

A. I said they were scuffling; I said this was the girls out there would come to work and the other girls would talk to them and there was some scuffling went on there.

Q. Let us try it once more. Do you remember whether you said this morning that the girls who came to work would start the trouble?

[fol. 5350] Objection is made to all questions and answers on this page because the questions and answers are immaterial.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well what did you see that justifies you in saying that these girls who came to work one or two at a time started the trouble?

A. I said they talked to the girls.

Q. No, I am not asking you what you said now. I am asking you what you saw that makes you say that the girls coming to work started the trouble?

A. They would be talking to the girls and the girls would push the girls around, that is all I could say; I don't know how they started.

Q. I don't know what you mean by the girls would push the girls around. Tell me who pushed who around?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. In your actions down there did anyone direct you as to what you should do? A. In what?

Q. In your actions down there around the Gordon and Gernes plant during the strike, if you call it that, did anyone direct you about what you should do? A. No.

Q. The answer was no. A. No.

Q. You decided yourself, of your own volition, that you would go down there and do whatever you did, is that correct? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did anybody suggest to you what you should do? A. No, sir.

Q. You just made up your mind yourself that you would go down to that plant and do whatever you did down there? A. Yes, sir.

Q. What were you there for?

A. Looking at the girls.
Q. Merely curiosity? A. Seeing what went on.
Q. Just curiosity? A. Curiosity.

[fol. 5351] Further Cross Examination.

By Mr. Tyler:

Q. When was the last time you were in the Donnelly factory? A. June, 1935.
Q. You have never been in the plant since June, 1935. A. No.
Q. And you have stated in your examination that there was no complaint about the price fixing methods in the union plants where you have worked; that is correct, isn't it?
A. I don't understand what you mean.
Q. The employees do not complain about the method of fixing prices on piece work in the union plants in which you have worked; that is true, is it? A. That is what I said, yes.
Q. At the time you were working in the Donnelly plant, did you complain about the method by which piece work prices were fixed there?
A. Well, we talked to our instructors if we figured the price was too low—
The way I answered it would be the only way I would know how to answer it.
Q. It is all right, if you can't answer it, but do you understand the question? It is whether you made complaint about the method of fixing piece work prices?
A. I don't know how to answer it. Either I don't understand it, or—
Q. (Interrupting) Can you remember whether you did or did not complain about the method of fixing piece work prices in the Donnelly plant when you worked there?
A. Only what I talked to my instructor.
Q. I believe you said a little while ago that you had never made any complaints while you worked at the Donnelly plant, didn't you? Do you remember that, or not?

A. No, I don't remember that.

Q. What was the trouble with the building or the plant at which you worked on the 26th and Grand, had it gone unpainted for a long time?

A. It wasn't as desirable a building as the other. We had no machinist there; and quarters were more cramped.

Q. Do you know who Ted Kirland is?

A. I don't remember the name.

Q. You don't remember whether he was a machinist with the Donnelly Garment Company, or not?

[fol. 5352]

A. No, when they sent a machinist to our building they always sent Mr. Ellis. Whenever a machine would break down, they would call over to the main building for a machinist.

Q. You never saw Mr. Kirland there?

A. I probably know his face, but I can't remember his name.

Q. Was the building over there dirty?

A. It wasn't as desirable as the big building.

Q. The big building was desirable.

A. It was clean.

Q. Well, was it a desirable place to work in?

A. That is the best I can answer you, that it was clean and sanitary.

Q. Would you still like to work there?

A. I have a very good job now, at the time.

Q. Well, can you answer the question as to whether you would still like to work there or not?

A. The Witness: Your Honor, I believe that is the only way I can answer that.

Q. All right. Isn't it a fact that garment workers in general in Kansas City regard the Donnelly plant as the most desirable place in town to have a job; isn't that the plain fact of common knowledge? You can answer that yes or no, I think.

A. I couldn't answer for anybody but myself.

[fol. 5353] Objection is made to all questions and answers of Gordon I. Gordon for the reason that said questions and answers are immaterial.

GORDON I. GORDON

p. 530 Called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiffs, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct Examination

By Mr. Depping:

Q. State your name please?
A. Gordon I. Gordon.
Q. Where do you live, Mr. Gordon?
A. Memphis, Tennessee.
Q. What is your profession? A. Lawyer.
Q. How long have you been practicing your profession? A. Ten years.
Q. Where? A. Memphis, Tennessee.
Q. Did you represent the Nona-Lee Dress Company of Memphis, Tennessee during the year 1937? A. I did.
Q. Concerning some dealings with Mr. Meyer Perlstein and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union? A. I did.
Q. Did you carry on negotiations with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union with reference to a threatened strike?
A. I did.
Q. With whom were these negotiations carried on as representatives of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union?
A. Meyer Perlstein, Myrtle Zappone, Ida Sledge.
Q. Did you talk to all three at once?
p. 531 A. I did.
Q. And Mrs. Zappone and Miss Sledge as representatives of the union in Mr. Perlstein's presence? A. Yes.
[fol. 5354] p. 531 Q. Tell when the negotiations started? What led up to them, and what the negotiations were?

A. The first conference I had with the union representatives was, to the best of my recollection, about March 15, 1937. That was a preliminary conference with Myrtle Zappone and Ida Sledge. Mr. Perlstein, hadn't come to Memphis, Tennessee at that time. They gave me some idea of the terms of the contracts that the union proposed but it was all quite indefinite. I wanted to know from Miss Sledge and Mrs. Zappone, whom they represented in this proposed contract. They claimed to represent the employees. They of course did not represent the employer. I I represented the Nona-Lee Dress Company. I then asked them if they represented a majority of those employees, and they stated that they did. Then as for proof of that representation, realizing it might be deemed prejudicial to the employees they represented, if their names were disclosed, I indicated that I was willing they give their names to their own attorney, and later on advise me whether or not they represented the majority, and it would be acceptable to me. They accepted that proposition and advised me that John Shea was their attorney. I advised Mr. Shea of the understanding I had had with Mrs.
p. 532 Zappone and Miss Sledge. I was never furnished, however, with any figures or facts or any proof, by Mr. Shea or anyone else as to whether or not this majority of employees was represented, as had been indicated to me. My next conference was with Mr. Perlstein, Mrs. Zappone, and Miss Sledge, on Saturday, March 20, 1937. That was my first meeting with Mr. Perlstein. He came to my office, and after introducing himself, asked me if I was ready to sign a contract. I told him no contract had been submitted to me for consideration, let alone signature. He then began discussing the contract that was to be signed in the interest of proceeding logically, I asked him to produce the piece of paper that he wanted signed, or his version of the contract. He seemed to take quite a bit of offense at being asked for the production of a contract but, after finding that we couldn't go forward without such a paper, he proceeded, with my assistance, to put on paper his version of the contract. After I finally got the terms he considered necessary, I told him that was the first time—as it was—that I knew of the contract he wanted signed; and that I would be glad to submit that contract to the directors of the Nona-Lee Dress Company, and girls; that some of the directors were non-residents, that in my opinion it would require at least ten days to get them together and get a decision as to whether or not they would enter into a contract with him.

Q. What date?

p. 533 A. March 20th. He indicated that was fair. He would like to know on the next day, Sunday, whether or not he would be willing to wait. During that same conversation, I proposed to him the question of whether or not he represented a majority of the employees, stating to him what understanding Mrs. Zappone and [fol. 5355] I had had, but that I still had not been furnished with any proof. Mr. Perlstein's reply to me was "I will furnish you with proof. On Monday morning, I will have a strike at the Nona-Lee Dress Company." I told him if that was the way he did business, as far as I was concerned, negotiations were at an end, he could call a strike that day. Mrs. Zappone and others present with him calmed him down a good deal. He seemed to be willing to restrict that proposition, and discuss the matter further, and see if a contract could be reached. He left my office, as I say, with a promise to 'phone me as to whether or not he would wait until April 1st. I did not hear from Mr. Perlstein any more. About Monday or Tuesday, of the following week, Mrs. Zappone and Miss Sledge called me, stating Mr. Perlstein had been compelled to leave town without calling me. Their instructions were they had to have an answer by the 24th.

Q. What date was that?

A. On the 22nd or 23rd of March.

Q. Were some of the directors of the company out of town?

A. Yes, sir, as were also one or more of the officers that were traveling on the road.

p. 534 Q. Go Ahead.

A. I again explained to them the utter impossibility of giving them an answer within so short a time, and told them all I could do was submit the matter in due course, if they chose to wait. If they did not choose to wait, they could do as they saw fit. Mrs. Zappone told me I could expect a strike at the Nona-Lee plant any day. That ended all conferences between union representatives and myself for the Nona-Lee.

Q. Did Mrs. Shea, whom Mrs. Zappone and Miss Sledge stated was their lawyer, ever furnish you with any information regarding the number of persons that the International Union represented?

A. They did not.

Q. Did Mr. Perlstein ever furnish you with that information? A. He did not.

Q. And after this thing was all cleared up, did Mr. Perlstein ever tell you about what percentage he represented when he was talking to you in your office?

[fol. 5356] A. Yes, he did. As a matter of fact, he admitted it on the day of violence in the Nona-Lee plant, March 25, 1937 that not a single employee of the Nona-Lee Dress Company was a member of the union. I had myself verified that fact, without his admission because, following his statement to me, and in order to determine whether or not the union was the proper agency to deal with on behalf of the employees, I myself conveyed his information to the Nona-Lee officers, and at their request, I appeared at the Nona-Lee plant, and explained the negotiations with Mr. Perlstein. At that point, I also advised them of his statement that he represented a majority, advising them that as far as my clients were concerned, it was immaterial whether they belonged to a union or not, but that it was necessary we know whether or not they were members of the union in order to know whether or not to deal with that union as their representatives, and requested them to answer certain questions on paper, outside of our presence, to the effect whether or not they were members of a union; whether or not the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union represented them; whether they wanted the Nona-Lee Dress Company, to deal with that union as their representatives. The employees unanimously answered in writing, over their signatures, they were not members of that union or any other. That union did not represent them; they did not wish that union to be dealt with as their representatives. They also, at their own volition, wholly uninfluenced by me, or the Nona-Lee Dress Company, unanimously signed a petition addressed to the mayor of the City of Memphis asking they be not intimidated or compelled to join that union; that they could solve their own problems; that they had their own shop committee, perfectly capable of dealing with their employer, and settling their problem; that this union was not acquainted with their problems in the plant and were not capable of dealing with them as effectively as they would themselves; so all the proof I could gather was only corroborated by Mr. Perlstein's own admission that he didn't have any employees of the Nona-Lee Dress Company, on March 25th, 1937, the first day of the violence.

p. 536

Q. Was a so-called strike called? A. It was.

Q. Was that date March 25th, 1937? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did any of the employees of the Nona-Lee Dress Company participate in that so-called strike? A. They did not.

Q. Who was in charge of the demonstration?

[fol. 5357] A. Myrtle Zappone, and Ida Sledge. Myrtle Zappone, on that day was arrested for participation in that violence, taking an assumed name of Laura Savell; I prosecuted her under that name, and she was convicted in the city court of Memphis, Tennessee along with nine other members.

Q. Did those convictions stop the violence?

A. They did not.

Q. Did the conviction of Mrs. Zappone keep her away from the scene?

A. It did not and in that connection—

p. 537 A. I was going to say as a means of remedy to stop the violence, in addition to the prosecutions there was—

Q. Did you have something you wanted to add to your answer?

A. My statement was, on March 25th, 1937, on the afternoon of that day following the first scrimmage, I procured an interlocutory injunction in the Chancery Court of Shelby County, Tennessee.

Q. What date was that?

A. March 25th, 1937.

Q. The first day of the violence?

A. It was. I might state here for purposes of objection, if any, that the entire record of the proceeding in that Nona-Lee Dress Company case in Chancery Court of Shelby County has, by agreement between counsel, been made a part of the record in this case, including the original bill, interlocutory injunction, answer of the defendants and all other matters of record in that case. That record is a part of this record.

Q. All right. State whether or not the people who were in charge of the demonstration, and the so-called striking at the Nona-Lee Dress Company you have referred to were, the same persons with whom you had been negotiating with in the presence of Mr. Perlstein?

p. 538 A. That is right.

Q. You stated, I believe, you obtained an injunction against violence?

[fol. 5358] A. I did.

Q. Who were the defendants?

A. The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union Local #267, I believe, a branch of that union. Meyer Perlstein, Myrtle Zappone, Ida Sledge, Dixie Middleton, president of the union, and all other agents and members of the union.

Q. Was personal service had?

A. It was. I say, it wasn't on all of the defendants. I am not certain at this time it was had on Meyer Perlstein, though I was advised that the injunction had been obtained.

Q. Who did you advise?

A. The union, Mrs. Zappone, and all other persons connected therewith.

Q. Now, describe what acts of violence were perpetrated by representatives of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to your own knowledge after you obtained this injunction?

A. Well, I, personally after I obtained the injunction, I personally saw no acts of violence while they were being perpetrated. I prosecuted members of the union at various and sundry times after the issuance of that injunction. On account of that violence somewhere between thirty and fifty members of the union.

p. 539 Q. What acts of violence?

A. Assault and battery, disorderly conduct, breach of the peace, threatened breach of the peace.

Q. What specific things were they charged with?

A. Throwing red pepper in the eyes of the Nona-Lee employees; they had torn off their garments, pulled hair, and beat them; waylaid them at night, all of that was true, and flagrant violation of the injunction which was similar to, and which is of course part of this record as I say, which enjoined them from any and all acts of violence, or molestation of any kind.

Q. On the first morning of the violence, did you see Ida Sledge anywhere?

A. Yes, I was advised early in the morning of March 25th, the expected difficulty had taken place. I passed in the vicinity of the plant on my way to the office, and on that morning [fol. 5359] drove up there, and I saw the Nona-Lee cohorts lined up to come into their plant at some little distance and the union crowds, quite a large gathering.

Q. About how many people were there?

A. I should judge, from just a casual view of them, three to five hundred people.

Q. All right.

A. As I drove slowly along, I noticed Miss Sledge at the head of one of the phalanxes, make some remark to the effect of "Come on, girls. Let's get them;" began rushing toward
p. 540 the marching Nona-Lee employees who were coming toward the entrance to the plant, presumably to go to work, and knowing that it would be necessary that I be at the office prepared for action, I didn't tarry there, I just went on to the office.

Q. Did these prosecutions of members of the union you have referred to stop their acts of violence?

A. No. It increased very rapidly.

Q. Were they convicted?

A. Yes. They were.

Q. Did the injunction you obtained stop the acts of violence of members of the union?

A. Not at all. This pepper throwing incident—one of the serious outbursts—took place in the vicinity of the plant after the injunction was issued, and the defendants fully notified thereof.

Q. Did you and your client finally give up and sign the contract with the union?

A. Out of pure exhaustion and necessity.

Q. When was that contract signed?

A. Approximately April 15, 1937 according to my present recollection.

Q. State what was the only point in the contract, if any, Mr. Perlstein insisted on?

A. Closed shop clause.

Q. Was that all he insisted on?

[fol. 5360] p. 541 A. Substantially, yes. Just briefly, what took place, his version of the contract was wholly unacceptable when we found that it was impossible to carry on in the face of this violence and opposition, intimidation, coercion, and as I say, out of sheer necessity, we realized we would either have to shut down and go out of business or deal with the union. Even though, against the insistence of the employees we finally sat in a conference with them. I had drawn a proposed draft of a contract. After the preamble, my recollection is, the first clause dealt with the open or closed phase of the shop. My version was to give the employee the right to decide for herself whether or not she should be a member of the union. That is, to make no discrimination at all between union and non-union members, to give each one freedom of choice. When I undertook to read that contract in the presence of Mr. Perlstein, Mrs. Zappone and Miss Sledge, and a number of others interested in the matter, Mr. Perlstein stopped me very emphatically, when I had completed reading that first paragraph with reference to the freedom of choice phase of it, and stated, it was wholly unnecessary to read any further; their negotiations were at an end, and the strike as he termed it, which was not a strike at all—would be resumed. It was only after considerable persuasion on the part of Reverend Alfred Loring Clark, and my own humble insistence that I be permitted to read the rest of the contract, that he sat in the room

p. 542 and permitted me to read to the end of the contract. His proposition being, the closed shop part of the contract be immediately carried on or going forward at that time.

Q. In whose favor?

A. The operators with certain exceptions should all be required to become members of the union within thirty days after the execution of the contract.

Q. What union?

A. The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. The contract finally signed by the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, by Meyer Perlstein, regional director, and by their own branch of that same union, #267. He also signed on its behalf.

Getting back to his insistence, the language of the contract, outside of the closed shop phase of it, really didn't alter the existing status of relationship between the employees and employers only making explicit in the contract what had already existed between them, except in certain minor details.

Q. Was there any change made in rates of pay, hours, or working conditions?

A. To answer that question, I might say first, no change whatsoever in hours. As to wages, there was no real change as to wages. As a matter of fact, as it developed, this plant had been in Memphis only two years. The wages [fol. 5361] p. 543 had been constantly increased as operators became skilled and experienced. Originally, of course, they were chosen from inexperienced operators. The record showed wages were constantly on the increase prior to the difficulty with the union; that normally, they would continue at the plant became established there, and the operators more skilled and experienced, but there was no change at all in the wages, by and large; as a matter of fact, my information is that the wages were really less than they would have been had not the contract been issued.

Q. All right. Were the employees then forced to join the International Union to hold their jobs?

A. That was the requirement of the contract.

Q. A moment ago you referred to Ida Sledge saying "Come on. Let's get them." State whether or not she was leading an attack at that time upon employees who were going to work?

A. She was.

Q. After this contract was all signed and all over, what if anything did Meyer Perlstein say to you about the number of employees in your client's plant that belonged to his union on March 25th when the so-called strike was called?

A. He admitted he had no employees. As a matter of fact, as a prelude to that conversation —after the contract was made, and modus vivendi reestablished, there was some banquet, I believe arranged. At Mr. Perlstein's earnest
p. 544 insistence, and as a gesture of good-will, the officers of the Nona-Lee requested my attendance, and I did attend. There was a spirit of good-will on the surface, and possibly deeper than that. There was a good deal of conversation one way or the other—I had some conversation with Mr. Perlstein I know on that occasion probably, and probably on another in which I took issue with his program of violence; that I voiced the opinion it was really detrimental to the labor's cause. Mr. Perlstein's position was you could not win strikes without violence, that violence was a necessary concomitant of a strike.

Q. Were you discussing the violence that had occurred there in Memphis that you have described and for which you obtained convictions of union members?

A. Yes. That is what it grew out of.
Q. In that conversation were you discussing violence with respect to tearing clothes off of women and pushing of women?
[fol. 5362] A. That was part of the violence.
Q. That you were discussing?
A. That is true.
Q. What did he say about that?
A. I made no specific reference to that, he simply made a general statement that you could not win a strike without violence. I think he did advert to several—

[fol. 5363] MRS. INEZ WARREN.

pp. 312-316 inc.

Q. What is your name?
A. Mrs. Inez Warren.
Q. How long have you lived in Kansas City?
A. Twelve years.
Q. Are you married and do you have a family?
A. Yes.
Q. Are you now working for the Donnelly Garment Company? A. No.
Q. How long since you worked for them?
A. Two years.
Q. You quit voluntarily? A. Yes.
Q. What has been your work at the Donnelly Garment Company?
A. I worked on practically every floor of the building in four or five different departments.
Q. At what kind of work?
A. Beginning in the pressing department, hand sewing department. In the office, and several departments that I can't think of at present.
Q. How many years altogether did you work there? A. Six, I believe.
Q. Did you ever know of any spy system down there? A. Never heard of it.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. Was there any speed-up system down there, by which a girl was compelled to do a particular amount of work?

A. I never heard of that.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. On March 2, 1937, did you have anything to do with the composition or circulating of these sheets which I hand you, and which are marked Exhibit 30? A. Yes.

Q. What was the occasion for getting that paper up, what caused you to do it?

A. The feeling among the employees. Mrs. Sprofera and I knew they didn't want any outside interference from this particular union organization, because we were perfectly satisfied, and being treated fairly, and we knew personally, in our contacts with so many other workers, they felt the same way we felt; we would like Mrs. Reed—we knew she would like to know that we felt this way.

Q. You said this particular organization. You didn't want anything to do with that. What organization is that?

A. We meant the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in particular.

[fol. 5364] Q. Had you seen a newspaper article that came out just about three or four days before this March 2 meeting, in which it was stated " 'We are going to send a letter to the Donnelly Company within a week, suggesting a conference to establish collective bargaining on the question of wages and working hours', Mr. Perlstein said. 'If the firm refuses, we'll go to the consuming public of the country and advise buyers of the wages and hours prevailing there now' ".

And which contains the further statement that: "Part of the union's campaign, directed against the Donnelly Garment Company will be to send six women to cities and towns where its garments are sold, advising retailers and labor organizations', Mr. Perlstein said.

And further quoting Mr. Perlstein " 'Within a year, we will have it completely organized', Mr. Perlstein said 'and as soon as we have enough members, we'll call a strike. This will be in addition to carrying our side to the consumers.' " Have you seen that article that contained those statements?

Objection—immaterial.

A. Yes.

Q. What was the effect on the employees?

A. It made them all furious. That is the only word that I could express it.

Objection—immaterial.

Q. So you and Mrs. Sprofera composed this document? A. Yes.

Q. And did you take it around and hand it to the workers? A. Personally, yes.

Q. Did you and Mrs. Sprofera go together most of the time. A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you directed to circulate this paper by any of the bosses or superiors there?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. Did any of them have anything to do with this, or any knowledge of it?

A. No, not until after we had circulated it.

Q. When you had circulated this petition or statement, what did you say to the operators when you passed it around?

A. We said we would like to have them read this petition, and if they felt as we did about it, we would like to have their signatures. If not, It was O. K. And nobody would know whether they signed it or not.

[fol. 5365] Q. There is one paper here—was there one paper of these papers circulated by Pauline Shartzer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what department did she work? A. The 10th floor among the office help, 9th floor among the designers.

Q. How did she come to circulate it there? Did you ask her to?

A. No. She wished to do it, because the people on those floors themselves wished their names on this particular petition. They were anxious to have it known they felt the same way, although they were not the operators particularly involved, that we were concerned with passing the petitions among.

Q. Can you pick out of these sheets the one that Miss Shartzer circulated? A. I will try, judging from the handwriting, the last two.

(Witness examined Exhibit 30).

Q. The last two are numbered at the top 13 and 14. As to the rest of the signatures, did you see them signed? And know that these are the genuine signatures of the employees there, that they purport to be. A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you got these papers signed,—oh, by the way, was Pauline Shartzer's paper among those you took out to show Mrs. Reed?

A. Not that particular day.

Q. All the rest, you took to Mrs. Reed?

A. The same day they were signed.

Q. Did she know anything about them until you came there?

A. No, she was very surprised.

[fol. 5366] MRS. PAULINE SHARTZER
pp. 317-320 inc.

Q. Your name is Mrs. Pauline Shartzer?

A. Pauline Shartzer.

Q. Are you married? A. Yes, sir, I am.

Q. Have you a family? A. No sir.

Q. Where do you live? A. 3620 Mersington.

Q. Kansas City? A. Kansas City, Missouri.

Q. How long have you worked for the Donnelly Garment Company?

A. Twelve years, the first of July.

Q. In what capacities? A. Started out as power machine operator, marked dresses; places to sew buttons on the front of dresses; errand girl in the design department, and in the production department, and last, I have been in the accounting department.

Q. How many years did you say? A. It will be twelve years the first of July.

Q. Did you ever know anything or hear anything about a spy system down there? A. No, sir.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Was there any such system? A. Not that I ever heard of.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Was there any system that is called a "speed up system", whereby one girl has to work at a certain degree of speed to keep up with the other girls. A. Not that I know of.

Objection—immaterial

Q. You worked on machines? A. Yes, sir.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Did you have any such system there?
A. No, sir.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Could you run your machine as fast or as slow as you wanted to?
A. Yes, sir.

Objection—immaterial

Q. Did you see the article in the Kansas City Times on February 26th, in which it is stated that Mrs. Dubinsky would arrive the next [fol. 5367] week to attend a dinner at the Hotel Muehlbach of union officials and officers of the Liberty Frocks, Inc., and the Stern-Slegaman Prins Company; and went on to say, quoting Mr. Perlstein, that "the minimum wage in this section for women making silk dresses is $22.05 working a 5 day week. He said the Donnelly Garment Company employees receive a minimum of $15 weekly, and that they are working 45 hours weekly now".

And then proceeded to say: "Part of the union's campaign directed against the Donnelly Garment Company will be to send six women to cities and towns where its garments are sold, 'advising retailers and labor organizations,' Mr. Perlstein said. Miss Palmer will have charge of this squad of field workers. The union claims only twenty-five members among the Donnelly workers, but the officials said 'hundreds of others are related to union members'. 'Within a year, we will have it completely organized', Mr. Perlstein said. 'As soon as we have enough members, we'll call a strike. This will be in addition to carrying our side to the consumers' ". Do you remember that article?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Was it discussed down there at the plant among the employees?

A. Very much so.

Objection—immaterial

Q. What was the effect among the employees?

Objection—immaterial.

A. They were all very disturbed and very disgusted.

Q. Did you have anything to do with circulating any of these petitions that are marked Exhibit 30?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. Will you pick out the one you circulated?

A. I circulated page No. 11, 12, 13 and 14. I am sorry, I didn't circulate 14.

Q. What numbers did you circulate.

A. 11, 12 and 13.

Q. How did you come to get those sheets? Did you ask for them, say you wanted to circulate them?

A. In the first place, we had discussed it on the 10th floor, the office of the plant. I went to the 9th, in some of my work, and someone asked me if I had seen this petition. I asked them what it was, and I copied it as soon as I could, and compared my copy with Mrs. Sprofera, and in that way I had a copy of what was written up.

Q. What did you do?

A. I took it to the 10th floor and the 9th floor, and anyone we missed on the 9th floor, I asked them to sign them if they cared to.

[fol. 5368] Q. Were these papers signed voluntarily.

A. They were.
